Fired Washington football coach Rick Neuheisel launched a pre-emptive strike at his former employer Tuesday, claiming he was wrongfully terminated for gambling on the NCAA basketball tournament while the university ignored $5 gambling pools by assistant coaches.

NBA | Bryant prosecution adds sex crimes specialist

The team of prosecutors working on the sexual assault case against NBA star Kobe Bryant is growing.

The Jefferson County district attorney has agreed to let Dana Easter help his counterpart in Eagle County on the case. Easter, a former nurse, specializes in crimes against children and sex crimes.

CFB | When crime still pays

A Columbus judge says he'll let an inmate stay in jail instead of moving him to prison right away so he can see the Ohio State-Michigan game on TV this Saturday.

Jeff Renne told Franklin County Common Pleas Judge Richard Sheward yesterday that he would plead guilty to forgery if he could stay in the county jail through the weekend. Inmates at the jail can watch TV, but it's off limits when they were moved to one of the state's prisons.

NFL | 2nd Viking arrested

Minnesota Viking defensive end Kenny Mixon was arrested on suspicion of drunken driving early Tuesday, the second member of the team arrested in the past few days.

Kevin Williams, the Vikings' first-round choice this year, was arrested Thursday for the same reason.

In comes 'Company'

K-State Theatre performs Broadway hit

Robert, played by Nick Uthoff, works through a scene during rehearsal for "Company" at McCain Auditorium on Tuesday.

Zach Long | COLLEGIAN

By J Scott Bowman
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Everybody likes a little bit of company every now and then.

In the musical "Company," Robert, played by Nick Uthoff, is a single man who's turning 35 and having a sort of mid-life crisis. He learns a little more about himself, about love and life through his friends, who all are married.

The relationships people have with their friends is what makes the musical so accessible to audiences, Uthoff said.

"He is a relatable character to a lot of people because of the personal issues he's dealing with and trying to find out who he is," Uthoff, junior in theater, said.

"Sometimes you might sit there and not know what you want and not really know what the next step in life is. Yeah, we go to class now, but what's next? After that, we have to go out and start your life."

Uthoff said he really enjoys musicals. He said there are more directors and more things to go wrong, but the acting style is different, compared to a play.

"It's different because you have to integrate dancing, singing and acting all into one thing," Uthoff said. "Everything in a musical is sort of over the top. You have to be energetic, especially in McCain. You have to be big. It's a challenge."

George Stavropoulos, senior in theater, said he tends to prefer the acting style required for plays, but he finds both to be vital in the acting world.

"The style of acting is uniquely different between the two," Stavropoulos said. "In a play, it's more about truth and the character is revealed through the relationships they build.

"In musicals, things are exaggerated. . The acting is broader and not as intense, and the characters are revealed through music. I lean more towards plays, but it's fun to go out and do musicals."

Stavropoulos said most musicals are easier to grasp than most plays. He said "Company" has more of a serious story to it than the crazy antics of most musicals.

"Everyone loves musicals because they're fun and you can get a lot out of them at face value and you don't have to dig deep," Stavropoulos said. "With 'Company,' the issues that he deals with, we all deal with as well – growing up and finding that certain someone. It's not a broad, crazy musical. It has a down-to-earth story and is entertaining to watch."

Lew Shelton, stage director for "Company," said musicals can be difficult because of all the people involved. He said that in this particular performance, everything has gone smoothly.

"There are a lot more people in a musical, such as a music person and choreographer," Shelton said. "You have to sit down and talk about what it's about and the director tells how it's going to go.

"I feel I did my job, and other people have made contributions as well. It's been one of the best experiences of collaborations, which is great. I don't feel that anyone has compromised their views."

Stavropoulos said this performance has been a great experience. He said everyone is going all out, inspired to do well for Shelton. This isn't a musical for mom, he said, and people seem to like that.

"This is probably the most vocally talented group," Stavropoulos said. "It's such a good combo of younger and older talent. Everyone's worked so well together.

"This is, as Lew said, a hip musical. It's not like 'Oklahoma!,' because it deals with other issues, like there's a drug scene and there's sex. But we're going out and doing our best – we're going to do this one for Lew."

This production, Shelton's 53rd and final production, has been great so far, Shelton said. He said that everything's gone according to plan and he is excited about this performance.

"Everyone's been doing a great job and everyone feels good about it," Shelton said. "The transition from the studio to stage was great, normally it's a difficult task adjusting but it's been very smooth. It's been high energy and that'll show in the production.

"I think this is going to rock, it'll be poetry in motion. I don't normally say things like that by now, I'm somewhere between a pessimist and optimist, but I feel good about this one. It'll be something to see."

If you go
Company

What: "Company," the musical.
When: 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday, and 4 p.m. Sunday.
Where: McCain Auditorium.
How much: $9 for students and seniors, $13 for the general public.
For more information: Call the McCain Box Office at (785) 532-6428.

'Company' is final K-State production for veteran director

By J. Scott Bowman
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The head of acting and directing at K-State, Lew Shelton, is retiring at the end of the school year after spending the past 30 years at K-State.

Entering the school year, Shelton said he was toying with the idea of retiring. He said everything has worked out so far and the timing is right.

Yielding many memorable performances, Shelton said the last work he's directing, "Company," isn't what he originally wanted to go out on, but it is fitting.

"During the summer I was thinking about retiring and I wasn't sure when I could," Shelton said. "It just fell into place and this is going to be the last piece I do.

"Earlier in my career, back in 1976, I did 'Company,' and it came out well. But I think it will be even better this time. It's a very lively piece, and all the actors will get a chance to shine."

Among all of the memories he has and friends he's made, Shelton said he has no real regrets. He said he is proud to be one of the figures to help shape K-State's theatre department into what it is now.

"Now we have a good program, and everyone has great work ethics," Shelton said. "When I first came here, there were no majors in theater. Everyone interested in it had to take speech.

"After all this time, we've progressed and we've had students go on to get their MFAs and PhDs at great theater programs in Illinois, Indiana, USC, just to name a few."

George Stavropoulos, senior in theater, said that he will miss Shelton and his relaxed style.

"Lew's a great guy," Stavropoulos said. "He's laid back and supportive. He's an intelligent guy and knows his stuff.

"It's been a good experience working with him because he's so trusting. He'll tell us his vision and tells us to go out with it. I've worked with him before, but we're working even harder knowing this is his last performance."

Shelton said that he will miss being around students and reading in his office.

"I will really miss walking down the hall telling jokes to my colleagues and preparing plays," Shelton said. "Rehearsal's kind of become an old hat, but I will miss seeing the look on students' faces when they know they've done well.

"I won't really miss teaching or work too much, but I know I'll miss the atmosphere of a college campus."

IN BRIEF

The Associated Press

'The Reagans' movie set to air

Showtime will air "The Reagans," the made-for-TV movie that CBS scuttled, on Nov. 30.

The cable channel's announcement Monday was unexpected, since it originally had planned to air the movie next year.

"We just thought it didn't make sense to prolong this and bring it on next year," Robert Greenblatt, Showtime entertainment president, said. "I'm just tired of people making judgments on this when they haven't seen it. Let them see it."

Mickey Mouse turns 75

Mickey Mouse arrived on the world's cultural stage 75 years ago Tuesday as a scrawny but buoyant black-and-white product of the Jazz Age.

He was a symbol of American pluck in his screen debut, "Steamboat Willie," on Nov. 18, 1928.

The years have dulled Mickey's personality, a result of him becoming the corporate face of a multibillion-dollar entertainment empire. In the process, Mickey also has become a cultural Rorschach test — a symbol of American optimism, resourcefulness and energy or an icon of cultural commodification and corporate imperialism.

Poll on homosexuality

The public is evenly divided on whether gays and lesbians can change their sexual orientation — and white evangelicals are the most likely to think homosexuals can change their ways, says a poll examining attitudes about homosexuality.

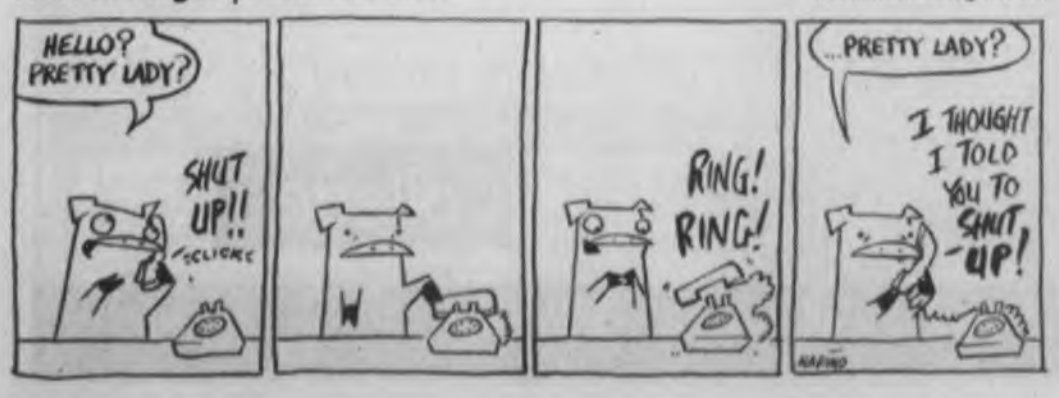
"Evangelicals are far more likely to say homosexuals can change, Catholics and mainline Protestants fall in the middle and more secular people are most likely to say they cannot change," said Scott Keeter, a pollster with the Pew Research Center for the People & the Press. Those with a high level of religious commitment oppose gay marriage by 80 percent to 12 percent.

The poll found that opposition to gay marriage has grown since midsummer, with 32 percent favoring it and 59 percent opposing it. In July, 53 percent said they opposed gay marriage.

WISECRACKS

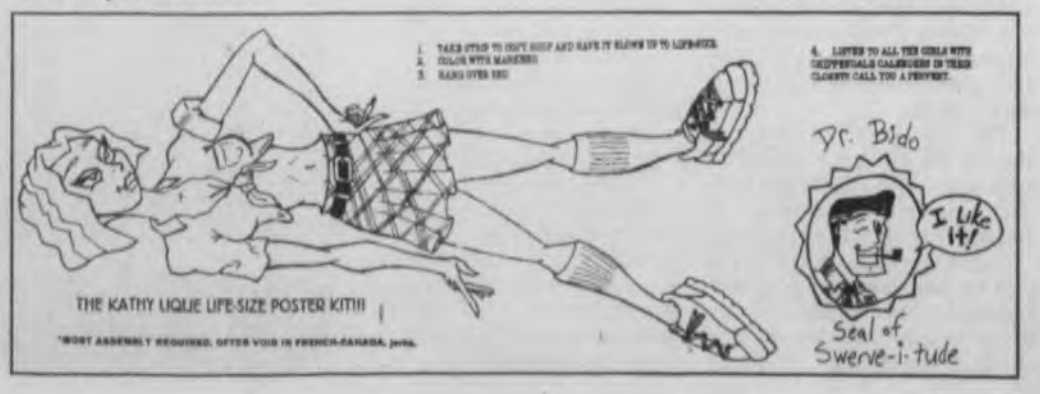
1. "I am confirmed in my division of human energies. Ambitious people climb, but faithful people build."
a) activist Jane Addams
b) activist Julia Ward Howe
c) activist Susan B. Anthony

2. "Temptation is the fire that brings up the scum of the heart."
a) dramatist William Shakespeare
b) dramatist Christopher Marlowe
c) dramatist John Ford



3. "All truth passes through three stages. First, it is ridiculed. Second, it is violently opposed. Third, it is accepted as being self-evident."
a) philosopher John Bradshaw
b) philosopher John Stuart Mill
c) philosopher Arthur Schopenhauer

4. "Forgive your enemies, but never forget their names."
a) president John F. Kennedy
b) president John Adams
c) president John Quincy Adams



5. "I would venture to warn against too great intimacy with artists as it is very seductive and a little dangerous."
a) British royalty Princess Anne
b) British royalty Queen Victoria
c) British royalty Elizabeth II

Answers: 1b, 2a, 3c, 4a, 5b

Herr Metzger | Julian Narino — www.herrmetzger.com

Puck | Kent Holle — kentramone@yahoo.com

Commission stalls on decision to allow yard parking

Abbie Whited
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

City Commissioners voted in favor of authorizing city officials to issue notices to appear in municipal court at their meeting Tuesday night.

According to state statute, a city official is required to call a law enforcement officer to the scene to issue a notice to appear. The official also could file a report with the city prosecutor.

Assistant City Manager Diane Stoddard said this procedure can take a long time.

"The final authority of whether or not a case is prosecuted, dismissed or amended would lie in the city prosecutor. The checks and balances would remain there," she said.

Several citizens spoke in favor of authorization.

Tyson Moore, governmental relations director at K-State, presented a resolution passed by Student Senate on Thursday.

"Our Student Senate passed this resolution in support of this charter ordinance," he said. "We feel it will clean up Manhattan more efficiently and effectively.

In other news, commissioners did not decide to amend Manhattan's zoning regulations to allow parking in front yards in designated areas on game days.

The amendment will be sent back to the Manhattan Urban Area Planning Board for further consideration, although the board recommended its denial at the commission meeting.

First they voted to deny an amendment to allow for such parking, but City Attorney William Frost said commissioners had taken no definitive action because of the moratorium allowing temporary yard parking.

"All you've done is not pass it tonight," he said. "There either has to be affirmative action declining it or a motion sending it back to the planning board. Normally that wouldn't be a problem, but you've got a resolution that's in effect until you move to pass the ordinance."

Commissioner Bruce Snead moved to deny the ordinance and repeal the moratorium, but no one seconded that motion.

City Commissioner Ed Klimek then moved to send the resolution back to the planning board for further study. That motion carried 4-1.

Regents to discuss policy on sexual content in classrooms

By Leann Sulzen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Chief academic officers will discuss a draft of a new policy on sexually explicit content in the classroom today in Topeka. The officers serve in the provost position at their respective Board of Regents' universities.

Provost James Coffman said the draft then will be forwarded to BOR to be voted on in December so a policy will be in place by Jan. 12.

The policy is specifically in response to Sen. Susan Wagle's amendment, he said. Wagle requested the regulations be made on classes using sexually explicit materials.

Wagle's request was provoked by a debate at the University of Kansas when a student accused a teacher of using pornographic material during the "Human Sexuality in Everyday Life" course.

Reggie Robinson, president and chief executive officer of BOR, said an intern of Wagle's was enrolled in the class and expressed her concerns about the teacher and the teaching style of the class.

A policy addressing sexual content in courses will apply to all Kansas universities, however, and not just KU, he said.

"The focus of all of the attention was on KU, but it applies to all universities," he said. "I thought it was important that the process for developing a policy response starts with the academic leaders of the universities."

Student Body President John O'Hara said each university was going to make its own policy originally. He said Coffman asked him to make a committee of students at K-State to decide on the policy.

"I suggested student representation so they can contribute and give their input," he said.

Robinson then suggested a statewide policy so everyone would follow the same guidelines, O'Hara said.

Business owner to speak at Entrepreneurs Club meeting

By Crystal Welborn
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Students interested in starting a business might be interested in what Tom Sanders has to say to the members of the Entrepreneurs Club tonight.

Sanders is a third-generation owner of the MMC Corp., a construction company in Leawood, Kan., and was the 2002 Entrepreneur of the Year.

"There are a lot of people who have dreams of starting their own business or taking over a family business," said Matt Fellows, senior in marketing and Entrepreneur Club vice president. "I think a lot of students would be interested in this club because they can get real-world knowledge about what goes on.

"At club meetings we have entrepreneurs speak about how they started their own businesses and give helpful tips about things you may want to consider when starting your own business including things you might not normally think about."

Yar M. Ebadi, dean of the College of Business Administration, said he is excited about the club and believes it will help students to gain knowledge about starting their own businesses when they leave K-State.

The club spawned from an idea by Jeb Hoverter, senior in marketing and Entrepreneurs Club president, to create a club that could be open to all majors.

"I came up with the idea of the club last semester because I was looking for clubs to join and was trying to find something that sounded interesting," Hoverter said. "It is open to all majors and is something all majors can be interested in because any major can open their own business when they graduate – I think that's appealing."

Ebadi said the idea to create a club to benefit all of campus shows good organizational skills.

"Initiatives such as this demonstrate clearly that our students are very innovative and involved in the college's activities," he said. "I think this club will play an important role in enhancing the student's interest and knowledge in entrepreneurship."

Hoverter and Fellows also encourage students to join the club for its use as a résumé-builder.

"Many of the officers will graduate, so there are many ways for people to move up in the club," Fellows said.

Ebadi said being around successful entrepreneurs will help students advance their knowledge of entrepreneurship.

"Many successful business leaders have done well due to their entrepreneurial ability and creativity. Contact with these entrepreneurs will give the students opportunity to learn entrepreneurship from a practical perspective," Ebadi said.

If you go

Entrepreneurs Club

What: club meeting
When: 7 to 8 tonight
Where: Union Room 206
Who: Anyone interested. The club is open to all majors.
For more information, e-mail ksuec@k-state.edu.

Give us your opinion. Campus Forum: 395-4444

BODY FIRST 2308 ANDERSON 587-8300 $5.00 OFF* *any massage or spa service valued at $30 or more Expires 11/30/03

THE SHUT DOWN NOV. 22 HOLIDAY INN DJ CAM 10-4AM & CAM GIRLZ $1000 ON THE BAR 18 to enter, 21 to drink LADIES DRINK FREE $5 ADMISSION SPONSORS: ZOTCIS AGGIE HAIR SHAPERS DICK EDWARDS • T-MOBILE HONGRE MAN PROMOTIONS

We deliver for FREE the latest! Checks add 50¢ GUMBY'S Pizza & Pub Call now! 770-3333 702 N. 11th Street Sunday 10:30 a.m. - 2 a.m. Mon. - Wed. 10:30 a.m. - 2:30 a.m. Thurs. - Sat. 10:30 a.m. - 3:30 a.m.

Monday $3.99 •LARGE CHEESE PIZZA • MONDAY ONLY • CARRY OUT ONLY • TOPPINGS EXTRA•

BUY ONE POKEY STICK AT REGULAR PRICE GET ONE EQUAL OR LESSER VALUE FREE stick it to me Tuesday DINE IN/CARRY OUT OR DELIVERY • TUESDAY

Rock N Roll wednesday $5.00 MINIMUM DELIVERY 50¢ Pepperoni Rolls/ pizza sauce/ ranch extra + tax. DELIVERY•DINE-IN•CARRY-OUT

Must mention coupon when ordering. Not valid w/ any other special THURSDAY Mania XL-16" Cheese Pizza $5.99 DINE-IN • CARRY OUT • DELIVERY

BONUS BUY Add on to any regular order: 10 Sticks $2.99, 12 Sticks $5.99, 10" cheese $3.99, 3 Pizza Rolls $3.99, 10 wings $3.99, 2 Liter Pepsi $1.59

PAPA KISS MY BIG ASS SPECIAL 20" TOPPINGS EXTRA Cheese Pizza Limited Time!! ONLY $9.99 OR GET TWO FOR $18.99

THE DIRTY JOHN One 14" One Topping Pizza, 2 Liter of Pepsi, PLUS Free Bread Sticks [NOT POKEY STIX] Limited Time!! ONLY $10.99

Expanded Hours. Expanded Learning. Expanded Opportunities.

K-State Evening College makes it simple for working adults to earn their degrees. Through night classes or a combination of night classes and distance education courses, you can earn a bachelor's degree or enhance your skills without quitting your day job.

For more information, call 1-800-622-2KSU or 785-532-5575 today!

EARN CREDITS TOWARD YOUR BACHELOR'S DEGREE!

Enroll now for Spring 2004 Evening College courses!

Course#	Ref.#	Days	Times	Course Title	Room	Instructor
16 Week Courses, January 22-May 21, 2004
Monday
FSHS 110	96700	M	5:30-8:20	Introduction to Human Development	256 Justin	Proffitt
FSHS 301	96701	M	5:30-8:20	Helping Relationships (P)	341 Justin	Beggs
HRIMD 441	96709	M	6:30-8:30	Introduction to Wines	110 Justin	Barrett
Tuesday
FSHS 350	96703	T	5:30-8:20	Family Relationships and Gender Roles (P)	015 Eisenhower	Thompson
FSHS 350	96707	T	5:30-8:20	Family Relationships and Gender Roles (P)	350 Waters	Welch
FSHS 580	96706	T	5:30-6:20	Directed Field Experience (P)	1052 Durland	Myers-Bowman
Wednesday
FSHS 510	96704	W	5:30-8:20	Human Development and Aging (P)	256 Justin	Doll
FSHS 550	96702	W	5:30-8:20	The Family (P)	149 Justin	Schumm
Thursday
FSHS 552	96705	U	5:30-8:20	Families and Diversity (P)	149 Justin	Webb
FSHS 776	96708	U	5:30-8:20	Insurance Planning for Families	350 Waters	Grable
First 8 Weeks, January 14 - March 13, 2004
Monday/Wednesday/Saturday
CHM 110	96200	M/W/S	5:30-7:30	General Chemistry (P) 12 Weeks (Jan 14-Apr 7)	209 King	STAFF
CHM 111	96201	Sat	8:30-12:30	General Chemistry Lab (P) 12 Weeks (Jan 17-Apr 10). 1 credit	TBA	STAFF
Tuesday/Thursday/Saturday
CIS 101	96202	TU Sat	5:30-7:55 8:30-10:30	Intro to Information Technology (Jan 15-Jan 31). 1 credit	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
CIS 102	96203	TU Sat	5:30-7:55 8:30-10:30	Spreadsheet Applications (P) (Feb 3-Feb 14). 1 credit	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
CIS 103	96204	TU Sat	5:30-7:55 8:30-10:30	Database Applications (P) (Feb 17-Feb 28). 1 credit	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
CIS 104	96205	TU Sat	5:30-7:55 8:30-10:30	Word Processing Applications (P) (Mar 2-Mar 13). 1 credit	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
GEOG 220	96211	TU Sat	8:05-10:30 9:00-12:00	Environmental Geography I 4 credits	213 Thompson	STAFF
Monday/Wednesday
ECON 120	96206	M/W	5:30-7:55	Princ/Microeconomics (P)	348 Waters	STAFF
HIST 251	96214	M/W	8:05-10:30	History of the US to 1877	224 Eisenhower	VanderGeisen
MATH 100	96215	M/W	5:30-7:55	College Algebra (P)	130 Cardwell	Hawkinson
SOCIO 362	95221	M/W	8:05-10:30	Police & Society (P)	041 Waters	STAFF
SPCH 106	96223	M/W	5:30-7:55	Public Speaking I	123 Seaton	Riley
SPCH 321	96224	M/W	8:05-10:30	Public Speaking II (P)	210 Mil Science	Riley
STAT 351	96228	M/W	5:30-8:30	Bus/Econ Stat II (P)	207 Dickens	STAFF
ACCTG 231	96227	M/W	5:30-7:55	Acctg/Bus Operations (P)	212 Calvin	STAFF
Tuesday/Thursday
ECON 530	96207	TU	8:05-10:30	Money & Banking (P)	120 Cardwell	STAFF
ENGL 200	96208	TU	5:30-7:55	Expository Writing II (P)	012 Eisenhower	STAFF
ENGL 251	96209	TU	8:05-10:30	Introduction to Literature	012 Eisenhower	Friedmann
GEOG 100	96210	TU	5:30-7:55	World Regional Geography	213 Thompson	STAFF
MATH 205	96216	TU	5:30-7:55	Gen Calc/Linear Algebra (P)	144 Cardwell	Mohammad
PHILO 130	96230	TU	5:30-7:55	Intro to Moral Philosophy	TBA	Patterson
POLSC 110	96217	TU	5:30-7:55	Intro to Political Science	112 Leasure	Unekis
POLSC 605	96218	TU	8:05-10:30	The American Presidency (P)	333 Waters	Unekis
SOCIO 541	96222	TU	5:30-7:55	Wealth, Power & Privilege (P)	120 Willard	Buurman
STAT 330	96225	TU	5:30-8:30	Elem Stat/Social Science (P)	206 Dickens	STAFF
Monday/Wednesday/Friday
GEOL 100	96212	M/W	5:30-7:55	Earth In Action	213 Thompson	STAFF
GEOL 103	96213	Fri	5:30-7:55	Geology Lab (P). 1 credit	TBA	STAFF
Second 8 Weeks, March 15-May 15, 2004 (no classes during week of Spring Break, March 22-26)
Tuesday/Thursday/Saturday
CIS 101	96300	T/TH Sat	5:30-7:55 8:30-10:30	Intro to Information Technology (Mar 16-Apr 3 —No class Spring Break). 1 credit	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
CIS 102	96301	T/TH Sat	5:30-7:55 8:30-10:30	Spreadsheet Applications (P) (Apr 6-Apr 17). 1 credit	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
CIS 103	96302	T/TH Sat	5:30-7:55 8:30-10:30	Database Applications (P) (Apr 20-May 1). 1 credit	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
CIS 104	96303	T/TH Sat	5:30-7:55 8:30-10:20	Word Processing Applications (P) (May 4-15). 1 credit	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
GEOG 221	96309	T/TH Sat	8:05-10:30 9:00-12:00	Environmental Geography II 4 Credits	213 Thompson	STAFF
Monday/Wednesday
GEOG 200	96308	M/W	5:30-7:55	Human Geography	213 Thompson	STAFF
GEOL 115	96310	M/W	5:30-7:55	Environmental Geol. Water & Air	223 Eisenhower	STAFF
HIST 252	96311	M/W	8:05-10:30	History of the US Since 1877	224 Eisenhower	STAFF
HIST 546	96329	M/W	5:30-7:35	History of American Military	211 Eisenhower	Borowski
MATH 100	96312	M/W	5:30-7:55	College Algebra (P)	130 Cardwell	Hawkinson
SOCIO 531	96321	M/W	8:05-10:30	Urban Sociology (P)	120 Willard	STAFF
SPCH 106	96322	M/W	5:30-7:55	Public Speaking I	211 Mil Science	Riley
SPCH 321	96323	M/W	8:05-10:30	Public Speaking II (P)	211 Mil Science	Riley
STAT 351	96325	M/W	5:30-8:30	Bus/Econ Stats II (P)	207 Dickens	STAFF
WOMST 105	96327	M/W	8:05-10:30	Intro to Women's Studies	001 Leasure	STAFF
Tuesday/Thursday
ECON 110	96304	T/TH	5:30-7:55	Princ/Macroeconomics (P)	115 Willard	STAFF
ECON 520	96305	T/TH	8:05-10:30	Inter/Microeconomics (P)	120 Cardwell	STAFF
ENGL 200	96306	T/TH	5:30-7:55	Expository Writing II (P)	012 Eisenhower	STAFF
ENGL 320	96328	T/TH	8:05-10:30	The Short Story	012 Eisenhower	STAFF
MATH 150	96313	T/TH	5:30-7:55	Plane Trigonometry (P)	144 Cardwell	Mohammad
MUSIC 250	96314	T/TH	5:30-7:55	Intro to Music	114 Burt Hall	Cochran
POLSC 325	96316	T/TH	5:30-7:55	US Politics	333 Waters	Unekis
POLSC 603	96317	T/TH	8:05-10:30	Political Parties & Elections (P)	333 Waters	Unekis
SOCIO 511	96320	T/TH	5:30-7:55	Comparative Social Theories (P)	120 Willard	Buurman
STAT 350	96324	T/TH	5:30-8:30	Bus/Econ Stats I (P)	106 Dickens	STAFF
ACCTG 241	96326	T/TH	5:30-7:55	Acctg/Investment & Finance	209 Calvin	STAFF

NOTE: (P) Courses that have a prerequisite.

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY EVENING College

www.dce.ksu.edu/eveningcollege

CLASSIFIEDS

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

A LARGE two-bedroom apartment, close to campus. Available mid- December. (785)317-7713.

BRITTNAY RIDGE. Four-bedroom, study, two and one-half bath, town home. Washer/ dryer. 2519 Candlecrest, lease required. No pets. $1050, $1050 deposit. (785)537-9740.

FOR JANUARY 1. Nice large two-bedroom apartment. Gas, water, trash three-forths paid, laundromat, $480. (785)539-2482 or (785)539-9315 or cell phone (785)565-8116.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT, one block from campus for January- June. $325/ month. All utilities paid except phone and cable. Call (785)537-1416.

TWO OR three-bedrooms, spacious, close to campus, dishwasher, central air, laundry facilities, no pets. (785)539-0866.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE for a four-bedroom duplex. Washer/ dryer. Available January. Rent $275. Call Megan. (785)539-8490.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for spring semester. Nice five-bedroom three bath house. Common rooms furnished. Washer/ dryer. $300 rent plus one-fifth utilities. (785)539-9887, (785)825-2937.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. Nice, fully furnished. Three-bedroom house 1.3 miles off campus, very clean, available immediately (785)317-0228.

ROOMS AVAILABLE in house close to campus. $220/ month plus share of utilities. Washer and dryer. Contact Jake at (785)539-4904. Located at 911 N. 11th St. Available starting December.

150 Sublease

CAMPUS/ AGGIEVILLE- spring semester, two-bedroom, 1212 Bluemont. Trash/ water paid, laundry facility. $300/ each. January 1. Kelly or Karen (785)776-8980.

FEMALE SUBLEASER for two-bedroom apartment. $210 plus one-half utilities. Washer/ dryer. (785)342-1294, (785)317-8400.

ROOMS FOR rent, next to campus, one-bedroom apartment. Free washer/ dryer, central-air, parking. (785)537-7050.

FOUR-BEDROOM, ONE and one-half bath, spacious, practically in Aggieville. $900/ month heating included. (four roommates- only $225 per person). (785)776-5102.

LOOKING FOR female subleaser for spring semester. Four-bedroom apartment. $240, plus one-fourth of bills. Water and trash paid, laundry facilities. Short walk to campus. Call Alicia at (786)539-9119.

SPACIOUS, CLEAN, one-bedroom apartment $380/ month includes extended cable, water, and trash. Must rent (785)325-9961 or (785)313-1097.

TWO STORY, two-bedroom apartment. One-bedroom, washer and dryer, one block west of campus, available January- July. (785)323-1712.

ADVERTISE ADVERTISE
CLASSIFIEDS • 532-6555

145 Roommate Wanted

MALE ROOMMATES needed for a four-bedroom home in quite neighborhood, five minutes north of campus, must see to appreciate, $275 per month plus shared utilities. (913)244-2921.

ROOMMATE NEEDED, January- July. Huge 20X20 room. All amenities, four roommates needing the fifth. (785)537-0699. Rent negotiable.

ROOMMATE WANTED with three girls. Sublease through May 31, rent $295. Call Melissa (785)341-3999.

SPRING SEMESTER roommate needed. Master bedroom in four-bedroom house. 1.2 miles from campus. Washer/ dryer, two bathrooms, cable internet, $250 plus utilities. Call Tyler (913)908-7162.

SUBLEASER wanted for Spring Semester, three-bedroom apartment with dishwasher. One block from campus. $245/ month 1850 Claflin. Call (785)770-3810/ (785)313-0013.

150 Sublease

CAMPUS/ AGGIEVILLE- three-bedroom apartment, available January. Spacious, central-air, dishwasher, laundry, parking. 519 N. Manhattan Avenue. Call (785)341-4158 or (785)341-9582.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed for spring semester. Beautiful house and three great roommates. Near City Park. $250/ month plus utilities. Call Renee at (785)565-0340.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed for spring semester. One-bedroom apartment. Two blocks from Aggieville. Rent negotiable call (785)564-1173.

FEMALE SUBLEASERS NEEDED. January- July. $245 rent each, plus bills. (785)565-3207, (785)738-7604, (913)579-6619.

MALE SUBLEASER needed. Two-bedroom apartment. Private parking, dishwasher, washer/ dryer. $262.50 a month. Available January, 716 Humboldt. Contact Casey (785)341-1162.

MALE SUBLEASER wanted to live with three males. Woodway Apartments. $237/ month. Laundry, dishwasher, one-forth utilities, pool, deck. (785)565-1267. Available December 20.

ONE ROOM available. You will love this place. Please call to come see! Ask for Jacquelyn (785)341-3769.

ONE-BEDROOM, $400/ month, water and trash paid, lease January- May. (785)537-9379

ROOM OPEN for spring semester. Off-street parking, washer/ dryer, two and one-half baths, two porches, two living rooms. $300/ month plus utilities plus deposit. Open mid- December. 1742 Laramie. Chris at (785)341-6256.

STUDIO APARTMENT, two blocks west of campus. January- May lease. $345/ month. Includes trash, gas, water. Call (316)259-7229 or (316)259-8307.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for one-bedroom apartment. $379.56 rent/ month starting January 1. Includes utilities. Pets are allowed. (785)770-3060.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for studio apartment. $400/ month starting late December, January rent paid. Please leave a message at (785)587-1819.

SUBLEASER WANTED for spring semester, January 1- July 1. Trash, water, laundry included. $280/ month. (785)539-1272 or mri8888@ksu.edu.

SUBLEASER WANTED January- July. Two-bedroom apartment. $575 a month plus electric. Laundry facilities. Dishwasher. Water and trash paid. (785)820-0879.

SUBLEASER(S) WANTED for apartment at 11th and Laramie. Two-bedrooms for price of one, and rent is negotiable. Call Dana at (785)565-0662.

150 Sublease

SUBLEASERS NEEDED. Close to campus, Aggieville, and City park. nice two-bedroom apartment. $270/ month. Available January. Call Michele or Amy. (785)539-5334.

SUBLEASERS NEEDED: two-bedroom basement apartment 520 Osage. Pets allowed. Call Ryan at (785)565-1950 or Chris at (785)317-2992 leave message if no answer.

SUBLEASERS NEEDED: three-bedroom apartment available soon at Woodway Apartment across from stadium. Great place! $753/ month. Please call! (785)845-5666.

SUBLEASERS NEEDED: two-bedroom apartment. One block from campus. Willing to pay $75/ month towards rent. Water and trash paid for. $252.50/ person. Call (785)871-1674.

SUBLEASERS WANTED for spring semester. Two-bedroom, one and one-half bath apartment. Water/trash paid, laundry facilities, very close to campus, (785)658-5680.

200 service directory

300 employment/ opportunities

310 Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/ she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

! BARTENDING $300 a day potential. No experience necessary. Training provided. Call 1-800-965-6520 ext. 144.

ASSISTANT WRESTLING position, Marysville High School. Paid commensurate. Contact Athletic Director, Randy Adams at (785)562-5594.

BARTENDER TRAINEES needed. $250/ day potential. Local positions. (800)293-3985 ext. 548.

FINALS ARE right down the road. What are you doing for break? Make money over the break and after. Start now and work weekends and nights. No experience needed. Great starting wage. We pay you to travel not to drive. Rapid advancement available. Make contacts with businesses. Inventory with the world's largest service. Call now to find out about our orientations! (785)537-7886.

GET PAID For Your Opinions! Earn $15- $125 and more per survey! www.paidonlinesurveys.com

HOMESTEAD ASSISTED Living is accepting applications for Certified Medications Aide. We have an enjoyable working atmosphere and offer health/ dental insurance, paid time off package, 401 K and more. Please apply in person at 1923 Little Kitten Avenue. Equal Opportunity Employer.

THE ROYAL Purple Yearbook is looking for writers. Part-time and full-time opportunities available. Fill out an application in Kedzie 103. Call (785)532-6557 for more information.

MAKE MONEY taking Online Surveys. Earn $10- $125 for Surveys. Earn $25- $250 for Focus Groups. Visit www.cash4students.com/ksu <http://cash4students.com/ksuucinn>

PART-TIME SALES person at Faith Furniture. Must work afternoons and weekends. Please apply in person, 302 E. Highway 24 Manhattan.

SUBSTITUTE TEACHERS needed; Rock creek USD 323 needs substitute and emergency substitute teachers. Pays $71/ per day. Please contact the district office for application packet. (785)457-3732 or email caffreyt@rockcreekschools.org.

TEACHER AIDES (certificate preferred) for Kindegarden and 5/ 6 classroom at Westmoreland Elementary. Start date and salary negotiable. Single health insurance provided. Call (785)457-3732 for application or Email caffreyt@rockcreekschools.org. Equal opportunity employer.

400 open market

410 Items for Sale

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS- sleeping bags, overshoes, combat boots, camouflage clothing, wool socks and gloves, much more. Also Carhartt work wear. Open Monday- Friday, 9am- 5:30pm. Saturday 9am- 4pm, Open Sundays till Christmas 12noon- 4pm. St. Mary's Surplus Sales, St. Marys Kansas. (785)437-2734.

QUEEN SIZE bed, very good condition. $150. Pleather sofa set $75. Chris at (785)341-6256.

435 Computers

APPLE IMAC 2001 blueberry. Great condition with speakers. $400 or best offer. (785)341-8226 leave message.

450 Pets and Supplies

FOR SALE baby hedgehogs. (785)632-3895.

465 Tickets to Buy/Sell

NEED FOUR ICAT tickets for the Missouri game. Call Aaron at (620)532-4226.

THREE BIG 12 championship tickets, section 123, row 40, in corner end zone. $240 for all three. (417)889-7568.

TWO STUDENT reserve tickets for sale. Can be used as student/ spouse, and student/ child. Make offer (785)363-7487. Cash only.

WANTED: TWO student tickets for K-State versus Missouri football game. Call (785)565-1992.

500 transportation

510 Automobiles

1991 CAVALIER, two door, black, five-speed, 15" subwoofer, 155K, asking $850. Great winter car. Call (785)341-2111.

1991 FORD, F150, 4x 4, $2400 or best offer. Call (785)313-2405.

530 Motorcycles

2002 HONDA CBR 954RR. Black/ silver. Eriom exhaust. Excellent condition. $8000 or best offer. (785)587-8225.

600 travel/ trips

610 Tour Package

WINTER AND Spring Break, ski and beach trips on sale now! www.Sunchase.com or call 1-800-SUNCHASE today!

630 Spring Break

ISO MANY Spring Break companies... Book DIRECT with the established leader in Spring Break travel. Better trips, better prices. Early booking incentives, book now with a small deposit. (800)367-1252/ www.springbreakdirect.com

ACT NOW! Book 11 people, get 12th trip free. Group discounts for six plus www.springbreakdiscounts.com or (800)838-8202.

#1 SPRING Break Company in Acapulco now offers three destinations! Go loco in Acapulco, party in Vallarta, or get crazy in Cabo with BIANCHI-ROSSI TOURS. Organize a group and travel for FREE. Book now before it's too late! Call (800)875-4525 or www.bianchi-rossi.com.

NUMBER ONE spring break vacations! 110% best prices! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas, Florida, Acapulco, book now and receive free parties and meals. Campus reps wanted! 1-800-234-7 0 0 7 endlesssummertours.com

SPRING BREAK '04 with StudentCity.com and Maxim Magazine! Get hooked up with Free Trips, Cash, and VIP Status as a Campus Rep! Choose from 15 of the hottest destinations. Book early for FREE MEALS, FREE DRINKS and 150% lowest price guarantee! To reserve online or view our Photo Gallery, visit www.studentcity.com or Call 1-888-SPRINGBREAK!

SPRING BREAK 2004. Travel with Student Travel Services; America's #1 Student Tour Operator to Jamaica, Cancun, Acapulo, Bahamas, and Florida. Now hiring campus reps. Call for group discounts. Information/ reservations 1-800-648-4849 or www.ststravel.com.

SPRING BREAK- sign up with Student Express and get FREE round trip airline tickets to over 15 International destinations- including Aruba, Dominican Republic, Costa Rica, Caribbean hot spots and more. Why go with anyone else. Limited offer- call now. Commission rep positions also available (800)787-3787or www.studentexpress.com now.

Deadlines

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run.
CALL 532-6555

ClassifiedRATES

1 DAY
20 words or less
$8.00
each word over 20
20¢ per word

2 DAYS
20 words or less
$9.40
each word over 20
25¢ per word

3 DAYS
20 words or less
$11.05
each word over 20
30¢ per word

4 DAYS
20 words or less
$12.25
each word over 20
35¢ per word

5 DAYS
20 words or less
$13.35
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

TO PLACE AN AD
Go to Kedzie 103 (across from the K-State Student Union). Office hours are Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The office is open except on holidays.

HOW TO PAY
All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an account with Student Publications Inc. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks. We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

FREE FOUND ADS
As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CORRECTIONS
If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

CANCELLATIONS
If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day before the ad is to be published.

HEADLINES
For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

000 bulletin board

010 Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY!" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes and lowest rates. Call (785)776-1744, www.ksu.edu/kstc

ATTORNEY. CHUCK Harper, expunge convictions before job application, paternity, custody, net free adoption, civil law, 400 Poyntz, (785)539-8100, chuckharper@msn.com

CHECK OUT www.offerplace.com/115. It's got all the best deals around. No fee credits card, cell phones, online video rentals and tons more. Find it all at www.offerplace.com/115.

DON'T LET the cold weather get your car down. Come visit Lewis Auto Repair, 610B South Julliette. Cheapest labor rate in town. Call (785)770-8553.

FRATERNITIES— SORORITIES, Clubs— Student Groups. Earn $1000- $2000 this semester with a proven CampusFundraiser, three hour fund raising event. Our free programs make fund raising easy with no risks. Fund raising dates are filling quickly, so get with the program! It works. Contact CampusFundraiser at (888)923-3238, or visit www.campusfundraiser.com

020 Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

LOST: PIT Bull. Gray and white female. Last seen Wednesday November 7 &. Reward if found. Call (816)588-5378 or (785)341-6626.

030 Post a Note

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a post a note.

100 housing/ real estate

Trying to sell your car?
Try the Collegian Classifieds
532-6555

105 For Rent- Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2440.

SPACIOUS TWO-BEDROOM/ one bath. All utilities paid except electric. Available end of December. Call (785)806-3068.

"Stay In Class At The Commons"
Now Leasing for 2003-2004!
•Fully Furnished
•2 & 4 Bedroom
•Alarm System
•Swimming Pool
•Washer/Dryer
•Computer Lab
•Fitness Center
•Permit Parking
•Tennis/Volleyball Courts
•Individual Leases
Office Hours: M-F 9-5
539-0500
university COMMONS APARTMENTS
2215 College Ave.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

AVAILABLE JANUARY 1. Two-bedroom, newly decorated. Washer/ dryer hookup. Off-street parking. $500/ month. (785)537-2119, 8- 5pm, (785)539-2347 after 5pm.

COZY TWO-BEDROOM. Only a year old with all new appliances. Includes washer and dryer. Has own driveway. (785)341-1636

NICE ONE-BEDROOM apartments. Close to campus. Water and trash paid. $415- $430/ month. Call MDI (785)776-3804.

STUDIO APARTMENT, close to campus. No pets. $280/ month. 1030 Kearney. Call (785)537-0177.

STUDIO APARTMENT. $250/ month. All utilities except electric paid. Lease and deposit required. Available January 1. (785)537-7794.

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE block to campus. New carpet/ flooring/ some utilities paid. $660/ month, or best offer. (785)539-4641.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath, less than block from campus. Dishwasher, laundry facilities, and parking. (785)539-2067.

TWO PLUS bedroom, one block to campus. New carpet/ flooring/ some utilities paid. $620/ month. (785)539-4641.

TWO, three, and four-bedroom apartments. Close to campus, laundry, and parking. Call (785)537-6017.

TWO-BEDROOM TOWNHOUSE, one and one-half bath plus unfinished basement. Washer/ dryer hookups. Water/ trash paid. No pets. (785)539-5627.

VERY NICE two-bedroom apartment for rent, starting January 1st. Cats allowed. Call (785)539-5563 or (785)341-5441 for more information.

115 Rooms Available

BEHIND AGGIEVILLE. Near campus. One room available mid- January for Spring semester. $285 plus utilities. (785)587-7668.

ROOMMATE WANTED to sublease. Close to campus/ Aggieville. Washer/ dryer, $300 plus utilities. Call Nicole (785)776-6099 or (785)565-8785.

120 For Rent- Houses

FOUR-BEDROOM, ONE and one-half bath. New carpet, paint, and ceramic tile. Close to football stadium. $900/ month plus utilities. Available December 1. (785)556-2652.

FOUR-BEDROOM/ TWO bath house. Very nice. Central heat and air, washer/ dryer hookups. Available January 1st. No pets. Call Doug (785)341-4554.

TIRED OF Apartment Living? Manufactured Homes For Rent. Pets Allowed. Beautifully maintained communities. Pool, playground, community center. Professionally managed. Call Manager for more details. (785)539-5841.

TWO-BEDROOM HOUSE for rent. Close to Aggieville and campus. $500/ month plus utilities. Available starting January. (785)776-2483

135 For Sale- Mobile Homes

ONE-BEDROOM MOBILE home, new carpet, furnace. $6000 or best offer. (785)537-9894.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE FOR Spring. Nice apartment, one-half block from campus, close to REC. $260/ month plus cheap bills. Parking. Laundry. (785)770-3837

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed for quiet house, air-conditioned, washer/ dryer, kitchen, basement, off-street parking, near campus. $285 plus one-fourth utilities. (785)537-1219.

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed for three-bedroom, two bath apartment. Available now or for December or January. $210/ month, one-third KPL and phone. Call (785)776-1621.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for nice three-bedroom house. Washer/ dryer on site. $250 plus one-third utilities. December 1 or January 1 lease. Call Emily at (785)770-0374.

FEMALE, THREE-BEDROOM duplex, two bath, washer/ dryer. $260/ month, plus utilities, available January. Call (785)550-2306.

FEMALES TO share nice four-bedroom house with two graduate students. Near campus. $275. (785)565-9661/ (785)565-0368

GREAT PLACE, great location, great people. Female roommates wanted for spring semester sublease. Large rooms, private parking, common rooms furnished, washer/ dryer. Call Lindsay at (785)587-0296.

MALE OR female for spring semester. Nice two-bedroom apartment across street from Aggieville and campus. 1212 Bluemont. (316)641-2636 leave a message.

MALE ROOMMATE needed. Very nice off campus house. Already furnished $300/ month. Contact Matt Huseman at (785)819-1966 to set up an appointment or to ask any questions.

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share a two-bedroom house. Five minutes from the Student Union. Rent $275. (785)539-9981

ONE ROOM available, fully furnished home. $90/ week, all utilities paid. Please call (785)539-8442, and leave message, Tearney.

Advertising Design
Practicum/Newspaper MC 484
Earn class credit working with the ad design/production staff on the Kansas State Collegian during spring semester 2004. Limited enrollment. The instructor's permission is required. No prerequisites are necessary. Stop by 113 Kedzie from 8 a.m.-3 p.m. for an application. Application deadline is Friday, Nov. 21.

Graphic Design Internship
Advertising Design — Kansas State Collegian
If you are a graphic design major and would like an on-campus spring 2004 internship for credit, stop by for an application. Your art department adviser's permission is required. Application deadline is Friday, Nov. 21.
Stop by 113 Kedzie from 8 a.m.-3 p.m. for more information.

Reach more readers
Place your classified ad online. Get more bang for your buck.
www.kstatecollegian.com
Ads scheduled to be printed in the Collegian can be published online for an additional dollar.

000 bulletin board
100 housing/ real estate
200 service directory
300 employment/ opportunities
400 open market
500 transportation
600 travel/ trips

HOTEL | K-State also sets sights on parking garage

Continued from Page 1

Foundation building, 2323 Anderson Ave., requires a driver with a commercial license much like what a shuttle system from Bramlage would require.

"There's a lot of ways of doing it," Abbott said. "We would work with other organizations. We have talked to people about getting buses and getting a package deal with the driver and the bus."

Abbott said he anticipates no increase in parking fines or permits because of the shuttle system.

"I have heard no one suggesting yet that we increase the fees to pay for it," he said. "I think we can handle that."

Once the parking garage is built, the biggest challenge would be making the garage the safest building on campus, Abbott said.

"Before we even talked about this, we said it need to be well-lighted. All parking at the university is well-lit now," he said. "This will be more well-lighted than parking on the rest of the campus. We will go through and do our best to put in the latest sort of security here because it needs to be safe. We need to have people not worried about going into our parking areas."

Abbott said the Parking Council members already have been in contact with other universities to begin developing some idea of what the garage would bring to K-State.

"If the university wants a parking garage, we ought to build a parking garage," he said. "We have been dealing with it for a couple of years when it was evident that was the way we were going. I assure you, anytime we go to a city or another university, we go to the parking garage and walk around so that we can make this system work."

While Parking Services would have to make changes if the concept is developed, the Union also would need to redesign its conference space.

"I suspect with our current use pattern, that some spaces will need to be freshened up," Union Director Bernard Pitts said.

Pitts said there is a replacement and repairs fund that would be used for the upgrades, not student privilege fees.

He said that even if the Union becomes more of a public facility, it still would serve students first.

"We have to be careful. The Union Governing Board and our staff will be sure we still provide the Union for students and their needs," he said. "It's ingrained in our professional philosophy that the Union is here for our students, and I feel very good that our staff understands that."

Pitts said that while additional conferences brought in by the hotel's presence would mean more opportunities for catering services, there could be additional strain on the restaurants in the Union Food Court.

"Clearly, right at noon on a Wednesday it would be difficult, but not something we couldn't overcome."

But despite the changes that would have to be made, Pitts said he is in support of the proposal.

"It's one step closer to having a campus conference center," he said. "We're excited and up for the challenge."

MEMORIAL | Campus to pay respects to student

Continued from Page 1

play a large role in the service. Armstrong's memorial fund is being given to the Navigators group.

"It is hoped that the family will be present to hear the stories and the friendship and affection that university students feel for Kevin," Fallon said. "I think it will be a time for prayers to remember and also the hope for healing for all the others that were involved. It will be a time of comfort and strength."

Also recovering from the accident are Evan Riordan, junior in pre-pharmacy; Eric Lovig, junior in biology; and Mollie Delph, sophomore in pre-health.

Lovig and Riordan were taken to Mercy Health Center following the accident and Delph was air-lifted to the University of Kansas Medical Center in Kansas City, Kan.

Lovig had surgery for a dislocated hip and was released Sunday to his family. Riordan was admitted to the intensive care unit with a punctured spleen and collapsed lung. He was moved to his own room Sunday and is expected to remain in the hospital until the end of the week.

Delph remains in critical condition in the neuro-intensive care unit at KU Med with a neck fracture, heavy bruising of her lungs and swelling in her neck and throat.

MURDER | Professor's English classes will continue

Continued from Page 1

"He, of course, has had terrible shock," Brigham said.

Brigham said there is no reason for students to think that Murray's English classes will not continue.

"We don't anticipate there will be ongoing problems," she said. "Whatever work or information is missed, we'll figure out a way to make up for that."

Murray teaches classes including the structure of English, linguistics, and development of English language.

"Dr. Murray is a very responsible teacher," Brigham said. "He's been teaching these classes for years."

According to the Associated Press, authorities received a telephone call from Ross-Murray's fiance Friday after failed attempts of contacting her by phone for several hours.

Although Douglas County Sheriff Rick Trapp did not release details on how Ross-Murray was killed, it appears the slaying could have occurred a few days before officials found her, he said.

The coroner's office has not released a written report from an autopsy that began Saturday.

— The Associated Press contributed to this story.

COLUMN | Fans gets livid about fantasy sports, too

Continued from Page 6

But when I uttered his name with less than a second left on the clock, everyone else was floored. I didn't think they ever would stop laughing.

The real fun of fantasy drafts, however, is buried in the later rounds. When round 27 rolled around, I was so exhausted I didn't even know where I was anymore.

I needed to come up with a quick pick, and fumbling through my stat sheet I heard the name Geoff Jenkins from the background.

As my eyes hovered over his stats, I saw he had 40 homers the year before, so I took him.

And, in the process, nearly lost my life.

Apparently, someone else was planning on drafting him with the very next pick. Needless to say, he went ballistic.

It took about 10 minutes for us to calm him down after he threw any object near him and ran through his dictionary of obscenities.

Three rounds later, with my last pick, I took the one and only José Canseco. Sure, he never stepped on a major league field that season, but it just seemed like a fitting way to end the night from hell.

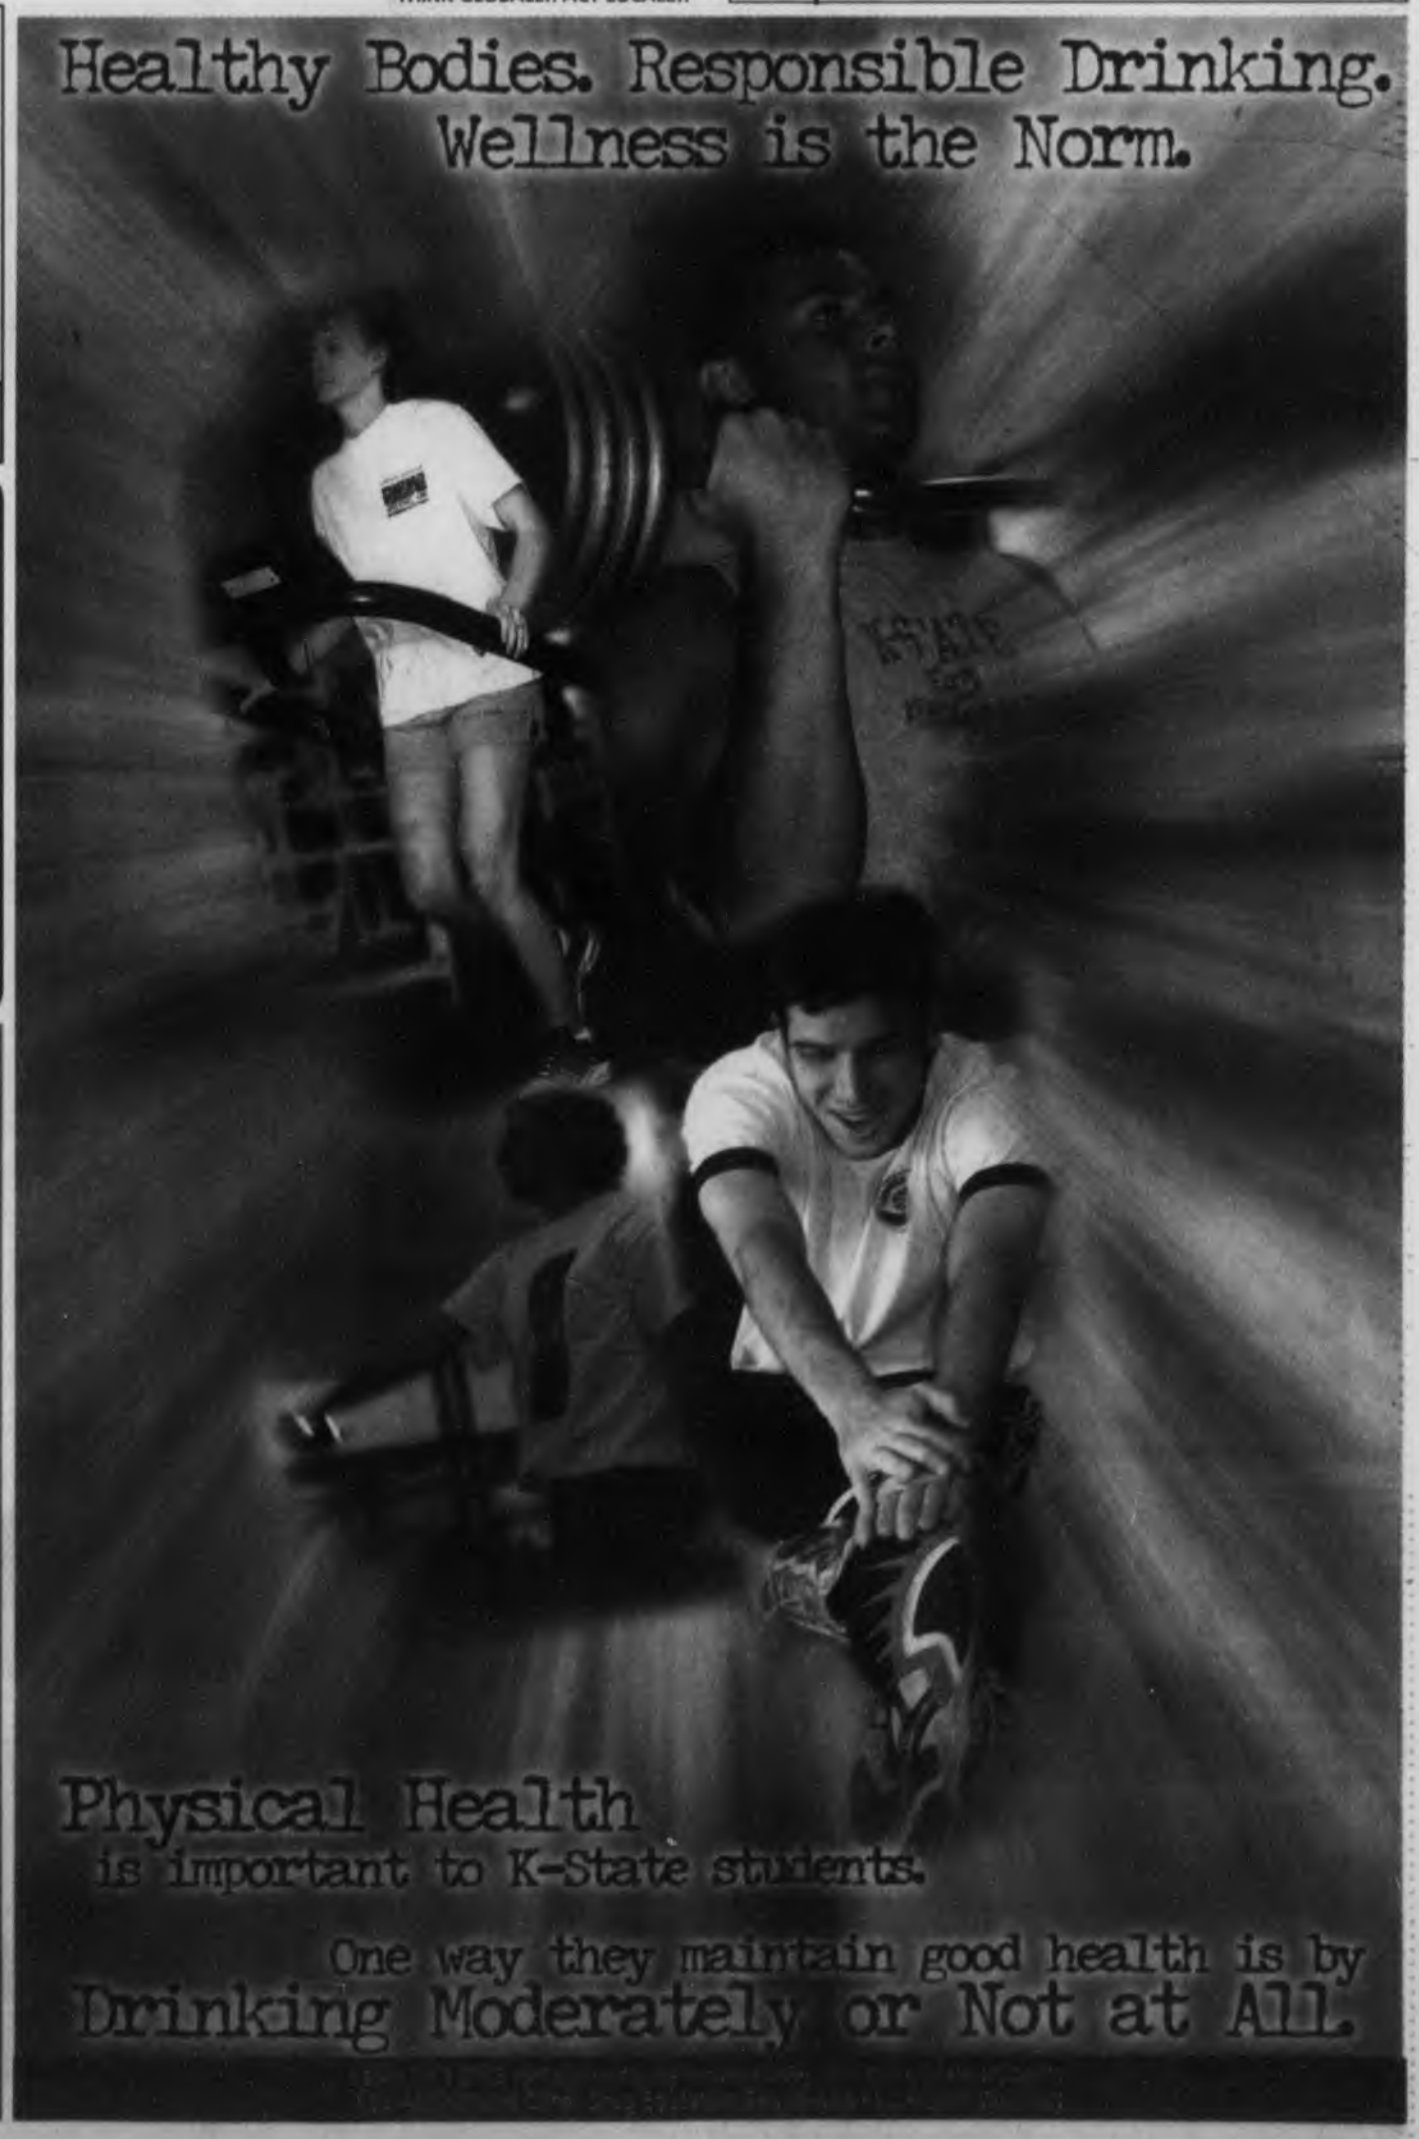
I won our league that season, enjoying every minute of it. Highlights included rubbing it in when Jenkins homered in the first game of the season and scraping out a victory in the last day of the season.

So, I urge all of you out there to join a fantasy league. If you can, scrape together a few friends and set up a live draft in the league of your choice, it definitely will be worth your time.

Just don't draft Scott Rolen.

Wes is a junior in journalism. You can e-mail him at marfield@ksu.edu.

10¢ Wings 6-9 pm
$1.50 Wells, Cosmos
$2 Big Beers
$3 Sandwiches & chips 11-2 Mon-Fri
Porter's



LET'S HELP OUR LOCAL CHARITIES.
Please consider a contribution to support our local charities.
THINK GLOBALLY. ACT LOCALLY.

Flu Shots
At Lafene Health Center
Avoid the flu bug....Get your flu shot now!
Thursdays
November 13 & 20
8:30 am—11:30 am
1:30 pm—4:30 pm
Check in at the Business Office,
1105 Sunset Avenue
(patient parking available near building)
Cost: $10—Students;
$12.50—Faculty/Staff
There is a required 20 minute wait after the injection.
Don't get sick... get a shot!
Influenza is preventable.

Thanksgiving Special
$5 OFF HC & Style Massage
$10 OFF Hi-Lite Perm
$2 OFF Men's Haircut
Not valid w/other offers Expires 12/20/03
537-1332 1129 Moro
IMPRESSIONS HAIR DESIGN AND NAIL STUDIO

Bake Sale Today!
KSU Bakery Science Club
WEEKLY BAKE SALE
TODAY 3 TO 5 P.M.
Shellenberger First Floor

WE DELIVER
JIMMY JOHN'S
Since SUPER SEAL 1983
WORLD'S GREATEST GOURMET SANDWICHES
HOURS: 11AM - 3 AM
539.7454
AGGIEVILLE
1212 MORO

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

www.kstatecollegian.com

Thursday, November 20, 2003

Vol. 108, No.66

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

Hotel might sacrifice parking

THE HOTEL PROPOSAL

Officials are considering a proposal for a hotel and parking garage adjacent to the K-State Student Union. The Collegian explores, in a five-part series, the implications of the proposal if approved.

Friday: What other universities are doing.

By Sarah Rice
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The addition of 200 parking stalls on campus sounds exciting.

But the extra parking space comes with a cost. K-State Parking Services officials have begun hammering out the details if the concept for a hotel and parking garage on campus is approved.

The proposal, now being investigated by the KSU Foundation, calls for a hotel and garage to be built in the existing K-State Student Union parking lot.

During the garage's construction phase, which would last about a year, 400 parking stalls would be removed, Darwin Abbott, Parking Services director, said.

"We have already talked about running a bus system back and forth to the area," Abbott said.

"We haven't done a huge amount of talking with Bramlage because we don't have a lot of details. It would be our expectation that we would go from

See HOTEL Page 12

Warrant issued for King of Pop

By Robert Jablon
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. – Authorities issued an arrest warrant for Michael Jackson on multiple counts of molesting a child and asked the pop superstar to turn in his passport and surrender, law enforcement officials said Wednesday.

Jackson

"At this point in time, Mr. Jackson has been given an opportunity to surrender himself to the custody of the Santa Barbara Sheriff's Department within a specified period of time," Sheriff Jim Anderson told a news conference. "We are currently working with Mr. Jackson's legal representation on this matter.

"I believe he's willing to cooperate with us."

See JACKSON Page 12

Up in smoke

Photo Illustration by Nicole Donnert | COLLEGIAN

Annual event tries to help smokers kick the habit

By Kristi Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

It's time to kick butts.

Since 1977, people have celebrated the Great American Smokeout. Across the country, smokers aim to quit, for at least a 24-hour period.

Based on a 1999 K-State survey through Lafene Health Center, seven of 10 students do not smoke.

Carol Kennedy, health promotions director at Lafene, said that to promote awareness of the day, she is working with two other organizations, The American Cancer Society and the Terry C. Johnson Center for Basic Cancer Research.

The organizations, in association with Rusty's Next Door, are offering an information booth and a special cold turkey lunch special to smokers who throw away their tobacco products or agree to quit smoking for the day, Kennedy said. The special is 50 percent off the cold turkey basket from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

"Lafene is not officially involved with the project, but is still offering the information table at Rusty's," Kennedy said.

She said the Riley County Health Department also has a task force to increase awareness of the smokeout.

University Counseling Services constructed a bulletin board that has been placed in the K-State Student Union, Kennedy said.

At Lafene, K-Staters Inspired to Stop Smoking is organized by the health promotions department.

See SMOKING Page 12

Salina's smoking ban not likely soon in Manhattan

By Kristi Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Inside

Is the 30-foot smoking ban near building entrances effective? The Collegian looks at the rule's enforcement. See story, Page 8.

Smoking is an action some people have chosen to take. However, some city laws have prevented them from doing so in public.

Salina banned smoking in public places last January. This includes bars that serve food with seating for more than 11 people. The ban is from 5 a.m. to 9 p.m., and the business owners can decide if they want to let customers smoke in the break time.

Lawrence officials say a task force has been set up to look at the ordinance as a possibility, but Manhattan has not looked at the possibility in depth.

Dennis Kissinger, Salina city manager, said problems have yet to rise concerning the ordinance.

"We have had no calls and no problems. There are some people that love it, others that hate it," Kissinger said.

He said many people ask if there have been police calls because of the ordinance. The police are not called, he said, because it is an ordinance that mainly is enforced by the restaurant owners and operators.

"The people in the Midwest are law–abiding people. They aren't going to make a call to the police about someone smoking in a movie theater, they'll just let the manager know," Kissinger said.

See BAN Page 12

Nicole Donnert | COLLEGIAN

Betsy Rowden, sophomore in anthropology, right, and Jesse Barger, senior in secondary math education, smoke while at Aggie Lounge in Aggieville last friday night.

INSIDE

Broadcasters find calling in sports radio. A look at local radio personalities.

Sports, Page 6

HEADLINES

The Associated Press

Gaza violence
A gunman opened fire on tourists entering Israel on Wednesday, killing an Ecuadorean pilgrim and wounding four others, in a rare attack on the border with Jordan. The shooting came as an Egyptian mediator and the Palestinian prime minister tried to persuade Islamic militants to call a truce with Israel.

Reagan's shooter
John Hinckley Jr.'s bid for unsupervised visits with his parents received a boost Wednesday as two psychiatrists testifying for the government said the request from the man who shot President Reagan should be approved but only under more restrictions than previously proposed.

Reagan

Rush's drugs
Authorities are investigating whether Rush Limbaugh illegally funneled money to buy prescription painkillers, a law enforcement source said Wednesday. In his third day back on the air after rehab, Limbaugh responded with a blanket denial of the allegations first reported Tuesday by ABC News.

Sniper sentencing
One of John Allen Muhammad's children had a message and questions for her father. The message: "I miss you sooooooo much." A question: "Why did you do all these shootings?" The jury will decide whether Muhammad should be executed for the sniper attacks.

Muhammad

DON'T FORGET

■ Voting for Once in a Lifetime Plans a Wedding is open until midnight Friday. Following the vote, readers also can choose which wedding dress, flowers and tuxedos will be in the couple's wedding. Vote at www.kstatecollegian.com.

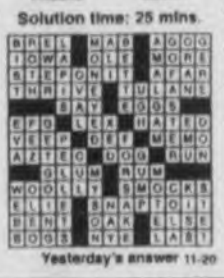
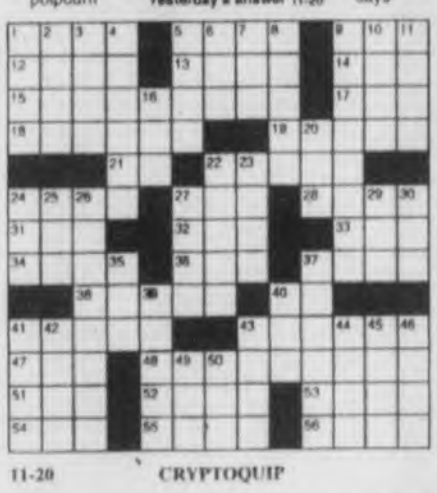
Weather

Today: Sunny, windy 76 | 40
Friday: Partly cloudy 63 | 46



Claflin Books and Copies
1814 Claflin Rd. (785) 776-3771
www.claflinbooks.com Fax: (785) 776-1009

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer



ACROSS
1 Streisand, familiarly
5 Prize-fighters
9 Resort
12 Dull shade
13 "Vidi" meaning
14 Stocky horse
15 Make 26-Down
17 Confederate soldier
18 Protects oneself financially
19 — Fossil Beds National Monument
21 Paul Bunyan's pet
22 Ricochet
24 Be in charge of 27 Saute
28 Do what you're told
31 Spigoted vessel
32 Lobster coral
33 Golfer's position
34 With 35-Down, potpourri
36 Double curve
37 Departed
38 Olympians' doings
40 Geometric ratio
41 McDormand's Oscar film
43 Marketplace
47 Zsa Zsa's sis
48 Make 26-Down
51 Rice or Curry
52 Long story
53 Reddish-brown
54 Billboards
55 Cupid's alias
56 Pub missile

DOWN
1 "Little Women" woman
2 Farm fraction
3 Emmy winner Garrett
4 Ra, for one
5 Knight's backup
6 Bob Hope's long-time sponsor
7 Petrol
8 Vow
9 Make 26-Down
10 Shelley or Keats
11 Singer Lane
16 Driver's license datum
20 Moo — gai pan
22 Angry
23 Affirmative votes
24 Embrace
25 Blunder
26 Form of wordplay
27 Gratis
29 Aachen article
30 Even now
35 See 34-Across
37 Harry Potter, for one
39 Kind of code
40 Average
41 Greek cheese
42 Eager, plus
43 Lingerie items
44 Celebes beast
45 Culture medium
46 "Monopoly" payment
49 Anvil locale
50 In olden days

Solution time: 25 mins.

Yesterday's answer 11-20

11-20 CRYPTOQUIP

S R I K E S B F I S Y B Q G A Z X K P S T N P F V Z Y P L B P F, C S N X F D V G P K D F X K F N B T F I B C B T Q A B R B A L V T E P?

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: IF YOU NEED HELP FINDING THINGS IN THE DARK, SHOULD YOU TAKE GROPE THERAPY?

Today's Cryptoquip Clue: P equals S

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 2! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to CryptoClassics Book 2, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475

The Cryptoquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.
© 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Contact us

Kansas State Collegian
Kedzie 103
Manhattan, KS 66502
Display ads.....532-6560
Classified ads.....532-6555
Newsroom.....532-6556
news@spub.k-state.edu
Delivery problems.....532-6555

BEST BETS

Your guide to this weekend's entertainment

1 | CAT FIGHT

Tigers versus Wildcats: which feline mascot will prevail? K-State is looking for a Big 12 North Championship and won't let those cuddly pussy cats get in the way. Kickoff is at 6:30 p.m. at KSU Stadium, and the game will air on TBS.

Lindsey Bauman | COLLEGIAN
K-State players celebrate following a touchdown during the Wildcats' win over Nebraska. K-State will try to wrap up the Big 12 North Division title on Saturday when it plays host to Missouri at KSU Stadium.

2 | THANKS, SQUANTO

You're almost there. Thanksgiving break begins Wednesday. Take some time to refresh yourself and visit with your family for the last stretch before finals.

3 | RELIGION & JAVA

A priest, a rabbi and a beautiful woman walk into a movie theater — K-State After Hours features "Keeping the Faith" and a coffee shop theme, beginning at 9 p.m. Friday at the K-State Student Union.

4 | HOOP DREAMS

Two-for-one special on basketball entertainment. A double header, featuring the women's game against Western Illinois at 6 p.m. and the men's game against Birmingham-Southern at 8:30 p.m. Saturday. Both games are at Bramlage Coliseum, and paid admission to one game gets you in free to the other.

Megan Mahoney

5 | SEUSS-TASTIC

"The Cat and the Hat" will be released nationwide Friday and will contend with "Elf" for the top spot at the box office. Fun game: you decide how Mike Meyers' career has gone since "Wayne's World."

6 | PRIDE'S ROAR

If Saturday's game doesn't provide enough "Wabash Cannonball," check out the K-State Marching Band concert at 3 p.m. Sunday at Ahearn Field House. Admission is $1.

HOW TO

Make, carve a turkey in 4 simple steps

By Melissa Haug
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

It's time to prepare your Thanksgiving feast, and it won't be a feast without that Thanksgiving bird. If you're searching for a way to impress your guests this holiday, follow these easy steps in carving your Thanksgiving turkey like a professional.

Karen Blakeslee with the Department of Animal Science, said, "It's really not a difficult process. It can be done by anyone."

She explained the process in four simple steps.

STEP ONE

If you've stuffed the turkey, the first thing to do is remove the stuffing. Place it in another dish to keep it warm. Let the turkey stand 15-20 minutes before carving. This will allow for easier slicing.

STEP TWO

The first pieces to be removed will be the drumsticks/thighs. Begin by grasping the end of one drumstick and cutting in the area between the body and drumstick/thigh. Cut through the skin and joint, and remove the entire leg by pulling out and back. Separate the thigh and drumstick at the joint. Repeat to remove the second drumstick.

STEP THREE

Separate the wings from the body. Insert a fork in the upper wing to steady the turkey. Make a long horizontal cut above the wing joint through to the body frame. The wing may be disjointed from the body, if desired.

STEP FOUR

The final piece will be the breast. Slice straight down with an even stroke, beginning halfway up the breast. When the knife reaches the cut above the wing joint, it will fall free. Continue to slice breast meat, starting the cut at a higher point each time.

You can get more Thanksgiving food tips by looking online at: www.eatturkey.com, www.butterball.com or www.urbanext.vivc.edu/turkey/carving.html.

The blotter

Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Tuesday, Nov. 18

- At 2:15 p.m., Derek Devlin, 531 Yuma St., No. B, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $10,000.
- At 8:05 p.m., Allen Larson, 2013 Judson St., was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $209.
- At 2:17 a.m., Brandon Amtower, 1524 McCain Lane, No. 1, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.

The planner

Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@spub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- Lafene Health Center will have a flu shot clinic from 8:30 to 11:30 and 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. today at 1105 Sunset Ave. Cost is $10 for students and $12.50 for faculty and staff.
- Sigma Lambda Gamma will have its Bolivian sweater sale from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. today on the Union Plaza.
- There will be a basic library class at 11 a.m. today in Hale 408.
- There will be a topic research class at 2:30 p.m. today in Hale 408.
- KSU Pre-Vet Club will have a case study at 6:30 and a meeting at 7:30 tonight in Trotter 201.
- "Listening to the Prairie: Farming in Nature's Image," an exhibition that teaches the history of the prairie and new farming approaches, is at Hale Library.

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor James Hurla at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@spub.ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian
(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.

© Kansas State Collegian, 2003

GIVE PLASMA GET CASH
Donate Plasma And Earn $45 this week
Save Lives & Earn Cash.
ZLB Plasma Services
1130 Gardenway
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785)776-9177 • www.zlb.com

We're psychic, you need a vacation, why not
Spring Break
and we KNOW KSU can PARTY!!
Jamaica
Acapulco
Cancun
Bahamas
Florida
Beach Life
Group Discounts!!
Book before Dec 15th and $ave!!
Sell trips, earn cash, travel free!!
1.800.733.6347
www.BeachLifeVacations.com

BUY • EVALUATE • SELL • TRADE
OLE MIKE'S SHOOTERS SUPPLY & TACKLE
HUNTING & FISHING LICENSES
11TH N. 3RD • 537-8815
www.last-report.com

PIT STOP AUTOMOTIVE
FALL SPECIAL
• Tune-Ups • Exhaust • Brakes • Shocks
FREE OIL CHANGE & TIRE ROTATION WITH BRAKE JOB
OIL CHANGE plus disposal (Up to 5 qts.) $19.95
4 WHEEL COMPUTER ROTATION AND BALANCE Includes free brake inspection for cars and light trucks (By appointment) $29.95
TRANSMISSION FLUSH complete fluid exchange $79.95
COOLANT EXCHANGE with New Antifreeze $59.95
JESS EBERT TECHNICIAN
RACHEL SMITH TECHNICIAN
BUD VALERIUS OWNER
1629 Fair Lane • Manhattan • 785-539-6650

LIVE Tonight
Purify
13th Step
The Unit
Shaft
21 & Over
Open at 8
SHOTZ
$2 two dollar big beers

SUBS so fast
JIMMY JOHN'S
Since SUPER SEAL 1983
WORLD'S GREATEST GOURMET SANDWICHES
HOURS: 11AM - 3 AM
WE DELIVER!
539.7454
AGGIEVILLE
1212 MORO
YOU FREAK

Auditions
For Spring
KSU Theatre Productions
Beyond Therapy
Flying West (Ebony Theatre)
MacBeth
Saturday, November 22nd : 1-4 p.m. and 7- 10 p.m.
Monday, November 24th : 7-10 p.m.
Meet in the Lobby of Nichols Hall
Open to all KSU Students
No preparation Necessary
Reading Scripts available for check out in 129 Nichols hall from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.
Questions Call: 532-6857

A DAY OF HOPE
WORLD AIDS DAY 2003
Monday, December 1st
American Red Cross KSU Club presents a speech by Neil Willenson entitled Make Your Life Count: A Call to Action
Forum Hall at 5:00 p.m.
"It is estimated that 900,000 people in the United States have HIV and don't know it." - Center for Disease Control
Funded by DPC

Voting flaws found, fixed

By Amy Preston
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A number of votes for the Collegian's Once in a Lifetime Plans a Wedding will be disqualified, despite reports Monday saying the results were accurate, officials said Wednesday.

The disqualification comes after Christopher Harrop, the Collegian's online editor, realized that more than 3,000 votes were registered between Tuesday night and Wednesday morning.

Suspicious, Harrop said he found out Wednesday morning that people were spoofing Internet protocol (IP) addresses.

"People were using an anonymous service, then registering a vote," Harrop said.

As a result, some computers have counted more than one vote per computer.

Harrop said he has all the disqualified numbers from Monday to noon Wednesday. Now, he said he must go back and read last week's vote totals.

"I'm going to look to get numbers from the rest of the contest to accurately determine which were duplicate and which were not," Harrop said.

This now means that online results are not accurate until the polls close at midnight Friday, Harrop said.

"We should know who the winner is by Saturday morning or afternoon, and we'll certify the results," he said.

David Richard, senior in elementary education, said he has become frustrated with the online voting system.

He and his fiancee, Kirby Burke, graduate student in early childhood special education, have been in close competition with Aaron Stohs, senior in veterinary medicine, and Kelly Lynn, K-State alumna.

"We've sort of quit trying because we were down by 1,300 votes now, and we quit," Richard said.

Richard said he knew the cheating had been going on since last week.

And now that the votes will be disqualified, Richard said he has become even more frustrated.

"It's a little late for that," Richard said. "I know it's been happening from the start. That's four days I lost going door-to-door or passing out flyers."

Lynn said the decision to throw out all duplicate votes is a good thing for each of the four couples.

"It's definitely fair to everyone because everyone wants this contest to be fair," Lynn said.

Despite the voting problems, Lynn said she and Stohs are still anxious for the final results.

"We're just as excited as we were in the beginning," she said.

Individuals interested in voting can log onto www.kstatecollegian.com and click on the Once in a Lifetime Plans a Wedding tab, then select their favorite couple. Voting will conclude at midnight Friday.

Say cheese

Nicole Donnert | COLLEGIAN

Anna Sherman holds her son, Francis III, at the Soldier and Family Support Center at Fort Riley on Wednesday while the news media interviews them. Sherman's husband, Lt. Col. Francis Sherman, 1st battalion, 13th Armor commander, was deployed to Iraq in March. Anna and Francis III were at Fort Riley's media day Wednesday, which was fort officials' response to inquiries about the well-being of soldiers' families. Currently, about 6,500 Fort Riley troops are deployed as part of Operation Iraqi Freedom. Fifteen Fort Riley soldiers have been killed during the operation.

Give us your opinion.
Campus Fourum: 395-4444

Kansas State Collegian
Wildcat fans' newspaper of choice

Do you need:
• Great Pay?
• Sales Experience?
• Flexible Hours?
Are you:
• Outgoing?
• Self motivated?
Apply Now
Deadline is Monday, Nov. 24th @ 4 p.m.
to work on the Collegian Advertising Sales Staff Spring 2004
Pickup/Turn in applications in Kedzie 103 or call 532-6560 with any questions

International Coffee Hour Series presents
The Bahamas
"Is it as good as they say it is?"
w/ guest speaker: John Cash
Did you know...?
•The beautiful islands lie only 50 miles off the Florida coast - far closer than any destination in the Caribbean
• The population is less then 300,000
•Come find out more this Friday, November 21 from 4-5 p.m. at the International Students Center
Don't miss this opportunity:
November 21 from 4-5 p.m.
@ the International Student Center

PJ's Restaurant & Pub
Crazy "A" DJ Fridays at PJ's
Showing on Saturday "The Legend"
DJ James
18 to enter $3 Cover
21 to drink No Cover
Sponsored by Zotcis, Dick Edwards, T-Mobile, & Aggie Hair Shapers
The Bar Has Been Bought

THURSDAY
Fat's Bar & Grill
12th & Laramie • Aggieville
$2.75 Fish Bowls
$1.50 Domestic Bottles
$1.00 Burgers
Kitchen help wanted 776-2424

Rusty's last chance
IN SHAWNEE, KANSAS
Weekly Specials
At Rusty's Last Chance,
Located In
Shawnee, Kansas
10901 W. 75th St.
*SPECIALS NOT VALID IN MANHATTAN
WEDNESDAYS
50¢ DRAWS
PITCHERS $2.75
THURSDAYS & SATURDAYS
$1 WELLS
$1.50 CALLS
BOTTLES
$2 SHOTS
$2 BIG BEERS
FRIDAYS
IMPORTS $2.75
Come Visit Us In Shawnee, KS
During Your Thanksgiving Break!

PIZZA PAPA JOHN'S IS HERE in Manhattan!
FOOTBALL WEEKEND
WATCH K-STATE MAUL THE TIGERS,
AND THE CHIEFS GO 10 - 1 AGAINST THE RAIDERS WITH PAPA JOHN'S PIZZA!
lateSPECIAL night $6.99 large one topping pizza
BEGINS AT 9PM.
$7.99 ANY OTHER TIME
$14.99 two large one topping pizzas
$9.99 large one topping and an order of cheesesticks
Papa John's Pizza is the Official Pizza of the Kansas City Chiefs
Customer pays all applicable sales tax. Specials not valid with other offers. Limited delivery area, charges may apply.

TO THE POINT

Business owners should decide smoking policy

An overall ban on smoking in public places would not be appropriate in Manhattan, despite such a ban in Salina and consideration of such a policy in Lawrence.

Certain local establishments have chosen to not allow smoking within their premises, and that is acceptable for those businesses.

Other establishments continue to allow smoking on their premises, and that is appropriate for them, as well.

The decision to ban smoking should be left to individual businesses.

Their customers will express their opinions on the issue, and the business owner can dictate whether smoking will be allowed.

While smoking is shown to have tremendous health hazards, it is a personal decision people make – to smoke or not to smoke.

People also can make the decision to visit businesses that allow or do not allow smoking.

Banning smoking citywide would simply be an attempt to control an individual's freedom, and that would not benefit the community as a whole.

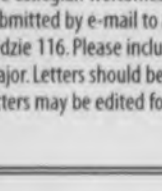
Free enterprise should allow business owners to decide how to best serve their customers.

A ban would most likely hurt some businesses while helping others. Either way, there is no specific rule that would affect all businesses equally other than leaving the decision up to each owner.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Paul Restivo
Katie Lane
James Hurla
Abbie Whited
Edie Hall
Andrew Lawson
Dave Skretta
Rachel Krier
Corbin H. Crable
Chris Harrop

WRITE TO US



The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@spub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Paul Restivo | EDITOR IN CHIEF Katie Lane | MANAGING EDITOR

James Hurla NEWS EDITOR
Kelly Glasscock PHOTO EDITOR
Corbin H. Crable COPY CHIEF
Dave Skretta SPORTS EDITOR
Rachel Krier THE EDGE EDITOR
Chris Harrop ONLINE EDITOR
Abbie Whited CITY/GOV EDITOR
Andrew Lawson OPINION EDITOR
Jared Jaynes AD MANAGER
Edie Hall CAMPUS EDITOR
Dana Strongin WRITING COACH
Jenny Calvert ASST. AD MANAGER

FRIDAY'S OPINIONS

TAMMY JO OSBORN

Tammy Jo Osborn looks at the similarities between JFK and another great man who died 40 years ago — C.S. Lewis, author of "The Narnia Chronicles."

Gary Haynes, a former United Press International photographer and K-State alumnus, talks about his famous picture of JFK's rocking chair being removed from the White House.

Unrealistic opposition

Resistance to the war in Iraq is unproductive and foolish

ANDREW LAWSON

If at all possible, set aside any arguments about whether we should have gotten involved in Iraq before you continue reading.

Accept the reality. We are in Iraq for the conceivable future and nothing short of Dennis Kucinich being elected president – God forbid – is going to change that.

There are a number of reasons why continued opposition to the war effort is foolish, counterproductive and perhaps even unpatriotic.

First, if we pull out of Iraq before the country is ready to stand on its own, we will have created a power vacuum too dangerous to contemplate. Better the devil you know than the devil you don't, as the saying goes. We are in too deep now to not give our best and total effort at rebuilding Iraq.

Second, there is really nothing to criticize at this point where your criticism would do any good. The questionable decisions in the prosecution of this war were made long ago and cannot be changed. The troops and administrators on the ground are doing the best job they can with the resources available.

Finally, and most importantly, evidence is growing that such domestic dissent is exactly what Saddam Hussein wanted.

Given how poorly Iraq fared in open battle against our troops and the fact that unrestricted, asymmetric warfare has proved successful against American forces in the past, it is no stretch of the imagination that Saddam might have committed the majority of his forces to an insurgency such as we are facing now.

The end goal of such a decentralized conflict would be to discourage us on the home front and eventually force a Vietnam-like pullout.

It's not a far-fetched plan at all.

Militarily, it represented Saddam's only possibility of success.

Politically, it could cost Bush his presidency and saddle America with a peacenik Democrat who doesn't understand how crucial it is to seize this one chance and transform Iraq.

Socially, we can look around and see the effects already. Soldiers' wives grow weary of missing their husbands. Liberals call into the Fourum and offer their genius solutions. Americans watch the death counts rise and wonder how many men we will have to sacrifice.

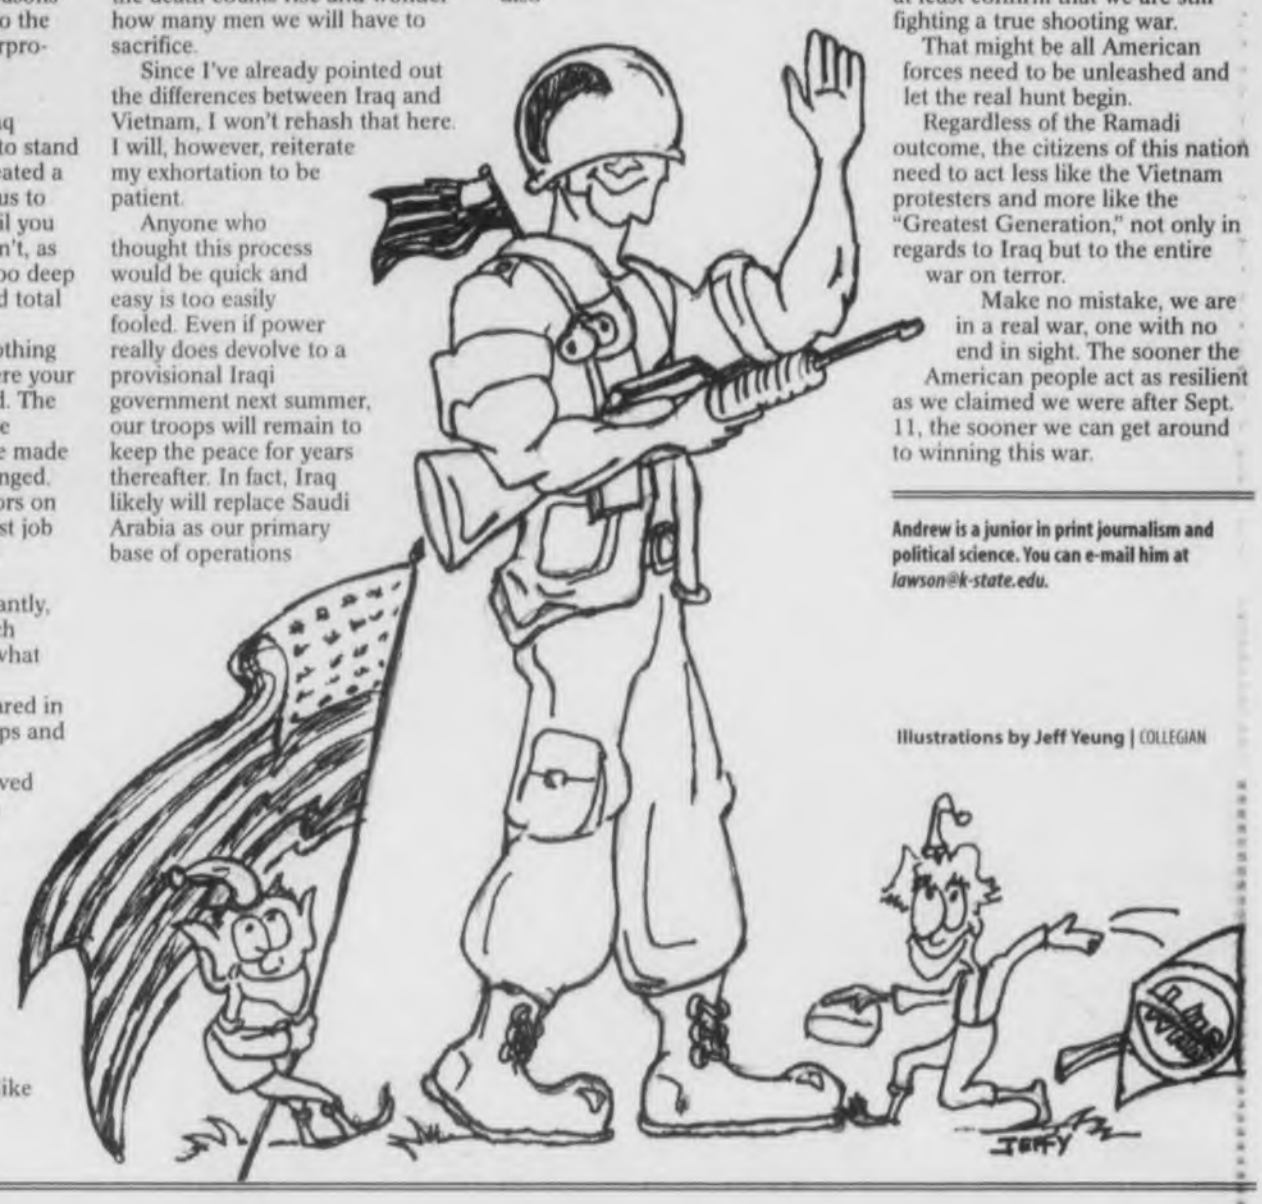
Since I've already pointed out the differences between Iraq and Vietnam, I won't rehash that here. I will, however, reiterate my exhortation to be patient.

Anyone who thought this process would be quick and easy is too easily fooled. Even if power really does devolve to a provisional Iraqi government next summer, our troops will remain to keep the peace for years thereafter. In fact, Iraq likely will replace Saudi Arabia as our primary base of operations in the area.

Even though the identity of the insurgents is still sketchy – they could be Fedayeen guerrillas, AWOL Republican Guardsmen, foreign nationals or even al-Qaeda terrorists – their goal remains the same. Without any regard to the well-being of the Iraqi populace, they will do anything to drive us out.

The recent decision to turn the city of Ramadi over to Iraqi police and pull out the 82nd Airborne isn't just a test of the Iraqis' ability to defend themselves. This action also will help us further identify the enemy and whether what we believe their goal is truly their intent.

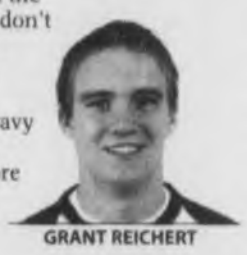
If they only want to see us leave, the Iraqi forces should easily keep the peace. This is the likely result if we are only dealing with disgruntled citizens armed with whatever they can find who view themselves as patriots.



However, if they are Baathists, radical Islamists or followers of some other ideology or ideologue, nothing will change. While that may not seem like progress, it will at least confirm that we are still fighting a true shooting war.

That might be all American forces need to be unleashed and let the real hunt begin.

Regardless of the Ramadi outcome, the citizens of this nation need to act less like the Vietnam protesters and more like the "Greatest Generation," not only in regards to Iraq but to the entire war on terror.



Make no mistake, we are in a real war, one with no end in sight. The sooner the American people act as resilient as we claimed we were after Sept. 11, the sooner we can get around to winning this war.

Andrew is a junior in print journalism and political science. You can e-mail him at lawson@k-state.edu.

Illustrations by Jeff Yeung | COLLEGIAN

Thanksgiving is time to eat turkey, not tofu

GRANT REICHERT

Are you ready to give thanks pilgrim-style and party like it's 1621?

Bring on the turkey and don't stop eating until your heart's pumping gravy and you become more bird than man. Then it's, "Bring on the pumpkin pie, baby."

I'll stop when my heart does.

Thanksgiving, a holiday created by pilgrims to celebrate the discovery that turkey tastes better than Indians, has evolved into a holiday celebrating the many health benefits of gluttony, my second favorite of the seven deadly sins, just after VH1.

Of course, not everyone likes Thanksgiving as much as I do. Karin Robertson, a staff member of People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals – motto: if it tastes good, you shouldn't be eating it – recently changed her name to "Goveg.com." Um, yeah, she's not exactly a turkey fan.

PETA – motto: feeding kids meat is child abuse – has spoken out against the wholesale genocide of turkeys. Many Indian groups, though, have come out and said they like it better than the alternative.

This assessment by PETA – motto: get your pets neutered, it didn't hurt Clay Aiken – is pretty hypocritical. Have you seen what these guys advocate doing to tofu? Monstrous!

I mean, I like tofu as much as the next guy – that is, not at all – but advocating its use on Thanksgiving is like advocating going on vacation to Lincoln, Neb. That's right, Nebraska.

PETA is pretty happy with President Bush, though. Bush, exercising the immense power and gravity of his office, will pardon two turkeys from their unfair captivity and likely death sentences. Meanwhile, detainees at Guantanamo Bay look at the American legal system with awe.

I, on the other hand, am looking to maximize my cruelty towards animals. I can't wait to get back home, kick the ol' dog – it's OK, I'm just joking – punt the ol' cat – it's OK, it's just a cat – and eat some Turducken.

Ah, yes, Turducken. The holy trinity of turkey, duck and chicken. Turducken is hailed by International Federation of Competitive Eating Chairman George Shea as "the first real advancement in Thanksgiving in the nearly 400 years since the pilgrims sat down for dinner with the Indians in Plymouth."

Since it has been scientifically proven that being cruel to animals is fun, the turkeys, ducks and chickens in Turducken are randomly slapped around and made to watch "The Matrix Revolutions" repeatedly. For quality purposes, of course.

Whether you eat Turducken, turkey or tofu, just remember to eat something – unless it's tofu – and in copious amounts.

After the holiday, when your electric scale refuses to reveal your actual weight for fear of retribution, you will know you've done your part for ending world hunger. Now it's up to those slackers in Third World nations to hold up their end of the deal.

Really, I'm being facetious. Thanksgiving is about so much more than just food. Thanksgiving is about reuniting with family and friends to help remind us how thankful we should be that we only have to reunite with family and friends a few times a year.

Just like this column, before you know it, Thanksgiving will be over, and we will begin to ready ourselves for Christmas – where you will have to do your part to end world poverty.

Be the first in your house to usher in the Christmas spirit by saying after Thanksgiving dinner, "I think I'm going to go give birth to a Yule log the size of a miniature reindeer."

Then, get ready to celebrate Christmas Jesus-style and party like it's 0.

Grant Reichert is a freshman in open-option. You can e-mail him at grantreich@hotmail.com.

CAMPUS FOURUM | 395-4444

It's nice to see an article like Jesse Loewen's from Monday, especially in the same paper that runs things about underwear models and the Classy Cats, who aren't all that classy.

I just saw Wes Marfield piss on Memorial Stadium. Now that's sports coverage.

Isn't it scary that a doctor's profession is called a practice?

I have a Fourum fetish.

Sour apple Laffy Taffy tastes like the lettuce on the Kramer salad bar.

My friend is a Fourum fanatic.

Make our generation the last — abort your babies.

Hey, Nasrina, there's a difference between not liking football and being ignorant. Crawl out of your hole and grow up.

Alex Gonzalez and Alex Rodriguez are two different people.

More American soldiers have now been killed in Iraq than died in the first three years of the Vietnam War, which Bush and Cheney managed to avoid, by the way.

Don't you just love it when your hat, scarf and mittens match your flipflops?

I really like an occasional anti-liberal rant. After all, it helps to offset the Collegian's perpetual anti-conservative rant.

When my roommate asked me if I was ready for the calc test tonight, I told him, "Yes, I've been stretching out my bum all week."

Does anybody else find it funny that the entire football team got crabs at their victory dinner tonight? I do.

Time flies ... when you're procrastinating.

Here's my new pick-up line: If you were a booger, I'd pick you first.

I just want to say that the volleyball game I went to last Saturday was 10 times more fun than any other football game I've been to. Way to go, girls.

Not enough Fourum? For the full version, check out www.kstatecollegian.com.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

KSU should protect students from credit card debt

Editor,

There is a serious problem facing collegiate students across the country at every university's campus.

Current figures show 83 percent of college students graduate with credit card debt.

At a university such as K-State, with a population reaching 23,000 students, more than 19,000 will be in debt before their first paycheck.

K-State's current policy protects students from credit card solicitation on campus one week prior to and two weeks following the first day of classes, and one week before finals.

This policy is ineffective and offensive.

A university setting forth to foster student growth should not allow its students to be pressured into signing up for credit cards using free giveaways or any other method. Students should research their options and not be bombarded on campus into signing up for a credit card they know nothing about.

The K-State community should come together to protect itself from having its own members violated. By banning credit card solicitation on campus, this community of students and faculty can help protect itself from falling victim to these staggering statistics.

If just a few students can be protected from obtaining an unneeded credit card and starting their life debt-free, we have succeeded in making a difference.

Mark Davis
SENIOR IN MARKETING

Petition signatures

- Ted Sims, junior in marketing
- Kari Presley, senior in marketing
- Sarah Bono, senior in management
- Abby Graverson, senior in marketing
- Laura Adams, junior in marketing
- Lindsey Runge, junior in business administration
- Tara Hanney, junior in mass communications
- Matthew Busby, junior in business administration
- Aaron Timm, junior in business administration
- Andrea Letch, senior in marketing
- Landon Grams, junior in horticulture
- Susan Burris, senior in finance
- Ryan Potter, junior in finance
- Erika Sauerwein, senior in mass communications

Hotel should have unique architectural style

Editor,

I thank you for bringing up the subject of the proposed hotel that the university is thinking of building. The last thing we need on that corner is a hotel with its back facing the street, looking like it was built in the early 1900s.

K-State should embrace the community, and a four-story building facing away from 17th Street and Anderson Avenue will not promote this. This building would give the community the feeling the university doesn't care about them and is just focused on itself.

K-State needs Manhattan, and Manhattan needs K-State. Without each other, both will fall into ruin.

K-State needs Manhattan, and Manhattan needs K-State. Without each other, both will fall into ruin.

If this hotel and garage is built, the plan now is to have it look like the Alumni Center and the Hale Library addition, denying us all the dignity of knowing in what time period this building was built.

Architecture is an expression of the times, and only buildings that follow this can become great architecture. The Parthenon, the Eiffel Tower, Fallingwater – all of these were representative of their own time, not another.

Once you deny a building its place in history, you deny it any integrity it might have otherwise had.

So, my peers, I urge you to take into consideration the effects this hotel will have on the campus and community. Don't let any more garbage onto this campus.

Sam Loring
THIRD-YEAR ARCHITECTURE STUDENT

Bush treats international politics as game to win

Editor,

A couple of years ago, it seemed almost laughable that an American president could be so inarticulate as to rely on the comic book jargon of "Evildoers."

I almost expected to see news footage of Bush running around the White House, arms extended before him, a red cape trailing in the wind, leaping enthusiastically as he ran. Almost laughable.

The sad truth is, this man is in a position to affect billions of lives, and when he courageously taunted the terrorists to "bring it on" from the safety of Washington, many of us knew there was just going to be more bloodshed.

Now, as if his handlers haven't told him to shut up enough, he tells the world, "They (evildoers) want to seek revenge for getting whipped in Afghanistan."

It's like an arrogant athlete telling the losing team they got whipped.

It's only confrontational language used to shame, but when an opponent hears "whipped," he often fights back harder. Sometimes, he even wins the next game.

It's too bad that in this game lives are being lost, lives of soldiers whose fathers didn't get them jobs in Texas, far away from war.

Back during the time of the last presidential election, there was great debate over whether a president actually needed to be really smart. Bush, unfortunately, has answered that question all too clearly, and it's not laughable, not even almost.

People are still dying. Bush is still stupid.

Stone Lamb
MANHATTAN

Give us your opinion. Campus Fourum: 395-4444

The Wait is over! Your 2003 Royal Purple is here Pick it up! 103 Kedzie 8am-5pm

THE PURPLE PIG EST 1986
Purple Pig
$1.50 Bud & Bud Light Bottles
30¢ Wings
Tonight 6:30 TCU vs. South Miss
Replay KSU vs. Nebraska 6:30 pm
Kickoff Night With ESPN

We deliver for FREE the latest!
Checks add 50¢
GUMBY'S Pizza & Pub
Call now! 770-3333
702 N. 11th Street
Sunday 10:30 a.m. - 2 a.m.
Mon. - Wed. 10:30 a.m. - 2:30 a.m.
Thurs. - Sat. 10:30 a.m. - 3:30 a.m.
Monday mania $3.99
•LARGE CHEESE PIZZA • MONDAY ONLY • CARRY OUT ONLY • TOPPINGS EXTRA•
BUY ONE POKEY STICK AT REGULAR PRICE GET ONE EQUAL OR LESSER VALUE FREE
stick it to me Tuesday
DINE IN/CARRY OUT OR DELIVERY • TUESDAY
Rock N Roll wednesday
50¢ Pepperoni Rolls/ pizza sauce/ ranch extra + tax.
$5.00 MINIMUM DELIVERY
DELIVERY•DINE-IN•CARRY-OUT
Must mention coupon when ordering Not valid w/ any other special
THURSDAY Mania
XL-16" Cheese Pizza $5.99
DINE-IN • CARRY OUT • DELIVERY
BONUS BUY Add on to any regular order
10 Stix $2.99 12 Stix $5.99
10" cheese $3.99 4 Pizza Rolls $3.99
10 wings $3.99 2 Liter Pepsi $1.59
PAPA KISS MY BIG ASS SPECIAL
20" TOPPINGS EXTRA Cheese Pizza
Limited Time!!
ONLY $9.99 OR GET TWO FOR $18.99
THE DIRTY JOHN
One 14" One Topping Pizza, 2 Liter of Pepsi, PLUS Free Bread Sticks (NOT POKEY STIX)
Limited Time!! ONLY $10.99

20% OFF ALL K-STATE APPAREL
SALE HOURS
Friday 8:30 - 8pm
Saturday 8:30 - 5:30pm
Sunday noon - 5pm
Ballard's SPORTING GOODS located in aggieville

SAFE RIDE
Every Weekend! Thursday, Friday, and Saturday
11:00 p.m. - 3:00 a.m.
A free service provided by the K-State Student Governing Association
Call:
539-0480

WILDCAT WEEKEND
FOR TICKETS: 1-800-221-CATS
WOMEN'S BASKETBALL FRI. NOV. 21 6:00 P.M. BRAMLAGE
2 for 1 Use your Women's ticket to get into the Men's game!
MEN'S BASKETBALL FRI. NOV. 21 8:30 P.M. BRAMLAGE
2 for 1 Use your Men's ticket to get into the Women's game!
VOLLEYBALL SAT. NOV. 22 2:00 P.M. AHEARN
FOOTBALL SAT. NOV. 22 6:00 P.M. KSU STADIUM

K-State serves Oklahoma a 3-0 defeat

By Wes Marfield
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

One down, one to go.

With a 3-0 victory over Oklahoma on Wednesday, No. 5 K-State (26-3, 16-1) needs just one more victory to clinch its first Big 12 Conference title.

With the win, the Cats also set a school record with their 14th-consecutive win, surpassing the previous mark of 13 in a row last season.

Leading the way for the Cats were Gabby Guerre and Lisa Martin, who each tallied nine kills. Guerre also hit a career high .818 and racked up 35 assists.

Lauren Goehring added seven kills, while Sandy Werner and Cari Jensen each added six. But it was the play of the middles, Coach Suzie Fritz said, that made the difference in the match.

If you go
K-State vs. Texas Tech
When: 2 p.m. Saturday
Where: Ahearn Field House

"Our middles played very, very well," Fritz said. "All three of them combined hit over .480, and we were able to get a lot of people in the match. Cari hit over .500, and Laura (Downey-Wallace) and Kris (Jensen) passed very well."

Coming out strong in the opening game, K-State was able to take a quick 10-4 lead. After increasing the lead to 23-11, the Cats scored seven of the last 11 points to win the first game 30-15.

Game two was tighter, as the Sooners were able to hang with K-State early, only trailing 13-10. But after a 3-0 K-State run, the Cats never trailed by fewer than four and took the second game 30-22.

Oklahoma jumped out to an early lead in game three before consecutive kills by Martin evened the two teams at five.

Tied at 16, two quick K-State blocks gave the Cats an 18-16 lead, and they never looked back, taking the game 30-24 to secure the victory.

See VOLLEYBALL Page 7

Finding a calling

Sports radio personalities choose career, passion

By Scot Gammill
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Some people are fortunate enough to find their calling.

For Wyatt Thompson, Voice of the Wildcats, his calling involves calling K-State athletics.

He is one of several local radio personalities who cover Wildcat football, basketball and baseball, parlaying a passion for sports into a career.

"I grew up in the area and always loved sports and always knew I wanted to do something in that field," Thompson said. "When I got the chance to do Wildcat football, I jumped on it."

Thompson didn't start out at K-State, though. He's had to work his way up at the Mid-America Sports Network.

Thompson started out at KLOE-FM, a small radio station in Goodland, Kan., after graduating from K-State.

"At KLOE we got a chance to do everything," Thompson said.

See RADIO Page 7

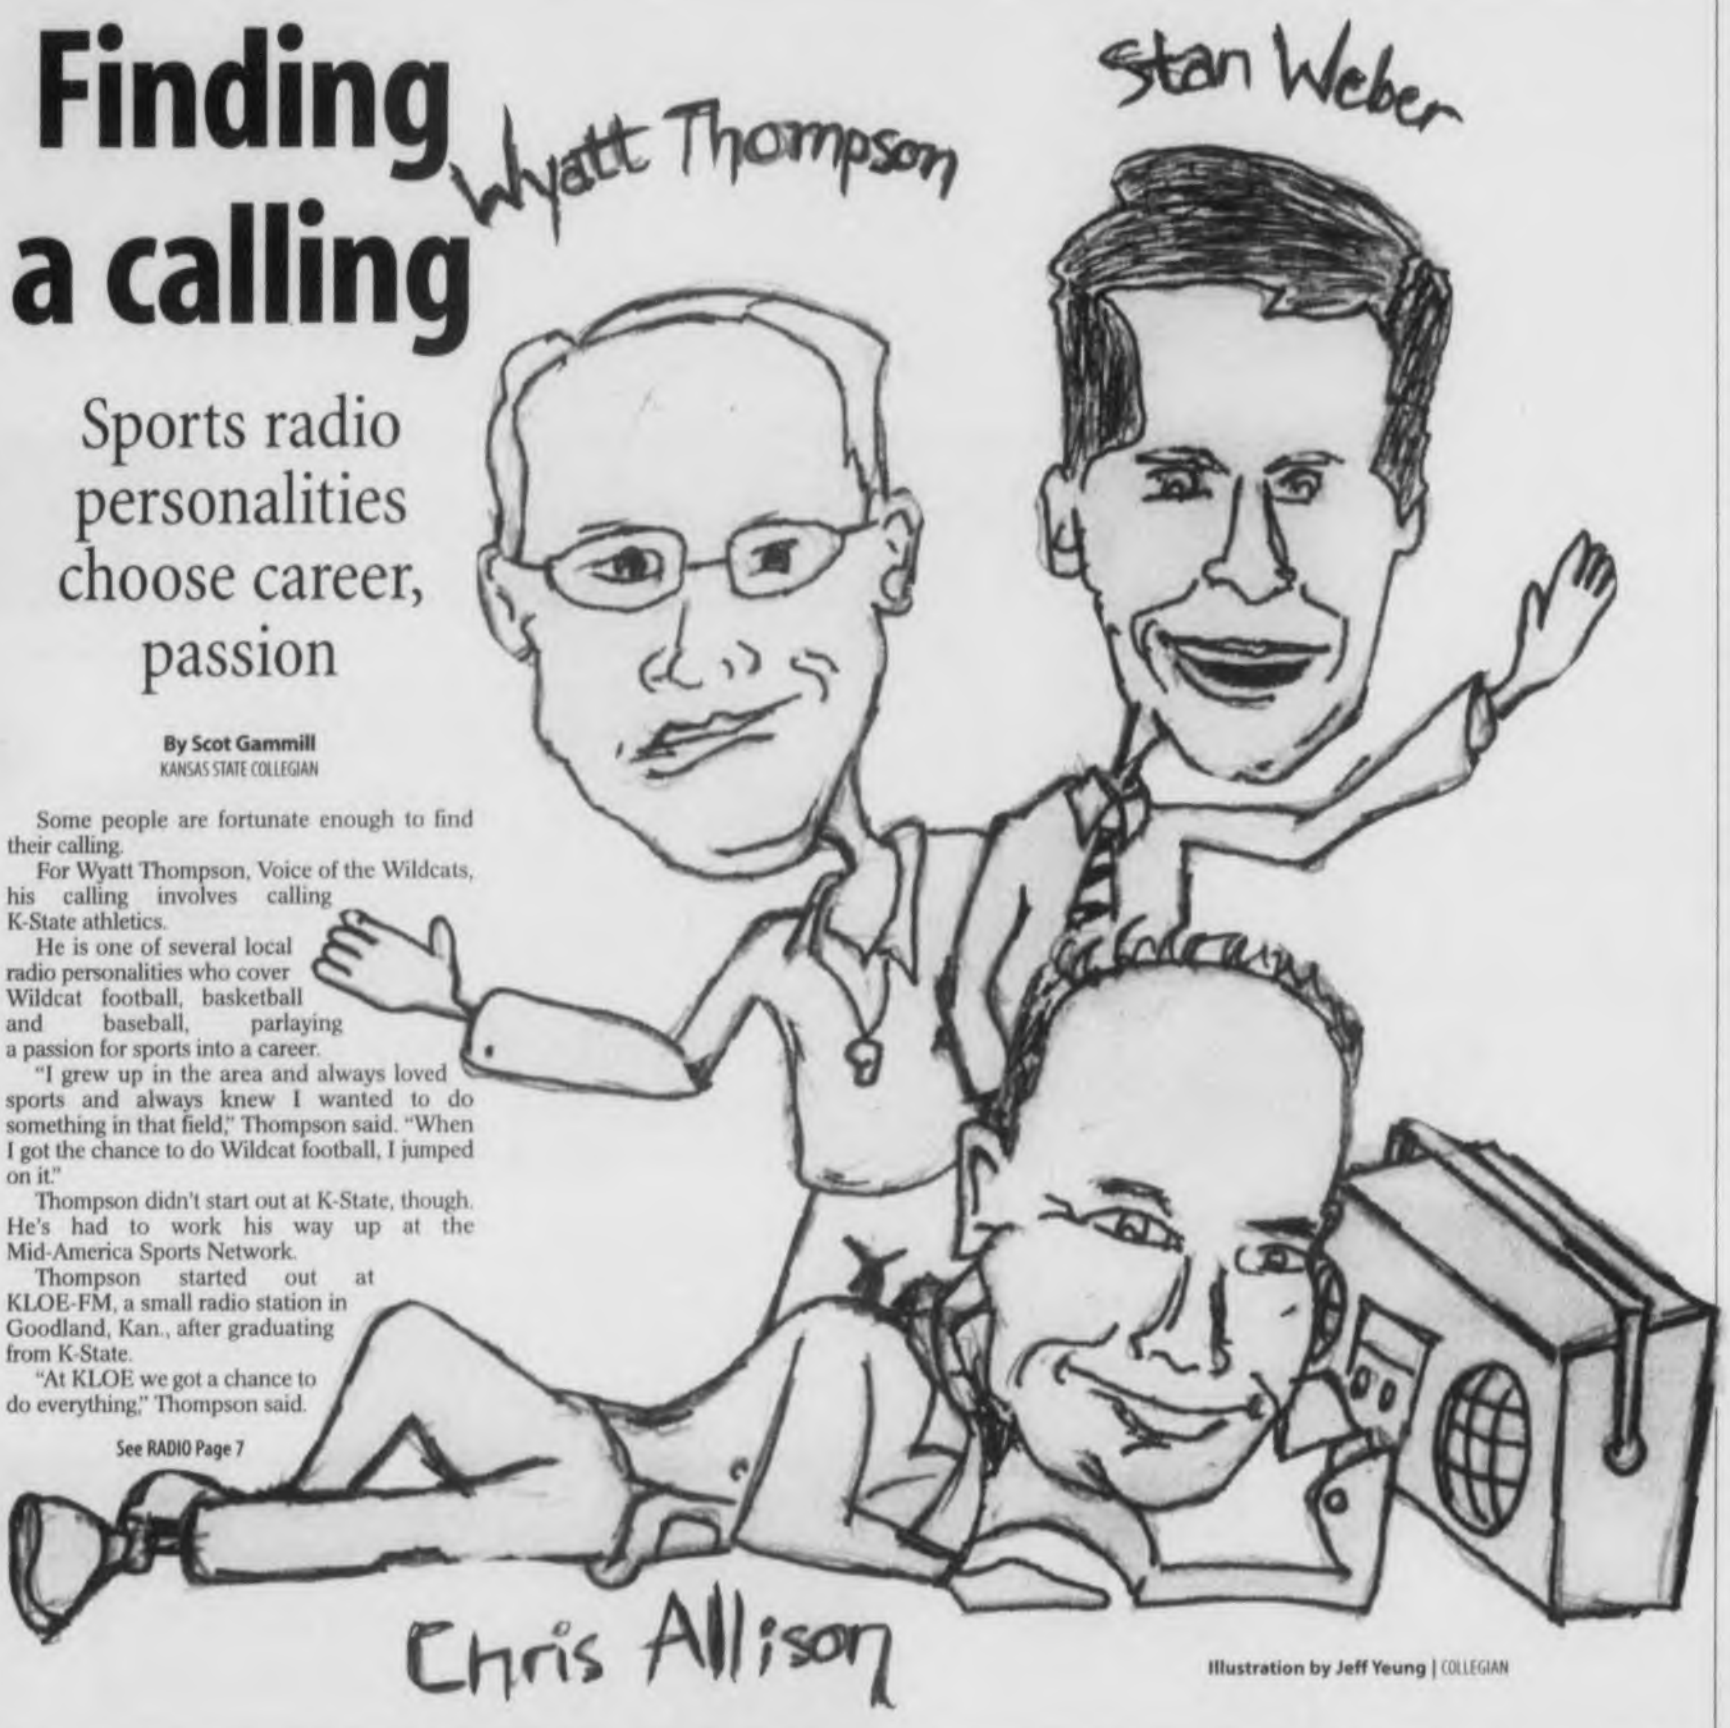


Illustration by Jeff Yeung | COLLEGIAN

Husker fans show class despite attitude of Nebraska's coach

JOEL REICHENBERGER

Zach Long | COLLEGIAN
K-State's Darren Sproles breaks loose for a big gain against Nebraska during the Wildcats' win over the Huskers on Saturday in Lincoln, Neb.

K-State won in Lincoln for the first time in 35 years, and I was on hand to watch the game.

Afterwards, two things took me by surprise, though.

The first was the extreme hospitality of the Nebraska fans. Even after their team had been slaughtered, they were friendly, complimentary and fun to be around.

The second was the disgusting attack by Nebraska defensive coordinator Bo Pelini on Coach Bill Snyder.

Pelini's claim that K-State ran up the score is absolutely ludicrous. Snyder attempted to do no such thing, and to have a Nebraska coach throw those words around is an embarrassment to the program and the state.

The alleged "running up" came late in the fourth quarter, when K-State had a 31-9 lead. With less than two minutes to play in the fourth quarter, Darren Sproles squirted around the right side of the famed Husker Blackshirt defensive line, through the proud Nebraska secondary and down to the Nebraska six yard line – all on the sacred ground of the Cornhuskers.

One play later, battle tank Ayo Saba burst into the end zone, setting the final score at 38-9.

Pelini said the use of K-State starters and the Cats' scoring of the touchdown were uncalled for. He claimed he had substituted his senior walk-ons into the game and that the game essentially was over.

A Nebraska coach cried about running up the score?

See COLUMN Page 7

Student trainers balance school, work

Trainers' assistance ensures athletes give 100 percent effort on the field

By Matthew Girard
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

She is one of the first on the field and one of the last off the field every day during football season. She is the eyes and ears of the K-State medical staff.

Her name is Laura Schnettgoecke, senior in kinesiology and athletic training and a student trainer for the Wildcats.

A community college transfer from Johnson County, she has been a student trainer since her junior year. In her first year at K-State, she was a trainer for the K-State rowing teams and this year, the football team.

Schnettgoecke's days are spent in the classroom, the training room and on the practice field. She has been with the team since two-a-days began and has become one of the many members of the K-State football family.

"It is a lot of time, but I feel like I have 100 more friends and am a part of a big family," Schnettgoecke said.

When she was choosing a major, Schnettgoecke was looking for one that would involve sports and in which she could help people.

While in the training room, she helps players out with everything from taping joints to stretching and, sometimes, acts as a masseuse.

Before practice begins, she and the other trainers go out and get the field ready for the day's workouts. They make sure there is enough water for the players and coaches and anything the head trainers might need to deal with injuries.

During practice, Schnettgoecke said the main job for the student trainers is to keep the players hydrated and to be the eyes and ears for the head trainers.

"There are 10 student trainers assigned to each group – linebackers, offensive line, running backs, et cetera. Then, during practice, we make sure they have enough water and make sure they are all right. If any injuries come up we let the head trainers know," Schnettgoecke said.

See TRAINERS Page 7

1-MINUTE DRILL

Staff Reports

Football | Sproles on list of Doak Walker semifinalists

Junior running back Darren Sproles was named one of eight semifinalists for the 2003 Doak Walker Award, the SMU Athletic Forum Board of Directors announced Wednesday. The annual award recognizes the nation's top running back.

Sproles

The 144-member selection committee will cast their votes later this week to determine the 2003 award recipient. Three finalists will be named Dec. 1 and the award-winner will be announced on ESPN's Home Depot College Football Awards show Dec. 11.

The Associated Press

Big 12 | KU to retire Collison jersey next Tuesday

The University of Kansas will retire basketball player Nick Collison's jersey next Tuesday at halftime of the Kansas-Michigan State game.

Collison

Collison was chosen 12th overall in the 2003 NBA draft by the Seattle Supersonics. In his senior year at Kansas, he was named NABC National Player of the Year, Big 12 Male Athlete of the Year, Big 12 Player of the Year and first-team All-American. Collison averaged 18.5 points and 10 rebounds per game.

Collison's jersey joins those of Clyde Lovellette, Danny Manning, B.H. Born, Charlie Black, Wilt Chamberlain, Paul Endacott and Ray Evans.

MLB | Former Royal Ibanez signs with Mariners

Free-agent outfielder Raul Ibanez signed a three-year contract with the Seattle Mariners, general manager Bill Bavasi announced Wednesday.

Ibanez spent the past two seasons in Kansas City, where he blossomed, hitting .294 both years. He drove in 103 runs in 2002 and 90 last season. He was last with Seattle in 1999 and 2000, but saw little playing time.

Soccer | 14-year-old Adu signs professional contract

Fourteen-year-old soccer phenom Freddie Adu agreed to a professional contract with D.C. United on Wednesday.

Adu, who left Ghana in 1997 and became a U.S. citizen in February, was introduced by Major League Soccer at Madison Square Garden. He was courted by several European teams but chose to join the MLS to stay in the United States and have the opportunity to play immediately.

Adu

MLS gave him a four-year contract with a two-year league option. While no details were disclosed, league officials say that for "special" players, there are marketing agreements that give them more than the maximum salary, $280,000. If he gets on the field with DC United next season, Adu would become the youngest player for a major American team since 1887.

Tennis | US leads Belgium in Fed Cup semifinals

Meghann Shaughnessy edged Kirsten Fipkens 9-7 in the third set, and Lisa Raymond overpowered Els Callens, giving the United States a 2-0 lead over Belgium in the Fed Cup semifinals Wednesday.

Neither team has its top players, with the U.S. squad missing Serena and Venus Williams, Lindsay Davenport, Jennifer Capriati and Monica Seles. The Belgians are without Justine Henin-Hardenne and Kim Clijsters, who are ranked Nos. 1 and 2.

MLB | World Series' youngest pitcher dies at 55

Ken Brett, brother of Hall of Famer George Brett and the youngest World Series pitcher in history, is dead after a long battle with brain cancer. He was 55.

Brett pitched 14 years in the major leagues, going 83-85 with a 3.93 ERA. He also hit .262 with 10 homers.

RADIO | Local personalities gain experience, thrive with KSU sports

Continued from Page 6

"I did everything from sports to farm reports. It was a great experience."

From Goodland, Thompson worked in other areas but made his name in Ft. Collins, Colo., where he spent more than 11 years working with Colorado State sports.

But when Thompson was offered the position at K-State, he couldn't pass up the opportunity.

"I love the history here. It's amazing to watch game day here and see how the fans are passionate about it," Thompson said. "I'm amazed by the consistency of the football program, and I enjoy everything about it."

Thompson's responsibilities include covering football, basketball and a few spring baseball games, as well as weekly radio and television shows.

"I feel very fortunate and love my work," Thompson said.

Another man who loves K-State sports is Manhattan Broadcasting Sports Director Brian Smoller.

Smoller, a 1998 K-State graduate, didn't start out in broadcasting, either. He was on a music scholarship at Washburn University before deciding it wasn't what he wanted to do.

"I started skipping school to watch sporting events, and I realized that I needed to find a new passion," Smoller said. "I actually knew Mitch Holthus and went to his sportscasting academy, and it was the biggest impact on me at the time."

Smoller started working at KSDB-FM 91.9 at K-State, and his senior year he started working at KMAN-AM 1350. After graduation, he was hired by Manhattan Broadcasting.

Smoller now is in charge of covering K-State volleyball and baseball, as well as high school football and basketball.

"I do play-by-play for four sports, and, coming right out of college, that's never really been done. I'm the only guy in Kansas who's won an award in four different sports for play-by-play," Smoller said. "I like it, being able to do those four sports and being able to be versatile."

As well as covering those sports, Smoller does Powercat Gameday, a four-hour pre-game show for football before Thompson and colleagues Stan Weber and Chris Allison take over the game.

"I love being able to do all this stuff because I hope to one day do college sports, and doing this stuff right now allows me to get experience," Smoller said.

To prepare for their work, Thompson and Smoller spend a good portion of their week looking up stats and doing background research.

"I sit through a lot of material and usually talk to a couple guys that cover the opposing team so I can understand what they're thinking before the game," Thompson said. "It's a weeklong process, and you really have to familiarize yourself with names, numbers and stats."

While time is demanding and the job isn't easy, Thompson said it still pays off. Doing what you love, he said, is worth getting into the profession.

"If you are interested in doing this as a job, I'd say now is as good a time as any," Thompson said. "It really is a great profession, and if you are interested, than I suggest talking to someone in the field and see if it's for you."

VOLLEYBALL | Bench players see court time, prove team's depth

Continued from Page 6

Fritz said she was able to rotate in players who don't see a lot of floor time in the victory, adding that her team remains competitive because of those who don't see a lot of action.

"We were able to create a very competitive environment in practice because of the depth of our team," Fritz said.

"We have several people: Katie (Stenzel), Michaela (Franklin) and Joy (Hamlin) who are very capable of opportunities when we can work them in."

Overall, Fritz said she was glad to leave Norman with a win, emphasizing that she was glad to see her team remain competitive after an emotional win over Nebraska on Saturday.

"Collectively, we played very well and were able to get lots of people in the match and the level of play didn't deteriorate," Fritz said.

"It was a nice win."

COLUMN | Wildcat athletes, unlike Huskers, don't give up late

Continued from Page 6

Snyder gets yelled at by a coach from a program that whipped his team 39-3 in 1996, 45-8 in 1990, 58-7 in 1989?

But, this was different – the Huskers already had given up.

Hey, Bo, next time you give up, you might want to remind Darren Sproles. You see, there's something about him that you didn't realize.

Sproles doesn't pay much attention to his surroundings at football games. He likely didn't care if it was first-and-10 or fourth-and-50 – he will run like a jackrabbit on heroin.

You see, Bo, unlike the Blackshirts, Sproles doesn't quit.

He's the Energizer Bunny from Cornhusker hell.

Plus, if Bo and the Huskers didn't want Sproles to run for 40 yards with less than two minutes in the game, why didn't they tackle him? He was right there. He ran right past most of the Nebraska defense – some twice.

Best, this is the second year in a row Nebraska has cried about the score being run up. In 2002, a very similar string of events – a late Sproles run for a touchdown – led a Nebraska reporter to quiz Snyder about the score after the game.

Snyder didn't give a crap what the reporter thought, and he didn't give a crap what Pelini thought, either.

Cries of running up the score are signs of weakness. It's a sign that the Huskers can't hang with the Cats anymore.

I met some great Nebraska fans at the game. I wish the Cornhusker coaching staff could do them justice.

Joel is a senior in journalism and history. You can e-mail him at pilotksu@hotmail.com.

TRAINERS | Students form close bond with K-State athletes

Continued from Page 6

Although they are the first to encounter any injuries, student trainers report to head trainer Jeff Ferguson or assistant trainer Brian Stock.

"We usually don't treat the players, but Brian and Jeff are great about letting us learn about what is going on," Schnettgoecke said. "Seeing an actual injury is better than looking at a picture in a book."

Women's basketball Coach Deb Patterson praised Ferguson for helping the student trainers.

"I have to give credit to Ferguson for the quality of student trainers we've had," she said.

Spending as much time as she does with the players, coaches and other student trainers, Schnettgoecke said she has made some very good friends.

"Spending seven hours a day with all the guys, I have gotten to know them pretty well and we have a good student training staff that supports each other," she said.

Even though the trainers and players forge friendships, and in light of the Peyton Manning scandal involving lewd behavior toward a female student trainer, Schnettgoecke said she knows where the line is drawn between players and trainers.

"We have to keep in mind we are a part of the staff and we can't be their friends all the time," Schnettgoecke said. "All the trainers here are responsible, have good heads on their shoulders."

Schnettgoecke's first goal after graduating is to become certified and try to get an internship with either a major league team or the U.S. Olympic team.

"There are so many different settings that I could go into. I just want to go out and see what my options are," she said. "I just really like helping people."

dependable, quality service
✓color copies
Claflin Books and Copies

PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS
1800 Claflin Road
776-5577
We Deliver During Lunch!

Ramblers
STEAK HOUSE & SALOON
Thursday Night Specials
12 oz. USDA Choice Top Sirloin
Choice of potato, salad and dinner roll
all for $8.45 + tax
or
"The Couples Special"
2 complete dinners for only $15.99 + tax
8711 E. Hwy. 24 539-4989

THE SHUT DOWN
NOV. 22 HOLIDAY INN
DJ CAM
10-4AM
$1000 ON THE BAR
18 to enter, 21 to drink
LADIES DRINK FREE
$5 ADMISSION
SPONSORS 2003
AGGIE HAIR SHAPERS
DICK EDWARDS
HONORE MAN PROMOTIONS

Look your best this holiday season!
Get rid of the damage this summer did to your face.
Microderm Abrasions
Glycolic Peels • Blue Peel
Enhance your appearance
Botox • Collagen
Skin care products available only through a physician
10% off with valid Student ID
Don't forget Holiday Gift Certificates are a perfect gift idea for those that have everything!
The Plastic Surgery Clinic, PA
Dr. Kenneth A Fischer
1133 College Ave., Bldg A Ste. 211
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785) 776.7500

TASTE ONE TO KNOW ONE.
Chipotle
GOURMET BURRITOS & TACOS.
IN AGGIEVILLE

As an engineer in the U.S. Air Force, there's no telling what you'll work on.
(Seriously, we can't tell you.)
United States Air Force applied technology is years ahead of what you'll touch in the private sector, and as a new engineer you'll likely be involved at the ground level of new and sometimes classified developments. You'll begin leading and managing within this highly respected group from day one. Find out what's waiting behind the scenes for you in the Air Force today. To request more information, call 1-800-423-USAF or log on to airforce.com.
U.S. AIR FORCE
CROSS INTO THE BLUE

Go the distance

People must smoke at least 30 feet from building entrances, according to university manual

By Amy Lundine
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The clean fall breeze blows refreshingly onto the residence hall front porch until it is suddenly interrupted by a smoker puffing into the air nearby.

Is there no rule to prevent people from smoking so close to the doors of a building?

The KSU Policies and Procedures manual states that smoking is prohibited within 30 feet of marked entrances to university buildings. This includes main entrances, all ADA accessible entrances and entrances that can affect the air quality inside that building.

The smoking policy was put into place Aug. 15, 2002.

Judging by the nightly smokers filling the steps of the residence halls, the 30-feet smoking rule does not seem to be enforced.

"It's not really enforced as well as I think some people wish it would be," said Lindy Wagner, assistant residence life coordinator for West Hall. "But because there isn't really anyone who is responsible to regulate it, there isn't really much regulation on it."

The manual states smoking in these areas results in a fine of $20, and the building authority is responsible for enforcing compliance.

"I think we enforce it. We ask them to move away if they're in that 30-foot range," said Jayme Uden, residence life coordinator for Moore Hall.

"We encourage the students to be community leaders, too, and ask their fellow residents to move away if it's bothering them, or come in and tell the front desk, and we will do it for them," Uden said.

Jack Connaughton, associate director of the K-State Student Union, said he hasn't had much trouble with people disregarding the smoking rule.

"If somebody is ever close to the union doors, our staff just politely asks them to move to where the smoking area is," Connaughton said.

He said the staff has never had to enforce the $20 fine.

Connaughton said that in addition to the smoking area in the front of the Union, there also is a designated smoking area on the east side of the Union set aside for smokers so that there is a larger area for smokers to socialize rather than just 30 feet away from the entrances.

Uden said he doesn't get complaints about people disregarding the smoking rule, either, but he said that when people are smoking too close to the front doors of Moore Hall, they also take action.

"I think we give warnings, and we do it nicely," Uden said. "We say we have this rule because it bothers certain people."

"If there is a habitual problem with one person, then we would probably put it toward the judicial board."

Although smoking near building entrances might appear to be a problem, Uden said that students had not reported it as so.

"I haven't had one complaint this year that has come to me," Uden said. "If we had complaints, then we'd take a harder stance and see who's doing it and get them to stop."

Methods for quitting smoking

Smoke Away

Price: $149.95 for complete set with money-back guarantee
Time: Takes seven days to quit, but should use for 30 days Includes:
- Formula 1- decreases withdrawal symptoms.
- Formula 2- helps resist temptation to smoke.
- Appetite Control- curtails urge to eat.
- Nu Lung- aids in rebuilding lungs.
- Stress Manager- helps with all aspects of quitting.
- Aromatherapy- removes desire to smoke.
- Homeopatic Medicine- minimizes withdrawal symptoms.
- Support Literature and CD.

Zyban
Price: $157.00
Time: Usually taken for six to 12 weeks

- Includes pills that curb nicotine cravings by affecting certain chemicals in the brain.
- Can be more effective when used with other methods.
- Can cause dry mouth, dizziness, skin rash and difficulty sleeping.

NiQuitin CQ Lozenges
Price: $15.26
Time: Use for up to 12 weeks

- Gives amounts of nicotine orally to help with nicotine cravings.
- Lasts for 20 to 30 minutes before dissolving.
- Can cause hiccups, heart burn, and nausea.

Nicostop Lollipops
Price: $20.00

- Not approved by the FDA- these are illegal.
- Could be addictive due to the amounts of nicotine in them.

Nicorette Gum
Price:$169.81

- When the urge to have a cigarette comes, chew the gum instead.
- Chew gum until flavor appears, then hold the gum against your cheek for 20 to 30 minutes.
- Avoid food and drink for 15 minutes before and after chewing the gum.
- Some may form a dependence on gum.

Nicoderm CQ patches

Price: $44.99
Time: Each patch lasts 16 to 24 hours; amounts of nicotine it releases get smaller as the weeks progress.
- Put the patch on the body to give nicotine in increments.
- Can cause insomnia or headaches.

Nicabate Inhaler
Price: $25

Time: Can be used for three months.
- Breathe in nicotine, but it is absorbed through the mouth.
- Mimics the action of holding a cigarette.
- Can cause coughing and throat irritation.
- Available by prescription only.

Nicorette Nasal Spray
Price: $32.68
Time: Can use up to 30 minutes each day for 12 weeks.
- Satisfies nicotine cravings.
- Can be addictive.
- It is possible to use more nicotine than is necessary.
- Side effects include possible sinus infections.
- Available by prescription only.

Other common methods
- Cold turkey - quitting cigarettes altogether.
- Fading - switching different brands each week, with each brand containing less nicotine than the previous brand.
- Tapering - smoking fewer and fewer cigarettes each week.

Note: The average person makes two to four attempts to quit smoking before stopping for good.
- If a person can stop smoking for three months, they usually can stop completely.
- Eighty percent of successful quitters use a self-help method, such as quitting cold turkey, fading or tapering.

— Compiled by Brenna Sandefur, design by Chelsea Schmidt

Manhattan businesses collect winter coats to benefit charity

By Kristi Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

There are people in the Manhattan area who aren't able to stay warm.

To assist these people, the Gold Fork Casual Food and Spirits restaurant is collecting coats. The Ramada Inn, the restaurant's partner, is doing the same.

Mike Tholen, assistant general manager of Gold Fork, said the restaurant wanted to give something back to the community.

"We have placed banners on buildings and have a few radio spots to publicize," he said. "Budweiser is close to us and is helping to make the banners."

The coats can be dropped off at the restaurant or at the hotel. The coats then will be taken to Dry Clean City, where they will be cleaned free of charge. The coats then will be distributed to Ogden Friendship House United Methodist Church.

Scott Boanka, co-owner of Dry Clean City, said that after being contacted by an employee's brother-in-law, they agreed to help with the coat drive.

"We have done this before for the Wamego coat drive and we will dry clean them for free to help out," he said.

How to Donate a coat

- Drop off coats at the restaurant, located at 1641 Anderson Ave.
- Coats will be dry-cleaned at Dry Clean City
- Coats are donated to the Ogden Friendship House United Methodist Church

John Rychlock, general manager of the Ramada Inn and the Gold Fork, said a group of managers and employees started the program this year.

"We first got some people to back us up and then found some organization that was in need of coats. The Friendship House was the first to call us back with an interest," he said.

A leather Budweiser jacket will be given away, Rychlock said.

Tholen said the restaurant is also giving away free appetizers.

The drive will end Nov. 30. Rychlock said the group already has emptied the box twice. He said he wasn't sure how many coats had been taken to the dry cleaner, but his estimate was 50.

"Some employees have added to the collection, but mostly outside patrons have donated to it," he said.

Sell your car.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
103 KEDZIE • 532-6555

GUMBY'S Pizza

SUNDAY
NFL FOOTBALL ON ALL TV'S
$2 Killian's Pints
$2.25 Rolling Rock Bottles

MONDAY
Monday Night Football w/ NEW 54" widescreen
GOLDEN TEE TOURNEY 9 PM
$1 Old Style Pints
$2.50 Amaretto Sours
$2.25 Shiner Bottles

DAILY
$1.50 OLD STYLE PINTS
$2 HIGH LIFE BOTTLES

TUESDAY
$2 Boulevard Wheat Pints
$2.25 Red Stripe Bottles
$2.50 SoCo & Lime Shots
- LOCAL LIVE MUSIC T.B.A. -

WEDNESDAY
POOL TOURNEY 9 PM
GUMBY'S PINT NIGHT
$3 Domestic Pints
$1.50 Refills- Keep the Glass!
$2 Wells
$2.25 Rolling Rock Bottles

THURSDAY
OPEN MIC 9 PM
$1.75 Michelob Family Pints
$3.75 Long Islands
$2.25 Bacardi Silver/O Bottles

FRIDAY
LIVE MUSIC - 10PM AUSTIN MEEK
$2.75 Gumby Juice
$2 Kami Shots
$2.25 Shiner Bottles

SATURDAY
COLLEGE FOOTBALL ON 7 TV'S
$2 Wells $2 Flavored Vodkas
$3.50 60 oz. Old Style Pitchers

Flu Shots
At Lafene Health Center
Avoid the flu bug....Get your flu shot now!
Thursdays
November 13 & 20
8:30 am—11:30 am
1:30 pm—4:30 pm
Check in at the Business Office,
1105 Sunset Avenue
(patient parking available near building)
Cost: $10—Students;
$12.50—Faculty/Staff
There is a required 20 minute wait after the injection.
Don't get sick... get a shot!
Influenza is preventable.

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY THEATRE AND DANCE AND DEPT. OF MUSIC PRESENT:
COMPANY
MUSIC AND LYRICS BY STEPHEN SONDHEIM
STORY BY GEORGE FURTH
NOVEMBER 20 AND 21, 8:00 P.M.
NOVEMBER 23, 4:00 P.M.
MCCAIN AUDITORIUM
TKTS: MCCAIN BOX OFFICE
NOON TO 5 P.M. PHONE: 532 6428
$13.00 GENERAL & $9.00 STUDENT/SENIOR
WWW.KSU.EDU/MCCAIN

do you feel a longing for more in your life?
IS GOD CALLING YOU?
do you radiate joy?
THE SISTERS OF ST. JOSEPH OF WICHITA
do you long to follow in the footsteps of Jesus?
Here's one way to help you find out.
Perhaps you're one of the rare women being called by God to follow in the footsteps of Jesus. But you're wondering, "how can I truly know if I've been called?" This free CD-ROM from the Sisters of St. Joseph may help you find out. To request yours, visit www.csjwichita.org. or call our Vocation Director, Sr. Ann Letourneau, at 316-689-4030. You'll be eternally grateful you did.
does that pour out of your smile?

Premarital SEX

Photo illustration by Rachel Krier | COLLEGIAN

Couples make different decisions based on personal values

By Rachel Krier
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

To wait or not to wait: that is the question.

Jesse and Darcy Hale chose not to wait until they were married.

"Every couple is different – it's completely up to them. Some care and some don't," Jesse, senior in mechanical engineering, said. "I'm a guy – I didn't really think about it much."

The Hales have been married for about three months and dated for four years prior. They both have been with other sexual partners previous to marriage, Jesse said.

Matt Diliberto and Amy Shearer have chosen to wait until they are married to have sex.

"It's not been easy, but it is not something I'm willing to compromise on," said Shearer, senior in life science and pre-nursing.

Diliberto, senior in landscape design, and Shearer have been dating for two years and still have more than a year until their marriage on Dec. 31, 2004.

They are both virgins, Shearer said.

Tony Jurich, professor of marriage and family therapy, said there are five levels of morality when it comes to premarital sex.

The traditional view promotes abstinence before marriage, and having sex equivocates getting married, Jurich said. The other side of the spectrum is the mentality known as fun morality, which is when people think "sex is an involved handshake," he said.

The double standard is the idea that it's acceptable for men to have premarital sex, but not for women, Jurich said. The concept of permissiveness with affection promotes the idea of sex equaling love, he said. Non-exploitive permissiveness is the viewpoint that premarital sex is acceptable as long as both partners are consenting and share the same feelings, he said.

As long as both members of a couple share the same viewpoint on premarital sex, it tends not to be a problem, Jurich said.

Jesse said this was the case with his marriage.

"We talked about it, but it wasn't an issue, really. I guess we just didn't care," Jesse said. "Not due to marriage, but due to if you love the person, it's totally different. There is absolutely no guilt involved, and you know exactly how the other person is feeling – it's fantastic. There's no BS."

"Once you settle down with one person, things change. My mentality has changed. Once you love someone, it's a totally different ball game — it's about pleasing two people instead of just yourself."

Jesse Hale
SENIOR, MECHANICAL ENGINEERING

Jesse said he does not regret having sex with other people or before marriage.

Jurich said it's very important to talk to your partner in an open, honest and non-threatening way.

"If there is going to be a problem, you need to do something about it now," Jurich said. "Don't stew about it. You need to be able to let each other know how they are feeling without trashing the other person's values."

Deb Kluttz, assistant pastor of women's ministry and director of counseling at Westview Christian Church, said they also try to help engaged and nearly married couples to foresee potential problem areas in their relationship. She said being sexually involved can blind people to other aspects of their relationship.

"A lot of times, when a couple is sexually involved, that becomes the focus," Kluttz said. "They don't talk as much and work through things. Really knowing each other in all the arenas of their person, emotionally, spiritually, socially and mentally."

Kluttz said she also believes having sex outside of marriage is Scriptually wrong.

"When God says no to us, He does it to protect or provide for us," Kluttz said. "Taking things into your own hands and doing whatever you want, it has a price tag.

"I don't understand why people who have no sexual restraints prior to marriage, why they think they can change their old habits and pattern of thinking after they're married."

Jesse said things definitely changed for him after he knew he would marry Darcy.

"Once you settle down with one person, things change," Jesse said. "My mentality has changed. Once you love someone, it's a totally different ball game – it's about pleasing two people instead of just yourself.

"Now if I were to look back, I'd say, 'yeah, that was stupid.' But then, it was just about having fun."

Jurich said any research about premarital sex and its effects on relationships is inconclusive. He said the research most often is done by people with an agenda and it lacks objectivity. However, he said he can verify that it is an issue for which some couples need counseling.

"Right, wrong or otherwise, the fact is there are times we can get twitchy about our spouse or significant other and their past sexual relations," Jurich said.

Jurich said he sees more couples needing relationship therapy when the woman has had sex before but the man hasn't. He said it is the whole double standard concept that is prevalent in our society. He said men might feel very threatened by or insecure about their partner's past sexual relations.

"They need to ask the question, 'how important is it that we hold the values that we hold?'" Jurich said.

Jurich said it's important that couples find internal congruency, meaning a mutual understanding, and validate each others' feelings.

Diliberto and Shearer have found internal congruency and joy in their agreement to wait to have sex until marriage, Diliberto said.

"Sharing your bodies with another human being is more than just having a good time," Diliberto said. "You give a piece of yourself away, and I wanted to be whole for my future wife."

IN BRIEF

The Associated Press

Oprah honored for service

Oprah Winfrey has received the Marian Anderson Award for her efforts helping minority students and families.

Winfrey

The award honoring artists and performers for their humanitarian efforts was presented Tuesday by Mayor John Street and musician Quincy Jones, a 2001 winner. Winfrey, 49, said she hopes to "light up the world."

The Chicago-based talk-show host has transformed her celebrity into activism by starting numerous charities including Oprah's Angel Network, which raises money from viewer and celebrity donations. The donations have been put toward scholarships and building homes for Habitat for Humanity, and the construction of 34 schools in 10 countries.

'Harry Potter' still rising

The five books in the "Harry Potter" series have collectively sold a quarter of a billion copies, author J.K. Rowling's agent said.

Rowling's stories chronicling the adventures of a boy wizard have been translated into 60 languages and sold around the world. She's working on the sixth installment and plans seven in all.

WEB REVIEWS

Online Dictionaries

dictionary.cambridge.org

What clicks
- Provides dictionary for people learning English, as well as dictionaries on idioms and phrasal verbs.
- Also offers French to English and Spanish to English dictionaries.
- Offers links to purchase any dictionary used on site.

What bytes
- Only searches in Cambridge dictionaries, but offers to look up word in alternative dictionaries.
- Mostly used for beginning English users or multiple language speakers, not good for advanced English vocabulary.

Bottom line
If English is your second language, this would be a good place to go for clear definitions of English words.

www.m-w.com

What clicks
- A Merriam-Webster site offering dictionary, thesaurus, unabridged dictionary, Encyclopedia Britannica and collegiate dictionary services.

What bytes
- Must become a member to access unabridged and collegiate dictionaries.
- The Encyclopedia Britannica service is $9.95 a month or $59.95 for a year of service.

Bottom line
Provides numerous resources, but to access them you will pay.

www.dictionary.com

What clicks
- Offers both dictionary and thesaurus services.
- Provides entries for word in at least four different dictionaries, and provides information about each source the definition is taken from.
- Has never not had a word I looked up.
- If spelled wrong, offers suggestions for the word you meant to say.

What bytes
- To see full definitions for some dictionaries, you must be a premium member.
- Does have the occasional annoying pop-up.

Bottom line
This site is your best bet for most comprehensive and free information.

Tiffany Miller | COLLEGIAN

Herr Metzger | Julian Narino www.herrmetzger.com

Puck | Kent Holle kentramone@yahoo.com

Jazz, blues musicians find outlet

By Kristi Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Every Thursday night, Cox Bros. BBQ features jazz and blues musicians.

To celebrate the restaurant's first year of this series, there will be a special presentation tonight.

The series was started a year ago by Greg Carroll, director of Education for the International Association for Jazz Education, and Dave Bailey, local blues musician. Bud and Bob Cox, owners of the restaurant, also were part of the initiating team.

Bud said the jazz and blues acts have been very successful because his customers seem to enjoy it.

"We were in need for good blues and jazz. It is a nice Aggieville alternative," he said.

Because the restaurant is located off Fort Riley Boulevard, Bud said he was in search of something no other institution in Manhattan had, and now he said he takes pride in how unique the jazz acts have become.

"This is something that no one else is doing," he said.

People from all over the U.S. play, he said, including renowned artists from New Orleans to Chicago.

The Big Blues and Jazz Session tonight features Lee McBee and the Confessors, Greg Carroll, Marvin Henry, Little Red Rooster, Back Porch Blues Band, Aaron Weisbender, Jimmy Lewin and the Kingtones, Betty O and Dave Bailey.

To create a jazz mood inside the restaurant, the Jeffro New Orleans Creole Platter will be featured.

"We have lots of blues and jazz posters. When it is not a Thursday night with jazz, we have Texas country music. The jazz theme really goes together with this," Bud said.

Dave Bailey books the bands for the jazz and blues performances.

"I lived in Chicago and came here in the summer to do a show for Bob and Bud. They really seemed to like the idea to play. When I moved back here to Manhattan last October, we decided to expand on it," Bailey said.

Because of Greg Carroll's busy schedule, he has moved to behind-the-scenes work, Bailey said.

"We later decided to bring in friends from all over the country. As they say, the rest is history. Lots of different people from all over the place celebrate jazz and blues music like we do," he said.

Bailey said he performs only occasionally but will be playing tonight for the anniversary. He said Wayne Goins, associate professor of music at K-State, sometimes plays guitar for his act. Goins was unavailable for tonight's activities.

Bailey said he has known Lee McBee and the Confessors for ten years. McBee is a Pacific Blues recording artist.

"He's not only my friend, but the guy is one of my biggest heroes," he said.

Bailey said he appreciates the support the acts have received over the past year and encourages more to join the performances tonight.

"I hope everyone comes out and enjoys the acts. We'd like to thank the community for their response and looking forward to beginning the next year of performances by some really great jazz acts," he said.

If you go
Big Blues and Jazz Session

Who: Featuring Lee McBee and the Confessors, Greg Carroll, Marvin Henry, Little Red Rooster, Back Porch Blues Band, Aaron Weisbender, Jimmy Lewin and the Kingtones, Betty O and Dave Bailey.
When: 7 tonight
Where: Cox Bros. BBQ, 600 S. Fourth St.
How much: $3 cover charge, plus cost of dinner

KSU Socialists have forum on 2004 election

By Kristi Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Once again, Kansas is not participating in a presidential primary.

The K-State Socialists have scheduled a forum for 8:30 tonight to discuss the issue.

Paul Youk, president of the K-State Socialists, said he has scheduled speakers and will moderate the forum.

"We have a set time for people to get basic viewpoints. Everyone should get a chance to speak," he said.

Youk will ask panel members questions, and each member will then have a chance to respond. The members of the panel are Youk, Ben Fenwick of the KSU Young Democrats and Jon Tveite of the Campus Greens.

"We were trying to get a member from the Ordinary Women organization, but it hasn't worked out," Youk, senior in sociology, said.

The forum is open to the public, but questions from the audience will come at the end of the forum.

The panel is focused on the 2004 primary election, but Youk said other discussions might arise.

Tveite, faculty adviser for the Campus Greens, said the forum discussion is difficult to decipher from the side of the Green party.

"It's a difficult situation for those who are on the left wing of the spectrum. We all agree George W. Bush is a danger to all human life, but we don't know how much we will support a democrat to beat him out of office," he said.

Ben Fenwick, vice president of Young Democrats, said he has been involved with a forum in the past, but this is his first time being asked questions on the panel.

Fenwick said he agreed that the main point of the forum tonight is how to deal with the 2004 presidential primary.

"Our main focus is whether liberal groups should join behind the Democrats and elect who they want to get Bush out of office," Fenwick, junior in political science, said.

The forum is a good opportunity to discuss the left view of elections, Fenwick said. He emphasized that the forum is a discussion. He said it is not meant to be a debate, but some arguments might begin.

"We want as many people to show up as possible, this is a very important decision that involves lots of people," Fenwick said.

If you go
K-State Socialist forum

Who: Open to anyone
When: 8:30 tonight
Where: Union 209
How much: Free

Father, baby sitter sentenced for death of 9-year-old Olathe boy

By Margaret Stafford
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

OLATHE, Kan. – The leader of a storefront church and a church member both were sentenced Wednesday to life in prison in the death of a 9-year-old boy who suffocated after being wrapped from head to toe in duct tape.

Neil Edgar Sr., 48, and Chasity Boyd, 20, were convicted in September of first-degree felony murder. They will be eligible for parole in 20 years under the sentence imposed in Johnson County District Court for the death last December of Edgar's adopted son, Brian.

Edgar and Boyd – who sometimes baby-sat Brian – also each received 32 months for each of two counts of abusing two other children in the Edgar family. Edgar's sentence is to be served consecutively with his life sentence, while Boyd's will run concurrently.

Attorneys for Edgar and Boyd said they would file appeals of the convictions on Thursday.

Edgar's wife, Christy, pleaded guilty to the same charges and is scheduled to be sentenced Dec. 4. During testimony at the trial of her husband and Boyd, witnesses portrayed her as a prophet who told members of the church that God told her they should discipline children by tying them up.

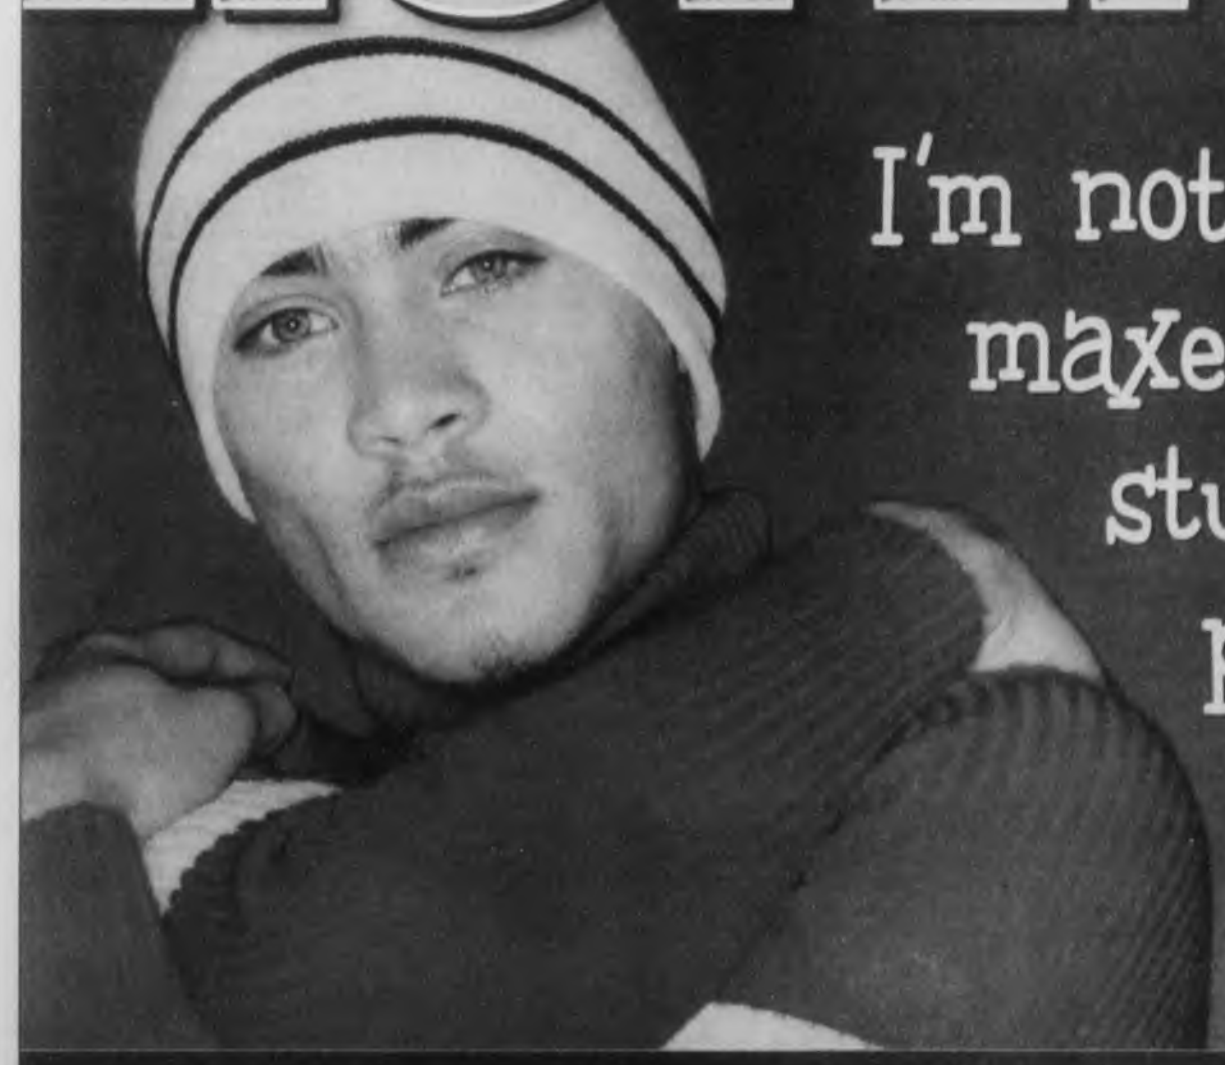
Edgar was pastor of God's Creation Outreach Ministry in Kansas City, Kan., but he said during the trial that his wife made every major decision for the church and their family, which included three other adopted children.

At Wednesday's sentencing hearing, Johnson County District Attorney Paul Morrison ridiculed that claim as "a bunch of malarkey," saying Neil and Christy Edgar had a long history of abusing children.

Morrison argued that even if Edgar did not directly participate in Brian's discipline, he allowed it to happen and helped those who carried it out. He told District Court Judge John Bennett that he could have called several more children during the trial who would have testified about being abused by the Edgars.

"Neil Edgar knows all about mistreating kids," Morrison said. "It is time for Mr. Neil Edgar to pay the piper."

Prosecutors said Christy Edgar and Boyd punished Brian last Dec. 29 for stealing food by wrapping him with duct tape. They left him overnight with only his nose uncovered, and he suffocated on his own vomit at the family's Overland Park home.



Edgar testified that on the night of Dec. 29 he saw Brian with tape around his ankles and arms, but didn't question it. Edgar's wife woke him the next morning and said Brian wasn't breathing. He rushed him to the University of Kansas Hospital, where the boy was pronounced dead.

Brian's 12-year-old brother and 9-year-old sister testified that they also were tied up, but both said they did not think there was anything wrong with being disciplined that way.

Edgar's attorney, Carl Cornwell, said Edgar did not participate in taping Brian's head and neck. He said one of his points of appeal would be that the judge should have instructed the jury that it could have found Edgar guilty of a lesser charge, such as criminal restraint.

Do you need:
• Great Pay?
• Sales Experience?
• Flexible Hours?
• Outgoing?
Are you• Self motivated?
Apply NOW to work on the Collegian Advertising Sales Staff Spring 2004
Deadline is Monday November 24th @ 4pm
Pick up/Turn in applications in Kedzie 103 or call 5326560 with any questions

LISTEN UP!

I'm not gonna be maxed out by my student loan payments.
Are you?
SallieMae
Nobody knows you more support™

That's why I'm consolidating my student loans with Sallie Mae after I leave school.

• Slash your monthly payments in half.
• Lock in the absolute lowest interest rates ever offered.
• Save even more by applying during your grace period.
• Pay off credit cards with the money you save each month.
• Cut your rates even more with Sallie Mae's borrower benefits.
• No application fee or credit check.

Log on to SMARTLOAN.COM or call 1-800-448-3533

SLM Corporation and its subsidiaries (other than the Student Loan Marketing Association) are not sponsored by or agencies of the United States of America. SC30

CLASSIFIEDS

LET'S RENT

105 For Rent- Apts. Furnished

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT available January 1. One block from campus. Water/ trash paid. Off-street parking. $330/ month. Call (785)539-5579.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

A LARGE two-bedroom apartment, close to campus. Available mid- December. (785)317-7713.

BRITTNAY RIDGE. Four-bedroom, study, two and one-half bath, town home. Washer/ dryer. 2519 Candlecrest, lease required. No pets. $1050. $1050 deposit. (785)537-9740.

FOR JANUARY 1. Nice large two-bedroom apartment. Gas, water, trash three-forths paid, laundromat. $480. (785)539-2482 or (785)539-9315 or cell phone (785)565-8116.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT, one block from campus for January- June. $325/ month. All utilities paid except phone and cable. Call (785)537-1416.

TWO OR three-bedrooms, spacious, close to campus, dishwasher, central air, laundry facilities, no pets. (785)539-0866.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE for a four-bedroom duplex. Washer/ dryer. Available January. Rent $275. Call Megan (785)539-8490.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for spring semester. Nice five-bedroom three bath house. Common rooms furnished. Washer/ dryer. $300 rent plus one-fifth utilities. (785)539-9887, (785)825-2937.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. Nice, fully furnished. Three-bedroom house 1.3 miles off campus, very clean, available immediately (785)317-0228.

ROOMS AVAILABLE in house close to campus. $220/ month plus share of utilities. Washer and dryer. Contact Jake at (785)539-4904. Located at 911 N. 11th St. Available starting December.

150 Sublease

FEMALE SUBLEASER for two-bedroom apartment. $210 plus one-half utilities. Washer/ dryer. (785)342-1294, (785)317-8400.

CAMPUS/ AGGIEVILLE-spring semester, two-bedroom, 1212 Bluemont. Trash/ water paid, laundry facility. $300/ each. January 1. Kelly or Karen (785)776-8980.

FOUR-BEDROOM, ONE and one-half bath, spacious, practically in Aggieville. $900/ month heating included. (four roommates- only $225 per person) (785)776-5102.

LOOKING FOR female subleaser for spring semester. Four-bedroom apartment. $240, plus one-fourth of bills. Water and trash paid, laundry facilities. Short walk to campus. Call Alicia at (786)539-9119.

ROOMS FOR rent, next to campus, one-bedroom apartment. Free washer/ dryer, central-air, parking. (785)537-7050.

SPACIOUS, CLEAN, one-bedroom apartment $380/ month includes extended cable, water, and trash. Must rent (785)325-9961 or (785)313-1097.

145 Roommate Wanted

ROOMMATE NEEDED, January- July. Huge 20X20 room. All amenities, four roommates needing the fifth. (785)537-0699. Rent negotiable.

ROOMMATE WANTED with three girls. Sublease through May 31, rent $295. Call Melissa (785)341-3999.

SPRING SEMESTER roommate needed. Master bedroom in four-bedroom house. 1.2 miles from campus. Washer/ dryer, two bathrooms, cable internet, $250 plus utilities. Call Tyler (913)908-7162.

SUBLEASER wanted for Spring Semester, three-bedroom apartment with dishwasher. One block from campus. $245/ month 1850 Claflin. Call (785)770-3810/ (785)313-0013.

150 Sublease

CAMPUS/ AGGIEVILLE, one and one-half bedrooms available January. Central heat and air, parking. Water/ trash paid. 1212 Thurston. (620)870-9741.

CAMPUS/ AGGIEVILLE-three-bedroom apartment, available January. Spacious, central-air, dishwasher, laundry, parking. 519 N. Manhattan Avenue. Call (785)341-4158 or (785)341-9582.

FEMALE ROOMMATE WANTED starting January to live with two other girls. $265/ month plus utilities. Very nice house, can see campus from house. 1206 Bertrand. Call Lesley at (785)539-6790 leave message if not home.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed for spring semester. Beautiful house and three great roommates. Near City Park. $250/ month plus utilities. Call Renee at (785)565-0340.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed for spring semester. One-bedroom apartment. Two blocks from Aggieville. Rent negotiable call (785)564-1173.

FEMALE SUBLEASERS NEEDED. January- July. $245 rent each, plus bills. (785)565-3207, (785)738-7604, (913)579-6619.

MALE SUBLEASER needed. Two-bedroom apartment. Private parking, dishwasher, washer/ dryer. $262.50 a month. Available January. 716 Humboldt. Contact Casey (785)341-1162.

MALE SUBLEASER wanted to live with three males. Woodway Apartments. $237/ month. Laundry, dishwasher, one-forth utilities, pool, deck. (785)565-1267. Available December 20.

ONE ROOM available. You will love this place. Please call to come see! Ask for Jacquelyn (785)341-3769.

ONE-BEDROOM, $400/ month, water and trash paid, lease January- May. (785)537-9379.

ROOM OPEN for spring semester. Off-street parking, washer/ dryer, two and one-half baths, two porches, two living rooms. $300/ month plus utilities plus deposit. Open mid- December. 1742 Laramie. Chris at (785)341-6256.

ROOMMATE WANTED to share brand new duplex with three guys. Four-bedroom/ two bath/ kitchen/ laundry. $275/ month plus utilities. Call (316)990-6862 or (785)539-2356.

STUDIO APARTMENT, two blocks west of campus. January- May lease. $345/ month. Includes trash, gas, water. Call (316)259-7229 or (316)259-8307.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for one-bedroom apartment. $379.56 rent/ month starting January 1. Includes utilities. Pets are allowed. (785)770-3060.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for studio apartment. $400/ month starting late December, January rent paid. Please leave a message at (785)587-1819.

SUBLEASER WANTED January- July. Two-bedroom apartment. $575 a month plus electric. Laundry facilities. Dishwasher. Water and trash paid. (785)820-0879.

SUBLEASER WANTED- recently remodeled three-bedroom apartment. Close to campus and Aggieville. $265/ month. Call (785)770-7575.

SUBLEASER(S) WANTED for apartment at 11th and Laramie. Two-bedrooms for price of one, and rent is negotiable. Call Dana at (785)565-0662.

SUBLEASERS NEEDED. Close to campus, Aggieville, and City park, nice two-bedroom apartment. $270/ month. Available January. Call Michele or Amy. (785)539-5334.

SUBLEASERS NEEDED: two-bedroom basement apartment 520 Osage. Pets allowed. Call Ryan at (785)565-1950 or Chris at (785)317-2992 leave message if no answer.

SUBLEASERS NEEDED: three-bedroom apartment available soon at Woodway Apartment across from stadium. Great place! $753/ month. Please call! (785)845-5666.

SUBLEASERS NEEDED: two-bedroom apartment. One block from campus. Willing to pay $75/ month towards rent. Water and trash paid for. $252.50/ person. Call (785)871-1674.

TWO STORY, two-bedroom apartment. One bathroom, washer and dryer, one block west of campus, available January- July. (785)323-1712.

310 Help Wanted

! BARTENDING $300 a day potential. No experience necessary. Training provided. Call 1-800-965-6520 ext. 144.

ASSISTANT WRESTLING position, Marysville High School. Paid commensurate. Contact Athletic Director, Randy Adams at (785)562-5594.

BARTENDER TRAINEES needed. $250/ day potential. Local positions. (800)293-3985 ext. 548.

COMPUTER SCIENCE student wanted! Work with worlds largest commercial software maker as a student ambassador on campus. For info call Terre Rigali/ Volt Services. (800)253-9605 ext. 1372.

GET PAID For Your Opinions! Earn $15- $125 and more per survey! www.paidonlinesurveys.com

HOMESTEAD ASSISTED Living is accepting applications for Certified Medications Aide. We have an enjoyable working atmosphere and offer health/ dental insurance, paid time off package, 401 K and more. Please apply in person at 1923 Little Kitten Avenue. Equal Opportunity Employer.

MAKE MONEY taking Online Surveys. Earn $10-$125 for Surveys. Earn $25-$250 for Focus Groups. Visit www.cash4students.com/ksu <http://cash4students.com/ksuucinn»

PART-TIME SALES person at Faith Furniture. Must work afternoons and weekends. Please apply in person, 302 E. Highway 24 Manhattan.

SUBSTITUTE TEACHERS needed, Rock creek USD 323 needs substitute and emergency substitute teachers. Pays $71/ per day. Please contact the district office for application packet, (785)457-3732 or email caffreyt@rockcreekschools.org.

TEACHER AIDES (certificate preferred) for Kindegarden and 5/ 6 classroom at Westmoreland Elementary. Start date and salary negotiable. Single health insurance provided. Call (785)457-3732 for application or Email: caffreyt@rockcreekschools.org. Equal opportunity employer.

THE ROYAL Purple Yearbook is looking for writers. Part-time and full-time opportunities available. Fill out an application in Kedzie 103. Call (785)532-6557 for more information.

330 Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

465 Tickets to Buy/Sell

WANTED: TWO student tickets for K-State versus Missouri football game. Call (785)565-1992.

500 transportation

510 Automobiles

1991 CAVALIER, two door, black, five-speed, 15" subwoofer, 155K, asking $850. Great winter car. Call (785)341-2111.

1991 FORD, F150, 4x 4, $2400 or best offer. Call (785)313-2405.

530 Motorcycles

2002 HONDA CBR 954RR. Black/ silver. Eriom exhaust. Excellent condition. $8000 or best offer. (785)587-8225.

600 travel/ trips

610 Tour Package

WINTER AND Spring Break, ski and beach trips on sale now! www.Sunchase.com or call 1-800-SUNCHASE today!

630 Spring Break

!SO MANY Spring Break companies... Book DIRECT with the established leader in Spring Break travel. Better trips, better prices. Early booking incentives. book now with a small deposit. (800)367-1252/ www.springbreakdirect.com

ACT NOW! Book 11 people, get 12th trip free. Group discounts for six plus www.springbreakdiscounts.com or (800)838-8202.

#1 SPRING Break Company in Acapulco now offers three destinations! Go loco in Acapulco, party in Vallarta, or get crazy in Cabo with BIANCHI-ROSSI TOURS. Organize a group and travel for FREE. Book now before it's too late! Call (800)875-4525 or www.bianchi-rossi.com.

NUMBER ONE spring break vacations! 110% best prices! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas, Florida, Acapulco, book now and receive free parties and meals. Campus reps wanted! 1-800-234-7 0 0 7 endlesssummertours.com

SPRING BREAK '04 with StudentCity.com and Maxim Magazine! Get hooked up with Free Trips, Cash, and VIP Status as a Campus Rep! Choose from 15 of the hottest destinations. Book early for FREE MEALS, FREE DRINKS and 150% lowest price guarantee! To reserve online or view our Photo Gallery, visit www.studentcity.com or Call 1-888-SPRINGBREAK!

SPRING BREAK 2004. Travel with Student Travel Services, America's #1 Student Tour Operator to Jamaica, Cancun, Acapulo, Bahamas, and Florida. Now hiring campus reps. Call for group discounts. Information/ reservations 1-800-648-4849 or www.ststravel.com.

SPRING BREAK- sign up with Student Express and get FREE round trip airline tickets to over 15 International destinations- including Aruba, Dominican Republic, Costa Rica, Caribbean hot spots and more. Why go with anyone else. Limited offer- call now. Commission rep positions also available (800)787-3787or www.studentexpress.com now.

000 bulletin board

010 Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY!" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes and lowest rates. Call (785)776-1744, www.ksu.edu/ksfc

ATTORNEY, CHUCK Harper, expunge convictions before job application, paternity, custody, net free adoption, civil law, 400 Poyntz. (785)539-8100, chuckharper@msn.com

CHECK OUT www.offerplace.com/115. It's got all the best deals around. No fee credits card, cell phones, online video rentals and tons more. Find it all at www.offerplace.com/115.

DON'T LET the cold weather get your car down. Come visit Lewis Auto Repair, 610B South Juliette. Cheapest labor rate in town. Call (785)770-8553.

FRATERNITIES— SORORITIES, Clubs— Student Groups. Earn $1000- $2000 this semester with a proven CampusFundraiser. three hour fund raising event. Our free programs make fund raising easy with no risks. Fund raising dates are filling quickly, so get with the program! It works. Contact CampusFundraiser at (888)923-3238, or visit www.campusfundraiser.com

020 Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

FOUND: WATCH on bike pass between Jardine apartments and College Avenue. Call Bruce at (785)532-1338 to identify.

030 Post a Note

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a post a note.

100 housing/ real estate

ADVERTISE ADVERTISE CLASSIFIEDS • 532-6555

105 For Rent- Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2440.

SPACIOUS TWO-BEDROOM/ one bath. All utilities paid except electric. Available end of December. Call (785)806-3068.

"Stay In Class At The Commons"
Now Leasing for 2003-2004!
•Fully Furnished
•2 & 4 Bedroom
•Alarm System
•Swimming Pool
•Washer/Dryer
•Computer Lab
•Fitness Center
•Permit Parking
•Tennis/Volleyball Courts
•Individual Leases
Office Hours: M-F 9-5
539-0500
university COMMONS apartments
2215 College Ave.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

AVAILABLE JANUARY 1. Two-bedroom, newly decorated. Washer/ dryer hookup. Off-street parking. $500/ month. (785)537-2119, 8- 5pm, (785)539-2347 after 5pm.

COZY TWO-BEDROOM. Only a year old with all new appliances. Includes washer and dryer. Has own driveway. (785)341-1636

NICE ONE-BEDROOM apartments. Close to campus. Water and trash paid. $415- $430/ month. Call MDI (785)776-3804.

STUDIO APARTMENT and one-bedroom, close to campus. No pets. $280/ month. 1030 Kearney. Call (785)537-0177.

STUDIO APARTMENT. $250/ month. All utilities except electric paid. Lease and deposit required. Available January 1. (785)537-7794.

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE block to campus. New carpet/ flooring/ some utilities paid. $660/ month, or best offer. (785)539-4641.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath, less than block from campus. Dishwasher, laundry facilities, and parking. (785)539-2067.

TWO PLUS bedroom, one block to campus. New carpet/ flooring/ some utilities paid. $620/ month. (785)539-4641.

TWO, three, and four-bedroom apartments. Close to campus, laundry, and parking. Call (785)537-6017.

TWO-BEDROOM TOWNHOUSE, one and one-half bath plus unfinished basement. Washer/ dryer hookups. Water/ trash paid. No pets. (785)539-5627.

VERY NICE two-bedroom apartment for rent, starting January 1st. Cats allowed. Call (785)539-5563 or (785)341-5441 for more information.

115 Rooms Available

BEHIND AGGIEVILLE. Near campus. One room available mid- January for Spring semester. $285 plus utilities. (785)587-7668.

ROOMMATE WANTED to sublease. Close to campus/ Aggieville. Washer/ dryer, $300 plus utilities. Call Nicole (785)776-6099 or (785)565-8785.

120 For Rent- Houses

FOUR-BEDROOM, ONE and one-half bath. New carpet, paint, and ceramic tile. Close to football stadium. $900/ month plus utilities. Available December 1. (785)556-2652.

FOUR-BEDROOM/ TWO bath house. Very nice. Central heat and air, washer/ dryer hookups. Available January 1st. No pets. Call Doug (785)341-4554.

TIRED OF Apartment Living? Manufactured Homes For Rent. Pets Allowed. Beautifully maintained communities. Pool, playground, community center. Professionally managed. Call Manager for more details. (785)539-5841.

120 For Rent- Houses

TWO-BEDROOM HOUSE for rent. Close to Aggieville and campus. $500/ month plus utilities. Available starting January. (785)776-2483.

135 For Sale- Mobile Homes

ONE-BEDROOM MOBILE home, new carpet, furnace. $6000 or best offer. (785)537-9894.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE FOR Spring. Nice apartment. one-half block from campus, close to REC. $260/ month plus cheap bills. Parking. Laundry. (785)770-3837.

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed for quiet house, air-conditioned, washer/ dryer, kitchen, basement, off-street parking, near campus, $285 plus one-fourth utilities. (785)537-1219.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for nice three-bedroom house. Washer/ dryer on site. $250 plus one-third utilities. December 1 or January 1 lease. Call Emily at (785)770-0374.

FEMALE, THREE-BEDROOM duplex, two bath, washer/ dryer. $260/ month, plus utilities, available January. Call (785)550-2306.

GREAT PLACE, great location, great people. Female roommates wanted for spring semester sublease. Large rooms, private parking, common rooms furnished, washer/ dryer. Call Lindsay at (785)587-0296.

MALE OR female for spring semester. Nice two-bedroom apartment across street from Aggieville and campus. 1212 Bluemont. (316)641-2636 leave a message.

MALE ROOMMATE needed. Very nice off campus house. Already furnished $300/ month. Contact Matt Huseman at (785)819-1966 to set up an appointment or to ask any questions.

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share a two-bedroom house. Five minutes from the Student Union. Rent $275. (785)539-9981

MALE ROOMMATES needed for a four-bedroom home in quite neighborhood, five minutes north of campus, must see to appreciate, $275 per month plus shared utilities. (913)244-2921.

ONE ROOM available, fully furnished home. $90/ week, all utilities paid. Please call (785)539-8442, and leave message, Tearney.

200 service directory

255 Other Services

300 employment/ opportunities

310 Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/ she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

400 open market

410 Items for Sale

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS- sleeping bags, overshoes, combat boots, camouflage clothing, wool socks and gloves, much more. Also Carhartt work wear. Open Monday- Friday, 9am-5:30pm, Saturday 9am-4pm, Open Sundays till Christmas 12noon- 4pm. St. Mary's Surplus Sales, St. Marys Kansas. (785)437-2734.

QUEEN SIZE bed, very good condition. $150. Pleather sofa set $75. Chris at (785)341-6256.

465 Tickets to Buy/Sell

NEED FOUR ICAT tickets for the Missouri game. Call Aaron at (620)532-4226.

THREE BIG 12 championship tickets, section 123, row 40, in corner end zone. $240 for all three. (417)889-7568

TWO STUDENT reserve tickets for sale. Can be used as student/ spouse, and student/ child. Make offer (785)363-7487. Cash only.

Deadlines

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run.
CALL 532-6555

ClassifiedRATES

1 DAY
20 words or less
$8.00
each word over 20
20¢ per word

2 DAYS
20 words or less
$9.40
each word over 20
25¢ per word

3 DAYS
20 words or less
$11.05
each word over 20
30¢ per word

4 DAYS
20 words or less
$12.25
each word over 20
35¢ per word

5 DAYS
20 words or less
$13.35
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

TO PLACE AN AD
Go to Kedzie 103 (across from the K-State Student Union). Office hours are Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The office is open except on holidays.

HOW TO PAY
All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an account with Student Publications Inc. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks. We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

FREE FOUND ADS
As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CORRECTIONS
If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

CANCELLATIONS
If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day before the ad is to be published.

HEADLINES
For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

Graphic Design Internship
Advertising Design — Kansas State Collegian
If you are a graphic design major and would like an on-campus spring 2004 internship for credit, stop by for an application. Your art department adviser's permission is required. Application deadline is Friday, Nov. 21.
Stop by 113 Kedzie from 8 a.m.-3 p.m. for more information.

Advertising Design
Practicum/Newspaper MC 484
Earn class credit working with the ad design/production staff on the Kansas State Collegian during spring semester 2004. Limited enrollment. The instructor's permission is required. No prerequisites are necessary. Stop by 113 Kedzie from 8 a.m.-3 p.m. for an application. Application deadline is Friday, Nov. 21.

First, Check the Collegian Classifieds.
The Collegian should be the first place you look when you need something. Whether you want football tickets for the next home game, are looking to buy a good used car, want to find the perfect person to take to your next date party, or are hoping to find a new place to live . . . You'll find it in the Classifieds.
103 Kedzie Hall • 532-6555

000 bulletin board
100 housing/ real estate
200 service directory
300 employment/ opportunities
400 open market
500 transportation
600 travel/ trips

HOTEL | Union would need to monitor space

Continued from Page 1

our lots in the northwest area and run a bus system down to the Union."

Abbott said the details of the shuttle route would depend on which streets were accessible during construction. However, he said the shuttle would be convenient and would come at no extra cost to faculty and students.

"There are some people that just get off on sitting there in the West Stadium lot waiting for somebody to leave," he said.

"Even if we are down 200 stalls, that is going to be an impact. A lot of people traveling from the north might want to just stop and ride the shuttle. I don't think it will be a huge inconvenience."

The current parking shuttle that runs from Edwards Hall and the KSU Foundation building, 2323 Anderson Ave., requires a driver with a commercial license much like what a shuttle system from Bramlage would require.

"There's a lot of ways of doing it," Abbott said. "We would work with other organizations. We have talked to people about getting buses and getting a package deal with the driver and the bus."

Abbott said he anticipates no increase in parking fines or permits because of the shuttle system.

Once the parking garage is built, the biggest challenge would be making the garage the safest building on campus, Abbott said.

"Before we even talked about this, we said it need to be well-lighted. All parking at the university is well-lit now," he said.

"This will be more well-lighted than parking on the rest of the campus. We will go through and do our best to put in the latest sort of security here because it needs to be safe. We need to have people not worried about going into our parking areas."

Abbott said the Parking Council members already have been in contact with other universities to begin developing some idea of what the garage would bring to K-State.

"If the university wants a parking garage, we ought to build a parking garage," he said. "We have been dealing with it for a couple of years when it was evident that was the way we were going. I assure you, anytime we go to a city or another university, we go to the parking garage and walk around so that we can make this system work."

While Parking Services would have to make changes if the concept is developed, the Union also would need to redesign its conference space.

"I suspect with our current use pattern, that some spaces will need to be freshened up," Union Director Bernard Pitts said.

Pitts said there is a replacement and repairs fund that would be used for the upgrades, not student privilege fees.

He said that even if the Union becomes more of a public facility, it still would serve students first.

"We have to be careful. The Union Governing Board and our staff will be sure we still provide the Union for students and their needs," he said.

SMOKING | Services available to help quit

Continued from Page 1

Kennedy said the program is tailored to an individual's needs.

"The first thing you do is find the smoking triggers, whether it is stimulation or pleasurable.

"We base the program on four sessions, but, after quitting, have subsequent sessions to help the smokers through the quitting process," Kennedy said.

KISS has scheduled the next session for smoking cessation for 4:30 p.m. Dec. 1 at Lafene.

Call 532-6595 to schedule an appointment before this time.

Did you know?
Smoking

- 46.5 million Americans are addicted to tobacco products.
- Smoking will cause about 30 percent of the estimated 556,500 cancer deaths in 2003.

Sources: American Cancer Society

BAN | Businesses not affected by ordinance

Continued from Page 1

"We have never expected problems and have not received any complaints either. This was well received by the voters."

Shawn Simon, general manager of Tuscon's Steakhouse Saloon & Grill in Salina, said the ordinance has not affected the restaurant in a negative way.

"We had a smoking section, but by prohibiting smoking, it has not affected our business negatively," he said.

Although the ordinance seems to be working sans flaws for Salina, Manhattan business owners aren't too optimistic about the surrounding areas adopting the idea.

Heather Taylor, owner of Bowinkle's Sports Bar in Manhattan, said that if a similar ordinance were to be passed in Manhattan, her business would be affected negatively.

"It would hurt us if people couldn't smoke here," she said.

"We have several people that just come in and have a cigarette and a drink."

JACKSON | Police set pop star's bail at $3 million

Continued from Page 1

Bail for Jackson would be set at $3 million, Anderson said.

District Attorney Thomas W. Sneddon Jr. said he wouldn't release details about the alleged crimes except to say that there was only one victim and that the victim was cooperating.

In 1993, Jackson had faced a child molestation investigation that never resulted in criminal charges because the child refused to testify.

Jackson reportedly paid a multimillion dollar settlement in that case but maintained his innocence.

The arrest warrant Sneddon discussed Wednesday was for violation of a California law that prohibits lewd or lascivious acts with a child under age 14.

A conviction carries three to eight years in prison.

Witnesses or Information Needed

Did you go to Lincoln, NE on Friday?

Kansas Highway Patrol is needing information to help with the investigation of the accident on Friday, Nov. 14, that killed one K-State student and seriously injured three others. If you were traveling U.S. Highway 77 (the road to Lincoln, NE) near Randolph between 7:15 and 7:45 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 14 and saw a southbound vehicle swerving on the road, please contact

785-827-4437 Trooper Rios

PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER
"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting & adoption."
539-3338
Free pregnancy tests
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment
Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

GUMBY'S Pizza
$1.25 Late Night Slices
Mon thru Sat
12:30 am to ???
Gumby's Feeds Your Late Night Hunger!

RC McGraws
Manhattan's Oldies, Country, Night Club
KARAOKE
Thursday, 9-1
50¢ TACOS
hard or soft
$1.99 Island Oasis Margaritas
776-9588 • 2317 Tuttle Creek Blvd.
Blue Hills Shopping Center

Responsible Drinking is Common!
Healthy Choices are the Norm!

Typical actions K-State students take for safer, fun partying:

- Using designated drivers
- Choosing not to drink alcohol
- Hanging out with trusted friends
- Limiting the money they spend on alcohol
- Keeping track of the number of drinks they have
- Only drinking in environments they know to be safe
- Making their own drinks to control the amount of alcohol in them

Based on a 2003 campus-wide, classroom survey of 1,311 K-State students.
KSU Alcohol and Other Drug Education Service and KSU Project Wellness

The Big 12 North Championship hangs in the balance as the Cats face ... ε ...i ...

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

www.kstatecollegian.com | Friday, November 21, 2003 | Vol. 108, No.67

FHSU players arrested

Trio taken into custody for Hays homicide

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

HAYS, Kan. – A judge set bond at $1 million Thursday for two Fort Hays State University football players and a third man arrested in the death of another student.

Clint Johnson, 18, business major from Healy, Kan., was killed during a fight Nov. 13 at an apartment complex north of the campus, authorities said. Ellis County Attorney Tom Drees has said numerous people were involved in several skirmishes between the buildings and in the parking lot.

Three football players – Bradley Deary, a 21-year-old junior from Smithville, Texas; Luis

See ARREST Page 8

Student Senate resolution does not mention proclamation

By Abbie Whited
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Student senators passed a resolution in response to Mayor Mark Taussig's marriage proclamation at Thursday night's meeting.

However, the resolution was an amended version of the original resolution.

Senators first saw Resolution 32 at their Oct. 23 meeting. The resolution stated concern of Mayor Mark Taussig's proclamation declaring Oct. 12 to 18 "National Marriage Protection Week."

Resolution 32 stated, "This proclamation is an assault on the basic human rights and dignity of many members of the Manhattan community, including many K-State students." It also stated the proclamation "excludes, alienates, degrades and stigmatizes members of our K-State and Manhattan community."

"New 32" does not mention the mayor or the proclamation.

See SENATE Page 8

Campus hotel might provide practical experience

Students will benefit from association with national hotel chain

By Sarah Rice
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Chemistry students have their own laboratories to try out the concepts learned during lecture classes. Architecture students have studios where they gain practical design experience.

The hotel concept now being investigated for K-State's campus would serve as a laboratory for hotel and restaurant management students to perfect the art of management, housekeeping and front desk work.

The proposal calls for a hotel and parking garage built in the existing K-State Student Union parking lots. The hotel most likely would be a Marriott Courtyard, Gary Hellebust, KSU Foundation president, said. Hellebust, who is investigating the feasibility of the hotel concept, said the plans are moving forward with a priority being academic benefits.

THE HOTEL PROPOSAL

Officials are considering a proposal for a hotel and parking garage adjacent to the K-State Student Union. The Collegian explores, in a five-part series, the implications of the proposal if approved.

"I would hope it would be an asset," said Pat Pesci, instructor in the Department of Hotel, Restaurant, Institution Management and Dietetics. "It would be important to have a partnership

See HOTEL Page 8

1917-1963

A leader's legacy

Students, faculty reflect on JFK on anniversary of death

By Corbin H. Crable
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The headline of the Collegian screamed, "President killed in Dallas," while news anchor Walter Cronkite, visibly shaken, somberly told the nation, "Ladies and gentlemen, the president of the United States is dead."

"Ladies and gentlemen, the president of the United States is dead."
Walter Cronkite, 1963

The country was galvanized in its grief.

Like many today who will never forget the events of Sept. 11, 2001, Baby Boomers will always remember where they were on Nov. 22, 1963, when they heard the news that John Fitzgerald Kennedy, the 35th president of the United States, had been struck down by an assassin's bullet in Dallas.

And those of younger generations have become familiar with the 8mm Zapruder film, which caught the assassination on tape, as opposed to their parents, who

See ANNIVERSARY Page 10

Illustration by Angela Arneson
COLLEGIAN

Gary Haynes | UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL
President John F. Kennedy's coffin, draped with the American flag, is carried out of the Capitol for his final journey to Arlington National Cemetery. Today marks the 40th anniversary of Kennedy's assassination.

Nation marks JFK anniversary

By Corbin H. Crable
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

People and locations key to the assassination of President John F. Kennedy on Nov. 22, 1963, will recognize the 40th anniversary of the president's murder this weekend.

In Dallas, where Kennedy was killed, the Sixth Floor Museum, housed in the Texas Schoolbook Depository, is expecting an increase in visitors, said Dawn Wyatt, public relations director for the museum. To accommodate the increase, Wyatt said, the museum will have extended hours from Friday until Sunday.

Inside

Read the timeline of events from the day of John F. Kennedy's assassination. Page 10.

While representatives from the Parkland Memorial Hospital, where Kennedy was treated and died, said the hospital has no plans to mark the anniversary, there will be a private memorial service for the Kennedy family at Arlington National Cemetery in Washington, D.C.

The service is not open to the public.

See KENNEDY Page 10

INSIDE

Volleyball team looks to clench the Big 12 Championship with a win against Texas Tech.

Sports, Page 6

HEADLINES

The Associated Press

Turkey bombing
Suspected al-Qaeda suicide bombers blew up trucks packed with explosives at the British consulate and a London-based bank Thursday, killing at least 27 people and wounding nearly 450. The blasts marked the second attacks in Turkey to be blamed on al-Qaeda this week.

Iraq bombing
A truck bomb exploded near a Kurdish party office in this northern oil city Thursday, killing five people and wounding 30 in an attack local officials blamed on Islamic extremists linked to al-Qaeda. It was the second bombing this week against Iraqis who cooperate with the U.S. occupation.

British protests
Tens of thousands of demonstrators marched through the heart of London on Thursday, toppling a 17-foot tall papier maché statue of President Bush and burning his life-size effigy to show their anger for the Iraq war and Prime Minister Tony Blair's support of the invasion.

Bush

ONLINE

Does the news media target atheists?
Clark Adams, public relations director for the Internet Infidels, thinks so. Read why the Individuals for Freethought wanted to bring Adams to K-State at www.kstatecollegian.com.

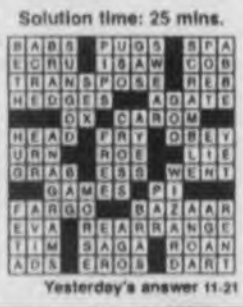
DON'T FORGET

■ There will be a memorial service for Kevin Armstrong, junior in economics, at 4 p.m. today in All Faiths Chapel. Armstrong died Nov. 14 in a car accident north of Manhattan.

Armstrong

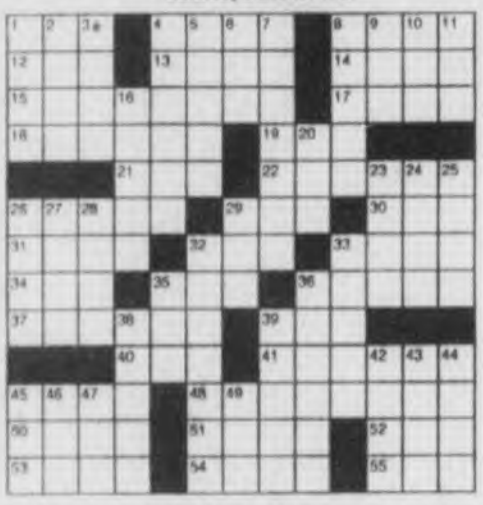
Weather

Today: Partly cloudy 56 | 36
Saturday: Mostly cloudy 51 | 32



Claflin Books and Copies
1814 Claflin Rd. (785) 776-3771
www.claflinbooks.com Fax: (785) 776-1009

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer



ACROSS
1 Letter after pi
4 Pronto, on a memo
8 Pairs
12 "— the fields we go"
13 Unrivaled
14 Existed
15 With 48-Across, classic drama
17 Mountain goat
18 Mama Cass
19 With 41-Across, news hour
21 Give it a shot
22 First name of 37-Across
26 Santiago's place
29 Squid squirt
30 Expert
31 Stash
32 Cauldron
33 Meet, as requirements
34 Tabloid subject
35 Forefront
36 Holdup
37 15- and 48-Across writer
39 Billy — Williams
40 Timetable abbr.
41 See 19-Across
45 Prognosticator's read
48 See 15-Across
50 Small group
51 Admitting clients
52 Diva's problem
53 Congregational cry
54 For fear that
55 Just out

DOWN
1 Took the bus
2 Scoundrel
3 Exam format
4 Off the boat
5 Like Santa's laundry
6 Politico Landon
7 Low-ranking laborer
8 Between
9 Symbol of intrigue
10 Raw rock
11 Kinsey subject
16 Marquee info
20 Annoy
23 Greet
24 Stanford rival
25 Hinge (on)
26 Crony
27 Sound system
28 "American —"
29 Saturn model
32 Sunshade
33 Senses
35 Old hand
36 Upright
38 Iced tea enhancement
39 Apportions (out)
42 Portent
43 "Moonstruck" cast member
44 Recognize
45 Harper Valley org.
46 Branch
47 Polygraph blip
49 Zoo attraction

Solution time: 25 mins.

Yesterday's answer 11-21

11-21 CRYPTOQUIP

J R O M B V W J G H M J B G ' W O K K W R U J M R O S C O W J O O S U C X B G V H V K B Q J M U X O U T B Q V M H V K T U T C T B U .

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: IF LADIES LIKE PURCHASING STOCKS BEST, MIGHT YOU SAY THAT GENTLEMEN PREFER BONDS?

Today's Cryptoquip Clue: T equals B

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 1! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to CryptoClassics Book 1, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475

The Cryptoquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.

© 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NAMES IN THE NEWS

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MICHAEL JACKSON SURRENDERS ON MOLESTATION WARRANT

Hands cuffed behind his back, Michael Jackson was booked on suspicion of child molestation Thursday after arriving by private jet to face charges that could destroy the pop star's career and send him to prison for years.

The self-styled "King of Pop" immediately posted $3 million bail and waved to reporters and flashed a V-sign before leaving the Santa Barbara County jail in a black Suburban escorted by three sheriff's motorcycle officers.

Jackson

"He's come back specifically to confront these charges head-on," defense attorney Mark Geragos said. "He is greatly outraged by the bringing of these charges. He considers this to be a big lie."

Authorities released no details of the case beyond a warrant accusing the 45-year-old Jackson of multiple counts of lewd or lascivious acts with a child under 14, an offense punishable by three to eight years in prison.

But news reports have said the child was a 12- or 13-year-old boy who visited Jackson at his Neverland Ranch.

Joe Cavaretta | THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Jenna Curry, a Michael Jackson fan, waits Wednesday in Las Vegas outside of the CMX sports and entertainment studio. A raid on Jackson's Neverland Ranch was linked to a child molestation allegation against the pop superstar.

RECORD PRODUCER CHARGED WITH MURDER

Record producer Phil Spector, the 1960s recording-studio wizard who created pop music's Wall of Sound, was charged Thursday with murder in the shooting death of a woman at his home last February.

Spector

Spector, 63, was expected to be arraigned Thursday afternoon in the slaying of 40-year-old Lana Clarkson, a B-movie actress and model found dead in the foyer of his Alhambra mansion.

He has been free on $1 million bail since his arrest for investigation of murder shortly after the shooting Feb. 3.

Authorities have not given a motive or commented on other details of the investigation.

MAGAZINE ACCUSES EMINEM OF RACISM FOR OLD SONG

The Source magazine has Eminem on the defensive over a decade-old song that calls black girls "dumb" and depicts them as gold diggers.

Eminem

In the latest chapter of the Source's campaign against Eminem, Source principals David Mays and Raymond Scott had a press conference to play the recording.

Eminem acknowledged that he made the song deriding black women. He said in a statement it was "something I made out of anger, stupidity and frustration when I was a teenager."

JOHNNY DEPP: SEXIEST MAN ALIVE 2003

People magazine has named Johnny Depp the "Sexiest Man Alive 2003," saying the actor, known for his brooding eccentricities, has mellowed since becoming a father.

"Because he arrived at his new, happy place without selling out, without becoming slick or packaged or politically correct, he is a hero to his fans and an idol to his young co-stars," People says in its Dec. 1 issue.

WE'VE HEARD

Official puts to rest myth of free tuition

By Edie Hall
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Don't go jumping in front of K-State vehicles – it won't get you anything but sympathy.

The rumor that being hit by a K-State vehicle will get a student free tuition, all A's or anything else is nothing but a myth, Pat Bosco, dean of Student Life, said

Among bouts of laughter, Bosco said he had heard the myth before, but that there was no truth behind it.

"I've probably heard that two or three thousand times during the past 35 years," he said.

Bosco said he wasn't certain where the myth began but had some guesses.

"It was probably started by an opportunistic K-State sophomore many years ago," he said.

Although K-State doesn't give out a free semester or free grades, Bosco said any student who is faced with any kind of tragedy, including being hit by a vehicle, can visit the Office of Student Life.

"They will receive the full attention of the Office of Student Life as they work through this personal tragedy, just like any other tragedy we help our students through," he said.

The blotter | Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Wednesday, Nov. 19

- At 11:40 p.m., Anthony Thomas, Junction City, Kan., was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $3,000.

Thursday, Nov. 20

- At 12:26 a.m., Clayton Bartkoski, 426 Moore Hall, was arrested for possession of controlled substance and unlawful possession of depressants. Bond was set at $1,500.
- At 1:30 a.m., Craig Hittle, 2562 Candlecrest, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
- At 4:10 a.m., Jeramy Johnson, 701 N Ninth St., was arrested for driving on a suspended license and DUI. Bond was set at $1,500.

The planner
Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@spub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- "Listening to the Prairie: Farming in Nature's Image," an exhibition that teaches the history of the prairie and new farming approaches, is at Hale Library.
- SHAPE and the American Red Cross will have a Krispy Kreme doughnut fund-raiser at 8 a.m. today in the Wal-Mart parking lot. The doughnuts are $6 per dozen.
- Sigma Lambda Gamma will have its Bolivian sweater sale from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. today on the Union Plaza.
- There will be a digital library class at 9:30 a.m. today in Hale 408.
- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Zhaohui Su at 10:30 a.m. today in Bluemont 111.
- There will be a basic library class at 11:15 a.m. today in Hale 408.
- Johannes Feddema from the University of Kansas will present "Simulating the Impacts of Anthropogenic Land Cover Change on Climate" as part of national Geography Awareness Week at 3:30 p.m. today in the Union Big 12 Room.
- KSU Aikido will conduct a martial arts class from 7 to 9 tonight in Ahearn 301.
- K-State After Hours will have free food, activities and movie from 9 p.m. to midnight tonight in the K-State Student Union.
- The Lutheran Campus Ministry will meet for worship at 7 p.m. Sunday in Danforth Chapel.
- ECM Christian Explorers will have their weekly dinner and activity at 5:30 p.m. Sunday at the ECM Building, 1021 Denison Ave.

Contact us

Kansas State Collegian
Kedzie 103
Manhattan, KS 66502
Display ads.....532-6560
Classified ads.....532-6555
Newsroom.....532-6556
news@spub.ksu.edu
Delivery problems.....532-6555

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor James Hurla at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@spub.ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.

© Kansas State Collegian, 2003

GLASS IMPRESSIONS
QUALITY ETCHED GLASS
Including New Choices!

KSU Paperweights, Boxes, Clocks
Bookends, Nameplates, Decanters
Glassware & Pendants $6 - $67
PUBLIC HOURS
Tue-Fri 11-6 • Sat 10-5
Glass Impressions • 329 Poyntz Ave

KSU Meat Sale
WEDNESDAY 3-6 p.m. & FRIDAY Noon-6 p.m.
Rm. 166 Weber Hall
BEEF
roast, steak, ground beef, bratwurst
PORK
pork chops, pork steaks, sausage, ground pork, bacon
PRODUCT OF THE DEPT. OF ANIMAL SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY MANHATTAN, KS 66506
For information call 532-1279

Fat's Bar & Grill 12th & Laramie in Aggieville
FRIDAY
$3.75 Big Beers
$2.75 Domestic Bottles
$4.75 Fish Bowls
FREE BURGERS 4-6pm
776-2424 Kitchen Help Wanted

THE SHUT DOWN
NOV. 22 HOLIDAY INN
DJ CAM 10-4AM & CAM GIRLZ
$1000 ON THE BAR
18 to enter, 21 to drink
LADIES DRINK FREE
$5 ADMISSION
SPONSORS: ZOTCIS AGGIE HAIR SHAPERS DICK EDWARDS • T-MOBILE
HONGRE MAN PROMOTIONS

PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS
1800 Claflin Road
776-5577
We Deliver During Lunch!
VISA MasterCard

Advanced Dermatology, P.A.
John R. Adams, M.D.
•Board Certified Dermatologist
•Fellow American Academy of Dermatology
•Fellow American Society for Dermatologic Surgery
Specializing in diseases of the skin including:
MOLES • ACNE • RASHES • HAIR LOSS
Laser treatment available for reduction of unwanted hair and blood vessels
785-537-4990
VISA MasterCard 1133 College Avenue, Suite E230
Manhatttan Medical Center at College & Claflin, Building E

FREE GAS!*
Short Stop
TANK BANK
Shop in the Store - Save at the Pump.
PHILLIPS 66
Coors Light 18-pack ..... .15¢/Gallon
Marlboro 3-Packs ..... .05¢/Gallon
12-pack Pepsi Products..... .05¢/Gallon
* Remote Saturday Listen for Your chance at Free Gas!
* Up to 15 Gallons
* See store for details!
CHECK STORES FOR ADDITIONAL ITEMS
2010 Tuttle Creek Blvd. • Manhattan, Kansas

Professor lectures on his books in conjunction with Hale exhibit

By Joanna Rubick
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Ted Cable thinks Kansas is more exciting than its dull stereotype.

Cable's book, "Driving Across Kansas," tells of Kansas history along Interstate 70.

"My goal was to help people see the beauty when traveling across Kansas," he said. "I think it is unfairly perceived as boring. It's just the opposite."

Cable, professor of park management and conservation, is the author of five books. He will speak Sunday about his most recent books "Driving" and "Commitments of the Heart: Odysseys in West African Conservation."

By his lecture's theme, "From West Africa to Western Kansas," Cable will explain how the books relate and give an overview of them.

"Commitments" contains stories of people who worked towards West African conservation.

"The book teaches through biographies so people will hopefully learn a lot about nature and conservation," he said.

"I've taken conservation heroes and tried to tell their life stories. Hopefully people will find inspiration through the stories of their lives."

Cable lived in Africa in 1993 and 1994 and visited other times. He plans to go back this spring.

His lecture coincides with the Smithsonian's "Listening to the Prairie" exhibit at Hale Library until Dec. 15.

Roger Adams, rare books librarian at Hale, said the exhibit has been traveling since 2001 and features four families and history of the prairie up to modern times.

"It's really about what needs to be done if we are going to save the area," he said.

If you go
"From West Africa to Western Kansas"
Who: Ted Cable
What: Speech about two books, selling and signing
When: 11:30 a.m. Sunday
Where: Second floor auditorium at Manhattan Public Library

Owner of Aggie Lounge dies of throat cancer at 66

By Kristi Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Duane Pultz was a carpet layer, but everyone knew his as the "Mayor of Aggieville." He died Tuesday at Mercy Health Center. Owner of the Aggie Lounge, Pultz lost his battle with throat cancer at age 66.

Bob Hennes, Manhattan piano tuner, knew Pultz for years.

"I remember the first day Duane came into the Lounge. I used to rattle my stein on the counter when I ran out of my drink, but he quickly changed that habit," Hennes said.

He said Pultz was a perfectionist and knew that glasses cost money.

"He had me using a paper cup for a while after that," Hennes said. "He chewed me out, but I told him I wouldn't ever take an ass-chewing like that again. We became pretty good acquaintances after that, though."

Pultz reportedly owned the Lounge for 13 years, but manager Dale Snowberger said he had owned it for 15.

"If you knew him, you knew him. If you didn't, you missed out," Snowberger said.

Snowberger said his managerial duties will end Jan. 1, 2004, when the owners of Porter's will take over.

Dave Deppe, friend of Pultz and customer to the Lounge, said he knew Pultz for nearly 50 years.

"He was a year ahead of me in high school. He was the most unique guy I knew. He worked at a grocery store, but had a brand new car straight out of high school.

"He was the unique guy for the remainder of his life," Deppe said.

Deppe said he called Pultz "Tank."

"I don't know why, whether it was because he could drink so much beer, but he sure was a good ol' guy," Deppe said.

"If you knew him, you knew him. If you didn't, you missed out."
Dale Snowberger
MANAGER OF AGGIE LOUNGE

Hennes said he remembers Pultz as an expert guitar player and an excellent carpet layer.

"He really was a perfectionist," Hennes said.

He said that while Pultz was known as the "Mayor of Aggieville," Hennes was called the "Mayor of 12th Street" by Pultz.

"Duane was a really great guy. I plan on going to the bar in his memory," Hennes said.

Contest to offer $960 shopping spree

By Melissa Haug
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Westloop Shopping Center and KACZ-FM 96.3 are sponsoring Holiday Magic to liven Manhattan's Christmas spirit.

"We put this event together with means of promoting holiday shopping in Westloop. It will make a nice holiday present for the winner," said Ed Klimek, marketing director of the Westloop business association.

Holiday Magic is a $960 shopping spree contest that began Nov. 14 after participating stores had their annual Holiday Open House which featured carolers, gift giveaways, Christmas lights and a visit from Santa, Klimek said.

The contest continues until Dec. 5, when a winner will be drawn. Each of the 10 participating stores has a sign-up station to register for the drawing. Only one winner will be chosen for the Dec. 13 shopping spree.

On the day of the shopping spree, the winner is limited to spend $96 at each of the 10 participating stores.

In relation to Z96.3, the winner has 10 minutes and three seconds to find enough items totaling $96. If they fail to do so, they will not receive the prizes from that store and will move on to the next store. The spree is from 10 a.m. until noon and will be broadcast live by Z96.3.

"We've worked with Westloop in the past and decided that this year we'd focus this event to promote local Christmas shopping," April Dodder, Z96.3 sales manager said. "The spree will hopefully draw a large crowd to accomplish this goal."

How to Win a shopping spree
Register at Ben Franklin Crafts, Cellular One, GNC, Lair Gauche, AAA Travel, Waters True Value Hardware, Pfeifley's Jewelers, Rod's Hallmark, Borck Brothers Men's Wear Inc. and Pets'N'Stuff
When: Dec. 13
Prize: $960 in prizes

Yes, the students are back in town.
They're also spending money to furnish their living spaces.
They're shopping in the Kansas State Collegian classifieds.
Call to place an ad today. 532-6555.

SELLYOURSTUFF

The Wait is over! Your 2003 Royal Purple is here Pick it up! 103 Kedzie 8am-5pm

Witnesses or Information Needed

Did you go to Lincoln, NE on Friday?
Kansas Highway Patrol is needing information to help with the investigation of the accident on Friday, Nov. 14, that killed one K-State student and seriously injured three others. If you were traveling U.S. Highway 77 (the road to Lincoln, NE) near Randolph between 7:15 and 7:45 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 14 and saw a southbound vehicle swerving on the road, please contact
785-827-4437 Trooper Rios

Religion Directory

JOIN THE DIRECTORY
Call 532-6560

Episcopal
Church at K-State
5:00 p.m. Sunday
Danforth Chapel
Holy Communion
Fr. Matthew Cobb : 532-9099

MANHATTAN MENNONITE CHURCH
Sunday School 9:30, Worship 10:45
1000 Fremont • Manhattan
(785) 539-4079

St. Luke's Lutheran Church
330 Sunset Avenue
Saturday-
Traditional Worship 6:00 p.m.
Sunday-
Traditional Worship 8:30 a.m.
College Bible Study 9:45 a.m.
Contemporary Worship 11:00 a.m.
Campus Pastor - Eric Wood
Email: campusmn@flinthills.com
(785) 539-2604

St. Mary Magdalene Orthodox Christian Mission
Divine Liturgy Sat. 9:30 AM
E.C.M. Building
1021 Denison Ave.

FIRST LUTHERAN
10th Poyntz 537-8532
Worship
Sat. 5:30 p.m., Sun. 8:30 & 11 a.m.
Sunday School all ages 9:40 a.m.

Unitarian-Universalist Fellowship of Manhattan
481 Zeandale Road. (South on K-177 across viaduct, left on K-18 1/2 mile)
Program each Sunday at 10:45 a.m. Religious education classes for youth. Day care for toddlers.
The Rev. David Grimm.
For information call (785) 537-2349
www.flinthills.com/~uufellow/

First Baptist Church
Sunday Worship 11 a.m.
Church School 9:45 a.m.
For free transportation within city limits, call the church.
Pastors Karen & Alan Selig
2121 Blue Hills Rd.
539-8691
An American Baptist Congregation

Christ Evangelical Lutheran Church LCMS
9 a.m. Sunday School
10:00 a.m. Fellowship
10:30 a.m. Divine Worship Service
KSU - ALL FAITHS CHAPEL

Rugged Cross Baptist
Services
1540 Pipher Lane
Sunday School 10 am
Preaching 11 am
(King James)
Salvation - Heartfelt
Music - Southern Gospel
call Jeff @ 539-5251 for info
jbdenton@sbcglobal.net

WESTVIEW COMMUNITY CHURCH
8:15, 9:30, 11:00AM & 6:00PM
College and Young Married Couples Sunday School @ 9:30 & 11:00AM
Youth Ministry Opportunities
College Pastor: Ben Rotz
Senior Pastor: David Thompson
3001 Ft. Riley Blvd.
537-7173
www.westviewcommunity.com

Grace Baptist Church
2901 Dickens - 2 blks. E. of of Seth Child
◆ Sunday ◆
Morning Worship
8:15 & 10:45 a.m.
Bible Classes For All Ages 9:30 a.m.
776-0424

St. Isidore's Catholic Student Center
MASS SCHEDULE
Tuesday-Thursday 10:00 p.m.
Friday 12:10 p.m.
Saturday 5 p.m.
Sunday 9:30 a.m., 11 a.m.
Sun. 4:30 p.m., 6 p.m.
Father Keith Weber, Chaplain
711 Denison 539-7496

Lutheran Campus Ministry
Tuesday Supper, 6 p.m.
at Luther House 1745 Anderson
Sunday Evening Worship
7 p.m., Danforth Chapel
www.ksu.edu/lcm-elca
Pastor Jayne Thompson
(pastorj@ksu.edu) 539-4451
— Open to All —

Peace Lutheran Church
Worship Sundays
8:30 and 11:00
Sunday School and
Adult forum 9:45
Contemporary
Service 7:00 p.m.
Pastor Michael Ide
peace-lutheran@sbcglobal.net
With Christ . . . Gather . . . Grow and Go Forth!

First Christian Church
1429 St. Marys Rd
Junction City, KS
Where you are welcome!
Sunday School 9:30 am
Morning Service 10:35 am
Youth Lunch noon
Evening Service 6:00 pm
Senior Minister Ronnie Roberts
Youth Minister Kevin Peterson www.fccjcks.com
email:fcc@nqks.com

First Presbyterian Church
Students Welcome!
• Sunday Worship at •
9:15 & 10:30 a.m.
801 Leavenworth St.
537-0518

Faith Evangelical Free Church
• Worship at 8:00, 10:30, 12:00
• Sunday School at 9:15
• College Class at 9:15
Steve Ratliff, Senior Pastor
Brian Anderson, Assoc. Pastor
1921 Barnes Rd
1.6 Miles North of Kimball
776-2086

Christian Science Society
Sunday 10:30 a.m.
Danforth Chapel
KSU Campus
Wed. 7:30 in Reading Room
Reading Room open Tues.-Thurs. 11-1
105 N. 4th St.

Agape Family Church
121 S. 4th - Downtown
An Affiliate of RHEMA Bible Church aka Kenneth Hagin Ministries
Sunday 9:30 a.m. School of the Bible
Sunday 10:30 a.m. Worship
Sunday 7:00 p.m. Evening Worship
Wednesday 7:30 p.m. Hour of Power
Youth & Children's Services
STERLING HUDGINS - PASTOR
Office: 121 S. 4th Suite 205
agapefamilychurch.org
We are in our new building!
Everyone is welcome.
(785) 539-3570

You are welcome at...
FIRST ASSEMBLY OF GOD
Sunday School.....9 AM
Sunday AM Worship.....10 AM
Sunday PM Worship.....6 PM
Wednesday Prayer Meeting...7 PM
Come to Chi Alpha, Wednesday nights at 8 PM in the KSU Student Union Little Theater for worship, the Word, and friends.
2310 CANDLEWOOD DR.
MANHATTAN, KS 66503
(785) 537-7633
WWW.MANHATTANAG.ORG

OPINION

TO THE POINT

SGA doesn't fall prey to serving its own constituents

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Paul Restivo
Katie Lane
James Hurla
Abbie Whited
Edie Hall
Andrew Lawson
Dave Skretta
Rachel Krier
Corbin H. Crable
Chris Harrop

Kudos to the Student Governing Association for not buckling to the demands of its constituents.

The members fought bravely in the face of adversity, and instead of speaking out against Mayor Mark Taussig's marriage proclamation, Student Senate boldly appeased the city government.

Hooray for democracy.

In a more dictatorial setting, we could have expected our senators to represent the majority viewpoint of their constituents. Instead, Senate gallantly voted in favor of dancing gracefully around the real issue and instead reaffirmed their commitment to diversity.

If only our national government would follow suit and reaffirm its commitment to the abolition of slavery and women's suffrage.

Part of the university's duty is to prepare students for their future careers.

When our Senate learned that it could side-step an issue by waiting several weeks before addressing it, they learned a valuable lesson.

We will sleep well at night knowing the future of American politics is in the hands of this select group – and that politicking will not change with them.

Gary Haynes | UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

A porter removes President John F. Kennedy's rocking chair the day following Kennedy's assassination in 1963. K-State alumnus Gary Haynes took the photograph while working for the United Press International. Haynes said the photograph was full of symbolism because America's supposedly young, vibrant president enjoyed having a rocking chair in his office because of his physical ailments. Haynes flew to Washington, D.C. following Kennedy's assassination to cover the White House immediately following Kennedy's assassination.

Frozen in time

Photographer recounts memories of detailing symbols of Camelot's untimely demise

GARY HAYNES
GUEST COLUMN

The bulletin that President John F. Kennedy had been killed in Dallas reached me in the Atlanta United Press International bureau just moments before my editor told me to catch a flight to Washington, D.C. – immediately.

With no time to pack, I grabbed cameras and film and left for the airport with just the clothes on my back, in disbelief, stunned along with the rest of the country that the youngest president in the nation's history was dead.

On the plane, alone with my thoughts, I wondered if there was some symbolic photograph to be taken.

I'd covered stops on Kennedy's campaign and had been assigned to his inauguration. In the Oval Office, Kennedy had two rocking chairs, prominent symbols of advanced age that stood in stark contrast to the image of our young – he was 43 – and vigorous president.

If I could get into that office before they moved everything, I might get a dramatic picture of his empty rocking chair, symbolic in the foreground. Our "system," of course, doesn't work like that.

I arrived at the White House from the airport to learn Lyndon Johnson already had been sworn in aboard Air Force One, which also was bringing JFK's casket and widow back to Washington, and all of JFK's furniture had already been removed from the Oval Office to make way for his successor.

At the main entrance to the White House swarmed 50 or more of the nation's best and brightest photographers. The afternoon sky was brooding, and there was a light rain.

None of them were paying any attention to the side of the White House.

On the side of the house, stacked unceremoniously in a White House hallway, was JFK's furniture. Porters were moving it a bit at a time to storage across the street. Some of it already had been transferred, but a porter told me the rocking chairs were down the hall.

He agreed to make a subtle signal just before he moved the chairs. I went back around front and photographed a few dignitaries, but my focus stayed on that porter.

He made the signal. I put my camera bag down on the White House steps, and with just one camera and lens, I ambled over to the side of the White House.

Not one other photographer noticed, and I was the only photographer there when the porter rolled JFK's chairs out of the White House on a furniture dolly. I used no flash – the gloomy weather added to the mood – and I shot fewer than 10 frames in total.

We already were across the street when a fellow UPI shooter from our Washington staff, Roddey Mims, suddenly appeared behind me and began blazing away with a flash on his camera. I told him to stop – we had the picture, and he would attract attention.

The porter left the chairs next to the elevator and went back for more furniture. UPI had its exclusive.

Mims, for reasons I could never grasp, hollered down the long hallway to alert Frank "Cancy" Cancellare, another White House photographer waiting for something at the other end, that "the man's chair" was there. I wanted to maim Mims on the spot.

Cancy knew me, and he shrugged. He knew I had it – that he didn't have to run down the hallway – but Eddie Adams of the Associated Press, sitting near Cancy, dashed toward the elevator. Thanks to my loudmouth UPI colleague, AP got a photo of the chairs, sitting at the elevator doors, with nobody in the picture.

My photo is not a great picture, but certainly a symbolic one – the black porter pushing the dolly, the rainy street.

Anybody could have taken that picture – and maybe done a better job of it – but a collection of the best news photographers didn't because they didn't think about it and they weren't looking for it and therefore didn't see it.

My photo – UPI's photos ran uncredited in those days – ran in almost all the publications UPI served.

During my 11-year stint with UPI, and after that as a picture editor at a couple of the nation's large dailies, one of my proudest moments in news photography, and especially from that time surrounding JFK's assassination, was getting that exclusive photo at the White House from under the very noses of the nation's top photographers.

Gary is a former photographer for United Press International and a K-State alumnus. You can e-mail him at verity@rochelle.net.

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@spub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Paul Restivo | EDITOR IN CHIEF Katie Lane | MANAGING EDITOR

James Hurla NEWS EDITOR
Kelly Glasscock PHOTO EDITOR
Corbin H. Crable COPY CHIEF
Dave Skretta SPORTS EDITOR
Rachel Krier THE EDGE EDITOR
Chris Harrop ONLINE EDITOR
Abbie Whited CITY/GOV EDITOR
Andrew Lawson OPINION EDITOR
Jared Jaynes AD MANAGER
Edie Hall CAMPUS EDITOR
Dana Strongin WRITING COACH
Jenny Calvert ASST. AD MANAGER

MONDAY'S OPINIONS

Jesse Loewen explains why every home needs a gun.

JESSE LOEWEN

Amy Link reflects on the different personalities in every family that must be confronted and cherished when going home for Thanksgiving.

AMY LINK

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Expected graduation date: Never?

Editor,

Upon entering K-State, we were given a promise.

Whether we realized it or not, in each of the purple folders we carried on our visits here, the promises of President Wefald were in print. One included in K-State's philosophy was a "commitment to timely graduation."

It reads, "K-State offers courses to enable students to graduate in a timely manner, and a high percentage of students who stick with the same major graduate on schedule. We believe that graduation is the result of a strong partnership between students who work hard and a university committed to student success."

Whether Wefald actually wrote this or not, his name signed under these promises to incoming students should mean they're valid. However, in my time here, I have become more and more frustrated every semester with the lack of true concern for the students as I go to enroll.

The classes I need to not only graduate, but also to move onto the next level in my sequence of prerequisites, tend to not be available to me. They either are closed because of limited sections being offered, or are offered at conflicting times within a semester.

How does the university expect students to graduate on time when this continues to occur? I know budget cuts happen and this is a larger problem, but we can enact a solution simply by getting professors to sit down and ensure scheduling conflicts are avoided.

Wefald said graduation occurs when students work hard and also stick to the same major, yet this promise has little weight with me.

Despite remaining in the same major, not taking any unnecessary classes, enrolling in night classes, taking summer school and coming in with 12 credits, the courses I need to move on are not available every semester I go to enroll.

I'm running out of options, and I'm running out of time. Many other students across the university share my frustrations with conflicts in scheduling, limited availability of sections and unwillingness of professors to teach outside of the 9-2 prime time because of their fear that students won't take those classes.

I know if I had the choice between taking a class at 5 p.m. and graduating in four years, I would take all the evening classes I could fit in.

I can't afford to let K-State take my tuition for five or six years simply because they can't take the time to sit down and fix the problem. Don't offer classes at conflicting times – it's that simple.

Sit down and make sure students are able to advance in their curriculum. Sit down and make sure students are able to graduate. Sit down and make sure K-State is remaining true to its promises.

We can't continue to gain students if we continue to fill them with empty statements. We need to fix the problem.

We need to be the university we promise to be.

Tara Hanney
JUNIOR IN ELECTRONIC JOURNALISM

CAMPUS FOURUM

395-4444

Mr. Clean — I mean, Nabil — will you please come wax my floors?

Tonight, the children of the world can sleep easy, knowing that Michael Jackson will be arrested.

Thanksgiving — season of gluttony and pigskin.

I just want to say "Thanks" to all the classy guys that open doors for us ladies on campus. You guys are awesome — thanks.

I just saw Jesse Loewen on campus, and I think he's even uglier in person.

To the moron who called the Fourum today: War is not a game — you don't stop when the score is tied.

To the girl who couldn't put her cell phone down while renting a movie last night: I feel very sorry and I feel great pity for you, because it must have been horrible being raised by people who didn't love you enough to teach you good manners.

Sure, guys can pee standing up, but can they cry themselves out of a speeding ticket? I think not.

Page 272 of my World Politics book: Looks like Colin Powell is smoking crack.

Nothing shows that you mean business like a drive-by body piercing.

Hey Andrew, is it inconceivable to you that the Iraqis could actually take care of their own problems?

The only reason you thought the volleyball game was more exciting than any other football game you've been to is because you're an idiot.

Yeah, if it puts you back in the lead, it must be fair.

Why are they raising tuition again? Surely Ell doesn't need a new truck ... yet.

I guarantee 90 percent of those people on the responsible drinking picture were hammered.

Not enough Fourum? Visit www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

Time to remember

Messages of C.S. Lewis, JFK combine to promote selflessness

It has been a week for remembering.

President John F. Kennedy's death seems to bring a sense of nostalgia and sadness to even those of us who were not yet born when he was brutally and mysteriously killed. That month and that year demanded much from the American people.

TAMMY JO OSBORN

November 1963 was not only the time the world lost a leader, but also C.S. Lewis, a great writer and philosopher, whose death was a blow to many. Although he was a British citizen, America embraced Lewis for his walk of faith, time of intense grief and ability to share such journeys with others.

"A Grief Observed" chronicles his wrenching search for the meaning behind sorrow and pain, and nakedly addresses the anger and frustration he has with a God who seems to be absent when needed most. Having just finished reading it, I cannot help but wonder what we lost with the death of such an inquiring spirit.

Not afraid to share doubt through his writing, he grasped the humanity that each person has. The movie "Shadowlands" provides background to the grief he faces when the death of his wife leaves him stranded on an island of sorrow.

Before he met "H" – as he refers to her in his book – he lived through his intellect, satisfied with the bachelor existence he maintained. It was easy, and no emotional price was demanded, which is much the same attitude most of us have. The lower the risk, the better, it seems.

"H" changed all that for Lewis. The book is a testimony to a love that creates changes and calls for us to look for more in life than what exists before us. For Lewis, he struggled to know if her suffering from cancer carried over into the afterlife.

JFK was a leader, and he asked our nation to answer to a higher calling. "Ask not what your country can do for you, ask what you can do for your country," is one of the most invigorating quotes I have encountered when discussing American patriotism.

Ironically, that is the call of humanity. Any relationship demands this same thing. We must do unto others, and not demand that they do unto us. It is not a scorecard, but a mutual benefit when good is done for the sake of doing it.

This is what Lewis saw when he met and married "H," and it is what, through the honesty of his pen, he calls for each person to see.

The beauty of what he lost is not encapsulated in a now-dead body, but instead highlighted the beauty of what love is – being able to give to another because you can love them with no strings attached. He found he had the ability to do just that.

In other words, ask not what your spouse, friend or parent can do for you, but what you can do for them.

The death of these two men was poignant for their mutual push for humanity to adhere to a higher calling. It is for this reason we cannot only mourn their deaths, but also take time to learn from their legacy and begin to see that, though different in personal experiences, these men saw a universal truth.

That life is made up of more than what we do for ourselves. It is looking outward and being open, whatever the consequences.

For JFK, that meant death; for Lewis, it meant heartbreak. Either way, it was worth the effort, and it would serve us well to understand that as we look back this week.

Tammy Jo is a senior in political science, international studies, anthropology and premedicine. You can e-mail her at tammyjo@k-state.edu.

Illustration by Ben Dolezal | COLLEGIAN

Check Out Our Game Specials

Home of the Everyday Low Prices

Natural Light 24 Pack Cans Everyday Price ... $9.99

Miller Lite and MGD 30 Pk Cans ... $13.99

Keystone 30 Pk ... Save $.89 ... $12.99

Barton or Viaka Vodka 1.75L ... Save $1.00 ... $8.99

Kentucky Gentleman 1.75L ... Save $1.66 ... $10.99

Crown Royal 750ML ... Save $2.70 ... $18.99

Need Large Quantities!

Bring Your Truck and We Can Load It With Our Fork Lift.

While Supplies Last—Only Good through Nov. 26

Classic Wine and Spirits

Next to Home Depot and across from Target

Come see us at...
www.ranieriphotography.com
ONE PICTURE IS WORTH A THOUSAND WORDS.

favorites from our bookshelf
Children's Book Week 2003
Childhood Favorites
-Dan-
It Was a Dark and Silly Night
Claflin Books and Copies

Tell family & friends TODAY! Keep for future reference

IMPORTANT—Read Now!

KSU Bowl Game MU

Ticket Info!

If KSU or MU wins the Big 12 they will be in a BCS Bowl, which all limit the # of tkts. allotted to the teams. The Cotton Bowl picks a runner-up Big 12 team, not necessarily the loser of the Title game. KSU & MU are both options for the game if they are not Big 12 Champs. Game is on Fri. 1/2/04 1 PM in Dallas.

The Cotton Bowl now ALLOTS ONLY 12,000 tickets to each participant team , as it premarkets thousands of tickets to repeat buyers & Corporate sponsors IN ORDER TO HELP INSURE SELLOUTS (verify through public info). Most of the allotment are endzone seats (public info., Cotton Bowl seating chart). If either KSU or MU is in the bowl, there will likely be great interest by thousands of fans (SEC team likely Ole Miss or LSU). KSU will use a priority point system that uses donor level to the Ahearn fund & other factors to determine who gets tickets. (MU would use a similar system). Each participant may need to limit the # of tickets any person may receive. Due to demand, thousands likely may not get tickets to the Cotton Bowl. Fans need to watch for OFFICIAL NOTICES by the participant ticket office for complete details on procedures to be used for the distribution of these tickets.

If KSU or MU is in the Cotton Bowl & you/family/ friends are unable to get tickets for the game through the distribution by your university, there is still a great opportunity for you to attend the game. Hundreds of fans have been helped to attend the Cotton Bowl FOR OVER 15 YEARS, through Texasports Charters, & sat in GREAT YARDLINE SEATS ! The owner is a Platinum Package Corporate Ticket holder of tickets from the Cotton Bowl (easily verified w/name in last KSU Cotton Bowl program). We helped a large # of KSU fans for the last 2 Cotton Bowls, & have had ads in Powercat Illustrated.
Tickets are ordered from the Cotton Bowl each Spring. In return for the order of a very large # of tickets, the Cotton Bowl guarantees great yardline seats. These are packaged with a variety of lodging choices & ticket groups to help fans attend the game and SAVE MONEY, compared to other options. A variety of options meet a variety of needs & budgets. NO TRANSPORTATION IS OFFERED W/ PACKAGES.

FOR DETAILS email to KSTATEALUMNI@SWBELL.NET
or to MISSOURIALUMNI@SWBELL.NET

YOU MAY PRERESERVE A PACKAGE TO GUARANTEE YOUR CHOICE. NO OBLIGATION IF YOUR TEAM IS NOT IN THE BOWL. YOU WILL BE GIVEN AN AGREEMENT FOR THIS.

TEXASPORTS CHARTERS 2609 Ave. O ½ Galveston, TX 77550 409-762-4676
Best of luck to the K State Wildcats and Missouri Tigers in the postseason. Go BIG 12 !

Rusty's last chance IN SHAWNEE, KANSAS

Weekly Specials
At Rusty's Last Chance,
Located In
Shawnee, Kansas
10901 W. 75th St.
*SPECIALS NOT VALID IN MANHATTAN

WEDNESDAYS
50¢ DRAWS
PITCHERS $2.75

THURSDAYS & SATURDAYS
$1 WELLS
$1.50 CALLS SHOTS
BOTTLES
$2 BIG BEERS

FRIDAYS
IMPORTS $2.75

Come Visit Us In Shawnee, KS
During Your Thanksgiving Break!

Cats, win this one for Kevin

LOUIE NOVAK

On Saturday night, the football team will take the field at KSU Stadium with the opportunity to be the outright Big 12 North champion.

The game is sure be very special and memorable for many associated with K-State.

Seniors Ell Roberson, Nick Leckey, Josh Buhl and all of the other 25 Wildcat seniors will play the final home game of their college careers in front of 50,000 screaming fans.

Thing is, Coach Bill Snyder and the rest of the football program already have shown me something that is more impressive than anything they could possibly do under the lights Saturday night.

The call Snyder made earlier this week means more to me than any decision he could possibly make during the game.

All will notice the symbolic stickers on the helmets of every Wildcat player when the team plays in arguably their biggest game of the season.

On the sticker will read the initials "K.A."

Those initials stand for Kevin Armstrong, the 20-year-old junior whose life was cut short in a car accident Friday night near Randolph, Kan.

Armstrong was killed while he and three friends were traveling to the football game in Lincoln, Neb.

The driver of the car in which Armstrong was riding swerved to avoid another vehicle that had crossed the center line of US Highway 77. The driver overcorrected and hit another vehicle, killing the driver, Jeffrey Tryon, 20, of Waterville, Kan.

The car that Armstrong was riding in then became airborne and landed on another vehicle – that driver, along with Armstrong's three friends, suffered serious injuries but survived the horrific accident.

On Monday, Snyder called Armstrong's mother and offered his condolences. Snyder also informed her that the team would dedicate the big game tomorrow night to her son and place decals on the helmets in his honor. That is a class act and we should all be proud that our football coach made that decision.

Snyder said Armstrong's mother was honored that the team would do such an act. As a student, I am honored as well.

Associate Athletic Director Sean Snyder said the stickers was the least the program could do.

"It is a very tough thing losing anyone," he said. "We definitely appreciate the support he gave to the team and what we are doing is to simply show him respect."

Armstrong was from Paola, Kan., and had a 3.9 grade-point average. He was a member of KSU Navigators, a Christian campus organization, and was set to graduate early.

I had some good friends make that same trip last weekend, and have traveled to see our team play a few road games myself. My friends and I reflected on how Kevin passed and knew that any one of us could have been on that road.

I want to thank Snyder and the rest of the program for what they are doing Saturday night. I hope all who read this realize what an amazing gesture it is that they are performing.

For all the friends and family of Kevin Armstrong, I also want to offer my condolences. I hope the team will win this one for him, and I believe he will be watching and smiling with the best seat in the house.

Louie is a senior in mass communications. You can e-mail him at km9888@k-state.edu.

Texas showdown

Lindsey Bauman | COLLEGIAN
Senior setter Laura Downey-Wallace makes a dig as senior libero Kris Jensen reacts during game three against Colorado. The Cats face Texas Tech this weekend at Ahearn Field House.

Lindsey Bauman | COLLEGIAN
Lisa Martin makes a play during a match against Colorado during an October match in Ahearn Field House. The Cats will be host to Texas Tech at 2 p.m. Saturday.

If you go
K-State vs. Texas Tech

When: 2 p.m. Saturday
Where: Ahearn Field House
How much: $5 for adults, $2 for youth/senior citizen, free with student ID

Cats' 1st Big 12 title dependent on win against Texas Tech

By Wes Marfield
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Needing only one match to clinch K-State's first ever Big 12 Championship in volleyball, Coach Suzie Fritz knows the importance of tomorrow afternoon against Texas Tech.

The fact that it is at home makes it that much more special.

All season Fritz has been overjoyed with the support of the Wildcat faithful, including a school-record 5,287 fans packed inside Ahearn Field House for the Cats' victory over Nebraska on Nov. 11.

She even has given them credit for victories this season, calling them a seventh man of sorts who propelled K-State to victories in tough five-game matches.

To win the conference title at home, Fritz said, would make the experience something she and the rest of the team would never forget.

That ties back to the support of the fans.

"I think it would be very special because we've had a tremendous following, and the fans have really supported our team," Fritz said. "To clinch at home in Ahearn would be unbelievable."

But first, the 5th-ranked Cats have to get through the Red Raiders.

The last time the two teams faced off was a 3-0 K-State victory Sept. 20 in Lubbock, Texas.

The Cats had no trouble fending off Texas Tech, taking the three games by scores of 30-28, 30-24 and 30-23.

See VOLLEYBALL Page 8

Zach Long | COLLEGIAN
K-State guard Twiggy McIntyre closes in on Purdue guard Erika Valek during the Wildcats' loss to the Boilermakers on Sunday in West Lafayette, Ind. K-State will try to rebound from the loss when it plays host to Western Illinois tonight at Bramlage Coliseum.

Defending the homefront

Women's basketball home-opener tonight will pit K-State against Illinois

By David Skretta
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Defending the homefront is always easier than moving into uncharted territory.

The No. 8 women's basketball team is hoping its defense is more stout when the Wildcats (0-1) play host to Western Illinois in the home-opener at 6 tonight in Bramlage Coliseum.

The game is the first of a women's-men's double-header. The men play Birmingham-Southern at 8:30 p.m.

But for K-State, a week's worth of practice is what Coach Deb Patterson hopes will rectify a poor defensive effort in a 79-69 loss to No. 5 Purdue on Sunday in West Lafayette, Ind.

The Wildcats were unable to stop All-Americans Shereka Wright and Erika Valek, and despite holding a one-point lead in the second half, were not able to pull away.

"We didn't string together enough stops at the defensive end," said forward Kendra Wecker, who scored 16 points in the loss. "If we scored on offense, they came right back and jammed it down our throats."

A second-half run pulled Purdue ahead by as many as 17 in the second half before K-State closed to single-digits. Still, the Cats were unable to get close enough to put Purdue in danger.

"It was big-time step-up basketball by Purdue," Patterson said.

See WOMEN Page 8

Game against Birmingham-Southern kicks off men's season

By Louie Novak
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

After two exhibition games and months of beating up on each other, the men's basketball team finally plays a real one when it opens its season against Birmingham-Southern at 8:30 tonight in Bramlage Coliseum.

Senior guard Frank Richards said his team is ready to get on the court.

"We are tired of beating up on each other," Richards said. "We are all ready to get out there and play a real one."

Junior college transfer Jeremiah Massey is one of many new faces on this year's squad, and said he has been waiting for this night since he signed to be a Wildcat.

"I am very exited and ready to play my first game," Massey said. "The exhibition games are important, but the first real game is on another level."

With so many new players on this Wildcat team, Coach Jim Wooldridge said the uncertainty surrounding this group has made him a little nervous heading into his fourth year at K-State.

"We are always nervous going into a new year, but I would say that this year has been a little different," Wooldridge said. "We have so many new players that it seems like we are taking baby steps to see progress."

Wooldridge added that each day his team improves and hopes for them to soon reach the level he wants them to be at.

"We are still learning a lot about this team. Every day with this group is a new day," he said. "We try to be as confident in our abilities as we can be and plan to come out and put forth good effort with hopes of having a good game."

Wooldridge said that his team plans to use tonight's game as a cornerstone on which to build a solid season.

"Our challenge is for us to play as good a basketball game as we can," Wooldridge said. "Hopefully we can build on that from game to game and become a better team as we move into conference play."

Although his team is not where he wants them to be, Wooldridge said he looks for them to use tonight as another chance to make strides in getting there.

With a team filled with so much optimism and uncertainty, the road to a successful season begins tonight against Birmingham-Southern.

"By the time we get into mid-late December we hope to be substantially better. To do that we have to get better right now," Wooldridge said. "That can't happen all at once, it has to progressively happen for you as you move through each week."

1-MINUTE DRILL

The Associated Press

College football | TCU falls to Southern Miss, 40-28

TCU in the BCS? Southern Mississippi put an end to any debate by fighting off a frantic comeback attempt by the Horned Frogs.

Dustin Almond threw for 227 yards and three touchdowns and the Golden Eagles capitalized on four turnovers to hand the 10th-ranked Horned Frogs their first loss of the season, 40-28 on Thursday night.

Southern Mississippi (8-3, 7-0) clinched at least a share of the Conference USA title and can win it outright with a victory over East Carolina.

NBA | Rockets forward Griffin facing felony assault charges

Authorities have charged suspended Houston Rockets forward Eddie Griffin with two counts stemming from an alleged confrontation last month in which a woman said he beat her and fired a gun in her direction.

Griffin

Griffin, 21, is charged with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon, a felony, and assault with bodily injury, a misdemeanor, Houston police spokesman John Cannon said.

Joann Romero accused Griffin of hitting her three times in the face and shooting at her as she drove away some time before dawn on Oct. 25 from his home in a gated community in Houston.

NFL | Fiancee of Browns running back pleads innocent

Cleveland Browns running back William Green's fiancee pleaded not guilty Thursday to charges she stabbed the running back at their home.

Green

Brown was wounded in his left shoulder during a fight Wednesday, police said. Asia Gray, who has two children with Green, was held on $18,500 bond. She is charged with assault and domestic violence and, if convicted on both counts, could face two to eight years in prison.

GOLF | International team leads US in Presidents Cup

The International team rallied over the final three holes in the final three matches of the Presidents Cup Thursday to take a 3 1/2-2 1/2 lead over the United States in George, South Africa.

The Presidents Cup pits the Americans against a team of International golfers.

NFL | Vick still ailing

Atlanta Falcons quarterback Michael Vick missed practice Thursday and indicated he won't play against the Tennessee Titans this weekend.

Vick

Vick sprained his right ankle in a morning walkthrough Wednesday when guard Martin Bibla accidentally stepped on his foot. Vick hasn't played in a game since breaking his leg in preseason.

NFL | Players union refuses to allow retest for steroid use

The NFL Players Association is expected to challenge the league's right to retest samples for evidence of the previously undetectable steroid, THG. A union source, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said Wednesday that under the collective bargaining agreement, the union must first agree to it.

The NFL said last month it would retest urine samples for traces of THG after the designer drug became target of an investigation by the US Anti-Doping Agency.

Ten NFL players were recently summoned before a grand jury looking into the drug. Dozens of other athletes have been subpoenaed as well, ranging from baseball's Barry Bonds to boxing's Shane Mosley.

Strokes' 2nd album maintains sloppy style

"The Strokes"

★★★☆☆

Album review by Matthew Webber

Courtesy art

Reviewing the Strokes is easy. Separating their highly anticipated sophomore album, "Room on Fire," from the hype machine is impossible.

Deciding whether I even like it is a Sisyphusian ordeal.

The Strokes are five unkempt dudes in a New York garage band who sing about being five unkempt dudes in a New York garage band. In the past month, they have appeared on the covers of Rolling Stone and Spin, both of which praised them with mouth-foaming fervor.

Articles about the Strokes typically follow a Mad Libs formula. "The Strokes are the (superlative adjective) band in (synonym for someplace large). (Hyperbolic description of album). (String of clever, showoffy metaphors)."

Let's try it.

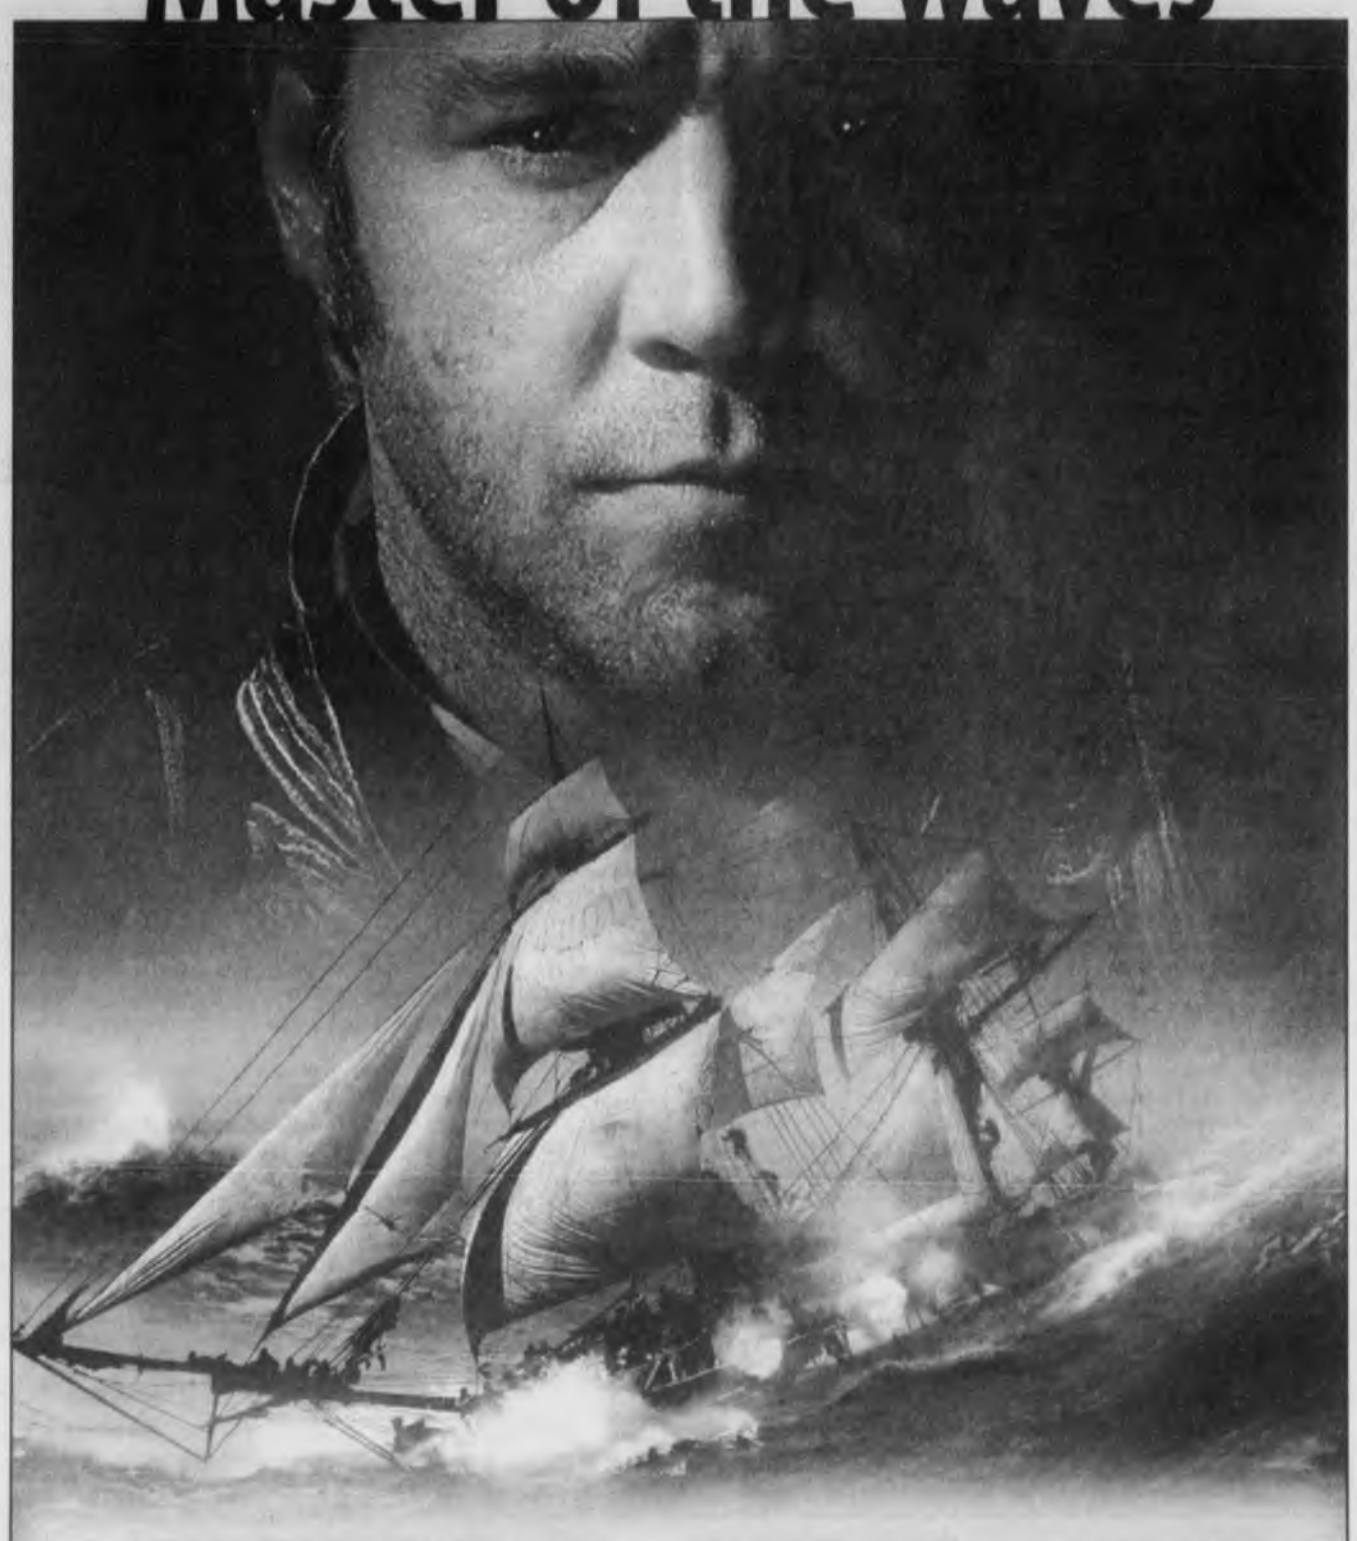
"The Strokes are the raddest band in the northern hemisphere. 'Room on Fire' is without a doubt the finest piece of music ever written, performed or recorded by humans. A new song, 'Meet Me in the Bathroom,' is as explosive as TNT in Wile E. Coyote's paw. The most adept rockers since the Bremen Town Musicians, the Strokes are to coolness as Jonas Salk is to vaccines."

And I have been brainwashed by music magazines.

In their defense, the Strokes are the Rolling Stones of the new rock movement. Like the Stones, they have influenced countless inferior bands, and they keep making the same song.

However, like the Stones, the Strokes have the potential to occasionally amaze. The eighth-note bass notes in "12:51" propel the song's tempo like an Olympic sprinter's footsteps.

The guitar riff and bridge of "Reptila" is as dumb, elementary and life-altering as the blast from an amplifier when its owner discovers volume knobs, distortion pedals and pissing off the parents.



"Room on Fire" is the Strokes' debut, "Is This It," part two.

After experimenting with Radiohead producer Nigel Godrich, the Strokes returned to Gordon Raphael and his clean-but-murky production. Every guitar sounds both crispy and mushy. Lead singer Julian Casablancas still sounds like he's singing into a tin-can-and-string telephone.

The performances would sound sloppy, if they all weren't so meticulous.

This is why the Strokes frustrate me: they are talented enough to sound like the most slipshod band on earth.

Master of the waves

"Master and Commander: The Far Side of the World"

★★★★☆

Movie review by Jacob Walker

There is a big difference between a high-speed chase on the open sea and a high-speed car chase on the streets of a city.

On the street, it is fast and exciting. There are pedestrians, red lights, traffic and that stupid woman pushing a baby carriage across the road.

As we see in "Master and Commander: The Far Side of the World," in the early 19th century, there was no such thing as a high speed chase.

Russell Crowe plays Captain "Lucky" Jack Aubrey, of the H.M.S. Surprise, on orders to stop a French warship from spreading the tides of war. Crowe's character has an excellent reputation, but nonetheless, repeatedly gets his butt kicked by his French adversary.

The whole movie consists of the Surprise getting surprised herself. The ship gets sucker punched, retreats to lick her wounds, then tries to catch up to the French ship again.

That actually sounds worse than it is. Because nautical chases are 90 percent patience and strategy, the focus of the movie rests on life at sea.

Superstition, obedience, trust, courage, honor and duty all take their place in the resolve of the crew, officers and deck hands alike.

This paints an incredibly realistic portrait of naval life in that era, so captivating, in fact, that the viewer might not mind the constant delay of action.

The acting is very well done, even from the handful of young actors who play the officers in training, a sign of excellent casting. Crowe might be the only name the audience recognizes, but a few familiar faces take their place in the cast.

The movie's only, downside is that in the films rare and valuable action scenes, the gun smoke and fast movement make it hard to follow until it is all over.

MOVIES

■ All times are p.m. unless otherwise noted.
■ All times in parentheses show Saturday and Sunday only.

"Cat in the Hat"
(12), (1), (1:55), (3), (3:50), 5, 5:45, 7, 7:40, 9, 9:35
Comedian Mike Myers stars as the titular feline in this live-action adaptation of the beloved book by children's author Dr. Seuss.

"Gothika"
(1:25), 4:25, 7:25, 9:55
In this psychological horror film, a criminal psychologist (Halle Berry) awakens to find herself a patient in the very institution in which she works, with no memory of a murder of which she's accused.

"Love Actually"
(1), 4:10, 7:15, 10:10
Hugh Grant, Rowan Atkinson, Liam Neeson and Keira Knightley headline this ambitious ensemble romantic comedy telling ten separate but intertwining stories set in London around Christmas.

"Master and Commander"
(12:45), 4, 7:10, 10:10
Russell Crowe stars in this seafaring adventure set during the Napoleonic Wars, based upon a novel by Patrick O'Brian.

"Looney Tunes"
(12:15), (2:30), 4:45, 7:20, 9:35
Bugs Bunny, Daffy Duck, Yosemite Sam and the rest of the Looney Tunes gang return in this live-action adventure.

"The Matrix Revolutions"
(1), (1:30), 4, 4:30, 7, 7:30, 9:50
Neo, Trinity, Morpheus, Agent Smith and the rest of the Matrix cast of characters return for the conclusion to the science fiction epic.

"Brother Bear"
(1), (3:05), 5:10, 7:15, 9:20
In this Disney animated feature, a Native American tribal chief's son, voiced by Joaquin Phoenix, is transformed into a bear to see the world in a new way.

"Elf"
(12), (2:20), 4:40, 7, 9:20
Will Ferrell stars in this Christmas comedy as a human raised by Santa's elves who travels to Manhattan looking for his real dad.

"Radio"
(1:15), 4:15, 7:15, 9:45
Cuba Gooding Jr. and Ed Harris star in this true story as a mentally-challenged man in a small South Carolina town and the football coach who mentored him and encouraged him to become the team's mascot and morale booster.

"Texas Chainsaw Massacre"
(1:45), 4:20, 7:45, 10
This remake looks back at the horrible events that occurred when five young people traveling through rural Texas found themselves besieged by a cannibalistic chainsaw-wielding maniac called Leatherface.

About a girl: song lyrics written from the heart

DIVERSIONS

A weekly column on music, movies, and all things related to pop culture.

MATTHEW WEBBER

At some open mic night, I open my mouth and stutter.

"This is, ahem, a song about a girl."

I say this to everyone, to anyone, to myself, as I stare at my hands or at a Budweiser True Music neon sign. My left hand forms an E minor chord. My right hand squeezes my pick.

What song am I playing? Almost all of my originals are about girls.

I'm about to play "The Letter Song," which often is the first song I play, not because it is my favorite but honestly because it is so simple. It is E minor, C then G, all the way through the verses and the chorus. Then it changes to A then C for the bridge.

Plus, the way I wrote it, the words don't begin for four bars. This gives me a reprieve of about 15 seconds before I finally have to sing in front of other people, most of whom are chatting and drinking cheap beer.

Gulp. I open my mouth, and a silly pop song spills out.

"Your hands began a paragraph/Your fingers were the words/When you reached the period/It was what I've always heard."

I'm not sure anyone hears it. All I can hear is my own voice from the monitor. I'm starting to think the song is cheesy, because it's about 5 years old.

I think I should have started with "Cruise Control," which is kind of about driving but is really about heartbreak, since some people have told me it is my catchiest song. But I'll have to save it for the end now, like I pretty much do every time. It also starts with E minor, but so does everything else.

So does "Katarina," which I think is what I'll play next. "I wrote this song about a girl I met in New York," I'll say, which actually is the truth. The joke is she's a stripper, so it is one of those precocious story songs. I'd rather you read it than listen.

"I mail myself to somewhere real/I mail myself to you."

Two other singer/songwriters chuckle at the bar. Outside, my friend tunes up. I'm singing to the backs of heads.

Does anyone care that I'm starting to get into this? That I'm starting to believe my voice isn't horrible?

Even if they're watching, they probably can't tell. I'm either standing still, or I'm perched on a stool like a gargoyle. I'm watching my fingers or the darkness behind my eyes.

Why do I play for the people playing pinball at Gumby's Pizza and Pub? Why do I play in the smokiness of Fat's?

"I mail my heart to someone real/I mail my heart to you."

Emboldened, impassioned, I pick someone to sing to. He/she might not know it, so I feign a connection. I sing, and I pretend he/she listens.

Sometimes this person actually compliments me afterwards. My favorite praise is always, "I really like your lyrics."

Whenever this happens, it justifies the times it doesn't. It justifies the reason I picked up a guitar in the first place.

It justifies why I ever wrote a song.

I play an arpeggio. The G chord fades to silence. The PA system hums. The hands of musicians and some of their friends clap.

"Thank you," I mumble, and I sincerely mean it. "This one's about a girl in New York."

Of course, I play E minor. More confidently, I sing. The first line of "Katarina" is, "Are you listening to me tonight?" Nobody answers. In my dreams, though, everyone is.

Matthew is a graduate student in English. You can e-mail him at maw8686@k-state.edu.

Herr Metzger | Julian Narino www.herrmetzger.com

Puck | Kent Holle kentramone@yahoo.com

HOTEL | Additional hotel might offer learning options for KSU students with a hotel that was on campus and gave us more of a community and campus identity. It's also important to keep the relationship we have with the other hotels in town and the surrounding area. It would be important to balance both of those things."

Continued from Page 1

Brad Everett, general manager of the Fairfield Inn, where many students work, said it would be a difficult balance to not lose the ties with Manhattan area hotels if the hotel was built on campus.

"I think that if K-State builds this hotel, it's going to be very difficult for a lot of the partners to maintain a healthy relationship," Everett said.

The 200 students in the department are required to do 400 hours of industry work experience in an internship as well as 400 hours of experience prior to that. Many of the students are placed in Manhattan hotels to learn different aspects of the hotel business.

"They could accommodate a small fraction of our internships," Pesci said. "It would help our program in terms of getting our students involved in watching issues and operations.

"It would enhance our program definitely. We would also want our students to have internships in different hotels throughout the state of Kansas and the surrounding areas. In terms of getting them started, it would definitely help. It would help teach classes and get some of the competencies that we want our students to have."

Pesci said it would be important that students got internships elsewhere because the internship search is just as important in learning as the actual internship.

"We use the internship like a mini job search where they apply for internships much like the same procedure you apply for a job," he said. "We think it's important for our students to go in and evaluate a company. Hopefully, a lot of our students will come back and say, 'I didn't do a good job picking this internship.' Then we can say, 'what are you going to do next time?' It makes the student more reality-conscious."

As well as hotel management, the students also study the areas of event planning, catering, food and beverage services, liquor sales and wholesale food sales. Also covered in the department's curriculum is the area of gerontology for students interested in care for seniors.

Betsy Barrett, associate professor in the department, said that while the hotel would assist classes studying hotel management, the students studying food services could not do much in the hotel since there are no plans for a dine-in restaurant.

"There is no restaurant in the hotel. That's one of the things that would help," Barrett said. "They work in Derby and the dining centers on campus. We are looking at something that would be beyond that. That would be very nice if we could do that."

But as a whole, the hotel concept would only improve the department's opportunities, Barrett said.

"It would be excellent for our students to have that opportunity," she said. "I think it's visibility for our program."

WOMEN | Basketball team set for home opener vs. Western Illinois

Continued from Page 6

"They were the aggressors."

Western Illinois isn't expected to be nearly as potent offensively as Purdue, but the Westerwinds do return preseason conference Player of the Year Tiffany Cornelius.

The 6-foot senior forward averaged 13 points and seven rebounds per game last season in leading WIU to the Mid-Continent Conference Championship and a 21-9 overall record.

One of those nine losses was to K-State on Jan. 3, though, and shows how much ground the Westerwinds have to make up for this year's contest.

The Wildcats, behind a sound defensive effort, converted several break-away baskets en route to a resounding 84-40 win.

K-State is 3-0 all-time against Western Illinois.

The home-opener tonight also marks the regular-season home-opener of five freshmen.

Despite the poor defensive effort, an inability to establish post play, and inaccurate three-point shooting against Purdue, seeing several freshmen play in a game-situation was important to Patterson.

Seeing how they respond at home, while less daunting, will also will be important.

"We were able to get Twiggy and Shanda some good minutes," Patterson said of Sunday's loss. "There's a lot they learned – a lot of lessons for everyone."

ARREST

Men arrested as suspects in FHSU student's murder

Continued from Page 1

Llamas, 23, a senior from San Diego; and Christopher Ross, 19, a freshman from Wylie, Texas – were arrested Wednesday. Also arrested was Fort Hays student Jaime Lopez III, 23, a senior from Chula Vista, Calif

Drees said a judge found probable cause Thursday to detain Deary, Llamas and Lopez on suspicion of first-degree murder and other charges. Bond for the men was set at $1 million each.

Ross was being detained on $40,000 bond on suspicion of aggravated battery.

Drees said he expected to charge the men within the next 10 days.

SENATE | New resolution focuses on diversity

Continued from Page 1

K-State Student Governing Association "applauds champions of diversity and strives to foster community through our actions," it states.

Ben Procter, arts and science senator, said Resolution 32 was amended by the Governmental Relations Committee for the vote at Thursday's meeting.

"The reasons I voted to amend it were that I feel new 32 is more inclusive of people at K-State and more inclusive of my constituency. I think overall, new 32 is a better legislative choice than old 32," he said. "It offers advantages in terms of representation in terms of diversity, and basically, it's the better legislative piece."

Procter also said he thinks the new version focuses less on issues of contention between SGA and the mayor and city commissioners.

"New 32 doesn't mention city commission except in where it should be sent, and that's because the authors and I feel we have a responsibility to students. That responsibility is best served by us focusing on commitments we've already made – the Principles of Community document we signed in 2002," he said. "We've had a lot of input from community members, students and faculty, and we like to see that."

After "new 32" was introduced at Thursday's meeting, Arts and Sciences Senator Vicky Conner offered an amendment to it. She suggested adding a statement that the reason for the resolution was that a portion of students expressed concern of the mayor's proclamation.

"I realized the new legislation was much better than the original because it's far more positive and far more proactive," she said. "However, I don't think it's complete. We can't deny that some students thought the mayor's proclamation was discriminatory. Why would we be reaffirming a commitment to diversity without addressing why we are doing so?"

Student Senate Chair Laurie Quaife said the mayor's proclamation should not be referenced in the resolution because it would be taking a stance on the issue.

"For us to take a stance on either side would be alienating some of our constituents," she said. "Whether you're for the proclamation or not, we can all come together and reaffirm diversity."

Senators debated the addition of the sentence, but it was denied after a vote.

Then, senators debated whether to pass the new 32 without reference to the mayor's proclamation. The resolution without the reference was passed, 29-14.

VOLLEYBALL | Netters look to secure 1st Big 12 Championship

Continued from Page 6

K-State leads the all-time series against the Red Raiders, including a perfect 6-0 mark against them at home.

The Cats also are an unblemished 12-0 at home this season.

But the focus, Fritz said, is on Texas Tech and the rest of the regular season, which also features a home match against Texas A&M and a trip to Austin to face Texas to finish the season.

"It's very exciting," Fritz said of K-State's position atop the Big 12. "Our objective right now is to try and end the conference season strong."

With the season winding down, postseason position has also been crossing the minds of Fritz and the Cats.

Sitting atop the latest USA Today/AVCA poll is USC, followed by Hawaii, Florida and Pepperdine. The Cats fell to Hawaii 3-0 and Florida 3-1 in the season opening NACWAA/State Farm Classic on Aug. 22-23.

But, Fritz said, despite prior losses, K-State must stay focused and play well throughout their remaining schedule if they expect a top two seed in the NCAA Tournament.

And, she added, the team's new goal aside from a Big 12 title is to put themselves in a position to do just that.

"Our expectations have shifted toward the postseason and putting ourselves in a position to have a nice seed in the NCAA Tournament," Fritz said.

"To do that, we need to play well throughout the rest of the conference season."

Trying to sell your car?
Try the Collegian Classifieds
532-6555

Do you need: • Great Pay? • Sales Experience? • Flexible Hours? • Outgoing? Are you • Self motivated?
Apply NOW to work on the Collegian Advertising Sales Staff Spring 2004
Deadline is Monday, November 24th @ 4pm
Pickup/Turn in applications in Kedzie 103 or call 532-6560 with any questions

KEYSTONE EVOLUTION RAIL TOUR IS COMING TO K STATE
FRIDAY Nov 21st RUSTY'S LAST CHANCE
Don't miss your chance to win FREE LIFT TICKETS and other Keystone giveaways

Chad Ozdemir Bus Rail Air To Indy

KEYSTONE
THE EVOLUTION HAS BEGUN.™
Three Mountains.
Two thousand acres
of stellar skiing and riding.

BIG CHANGES ARE HERE THIS WINTER
A51 Terrain Park
Snowcat Skiing
Enhanced Snow Making
New Bars and Night Life
KEYSTONERESORT.COM
Snow Conditions & Evolution Updates

hastings
Your Entertainment Superstore SM
BUY 2 USED DVDs Get the 3rd for a 1¢ (of equal or lesser value) Offer ends 11/30/03.
BUY 1 Previously Viewed VHS Get the 2nd for a 1¢ (of equal or lesser value) Offer ends 11/30/03.
BUY 3 USED CD's Get the 4th FREE (of equal or lesser value) Good 11/28 - 12/6.
Thousands of CDs $9.99 or less

CLASSIFIEDS

105 For Rent- Apts. Furnished

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT available January 1. One block from campus. Water/ trash paid. Off-street parking. $330/ month. Call (785)539-5579.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

A LARGE two-bedroom apartment, close to campus. Available mid- December. (785)317-7713.

BRITTNAY RIDGE. Four-bedroom, study, two and one-half bath, town home. Washer/ dryer. 2519 Candlecrest, lease required. No pets. $1050, $1050 deposit. (785)537-9740.

FOR JANUARY 1. Nice large two-bedroom apartment. Gas, water, trash three-forths paid, laundromat. $480. (785)539-2482 or (785)539-9315 or cell phone (785)565-8116.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT, one block from campus for January- June. $325/ month. All utilities paid except phone and cable. Call (785)537-1416.

TWO OR three-bedrooms, spacious, close to campus, dishwasher, central air, laundry facilities, no pets. (785)539-0866.

TWO-BEDROOM WITH study, private balcony, laundry, cover parking, walk to campus, central air-conditioning, January lease, $515- $545/ month. (785)341-6091.

105 For Rent- Apts. Furnished

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE for a four-bedroom duplex. Washer/ dryer. Available January. Rent $275. Call Megan. (785)539-8490.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for spring semester. Nice five-bedroom three bath house. Common rooms furnished. Washer/ dryer. $300 rent plus one-fifth utilities. (785)539-9887, (785)825-2937.

ROOMS AVAILABLE in house close to campus. $220/ month plus share of utilities. Washer and dryer. Contact Jake at (785)539-4904. Located at 911 N. 11th St. Available starting December.

TWO, three, and four-bedroom apartments. Close to campus, laundry, and parking. Call (785)537-6017.

145 Roommate Wanted

CAMPUS/ AGGIEVILLE- spring semester, two-bedroom, 1212 Bluemont. Trash/ water paid, laundry facilty. $300/ each, January 1. Kelly or Karen (785)776-8980.

FOUR-BEDROOM, ONE and one-half bath, spacious, practically in Aggieville. $900/ month heating included. (four roommates- only $225 per person). (785)776-5102.

LOOKING FOR female subleaser for spring semester. Four-bedroom apartment. $240, plus one-fourth of bills. Water and trash paid, laundry facilities. Short walk to campus. Call Alicia at (786)539-9119.

ROOMS FOR rent, next to campus, one-bedroom apartment. Free washer/ dryer, central-air, parking. (785)537-7050.

150 Sublease

CAMPUS/ AGGIEVILLE- spring semester, two-bedroom, 1212 Bluemont. Trash/ water paid, laundry facilty. $300/ each, January 1. Kelly or Karen (785)776-8980.

FOUR-BEDROOM, ONE and one-half bath, spacious, practically in Aggieville. $900/ month heating included. (four roommates- only $225 per person). (785)776-5102.

LOOKING FOR female subleaser for spring semester. Four-bedroom apartment. $240, plus one-fourth of bills. Water and trash paid, laundry facilities. Short walk to campus. Call Alicia at (786)539-9119.

ROOMS FOR rent, next to campus, one-bedroom apartment. Free washer/ dryer, central-air, parking. (785)537-7050.

150 Sublease

CAMPUS/ AGGIEVILLE- three-bedroom apartment, available January. Spacious, central-air, dishwasher, laundry, parking. 519 N. Manhattan Avenue. Call (785)341-4158 or (785)341-9582.

FEMALE ROOMMATE WANTED starting January to live with two other girls. $265/ month plus utilities. Very nice house, can see campus from house. 1206 Bertrand. Call Lesley at (785)539-6790 leave message if not home.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed for spring semester. Beautiful house and three great roommates. Near City Park. $250/ month plus utilities. Call Renee at (785)565-0340.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed for spring semester. One-bedroom apartment. Two blocks from Aggieville. Rent negotiable call (785)564-1173.

MALE SUBLEASER needed. Two-bedroom apartment. Private parking, dishwasher, washer/ dryer. $262.50 a month. Available January. 716 Humboldt. Contact Casey (785)341-1162.

MALE SUBLEASER wanted to live with three males. Woodway Apartments. $237/ month. Laundry, dishwasher, one-forth utilities, pool, deck. (785)565-1267. Available December 20.

MALE SUBLEASERS needed: spring semester. Call (785)317-7558.

ONE ROOM available. You will love this place. Please call to come see! Ask for Jacquelyn (785)341-3769.

ONE-BEDROOM. $400/ month, water and trash paid, lease January- May. (785)537-9379.

ROOM FOR rent during spring semester. $280/ month includes water, trash, laundry. Has all amenities including fireplace. Low bills. (785)539-1272. mrl8888@ksu.edu

ROOM OPEN for spring semester. Off-street parking, washer/ dryer, two and one-half baths, two porches, two living rooms. $300/ month plus utilities plus deposit. Open mid- December. 1742 Laramie. Chris at (785)341-6256.

ROOMMATE WANTED to share brand new duplex with three guys. Four-bedroom/ two bath/ kitchen/ laundry. $275/ month plus utilities. Call (316)990-6862 or (785)539-2356.

STUDIO APARTMENT, two blocks west of campus. January- May lease. $345/ month. Includes trash, gas, water. Call (316)259-7229 or (316)259-8307.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for one-bedroom apartment. $379.56 rent/ month starting January 1. Includes utilities. Pets are allowed. (785)770-3060.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for studio apartment. $400/ month starting late December, January rent paid. Please leave a message at (785)587-1819.

SUBLEASER NEEDED, great two-bedroom house. Fully furnished, five minutes from Union. Private parking, available now. $380, all bills paid. (785)539-3408.

SUBLEASER WANTED January- July. Two-bedroom apartment. $575 a month plus electric. Laundry facilities. Dishwasher. Water and trash paid. (785)820-0879.

SUBLEASER WANTED- recently remodeled three-bedroom apartment. Close to campus and Aggieville. $265/ month. Call (785)770-7575.

SUBLEASER WANTED: one-bedroom. January 1- August 1. $370. Water and trash paid. (785)539-7653.

SUBLEASER(S) WANTED for apartment at 11th and Laramie. Two-bedrooms for price of one, and rent is negotiable. Call Dana at (785)565-0662.

SUBLEASERS NEEDED. Close to campus, Aggieville, and City park. nice two-bedroom apartment. $270/ month. Available January. Call Michele or Amy. (785)539-5334.

150 Sublease

SUBLEASERS NEEDED: two-bedroom basement apartment 520 Osage. Pets allowed. Call Ryan at (785)565-1950 or Chris at (785)317-2992 leave message if no answer.

SUBLEASERS NEEDED: three-bedroom apartment available soon at Woodway Apartment across from stadium. Great place! $753/ month. Please call! (785)845-5666.

SUBLEASERS NEEDED: two-bedroom apartment. One block from campus. Willing to pay $75/ month towards rent. Water and trash paid for. $252.50/ person. Call (785)871-1674.

SUBLEASERS WANTED for spring semester. Two-bedroom, one and one-half bath apartment. Water/trash paid, laundry facilities, very close to campus, (785)658-5680.

TWO STORY, two-bedroom apartment. One bathroom, washer and dryer, one block west of campus, available January- July. (785)323-1712.

200 service directory

300 employment/ opportunities

310 Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/ she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

310 Help Wanted

RECEPTIONIST/ SECRETARY at Manhattan Area Technical College. Full time position; must be familiar with office procedures and proficient in Microsoft Office Professional software and at multitasking in a fast-paced environment. Position description and application available at USD 383 Personnel Office, www.usd383.org, 2031 Poyntz Ave., Manhattan, KS 66502. (785)587-2000. Equal Opportunity Employer.

SUBSTITUTE TEACHERS needed. Rock creek USD 323 needs substitute and emergency substitute teachers. Pays $71/ per day. Please contact the district office for application packet, (785)457-3732 or email caf-freyt@rockcreekschools.org.

TEACHER AIDES (certificate preferred) for Kindegarden and 5/ 6 classroom at Westmoreland Elementary. Start date and salary negotiable. Single health insurance provided. Call (785)457-3732 for application or Email caffreyt@rockcreekschools.org. Equal opportunity employer.

330 Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach apy such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

400 open market

410 Items for Sale

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS- sleeping bags, overshoes, combat boots, camouflage clothing, wool socks and gloves, much more. Also Carhartt work wear. Open Monday- Friday, 9am-5:30pm, Saturday 9am-4pm. Open Sundays till Christmas 12noon- 4pm. St. Mary's Surplus Sales, St. Marys Kansas. (785)437-2734.

QUEEN SIZE bed, very good condition. $150. Pleather sofa set $75. Chris at (785)341-6256.

465 Tickets to Buy/Sell

NEED FOUR ICAT tickets for the Missouri game. Call Aaron at (620)532-4226.

NEEDED FOUR student GA or ICAT tickets for Missouri. Call Dave at (913)208-0016.

THREE BIG 12 championship tickets, section 123, row 40, in corner end zone. $240 for all three. (417)889-7568.

500 transportation

510 Automobiles

1991 FORD. F150. 4x 4. $2400 or best offer. Call (785)313-2405.

1992 PLYMOUTH, four door, Sundance. $600. Great dependable student car. As is. Call (785)776-1368 ask for Evie.

1993 SATURN SL2. Good condition. $1000 or best offer. Call (785)341-7559 for details.

530 Motorcycles

2002 HONDA CBR 954RR. Black/ silver. Eriom exhaust. Excellent condition. $8000 or best offer. (785)587-8225.

600 travel/ trips

610 Tour Package

WINTER AND Spring Break, ski and beach trips on sale now! www.Sunchase.com or call 1-800-SUNCHASE today!

630 Spring Break

!SO MANY Spring Break companies. Book DIRECT with the established leader in Spring Break travel. Better trips, better prices. Early booking incentives. book now with a small deposit. (800)367-1252/ www.springbreakdirect.com

ACT NOW! Book 11 people, get 12th trip free. Group discounts for six plus. www.springbreakdiscounts.com or (800)838-8202.

#1 SPRING Break Company in Acapulco now offers three destinations! Go loco in Acapulco, party in Vallarta, or get crazy in Cabo with BIANCHI-ROSSI TOURS. Organize a group and travel for FREE. Book now before it's too late! Call (800)875-4525 or www.bianchi-rossi.com.

NUMBER ONE spring break vacations! 110% best prices! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas, Florida, Acapulco, book now and receive free parties and meals. Campus reps wanted! 1-800-234-7007 endlesssummertours.com

SPRING BREAK 2004. Travel with Student Travel Services, America's #1 Student Tour Operator to Jamaica, Cancun, Acapulo, Bahamas, and Florida. Now hiring campus reps. Call for group discounts. Information/ reservations 1-800-648-4849 or www.ststravel.com.

000 bulletin board

010 Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY!" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes and lowest rates. Call (785)776-1744, www.ksu.edu/ksfc

ATTORNEY, CHUCK Harper, expunge convictions before job application, paternity, custody, net free adoption, civil law, 400 Poyntz, (785)539-8100, chuckharper@msn.com

CHECK OUT www.offerplace.com/115. It's got all the best deals around. No fee credits card, cell phones, online video rentals and tons more. Find it all at www.offerplace.com/115.

DON'T LET the cold weather get your car down. Come visit Lewis Auto Repair, 610B South Julliette. Cheapest labor rate in town. Call (785)770-8553.

020 Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

BRACELET FOUND a Pat's Blue Ribbon on Saturday, November 15. Call to identify. (785)776-0976

FOUND: WATCH on bike pass between Jardine apartments and College Avenue. Call Bruce at (785)532-1338 to identify.

030 Post a Note

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a post a note.

100 housing/ real estate

105 For Rent- Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2440.

ONE-BEDROOM CLOSE to campus. Water and trash included. Available January 1. Central air/ heat. (785)537-7810.

"Stay In Class At The Commons"
Now Leasing for 2003-2004!
•Fully Furnished
•2 & 4 Bedroom
•Alarm System
•Swimming Pool
•Washer/Dryer
•Computer Lab
•Fitness Center
•Permit Parking
•Tennis/Volleyball Courts
•Individual Leases
Office Hours: M-F 9-5
539-0500
university COMMONS APARTMENTS
2215 College Ave.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

AVAILABLE JANUARY 1. Two-bedroom, newly decorated. Washer/ dryer hookup. Off-street parking. $500/ month. (785)537-2119, 8- 5pm, (785)539-2347 after 5pm.

COZY TWO-BEDROOM. Only a year old with all new appliances. Includes washer and dryer. Has own driveway. (785)341-1636.

NICE ONE-BEDROOM apartments. Close to campus. Water and trash paid. $415- $430/ month. Call MDI (785)776-3804.

STUDIO APARTMENT and one-bedroom, close to campus. No pets. $280/ month. 1030 Kearney. Call (785)537-0177.

STUDIO APARTMENT. $250/ month. All utilities except electric paid. Lease and deposit required. Available January 1. (785)537-7794.

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE block to campus. New carpet/ flooring/ some utilities paid. $660/ month, or best offer. (785)539-4641.

THREE-BEDROOM, TWO bath, less than block from campus. Dishwasher, laundry facilities, and parking. (785)539-2067.

TWO PLUS bedroom, one block to campus. New carpet/ flooring/ some utilities paid. $620/ month. (785)539-4641.

TWO-BEDROOM TOWNHOUSE, one and one-half bath plus unfinished basement. Washer/ dryer hookups. Water/ trash paid. No pets. (785)539-5627.

VERY NICE two-bedroom apartment for rent, starting January 1st. Cats allowed. Call (785)539-5563 or (785)341-5441 for more information.

115 Rooms Available

ROOMMATE WANTED to sublease. Close to campus/ Aggieville. Washer/ dryer, $300 plus utilities. Call Nicole (785)776-6099 or (785)565-8785.

120 For Rent- Houses

FOUR-BEDROOM, ONE and one-half bath. New carpet, paint, and ceramic tile. Close to football stadium. $900/ month plus utilities. Available December 1. (785)556-2652.

FOUR-BEDROOM/ TWO bath house. Very nice. Central heat and air, washer/ dryer hookups. Available January 1st. No pets. Call Doug (785)341-4554.

TIRED OF Apartment Living? Manufactured Homes For Rent. Pets Allowed. Beautifully maintained communities. Pool, playground, community center. Professionally managed. Call Manager for more details (785)539-5841.

TWO-BEDROOM HOUSE for rent. Close to Aggieville and campus. $500/ month plus utilities. Available starting January. (785)776-2483.

135 For Sale- Mobile Homes

ONE-BEDROOM MOBILE home, new carpet, furnace. $6000 or best offer. (785)537-9894.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE FOR Spring. Nice apartment, one-half block from campus, close to REC. $260/ month plus cheap bills. Parking. Laundry. (785)770-3837.

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed for quiet house, air-conditioned, washer/ dryer, kitchen, basement, off-street parking, near campus, $285 plus one-fourth utilities. (785)537-1219.

MALE ROOMMATE needed. Very nice off campus house. Already furnished $300/ month. Contact Matt Huseman at (785)819-1966 to set up an appointment or to ask any questions.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for nice three-bedroom house. Washer/ dryer on site. $250 plus one-third utilities. December 1 or January 1 lease. Call Emily at (785)770-0374.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted January- July 2004. $255 rent plus one-third utilities. Right next to Union. Dishwasher, large bedroom. Call (785)565-9340.

FEMALE, THREE-BEDROOM duplex, two bath, washer/ dryer. $260/ month, plus utilities, available January. Call (785)550-2306.

GREAT PLACE, great location, great people. Female roommates wanted for spring semester sublease. Large rooms, private parking, common rooms furnished, washer/ dryer. Call Lindsay at (785)587-0296.

MALE OR female for spring semester. Nice two-bedroom apartment across street from Aggieville and campus. 1212 Bluemont. (316)641-2636 leave a message.

MALE ROOMMATE to share newer mobile home. $150/ month. (785)770-9547.

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share a two-bedroom house. Five minutes from the Student Union. Rent $275. (785)539-9981.

MALE ROOMMATES needed for a four-bedroom home in quite neighborhood, five minutes north of campus, must see to appreciate, $275 per month plus shared utilities. (913)244-2921.

ONE ROOM available, fully furnished home. $90/ week, all utilities paid. Please call (785)539-8442, and leave message. Teamey.

ROOMMATE NEEDED, January- July. Huge 20X20 room. All amenities, four roommates needing the fifth. (785)537-0699. Rent negotiable.

SPRING SEMESTER roommate needed. Master bedroom in four-bedroom house. 1.2 miles from campus. Washer/ dryer, two bathrooms, cable internet. $250 plus utilities. Call Tyler (913)908-7162.

150 Sublease

CAMPUS/ AGGIEVILLE, one and one-half bedrooms available January. Central heat and air, parking. Water/ trash paid. 1212 Thurston, (620)870-9741.

SPACIOUS TWO-BEDROOM/ one bath. All utilities paid except electric. Available end of December. Call (785)806-3068.

Deadlines

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run.
CALL 532-6555

ClassifiedRATES

1 DAY
20 words or less
$8.00
each word over 20
20¢ per word

2 DAYS
20 words or less
$9.40
each word over 20
25¢ per word

3 DAYS
20 words or less
$11.05
each word over 20
30¢ per word

4 DAYS
20 words or less
$12.25
each word over 20
35¢ per word

5 DAYS
20 words or less
$13.35
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

TO PLACE AN AD
Go to Kedzie 103 (across from the K-State Student Union). Office hours are Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The office is open except on holidays.

HOW TO PAY
All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an account with Student Publications Inc. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks. We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

FREE FOUND ADS
As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CORRECTIONS
If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

CANCELLATIONS
If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day before the ad is to be published.

HEADLINES
For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

000 bulletin board
100 housing/ real estate
200 service directory
300 employment/ opportunities
400 open market
500 transportation
600 travel/ trips

Reach more readers
Place your classified ad online. Get more bang for your buck.
www.kstatecollegian.com
Ads scheduled to be printed in the Collegian can be published online for an additional dollar.

Graphic Design Internship
Advertising Design — Kansas State Collegian
If you are a graphic design major and would like an on-campus spring 2004 internship for credit, stop by for an application. Your art department adviser's permission is required. Application deadline is Friday, Nov. 21.
Stop by 113 Kedzie from 8 a.m.-3 p.m. for more information.

BUY-HIRE-SELL-RENT Kansas State Collegian
Advertising Design
Practicum/Newspaper MC 484
Earn class credit working with the ad design/production staff on the Kansas State Collegian during spring semester 2004. Limited enrollment. The instructor's permission is required. No prerequisites are necessary. Stop by 113 Kedzie from 8 a.m.-3 p.m. for an application. Application deadline is Friday, Nov. 21.

NOON

is the deadline for classifieds
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
103 Kedzie 532-6555

ANNIVERSARY | President's charisma, legacy survive for 40 years

Continued from Page 1

lived and watched the entire coverage of Kennedy's death on the news as it happened.

As Saturday's 40th anniversary of the assassination draws closer, Americans who only have heard about the Kennedy legacy from their parents at home and their instructors in the classroom recognize the president's contribution to modern society and its politics.

Sue Zschoche, head of the Department of History, said Kennedy is remembered not only for what he accomplished during his life, but also for the manner in which his life ended.

"His death and the kind of death it was transformed him into a legend," Zschoche said.

She said Kennedy's death symbolizes, for her generation, a pivotal point in American histqry during which America's romanticized ideas of itself were shattered forever.

"He is the symbol of some sort of lost and better and innocent age," Zschoche said. "Many Americans of my generation cannot resist thinking that everything fell apart when he died."

Members of younger generations, however, say that Kennedy's contributions to American society have only thrived and grown in the past 40 years.

One of the most notable, said Pete Turner, senior in fine arts, is Kennedy's advocacy for equal rights. Many believe this advocacy, specifically for the rights of black Americans, helped lead to the passing of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 by his successor, President Lyndon B. Johnson.

"He was one of the first progressive presidents we've had," Turner said. "His push for civil rights has more bearing on our generation. People are still fighting for it.

"He was the first president to really rock the boat."

Kelly Rigg, senior in art, also said Kennedy's role in the country's space program, then in its infancy, secured the United States' presence in space.

"It's no big deal now when a shuttle takes off," she said.

Shanita Bailey, senior in psychology, said she agreed, but also said that Kennedy's controversial ideas of eliminating segregation made him a prime target for hatred.

"When someone upsets the status quo, they'll be a target," Bailey said.

Despite the enemies that Kennedy made while in office, especially during the Bay of Pigs, Tramaine Watts, senior in human resource management, said younger generations could learn from his leadership style.

"Kennedy had a charisma. He exerted a leadership ability," Watts said. "That's lost on our generation. We need to recognize people who stand for something valuable."

Salina, Kan., native Gary Haynes was a photographer for the now-defunct United Press International at the time of the Kennedy assassination. He covered Kennedy's presidential inauguration on Jan. 20, 1961, as well as Kennedy's funeral and burial at Arlington National Cemetery in Washington, D.C.

For Haynes, a youth at the time, the funeral procession was especially poignant.

Gary Haynes | UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

President John F. Kennedy's widow, Jacqueline (right), and his brother, U.S. Attorney General Robert Kennedy, look on as the slain president is laid to rest at Arlington National Cemetery on Nov. 24, 1963. Saturday marks the 40th anniversary of Kennedy's death.

"It was an odd time," Haynes said. "I was a young, punk kid, and I could relate to the president, so it was particularly chilling.

Zschoche said she still sees the president's legacy as a tragic, fleeting moment in American history that will always be missed by Americans of any generation.

"I will confess that I see those black-and-white films of him and find my heart missing something that, in memory, seems so glorious, so full of possibility, something precious and gone so quickly."

TIMELINE OF EVENTS OF THE KENNEDY ASSASSINATION

NOV. 22, 1963

11:33 a.m. — President John F. Kennedy and his entourage arrive in Dallas.

11:50 a.m. — The presidential motorcade, carrying President Kennedy, First Lady Jacqueline Kennedy, Texas Gov. John Connally and his wife, Nellie, departs from Dallas' Love Field. The motorcade's bubble top is down.

12:30 p.m. — President Kennedy is shot. Eyewitness Abraham Zapruder captures the entire scene on film, which government officials will utilize in their research of the assassination. The motorcade heads to Parkland Memorial Hospital.

12:38 p.m. — The motorcade arrives at Parkland Memorial Hospital, where the president and Gov. Connally, who also was wounded by the gunfire, are treated.

12:45 p.m. — The Dallas Police Department releases a description of the suspect, which matches the description of Lee Harvey Oswald, an employee at the Texas Schoolbook Depository, where police believe the gunshots originated. Oswald is known to be pro-Castro and sympathetic to Communist ideologies. Oswald becomes the prime suspect in the attempt on the president's life.

1:00 p.m. — President Kennedy is pronounced dead; Gov. Connally survives the incident.

1:08 p.m. — Police discover the body of Dallas police officer J.D. Tippit in the street in a residential area of Dallas. Again, Oswald is the prime suspect.

1:22 p.m. — Police discover a rifle on the sixth floor of the Texas Schoolbook Depository.

1:55 p.m. — At a downtown movie theater, Oswald is arrested in connection with Tippit's murder.

2:38 p.m. — Aboard Air Force One, Lyndon Baines Johnson is sworn in as the 36th president of the United States as Jacqueline Kennedy, still in her blood-stained pink dress, looks on. Minutes later, the plane takes off with Kennedy's body in tow

7:05 p.m. — Oswald is charged with Tippitt's murder.

7:15 p.m. — Physicians begin the autopsy on Kennedy's body.

11:26 p.m. — Oswald is charged with the murder of President Kennedy.

NOV. 23, 1963

4:21 p.m. — Kennedy's body returns to the White House.

NOV. 24, 1963

11:21 a.m. — Jack Ruby fatally shoots Lee Harvey Oswald as he is transported from the Dallas Police Department's headquarters.

1:00 p.m. — Kennedy's funeral procession and burial at Arlington National Cemetery.

Text compiled by Corbin H. Crable | Designed by Jennifer Shelton

Sources: "Four Days: The Historical Record of the Death of President Kennedy," by United Press International; "The Day Kennedy Was Shot" by Jim Bishop; "Probable Cause Australia: A Continuing Inquiry into the JFK Assassination."

KENNEDY | Private memorial service planned at Arlington cemetery

Continued from Page 1

Tom Peskin, public affairs specialist for Arlington National Cemetery, said that Kennedy's grave site, marked by the famous eternal flame, is a regular point of interest for tourists.

"The cemetery gets 4.5 million visitors each year," Peskin said, "and Kennedy's grave site is one of the key visitation spots when people come."

Ann Scanlon, spokesperson for the John F. Kennedy Library and Museum in Boston, Mass., said the museum would rather focus on the fame and recognition that Kennedy accrued in life rather than in death.

"We celebrate the president's life and legacy," Scanlon said. "We expect a large turnout on the anniversary."

Scanlon said the museum will show footage of Kennedy's speeches throughout the day and will have floral bouquets on display throughout the museum as a sign of remembrance and respect.

She said Kennedy's politics are just as relevant now as they ever were.

"The values he put forth are still very timely and important today," Scanlon said. "His statement of 'Ask not what your country can do for you, ask what you can do for your country' is still relevant for a strong democracy.

"His pursuit of peace over war also is something toward which we gravitate today."

Gary Haynes, a former photographer for United Press International and a K-State alumnus, said the anniversary is a time when he remembers covering Kennedy's funeral and burial.

One especially moving scene that Haynes wanted to capture was the removal of Kennedy's rocking chair from the Oval Office.

"I was thinking, 'What best symbolizes JFK?'" Haynes said. "I knew it would be his empty rocking chair.

"I was very proud of it. It was a moving scene, and it stands as one of my favorites."

Haynes also captured on film the president's casket being carried down the steps of the Capitol building, as well as the funeral procession; in all, Haynes said it was an emotionally draining experience, but one he won't soon forget.

Haynes' photographs, which have been reprinted in several books over the years, now appear in a special book being released by Newsweek in recognition of the 40th anniversary.

Do you need
• Great Pay?
• Sales Experience?
• Flexible Hours?
Apply NOW to work on the Collegian Advertising Sales Staff Spring 2004
Deadline is Monday, November 24, 4 p.m.
Pickup/Turn in applications in Kedzie 103 or call 532-6560 with any questions

Aces Liquor
"Stop by Ace's before you watch K-State beat the Mizzou Tigers"
–Always Fresh–
–Special Orders Welcome–
Debit Cards
2024 Tuttle Creek Blvd.
776-4481

GUMBY'S Pizza
$1.25 Late Night Slices
Mon thru Sat
12:30 am to ???
Gumby's Feeds Your Late Night Hunger!

PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER
"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting & adoption."
539-3338
Free pregnancy tests
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment
Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

GLASS IMPRESSIONS
Imaginative & Well Designed HANDMADE GIFTS
Very Affordable to Splurge
• Russian Crystal With Amazing Laser Images
• Beautiful Handmade Art Glass: Ornaments, Bird Feeders, Christmas Trees, Paperweights, Perfume Bottles, & Much More
• Frank Lloyd Wright Clocks, Glass Panels & Bookmarks
• High Style Jewelry
• Fun Contemporary Clocks
• Woodstock Chimes
GLASS IMPRESSIONS 785-539-4610
329 Poyntz Downtown Manhattan
PUBLIC HOURS: Tue - Fri 11-6 Sat 10-5

GALLAHER CHRISTMAS TREE FARM
Open Friday, Nov. 28, at Noon
Plan a fun family outing to pick out your "REAL" Tree
You Choose—We Cut
White Pine • Scotch Pain • Fraser Fir
Also...
Fresh Made Wreaths, Tree Stands To Fit Any Tree And Free Refreshments
On Anderson, 3 miles West of Scenic Dr. at Anderson & 62nd Ave.
539-5676 or 537-7889
Happy Holidays!

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY THEATRE AND DANCE AND DEPT. OF MUSIC PRESENT:
COMPANY
MUSIC AND LYRICS BY STEPHEN SONDHEIM
STORY BY GEORGE FURTH
NOVEMBER 20 AND 21, 8:00 P.M.
NOVEMBER 23, 4:00 P.M.
MCCAIN AUDITORIUM
TKTS: MCCAIN BOX OFFICE
NOON TO 5 P.M. PHONE: 532 6428
$13.00 GENERAL & $9.00 STUDENT/SENIOR
WWW.KSU.EDU/MCCAIN

Atheism & The Popular Media
Presented By: Clark Adams
Public Relations Director of Internet Infidels and Vice President of the Humanist Association of Las Vegas and Southern Nevada
Hosted by Individuals for Freethought

Friday, November 21
7:00 PM
Union Little Theatre
Admission is FREE
Reception to follow in the KSSU Flint Hills Room
Hosted by the A.Q. Miller School of Journalism and Mass Communications & KSU Philosophy Department
SPONSORED BY
The A.Q. Miller School of Journalism and Mass Communications
SSA The Secular Student Alliance
For more information look online at: www.ksu.edu/freethought

A DAY OF HOPE
WORLD AIDS DAY 2003
Monday, December 1st
American Red Cross KSU Club presents a speech by Neil Willenson entitled Make Your Life Count: A Call to Action
Forum Hall at 5:00 p.m.
"HIV and AIDS is a global emergency claiming over 8,000 lives everyday." - World Health Organization
Funded by DPC

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
GAMEDAY
Friday, November 21, 2003

Full speed ahead

Baylor linebacker Justin Crooks

K-State quarterback Ell Roberson

Zach Long | COLLEGIAN

After 3 early losses, K-State is on a road leading to the Big 12 Championship

Story by David Skretta

Two months ago, K-State had lost its third straight game, and two different roads could have been taken.

■

One road was that of 2001, when the Cats folded to finish 6-6. That would have been the easy route — the journey with no expectations and little pride.

■

But too many seniors, one wise coach, and a nation of supporters wouldn't allow that to happen. They'd been through too much to cash in the chips and walk away.

The Wildcats responded by winning five games in a row, including a victory over Nebraska in Lincoln for the first time since 1968.

Since losing to Marshall, Texas and Oklahoma State, no team has managed to get any closer than four touchdowns against the Cats, bringing back the high hopes and unparalleled expectations that were on virtually everybody's mind in August.

After four straight wins, K-State is looking at a road that leads only one direction – to the Big 12 Championship Game in Kansas City, Mo.

"All of a sudden, you look up and you've dug yourself a hole," Coach Bill Snyder said. "You say, 'Wait a minute. We're not this kind of football team. We're better than this, and we need to do all the things we didn't do all along.'"

So a quarterback billed as a Heisman-hopeful began throwing touchdowns instead of interceptions, a running back billed as too small for major college football began churning up the yardage, and a wide receiver nobody knew about established himself as a premier threat in the conference.

The defense, so maligned in giving up 27 points to Marshall and 38 to Oklahoma State, began playing with what linebacker Josh Buhl called a passion.

It was Buhl, defensive tackle Jermaine Berry said, who steadied the course.

"Josh got up and he was talking to us, saying we're going to ride together or die together," Berry said. "That stuck with everybody. You know your teammate next to you is going to die for you, you want to go even harder."

In the last five games, the defense has allowed just 45 total points. Twice in a single game K-State has scored more.

"I think in general, everyone contributes to that," Snyder said. "Some just do it in different ways."

For defensive end Andrew Shull, it was watching film and breaking down opponents that extra hour each week. For Thomas Hill, it was battling back from injury to lead with an off-the-field work ethic. For All-American center Nick Leckey, it was attention to detail.

"People realized we needed to get better," Leckey said. "Everyone shut their mouths and focused."

And Leckey means everybody, from Roberson to the last man on the scout squad. Everybody, he said, had to have a gut-check – questioning their desire, motivation and what it is they wanted the future to hold.

"It takes an entire team to lead," Leckey said, "leaders being followers and followers being leaders. People have experienced what goes on, and what it takes to be a good team or a real bad team."

Nobody, however, has led more than Roberson.

The senior quarterback will be one of 28 seniors making his final start at KSU Stadium, but perhaps no single player has had a bigger impact on positioning K-State for a Big 12 North title.

After missing two games early in the season, Roberson has returned with gusto, averaging nearly 300 yards of total offense per game, including a career-high 403 yards against Nebraska and 393 yards against Oklahoma State.

He has also set four career records, including total touchdowns, rushing touchdowns and total offense. With 385 yards of offense Saturday, Roberson will move into fourth place on the Big 12's all-time total offense chart.

But it's not the stats that have elevated Roberson above his predecessors. Rather, Snyder said after the Nebraska game, it is his leadership.

"I think it was a defining game," he said. "In my eyes, I saw him do some things from a leadership standpoint that I really haven't seen."

Snyder said it would be Roberson who would lead K-State back to Kansas City, Mo., where the Wildcats opened their season so many months ago.

The journey K-State has traversed since then has been wrought with anguish and despair, Roberson said. But this weekend, K-State can make everything right.

The road to the Big 12 Championship game goes through Manhattan.

"We own our own destiny," Roberson said. "We could win out and do something nice, or lose and just have one of those seasons. My hat goes off to the team for really fighting and keeping the drive alive.

"We really wanted to give the fans and everybody something to remember."

What will it take?

Ell Roberson
LEADING THE PACK

■ Ell Roberson gained 403 yards of total offense in Saturday's win over Nebraska, the sixth-best single-game performance in school history. He also accounted for three touchdowns and is fourth in the nation in scoring. He'll need to get K-State in the end zone on Saturday.

Kelly Glasscock | COLLEGIAN

James Terry
BOUNCING BACK

■ James Terry has battled back in the face of critics who complained of dropped passes and not making the big play. He now leads K-State in receiving and is among the top pass-catchers in the Big 12 Conference. He has 27 catches during K-State's five-game winning streak and will have to stretch the Missouri defense this weekend.

Lindsey Bauman | COLLEGIAN

Darren Sproles
STEADY SUPERSTAR

■ The steadiest performer in the K-State offense, Darren Sproles has gained more than 140 yards in each of the Cats' last three wins. His 17 100-yard rushing performances in the last two seasons is best among K-State running backs. He'll need another 100-yard performance to carry K-State to Kansas City.

Lindsey Bauman | COLLEGIAN

Josh Buhl
DEFENDING THY HONOR

■ The last of the old school, Josh Buhl continues to uphold the tradition of K-State defenses among the nation's best. He is only 22 tackles shy of Gary Spani and Danny Lankas' single-season tackle mark and is the Big 12's leading tackler. He'll need to spy on Mizzou quarterback Brad Smith all day.

Zach Long | COLLEGIAN

Andrew Shull
WRECKING CREW

■ Senior defensive end Andrew Shull leads K-State for the second-straight season in sacks with six on the season, tied with Jermaine Berry and Kevin Huntley. However, chasing down Brad Smith is a daunting task, and keeping the elusive Tiger quarterback in the pocket will be essential to the game plan.

Zach Long | COLLEGIAN

Rashad Washington
IRON MAN

■ Coach Bill Snyder raves about Rashad Washington. He grades out highly on defense each week, has uncanny senior leadership and is a team captain. However, when K-State blocks a punt or scores on special teams, the Wildcats typically win. He'll need to make a big play in some aspect for the Cats to win.

Kelly Glasscock | COLLEGIAN

Missouri at No. 18 K-State

Game 13 ■ 6:10 p.m. Saturday ■ KSU Stadium

Matchup to watch: Mizzou receivers vs. K-State secondary

Brad Smith came onto the scene last season as an unheralded freshman quarterback who put up big numbers on the ground and through the air.

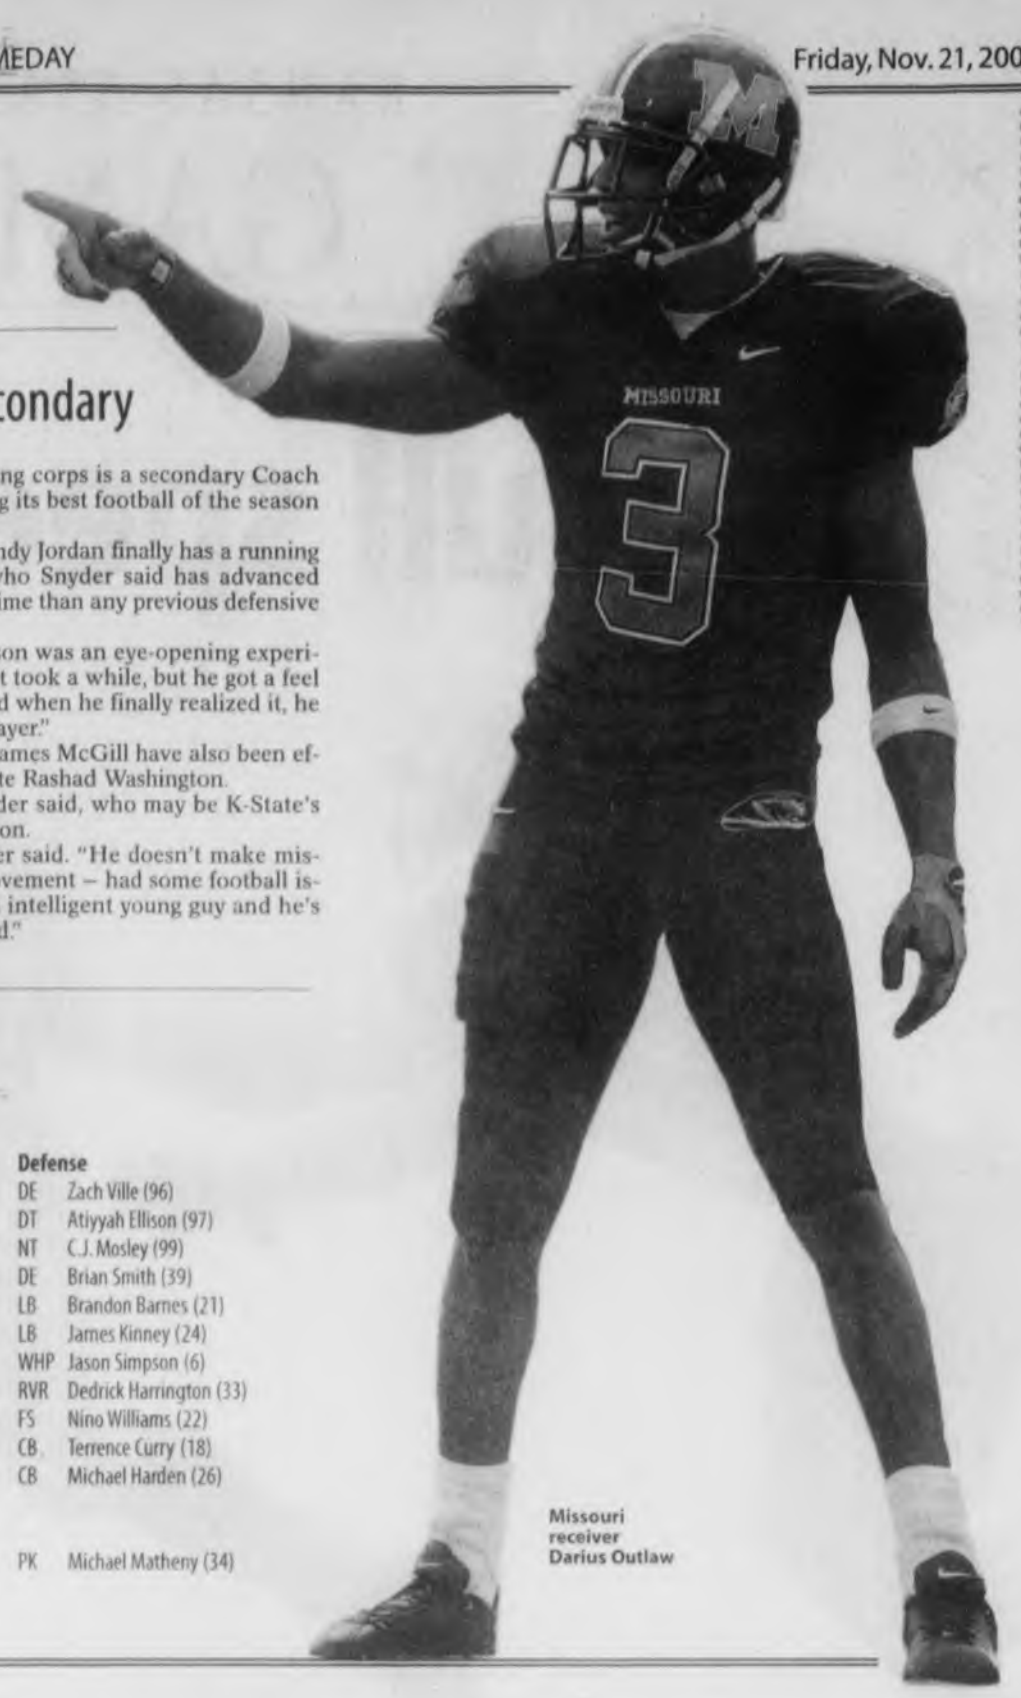
The problems Smith creates aren't unique, though. K-State has run up against dual-threat quarterbacks in Vince Young of Texas and Jammal Lord at Nebraska.

Still, the main problem Smith presents is that he can run or throw, and his recieving corps often cuts off routes to adjust to Smith's scrambling. K-State's secondary will be charged with following those receiving threats all over the field, regardless of where they go.

The recieving group is led by two-sport standout Darius Outlaw, a guard on the Tigers basketball team as well as the leading receiver. He has hauled in 32 passes for 282 yards and four touchdowns this season.

Yet while the senior leads the group, another receiver is putting up better numbers – receiver Thomson Omboga. He's hauled in 36 catches for 349 yards after being inserted into the starting lineup after the first two games.

Shutting down the recieving corps is a secondary Coach Bill Snyder believes is playing its best football of the season right now.



Incumbent cornerback Randy Jordan finally has a running mate in Cedrick Williams, who Snyder said has advanced more in a shorter amount of time than any previous defensive back in his tenure.

"The early part of the season was an eye-opening experience for him," Snyder said. "It took a while, but he got a feel for the tempo of the game and when he finally realized it, he took off and became a fine player."

Safeties Jesse Tetuan and James McGill have also been effective in sharing time opposite Rashad Washington.

And it's Washington, Snyder said, who may be K-State's most valuable player this season.

"He's a steady guy," Snyder said. "He doesn't make mistakes. He's made some improvement – had some football issues to deal with, but he's an intelligent young guy and he's the first to get things corrected."

Missouri receiver Darius Outlaw

Projected starting lineups

K-State

	Offense		Defense
WR	James Terry (5)	DE	Andrew Shull (98)
LT	Jon Doty (79)	DT	Justin Montgomery (92)
LG	Ryan Lilja (64)	NT	Jermaine Berry (91)
C	Nick Leckey (53)	DE	Thomas Houchin (94)
RG	Mike Johnson (60)	LB	Bryan Hickman (18)
RT	Jeromey Clary (66)	LB	Ted Sims (45)
TE	Brian Casey (86)	LB	Josh Buhl (7)
WR	Antoine Polite (2)	CB	Randy Jordan (9)
QB	Ell Roberson (3)	FS	Jesse Tetuan (23)
FB	Travis Wilson (44)	CB	Cedrick Williams (4)
RB	Darren Sproles (43)	SS	Rashad Washington (2)
	Specialist
P	Jared Brite (6)	PK	Joe Rheem (16)

Missouri

	Offense		Defense
WR-X	Darius Outlaw (3)	DE	Zach Ville (96)
LT	Rob Droege (76)	DT	Atiyyah Ellison (97)
LG	Tony Palmer (52)	NT	C.J. Mosley (99)
C	A.J. Ricker (70)	DE	Brian Smith (39)
RG	Cliff Young (58)	LB	Brandon Barnes (21)
RT	Steven Sanchez (63)	LB	James Kinney (24)
TE	J.D. McCoy (89)	WHP	Jason Simpson (6)
QB	Brad Smith (16)	RVR	Dedrick Harrington (33)
TB	Zack Abron (38)	FS	Nino Williams (22)
WR-H	Thomson Omboga (87)	CB	Terrence Curry (18)
WR-Z	Sean Coffey (12)	CB	Michael Harden (26)
	Specialist
P	Brock Harvey (13)	PK	Michael Matheny (34)

5 Games to Watch

Collegian pigskin picks

	Dave Skretta (24-16)	Wes Marfield (26-14)	Joel Reichenberger (26-14)	Zach Long (27-13)
Missouri (7-3) at #18 K-State (9-3)	K-State 35-24	K-State 42-17	K-State 44-6	K-State 38-16
#4 Ohio State (10-1) at #5 Michigan (9-2)	Michigan 17-16	Michigan 27-24	Michigan 29-15	Michigan 28-14
#3 LSU (9-1) at #15 Mississippi (8-2)	LSU 31-20	Mississippi 21-20	Mississippi 38-30	LSU 35-31
Alabama (4-7) at Auburn (6-5)	Auburn 24-13	Auburn 20-10	Auburn 17-16	Auburn 17-14
#17 Iowa (8-3) at Wisconsin (7-3)	Iowa 40-24	Iowa 35-17	Wisconsin 26-19	Iowa 20-14

1 | Missouri at No. 18 K-State 6 p.m., TBS

It many not be the biggest game in the nation this weekend, but it's the biggest thing in the states of Missouri and Kansas. With a win, K-State goes to the Big 12 Championship. With a Missouri win, the Tigers are still alive.

2 | No. 4 Ohio State at No. 5 Michigan 11 a.m., ABC

One of the fiercest rivalries in the Big 10 has bigger implications this weekend. Big 10 championships and BCS berths weigh heavily on the outcome of this one at the Big House.

3 | No. 3 LSU at No. 15 Mississippi 2:30 p.m., CBS

LSU is trying desperately to jump ahead of Ohio State in the BCS, and thus to the National Championship game, while Mississippi is trying to stay unbeaten in the SEC.

4 | Alabama at Auburn 6:45 p.m., ESPN

It's the Iron Bowl, and while both programs have had disappointing seasons, nothing quite compares to this backyard brawl.

5 | No. 17 Iowa at Wisconsin 2:30 p.m., ABC

Iowa dismantled Minnesota in the battle for the big bronze pig, the Floyd of Rosedale, last weekend, while the Badgers have historically given the Hawkeyes trouble at Camp Randall.

Happy Valley Chinese Cuisine
Lunch Specials $4.99
Includes: • Choice of 2 Entrees • Rice • Soup • Appetizer
Dinner Specials $6.95 and up
Includes: • Entree • Appetizer • Salad • Daily Dessert • Rice • Soup • Kim Chee
Ask for Daily Specials
Located in Handi-Corner • Aggieville
Open 7 Days a Week, 11 AM - 10 PM • 539-9888

Power to choose...
Great pay
Paid holiday
Vacation pay
Life/health insurance
Referral bonuses
Free office tech. training
Free service quality training
...your own path.
MANPOWER
776-1094
www.manpower.com
555 Poyntz, Suite 245 Manhattan

Do you need to turn electronics, jewelry, sporting goods, music, cameras, guns, DVDs, etc. into cash?
We loan or buy any of these at the highest prices in town.
We also offer payday loans.
CHEER ON THE CATS!
MISTER MONEY USA Pawn Loans INC
705 N. 11th • 501 A Fort Riley Blvd.
565-0046 • 2 mi. east of Mall • 537-1803
*2 Topeka locations too!

I want to help you save money.
776-1855
Call me today! You may qualify for money-saving auto insurance discounts.
Jon Harper
Wildcat Lending
1814 Claflin Road, Suite 220
Manhattan, KS 66502
Office: 785-776-1855
Fax: 785-539-2577
E-Mail jharper@amfam.com
AMERICAN FAMILY INSURANCE
© 2000 American Family Mutual Insurance Company and its Subsidiaries
Home Office - Madison, WI 53783 • www.amfam.com

November Anniversary Specials
•Since 1975•
$55 Foil Highlite (add color & Haircut $10)
$45 All Over Color
$6 Men & Women Brow Wax
$30 Men Haircut & Highlite
$25 Full Set of Nails
$40 Relaxer
CLIPPERS
717 N 11th 539-7621
"Best Deal in the Ville"
$50 Foil Highlite (add color & Haircut $10)
$40 All Over Color
$6 Men & Women Brow Wax
$25 Men Haircut & Highlite
$22.50 Full Set of Nails
$37.00 Relaxer
CLIPPERS Too
K-State Student Union
532-5972

SUBS so fast
JIMMY JOHN'S®
Since 1983
WORLD'S GREATEST GOURMET SANDWICHES
HOURS: 11AM - 3 AM
WE DELIVER!
539.7454
AGGIEVILLE
1212 MORO
YOU FREAK

stayin' alive on the Wild Side
• T-Shirts • Clothing • Jewelry • Gurkee Sandals • Subway Posters • Incense
• Door Beads • Candles & holders • Disc Golf • Hackey Sacks • Beads • Much More... supporting our wildcats
1128 Moro • Aggieville • 776-2252

Zach Long | COLLEGIAN

K-State linebacker Bryan Hickman drags down Nebraska quarterback Jammal Lord during the Wildcats' win over the Huskers on Saturday in Lincoln, Neb.

Immobilizing mobility

By Joel Reichenberger
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

"We need to play with heart, emotion and go out there and fly around. Brad Smith is definitely a very big weapon in their offense, and we are going to have our hands full this weekend."

Andrew Shull
K-STATE DEFENSIVE END

It was third-and-three, and Nebraska was still in the game.

K-State had just taken advantage of a Jammal Lord fumble to break the 7-7 halftime stalemate, going up 14-7 in the third quarter.

If the Huskers wanted to stay in the game, they'd have to match K-State's touchdown.

Lord, Nebraska's senior quarterback took the snap, stepped back and sprinted to his right. He had just three yards to go to earn the Huskers a new set of downs.

He cut around the right corner of his offensive line, took one step and got no further.

Jermaine Berry, a Wildcat defensive lineman met Josh Buhl, K-State's speedy outside linebacker, and dropped Lord short of his destination.

The Huskers had to punt. Again.

When the K-State defense lines up Saturday, they will see the Missouri Tigers for the first time this season.

Nevertheless,looking across the line won't prove dramatically different than in other weeks.

Missouri, whose offense relies on quarterback Brad Smith's mobility and arm, is similar to Nebraska and Lord.

For Missouri, how Smith goes, the Tigers go.

The Missouri-Kansas game, likely the Tigers worst performance of the year, was also Smith's worst showing. Missouri never got on track, losing 35-14 in the Border War.

Smith struggled throughout. He was held to a career low 95 yards of offense, including 62 passing and just 33 rushing.

One week later Smith earned national recognition, rushing for nearly 300 yards and throwing for nearly 200 more, as his team dismantled Texas Tech 62-31.

But if the Tigers have to rely on their nimble quarterback to be productive, they may be in for a long day. Mobile quarterbacks have recently struggled against the Cats.

The defense has played

See MOBILITY Page 7

Fond farewell

28 seniors play final game at KSU Stadium

By Joel Reichenberger
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Zach Long | COLLEGIAN

K-State quarterback Ell Roberson talks with fans after the Wildcats beat Nebraska in Lincoln on Saturday. The senior will play his last game at KSU Stadium on Saturday against Missouri.

On Saturday, 28 seniors will play their last game at KSU Stadium.

Their place in Wildcat history remains in doubt, though.

The seniors of 2003 won't be remembered as the winningest senior class.

That honor is reserved for Jonathan Beasley and the class of 2000, which finished with a record of 44-7.

They won't be remembered as the most honored class, either.

The 1998 team graduated five Associated Press All-Americans, including Michael Bishop, runner up for the Heisman trophy, and Martin Gramatica, runner up and former winner of the Lou Groza award.

But the 2003 class won't be forgotten, either. What these seniors will be remembered for is their fight.

They are the players who helped save K-State's football program. They were part of two dramatic turnarounds.

While just sophomores through a 6-6 season in 2001, they began to seize the reigns and helped 2002 squad rebound to an 11-2 mark.

Then again, this season, with their dreams dashed by an upstart Marshall and further pummeled on the road at Texas and Oklahoma State, these seniors banded together to utilize the lessons of 2001.

Now, the seniors, and the rest of the Cats, will fight for the Big 12 North title on Saturday.

I define my class as a group of fighters, senior captain Andrew Shull said. "We fight till the end. We've always stuck together, had faith in each other and had faith in the system."

Top to bottom, the players who make their final trip down the ramp Saturday demonstrated an insatiable desire to rebound, respond and move on.

Ell Roberson battled poor play as a sophomore, finishing the season passing only 39.7 percent and with twice as many interceptions as touchdowns. Before the first game in 2002, he was named the back-up quarterback.

Just three games later, Roberson was back. He played against Southern California and led the Cats to victory. He helped K-State cruise to an 11-2 finish. Combined with his assault on the K-State record books in this, his senior season, Roberson has rewritten his legacy.

Roberson rebounded.

Danny Morris has long-battled his way up and down the running back depth charts. In 2002 he was second, but fell into a tie when Carlos Alsup switched to tailback from defensive back.

Last season the competition was cut short when he suffered a leg injury. Still, in 2003, he has defined special team excellence. He blocked a punt for a touchdown against Troy State.

Morris rebounded.

From Roberson to Morris, the 2003 senior class is packed with stories of those down who came out to make critical contributions to the team.

The entire class learned to rebound and fight back.

They watched in 2001, finishing 6-6 with the worst K-State record since 1992. They learned how to rebound, how to fight, and how to win.

"A lot of people tried to compare us to the 6-6 teams from a couple years ago," tight end Thomas Hill said. "That hit deep with a couple guys on this team. This is a team totally different from the 6-6 season."

After falling 38-34 at Oklahoma State, the seniors ordered a players only meeting. The guys who had been there in 2001 spoke of working harder in practice. They upheld Coach Snyder's mantra of improving every day.

"Going through 2001 did help them," junior transfer Cedrick Williams said. "Through bad times come sunny days. Through rainy days and sunny days, they stuck it out. When we went on the three game skid, they had been there before. They knew what it would take to get it back to a winning record. They showed the dedication and hard work to get it back."

When 28 seniors run down the cement ramp, on to the turf and to a cluster of their teammates, they will know that the most important game of their season still lies ahead.

Some may cry and some may think of their first day in practice, a hot August day so long ago. But after the ceremony, once the entire class has gathered on Wagner Field, they know it's time to go to work and time to lead.

"This class was great followers who became great leaders," Hill said.

"When we came in we followed guys, watched them and listened to them. Now it's our turn to be leaders."

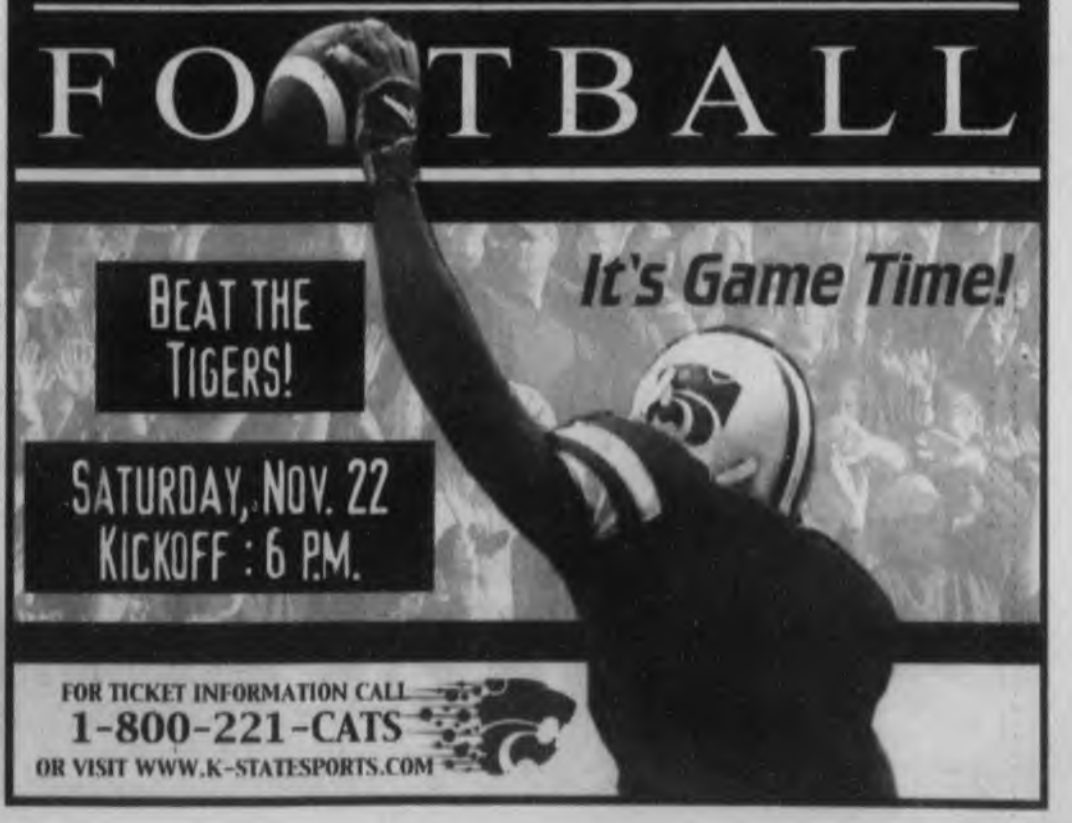
HUNGRY?

Check out the Menu Guide in back of the Campus Phone Book
Available in 103 Kedzie, Mon. - Fri. 8 a.m. - 5 p.m.

GIVE PLASMA GET CASH
Donate Plasma And Earn $45 this week
$5 more if you bring this coupon
$10 more if you bring a friend
Save Lives & Earn Your Weekend Cash!!
ZLB Plasma Services
1130 Gatekeeway
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785)776-9177
www.zlb.com

Precision Automotive Inc.
537-5050
ASE
SUN DIAGNOSTICS
Go Cats!
Complete Car & Truck Service & Repair Center
Domestic & Imported
VISA MasterCard DISCOVER
Westside Location
1120 Waters St.
Behind Lee Quick Wash
Mon.-Fri.
7:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.

K-STATE SUPER STORE
Great K-State Holiday Gifts
• Collectibles
• Desk Accessories
• Jewelry
• Leather Chairs and more



Don't forget your K-State Santa Hat!
520 McCall Road • kstategear.com
Monday–Friday 8:30 a.m.–7 p.m.
Saturday 9 a.m.–7 p.m.
Sunday 12 p.m.–5 p.m.
785-537-0844

PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS
1800 Claflin Road
776-5577
We Deliver During Lunch!
VISA

Chiropractic Family Health Center
Dr. Kenyon L. Erickson, D.C.
"Adjusting" to your needs
1213 Hylton Heights, Ste 117
Manhattan KS 66502
(785)539-3600

We Support the KSU Wildcats!
HONDA TOYOTA
Little Apple Toyota /Honda
785-539-7441 Manhattan • 785-238-8935 Junction City
OUTSIDE MANHATTAN DIAL 1-800-365-0017

We deliver for FREE the latest!
Checks add 50¢
GUMBY'S Pizza & Pub
Call now! 770-3333
702 N. 11th Street
Sunday 10:30 a.m. - 2 a.m.
Mon. - Wed. 10:30 a.m. - 2:30 a.m.
Thurs. - Sat. 10:30 a.m. - 3:30 a.m.
Monday mania $3.99
•LARGE CHEESE PIZZA • MONDAY ONLY • CARRY OUT ONLY • TOPPINGS EXTRA•
BUY ONE POKEY STICK AT REGULAR PRICE GET ONE EQUAL OR LESSER VALUE FREE
stick it to me Tuesday
DINE IN/CARRY OUT OR DELIVERY • TUESDAY
Rock N Roll wednesday
50¢ Pepperoni Rolls/ pizza sauce/ ranch extra + tax.
$5.00 MINIMUM DELIVERY
DELIVERY•DINE-IN•CARRY-OUT
Must mention coupon when ordering. Not valid w/ any other special
THURSDAY mania
XL-16" Cheese Pizza $5.99
DINE-IN • CARRY OUT • DELIVERY
Bonus Buy
Add on to any regular order
PAPA KISS MY BIG ASS SPECIAL
20" TOPPINGS EXTRA Cheese Pizza
Limited Time!!
ONLY $9.99 OR GET TWO FOR $18.99
THE DIRTY JOHN
One 14" One Topping Pizza, 2 Liter of Pepsi, PLUS Free Bread Sticks (NOT POKEY STIX)
Limited Time!! ONLY $10.99

KANSAS STATE FOOTBALL

FOR TICKET INFORMATION CALL 1-800-221-CATS
OR VISIT WWW.K-STATESPORTS.COM

Hill's return resembles K-State's return to the top

Kelly Glasscock | COLLEGIAN

Thomas Hill reaches the ball out after crossing into the end zone for a touchdown in K-State's 45-0 win over Iowa State.

Senior rebounds from injury to contribute to Cats

By David Skretta
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Redemption, resurrection, rebirth.

In so many words, K-State's season can be summed up.

Return, renew, revive.

K-State lost three straight games early in the season, plummeting the No. 6 Cats out of the polls and opening the floor to questions.

Now, the Wildcats are faced with the opportunity to play Oklahoma in the Big 12 Championship game – a second chance, assured by beating Missouri on Saturday.

That storyline, however fairy-tale it might seem, parallels that of tight end Thomas Hill, a former All-Big 12 performer who was feared lost for the season after sustaining a knee injury during fall drills.

The opportunity for a medical redshirt existed, but Hill already would have his degree, so he made a decision early on to work toward returning this season.

He wanted to finish his career with the guys with whom it started.

"That was important for him," Coach Bill Snyder said. "Thomas wanted to finish with his class.

"But perhaps the more predominant factor was that he wanted to play and help his football team. He just really wanted to help."

To hear it from Hill, however, there really wasn't a choice. He was going to play this season, and did whatever he needed to do to make it happen – grueling early-morning workouts and tedious exercises.

When asked how close he was to sitting out the season, Hill smiles and answers, "Close as Ball State would be to beating us.

"It never really crossed my mind," he said. "One time, real quick, I thought about next year, but I knew I could get back and that's what I did."

He has helped, too, catching five passes for a 72 yards and two touchdowns since returning.

But where he's helped more is in his leadership. The senior from Tulsa, Okla., is still doing everything he can, even if it's not always on the field.

"I'm leading with my practice play and off the field," he said. "I try to lead and tell the guys to keep driving and pushing."

He's also taken junior Brian Casey under his wing, helping him become a threat on offense. Casey is now K-State's fourth-leading receiver, with 16 catches for 314 yards.

"Brian Casey can do some things, Thomas Hill can do some other things," Snyder said. "There isn't one reason you'd throw him out and one reason you'd keep Brian on the field."

Where Hill does have an edge, however, is in experience. The senior will make his final appearance in KSU Stadium with 28 other seniors this Saturday.

Emotions will flow, he said, and there may be tears ever so briefly. But helping K-State define its season by moving on to the Big 12 Championship, he said, will override those thoughts.

"Once I step out there and come down the ramp, it's going to be one last thrill for me," he said. "To know I accomplished something, that I got my education and I finished out with the guys I came in with...

"I played my first game out here, and my last game – it's going to be a lot of excitement running through my veins."

Last stand

Senior lineman making 38th-straight start Saturday

By David Skretta
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

NFL broadcaster John Madden calls them the "big uglies," and they usually don't get publicity or prestige for their work in the trenches.

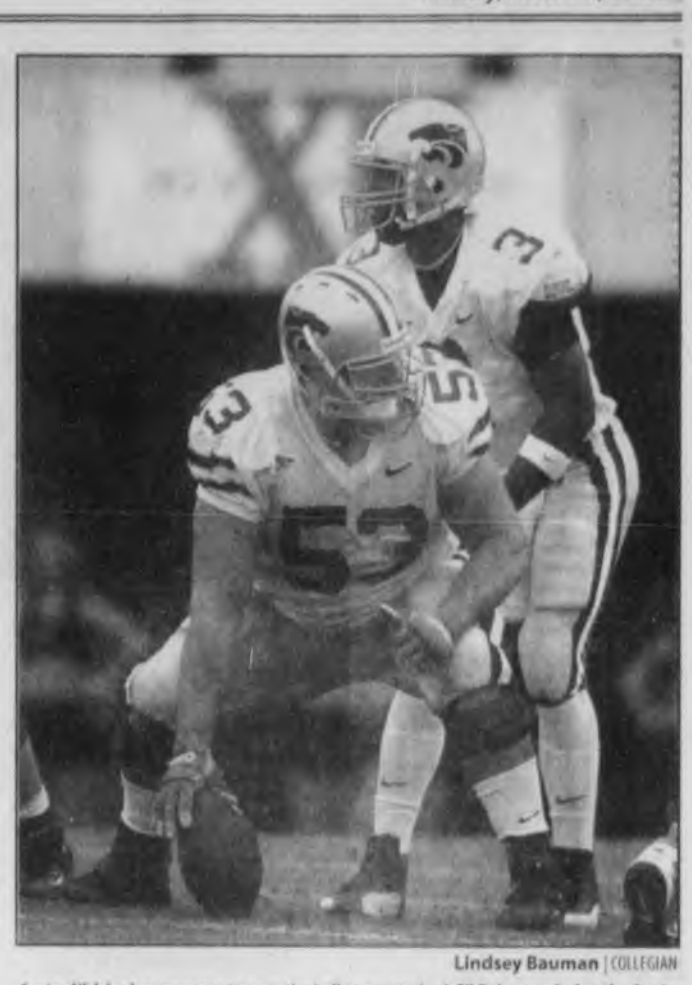
Yet offensive linemen are an integral part of an offensive machine, responsible in all facets of the game – from protecting the quarterback in the passing attack to paving the way for the ground game.

For the last 37 games, center Nick Leckey has led K-State's offensive linemen – his 38th and final regular-season start is Saturday.

The 6-foot-4, 285-pound senior from Grapevine, Texas, tries to hold up the gruff exterior, stereotypical of an offensive lineman who makes his living in hand-to-hand combat.

But when thinking about his final walk down the ramp and into KSU Stadium, Leckey hides a waver in his voice.

"This one being the last, I'll probably get emotional out there," Leckey said. "I can't lie. But I'll have to suppress that 'til after the game."



Treating Saturday like any other game won't be hard for Leckey, he said. Every game for the past three seasons – and twice as a true freshman – he's walked on the field as a starter.

Saturday, he says, will be no different. He has a job to do, and he plans to do it well once more.

"I've treated every game as if it's my last," he said, "and the only difference is Saturday it really is the last. But if you get too emotional, you aren't keeping the game between the white lines."

That, however, is where Leckey has excelled.

Leckey was named to the preseason watch list for the Lombardi, Outland and Rimington Trophies and was selected to several All-American lists, including Lindy's, Street & Smith's, Athlon and Sports Illustrated.

Lindsey Bauman | COLLEGIAN

Center Nick Leckey prepares to snap the ball to quarterback Ell Roberson during the Cats' game against Oklahoma State on Oct. 11.

A trip to Arizona with the Playboy All-American team he called "cool," an example of the low-key demeanor he takes with everything he's gotten.

A consensus first team All-Big 12 selection a year ago, Leckey has bridged four new starters on the offensive line, anchoring a group that has helped K-State run for more than 220 yards per game.

"He's deciding who's going to block who and he does so with very limited numbers of mistakes," Coach Bill Snyder said, "and he can still snap the ball and make the blocks.

"He isn't one of those guys jumping up and down, but he's saying do this and do this and let's go. He does it his way and it's effective."

Consistently grading out as K-State's top lineman, Leckey's name is being mentioned by several experts as a first-round draft choice in the 2003 NFL Draft.

That, offensive coordinator Greg Peterson said, would solidify Leckey's place among K-State's best.

"Nick's been a tremendous player, one of the best offensive linemen to play here in Coach Snyder's tenure," Peterson said. "He's given a lot to this program."

Readers wanted.

Order your 2004 Royal Purple yearbook at www.royalpurple.ksu.edu

Not a.
Not an.
Not one of.
Not belonging to.
Not his or her.
Not only.

Your.

royalpurple yearbook3.dvd

Order your 2004 Royal Purple yearbook at www.royalpurple.ksu.edu

November specials
Bed Head
Buy 1 Get 1 Half Price
Free Haircut
w/ any chemical service
Mention this ad on Sundays and Mondays through Jan. 2nd and receive anything at Half Price.
Purchase a Gift Certificate receive One Free
AGGIE HAIR SHAPERS
Trendy styles with the experience you deserve!
1220 Moro • 776.3600

Gei Gei's ltd
Beat Missouri
• Gift Certificates Available
• Get your Holiday Originals Here
OPEN AT 10 A.M.
1201 MORO • AGGIEVILLE • 537-0330

Dowling liquor store
beer wine liquor
471 E. Poyntz
539-8031
Mon - Sat
9 am - 11 pm
NO KEG

COLBERT HILLS
5200 Colbert Hills Dr. • 776-0472
www.colberthills.com
Thanks to the KSU Student Union Benefactor membership the following special rates are available to students.
9 Hole Par 3 Course
9 Holes: $6 • All Day Play: $10
Cart Each 9 Holes: $7
Championship Course
Students: Golf Cart Included
Every day after 1:30 only $30
Only 5 minutes from Campus
#1 Course in Kansas
1 of the Top 10 college courses in the nation!

$3 miller light pounders
$2 cheeseburger baskets
Come Down & Watch the Game at SILVERADO SALOON
VS.
Go Cats Beat Missouri
K-STATE FIGHT NIGHT
COMING THURSDAY, DEC. 4

"The Meal Deal"
Medium Big New Yorker (1 Topping) +
Side order of Cheese Stix +
2 Liter of Soda =
$9.99

$9.99 Meal Deal
• 1 Top Medium Big New Yorker Pizza
• Side Order of Cheese Stix
• 2 Liter of Soda
(Pepsi, Diet Pepsi, Mt. Dew)
Pizza Hut
AGGIEVILLE
1121 MORO
539-7666
Expires Dec. 15, 2003 - Good only at Aggieville location. Not good with any other special offer. 1/20 cent cash redemption value. © Pizza Huts of Manhattan

Cats historically dominate Mizzou

Players guard against being overconfident

By David Skretta
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The catfight between K-State and Missouri hasn't been much of a fight.

The Wildcats have dominated the Tigers for the past 10 years – ever since Missouri knocked off K-State 27-14 in 1992.

True, the Tigers hung with K-State during the Wildcats' rise to the top of the Big 12 North. They lost by a touchdown in 1993 and a field goal in 1994 when K-State was No. 11 – and four points in 2000, when K-State was No. 9.

But for the most part, the distance between K-State and Missouri has been even further than the stretch of Interstate 70 that connects Manhattan with Columbia, Mo.

Last season it was a 38-0 blanking, the year before a 24-3 margin. But in 1999, K-State beat Missouri 66-0, perhaps symbolic of what the Wildcats have managed to do against the Tigers.

"We understand what we've done to them in the past and we'll have to work hard to keep that up," linebacker Josh Buhl said.

Offensive coordinator Greg Peterson didn't balk when asked about the Wildcats' recent domination of Missouri, but he did find it hard to pinpoint why the difference between the programs has been so great.

"I don't know if it's one particular team," he said. "We've just been on a pretty good run against Missouri."

Nicole Donnert | Collegian

K-State's Darren Sproles tries to get by Missouri's A.J. Kincade during the Wildcats' win over the Tigers last season in Columbia, Mo.

"We understand what we've done to them in the past and we'll have to work hard to keep that up."

Josh Buhl
LINEBACKER

Part of that is because most seasons, Missouri hasn't been all that good.

Only twice in the past 10 years have the Tigers been bowl-eligible, and they're on their third coach in that tenure.

But Coach Gary Pinkel brought a new attitude to Missouri when he took over the helm prior to the 2001 season.

The Tigers have steadily risen since, winning four games that season – a one-game improvement. They won five last year – again, a one-game improvement.

And this season, the Tigers already have rattled off seven wins and, by winning out against K-State and Iowa State, can win their first Big 12 North crown.

When Pinkel came to Mizzou, putting the program in this position is exactly what he was looking to do.

"It's a play-off type feel, and they know that," Buhl said. "They know what's at stake."

Missouri isn't completely virgin when it comes to championship-caliber football. The Tigers were a powerhouse in the 1950s, '60s and '70s.

Dan Devine, who later coached for the Green Bay Packers and then Notre Dame, went undefeated in 1960. He was 93-37-7 in 13 seasons and had eight teams finish ranked in the top 20.

But those seasons were long ago. K-State was a perennial doormat then, and it seems as though the two programs have swapped positions in the conference pecking order.

While it may be difficult to prepare for a team like Missouri, with as much success as K-State has enjoyed in the last decade, Buhl said this game is every bit as important as Nebraska or Texas.

"We're aware and we understand it," Buhl said of the two teams' history. "It's a different game every year. They're still going to be coming at us."

Mizzou faces defeat

JOEL REICHENBERGER

I had never covered a K-State road game before.

So when my editor asked me to get Missouri coach Gary Pinkel's comments following his team's 38-0 drubbing at the hands of the Wildcats, I was excited.

We all packed into a room with posters and memorabilia commemorating the Tigers' proud football history (The Tigers have had their years every now that then, but it's been a lot less now and a lot more then).

The reporters milled around until Pinkel finally walked in. He was in a particularly sour mood as his team had just been dismantled and embarrassed, a loss that prevented his team from going to a bowl game (Question: just because the Fort Worth Bowl has the word "Bowl" in it, is it officially considered a bowl? It sounds about as prestigious as playing football in a pile of dog crap).

The first question fired from the reporter's mouth was "Why on earth didn't you kick a field goal to avoid a shutout?"

Late in the game Mizzou had driven deep into K-State territory, only to go for it on fourth down rather than take the points.

Pinkel's response was a dull, blank stare overcome by an evil sneer. Apparently, down by four or five scores, he was playing for the win, not the tie. Good call, Gary.

Missouri allowed K-State to get the shutout in 2002, and this weekend will be more of the same. This time however, the Tigers will be lucky if they have the chance to tack anything on the board.

There's been a lot of talk about an emotional letdown following K-State's huge win in Lincoln, Neb. I don't think that will happen, though.

K-State hates Missouri. Missouri hates K-State.

The seniors won't allow this team to slack off. Everyone wants to think about the Big 12 Championship, but believe me when I say every player on this team knows that the road to Kansas City, Mo., goes right through Brad Smith and the Tigers.

When talking to a Mizzou fan, two things are mentioned about 1,500 times, and one thing becomes apparent.

The revelation is that the fan is most likely an idiot. The annoyingly repeated "facts" are Mizzou has a "great" tradition and Brad Smith is proof that Jesus did bear offspring.

The fact is, recent history and tradition are firmly on K-State's side in this one. Last season K-State grabbed the tiger by the tail and twisted until he screamed.

Smith must have left his walking-on-water shoes at home, because he looked pretty human against K-State's defense.

Missouri will lose, Smith will be contained and the Tigers can pack up and head home. The sooner they do so the better. They will need all the time they can muster to get ready for the pile-of-dog crap bowl.

Joel is a senior in history and print journalism. You can e-mail him at pilotksu@hotmail.com.

Check the COUPON GUIDE in back of the Campus Phone Book
Available in 103 Kedzie M - F 8 a.m. - 5 p.m.

FREE unlimited tanning
w/ minimum purchase of 6 month membership
Purchase by 12-31-03
PRO AGGIEVILLE

Steve's Floral
www.STEVESFLORAL.net
Voted BEST FLORIST In Manhattan
"Established 1983"
Serving You In Manhattan & Surrounding Areas
785-539-6227
Outside Manhattan 1-800-752-9105
302 Poyntz • Downtown (9, D6)

MANHATTAN SHOE REPAIR
25th ANNIVERSARY
REPAIRING:
Purses, Shoes, Boots, Luggage, Birkenstock, Satin Shoe Dying, Ball Gloves, Leather Coats, Backpacks
HOURS: M-F 8-5:30 Sat. 8-1:00
216 South Fourth • 776-1193
GET 10% OFF WITH THIS AD

you ruLe...
UNIVERSITY COMMONS APARTMENTS
Finally, you rule. You're moving out on your own. Now all you need is a cool kingdom. We've got just the place. It's called UNIVERSITY COMMONS, and it's just what you've been looking for. Awesome location, affordable and fully furnished apartments waiting for you!
• 2 & 4 Bedroom Apartment Homes • Individual Leases
•Decked-out Kitchens • Fully Furnished • Near KSU Stadium
•Computer Lab with Copier & Fax • Washers and Dryers in unit
• Tennis, Basketball & Volleyball Courts • Recreation Room
• Swimming Pool • Permit Parking • Exercise Room
•Monitored • Alarm Systems • Roommate matching • Balconies
the place for people like you...
2215 COLLEGE AVENUE / 785-539-0500
www.universitycommons.com

Mustang
Gentleman's Club
18 + Over Welcome
HOME OF THE ULTIMATE GUYS NIGHT OUT
GROUPS OF 10 OR MORE
CALL AHEAD AND RESERVE A TABLE.
Call 785.375.5279 before 8 and 785.238.7571 after
WEDNESDAY:
AMATEUR NIGHT
All 18 and older ladies welcome - you keep the tips
THURSDAY:
DOLLAR NIGHT
$1. Wells / Coors Lt. Bttls
$1.75 Pitchers 48 oz
ALWAYS HIRING NEW GIRLS!
Small Hours Big Money
785-238-7571
1330 Grant, Junction City, KS

Snyder has high opinion of Smith

By David Skretta
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

MISSOURI SPORTS INFORMATION

Missouri sophomore quarterback Brad Smith leads the Tigers offense. He ranks ninth in the nation in scoring and 16th in rushing, in addition to throwing for more than 1,500 yards.

Coach Bill Snyder likes most people.

He rarely has something bad to say about anybody, instead searching for the good in each person he meets.

He finds a lot of good in Brad Smith.

But he doesn't like him.

"If he were on my team, maybe I'd like him," Snyder said.

Using a thesaurus of adjectives to describe Missouri's dual-threat quarterback, Snyder found words such as "poise, leadership, speed" to be the most accurate.

"Certainly, he's the complete package," Snyder said. "He's just a well-balanced young guy."

Young might be the operative word. Smith, a sophomore from Youngstown, Ohio, broke onto the scene last year as an unknown, unheralded prospect out of Chaney High School.

But then he made history as just the second Division-I quarterback to throw for 2,000 yards and rush for 1,000 yards in a season, and ranked 10th in the nation in total offense.

Now, a year later, Smith is still young, but Snyder contends he is wise beyond his years.

"He's gained a great deal of experience," he said. "Twenty-some ballgames under his belt as a starter – that's ample experience."

That experience has paid off this season in leading Missouri to a 7-3 record and a shot at the Big 12 North championship.

Against Colorado, Smith threw for 278 yards and rushed for 102 more. Against Texas Tech, he earned National Player of the Week honors from several publications for his 291-yard rushing performance highlighted by five touchdown runs.

While K-State dual-threat quarterback Ell Roberson took offense to being compared with Nebraska quarterback Jammal Lord, he said he had the utmost respect for Smith.

"I like Brad. He's a cool cat," Roberson said. "He's a guy that came in, wasn't highly recruited, but they built around him and he's making plays and being a leader for them.

"Certainly he's the complete package. He's just a well-balanced young guy."

Bill Snyder
K-STATE COACH

"That's something I really tried to do here. He's doing it there and getting the job done."

Smith already has gained 6,010 yards of total offense in just his second season, and is on pace to surpass Texas Tech quarterback Kliff Kingsburry's Big 12-record 12,263 yards of total offense.

The yards are great, Smith says. The statistics, the trophies and the hype are all wonderful. But where he said he needs to progress the most is in leadership – that's what separates him from the elite, such as Roberson.

"Yeah, I want to win and he is at a place I want to get to," Smith said of K-State's senior quarterback.

"When I am on the field, I just try to win. When it comes to the individual aspects of the game, I just make decisions and go."

While racing all over the field with a running back's mentality, Smith is equally dangerous with his arm – as much unheralded as he was coming out of high school.

"It comes with working as a team and the timing," Smith said of his passing success, which includes 10 touchdowns against five interceptions. "All I want to do is win. If that means running the ball or throwing, that's what I do."

That, Snyder reiterated, is what he dislikes most about Smith.

"He's just gotten better and better, and that's hard to fathom as good as he was a year ago," Snyder said.

Recruiting at stake Saturday

Several high school seniors watching Missouri game closely

By Marshall Ice
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The Big 12 North title may not be the only thing on the line Saturday. Several top recruits list both K-State and Missouri among schools in their top five.

The No. 1-ranked high school player in Kansas, Winfield quarterback Nick Patton, is one prospect considering both schools.

"If K-State wins I would not cross off Missouri, but it would help," Patton said.

Winfield coach Brian Shaw said Patton has expressed a desire to play for a winner.

"It may weigh on his decision, because he wants to go to a program that is on the way up," Shaw said.

However, Patton said there are other things he will consider.

"I do not just look at how well a school plays," Patton said. "I want to get my degree, but I do look at a team's success."

K-State's offense requires a quarterback who can pass and run, and Patton fits the system.

"He throws the ball well and has a good arm," Shaw said of Patton.

"If you need him to, he can run with the ball. He also has the size to be pretty durable."

Patton is listed as the 64th-best recruit in the nation by ESPN.com.

The 6-foot-3, 185-pound signal-caller has already taken an official visit to Missouri and is planning a trip to Manhattan sometime in December.

"I want to be there when the students are there so I can get a feel for how everything works," he said.

As many as 20 other recruits are looking at both schools.

Standout quarterback Chase Patton – no relation to Nick – has both schools in his top three. Chase comes from Missouri's own back yard, having played at Rock Bridge High School in Columbia, Mo.

K-State's most recent commitment, 6-foot-4, 250-pound Jordan Bedore, of Goodland, Kan., was recruited by Missouri.

Another prospect is Tony Temple, who is already a legend in Kansas City after four years as the starting running back at football powerhouse Rockhurst.

He is rated 14th overall nationally and second among running backs.

Rockhurst coach Tony Severino said K-State and Temple have had mutual interest in each other for quite some time.

"I know K-State is in his top five," Severino said. "They have been on him as heavily on anybody since his sophomore year."

K-State and Missouri appear to be neck-and-neck in the race to secure a commitment from Temple.

"The top two Big 12 teams on his list are K-State and Missouri," Severino said. "Probably K-State number one, Missouri number two, as of right now."

As a junior, Temple led Rockhurst to an undefeated season and a state championship.

Surprisingly, Temple did not have similar success during his last season.

"He had an injury-plagued senior season and only played about five games," Severino said.

Despite the disappointing finish, Temple's skills remain coveted.

"He is already a great runner," Severino said. "But he still can become a great all-around running back."

Little Caesars
PIZZA & CRAZY BREAD®
ONE LARGE PIZZA WITH 1 TOPPING AND ONE ORDER OF CRAZY BREAD
$8.99
CARRY OUT PLUS TAX DELIVERY CHARGE MAY APPLY
Expires: 12/31/03
Valid only at particpating locations
®2002 L.C.E., Inc.
GO, CATS!
MANHATTAN
(Westloop Center)
539-3333

Kansas State Collegian
Wildcat fans' newspaper of choice

Wohler's Used Furniture
615 N. 3rd St.
539-3319
Visit Wohler's for used: Furniture, Antiques, Appliances and miscellaneous items for all needs.
10-6 Mon.-Fri. 10-5 Sat. Closed on Sun.

Stay in style with our most popular brands! Wrangler, 20X
Levi's, Cinch, Cruel Girl, and Montana Silversmiths
If we don't have it, we will gladly special order it!
Lee's Western Wear
8424 E. Hwy 24
2½ miles East of Manhattan
(785) 776-6715
Storewide Sale 10% off all purchases through Nov. 29
Mon.-Fri. 10-6, Sat. 10-5

Southside Auto Sales
'98 Nissan Frontier X-Cab
4 cyl., auto, air, 98K
$5,995
'96 Jeep Grand Cherokee
4x4, 6 cyl., loaded
$5,995
'99 Nissan Sentra
4dr, auto, 59K
$5,995
'97 Honda Civic Ex
4 cyl., 5 speed, 86 K
$5,995
'95 Nisson Pathfinder 4x4, auto., V6 $4,995
'96 Dodge Dakota Ext. Cab 350, V8, auto, loaded $3,250
'98 Pontiac Bonneville SE 4 dr, loaded $4,500
'93 Toyota Tercel 4 dr, auto, 59K $2,750
'96 Dodge Grand Caravan V-6, loaded $4,495
'97 Chrysler Town and Country 88 K, leather, loaded $5,495
'97 Ford Probe 4 cyl., 5 speed, Air $2,995
'92 Dodge Conv. Van tailgate mobile, 81 K $2,925
'97 Ford F-150 4x4, V-8, Auto $2,495
425 Yuma, Manhattan, KS
785-776-2170 800-837-2170

SAVE $1.00
on your next purchase of a
Blizzard® Flavor Treat
Two locations 1015 N. 3rd St.
3116 Anderson Ave
Consumer must pay any sales tax. Limit 1 per coupon and 1 coupon per customer. Redeemable only on items selling at regular price. Good only at Manhattan stores.
Offer good only 11/21,11/22,11/23.
BLIZZARD
Dairy Queen®

HUNAN EXPRESS
Chinese Food Lover's Choice
BUFFET
Lunch 11:00 - 2:30 $3.99
Dinner 5:30 - 9:00 $4.99
Free Delivery: 537-0886
Hours: Sun. - Thurs. 11 - Midnight; Fri. - Sat. 11 - 2:30 am
1116 Moro St. Aggieville (Only a few blocks south of KSU)

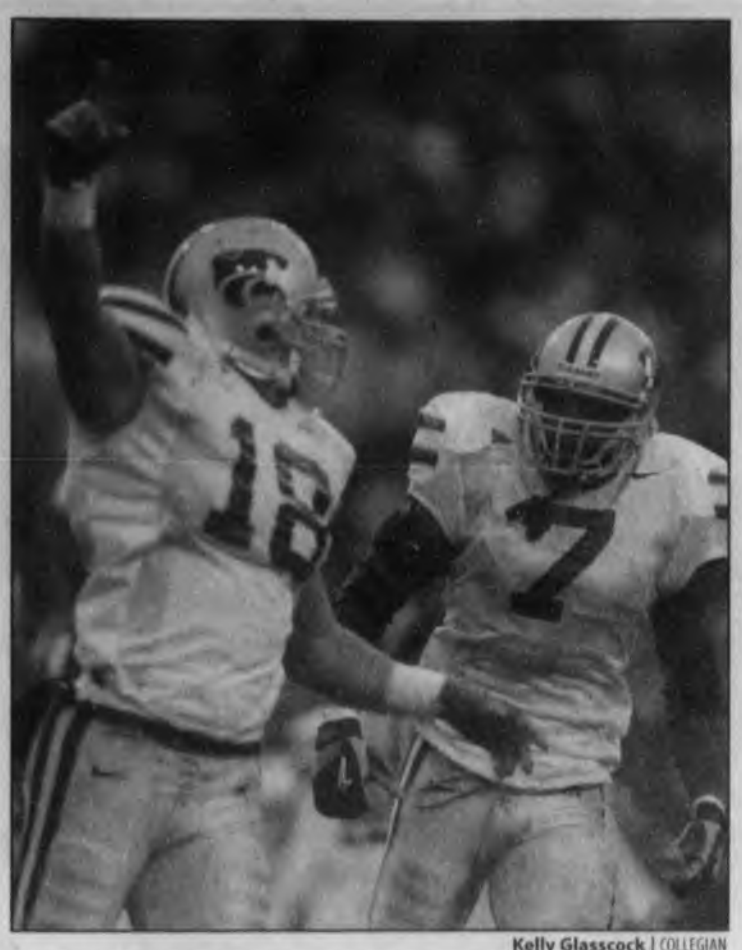
ExpertTire
EVERYDAY DISCOUNT PRICES
Thanksgiving Sale!
Insignia SL
BRIDGESTONE
Save Now Thru Nov. 29th!
4 For $133
Size P155/80R13. Or $33.25 each.
All 13" Insignia SL Tires 4 For $183
All 14" Insignia SL Tires 4 For $233
All 15" Insignia SL Tires 4 For $273
65,000 Mile Limited Warranty*
70, 75 and 80 series size whitewalls.
Tune-Up
Save Now Thru Nov. 29th!
Only $39.99
• Visually inspect ignition wires, distributor cap/rotor, filters and more • Install new Bosch spark plugs
• Set timing and idle (if applicable) • Road test vehicle
Most 4 cylinder electronic ignition vehicles. 6 and 8 cylinder slightly higher. Transverse V-6 engine and A/C interference higher.
ExpertTire 90 DAYS INTEREST FREE!
Minimum monthly payment required.

DOMESTIC
SPECIAL PURCHASE
40,000 mile Limited Warranty*
4 For $100 P155/80R13 P175/80R13 P165/80R13 P185/80R13
4 For $110 P185/75R14 P185/70R14 P195/75R14 P195/70R14 P205/75R14 P205/75R15
4 For $120 P215/75R14 P205/70R14 P215/75R15 P215/70R14
4 For $130 P205/70R15 P225/75R15 P215/70R15 P235/75R15
Call for other size whitewalls. Tread design may vary.

PERFORMANCE
LEMANS SR
all-season, s and t-speed rated
$45.99 P185/70R14
50,000 mile limited warranty*

white letter	price
P225/70SR14	$54.99
P195/60TR14*	46.99
P215/65SR15	54.99
P195/60TR15*	48.99
P275/60SR15	€66.99
P205/55TR16*	67.99

•black letters



LIGHT TRUCK
LEMANS HT
all-season, steel belted
$68.99 P225/75R15
60,000 mile limited warranty*

white outline	price
P235/75R15	$68.99
P235/70R15	71.99
P245/75R16	77.99
P265/75R16	80.99
P235/70R16	75.99
P255/70R16	82.99

call for other sizes

ExpertCare Car Service
STANDARD OIL CHANGE
$11.99
YOUR CAR'S MOST FREQUENTLY NEEDED SERVICE!
• Install new oil filter
• Includes refill of up to 5 qts. Kendall® 10W-30 motor oil
• Lubricate chassis (if applicable)
Most vehicles. Price includes oil disposal fee.

MANHATTAN
307 N. 3rd St.
776-8311
Monday-Friday 7 a.m.-6 p.m.
Saturday 7 a.m.-5 p.m. · Sunday 9 a.m.-5 p.m.
www.ExpertTire.com
ExpertTire
EVERYDAY DISCOUNT PRICES
Shop fees in the amount of 9% of labor charges will be added to all services not applicable in California or New York. Specific product offerings and tread designs may vary. Prices, warranties, ExpertCare Car Service, credit plans and other offers available at ExpertTire. *If you do not achieve guaranteed mileage, your ExpertTire retailer will replace your tires on a prorated basis. Actual tread life may vary. All warranties apply only to original owner on originally installed vehicle. See retailer for details, restrictions and copy of each limited warranty. Finance charges expired on qualifying Promotional Credit Plan purchases that are paid in full within 90 days. MINIMUM MONTHLY PAYMENT REQUIRED. Regular Rate: 21.84% APR. Delinquency Rate: 24.84% APR. Minimum finance charge: $1.00. Subject to credit approval. See store for details. Indy® Indy 500™ and Indianapolis 500® Mile Race are registered trademarks of Brickyard Trademarks, Inc., used with permission.

Kelly Glasscock | COLLEGIAN

K-State linebackers Josh Buhl and Bryan Hickman celebrate during the Wildcats' win over Nebraska on Saturday. Buhl and Hickman will play their last game at KSU Stadium on Saturday against Missouri after playing together since high school.

Texas tandem: Buhl, Hickman solidify their legacy

By Andi Rice
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

On Saturday, nine years after they met in Mesquite, Texas, linebackers Josh Buhl and Bryan Hickman will have their second senior day together.

"It's real special," Buhl said. "I probably won't understand how special until Saturday comes."

When the two became teammates for the first time at North Mesquite High School, Buhl said they didn't really like one another, but began hanging out and haven't stopped since.

"At the high school level, because both of them were such great football players, there was a competitive edge on who was going to be the best," Buster Leaf, their former high school football coach, said.

"That probably created some tension at first, but then they got to playing together and they were getting better as they played together, they really brought out the best in each other.

"They are the best pair of linebackers I've ever coached in my 34 years," Leaf said.

When their high school career ended, the duo made an agreement to continue on to the next level together, and K-State offered them both scholarships, Leaf said.

Since becoming Wildcats, Buhl and Hickman have been inseparable. They've lived together for their five-year stint and become the heart of the linebackers.

"They're the strength of the linebackers and they help everyone along," cornerback Cedrick Williams said. "They take everything on their shoulders, and if they play 100 mph, we have to play 100 mph. They keep us going and focused at all times."

Buhl leads the Cats in tackles with 156 this season and is followed by Hickman as the No. 2 tackler on the team with 90. They've also each earned Big 12 Defensive Player of the week honors.

"It's just like in high school," Buhl said. "We're getting the same kind of awards and we have a lot of fun together. He got one and I'm proud that he got one. I was one of the first ones to tell him congratulations."

Despite similarities on the field, co-defensive coordinator Bret Bielema said they are two very different people.

"They play off each other pretty good. They keep each other on their toes," Bielema said. "If one messes up the other tells him about if for the next 10 minutes. If Josh struggles with the mental aspect of something that Bryan know the answer to, he thinks it's pretty funny that Josh can't get the answer. There's a little give and take, but they both compliment each other very well."

Bielema said Buhl is one of the guys he never worries about.

"Josh is obviously a high-motor guy. Part of the reason he has such success on the field is because he never stops running," Bielema said. "When he's done with football, the sky's the limit for him because he is such a dynamic person.

"If you put Josh in with 30 kindergartners, they're going to love him. If you put him in with 30 senior citizens, they're going to love him. He's got the ability to win people over."

Hickman isn't as outgoing, Bielema said.

"He may be the most intelligent football player I've ever been around," Bielema said. "He just has the feel. He plays like a DB when he needs to, and he's able to fit in there against the run when he has to."

With what some might be calling the "Mesquite Sandwich" during the Nebraska game, Buhl and Hickman sacked quarterback Jammal Lord in one of the most memorable moments for the two, Buhl said.

"That's something really special for us," Buhl said. "A moment like that together was real special in Nebraska. It had never been done before and we did it together. We talked about it on the way home and kind of got a little emotional."

After living together for five years, the Texas twosome are finishing up their careers together and will likely be going in different directions, Buhl said.

"We're not sure what we're going to do yet. It's going to be different and hard because we've been together for a really long time," he said. "We're not looking forward to it."

MOBILITY | Smith presents more balanced threat

Continued from Page 3

better in recent weeks, leading to its national ranking to jump inside the top five for the first time all season.

Lord, Nebraska's elusive threat, was held to 88 yards rushing. Outside of two plays, one for 18 yards and another a 28-yard scamper, he averaged just 2.2 yards per carry.

Lord didn't have a ton of success passing, either, completing just eight passes for 98 yards and missing several open receivers.

Against Smith however, K-State will have to stay honest on defending the run.

Smith has put up better numbers through the air than Lord, already throwing for 1,559 yards, and completing passes at better than 60 percent.

"We need to keep great pressure on him. The front four, we need to be after him all day," defensive end Andrew Shull said. "We can't allow him to pull the ball down and let him take off running.

"We need to play with heart, emotion and go out there and fly around. Brad Smith is definitely a very big weapon in their offense, and we are going to have our hands full this weekend."

Last season, K-State was able to key in on Smith and generally contain the freshman-phenom. He ran for just 30 yards and tacked on another 126 through the air.

Holding him to similarly disappointing numbers on Saturday will require discipline, and emotion, Buhl said.

"We just have to make sure we contain him," he said. "We need to make sure we don't let them get comfortable out there."

ROYAL THAI CUISINE
"The BEST Restaurant in Town"
As featured in the Manhattan Mercury
Our Menu, Decor and Service is first rate!
ROYAL THAI CUISINE invites you to discover for yourself the taste of Thai cuisine.
5% Off
Your Entire Ticket
Dine-in Only
Dinner Hours
Coupon Required
ROYAL THAI CUISINE
3003 Anderson Ave., Suite #1005, by Alco in Plaza West, 539-0399
Business Hours:
Lunch:
Monday - Friday 11:00 - 3:30 p.m.
Dinner:
Monday - Friday 3:30 - 10:00 p.m.
Saturday 11:00 - 10:00 p.m.
Sunday: 11:00 - 9:00 p.m.
ROYAL THAI CUISINE
Come try our delicious and authentic Thai food.
Come enjoy the various tastes of Thai, the great variety of meat as well as fresh seafood, duck, tofu, food for vegetarians, and full bar.
Come dine in and enjoy our romantic, relaxed atmosphere and experience our excellent and friendly service.
Come or call to order our food to-go and enjoy the great flavor of our fresh Thai food in your home.
To celebrate the 2nd year anniversary, we would like to express our appreciation to the KSU people who have greatly supported our business since March 2001.
Thus, to December 31, 2003, we offer the 10% discount from the entire tickets to all of the KSU students and personnel with valid KSU ID's Mondays through Wednesdays during our dinner business hours (from 3:00 pm to 10:00 pm).

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
WILDCAT FANS' NEWSPAPER OF CHOICE
Make your voice heard!
CampusFourum: 395–4444

Domino's Pizza
776-7788
we deliver free to you
Lunch Special
Daily 11am-4pm
One Medium Pizza with One Topping 20oz. Coke
$5.99
Late Night Special
Nightly 9pm-Close
One Large One Topping Pizza
$5.99
Daily Special
Two Medium One Topping Pizzas
$8.99
Daily Special
One Large One Topping Pizza
$7.99
or two for $14.99
DEEP DISH $1 MORE • LIMITED TIME ONLY • EXP. 12/31/03

macaroni salad soup
smokey BBQ beans chips
potato salad cookies
SUBS N SUCH
Home of the Kitchen Sink
ANYTIME TWO-FER
Any footlong Sub, 2 chips or small salads and 2 16 oz. drinks just $8.60
We Deliver
537-2411
Wildcat Landing at Claflin & Denison

POWERCAT ILLUSTRATED'S
GoPOWERCAT.com
www.gopowercat.com
K-State's online subscription sports news service
Two perfect news sources for serious Wildcat fans!
Makes a Great Gift!
Call 785-539-8041 or 1-888-4KSUCAT for subscription or gifts
TIM FITZGERALD'S
POWERCAT ILLUSTRATED
THE SPORTS MAGAZINE BY K-STATERS FOR K-STATERS

RadioShack. Manhattan
They're Hot! They're Here!
Custom RC's
CHRISTMAS TOYS ARE HERE
Ask About Our No Money Down Lay-A-Way Plan
HUGE SELECTION OF ZIP-ZAP MICRO RC'S
Get them while we have them!!
Hours
Mon-Fri 9 to 8
Sat 9 to 7
Sun 12 to 6
RadioShack
On Fort Riley Blvd
Between 4th and 5th Streets
Manhattan
537-1476

Missouri defense focused on stopping K-State ground attack

By David Skretta
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Overlooking Missouri's defense isn't hard to do.

After all, a Heisman Trophy-candidate in Brad Smith, one of the Big 12's top running backs in Zach Abron and an offensive lineman anchored by All-Big 12 performers A.J. Ricker and Rob Droege turn attention quickly to the offense.

Yet Mizzou's defense, despite being a roller coaster at times, has been one of the Tigers' strengths.

The unit gave up just 22 points in Missouri's first three games and allow just 133 yards per game rushing.

At times piling as many as nine players within five yards of the line of scrimmage, otherwise known as "the box," the Tigers focus on stopping the run, K-State offensive coordinator Greg Peterson said.

"They've been an eight-man front-team," he said, "trying to get more guys in the box than you have to block. If you're going to be in a two-back set, they have even have nine in there."

Peterson said that may prove particularly effective against a K-State team that uses its ground game to set up the passing attack.

Getting the ball to running back Darren Sproles enough times to allow him to break one will be important, Peterson said.

"You've got to find formations that you can get Sproles the ball. The more you give it to him the better he gets," he said.

That may mean splitting Sproles out as a wide receiver or using screen passes to get him the ball out of the backfield. While utilizing Sproles will be important, Peterson said, how they get him the ball may be varied.

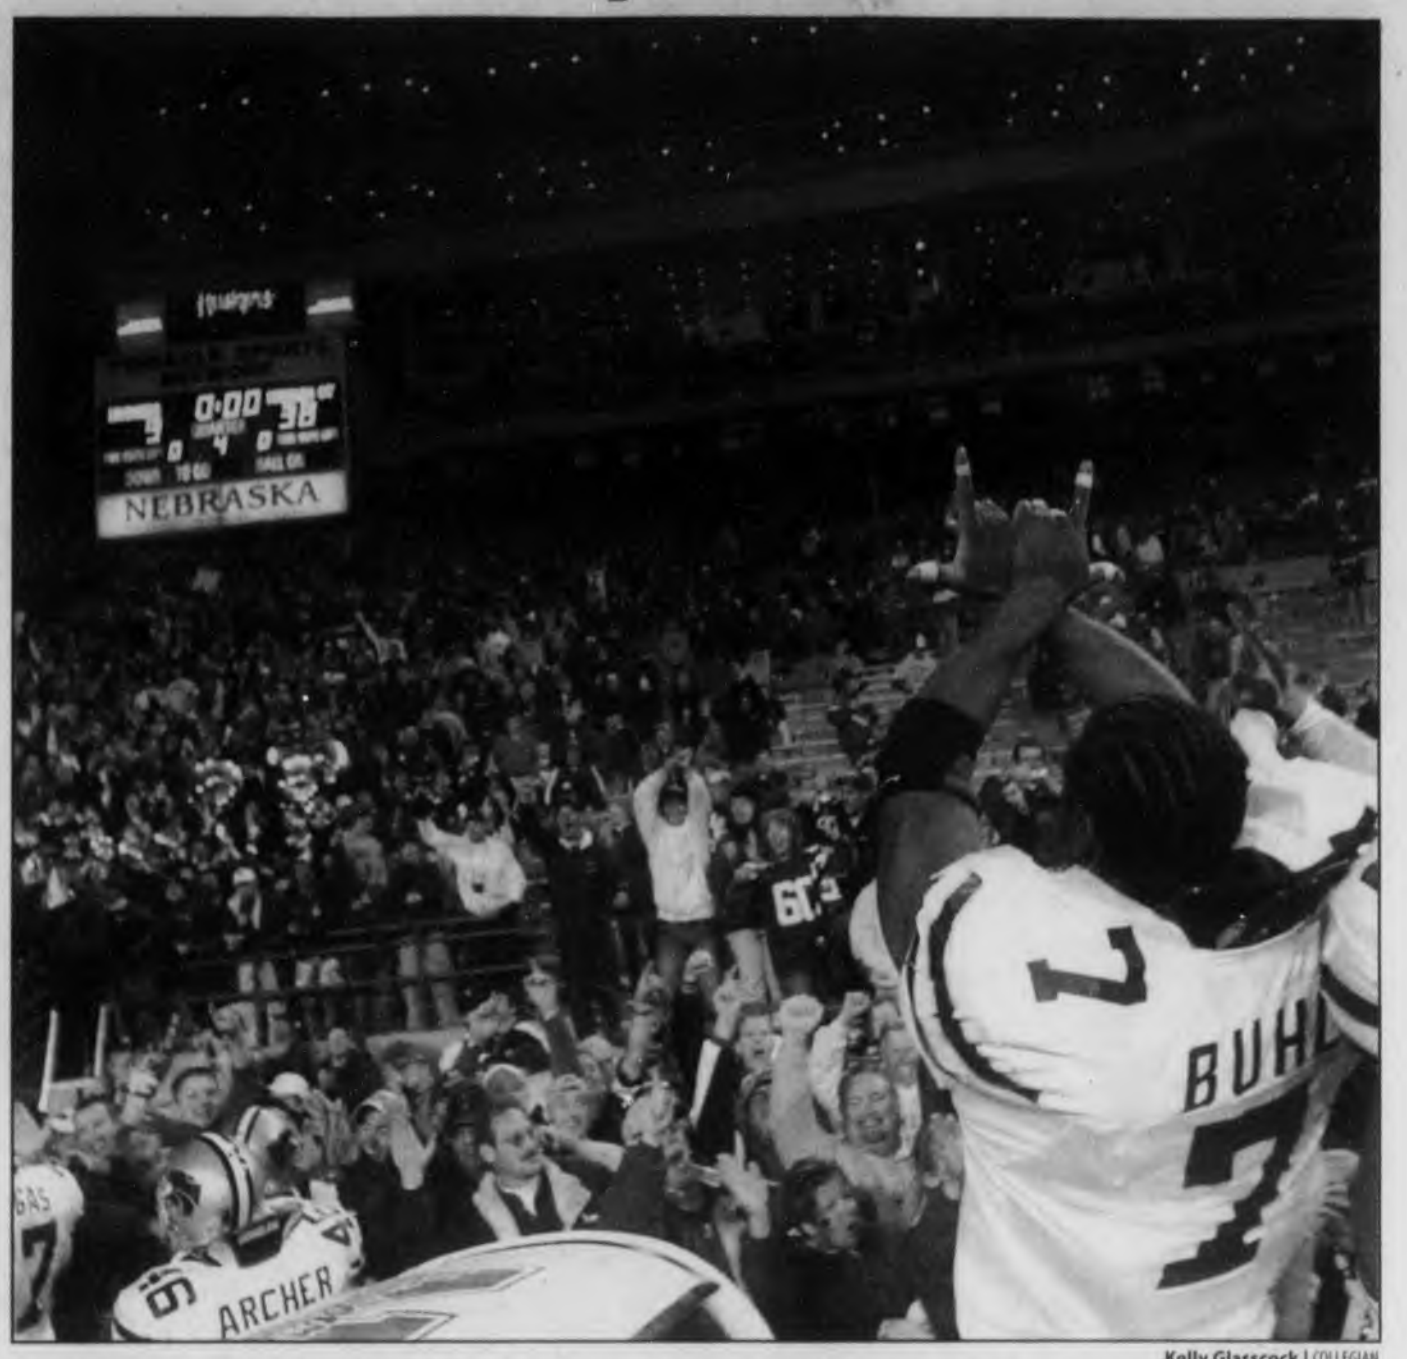
Sproles is third-leading receiver, so he's not a mystery in the passing game. He has already hauled in 17 catches for 182 yards and a touchdown, including five catches for 82 yards against Oklahoma State.

"They've been an eight-man front-team trying to get more guys in the box than you have to block. If you're going to be in a two-back set, they have even have nine in there."

Greg Peterson
K-STATE OFFENSIVE COORDINATOR

"They've been pretty good against the run game," Coach Bill Snyder said. "Defensively they've made some strides."

Snyder and Peterson agree that passing the ball, and thus spreading out Missouri's defense, will be important for K-State to move the football on offense.



Due to the success of quarterback Ell Roberson in the past five games, in which he's thrown for 1,031 yards and 15 touchdowns, Peterson said K-State has more confidence than ever in the passing attack.

"Ell has thrown the ball very well," he said, "and teams have to defend us because we're so balanced."

Keeping the Cats on the ground and containing Roberson are the two keys Missouri linebacker Brandon Barnes said will determine the outcome Saturday.

"He has a very quick and agile style," he said. "He is a very smart quarterback and he has been productive in their system."

Purple salute

Kelly Glasscock | COLLEGIAN

K-state's Josh Buhl signals to the crowd after the Wildcats' resounding 38-9 victory over Nebraska last Saturday in Lincoln, Neb. It was the first time since 1968 that K-State had beaten Nebraska at Memorial Stadium. K-State can clench the Big 12 North title with a win over Missouri on Saturday. Kickoff is at 6:10 p.m., and the game will air on TBS.

Give us your opinion.
Campus Fourum: 395-4444

Yes, the students are back in town.
They're also spending money to furnish their living spaces.
They're shopping in the Kansas State Collegian classifieds.
Call to place an ad today. 532-6555.
SELL YOUR STUFF

SUN CONNECTION
GAMEDAY SPECIALS
2 WK Unlimited
Super - $19.99
Mega - $25.99
3 WK Unlimited
Super - $27.99
Mega - $34.99
$19.99 Attitude BAG
1814 CLAFLIN 537-0744 | 1125 LARAMIE 776-2426

HUNAM
Restaurant and Mongolian BBQ
1304 Westloop 539-8888
Lunch Buffet $4.95 Mon.-Sat. All you can eat!
Dinner Buffet $6.95 All you can eat!
Friday Night Seafood Buffet $8.45
Crabs legs, scallops, fish, shrimp, etc.
FREE DELIVERY
• OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK •
$1.00 off Buffet
Please present coupon
1304 Westloop 539-8888

Dr. Paul E. Bullock
Dr. Jarad M. Waite
Optometrists
$10 Off Complete Eye Exam
with coupon
Expires 12/19/03
Save up to $20 on complete eyeglass or contact lens packages.
We fill outside prescriptions
• Most contact lens fittings done same day.
• Glasses also available same day in most prescriptions.
776-9461
Toll Free 800-432-0036
1441 Anderson Ave.
• Anderson Village •
Adjacent to KSU

Are You Ready?
We Are.
• K-State Apparel •
• License Plates •
• Picture Frames •
• Stickers & Tattoos •
• Tailgating Supplies •
PLUS....
• Sorority Gifts •
• Italian Charm Bracelets •
THE Palace Cards & Gifts
539-7654
704 N. Manhattan Ave
• Aggieville •

J and T's Gifts and Ceramics
READY TO PAINT CERAMICS
Bisque Firing Repairing Supplies
Greenware Finished Items
785.776.0840
800.645.0840
715 North 12th Street
free lessons • over 11,000 molds

THE LIBRARY DISCOUNT LIQUOR
CORNER OF 12TH & LARAMIE
AGGIEVILLE
539-5269
Open 9am - 11pm Mon - Sat
www.librarydiscountliquor.com

Come watch the GAME on our BIG SCREEN!
Go, Cats!
$2 1/4 lb. Chili Cheese Dog
STOTZ
open @ 5

Wash Palace
Q: What happens when your hangers are empty and your laundry bag is full?
A: You drop off your laundry at:
THE WASH PALACE.
BRING IN THIS AD AND RECEIVE 20% off any DROP OFF or DRY CLEANING
THE WASH PALACE
Exp. March 1, 2004
537-6833

Bob's DINER
10TH Anniversary have a quickie
t-shirt
2 eggs
2 bacon
hashbrowns toast
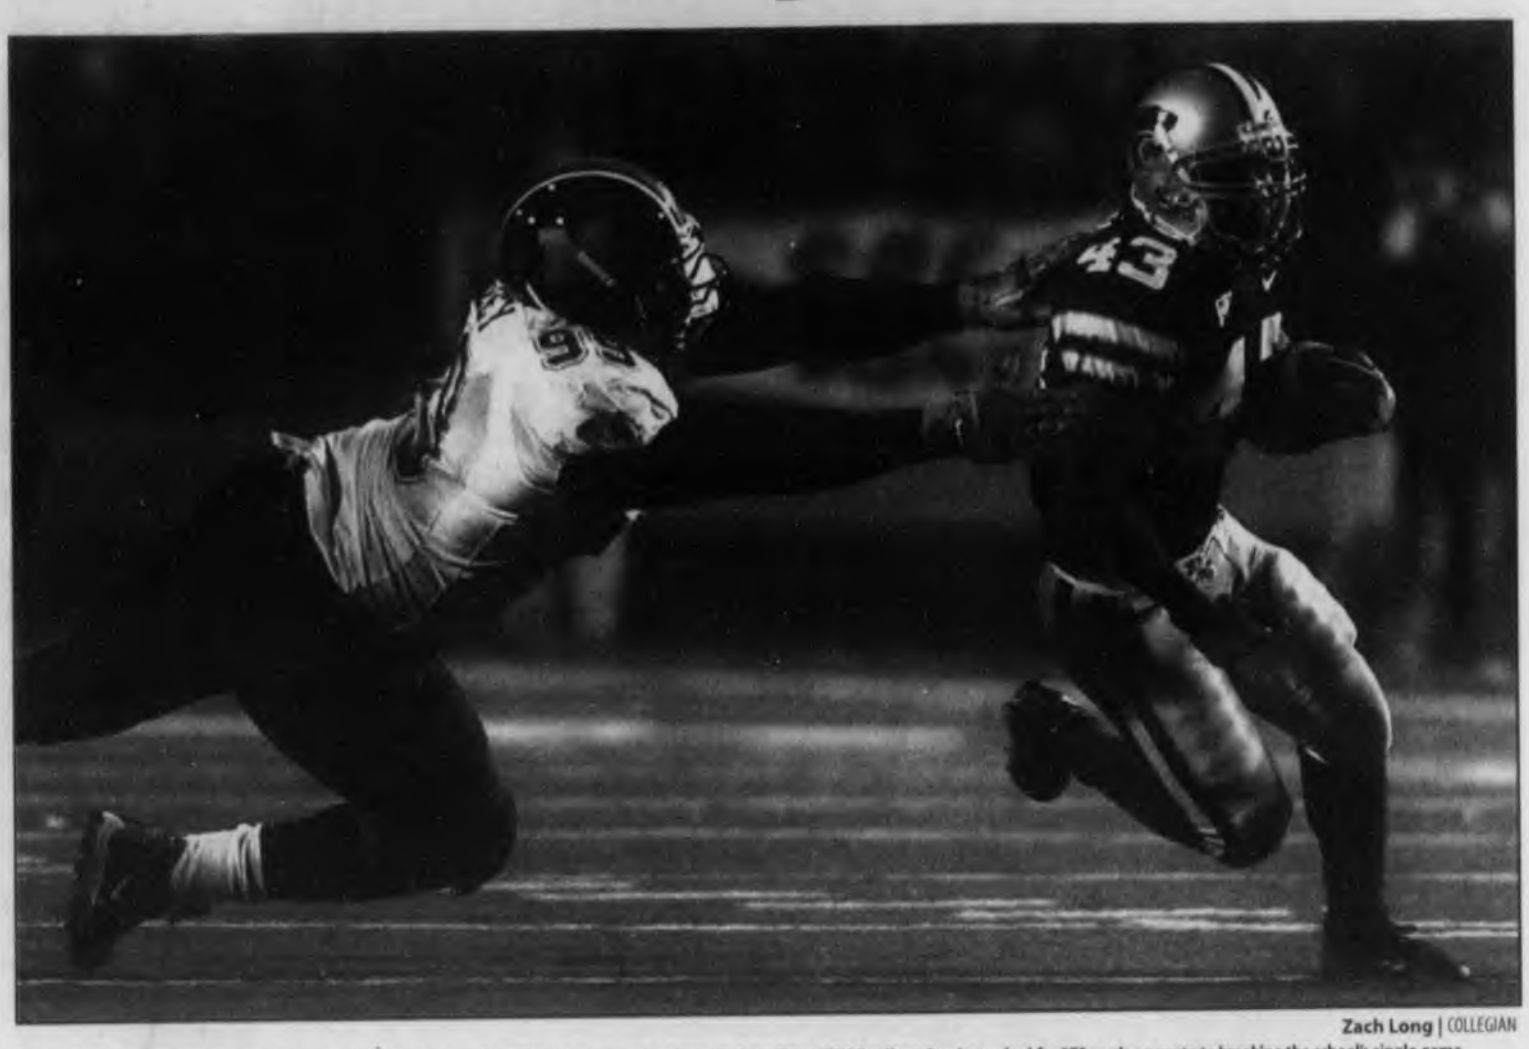
$7.10
thank you!
Go, Cats!
Open 24 Hours a Day
7 Days a Week
1103 N 3rd Street 537-7778

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN



www.kstatecollegian.com

Monday, November 24, 2003

Vol. 108, No.68

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

Champions

Zach Long | COLLEGIAN

K-State's Darren Sproles runs past Missouri's C.J. Mosley during the Wildcats' win over the Tigers on Saturday at KSU Stadium. Sproles rushed for 273 yards en route to breaking the school's single game rushing mark and leading K-State to the Big 12 North Division title. The Wildcats will face No. 1 Oklahoma in the conference championship game Dec. 6 at Arrowhead Stadium in Kansas City, Mo.

Sproles sets 4 school records in leading Cats to Big 12 North title

K-State 24, Missouri 14

By David Skretta
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Twenty-nine Wildcats made their final walk into KSU Stadium on senior night.

But it was one junior who carried K-State to the Big 12 North Championship.

Running back Darren Sproles set four school records in a dominating performance before nearly 50,000 fans on a frigid Saturday night, as the Wildcats pounded out a 24-14 win over Missouri.

The win marks K-State's first Big 12 North title since 2000, and sets up a rematch with Oklahoma on Dec. 6., at Arrowhead Stadium in Kansas City, Mo. The Sooners beat the Wildcats 27-24 en route to winning a national title that season.

While Coach Bill Snyder admitted he would begin preparing for Oklahoma immediately, for Sproles and the rest of the Wildcats, it was time to celebrate.

Three consecutive losses dropped the Cats (10-3, 6-2) from the national radar, but six straight wins propelled K-State back into the conference title hunt.

"The team just stayed the course and kept believing," defensive coordinator Bob Elliot said.

"I don't know if it's redemption or just a bunch of kids that kept fighting."

Nobody fought harder than Sproles, who smashed K-State's single-

See FOOTBALL Page 14

Lindsey Bauman | COLLEGIAN

K-State quarterback Ell Roberson greets fans following the Cats' 24-14 win over Missouri on Saturday at KSU Stadium. With the win, the Cats clenched the Big 12 North Championship.

Lindsey Bauman | COLLEGIAN

K-State's Cari Jensen, Laura Downey-Wallace, Valeria Hejjas, Gabby Guerre, Lisa Martin, and Lauren Goehring celebrate their win over Texas Tech on Saturday at Ahearn Field House. The win marked the team's first ever conference title.

K-State volleyball wins Big 12

By Wes Marfield
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Going into the season, Coach Suzie Fritz knew her team had the ability to do something special.

On Saturday night, she saw them do just that.

With its 3-0 win over Texas Tech, K-State clenched its first ever Big 12 title and ran its school-record winning streak to 15 matches.

"It feels great," Fritz said of the title, "and I think it's a huge milestone in that it's never been done here before."

The Cats (27-3, 17-1) came out slow against Texas Tech, with game one tied at nine before an ace from Valeria Hejjas gave K-State the lead.

They did not trail again en route to a 30-20 win to take control of the match.

Game two saw the Red Raiders claw back from a 29-24 deficit to get within one at 29-28. But the Cats proved to be too much once again, taking the next point to win the second game 30-28.

The Cats never trailed on their way to a 30-21 win in game three, a victory that clinched the match and the Big 12 title.

For senior Lauren Goehring, the Big 12 title culminated something K-State had been working for all season.

See VOLLEYBALL Page 14

Local Iraqis give views on conflict in homeland

By Edie Hall
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A poster listing 64 ways to practice nonviolence and a sticker reading "safe zone" decorate the door of 125 Seaton Hall. After entering the office of the Women in Engineering and Science Program, it's obvious why the poster is there.

Ahlam Al-Rawi, interim director of WESP, grew up in Iraq, the youngest of 11 children. In 1986, she, her husband Hassan and their two young children, Duaa and Ali, came to the United States looking to get the best education possible.

While in the United States, the family has encountered its share of joys and sorrows – just as any other family. However, being from Iraq, Al-Rawi and her family also have an interesting angle at which to look at the war in Iraq, and how the Manhattan community reacted to it, and them.

THE CONFLICT IN IRAQ

After seeing the Gulf War begin and end, Al-Rawi and her family wait through the same type of conflict again after President Bush sent troops to Iraq last spring.

Ahlam said she thinks things were better before the United States sent soldiers into Iraq. Her brother, Nadeem, who lives in Iraq, agreed with her.

"We love the American people, and before we were working together. It was nice – good," he said. "Now, with the Army,

See IRAQI PERSPECTIVE Page 12

Professor resumes classes following death of ex-wife

By Kristi Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Thomas Murray returned to the classroom Friday after taking two days of personal leave following the death of his ex-wife, Carmin Ross-Murray.

Ross-Murray was found dead in her apartment in Lawrence on Nov. 14.

Murray said of his return to classes, "You've got to get on with things."

Murray teaches Structure of English, Linguistics and Development of the English Language. Ross-Murray was director of employee relations at K-State until she left in 1997. In Lawrence, she was a domestic conflict mediator.

No suspects have been named in the case, but police are pursuing more than 100 leads.

Students in Murray's classes have been interviewed by police. Michael Berg, student in Murray's linguistics class and junior in secondary education, said he has been questioned by Douglas County Sheriff's Office.

He said Murray spoke of the case to his students Friday in class.

"We talked about it to make sure we were all on the same page. Mostly, it was the same old stuff," Berg said.

Berg said police asked questions about Murray's teaching style.

"They asked about Murray in class and what he's like. Whether or not he talked about his personal life in class a lot," Berg said.

No updates on the investigation have been released.

INSIDE

Thanksgiving is a time to appreciate diverse friends and family.

Opinion, Page 4

HEADLINES

The Associated Press

Iraqi violence
Suicide car bombers struck two police stations north of the capital Saturday within half an hour, killing at least 12 Iraqis and two attackers. Insurgents hit a civilian cargo plane with a surface-to-air missile, but the aircraft landed safely in Baghdad, a military official said.
See related story, Page 12.

President resigns
Georgian President Eduard Shevardnadze resigned Sunday as the opposition threatened to storm his residence. His fall sparked fireworks among tens of thousands of protesters, and ended a political crisis astonishing for its speed and lack of violence in a blood-washed region.

Shevardnadze

Salina death
A Salina man died after getting stuck in a bin auger while working at a farm in Ottawa County. Dale Drown, 41, was working on his parents' farm Saturday when both of his legs got caught in the auger. Rescue crews arrived at 1 p.m. and tried to free him from the equipment. Two hours later, Drown died.

Online voting
The Michigan Democratic Party's plan to allow Internet voting in its presidential caucus won approval Saturday from national Democrats. Opponents said online balloting is not secure and discriminates against poor and minority voters who are less likely to own a computer.

DON'T FORGET

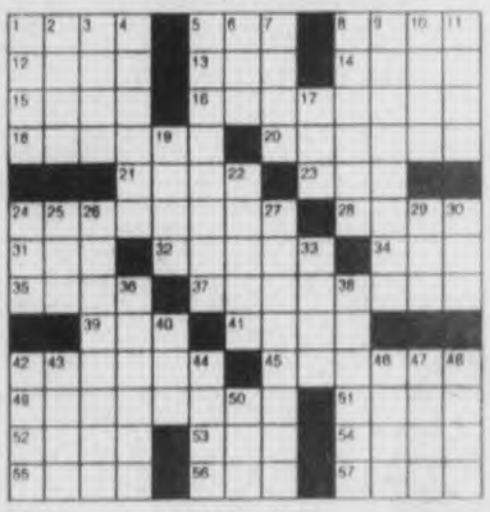
- There will be no Collegian Tuesday. The Collegian will resume publication on Dec. 1.
- Thanksgiving break begins Wednesday. Classes resume Dec. 1.
- Tickets for the Big 12 Championship go on sale at 8 a.m. today. Tickets are available through Ticketmaster.

Weather

Today: Sunny 40 | 26
Tuesday: Partly cloudy 49 | 25

PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS 776-5577

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer



ACROSS
1 Wash. neighbor
5 Pince-— glasses
8 Test tube
12 Medley
13 Anger
14 Angel's instrument (ital.)
15 Soothing ointment
16 Bitterness
18 Actress Mimieux
20 Silent movie's lack
21 They fly by night
23 "Certainly!"
24 Criticize harshly
28 Prima donna
31 Praise in verse
32 Pry
34 Two (Sp.)
35 Slithery squeezers
37 Half of some jokes
39 Be regretful
41 Entreat
42 Prince in a can?
45 Dormant
49 Big name in rubber
51 October stone
52 Shrek is one
53 Larry's pal
54 Roman music-maker?
55 Patrilineal clan
56 Conclusion
57 Faxed

DOWN
1 "— Dick"
2 Royal Norse name
3 Cleo's river
4 Hand-beaten drum
5 Dwarf of Germanic legend
6 Historic period
7 Londoner's letters
8 Prized
9 Burr portrayal
10 Like peas in —
11 Young fellows
17 Tarzan's son
19 Pairs
22 Condescend
24 Emcee Barker
25 Commotion
26 Michigan city
27 Cheered
29 Solemn promise
30 Beast of burden
33 Hand-held secretaries?
36 Napped shoe materials
38 Hosiery
40 Blunder
42 Intensely interested
43 Theater box
44 Fourth dimension
46 Duel tool
47 Deserve
48 Whodunit basis
50 Anti

Solution time: 27 mins.

RHO		ASAP				TWOS
OER		GOLF				WERE
DEATHOFA						IBEX
ELLIOT						SIX
		TRY				ARTHUR
CHILE				INK		ACE
HIDE				POT		PILL
UFO		VAN				DELAY
MILLER				DLE
		ETA				OCLOCK
PALM				SALESMAN
TAIO				OPEN		EGO
AMEN				LEST				NEW

Friday's answer

11-24 CRYPTOQUIP

B ZRJN ND NGBH LDHG LVANF HD SARVSXYQQF SYQQ BN ZVH V XRNR ZDAHR NGVJ SRVNG.

Friday's answer: THE CONSTRICTOR'S EGGS HATCHED YESTERDAY MORNING. OUT CAME A BOUNCING BABY BOA.

Today's Cryptoquip Clue: Q equals L.

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 1! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to CryptoClassics Book 1, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475

The Cryptoquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.

© 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

IN RETROSPECT

WORLD IN REVIEW: 7 THINGS YOU DIDN'T KNOW 7 DAYS AGO

America remembers JFK

Donna McWilliam | THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Tony York, from Irving, Texas, says a prayer at a makeshift memorial for President John F. Kennedy Saturday in Dallas. York said he saw the President shot 40 years-ago, as he and his father watched the motorcade drive along Houston Street.

Staff and wire reports

Thousands of mourners, conspiracy theorists and the just plain curious gathered Saturday along the downtown street where President John F. Kennedy was assassinated 40 years earlier, many of them recalling where they had been when they heard the news.

A makeshift memorial with dozens of bouquets, signs and flags of the United States and other countries was assembled nearby – one of several memorials around the country for the fallen president.

JACKO TURNS HIMSELF IN

King of Pop Michael Jackson surrendered to authorities Thursday to face allegations of child molestation. The pop star maintains his innocence, calling the charges lies.

"Lies run sprints, but the truth runs marathons. The truth will win this marathon in court," the entertainer said in a statement issued by spokesman Stuart Backerman.

Jackson was released on $3 million bail.

BRITONS PROTEST BUSH

Tens of thousands of demonstrators marched through the heart of London on Thursday, toppling a 17-foot tall papier mache statue of President Bush and burning his life-size effigy to show their anger for the Iraq war and Prime Minister Tony Blair's support of it.

Bush

TURKEY MAKES ARRESTS

Turkish investigators arrested suspects Friday in the deadly suicide bombings of the British consulate and a London-based bank that were blamed on al-Qaeda. Foreign governments, meanwhile, warned that terrorists could target Turkey with more attacks.

The daily newspaper Hurriyet said police were interrogating seven people in connection with the attack, which killed 27 people in Turkey's deadliest terrorist bombing. The attacks came days after bombings at two Istanbul synagogues killed 23 people.

THE SNIPER TRIALS

Lee Boyd Malvo laughed repeatedly during a police interrogation as he recounted some of last year's sniper attacks, saying of one victim, "He was hit good. Dead immediately," a detective testified at Malvo's murder trial Friday.

Malvo

Malvo is on trial in Chesapeake for the Oct. 14, 2002, shooting death of Linda Franklin at a Home Depot.

John Allen Muhammad was convicted last week of two capital murder charges related to the Washington-area sniper attacks that killed 13 people and wounded three last year. The jury is deciding whether Muhammad should live or die for killing Dean Harold Meyers on Oct. 9, 2002, in Manassas.

IRAQ UPDATE

As of Friday, 424 U.S. service members have died since the beginning of military operations in Iraq, according to the Department of Defense. Of those, 294 died as a result of hostile action and 130 died of non-hostile causes, the department said. The department did not provide an update Saturday or Sunday.

The British military has reported 52 deaths; Italy, 17; Denmark, Spain, Ukraine and Poland have reported one each.

MASSACHUSETTS OK'S GAY MARRIAGES

Now that Massachusetts' highest court has declared that gay couples have the right to marry under the state constitution, the political debate begins over how the Legislature should respond.

In its 4-3 decision, the Supreme Judicial Court gave the Legislature 180 days to rewrite the state's marriage laws for the benefit of gay couples.

The blotter | Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Thursday, Nov. 20

- At 10:35 a.m., Lamar Peterson, Junction City, Kan., was arrested for probation violation. Bond was set at $1,500.
- At 1:20 p.m., Jamerehlatt Jackson, Riley, Kan., was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $750.
- At 10:40 p.m., Jarman Morgan, 916 Pottawatomie Ave., was arrested for aggravated battery, criminal damage to property, criminal trespassing and obstruction of the legal process. Bond was set at $5,000.

Friday, Nov. 21

- At 1:30 a.m., Eric Brotherson, 1324 Colorado No. 2, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
- At 1:30 a.m., Sonny Saber, 1104 N 6th St, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
- At 2:50 a.m., Matthew Denning, 1405 Hartman, No. 16, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.

The planner
Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@spub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- "Listening to the Prairie: Farming in Nature's Image," an exhibition that teaches the history of the prairie and new farming approaches, is at Hale Library.
- There will be basic library classes at 10:30 a.m. today and 9:15 a.m. Tuesday in Hale 408.
- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Frank Ferraro III at 3 p.m. today in Bluemont 102.
- Student Finance Association will have its final meeting of the semester at 7 tonight in the Union Big 12 Room.
- KSU Aikido will conduct a martial arts class from 7 to 9 tonight in Ahearn 301.
- Water Ski Club will meet at 9 tonight in Union 207.
- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Aaron Park at 1 p.m. Tuesday in Call 205.
- The Division of Biology will be host to a seminar, "Arabidopsis-Aphid Interactions," at 4 p.m. Tuesday in Ackert 221.

Contact us

Kansas State Collegian
Kedzie 103
Manhattan, KS 66502
Display ads.....532-6560
Classified ads.....532-6555
Newsroom.....532-6556
news@spub.k-state.edu
Delivery problems.....532-6555

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor James Hurla at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@spub.ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.

© Kansas State Collegian, 2003

favorites from our bookshelf
Children's Book Week 2003
New Favorites
-Will-
Flat Stanley
Claflin Books and Copies

LOOK WHO'S BACK!
Call Crimpers for an Appt. with Nora
539-7621
Located in Aggieville
CRIMPERS

Little Caesars
HOT-N-READY pizza
$5.00 LARGE WITH PEPPERONI Carry Out Only
ALL DAY, EVERYDAY!
1150 Westloop • 539-3333

PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER
"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting & adoption."
539-3338
Free pregnancy tests
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment
Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

FIGHT NIGHT
Thursday, Dec. 4th 2003
Male and Female Boxing
Beginner and Amateur Levels Only
18 and over show
SILVERADO SALOON
Tickets
$7 Advance
$10 Day of Show
For more info or to register go to www.knockoutevents.com
Weigh-Ins at 8 pm
Doors Open at 9 pm
Fights Start at 10 pm
$2.50
Miller Lite Pounders

ZOTCIS ATTIRE
Trendy Men's & Women's Apparel
After Thanksgiving Sale!
Friday Nov. 28th Through Monday Dec. 1st!
20% Off the entire store!
1st Annual Apparel Drive
Now through Dec. 24th!
1 item = $1 off
All items collected will be donated Riley County Budget Shop and Goodwill.
Limit applies see store for details.
Store Hours:
Mon. Sat. 11am to 8pm
Sun 1pm to 6pm
ZOTCIS ATTIRE
1203 Moro Aggieville

Students, faculty remember KSU student who was killed in car accident last week

By Sarah Rice
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Zach Long | COLLEGIAN

Family and friends remembered K-State student Kevin Armstrong during a service Friday at All Faiths Chapel. Armstrong was killed in a vehicle accident north of Manhattan on Nov. 14 while he and friends were traveling to the K-State vs Nebraska football game in Lincoln. Armstrong was remembered by those who knew him for his commitment to academics and the devout Christian lifestyle he followed.

The K-State community will remember Kevin Armstrong as an excellent, curious economics student who strived to be a leader and man of God.

Armstrong was killed in a three-vehicle accident Nov. 14 on his way to the K-State football game in Lincoln, Neb. The accident, which occurred on U.S. Highway 77 near Randolph, Kan., also killed a Waterville, Kan., man and injured four others.

Students injured in the accident were Mollie Delph, sophomore in pre-health; Evan Riordan, junior in pre-pharmacy; and Eric Lovig, junior in biology. Delph remains hospitalized at the University of Kansas Medical Center. Lovig and Riordan were released from Mercy Health Center last week.

Faculty members, students and family gathered to remember Armstrong, junior in economics, at a memorial service Friday afternoon.

"It's very easy to say good things about someone like Kevin," Patrick Gormely, Armstrong's economics adviser, said. "He really loved the university. He loved his friends. We're going to miss him at K-State."

Tracy Turner, Armstrong's microeconomics teacher, said he was always a part of class discussion and even stayed after class to discuss topics.

"To Kevin's family and friends, I want to tell you I thought very highly of Kevin," she said. "When I look out at third row center, I will always see him there."

Armstrong was also working toward a leadership studies minor. Mary Kay Siefers, assistant professor in educational administration, said she noticed something different about Armstrong the day she met him.

"He made an immediate impact on me. I noticed his kind and compassionate spirit," Siefers said.

Many of Armstrong's friends also spoke at the service. Zack Payne, freshman in pre-journalism, said that as Armstrong's roommate he was strengthened in his faith by attending K-State Navigators, a campus Christian organization.

"We shared the same faith, but mine wasn't where it needed to be," Payne said. "Without him, I wouldn't have gone to Navigators, and for that I owe him so much. I don't know this university without him."

Riordan, said as the driver of the vehicle, he is now beginning to feel the emotional weight of the accident.

"I am so sorry to Kevin's parents. He was such a good friend," Riordan said. "I feel so bad that everything happened. But, we'll get through it."

Joel Johnson, Navigators leader, said that family and friends can find comfort in Armstrong's faith.

At a conference several weeks ago, Johnson said Armstrong wrote about the source of hope in his life.

"Really cherish everything that God has sacrificed for us," Armstrong wrote. "To trust God fully and in everything that we do, because He will let us know his true will. We must fully commit ourselves to Christ, because He is our ultimate fulfillment."

"Kevin realized there are lots of things that fulfill you," Johnson said. "He realized there's one true fulfillment."

The service concluded with a video documentary of Armstrong's life and messages from the friends he left behind.

"God's forgiveness and God's grace are greater than our broken hearts, even greater than death," Don Fallon, coordinator of religious studies, said.

Fallon urged students to seek help when sadness envelopes them.

"When those feelings overwhelm you, it's time to seek out special help," he said. "Seek out a friend who listens and cares so that healing comes.

"We might go from here to commit ourselves to a way of being in the world. To be loving, caring and have a sense of humor and give of ourselves in a new way."

Health center adjusting to early arrival of flu season

By Edie Hall
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The flu has arrived at K-State about three weeks earlier than normal.

Dr. Jay Reppert, medical director at Lafene Health Center, said both Lafene and Mercy Health Center had several people test positive for a strain of the flu. He said this indicates the beginning flu season, which usually takes three to four weeks to sweep through campus.

Reppert said Lafene has an anti-viral pill that, if used within the first 48 hours, helps lessen the severity and duration of the flu.

"Most people think there's nothing you can do when you get sick with the flu," Reppert said. "But this particular medicine is effective."

He said that after the first 48 hours of symptoms, which include fever, body aches, sore throat and a cough, the anti-viral pill is less likely to help.

To prevent the spread of the flu, Lafene has been giving flu shots for the last month and still has shots available.

Reppert said this year, Lafene has given twice as many as past years and he suggests students who haven't gotten a flu shot come in today or Tuesday in order to reap the benefits of the shot.

"It takes up to two weeks to get full immunity from the shot," Reppert said. "Since it takes three to four weeks for the virus to sweep across campus, many can still be protected."

Reppert said every year the strain of flu that infects K-State is a little different, and although the medical field strives to select the correct strain to treat, they aren't as on target this year as they have been.

"The flu shot will be somewhat less protective this year," he said.

However, Reppert said the vaccine is supposed to protect against both Influenza A and B.

Reppert said people who already have had the flu aren't necessarily immune.

"These people have had Influenza A," he said. "Influenza B might come later, and they wouldn't be protected unless they got a vaccination."

He said a person who already has the flu just needs to give it time to get out of their system.

"Take fluids and get some rest," he said. "It takes up to four days for the symptoms to pass, and four to five more to get totally better."

Reppert said if a student has flu-like symptoms for more than four days, he or she should see a doctor.

"If you are really sick for more than four days, you have something more than the flu," he said.

Did you know?

Treatments for the flu

Flu shots
- These cover both strains of the flu and cost students $10,
- To get a flu shot, it's best to call Lafene Health center and set up a time, although they do accept walk-ins,

Anti-viral pill for Influenza A
- This pill treats the virus if taken within 48 hours of when symptoms start and costs $16.
- The anti-viral pill for Influenza B costs $60.

Intra-nasal vaccination
- These vaccines will be available during the second week of December. They prevent the flu in the same way that a flu shot would, but can't be used by everyone. For more information on this type of vaccination, contact Lafene at 532-6544.

Source: Carol Kennedy, director of health promotion, Lafene

Your Wallet Stays Full And so do you!
Check Out Our New Food Menu
Eat Under $5
Fat's Bar & Grill
located in aggieville
12th and laramie

MONDAY SPECIALS
$1.75 Domestic Bottles
$4.75 Fish Bowls

TUESDAY SPECIALS
$1.00 Wells
$2.75 Lab Rats
$1.25 Draws

SIGMA KAPPA SORORITY
ΣK

WOULD LIKE TO CONGRATULATE OUR NEWLY ELECTED OFFICERS!

President-Pam Mosher
EVP-Kristin Ballobin
VP of Membership-Carly Waugh
VP of New Member Education-Alicia Sappenfield
VP of Scholarship-Christin Parsons
VP of Alumni Relations-Amy Casemore
VP of Finance-Katrina Kirchner
Recording Secretary-Tina Deines
SR. Panhellenic Rep-Megan Rose
Social-Alysha Lewis
Public Relations Chair-Jana Owens
Foundation-Nicole Kramer
Historian-Christine Dana
House Manager-Ashley Brewer
Triangle Correspondent-Lauren Flentie
Philanthropy-Melissa Bowers
Sisterhood-Megan Woods
Jr. Panhellenic Rep-Beth Spangle
Homecoming-Kate Kramer
Activities- Sammie Milligan
Ritual-Lindsay Edmonds
Community Service-Elaina Klimchuck
CMC-Kelly Hunter
Technology-Melody Jacobsen
Asst. VP of Finance-Ashley Jacobs
Asst. VP of Membership-Sydney Stone
Asst. VP of New Member Education-Sam Gerecke
GAMMA-Jessica Schuler & Maury Angelo

WE KNOW YOU WILL ALL DO A GREAT JOB!

LET'S TALK DIRTY (CLOTHES)
COIN LAUNDRY 7 a.m.-Midnight
DRY CLEANERS 7 a.m.-7 p.m.
Wash Palace and Express Cleaners
IT'S DIRTY BUSINESS BUT NOBODY DOES IT BETTER THAN Wash Palace and Express Cleaners 537-9833
WE'RE THE BEST SPOT FOR ALL YOUR SPOTS, WRINKLES AND ALTERATIONS.
WE'RE COMMITTED TO MAKING YOU LOOK GOOD.
3216 KIMBALL AVE. 537-9833

SKIRTS AND SWEATERS DRY CLEANED $3.10 EACH (some restrictions apply)
2-PIECE SUITS DRY CLEANED $6.75 (no limit) EACH (some restrictions apply)
$2 OFF ANY ORDER OF $8 OR MORE AT REGULAR PRICE
Cannot be used with any other offer. Coupon must be presented with incoming order. One coupon per customer please. Expires 3/1/04

AN UNRIVALED THANKSGIVING EXTRAVAGANZA
Gold Fork
CASUAL FOOD & SPIRIT
ROASTED TURKEY WITH HERB BUTTER; BOURBON GLAZED HAM; CARVED ROAST BEEF; ROASTED GARLIC RED SKINNED MASHED POTATOES; ASIAGO AND SAGE SCALLOPED POTATOES; CRANBERRY, SAUSAGE AND APPLE STUFFING; CORN PUDDING; STICKY TOFFEE PUDDING; BUTTERNUT SQUASH SOUP WITH FRIZZLED LEEKS; PECAN PIES, PUMPKIN PIES

ADULTS.....$16.95, SENIORS.....$12.95, CHILDREN UNDER 10.....$6.95
BY RESERVATION ONLY, CALL 776-5909 TODAY.
REGULAR GOLD FORK MENU NOT AVAILABLE ON THANKSGIVING

TO THE POINT

Iraqi self rule requires quick removal of occupying force

The United States needs to expedite Operation Iraqi Freedom and pull out its troops as soon as possible.

The purpose of instituting a stable government in the country that will respect human rights and international agreements is admirable and should be recognized.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Paul Restivo
Katie Lane
James Hurla
Abbie Whited
Edie Hall
Andrew Lawson
Dave Skretta
Rachel Krier
Corbin H. Crable
Chris Harrop

But insurgents guerrilla attacks are becoming too common.

We are watching from thousands of miles away as the number of dead U.S. soldiers – many near our age – in the mission nears 500.

Meanwhile, the process of transferring governmental control to Iraqis is moving slowly.

Completely dropping the mission at this point would be admitting defeat, something that Americans are traditionally too proud to do.

Instead, the United States should realize its goal in the quickest manner possible and leave Iraq to control itself.

The thought of seeing tanks rumbling down our streets every day is not appealing, nor is it pleasant for Iraqi citizens.

Although U.S.-led coalition forces might not be inciting violence, their mere presence cannot sit well with Iraqis.

The United States did not have foreign forces controlling the country and the formation of its government following the war for independence, and Iraq might eventually be better off if the United States simply stabilizes the country as much as possible and then lets it grow and improve on its own.

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@spub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Paul Restivo | EDITOR IN CHIEF Katie Lane | MANAGING EDITOR

James Hurla NEWS EDITOR
Kelly Glasscock PHOTO EDITOR
Corbin H. Crable COPY CHIEF
Dave Skretta SPORTS EDITOR
Rachel Krier THE EDGE EDITOR
Chris Harrop ONLINE EDITOR
Abbie Whited CITY/GOV EDITOR
Andrew Lawson OPINION EDITOR
Jared Jaynes AD MANAGER
Edie Hall CAMPUS EDITOR
Dana Strongin WRITING COACH
Jenny Calvert ASST. AD MANAGER

Lock-and-load homes

Protecting one's self, family and possessions necessitates gun ownership

JESSE LOEWEN

Every home needs a gun.

Whether there is a child in the home, or the family lives off the beaten path away from a large, crime ridden city or next door to a police station, every home needs a gun.

Personal ownership of firearms has one main purpose – to provide the people, not collectively but individually, with a means of defending themselves from criminals and oppression.

All other uses of firearms are secondary to these two uses.

Of the two, the most important for a homeowner is self defense and defense of one's home and loved ones.

As future parents, which I and many members of this campus we, we have a duty to defend our children from harm.

This means using child seats while driving, having smoke alarms, having a first aid kit ready, knowing the basics of CPR and having a means of defending your children and yourself from an intruder who would do you harm in order to steal your possessions.

Some will argue a gun in the home is dangerous. In truth, a gun is less likely to harm your child than is a swimming pool.

According to the National Safety Council in 2000, 800 children under 15 died by accidental drowning and only 80 died by the accidental discharge of a firearm.

Additionally, a firearm is the best way to defend oneself from an intruder.

Illustrations by Angela Arneson | COLLEGIAN

Police are, at best, a few minutes away, but a handgun can be readied in the time it takes to click a safety off.

When it comes to home invasions – robberies where the homeowner or family are in the house – a minute can be a lifetime.

The faster a person can respond to intruders in a manner that either neutralizes them or convinces them to leave, the more likely the homeowner and his or her family are to survive the encounter.

In "Armed Resistance to Crime: The Prevalence and Nature of Self-Defense with a Gun," Florida State criminologist Gary Kleck said Americans use firearms in self defense two to 2.5 million times a year.

Often the defender does not have to fire a shot, as the presence of the firearm is normally enough to frighten away the aggressor. Furthermore, burglars tend to avoid homes if there is a risk of being shot.

According to Kleck's "Targeting Guns: Firearms and Their Control," in England, which has virtually banned private ownership of firearms, the rate of home invasions is nearly 45 percent, more than three times as high as the 13 percent we in the United States experience.

However, the best proof of the effect a gun in a home has on crime can be found in areas where guns are particularly prevalent.

In 1980, Kennesaw, Ga., passed a law requiring, with few exceptions, that every home have a gun.

The effect was a 74 percent decrease in crime against people, such as burglaries and violent crime, the first year and a 45 percent decrease the second year.

Between 1980 and 1996 there have been exactly three murders in Kennesaw, a town that has grown from 5,000 to 13,000 people in that time period and is about half as populated as Manhattan was last summer when most soldiers were deployed and students were home.

In Kennesaw, having a gun in every home reduced crime.

In England, the rate of home invasions is nearly three times that of the United States.

Americans use guns over two million times a year in self defense, often without having to fire a shot.

The only conclusion a person can reach is that guns are an effective means of self-defense and a deterrent against crime.

Every home needs a gun, if for no other reason than to protect ourselves and our children from those who would do us harm in order to take what we have.

Jesse is a senior in mechanical engineering. You can e-mail him at jesseloewenks@yahoo.com.

Thanksgiving break promises food, family and friends

AMY LINK

Tonight I will put an old saying to the test. I will try to go home again – for Thanksgiving.

Am I excited? Well, excitement implies a feeling of wonder for what the future will bring. As a three-year veteran of going home for break, I have a handle on what will happen. No real surprises here. This is how it will go.

As I get in the car, thoughts of seeing family and old friends cause me to feel good and speed all the way home. The car ride serves as a chance to revisit memory lane.

Then I arrive home. It is funny – no matter how much redecorating goes on while I am gone, there is a feeling of familiarity and warmth that comes over me when I enter the house. I wonder if I will have my own home someday that will make me feel the same way.

Prior to Thanksgiving Day, it is a chance to reunite with friends. I'm sure every person has some traditional hangout place with their friends during the holidays, whether it is a restaurant, bar or house where you always go.

For me it is a bar. The place changes some, but the atmosphere doesn't. The first few moments are spent reconnecting with high school friends. Later come conversations with people you knew in high school. Some are pleasant and some last way too long.

These conversations serve as a window to your past and a realization of where you are now.

All through the night it feels like the song "Glory Days" should be playing in the background. As I talk about old times that seem like just yesterday, I can't help but feel older.

The night, of course, ends quickly, and it's time for Thanksgiving with the family.

The day is filled with women conversing in the kitchen while the food is prepared. The guys hang out in the living room. All throughout the house, the younger kids run about looking for something to do.

Soon we're ready to eat. There's always enough food to feed a small country, which isn't that far off if you saw the size of my Catholic family.

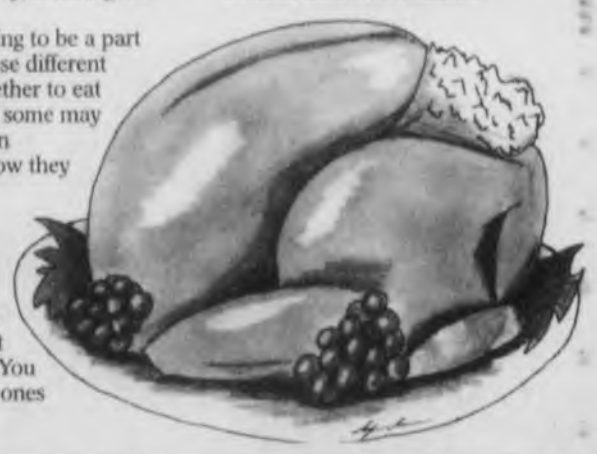
After the meal, the family retires to mingle. It is proper to try and visit with everyone. I think every family has people like these – we'll call them the seven family figures.

"Bossy" tries to control the family, and "Chatty" talks all day while others try to pretend to care.

"Grumpy" seems to always have some problem every time you get together, especially with "Scary," the relative of whom nobody is proud.

Young "Sleepy" stayed out late and spends the day sleeping, while he's gossiped about by "Smarty," who knows everything and tells everyone.

Finally, there's "Sneaky," who eats and ducks out early, avoiding the quality time.



It is a great thing to be a part of while all of these different people come together to eat and talk. Though some may only have DNA in common, somehow they stay connected.

There is a certain comfort only family provides. There is no real need to impress them, but still you want to. You know they're the ones you want there when you celebrate big events in your life, because they always have been there before.

It is this feeling that can make all those boring conversations and annoying people who come with the holidays worthwhile. So enjoy your trip home this year, even if it is the same old thing.

Well, it's time to wrap this thing up because I'm going home – and I'm excited.

Amy is a senior in print journalism. You can e-mail her at aml7555@k-state.edu.

CAMPUS FOURUM | 395-4444

Nothing revives a stroke victim like an eye-popping orgasm.

Beauty is only a light switch away.

Man, I hope we don't have to play Oklahoma in the Big 12 Championship, because they belong in the NFL.

Dude, I just got punched by a squirrel.

The one thing I miss about home the most is soft toilet paper.

Sex is like studying — after about 20 minutes, you either want to go to bed or start playing video games.

Hey, K-State, students do homework past midnight, so turn K-State Online back on.

Gollum and Joseph Lieberman — the resemblance is uncanny.

I just wanted to clear up a misconception — Beta Sig is not a dry house.

If you drove a stranger to Thurston Thursday night, go the Big 12 Room 3 p.m. Monday for free ice cream.

Now that Rupert got kicked off, I have nothing to live for.

Good job, SGA. You definitely did the right thing on the proclamation issue.

I will not drink the stuff inside glowsticks.

It would be really nice if the Collegian would tell students what Telefund is.

If time flies while you're procrastinating, what happens when you throw a clock?

I love kangaroos and penguins.

If the editorial board has such strong feelings about it, why don't they come to the Senate meeting and voice them?

Please quit giving stupid people sidewalk chalk.

It's all fun and games until someone sprays a fire extinguisher.

See you in Kansas City, baby.

I think all tests should be banned for the rest of the semester, because I got really drunk last night and forgot everything I had learned.

You know that you've been in school too long when you see your freshman-year chemistry instructor, and her hair has changed colors.

Ell Roberson? More like, Ell Roberson was a Heisman candidate and now a nobody.

The warning label for Viagra says "may have sexual side effects."

My blood pressure raises about 20 points every time I try to find an alternate route to Wal-mart.

Not enough Fourum? Visit www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editorial's approach to issue misleading, inappropriate

Editor,

It was disappointing to read your editorial taking issue with the manner by which Student Senate chose to deal with the marriage week proclamation issued by Mayor Mark Taussig.

I was in attendance at that Senate meeting and listened carefully to the debate, which centered on whether a resolution reaffirming this university's "Principles of Community" ought to include a specific reference to the event, when precipitated further reflection upon and reconsideration of our campuswide commitment to diversity, as well as our relationship to the larger community to which we belong.

While beliefs on either side of the issue were deep, and the issue was debated with some intensity, I can assure your readers that, in the final analysis, all senators shared a genuine desire to serve all of their constituents to the best of their ability.

More importantly, this remarkable assembly of committed students sincerely respected each others' opinions and ultimately came to respect and honor their final collective decision.

Rather than being inordinately protracted, as the Collegian has suggested, the entire legislative process leading to the final vote was remarkable.

Senate's actions were not attempts to appease or side-step. Rather, their scrupulous adherence to legislative processes and a passionate mutual desire to do the right thing elevated senators to exemplary statesmanship.

Ultimately, they came to understand how important it was to transcend petty politics and personal agendas.

I wish the same could be said for the editorial staff of the Collegian, which does both itself and its readership a disservice by using misleading and inappropriate sarcasm as the primary tool by which to mold public opinion on this important issue.

The editorial staff's belief that their collective wisdom is better than that of any other's is lamentable for the self-righteous nature in which it was expressed.

Might I respectfully suggest that you owe your readership, as well as the constituency and members of Student Senate, an apology?

Mick Charney
ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR, ARCHITECTURE

Drive-by raking appreciated

Editor,

I just had a return visit from the angels who were out last year and raked my yard.

They left a note at my door saying, "Surprise! You have been the victim of a drive-by raking. Students from Kansas State University have raked your yard. We hope to send you a friendly fall greeting and to wish you a happy holiday season. Sponsored by the Acacia Fraternity."

They may call themselves the Acacia fraternity, but I recognize angels when I see them. They flew around my yard at record speed and piled up 22 sacks of leaves in no time flat.

It is the nicest Christmas greeting I have ever received.

Neva White
MANHATTAN

Textbook-buying alternatives are available

Editor,

With just more than a month left in the fall semester, students will sit back and relax, putting off most thought of having to start over again come January.

However, those go-getters who are willing to take a little time out of their day to plan ahead for the spring semester will find themselves well rewarded. With just a touch of foresight and a hint of inquisition, you can save quite a bundle on your class textbooks for next semester.

I think it's safe to say everyone has registered for spring classes, so the quest for savings begins here and now. The first step would be to see if an instructor has been assigned to each of your respective classes.

If so, you should have no trouble obtaining either their e-mail address or office phone number from the directory search engine at the university's main Web site.

If your class has not been assigned a professor yet, then feel free to pay a trip to that course's academic department. There you should also be able to find out what textbook will be used in the spring. Ask for specifics about the required text – information like the book title, publication year and edition number.

One piece of textbook information that can be very reliable is the International Standard Book Number, which can be found over the bar code on the back of any printed text. This number can be very useful when trying to distinguish between different editions of a book with the same title.

Now that you have all the necessary information, it's time to hit the Web. Please don't mistake the following for a business plug, but www.half.com can be one of the most cost-effective means of shopping for college textbooks.

Here you will be faced with many individual sellers, most of whom are other college students from around the nation trying to find their old textbooks a new home. However, this form of transaction has potential drawbacks, because you are putting your trust in the seller to ship the textbook to you ASAP.

Bob Moser
SOPHOMORE IN JOURNALISM
CUYAHOGA COMMUNITY COLLEGE

Societal differences play role in perception of harassment

Editor,

I want to thank the Collegian for its interest in Islam and in Iraqis living in Manhattan . I would also like to correct misconceptions readers might derive from Wednesday's article.

What constitutes sexual harassment in one culture may be quite innocent within another.

I believe, as the article reported, women's wearing clothing can constitute sexual harassment. However, what is revealing in an erotic way in one society may be quite de-eroticized in another.

Topless bathing in Europe, for example, does not arouse the same feelings in onlookers as it would at the Manhattan swimming pools. Similarly, some attire regarded as humdrum here would be considered provocative in Baghdad.

I also feel uncomfortable with people having to declare their race on official forms. But I also understand the reason for this is because keeping statistics is a necessary measure for monitoring whether progress is being made or maintained in addressing America's historic problem with various forms of racial discrimination.

Finally, I have frankly been surprised by some colleagues' reaction that the article portrays me as someone who came to America only to get an education for herself and her children, but otherwise hates the place.

Not only is this emphatically not my attitude toward America and Americans, but, rereading the article, I can find no basis for a reader deriving such a distortion from it.

Ahlam Al-Rawi
INTERIM DIRECTOR, WOMEN IN ENGINEERING AND SCIENCE PROGRAM

BODY FIRST
2308 ANDERSON
587-8300
$5.00 OFF*
$5.00 OFF
*any massage or spa service valued at $30 or more
Expires 11/30/03

GIVE PLASMA GET CASH
Donate Plasma And Earn $45 this week
Save Lives & Earn Cash.
ZLB Plasma Services
1130 Gardenway
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785)776-9177 • www.zlb.com

PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS
1800 Claflin Road
776-5577
We Deliver During Lunch!
VISA MasterCard

WARM FLANNEL PJs only $34.00
Patricia's UNDERCOVER Lingerie
1224 MORO AGGIEVILLE
MON.-FRI 10-6 THURS. 10-7 SAT 10-5

O'Malley's ALLEY
Monday
Boulevard Wheat
$2 Blue Moon
Killian's
Tuesday
$1.75 Domestic Pint
$3.50 Belfast Bomber

Monday
$1 off all drinks
$1 Taco burgers
Tuesday Ladies Night
$1.50 all glasses of wine & champagne
$1.75 domestic bottles
$1.50 Enchiladas
Porter's

Porter's Westport in Kansas City
Wednesday
$2 Pitchers
Live DJ
Thursday
Come see us after Lighting on the Plaza

Monday
Monday Night Football
10¢ wings
$2 Domestic Big Beer
Tuesday
Tight Ass Tuesday
$1 Pitchers
$1.50 wells
DJ-J@9
JOE'S TAP ROOM
Home of The Killer Chicken

Protecting the house

Defense stifles Mizzou in victory

By David Skretta
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Josh Buhl takes a lot of pride in the K-State defense, a unit historically ranked among the nation's best.

In his last game at KSU Stadium, the senior flashed the symbol of the Wildcat defense to a packed house as he sprinted onto Wagner Field.

"I'm a senior, and that means a lot to me," Buhl said of the defense's mystique. "I just wanted to let it be known – give the fans what they wanted to see one last time."

He and the rest of the Wildcat defense didn't disappoint, shutting down the vaunted Missouri offense and leading the Wildcats to a decisive 24-14 win and the Big 12 North title.

Charged with shutting down the Tigers' Brad Smith, Buhl was repeatedly seen knocking the sophomore quarterback to the turf.

That, quite often, was followed by trash-talking.

"We just had to contain him," Buhl said. "Keep him rattled, keep him pressured and keep him confused. We did a good job of that."

When a defense plays as well as K-State's did, perhaps a certain amount of trash-talking is acceptable.

The Wildcats held a Missouri offense, which six times has scored more than 35 points, to just one touchdown drive.

The Tigers' first score was set up by an Ell Roberson fumble at K-State's 2 yard line.

"They knew they had a standard of performance they had to live up to," defensive coordinator Bob Elliot said, "and they know what that is."

Missouri managed just 264 yards of offense and had the ball nearly 18 minutes less than K-State. The Tigers were forced into several three-and-outs and did not mount a drive until late in the game.

"We just dug deep down inside tonight and gave it our best effort," safety Rashad Washington said. "There's a lot of seniors on that unit, and it's good to come out with a victory tonight."

Stuffing the Tiger ground game started with containing Smith. K-State sacked the running quarterback five times and forced Smith to throw several passes away.

"They were always there wherever we went," Smith said. "They played hard and the playmakers got penetration."

Smith completed just 14-of-28 passes for 155 yards and threw an interception in K-State's end zone that negated the Tigers' best scoring opportunity.

"I was just trying to make a play and I forced it," Smith said of the pick by cornerback Louis Lavender, who took the place of the injured Randy Jordan in the starting lineup.

Lavender's play was indicative of the

See DEFENSE Page 9

Above: K-State's Jermaine Berry tackles Missouri quarterback Brad Smith on Saturday at KSU Stadium. The Cats defeated the Tigers 24-14.
Lindsey Bauman COLLEGIAN

Left: K-State quarterback Ell Roberson breaks into the open field as Mike Johnson (60) blocks Missouri's James Kinney during the Wildcats' win over the Tigers on Saturday at KSU Stadium.
Zach Long | COLLEGIAN

Running game dazzles Tigers

By Joel Reichenberger
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State faced third-and-one late in the third quarter Saturday.

Leading 21-7, the Wildcats had dominated Missouri but only led by two touchdowns.

Ell Roberson came to the line, peered over into the Missouri defense, snapped the ball and plunged forward.

The offensive line blew the Mizzou defenders out of the way and Roberson rolled past them.

On a play designed as a dive to gain a foot or a yard, the offensive line cleared a hole five yards deep.

Roberson got five yards on the quarterback sneak and put K-State in position to put the game out of reach with a Joe Rheem field goal.

That one play shows the dominating performance the offensive line put on Saturday, but one number – 273 – shows just how large the accomplishment was.

Darren Sproles broke K-State's single game rushing record Saturday with

See OFFENSE Page 9

K-State's Brie Madden battles for a rebound with Western Illinois' Zane Teilane during the Wildcats' 76-48 win on Friday at Bramlage Coliseum.
Lindsey Bauman COLLEGIAN

Cats spread scoring in home opener

By David Skretta
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

At times it was sloppy. At others, it was elegant.

Using a lock-down press that thoroughly rattled Western Illinois, the K-State women's basketball team rolled to a 76-48 win in its home-opener Friday night at Bramlage Coliseum.

Nicole Ohlde, atoning for her struggles in a loss to Purdue one week ago, hit on 7-of-12 from the field for 17 points and pulled down eight rebounds – five of them on the offensive glass.

But Ohlde did not lead K-State in scoring.

That honor went to forward Kendra Wecker, who scored 19 points and hit both of her three-pointers in just 25 minutes of court time.

"They're a good one-two punch," Coach Deb Patterson said of her All-American candidates. "They probably played 12 minutes less than last year and had comparable numbers tonight, so that fact shows they asserted themselves."

K-State beat the Westerwinds 84-40 last January in a game where six players combined to score 80 points.

On Saturday, 14 players combined for 76 points – a testament, Patterson said, to the newfound depth on the K-State roster.

The win was also a testament to the tenacity of K-State, which was handed a 79-69 loss to Purdue in its season-opener. In a game in which K-State could never establish a post presence, the Cats struggled against the Boilermakers.

Getting the ball to Ohlde

See WOMEN Page 14

Culbertson, Chesang ready for Nationals; runners hope to duplicate season's successes

By Josh Witt
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Five hundred and ten runners.

Two Wildcats.

Monday, Trisha Culbertson and Mathew Chesang will represent K-State at the NCAA Cross Country National Championships in Waterloo, Iowa.

With top-10 finishes at last weekend's Midwest Region Championships, Culbertson and Chesang sealed their spots against the nation's elite runners.

The trip to Iowa will mark the first time Culbertson, a junior, has qualified for the national championships.

"Right now, I'm real excited," Culbertson said. "It's an awesome opportunity to compete with the best."

Culbertson is riding a wave of momentum heading into Monday's race, improving her placing in the last three meets.

From the 20th spot at the Chile Pepper Invitational, to 16th at the Big 12 conference championships, to a ninth-place finish at last week's regional meet, Culbertson is getting hot at just the right time.

Coach Randy Cole believes Culbertson's steady rise is all about faith in herself.

"Each time out she's gotten more and more confident," Cole said.

Fellow national qualifier Chesang has every reason to be confident.

After coming up just short of a national berth last season, the junior made it his mission to qualify for the championships.

"I put in the work over the summer to build a good foundation for the season," Chesang said.

That foundation has translated into a successful year as Chesang finished no worse than 10th throughout the season, won two meet titles and placed in the top five at both the conference and region championships.

Chesang – also competing at nationals for the first time – was pleased with his consistency.

"I didn't have a bad race, even one, so I'm happy about that," Chesang said.

Chesang said he will be aiming to finish in the upper-tier of the 255-person field, as the

See CROSS COUNTRY Page 9

1-MINUTE DRILL

Staff Reports

Football | Big 12 tickets on sale today

K-State will begin accepting applications for the Big 12 Championship football game at 8 a.m. Monday, Athletics Director Tim Weiser announced.

Applications will be accepted through 5 p.m. Tuesday from only season football ticket holders who donate to the Ahearn Scholarship Fund at the $1,000 level and above. Applications for remaining tickets will be accepted beginning Wednesday, and a maximum of four tickets may be requested per application.

K-State has an allotment of 8,500 tickets for the game, and all tickets through K-State are priced at $70 dollars. K-State fans not eligible through institutional allotment may still purchase tickets at all Ticketmaster outlets or by phone at (800) 676-4588, or via www.ticketmaster.com. Prices of these tickets vary.

Football | Cats making move in national polls

After a 24-14 win over Missouri on Saturday, K-State climbed even higher in national polls released Sunday.

The Cats moved up five spots in the Associated Press Top 25 to No. 14 and three spots in the ESPN/USA Today Coaches' Poll to No. 15.

The Associated Press

Golf | Presidents Cup shared

After 34 matches between a team of International players and a team from the United States, and three playoff holes in the final deciding match, darkness set in forcing the U.S. and International teams to declare the Presidents Cup a tie for the first time in the event's history Sunday afternoon in George, South Africa.

MLS | San Jose wins title

Landon Donovan scored twice for San Jose, who led all the way in a 4-2 victory over the Chicago Fire in Major League Soccer's championship game Sunday in Carson, Calif.

Tennis | US loses in Fed Cup

The United States lost the Fed Cup finals 4-1 Sunday despite Martina Navratilova's 39th consecutive win. The US was without its top players, Venus and Serena Williams and Lindsay Davenport. The US had won 17 of 26 Fed Cup titles and beaten France in the last 10 matches between the countries.

SPORTS ONLINE

www.kstatecollegian.com

Basketball | Freshmen women stepping up

Claire Coggins said playing high school defense was a joke, but the only one left laughing was Western Illinois after Coggins and fellow freshman Twiggy McIntyre helped K-State shut down the Westerwinds 76-48 Friday night. Read about it only at www.kstatecollegian.com

Column | Heisman hoax

Dave Skretta examines how little the Heisman Trophy means, and why he thinks Eli Manning is among the least deserving candidates ever. He also makes his claim for this year's Heisman front-runner. Read his thoughts only at www.kstatecollegian.com.

NFL scores

Kansas City	27	New England	23
Oakland	24	Houston	20
Pittsburgh	13	New Orleans	20
Cleveland	6	Philadelphia	33
Baltimore	44	Dallas	24
Seattle	41	Carolina	20
Minnesota	24	Indianapolis	17
Detroit	14	Buffalo	14
San Francisco	10	Jacksonville	10
Green Bay	20	NY Jets	13
Chicago	19	Cincinnati	34
Denver	10	San Diego	27
St. Louis	30	Tennessee	38
Arizona	27	Atlanta	31
Washington	23
Miami	24

Wildcats dominate season opener

K-State kept lead over Birmingham-Southern for 70-50 victory

By Louie Novak
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

It wasn't pretty, and at times it was downright ugly. The men's basketball team opened its regular season with a 70-50 win over Birmingham-Southern Friday night at Bramlage Coliseum.

Sophomore forward Marques Hayden led the Wildcats with 15 points and, three other players reached double figures.

Senior guard Jarrett Hart played in his first game after serving a two-game suspension his second DUI last fall. Hart added six points in 28 minutes.

Senior guard Tim Ellis and junior forward Jeremiah Massey added 14 points each, while freshman guard Dez Willingham added 10.

Willingham became the first Wildcat true freshman to start a season-opener since Paco May in 1995.

After the game, Willingham was just happy his team got the win.

"We did all right," Willingham said. "We stand 1-0, but we all know we have a lot to work on. We will get better as the season goes on."

Hayden was a perfect 5-for-5 from the field as the Wildcats shot 51 percent (25-for-49), but after the game Hayden agreed that the team is still a work in progress.

"Right now we still have a lot to work on, but I feel pretty good about this team," Hayden said. "I am not going to get ahead of myself and say we are the greatest team of all time, but if we continue to work on some of the small things, eventually they will develop into bigger and better things for us."

The Wildcats trailed only once Friday night when Birmingham-Southern's Jakob Sigurdarson put the Panthers up 2-0 just 25 seconds into the game. The Cats went on a 14-1 run to take a 34-16 lead with just under 2 minutes in the first half.

The Panthers got within 10 at 49-39 on Grant Davis' two free throws with 10:26 to play, but Birmingham-Southern went cold and didn't score for more than four minutes. In that stretch, Massey had eight points during a 10-0 run to make the score 59-39 with 6:21 left.

In the end, K-State was too much for the Panthers, who played their first game as a full member of NCAA Division I after three years as a provisional member.

Although the Wildcats did some good things and maintained their game plan throughout the contest, Coach Jim Wooldridge used one word to describe his team's performance – ragged.

Wooldridge said his team's second-half performance was a concern and that his squad still has a lot to work on.

"The turnovers, carelessness with the ball, the rebounding we allowed and second chance opportunities is definitely something we need to address," Wooldridge said.

"But with some work, we will get better."

Lindsey Bauman | COLLEGIAN

K-State's Frank Richards and Dez Willingham defend against Birmingham-Southern's Jakob Sigurdarson during the Wildcats' 70-50 win Friday at Bramlage Coliseum. The Cats' next home game is against Lipscomb on Tuesday.

Eligibility ruling keeps 2 Cats on the bench

By David Skretta
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Men's basketball players Dramane Diarra and Cartier Martin were ruled ineligible Friday after questions surfaced about their amateur status, Athletics Director Tim Weiser said.

Diarra, a junior forward from Paris, France is sidelined for the entire season after the NCAA ruled that two seasons spent playing on a French team constitute playing professionally.

Diarra, a transfer from Cloud County (Kan.) Community College, came to the United States in August 2001.

He reportedly played on French teams from 1999-2001.

"The NCAA determined through information provided by the French team that it declared itself professional, even though the French basketball federation did not," Weiser said in a release.

The NCAA's decision makes Diarra, who didn't play in K-State's first two exhibition games, ineligible under international student-athlete guidelines. K-State is appealing the ruling to the NCAA's Committee on Reinstatement.

Also ruled ineligible was Martin, a 6-foot-8 freshman from Houston.

The NCAA suspended Martin for three games – the first of which was the Wildcats' 70-50 win over Birmingham Southern Friday night.

K-State made a review related to Martin's amateur play while he was a prep player in Texas, and took its findings to the NCAA. Weiser said the ruling had nothing to do with Martin's recruitment.

"When we learned of this, we took it upon ourselves to investigate the issues as required of an NCAA member institution," Weiser said.

"I wish this matter could have been resolved sooner, but we will continue to exhaust every option in gaining a favorable verdict."

Tim Weiser
DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

"The NCAA has informed us that this three-game suspension is consistent with penalties prescribed for cases of this nature, which has resulted in Cartier being required to sit out 10 percent of the regular-season contests."

The three-game suspension means Martin, who led K-State in scoring by averaging 15.5 points in two exhibition games, will be back for the K-State's Dec. 3 game against Wyoming.

"This group wanted Cartier to play," Coach Jim Wooldridge said.

"He's been a great teammate, and they really wanted him to play, but we told them there was a possibility this could happen."

Weiser maintained everything will be done to ensure Martin and Diarra will be eligible to play as soon as possible.

"These situations are very complicated and time-consuming when it comes to securing all the necessary information," he said.

"I wish this matter could have been resolved sooner, but we will continue to exhaust every option in gaining a favorable verdict."

— K-State Sports Information contributed to this story.

A DAY OF HOPE
WORLD AIDS DAY 2003
Monday, December 1st
American Red Cross K-State Club presents a speech by Neil Willenson entitled Make Your Life Count: A Call to Action
Forum Hall at 5:00 p.m.
"An estimated 5 million people acquired the Human Immunodeficiency Virus (HIV) in 2002 including 2 million women and 800,000 children under 15."- Center for Disease Control
Funded by DPC

Monday Night Football
Doors open at 7pm
$1.50 Coors Lt. 22 oz. Draws
$1.50 1/4 lb. Chili Cheese Dogs
$1.50 Frito Chili Cheese Pie
SHOTZ
Join the K-Rock Crew & Coors Lt. Guys & watch the Giants vs Bucs on our Big Screen

LIVE MUSIC
JasonBolandandtheStragglers
Thursday December 11th
w/ Wade Bowen & West 84
21 and over for all shows
TenTilBlue
Thursday December 4
1115 Moro • 776-8770

ExpertTire
EVERYDAY DISCOUNT PRICES
Thanksgiving Sale!
Insignia SL
BRIDGESTONE
Save Now Thru Nov. 29th!
4 For $133
Size P155/80R13. Or $33.25 each.
All 13" Insignia SL Tires 4 For $183
All 14" Insignia SL Tires 4 For $233
All 15" Insignia SL Tires 4 For $273
65,000 Mile Limited Warranty*
70, 75 and 80 series size whitewalls
Tune-Up
Save Now Thru Nov. 29th!
Only $39.99
• Visually inspect ignition wires, distributor cap/rotor, filters and more • Install new Bosch spark plugs
• Set timing and idle (if applicable) • Road test vehicle
Most 4 cylinder electronic ignition vehicles. 6 and 8 cylinder slightly higher. Transverse V-6 engine and A/C interference higher.
ExpertTire 90 DAYS INTEREST FREE!
Minimum monthly payment required.

DOMESTIC
SPECIAL PURCHASE
40,000 mile Limited Warranty*
4 For $100 P155/80R13 P175/80R13 P165/80R13 P185/80R13
4 For $110 P185/75R14 P185/70R14 P195/75R14 P195/70R14 P205/75R14 P205/75R15
4 For $120 P215/75R14 P205/70R14 P215/75R15 P215/70R14
4 For $130 P205/70R15 P225/75R15 P215/70R15 P235/75R15
Call for other size whitewalls. Tread design may vary.

PERFORMANCE
LEMANS SR
all season, s and t-speed rated
$45.99 P195/70SR14
50,000 mile limited warranty*

white letter	price
P225/70SR14	$54.99
P195/60TR14*	46.99
P215/65SR15	54.99
P195/60TR15*	48.99
P275/60SR15	66.99
P205/55TR16*	67.99

•black letters

LIGHT TRUCK
LEMANS HT
all-season, steel belted
$68.99 P225/75R15
60,000 mile limited warranty*

white outline	price
P235/75R15	$68.99
P235/70R15	71.99
P245/75R16	77.99
P265/75R16	80.99
P235/70R16	75.99
P255/70R16	82.99

call for other sizes

ExpertCare Car Service
STANDARD OIL CHANGE
$11.99
YOUR CAR'S MOST FREQUENTLY NEEDED SERVICE!
• Install new oil filter
• Includes refill of up to 5 qts. Kendall® 10W-30 motor oil
• Lubricate chassis (if applicable)
Most vehicles. Price includes oil disposal fee.

MANHATTAN
307 N. 3rd St.
776-8311
Monday-Friday 7 a.m.-6 p.m.
Saturday 7 a.m.-5 p.m. · Sunday 9 a.m.-5 p.m.
www.ExpertTire.com
ExpertTire
EVERYDAY DISCOUNT PRICES
Shop fees in the amount of 8% of labor charges will be added to all services, not applicable in California or New York. Specific product offerings and tread designs may vary. Prices, warranties, ExpertCare Car Service, credit plans and other offers available at ExpertTire. *If you do not achieve guaranteed mileage, your ExpertTire retailer will replace your tires on a prorated basis. Actual tread life may vary. All warranties apply only to original owners on originally installed vehicle. See retailer for details, restrictions and copy of each limited warranty. Finance charges waived on qualifying Promotional Credit Plan purchases that are paid in full within 90 days. MINIMUM MONTHLY PAYMENT REQUIRED. Regular Rate: 21.84% APR. Delinquency Rate: 24.84% APR. Minimum finance charge: $1.00. Subject to credit approval. See store for details. Indy® 500™ and Indianapolis 500® Mini Pace are registered trademarks of Brickyard Trademarks, Inc. Used with permission.

GALLAHER CHRISTMAS TREE FARM
Open Friday, Nov. 28, at Noon
Plan a fun family outing to pick out your "REAL" Tree
You Choose—We Cut
White Pine • Scotch Pain • Fraser Fir
Also...
Fresh Made Wreaths, Tree Stands To Fit Any Tree And Free Refreshments
On Anderson, 3 miles West of Scenic Dr. at Anderson & 62nd Ave.
539-5676 or 537-7889
Happy Holidays!

Great Christmas Specials
Club Beauty The Salon
Gifts and Gift Certificates Available
Tigi and Nioxin
Buy One, Get One HALF PRICE
Tanning Special
10 20 Minute Tans for only $20
Bring in this coupon to receive
20% OFF ANY PURCHASE
Includes sale items • With coupon only Expires 12/20/03
WholesaleBeautyClub
WholesaleBeautyClub
409 Poyntz 539-5999

Smile enhancement by the professionals
Teeth cleaning from $40
SAGER DENTAL ASSOCIATES, P.A.
514 Humboldt Place Hygiene Department 913-537-8823
For more information, see our ad in your Sprint *Manhattan Southwestern Bell Yellow Pages.

Lynn, Stohs finish 1st in Once in a Lifetime voting

By Amy Preston
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The phone call came, and when she found out the news, Kelly Lynn began to scream and dance around her apartment – more than once.

Lynn, K-State alumna, and her fiance Aaron Stohs, senior in veterinary medicine, were officially named the winning couple of the Collegian's first Once in a Lifetime Plans a Wedding on Saturday.

"I can't even express how excited I am," Lynns said. "I wasn't expecting to win. I thought maybe there was a chance, but I was preparing myself not to."

Lynn and Stohs received 9,217 votes, while Melissa Moyer, senior in animal science, and Christopher Deetjen, K-State alumnus, came in second place with 7,186 votes.

Kirby Burke, graduate student in early childhood special education, and David Richard, senior in elementary education, tallied 6,183 votes and Tricia Sanders, sophomore in elementary education, and Joshua Gorden, freshman in agriculture economics, had 321 votes.

About 23,000 total votes were counted.

Christopher Harrop, online editor for the Collegian, said more than 4,000 votes were disqualified after he realized last week that duplicate votes were being cast and fake or modified IP addresses were being used. As a result, Harrop ran analysis tests of the final totals and confirmed the official results Saturday.

In December, individuals will have the chance to vote for their favorite bridal gown.

Four gowns will be displayed in Dec. 5 in the Collegian's Once in a Lifetime section. Throughout the spring semester, individuals will also have the chance to vote for their favorite bridesmaid dresses, tuxedos, flowers, invitations, and the bride's hair style.

Although many brides would prefer to choose their own dress, Lynn said she did not have a problem with others making the decision for her.

In fact, Lynn said others' decisions will only make things easier.

"It seems like I tried on 200 dresses, but I didn't buy any of them," Lynn said. "We haven't done a lot of planning, so this is perfect."

Jeanel Drake | COLLEGIAN
Kelly Lynn and Aaron Stohs

Did you know?

Final results

Kelly Lynn and Aaron Stohs
9,217 votes

Melissa Moyer and Christopher Deetjen
7,186 votes

Kirby Burke and David Richard
6,183 votes

Tricia Sanders and Joshua Gorden
321 votes

Voting for the bride's dress will begin Dec. 5 on the Collegian's Web site, www.kstatecollegian.com

Helicopter crash kills U.S. soldiers

By Paul Haven
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

KABUL, Afghanistan – Five U.S. soldiers were killed and seven injured when their helicopter crashed Sunday near the American military headquarters north of the Afghan capital, U.S. Central Command said.

The soldiers were involved in an ongoing U.S. military operation, dubbed Mountain Resolve, taking place in the east of the country, the military said.

"A U.S. military helicopter crashed today near Bagram, Afghanistan," said a statement sent by e-mail from Central Command, in Tampa, Fla. "Early reports indicate seven service members were injured and at least five service members were killed."

It was not clear what caused the crash, and the military said it was investigating.

Program promotes studying abroad

By Tony Herrman
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

In an effort to raise the percentage of business students studying abroad, College of Business Administration Dean Yar Ebadi formed the College of Business Study Abroad Advocates, currently in its first semester of existence.

The group has modeled itself after its College of Engineering counterpart –Mentors for International Experiences, which was created in spring 2002 for the same reason.

"We really try to match students who have studied abroad with students who are going to that same university," said Ashley Zimmer, vice president of the Study Abroad Advocates. "It's personal advice and suggestions about what they can do, so when they have specific questions like 'what classes should I take?' or 'where's a good place to eat?' hopefully we can give them more answers they can't get at the general study abroad office."

Zimmer, junior in marketing, said she became involved with the advocates after faculty adviser Bente Janda sent an e-mail to every business student who had been abroad and invited them to come to the founding meeting.

Both organizations work closely with the Study Abroad advisers to ensure students have the most fulfilling experience possible.

"They are really good about providing a lot of the detailed information and getting some of the paperwork done and knowing how to get passports," Zimmer said. "Our side of it is just giving them extra information so they can go feeling like they know what's going on so they're not lost and overwhelmed."

Last spring, nearly 50 business students studied abroad. There will be 33 business students going abroad in the spring, and although it's quite a bit lower than last year, Janda said it is a very good amount, because only 17 students studied abroad in spring 2002.

"What we're seeing is fewer students going in the spring because of rising costs, but also more students going in the summer," she said. "Maybe that's why we have a little decrease in the spring numbers, but I wouldn't be surprised if we see a big increase in summer numbers."

Travis Curran, sophomore in human resources management, is the Advocates' secretary. He studied at Charles University in Prague, Czech Republic, last spring and said international business is extremely important, and many employers look for people who have international experience.

"At the last career fair the employers looked at my résumé and the first thing they saw was my study abroad experience. It's such a big thing. It makes you see things from a different perspective and you grow years in a short time," Curran said.

At the beginning of the semester the Advocates' primary job was promoting study abroad and now their main job focus is giving advice and information about studying abroad.

THE Palace Cards & Gifts
After-Thanksgiving Sale

20% OFF STOREWIDE
Friday, November 28th & Saturday, November 29th
K-State Apparel & Gifts • Crabtree and Evelyn • Baby & Wedding Gifts • Yankee Candles • Boyds • Silvestri Plaques & Sculptures • Balloons • Greeting Cards • EVERYTHING CHRISTMAS Plus MUCH MORE!!!!
704 N. MANHATTAN AVE. • IN AGGIEVILLE • 539-7654
MON-FRI 8:30-8:30 • SAT 8:30-5:30 • SUN 12:00-5:00

Do you need: • Great Pay? • Sales Experience? • Flexible Hours? • Outgoing? Are you • Self motivated?
Apply NOW to work on the Collegian Advertising Sales Staff Spring 2004
Deadline is Monday, November 24th @ 4pm
Pick-up/Turn in applications in Kedzie 103 or call 532-6560 with any questions

GUMBY'S Pizza & Pub
702 N. 11th Street
Call Now
770-3333
order online @ www.gumbyspizza.com
Fast FREE Delivery
Hours
Sunday 10:30 a.m. - 2 a.m.
Mon. - Wed. 10:30 a.m. - 2:30 a.m.
Thur. - Sat. 10:30 a.m. - 3:30 a.m.
MasterCard VISA DISCOVER AMERICAN EXPRESS
Checks add 50¢

Pick Up Specials
Valid Carry Out - Limited Time
XL 16" 2 Topping Only $6.99
or
LG 14" 2 Topping Only $5.99

Monday mania
$3.99 Large Cheese Pizza
•Monday Only• •Carry Out Only•Toppings Extra•

Super Tuesday stick it to me
$5.99 Stick it to me Tuesday or Large 1 Topping Pizza and Free Breadsticks

ROCK N ROLL wednesday
only 50¢ Pepperoni Rolls
pizza sauce/ranch extra + tax
$5 Minimum Delivery
Delivery•Dine In•Carry Out

Thursday mania
$5.99 XL Cheese Pizza OR $4.99 Wrap or Pita w/ chips & Pepsi

FREE Bread Sticks
w/ Purchase of a 20" Specialty Pizza
(Limited Time Only)

XL FIVE Topper
16" Five Topping $11.99
or get 2 for $17.99
(Limited Time Only)

Double Damitts
2 - Lg. 14" 2 Topping only $9.99
2 - Md. 12" 2 Topping only $8.99
(Limited Time Only)

XL Damitts
1 - XL 16" 2 Topping Pizza $7.99
or
2 for - $12.99
(Limited Time Only)

Kiss My Big Ass
20" Cheese Pizza $9.99
or
2 for - $18.99
(Toppings Extra)
Limited Time Only!

Value Menu
Any of the following
GUMBY'S Pizza
$7.99 + tax
1. 14" 2-Topping Pizza
2. 12" 1-Topping Pizza & 1 Soda
3. 10" 2-Topping Pizza & Soda
4. 20 Wings & 1 Soda
5. 12" Pokey Stix & 1 Soda
6. 10" Cheese Pizza & 5 Wings
7. 10" Pokey Stix & 5 Wings
8. 10" Cheese Pizza & 2 Pepperoni Rolls
9. 5 Pepperoni Rolls & 1 Soda
10. 14" Pokey Stix
11. Med. 1 Item Calzone & 1 Soda

Grab a HOT & READY Slice of the BIG ASS LATE NIGHT Mon - Sat
$1.25

DAILY
$1.50 Old Style Pints
$2.00 High Life Bottles
Check Out December's Live Music

OFFENSE | Sproles breaks record

Continued from Page 6

273 yards, and he did it through holes bulldozed by his offensive line.

Sproles made many of his yards after the first hit, but he wasn't often hit until getting into the Tiger secondary. The holes created by the offensive line were critical to his day.

"To have a running back play that well, I guess you would have to have an offensive line play pretty well," right tackle Jeromey Clary said. "It's always a pleasure to break another record. That's always an accomplishment, always an honor."

Another essential ingredient to Sproles' record-shattering evening was fullback Victor Mann.

Travis Wilson, K-State's first-string fullback, did not suit up after suffering an injury against Nebraska, but Mann made it clear that there would be no drop in talent.

His performance left many of his teammates in awe, and even warranted a special post-game mention from Coach Bill Snyder after the team gathered in the locker room.

"Awesome," running back coach Michael Smith said of Mann's blocking. "The kid was called upon and played a tremendous football game for us. Coach Snyder made mention of him after the game, both him and Louis Lavender. We had guys go down and both of those kids stepped up and played really well."

There isn't a place in the record book for offensive linemen or fullbacks, but everyone knew the critical role they played in helping Sproles to the best single game by a Wildcat running back.

Sproles knew, too.

After the entire team made a victory lap, delivering high-fives and celebratory hugs to fans, Sproles hugged his entire offensive line in the locker room.

They won't be in the record book, but they laid the way for Sproles.

"For a guy to rush for 270 yards, all the credit has to go to those guys up front," Smith said. "Like every other game, Darren will be the first to tell you that. They did a great job out there. They gave Darren an opportunity to find those holes.

"They just played their best tonight."

DEFENSE | Senior effort serves as final statement for defensive unit

Continued from Page 6

Wildcats stepping up in the face of adversity. The junior started early in the year but lost his spot to junior college transfer Cedrick Williams.

But much like K-State, which rallied after early-season struggles on defense, Lavender returned to make several big plays against Missouri.

"That was a big challenge for him and I knew he was up to it all week," Washington said. "I knew he could get it done."

That's the general sentiment of the Wildcat defense – half of which were seniors playing in their final game at home.

"We played team defense," Elliot said. "That's the only way you can do it."

CROSS COUNTRY 2 runners set for nationals

Continued from Page 6

top-30 runners in both the men's and women's races earn All-American status.

Achieving that goal would make Chesang the first Wildcat All-American on the men's side since 1991.

Cole said Chesang has shown characteristics throughout the season needed to compete well at a high-profile race such as nationals.

"Mathew has demonstrated he can run with top-notch runners," Cole said. "He can move through the pack no matter what the conditions are or what course he's on."

Cole said the National Championships will provide an experience for Culbertson and Chesang unlike any they have ever seen.

"It's fast from the get-go," Cole said. "You just got to hop in the boat and try to paddle along with the current the best you can."

Chesang, though, is not concerned about the up-tempo nature of the race.

"I'll be relaxed, because I've been in big races before," Chesang said. "Nationals is just a name – the competition is the same."

As Culbertson and Chesang walk up to the starting line for the biggest race of their lives, Cole hopes they stick with the game-plan that has led to their success.

"You got to just try to duplicate what got you there – dance with the partner that brought you," Cole said.

Royal Purple Yearbook $34.95 get it in 103 Kedzie 8am-5pm

REFERENCE GENERALISTS

Kanas State University Libraries is seeking applicants to fill two (2) half-time Reference Generalist term positions. Duties: general reference services; individual and small-group user instruction primarily to undergraduates. Required to work flexible schedule that includes daytime, nighttime and weekend hours.

Required qualifications: Bachelors degree. Evidence of excellent interpersonal skills, excellent verbal skills, and customer service orientation. Ability to contribute to the positive environment of the organization. Experience or education in searching electronic databases and the World Wide Web.

Preferred qualifications: MLS degree, advanced course work beyond the bachelor's degree, or library reference work experience. Excellent written communication and word processing skills. Some knowledge of interview techniques.

Kansas State University Libraries wishes to attract individuals whose interest, presence, and contributions will expand our commitment and ability to serve an increasingly diverse campus population. See our website http://www.lib.ksu.edu/news/jobs.html for further details.

Salary: $16,000/annum.

Benefits include paid holidays, annual leave, and health insurance. For more information, see the KSU Benefits Administration site: http://www.ksu.edu/hr/benefits/index.html.

Review of applications will begin on December 4, 2003, and continue until positions are filled. Send letter of application, resume, and names, addresses and phone numbers/email and fax numbers of three work-related references to M. Jean Darbyshire, Administrative Services, Kansas State University Libraries, Manhattan, KS 66506.

Kansas State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer strongly committed to diversity. We value qualified candidates who can bring to our community a variety of backgrounds and experiences.

BUY-HIRE-SELL-RENT KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN 103 Kedzie 532-6555

Give us your opinion. Campus Forum: 395-4444

Travel Safely During Thanksgiving Break. Claflin Books and Copies

WE JIMMY JOHN'S® Since SUPER SEAL (APPROVED BY MAMAS, GREAT STUFF) 1983

WORLD'S GREATEST GOURMET SANDWICHES

HOURS: 11AM - 3 AM

539.7454

AGGIEVILLE

1212 MORO

DELIVER

Even if you can't be together this holiday, you can still be close.

1000 ANYTIME MINUTES. FOR LIFE

$40 month

- 1000 mobile-to-mobile minutes
- Unlimited nationwide long distance
- Unlimited nights and weekends

Download ringtones and games.

Audiovox 8410 $24.99

Kyocera Phantom™ KE414 FREE

GET ONE MONTH FREE with 2-year agreement

CELLULARONE Proud to be the next best way to say hello.

Cellular One Stores

Manhattan

1115 Westloop Place, 537-4646 •

100 Manhattan Town Center, 776-1414

• Now open Sundays

1 800 CELL ONE Business Customers, 1 877 566-3222 CellularOne.com

Solutions by NORTEL NETWORKS

Experience Our Enhanced Digital Network

Offer good for a limited time on new activations on select rate plans only and are subject to change without notice. 1000 anytime minutes for life promotion available to subscribers as long as they continue to pay for the $40 local plan described above. Any interruption, payment default or change to the subscriber's plan at any request may result in the loss of the 1000 anytime minutes for life promotion. If subscriber's service is interrupted and the subscriber wishes to return to the $40 local plan described above, such subscriber would not have the option to retain the 1000 anytime minutes for life promotion. One month free offer requires 2-year agreement and is limited to monthly access charge only and does not include charges for roaming, long distance, taxes, and/or other fees associated with your monthly price plan. Unlimited Nights & Weekends available on select Local and Western Plus plans only. Mobile-to-mobile minutes apply to calls placed between Cellular One customers on the Western Wireless Corp. network and apply per phone only. Credit approval required. Some customers may not qualify. Full WSUP 11 customers may be required to pay a non-refundable program fee and reserving administration fee. Not available to all users. May not be combined with any other offers or discounts. Included minutes apply to calls from within local service area only. Unused minutes expire each month. "Night" minutes apply to calls made from 9:00 p.m. to 5:00 a.m. Monday through Thursday, and "weekend" minutes apply to calls made from 9:00 p.m. Friday to 11:59 p.m. Sunday from within home calling area only. Free nationwide long distance applies to calls made from the home area to anywhere within the United States only. Except as indicated, additional fees apply for taxes, assessments, surcharges, roaming, long distance, operator-assisted, credit card or other toll charges. In roaming and long distance calls are rounded up and billed in full minute increments from the time the network begins to process the call (before the call rings or is answered) through to termination of the call (any fraction of a minute of usage is rounded up and charged or deducted from any included minutes as the full minute rate. Service is subject to the terms of our standard 1- to 2-year service agreement that includes a $200 fee for early cancellation and a mandatory arbitration provision for each phone. Kyocera KE414 Phantom phone is $24.99 after $25 mail-in rebate with one-year agreement. Audiovox 8410 phone is $54.99 after $25 mail-in rebate with one-year agreement. Activation fee and deposit may be required. Digital handset required. Outside the digital coverage area, a voice may be analog and certain digital features may not function. Rebates/rebate limits may vary. Limit one rebate per phone purchased. Featured handsets available at Cellular One stores and participating dealers while supplies last. Service is not TTY compatible. See store for complete details. Other restrictions may apply. Phones and the Phantom logo are trademarks of Kyocera Wireless Corp. Nortel Networks and the Nortel Networks logo are trademarks of Nortel Networks. All service marks are marks of The Cellular One Group. © 2003 Western Wireless Corporation.

Manhattan adopts nudity ordinance

By Leann Sulzen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Nudity was on the agenda last month for the City Commission meeting. The vote was 5-0, in favor of a new nudity ordinance.

Mayor Mark Taussig said the ordinance is particularly directed toward nudity in business.

It was created to prevent sexually orientated businesses from coming to Manhattan, he said.

"Sexually orientated businesses are not generally viewed as good for a community," he said. "It devalues the property around it."

Taussig said there are certain circumstances where nudity is allowed, such as a drawing class, visiting a doctor, nursing a child and theatrical performances.

Commissioner Brad Everett said the ordinance includes public exposure.

"If they are exposing themselves in a bar, I'm sure it covers that, too," he said.

Everett said he would not be surprised if there were people exposing themselves in Manhattan – most likely in bars.

Preston Fox, assistant manager at Rusty's Last Chance Restaurant and Saloon, said he has heard a rumor about people exposing themselves in the bar on Halloween.

"I heard about it, but I can't vouch for that," he said. "I was not here on that night, so I can't comment on it."

Fox said he would help enforce the nudity ordinance at Rusty's by telling security guards about the rules of the ordinance.

Jesse Clingan, manager at O'Malley's Alley, said the bar has had some incidents of public exposure.

"Last St. Patrick's Day, a girl decided she didn't want to wear a shirt," he said.

However, Clingan said he will not change anything to enforce the nudity ordinance.

"I think everybody has the right to do what they want with their own body," he said. "If they're not offending people in the establishment, then they're not offending me."

Fast facts
Public Nudity Ordinance

- "It shall be unlawful for any person to knowingly, intentionally or recklessly, appear in a state of nudity in a public place."
- Nudity is defined as "less than completely or opaquely covering and exposing to view: (1) Human male or female genitals; or (2) Any portion of the anal cleft or cleavage of the male or female buttocks..."
- Nudity also applies to female breasts and "human male genitals in a discernably turgid state, even if completely and opaquely covered."
- A person is defined as a live human 10 years or older.
- A public place is defined as "any location frequented by the public, or where the public is present or likely to be present..."

Union seeking donations for Breadbasket

By Kristi Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

After receiving a letter requesting involvement, the K-State Student Union agreed to place baskets around the building to collect food items for the Flint Hills Breadbasket.

Emily O'Connor, Union marketing manager, said the city requested participation in this and the mayor's parade on Dec. 1.

"We set up three collection boxes, one for employees only and two in retail – one in the Bookstore and the other inside the gates of the Food Court," O'Connor said.

She said the drive will continue on campus until winter break.

"Cans and boxes cramp my office, but it is a good thing," O'Connor said.

"I encourage everyone to participate, there is a real need for food in this town."

Shirley Bramhall, executive director of the Flint Hills Breadbasket, said the organization is overwhelmed with donations, but could always use more volunteers.

"We have a lot of people call and ask about volunteering, but won't say when they are coming" Bramhall said.

"We have plenty for every person to do, it's just a matter of having it all organized."

Bramhall said the effort at K-State to collect food donations at the home football games and at the Union is counted on by Breadbasket employees.

According to the 2002 holiday statistics from the Breadbasket, 2,532 Thanksgiving baskets were prepared. Bramhall said the 2003 number was more than 2,400.

The food items collected at the Union will be used for the baskets and for the Thanksgiving dinner from noon to 2 p.m. Thursday.

"It will be a traditional dinner. It is free to everyone, if a student doesn't get to head home for Thanksgiving, they can come down and eat with us. We already have plenty of volunteers," Bramhall said.

"If they really miss home though, we stick them on dishes for a little while."

Did you know?
Flint Hills Breadbasket collection in the Union

- Drop offs: Union Bookstore and inside the gates of the food court
- Requests: canned vegetables, holiday items and any other non-perishable food items

Sportbike enthusiasts form official student group

By Phillip Przybylo
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Motorcycles are a staple of K-State parking lots during any semester.

Finding motorcycles was not a problem for Mike Gamache, junior in electronic media. However, finding an organization for their riders was almost impossible.

"I noticed out here there was a huge amount of riders, but there wasn't any activities or any riding scene happening," Gamache said. "There wasn't any place to meet up with other guys and hang out – talking and riding motorcycles."

With a few newfound friends, the problem was solved. They started a club of their own focusing on high-performance sport bikes. There were a few roadblocks to creating the club, but it was nothing the riders could not handle.

The club's success is found in the mentality of its members – sport bikes are much more than a vehicle or hobby to them.

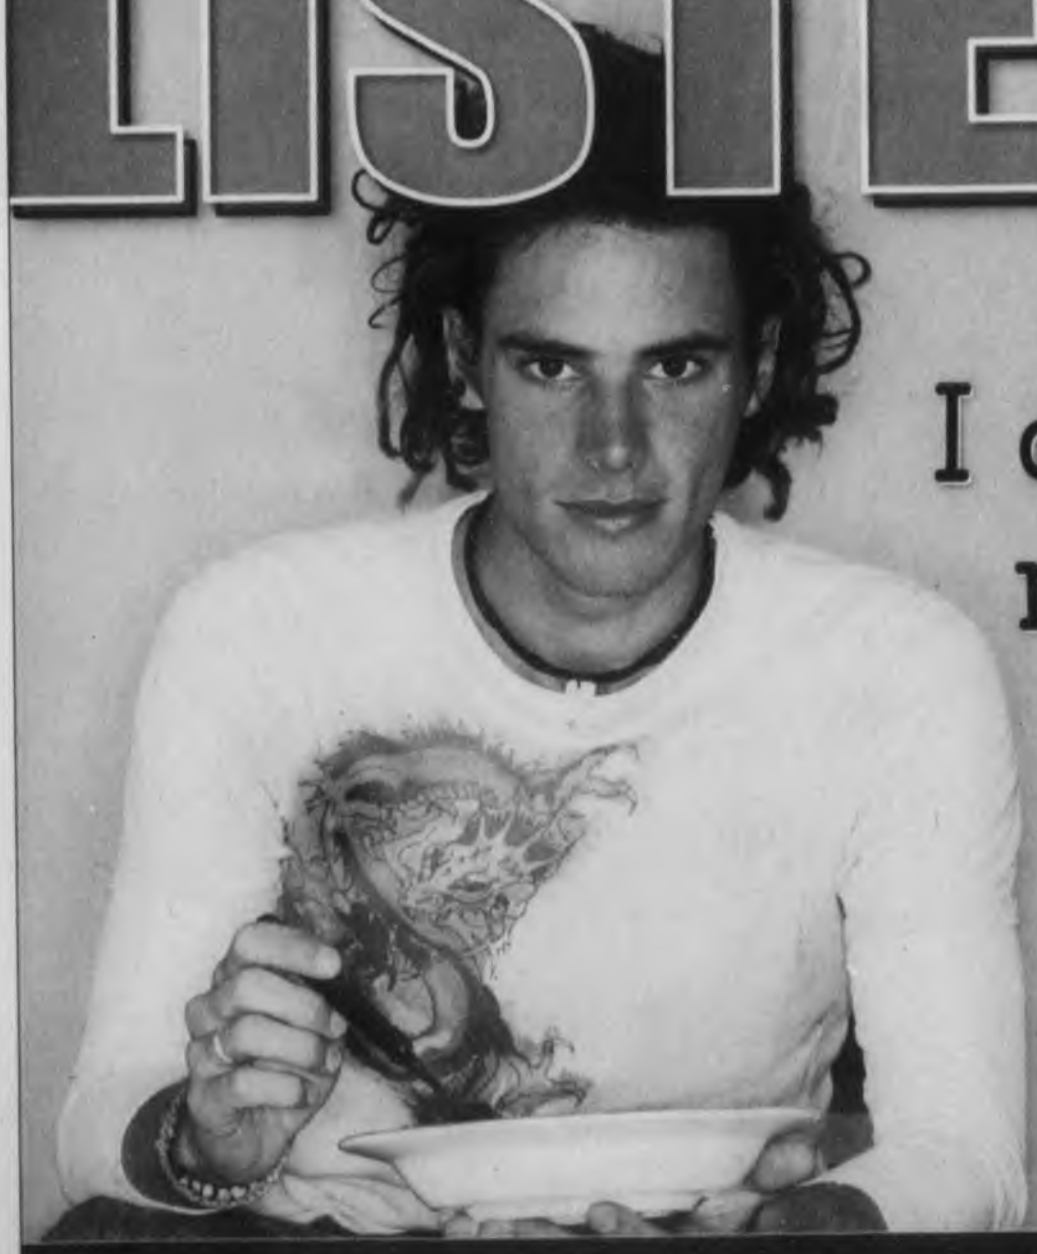
"When you're riding with your buddies, there's no feeling better. And yet, you're almost one with the bike. It's almost a zen-like feeling. Any thoughts on your mind totally disappear," Gamache said. "It's almost like meditation."

Greenwald said there is also a social aspect to the club.

"When you're driving in a car, the windows will be rolled up, and you don't really talk to anyone else," he said. "When people ride, they like to ride together, and it gives you an opportunity to hang out with friends and talk."

After going to the proper outlets, Gamache spearheaded the initiative to seek official recognition. Fliers were distributed, and soon enough, 20 people showed up for a preliminary meeting at his house. Searching for and convincing a faculty member to become a staff adviser for a motorcycle club proved easier than expected.

Jesse Greenwald, computing and information research associate, was already at the meeting.



"I had been kind of interested in doing something like this for a few years," he said. "When they asked if I wanted to join, I said, 'Of course.' And they didn't realize I was a full-time staff member, so it worked out pretty well."

The KSU Sportbike Club's passion will not be deterred by winter.

Gamache's plans go beyond any club functions.

"When the weather is good," he said, "although not an official club event, we will try to get it organized where there's always going to be times and places where you can go, and there will be people out riding.

upc
LEAVING OUR MARK...ONE EVENT AT A TIME.
STUDENT Photo Contest
To get more info, go to www.ksu.edu/upc or go to the UPC Office, located on the 3rd floor of the Student Union
UPC Arts commitee encourages all students to enter picture your talent viewed by thousands
plus, win some money too
Winners will be displayed in the Kemper Art Gallery and have an opportunity to be featured in the Spring '04 UPC Calendar.
Entries due in the Union Program Council Office Wed. Dec. 3, 2003 by 4p.m.
K-STATE STUDENT UNION
HOTLINE: 532 6572 WEBSITE: www.ksu.edu/upc

LISTEN UP!

I decided there's more to life than noodle soup.
How 'bout you?
SallieMae
Nobody lends you more support.™
That's why I'm consolidating my student loans with Sallie Mae after I leave school.
• Slash your monthly payments in half.
• Lock in the absolute lowest interest rates ever offered.
• Save even more by applying during your grace period.
• Pay off credit cards with the money you save each month.
• Cut your rates even more with Sallie Mae's borrower benefits.
• No application fee or credit check.
Log on to SMARTLOAN.COM or call 1-800-448-3533
SLM Corporation and its subsidiaries (other than the Student Loan Marketing Association) are not sponsored by or agencies of the United States of America.
SC81

Suicide prevention program considered

By Lacey Storer
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State may add another program to its counseling services.

University Counseling Services is considering connecting the campus to Ulifeline.org, a suicide prevention program on the Internet, Fred Newton, director of Counseling Services, said.

Ulifeline is a program that allows college students to access information about suicide and other mental illnesses from the privacy of their home via the Internet.

Two hundred universities are signed up for Ulifeline. Part of the Web site's appeal to students is its use of a familiar tool to access information while maintaining anonymity.

Check it out
www.Ulifeline.org
Students can receive a guest password to look at the Web site as a guest.

Ron Gibori, executive director of Ulifeline, said the organization chose the Internet because it seemed a more acceptable way to get information to students unwilling to go to a counseling center.

"The stigma attached to mental illness and depression makes the student reluctant to talk about their problems or go to the student center. Because of that stigma, we've created Ulifeline, where it's confidential and anonymous," he said.

Gibori said Ulifeline alerts students of services available on their own campus. He said most universities don't lack facilities to help their students, but students lack knowledge of where they can get help.

Ulifeline was founded in fall 2002 and is just one of the programs offered by the Jed Foundation, a non-profit suicide prevention organization. The foundation was started by Phil and Donna Setow in 1998, after their son Jed, a college sophomore, committed suicide.

Donna Setow said knowledge is a powerful tool in suicide prevention.

"We thought that by arming students with quality information with Ulifeline, they might be able to talk to their friends and say 'Hey, I need some help,'" she said.

Students who log onto Ulifeline can get information about suicide support groups and crisis centers, learn about warning signs of suicide and do a self-evaluation.

If Ulifeline comes to K-State, it would be the only campuswide suicide prevention service available from Counseling Services. Right now, they offer individual screenings for students who come in with concerns about themselves or a friend.

Whatever the reason for looking at Ulifeline, Setow said she just wants students to get the information they need to help themselves.

"If a student is feeling sick or anxious, these are not things people should die from," she said.

Bundled up

Nicole Donnert | COLLEGIAN
Ashley Huxman, junior in marketing, and Ashley Garner, junior in architecture, try to keep their faces covered while watching the K-State football game against Missouri on Saturday night from the front row of the student section. The wind chill dipped to 33 degrees. See more football coverage on Page 1 and Page 6.

CLASSIFIEDS

LET'S RENT

105 For Rent- Apts. Furnished

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT available January 1. One block from campus. Water/ trash paid. Off-street parking. $330/ month. Call (785)539-5579.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

A LARGE two-bedroom apartment, close to campus. Available mid- December. (785)317-7713.

BRITTNAY RIDGE. Four-bedroom, study, two and one-half bath, town home. Washer/ dryer. 2519 Candlecrest, lease required. No pets. $1050, $1050 deposit. (785)537-9740.

FOR JANUARY 1. Nice large two-bedroom apartment. Gas, water, trash three-forths paid, laundromat. $480. (785)539-2482 or (785)539-9315 or cell phone (785)565-8116.

TWO-BEDROOM WITH study, private balcony, laundry, cover parking, walk to campus, central air-conditioning, January lease. $515- $545/ month. (785)341-6091.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE for a four-bedroom duplex. Washer/ dryer. Available January. Rent $275. Call Megan (785)539-8490.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for luxury, four-bedroom apartment across street from West campus. Laundry, parking, no smoking, no pets. $300. (785)776-6318.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for spring semester. Nice five-bedroom three bath house. Common rooms furnished. Washer/ dryer. $300 rent plus one-fifth utilities. (785)539-9887, (785)825-2937.

ROOMS AVAILABLE in house close to campus. $220/ month plus share of utilities. Washer and dryer. Contact Jake at (785)539-4904. Located at 911 N. 11th St. Available starting December.

150 Sublease

CAMPUS/ AGGIEVILLE- spring semester, two-bedroom, 1212 Bluemont. Trash/ water paid, laundry facility. $300/ each, January 1. Kelly or Karen (785)776-8980.

FOUR-BEDROOM, ONE and one-half bath, spacious, practically in Aggieville. $900/ month heating included. (four roommates- only $225 per person). (785)776-5102.

LOOKING FOR female subleaser for spring semester. Four-bedroom apartment. $240, plus one-fourth of bills. Water and trash paid, laundry facilities. Short walk to campus. Call Alicia at (786)539-9119.

ROOMS FOR rent, next to campus, one-bedroom apartment. Free washer/ dryer, central-air, parking. (785)537-7050

145 Roommate Wanted

MALE ROOMMATE to share newer mobile home. $150/ month. (785)770-9547.

150 Sublease

CAMPUS/ AGGIEVILLE, one and one-half bedrooms available January. Central heat and air, parking. Water/ trash paid. 1212 Thurston, (620)870-9741.

FEMALE ROOMMATE WANTED starting January to live with two other girls. $265/ month plus utilities. Very nice house, can see campus from house. 1206 Bertrand. Call Lesley at (785)539-6790 leave message if not home.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed for spring semester. Beautiful house and three great roommates. Near City Park. $250/ month plus utilities. Call Renee at (785)565-0340.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed for spring semester. One-bedroom apartment. Two blocks from Aggieville. Rent negotiable call (785)564-1173.

MALE SUBLEASER needed. Two-bedroom apartment. Private parking, dishwasher, washer/ dryer. $262.50 a month. Available January. 716 Humboldt. Contact Casey (785)341-1162.

MALE SUBLEASER wanted to live with three males. Woodway Apartments. $237/ month. Laundry, dishwasher, one-forth utilities, pool, deck. (785)565-1267. Available December 20.

MALE SUBLEASERS needed: spring semester. Call (785)317-7558.

ONE ROOM available. You will love this place. Please call to come see! Ask for Jacquelyn (785)341-3769.

ONE-BEDROOM. $400/ month, water and trash paid, lease January- May. (785)537-9379.

ROOM FOR rent during spring semester. $280/ month includes water, trash, laundry. Has all amenities including fireplace. Low bills. (785)539-1272. mrl8888@ksu.edu.

ROOMMATE WANTED to share brand new duplex with three guys. Four-bedroom/ two bath/ kitchen/ laundry. $275/ month plus utilities. Call (316)990-6862 or (785)539-2356.

SPACIOUS TWO-BEDROOM/ one bath. All utilities paid except electric. Available end of December. Call (785)806-3068.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for one-bedroom apartment. $379.56 rent/ month starting January 1. Includes utilities. Pets are allowed. (785)770-3060.

SUBLEASER NEEDED, great two-bedroom house. Fully furnished, five minutes from Union. Private parking, available now. $380, all bills paid. (785)539-3408.

SUBLEASER WANTED for spring semester. One-bedroom, one block from campus. Trash and water included. Call (785)776-6963 for details.

SUBLEASER WANTED January- July. Two-bedroom apartment. $575 a month plus electric. Laundry facilities. Dishwasher. Water and trash paid. (785)820-0879.

SUBLEASER WANTED- recently remodeled three-bedroom apartment. Close to campus and Aggieville. $265/ month. Call (785)770-7575.

SUBLEASER WANTED: one-bedroom. January 1- August 1. $370. Water and trash paid. (785)539-7653.

SUBLEASER(S) WANTED for apartment at 11th and Laramie. Two-bedrooms for price of one, and rent is negotiable. Call Dana at (785)565-0662.

SUBLEASERS NEEDED. Close to campus, Aggieville, and City park. nice two-bedroom apartment. $270/ month. Available January. Call Michele or Amy. (785)539-5334.

SUBLEASERS NEEDED: two-bedroom basement apartment 520 Osage. Pets allowed. Call Ryan at (785)565-1950 or Chris at (785)317-2992 leave message if no answer.

150 Sublease

SUBLEASERS NEEDED: three-bedroom apartment available soon at Woodway Apartment across from stadium. Great place! $753/ month. Please call! (785)845-5666.

SUBLEASERS WANTED for spring semester. Two-bedroom, one and one-half bath apartment. Water/trash paid, laundry facilities, very close to campus. (785)658-5680.

TWO STORY, two-bedroom apartment. One bathroom, washer and dryer, one block west of campus, available January- July. (785)323-1712.

WANTED: SUBLEASERS for extra clean, two-bedroom apartment within walking distance of campus. For more information call (785)776-9992.

200 service directory

300 employment/ opportunities

310 Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/ she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

! BARTENDING $300 a day potential. No experience necessary. Training provided. Call 1-800-965-6520 ext. 144.

ACCOUNTING CLERK I Part-time. We are seeking a self-motivated individual to work part-time from noon to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday in our operations department. The duties of this position include responding to and solving customer service requests; entering and verifying computer data; posting journal entries; and other related work. Requirements include a high school diploma or equivalent, keyboarding proficiency, attention to detail, and excellent communication skills. Pay is competitive. Some Saturday's will be necessary as part of a rotating schedule requiring approximately two hours monthly. Apply online at http://www.fbfs.com/employment, or our office at 2627 KFB Plaza, Manhattan, KS 66503. Immediate response desired but applications will be taken until the positions are filled. Farm Bureau Financial Services is an equal opportunity employer.

ASSISTANT WRESTLING position, Marysville High School. Paid commensurate. Contact Athletic Director, Randy Adams at (785)562-5594.

BARTENDER TRAINEES needed. $250/ day potential. Local positions. (800)293-3985 ext. 548.

GET PAID For Your Opinions! Earn $15- $125 and more per survey! www.paidonlinesurveys.com

310 Help Wanted

HOMESTEAD ASSISTED Living is accepting applications for Certified Medications Aide. We have an enjoyable working atmosphere and offer health/ dental insurance, paid time off package, 401 K and more. Please apply in person at 1923 Little Kitten Avenue. Equal Opportunity Employer.

MAKE MONEY taking Online Surveys. Earn $10-$125 for Surveys. Earn $25-$250 for Focus Groups. Visit www.cash4students.com/ksu <http://cash4students.com/ksuucinn>

SUBSTITUTE TEACHERS needed; Rock creek USD 323 needs substitute and emergency substitute teachers. Pays $71/ per day. Please contact the district office for application packet, (785)457-3732 or email caffreyt@rockcreekschools.org.

TEACHER AIDES (certificate preferred) for Kindegarden and 5/ 6 classroom at Westmoreland Elementary. Start date and salary negotiable. Single health insurance provided. Call (785)457-3732 for application or Email caffreyt@rockcreekschools.org. Equal opportunity employer.

330 Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

400 open market

410 Items for Sale

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS- sleeping bags, overshoes, combat boots, camouflage clothing, wool socks and gloves, much more. Also Carhartt work wear. Open Monday- Friday, 9am-5:30pm, Saturday 9am-4pm, Open Sundays till Christmas 12noon- 4pm. St Mary's Surplus Sales, St. Marys Kansas. (785)437-2734.

465 Tickets to Buy/Sell

THREE BIG 12 championship tickets, section 123, row 40, in corner end zone. $240 for all three. (417)889-7568

500 transportation

510 Automobiles

1991 GRAND AM. Excellent condition. Factory cd. New tires. Boyfriend is a mechanic. $1200 firm. Call Katie. (785)466-1708.

1992 PLYMOUTH, four door, Sundance. $600. Great dependable student car. As is. Call (785)776-1368 ask for Evie.

1993 SATURN SL2. Good condition. $1000 or best offer. Call (785)341-7559 for details.

ADVERTISE
CLASSIFIEDS • 532-6555

600 travel/ trips

610 Tour Package

#1 College Ski Week
BRECKENRIDGE
Ski 5 Resorts for the Price of 1
Breckenridge, Vail, Beaver Creek, Keystone & A Basin
$179
U.S. Ski
1-800-SKI-WILD
www.ubsat.com

WINTER AND Spring Break, ski and beach trips on sale now! www.Sunchase.com or call 1-800-SUNCHASE today!

630 Spring Break

!SO MANY Spring Break companies. Book DIRECT with the established leader in Spring Break travel. Better trips, better prices. Early booking incentives. book now with a small deposit. (800)367-1252/ www.springbreakdirect.com

ACT NOW! Book 11 people, get 12th trip free. Group discounts for six plus www.springbreakdiscounts.com or (800)838-8202.

#1 SPRING Break Company in Acapulco now offers three destinations! Go loco in Acapulco, party in Vallarta, or get crazy in Cabo with BIANCHI-ROSSI TOURS. Organize a group and travel for FREE. Book now before it's too late! Call (800)875-4525 or www.bianchi-rossi.com.

NUMBER ONE spring break vacations! 110% best prices! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas, Florida, Acapulco, book now and receive free parties and meals. Campus reps wanted! 1-800-234-7 0 0 7 endlesssummertours.com

Student Travel America
Spring Break '04
Acapulco
From $629
All-inclusive available
1-800-235-TRIP
www.statravel.com

SPRING BREAK 2004. Travel with Student Travel Services, America's #1 Student Tour Operator to Jamaica, Cancun, Acapulo, Bahamas, and Florida. Now hiring campus reps. Call for group discounts. Information/ reservations 1-800-648-4849 or www.ststravel.com.

SPRING BREAK- sign up with Student Express and get FREE round trip airline tickets to over 15 International destinations- including Aruba, Dominican Republic, Costa Rica, Caribbean hot spots and more. Why go with anyone else. Limited offer- call now. Commission rep positions also available (800)787-3787or www.studentexpress.com now.

USASPRINGBREAK.COM CANCUN, Bahamas, Acapulco, Jamaica, and more. Don't be fooled! Go with quality and experience! 28 years in business. Largest Student Tour Operator (Division of USA Student Travel). Call (877)460-6077. Now hiring Campus Reps. Earn two free trips for 15 travelers and $$.

000 bulletin board

010 Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY!" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes and lowest rates. Call (785)776-1744, www.ksu.edu/ksfc

ATTORNEY, CHUCK Harper, expunge convictions before job application, paternity, custody, net free adoption, civil law. 400 Poyntz, (785)539-8100, chuckharper@msn.com

FRATERNITIES— SORORITIES, Clubs— Student Groups. Earn $1000- $2000 this semester with a proven CampusFundraiser, three hour fund raising event. Our free programs make fund raising easy with no risks. Fund raising dates are filling quickly, so get with the program! It works. Contact CampusFundraiser at (888)923-3238, or visit www.campusfundraiser.com

020 Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

BRACELET FOUND a Pat's Blue Ribbon on Saturday, November 15. Call to identify. (785)776-0976

FOUND: WATCH on bike pass between Jardine apartments and College Avenue. Call Bruce at (785)532-1338 to identify.

030 Post a Note

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a post a note.

100 housing/ real estate

105 For Rent- Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2440.

ONE-BEDROOM CLOSE to campus. Water and trash included. Available January 1. Central air/ heat. (785)537-7810.

"Stay In Class At The Commons"
Now Leasing for 2003-2004!
•Fully Furnished
•2 & 4 Bedroom
•Alarm System
•Swimming Pool
•Washer/Dryer
•Computer Lab
•Fitness Center
•Permit Parking
•Tennis/Volleyball Courts
•Individual Leases
Office Hours: M-F 9-5
539-0500
university COMMONS APARTMENTS
2215 College Ave.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

AVAILABLE JANUARY 1. Two-bedroom, newly decorated. Washer/ dryer hookup. Off-street parking. $500/ month. (785)537-2119, 8- 5pm, (785)539-2347 after 5pm.

EFFICIENCY, TWO/ three-bedroom units immediately available. (785)341-4496.

NICE ONE-BEDROOM apartments. Close to campus. Water and trash paid. $415- $430/ month. Call MDI (785)776-3804.

TWO, three, and four-bedroom apartments. Close to campus, laundry, and parking. Call (785)537-6017.

ONE- TWO-BEDROOM apartment and houses. Available January 1 and now. Close to campus. www.rent-apm.com/ (785)539-4357.

STUDIO APARTMENT and one-bedroom, close to campus. No pets. $280/ month. 1030 Kearney. Call (785)537-0177.

STUDIO APARTMENT. $250/ month. All utilities except electric paid. Lease and deposit required. Available January 1. (785)537-7794.

TWO-BEDROOM TOWNHOUSE, one and one-half bath plus unfinished basement. Washer/ dryer hookups. Water/ trash paid. No pets. (785)539-5627.

VERY NICE two-bedroom apartment for rent, starting January 1st. Cats allowed. Call (785)539-5563 or (785)341-5441 for more information.

115 Rooms Available

ROOMMATE WANTED to sublease. Close to campus/ Aggieville. Washer/ dryer, $300 plus utilities. Call Nicole (785)776-6099 or (785)565-8785.

120 For Rent- Houses

FOUR-BEDROOM/ TWO bath house. Very nice. Central heat and air, washer/ dryer hookups. Available January 1st. No pets. Call Doug (785)341-4554.

THREE AND four-bedroom houses and apartments available January 1 and now. Close to campus. www.rent-apm.com/ (785)539-4357.

TIRED OF Apartment Living? Manufactured Homes For Rent. Pets Allowed. Beautifully maintained communities. Pool, playground, community center. Professionally managed. Call Manager for more details. (785)539-5841.

135 For Sale- Mobile Homes

FOR SALE: two-bedroom, one bath mobile home. Well cared for, owners are December graduates. $4800 or best offer. Please call (785)323-0055.

ONE-BEDROOM MOBILE home, new carpet, furnace. $6000 or best offer. (785)537-9994.

A ROOMMATE needed January- July at 1836 Todd, very close to campus, washer/ dryer. $275 for rent. (785)341-8498.

FEMALE FOR Spring. Nice apartment one-half block from campus, close to REC. $260/ month plus cheap bills. Parking. Laundry. (785)770-3837.

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed for quiet house, air-conditioned, washer/ dryer, kitchen, basement, off-street parking, near campus, $285 plus one-fourth utilities. (785)537-1219.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted January- July 2004, $255 rent plus one-third utilities. Right next to Union. Dishwasher, large bedroom. Call (785)565-9340.

GREAT PLACE, great location, great people. Female roommates wanted for spring semester sublease. Large rooms, private parking, common rooms furnished, washer/ dryer. Call Lindsay at (785)587-0296.

MALE OR female for spring semester. Nice two-bedroom apartment across street from Aggieville and campus. 1212 Bluemont. (316)641-2636 leave a message.

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share a two-bedroom house. Five minutes from the Student Union. Rent $275. (785)539-9981.

MALE ROOMMATES needed for a four-bedroom home in quite neighborhood, five minutes north of campus, must see to appreciate. $275 per month plus shared utilities. (913)244-2921.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for clean three-bedroom, two bath, new house. Available January. For more information call (785)770-9206.

ROOMMATE NEEDED, January- July. Huge 20X20 room. All amenities, four roommates needing the fifth. (785)537-0699. Rent negotiable.

ROOMMATE WANTED $200/ month plus one-half utilities. Washer/ dryer, can have two bedrooms, six blocks off campus, University Dr., no smoking, nice house and neighborhood. (785)317-4742.

SPRING SEMESTER roommate needed. Master bedroom in four-bedroom house. 0.3 miles from campus. Washer/ dryer, two bathrooms, cable internet. $250 plus utilities. Call Tyler (913)908-7162.

THREE CHRISTIAN guys looking for roommate. One and one-half mile west of campus. Washer/ dryer, $275/ month, negotiable. (785)341-3464, (785)537-4278.

Found something?
You can place an ad FREE for three days!
Kedzie 103 532-6555

Deadlines

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run.
CALL 532-6555

ClassifiedRATES

1 DAY
20 words or less
$8.00
each word over 20
20¢ per word

2 DAYS
20 words or less
$9.40
each word over 20
25¢ per word

3 DAYS
20 words or less
$11.05
each word over 20
30¢ per word

4 DAYS
20 words or less
$12.25
each word over 20
35¢ per word

5 DAYS
20 words or less
$13.35
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

TO PLACE AN AD
Go to Kedzie 103 (across from the K-State Student Union). Office hours are Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The office is open except on holidays.

HOW TO PAY
All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an account with Student Publications Inc. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks. We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

FREE FOUND ADS
As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CORRECTIONS
If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

CANCELLATIONS
If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day before the ad is to be published.

HEADLINES
For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

IRAQI PERSPECTIVE | Iraqis express thoughts on U.S. occupation

Continued from Page 1

things are changing."

Nadeem said the Iraqi people are having a difficult time working with the U.S. military.

"The negative side is that this is the first time we've seen the American Army here. They are Army people – we used to work well with civilian Americans, they are nice," he said. "After the beginning of the war, the situation was not good, but it has become worse now."

Ahlam said her brother tells her that he and the rest of her family have compassion for the soldiers. She said they also differentiate between Americans and the U.S. government's decision to declare war. They are unhappy with the government's decision.

"He said he feels sorry for the American soldier," she said. "My sister-in-law tells me it breaks her heart to see them, because they are just young men. She is a mother, she wants them to go back and be with their families."

Nadeem often expresses frustration in the slow transfer of political power, which the CIA recently pushed the Bush administration to expedite.

"I look at the TV, and there are many bad pictures," he said. "We hope that they leave from Iraq as soon as possible. Let the Iraqi people manage Iraq."

Sinaa Abdulamir, mechanical engineer and Manhattan resident, came to the United States from Iraq in 1990. She agreed that Iraqis want the U.S. government to pull soldiers from Iraq.

"We spent the whole winter protesting to avoid these things," she said. "No one wants their country to be invaded. Because our country has been liberated since 1920, being re-invaded in the 21st century is hard to accept."

Abdulamir said it is important for Americans to understand it is not the soldiers who are interfering with the Iraqis' lives, it is the idea of a foreign force in the country they are unhappy with.

"There is no contact between the people and the soldiers," she said. "But to see them in the streets with tanks and guns – nobody likes it."

Jeanel Drake | COLLEGIAN

Ahlam and Asma Al-Rawi look at photos on their living room floor. Before coming to Manhattan to get her doctoral degree, her Iraqi family lived in Maryland and Colorado.

However, Thuria Mossa, Arabic instructor, had different feelings about the conflict in Iraq. Mossa, who left Iraq 22 years ago, said she thought it was necessary for the United States to invade Iraq. She said she saw no other way to bring Saddam Hussein out of power.

"We felt for so long, that the only way to get rid of Saddam is this way," she said. "Unfortunately it came down to war to get him out. He has been slaughtering Kurds and Shiites for years, and no one heard their screams. Unfortunately for a long time the U.S. government covered their ears as well."

Mossa said she thinks U.S. troops should stay in Iraq until there is more stability.

"We have to stay until we get the job done," she said. "People will look down on us if we leave before we get the job done."

Although Mossa said most of her family has migrated from Iraq to Europe and the United States, the siblings who still live there said they would vote for President Bush if they could.

LOCAL RESPONSES

Ahlam said she remembered well how her family was affected by the talk and eventual declaration of war in Iraq.

"In the beginning, when they were talking about the war – it's like you have somebody sick in the hospital, and you just hope something good will happen," she said.

"And then, we were sitting, eating dinner and a friend called us and said 'I'm sorry, the war started,' and it's as if they say to us 'it's gone – it's over.'

"We left everything – the spoons and the forks and the food, and started watching TV. For 15 or 20 days, I did not clean anything – we did not do anything – it was terrible. And then, I started to really fear that someone will hurt our kids."

Ahlam said although she believes Manhattan handled the war with Iraq better than communities on both coasts, she knows there are closed-minded people who commit hate-based crimes in every corner of the country.

It was these people she feared.

She said she was thankful for the support she and her family received from friends and community members.

"I have people telling me 'we are here for you,'" she said. "They really stood for me through this period of time."

Abdulamir and her family hadn't intended to stay in the United States when they came. However, after the United Nations placed sanctions on Iraq after the Gulf War, they decided to stay so Abdulamir's husband could pursue his master's degree.

"We made very good friends in this community. There was a lot of support from the people, and they offered us protection in case something should happen to us. Thank God nothing did – people seem to understand here."

Mossa agreed the community was very supportive. She said she never felt comfortable living in Baghdad because she is Kurdish and a Shiite Muslim.

"This is like a second home to me, after Baghdad," she said. "Here I'm proud to say that I'm a Kurd, an Iraqi and an American."

Ahlam said she works day by day to deal with her fears. But the ache she feels for her country doesn't go away.

"To me, it's like rape. Somebody rapes your country, and I want to cover my face," she said.

"When I look on TV, I have this feeling that you'll never experience. These buildings I went in before, I walked through them. So when they bomb it – I had a strange feeling. It's as if my soul is there when they bomb it."

Ahlam said she doesn't understand people who can destroy other people and things.

"It's as if you are watching a very horrific movie," she said. "I don't know how people can do that, and destroy. I don't know how the people who plan to destroy the towers here, or the people who did the bombing in Iraq can do these things.

"I think they are a different type of human being. Not my type – definitely not my type."

Ahlam said in the chaos she encounters in the United States and the chaos her extended family tells her about, she strives to have a stable life, among other things.

"I want to see a just world," she said, her tone indicating that she believes someday she will. "I want to see justice – it's something that has been missing for a long time for Muslims and millions of others in our world."

3 more U.S. soldiers killed in Mosul, Iraq

By Mariam Fam
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MOSUL, Iraq – Iraqi teenagers dragged two bloodied U.S. soldiers from a wrecked vehicle and pummeled them with concrete blocks Sunday, witnesses said, describing the killings as a burst of savagery in a city once safe for Americans.

Another soldier was killed by a bomb and a U.S.-allied police chief was assassinated.

The U.S.-led coalition also said it grounded commercial flights after the military confirmed that a missile struck a DHL cargo plane that landed Saturday at Baghdad International Airport with its wing aflame.

Nevertheless, American officers insisted they were making progress in bringing stability to Iraq, and the U.S.-appointed Governing Council named an ambassador to Washington – an Iraqi-American woman who spent the past decade lobbying U.S. lawmakers to promote democracy in her homeland.

Witnesses to the Mosul attack said gunmen shot two soldiers driving through the city center, sending their vehicle crashing into a wall. The 101st Airborne Division said the soldiers were driving to another garrison.

About a dozen swarming teenagers dragged the soldiers out of the wreckage and beat them with concrete blocks, the witnesses said.

"They lifted a block and hit them with it on the face," said Younis Mahmoud, 19.

It was unknown whether the soldiers were alive or dead when pulled from the wreckage.

Initial reports said the soldiers' throats were cut. But another witness, teenager Bahaa Jassim, said the wounds appeared to have come from bullets.

"One of the soldiers was shot under the chin and the bullet came out of his head. I saw the hole in his helmet. The other was shot in the throat," Jassim said.

Some people looted the vehicle of weapons, CDs and a backpack, Jassim said.

"They remained there for over an hour without the Americans knowing anything about it," he said. "I ... went and told other troops."

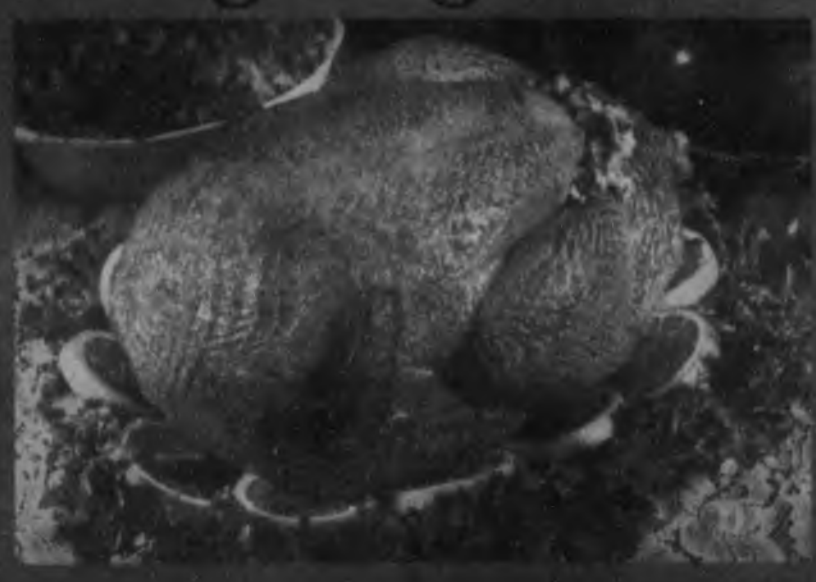
Television footage showed the soldiers' bodies splayed on the ground as U.S. troops secured the area. One victim's foot appeared to have been severed.

The frenzy recalled the October 1993 scene in Somalia, when locals dragged the bodies of Marines killed in fighting with warlords through the streets.

In Baqouba, just north of Baghdad, insurgents detonated a roadside bomb as a 4th Infantry Division convoy passed, killing one soldier and wounding two others, the military said.

In Baghdad, Brig. Gen. Mark Kimmitt confirmed the Mosul deaths but refused to provide details.

"We're not going to get ghoulish about it," he said.



The savagery of the attack was unusual for Mosul, once touted as a success story in sharp contrast to the anti-American violence seen in Sunni Muslim areas north and west of Baghdad.

In recent weeks, however, attacks against U.S. troops have increased in Mosul, raising concerns the insurgency is spreading.

Simultaneously, attacks have accelerated against Iraqis considered to be supporting Americans – such as policemen and politicians working for the interim Iraqi administration.

Do you need:
• Great Pay?
• Sales Experience?
• Flexible Hours?
• Outgoing?
Are you • Self motivated?
Apply NOW to work on the Collegian Advertising Sales Staff Spring 2004
Deadline is Monday, November 24th @ 4pm
Pick-up/Turn in applications in Kedzie 103 or call 532-6560 with any questions

Rusty's last chance
IN SHAWNEE, KANSAS
Weekly Specials
At Rusty's Last Chance,
Located In
Shawnee, Kansas
10901 W. 75th St.
*SPECIALS NOT VALID IN MANHATTAN
WEDNESDAYS
50¢ DRAWS
PITCHERS $2.75
THURSDAYS & SATURDAYS
$1 WELLS CALLS SHOTS
$1.50 BOTTLES
$2 BIG BEERS
FRIDAYS
IMPORTS $2.75
Come Visit Us In Shawnee, KS
During Your Thanksgiving Break!

Bob's DINER
Business as Usual
all day
all night
open for a traditional Thanksgiving Dinner

1103 N. 3rd 537-7778
24 hours a day 7 days a week

IN BRIEF

The Associated Press

Cameron Diaz blackmailed

Diaz

A photographer who allegedly used topless photos of Cameron Diaz in an attempt to extort $3.3 million from her must stand trial, a judge ruled.

John Rutter of Los Angeles is scheduled to be arraigned Dec. 8 on felony charges of attempted extortion, attempted grand theft, forgery and perjury.

"This wasn't simply a case of someone calling and saying, 'Hey, I just came across these photos from 11 years ago, do you want them?'" Superior Court Judge Michael Luros said Thursday. "This was someone saying, 'Pay me $3 million or else.'"

Clay Aiken's graduation

Aiken

It'll be pop and circumstance at UNC Charlotte's graduation ceremony next month, with Clay Aiken among the graduating class.

The "American Idol" runner-up will pick up his diploma Dec. 20, his publicist said. And for only the second time in the school's seven-year history, graduation guests must have tickets to attend. Each ticket will be printed with a bar code and scanned at the door to prevent the use of counterfeits.

The university already has heard from television entertainment shows interested in attending, UNC spokesman Tony Hoppa said. School officials will meet next week to determine how to accommodate the media.

Real-life story of 'Radio'

James Kennedy, 56, who inspired the movie "Radio," is getting help from the film industry after a fire destroyed his home earlier this month.

Kennedy received $115,000 from "Radio" director Mike Tollin and Regal Entertainment Group executive vice president Greg Dunn at a ceremony Wednesday at T.L. Hanna High School.

The donation, to help Kennedy buy or build a new house, came from several sources, including "Radio" producers Columbia Pictures and Revolution Studios and star Cuba Gooding Jr.

THE CHARTS

Billboard Hot 100

Top 10

1. "The Black Album," Jay-Z.
2. "Tupac: Resurrection," Soundtrack.
3. "Beg for Mercy," G-Unit.
4. "Closer," Josh Groban.
5. "Shock'n Y'all," Toby Keith.
6. "Now 14," Various Artists.
7. "Afterglow," Sarah McLachlan.
8. "Kid Rock," Kid Rock.
9. "Try This," Pink.
10. "The Very Best Of Sheryl Crow," Sheryl Crow.

200 Top Albums

Top 10

1. "Baby Boy," Beyonce Featuring Sean Paul.
2. "Stand Up," Ludacris Featuring Shawnna.
3. "Hey Ya!," OutKast.
4. "Holidae In," Chingy Featuring Ludacris & Snoop Dogg.
5. "The Way You Move," OutKast Featuring Sleepy Brown.
6. "Here Without You," 3 Doors Down.
7. "Damn!," YoungBloodZ Featuring Lil Jon.
8. "Suga Suga," Baby Bash Featuring Frankie J.
9. "Walked Outta Heaven," Jagged Edge.
10. "Get Low," Lil Jon & The East Side Boyz Featuring Ying Yang Twins.

Art of songwriting

Musicians find inspirations in jam sessions and influence from other bands

By Courtney Duffield
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The thrill of performing often comes from originality.

"It's great when you get up and play one of your songs," John Cetchum, lead singer of Shark Week, said. "You have this feeling that all the hard work has paid off.

The crowd usually can tell when a band is performing one of their own songs.

"Most of the time you can tell when a band plays their own music," said Melanie Lester, junior in business and administration. "They just get really into it and have a lot of energy."

There are numerous methods bands use to write original music.

"Usually an idea manifests itself in someone's head," Cetchum said. "Then we get together, start with a guitar rift and go from there."

These jam session are helpful in creating lyrics, Cetchum said.

"As a singer lots of times I'll be inspired by what is being played," Cetchum said. "I'll just get an idea and go with it."

Cetchum said the hardest part about writing original music is that it has to be original.

"When you hear so many different types of music, it is almost impossible to not have it affect you," Cetchum said. "Say, for example, you like Pearl Jam. You might come up with a really cool song and play it for the rest of the band members, and they realize Pearl Jam's influence is coming through. You just have to be really careful not to copy others' music."

Fans can tell when a band has copied other bands, Lester said.

"So many songs seem to be similar today," Lester said. "I think it is really hard for a band not to copy a sound, because every band was influenced by another band. They just should never copy a song straight out."

When it comes to cover songs, different bands have different perspectives.

"We don't cover, partially because we can't ever agree on what material from other bands to play, and partially because we don't want to mess up someone else's work," Mike Haag, of The Clap, said.

Cetchum said the song writing process requires team effort.

"Doing it in a cooperative effort helps," Cetchum said. "It is a lot better than someone being a dictator."

Shark Week does not scrap songs after the first take, even if their audience doesn't like it, Cetchum said.

"Sometime when a person goes and sees a band for the first time and it is a new sound they have not heard before they may not like it, but if they go back and listen again a few more times, they may realize what the musician was going for," Cetchum said.

The crowd will let you know if they don't like a song, Lester said.

"People definitely let bands know when they don't like a song," Lester said. "I have been to shows where the music is not going over well and people just get up and leave."

Haag said often one part of a song might be kept and then put into a new song where it fits better.

"Later on we might realize that some part of a past song works better in a new song," Lester said.

Bands need crowd support for their music to be heard.

"I definitely think students should support the local bands," Lester said. "These bands work really hard to write their music and I am sure they appreciate it when we get excited and come to see them."

File photos

Housing and Dining delivers a meal to be thankful for

ON THE MENU

A weekly column that critiques restaurants or discusses the details of cuisine.

SETH BISHOP

It was with slight trepidation that the folks at Kramer Dining Center handed me a meal ticket across the counter. Thursday night was the date for their "Harvest Moon" Thanksgiving dinner, and I had come to sample their wares and pass judgment at my discretion.

In general, I have a rather low opinion about eating establishments in Manhattan. Of those I have reviewed, very few have emerged unscathed from my rebukes.

Possibly, this is the reason for their concern?

Or, as a former employee, do I harbor some long-carried grievance against management and have only been waiting for an opportune forum wherewith to give voice to said grievance?

In either case, the fears are unfounded. I harbor no ill will, and, in fact, as a former employee, am amazed at the level of quality Dining Services continues to operate, and, seemingly, with little to no thanks.

"Harvest Moon" was an exceptional dinner. Roast turkey breast, whipped potatoes, bread dressing, all smothered in giblet gravy. The menu alone starts your mouth watering.

Truly, everything tasted delicious. Not having to cook prior or clean afterwards made it doubly so.

According to Housing and Dining's Web site, Kramer serves about 1100 students.

I cook dinner daily for a family of 6 1/2, the half being our small dog.

Our family holidays max out with around 70 guests, but everybody brings something (to help the host and to ensure there's at least one thing on the table you can stomach).

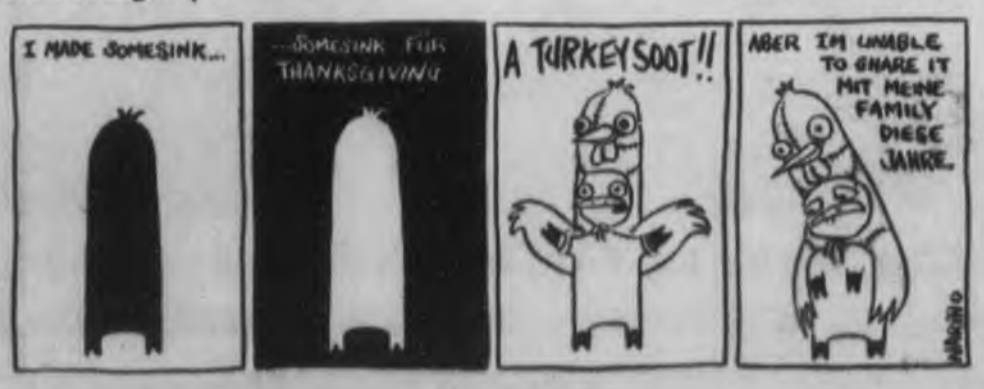
Once, in an overwhelming fit of naivete, I catered a wedding reception for 300 guests for a friend, as my wedding gift to them.

Understanding the scope of work required to serve up three square meals a day for 1100 is only attainable to those who have been involved in the process.

In retrospect, the daily planning for 6 1/2 is far more challenging than the other scenarios.

Culinary creativity stifled by "what's in it?"

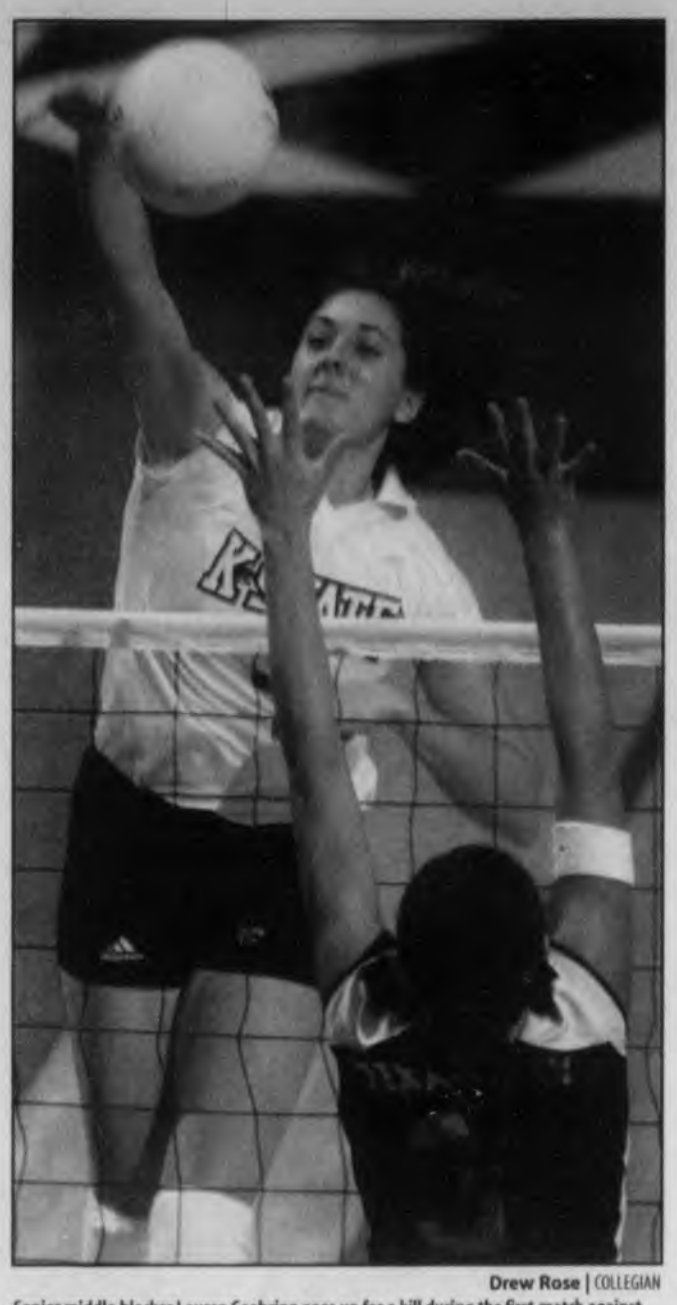
Dining Services does an admirable job.



It's true your mom does not attend K-State, but Dining Services at least makes your stomach feel close to home.

Enjoy your holiday break. Soak up the football and pumpkin pie.

But, by all means, take note of the haggard look on mom's countenance between helpings, and be truly thankful.



Seth is a graduate teaching assistant in math. You can e-mail him at sbishop@k-state.edu.

Herr Metzger | Julian Narino — www.herrmetzger.com

Puck | Kent Holle — kentramone@yahoo.com

Drew Rose | COLLEGIAN
Senior middle blocker Lauren Goehring goes up for a kill during the first match against Texas Tech on Saturday afternoon. The Cats swept the Red Raiders 3-0.

VOLLEYBALL | Netters reflect on Big 12 championship, look ahead to coming matches and postseason

Continued from Page 1

"It's exciting because it's been close and you could almost taste it, but now we've got it," Goehring said.

She added that this squad is the best one she's been a part of in her four years at K-State.

"We've had some great teams, but we weren't able to put it all together at the right time," Goehring said.

"I think this year it worked out very nicely for us, almost flawless."

Fritz, however, will decide where this team ranks in K-State history once the season is over.

"I'm very, very proud of them," Fritz said, "but it remains to be seen whether they're the best volleyball team we've ever had. They've got the opportunity ahead of them. They certainly have been tremendously successful, but it's kind of where we go from here."

The one blemish on the schedule – a 3-1 loss at Baylor – may have been the defining moment of the season.

The loss, Goehring said, served as a wake-up call and the Cats responded.

"I almost think it was good for us because I think we were getting a little cocky," Goehring said.

"It put us back in our place, and the taste was real bitter, so I think it pushed us through."

Even though they have clinched the conference title, the Cats still have two regular-season matches left. The quest for a number one seed in the NCAA Tournament, Fritz said, will begin when K-State hosts Texas A&M at 7 p.m.Wednesday.

"Even though we've won the conference, we still have two matches remaining – two very difficult conference matches. We need to play very well to secure our place in the tournament," Fritz said.

After their win over Nebraska on Nov. 15, the Cats knew they needed to win two of four matches to secure the Big 12 title.

Doing it in their first two games, Fritz said, takes away some of the pressure in the season's final two matches.

"It's a tremendous accomplishment to have wrapped it up with two matches remaining," Fritz said.

"It's a lot better than getting down to that last match of the year and having that last match be a have-to-win to win the conference. It does take a little bit of pressure off of us."

Now that the Wildcats have finally clinched one of their goals this season, Fritz said she hopes her team takes the distinction with them knowing how much they worked for it.

"It's been a long time coming and they've worked tremendously hard to earn it," Fritz said. "I hope they enjoy it for a lifetime."

WOMEN | Turnovers plague Cats

Nicole Donnert | COLLEGIAN
K-State's Chelsea Domenico drives past Western Illinois' Nicole Shafer during the Wildcats' win over the Westerwinds on Friday at Bramlage Coliseum.

Continued from Page 6

often against Western Illinois was a direct response to the Purdue loss.

"Nicole did a great job of showing that she wanted the ball," Patterson said. "Last week she was doing a lot of standing, a lot of looking. But tonight she was very focused on her job."

She and the rest of the Wildcats were also focused on defense. Employing a zone press throughout much of the game, K-State managed to force the Westerwinds into 35 turnovers.

"If you're going to turn it over as many times as we did, that's a problem," Western coach Leslie Crane said. "We handled the press well at times, but we weren't consistent. We panicked at times, and we just need to get better."

The press also helped K-State bolt to a 24-7 lead in the first half. The Westerwinds turned the ball over on eight consecutive possessions during that stretch.

"We worked on defense and keeping our hands up and moving when the ball is passed," Ohlde said, commenting on last week's practices.

Turnovers also plagued K-State, however. The Wildcats had 21 of them, which Wecker said must be cleaned up before K-State heads to the Jukanoo Jam Tournament in the Bahamas this weekend.

"I think we had 10 turnovers at the half, and that is entirely too many for us," Wecker said. "I'd attribute it to us and the mistakes that we made, rather than their defense. We were passive with the ball and made decisions too quickly."

Now the Cats are setting their sights on the tropics, and a first-round matchup with Arizona State, then the potential then exists for the Cats to play top-10 Penn State for the championship.

"We'll give them a little bit of fun," Patterson said of the trip to the Bahamas. "But our purpose there is to play two high-caliber basketball games."

FOOTBALL | Record rushing by Sproles and supporting efforts propel Cats into Big 12 title game Dec. 6 in KC game records for carries (43) and rushing yards (273). He also broke Aaron Lockett's career all-purpose yardage record by nearly 300 yards, and his own single-season rushing mark set last season.

Continued from Page 1

"It felt good," Sproles said, before adding, "but it's just another game."

It may have just been another game to Sproles, but to his position coach, Michael Smith, it was something more.

"If there's a critic about Darren Sproles, they're sick," Smith said of K-State's Doak Walker Award semi-finalist, an award given annually to the nation's top running back.

"The kid is great – it kind of all came to a head for him," Smith said. "For someone who works as hard as he does, to do this in front of the home crowd in a game that meant so much, you just hope he has that kind of game the next time we play."

On national television, Sproles stood alone under the spotlight. He accounted for 281 of K-State's 437 yards of offense, and helped the Wildcats rumble to 367 yards on the ground.

When quarterback Ell Roberson struggled, completing just 7-of-16 passes with an interception on a blustery night, it was Sproles begging for more chances.

"When it wasn't going for me, he said, 'I'll get it done for you,' and I love him for it," Roberson said. "He just did what he's done all year."

Sproles also overshadowed the seniors making their final start in front of the purple faithful.

After the win, it was Roberson and linebacker Josh Buhl leading the Wildcats in a parade around the stadium, thanking the fans who braved a 33-degree wind chill to watch K-State secure their spot in the Big 12 Championship game.

"It just tops off my season and my career," Roberson said. "The fans have been great and I've loved it here. I finished my last game like I wanted it. My team rallied around me and made it a sweet victory."

Sproles also overshadowed the defense, which held Missouri and its potent quarterback, Brad Smith, in check all game.

A turnover set up a two-yard touchdown in the first half, but otherwise, the defense shut the Tigers out until late in the fourth quarter.

Smith finished just 14-of-28 for 155 yards and threw a costly interception in K-State's end zone. He was also shut down on the ground, gaining just 26 yards on 16 carries.

"We played awfully well," Snyder said. "The first seven points shouldn't be credited to our defense. They played extremely well."

Cornerback Louis Lavender started in place of the injured Randy Jordan, and came up with that interception in the end zone.

Lavender was a starter early in the season before losing his spot to Cedrick Williams. Snyder said he was particularly proud of Lavender's return to the lineup.

"He played the entire game and played so very, very well," Snyder said.

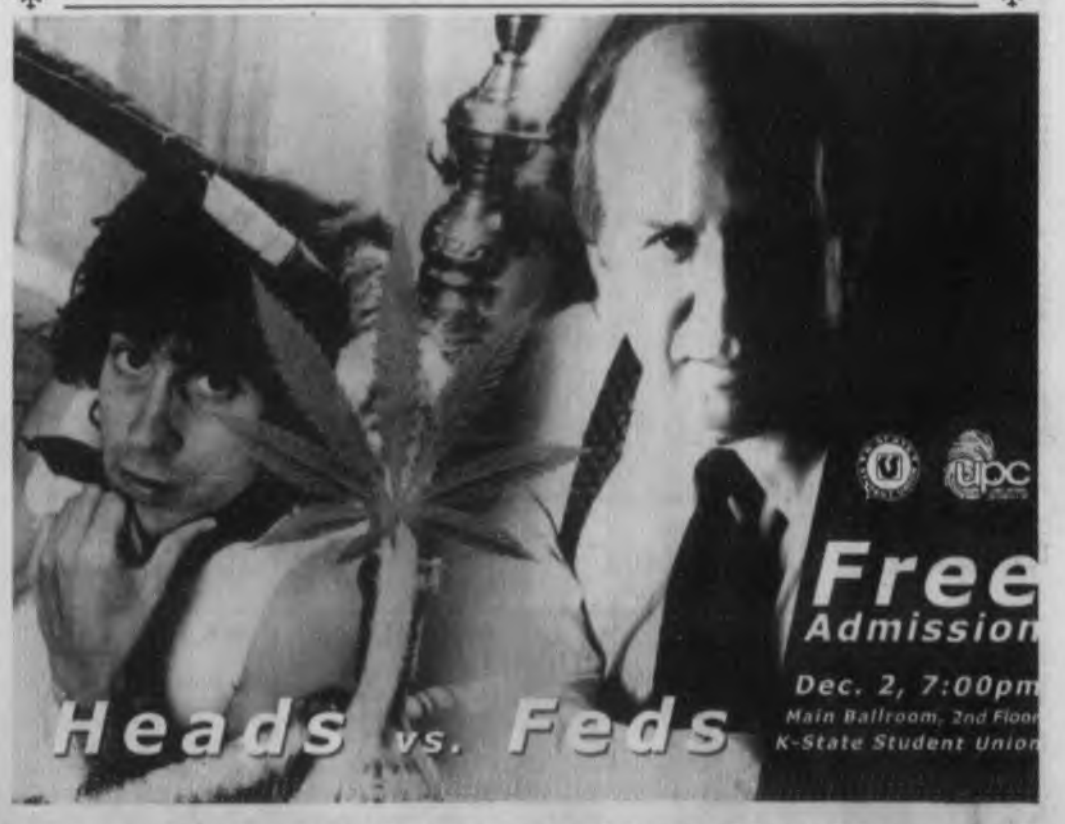
Snyder said the same of fullback Victor Mann, who started for the injured Travis Wilson. Both Wilson and Jordan are expected to return for the Oklahoma game, but the Cats didn't miss a beat with the replacements.

Mann helped pave the way for Sproles' dominating effort, and laid the road to Arrowhead Stadium and the Big 12 Championship game.

When everybody thought K-State was down and out, it was Roberson and Sproles, and less heralded players like Mann and Lavender, who buckled together to lead the Cats to the promised land.

"This team was flat on its back by most standards," Snyder said, "and yet bounced back. I was pleased with the way they responded."

Do you need: Great Pay? Sales Experience? Flexible Hours?
Are you: Outgoing? Self motivated?
Apply Now
Deadline is Monday, Nov. 24th @ 4 p.m.
to work on the Collegian Advertising Sales Staff Spring 2004
Pickup/Turn in applications in Kedzie 103 or call 5326560 with any questions



Boots, Hats, Jeans, Belts, Shirts, and much more.
Stay in style with our most popular brands! Wrangler, 20X, Levi's, Cinch, Cruel Girl, and Montana Silversmiths
Lee's Western Wear
If we don't have it, we will gladly special order it!
8424 E. Hwy 24 2 1/2 miles East of Manhattan
(785) 776-6715
Mon.-Fri. 10-6, Sat. 10-5
STOREWIDE SALE! 10% off all purchases thru Sat., Nov. 29

SalonSynergy UNDER NEW OWNERSHIP
110 N. 3rd St. 539-2009 (across from Mel's Tavern)
1/2 OFF Haircuts, Manicures and Pedicures (new customers only)
$15 OFF Any Color Service
Tues.-Sat. 10-7 :: Sun. & Mon. appointment only

Bobby T's
Monday Night Football Mega Blowout
50¢ Wings Biggest, Baddest, Best Wings in Town
10¢ Peel & Eat Shrimp 8-10 pm only
3 X-Box and PS/2 games competing at the same time
Pool Tourney 8 pm Monday Night Football
•Madden 2004
•Bingo
Win $475 CASH & Prizes
Win Madden 2004
$2 Domestic Bottles
$2 Wells & Calls
$5.95 Chicken Fried Steak
$2.95 Chili Dog

Look your best this holiday season!
Get rid of the damage this summer did to your face.
Microderm Abrasions
Glycolic Peels • Blue Peel
Enhance your appearance
Botox • Collagen
Skin care products available only through a physician
10% off with valid Student ID
Don't forget Holiday Gift Certificates are a perfect gift idea for those that have everything!
The Plastic Surgery Clinic, PA
Dr. Kenneth A Fischer
1133 College Ave., Bldg A Ste. 211
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785) 776.7500

FRESH, UNOPENED FILM
Priced 20% less than discount stores.
Deeper discounts when buying in volume.
Fujifilm Color 800 Speed 35mm $2.52 36 Exposures
$12.10 for 5 rolls
$23.95 for 10 rolls
Fujifilm Color 400 Speed 35mm $1.80 36 Exposures
$8.50 for 5 rolls
$16.75 for 10 rolls
Fujifilm Color 100 Speed 35mm $1.44 36 Exposures
$6.70 for 5 rolls
$13.15 for 10 rolls
Film SALE stock up now for the holidays
Purchase in 103 Kedzie 8-5 M-F

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

www.kstatecollegian.com

Monday, December 1, 2003

Vol. 108, No.69

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

2 Fort Riley soldiers killed in Iraq last week

Deaths come during deadliest month of war

By James Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The identities of two For Riley soldiers killed in Iraq were released during Thanksgiving break.

Josph Lister, 22, was killed Nov. 24 in Ar Ramadi, Iraq, and Thomas Sweet II, 23, was killed Thursday in Camp Junction City, Iraq.

The deaths bring the total number of Fort Riley soldiers killed during Operation Iraqi Freedom to 17.

One hundred coalition soldiers were killed during November, the deadliest month since the operation began. Six Fort Riley soldiers were killed in November.

Sweet died of non-combat related injuries. The incident is under investigation.

Sweet, of Bismarck, N.D., was a member of service battery, 1st Battalion, 5th Field Artillery, 1st Brigade, 1st Infantry Division.

He joined the Army in May 1999 and has been stationed at Fort Riley since October of that year.

Lister, of Pleasanton, Kan., died when his convoy was hit by an improvised explosive device. The incident is under investigation.

He was a member of Company B, 1st Battalion, 34th Armor, 1st Brigade, 1st Infantry Division.

He joined the army in August 1999 and has been stationed at Fort Riley since July 2002.

Both men were deployed to Iraq in September.

U.S. soldiers kill 46 Iraqis in firefight

By Niko Price
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BAGHDAD, Iraq – In the deadliest reported firefight since the fall of Saddam Hussein's regime, U.S. soldiers fought back coordinated attacks Sunday using tanks, cannons and small arms in running battles throughout the northern city of Samarra. The troops killed 46 Iraqi fighters, and five Americans were wounded.

Minutes later, two South Korean contractors were killed nearby in a roadside ambush in what U.S. officials called a new campaign aimed at undermining international support for the U.S.-led occupation of Iraq. Attacks on Saturday killed seven Spaniards, two Japanese diplomats and a Colombian oil worker.

Lt. Col. William MacDonald of the 4th Infantry Division said attackers, many wearing uniforms of Saddam's Fedayeen militia, opened fire simultaneously on two U.S. supply convoys on opposite sides of Samarra.

After barricading a road, the attackers opened fire from rooftops and alleyways with bombs, small arms, mortars and rocket-propelled grenades, he said. U.S. troops

See FIREFIGHT Page 8

Late-night laundry

Nicole Donnert | COLLEGIAN

Pam Marks, of Manhattan, kisses her husband Tom as he interrupts her game of one-handed solitaire to talk while the Marks family waits for their laundry to get done at Sud's Y'r Dud's Laundromat on Tuesday night. The Marks, who usually do their laundry at home, needed to get a large amount of laundry done before their trip during Thanksgiving weekend.

Washing and drying not the only things going on at the Laundromat

By Sarah Rice
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Abby Wright pulls up to Suds Y'r Duds and drags in a bright pink laundry bag along with three half-empty bottles of detergent.

She heaves the bag on top of the washing machine and begins pulling out Army fatigues. The roar of the machine sounds as she drops her quarters into the slot.

Next to the row of dryers under fluorescent lights, Pam Marks leans her elbows on the long table as she plays one-handed solitaire. Seven of the dryers are full of her family's clothes.

"We're going on a trip tomorrow, and we had a huge amount to do," Marks said. "My teenage daughter doesn't like to do her laundry regularly, so I scooped it all up and brought it all here."

As she laments, her 15-year-old daughter, Kat, and husband, Tom, enter the laundromat, which has the thick smell of detergent and dryer sheets.

"I need him for the manpower, and they're her clothes, so she has to come and suffer," Pam says.

Kat and Tom Marks retire to a corner of the laundromat with books and a sketch pad.

Meanwhile, Wright pulls off her black stocking hat, pats down the static in her hair and sits down to do her homework.

This routine is a part of her life at least twice a week. Wright, freshman in computer science, doesn't mind coming to the laundromat. It might be cheaper, she says.

"I think it costs more in your house now. If you think about it, you don't have the electric and water bill."

Wright not only has her own laundry to do, but her husband's Army uniforms have to be washed at least once a week.

Nicole Donnert | COLLEGIAN

Kat Marks, 15, right, of Manhattan, leans against the table covered with her family's clean clothes while her mother Pam gets trash bags filled with laundry ready to put into the car. Kat and Pam listen as Laundromat patron Abby Wright tells stories from when she lived in Alaska.

"My husband's in the military. Yeah, he watched "Black Hawk Down," and it all went downhill from there," Wright says.

Originally from San Diego, Calif., Wright and her husband moved to Alaska before Fort Riley.

She usually does her laundry in Junction City, Kan., where she lives, but arrived too late on this night.

"She told me the last wash was at 9, and I got there at 9:03," Wright said. "She kicked me out. I think it's the black beanie. That has to be it."

See LAUNDROMAT Page 8

Student tickets for Big 12 Championship go on sale Tuesday

By David Skretta
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

After more than a week of Dr. Pepper Big 12 Championship tickets on sale, K-State students finally get their chance.

K-State Athletics Director Tim Weiser announced an allotment of 500 tickets will be made available to students on a first-come, first-served basis beginning at 8 a.m. Tuesday at the Athletic Ticket Office in Bramlage Coliseum.

"As was done for the 2000 Big 12 Championship game in Kansas City, we will make certain students again have an opportunity to purchase tickets," Wesier said in a prepared statement.

If you go
Big 12 Championship tickets

How many: 500 available
When: 8 a.m. Tuesday, lines can begin forming at 6 a.m.
Where: Bramlage Coliseum Ticket Office.
How much: $70.
What you need: Student ID (limit two IDs per individual); must be season ticket holder.

Tickets are $70, and only students who held season tickets are eligible for a Big 12 championship ticket. Students must have a student ID and may present a maximum of two IDs per individual.

Students may begin lining up at the ticket office no earlier than 6 a.m., and will not be allowed on KSU Sports Complex property until that time. K-State Police will assist Bramlage officials in monitoring this policy.

"We certainly want to have Arrowhead bathed in purple," Weiser said. "Unfortunately, demand for tickets to this event exceeds our allocation."

K-State's allocation of 8,500 tickets went on sale to Ahearn Foundation donors last week, and all tickets are expected to be sold.

The No. 13 Wildcats play No. 1 Oklahoma Dec. 6 at Arrowhead Stadium, a rematch of the 2000 Big 12 Championship game which the Sooners won, 27-24.

INSIDE

Volleyball team lands No. 6 seed and hosting honors for NCAA Tournament.

Sports, Page 6

HEADLINES

The Associated Press

Sniper testimony
Convicted sniper mastermind John Allen Muhammad could find himself in another courtroom this week, this time as a witness in the trial of his alleged partner in crime, 18-year-old. Malvo's lawyers have subpoenaed Muhammad and plan to call him to the stand this week.

Muhammad

Guantanamo prisoners
More than 100 prisoners will be transferred in the next two months from the U.S. jail in Cuba, including a teenager who allegedly killed an American special operations soldier. The first of two new transfers is scheduled for the end of December, and the other in January.

Bombing suspects
Syria handed over 22 suspects to Turkey on Sunday in connection with four deadly suicide bombings in Istanbul, the semiofficial Anatolia news agency reported. The suspects, all Turks, reportedly fled the country after the attacks, which killed 61 people.

Al-Qaeda captured
American forces have captured three members of Osama bin Laden's terrorist network in northern Iraq, a U.S. military commander told The Associated Press on Sunday. If confirmed, it would be the first disclosed detention of al-Qaeda militants in Iraq.

DON'T FORGET

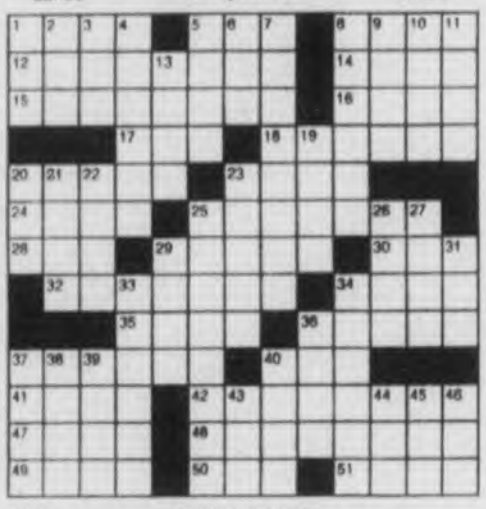
- Tickets for WinterDance are now on sale at the McCain Box Office. Cost is $7 for students and $11 for the general public.
- There will be a Festival of Nations from noon to 1 p.m. today in the Union Courtyard. The theme is "Celebration of Holidays."
- The Mayor's Christmas parade begins with the lighting of the tree at 5:30 tonight at Manhattan Town Center.

Weather

Today: Mostly sunny 49 | 30
Tuesday: Few showers 51 | 34

Claflin Books and Copies
1814 Claflin Rd. (785) 776-3771
www.claflinbooks.com Fax: (785) 776-1009

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer



ACROSS
1 Comment re Yorick
5 German article
8 Wound reminder
12 Mad Tea Party invitee
14 "Battle Hymn of the Republic" penner
15 Dry, crisp bread
16 Lotion additive
17 Chatroom chortling
18 "...fear is fear —"
20 Ahab's obsession
23 Gordian puzzle
24 Pianist Dame Myra
25 Abducts
28 Bullring bravo
29 Young mare
30 Lummox
32 Moral tale
34 Story-telling dance
35 Eye part
36 Heat-resistant glassware
37 Two trios and a soloist?
40 Potential syrup
41 Waikiki wing-ding
42 Summer squash
47 Mel melody
48 Arcane
49 Survey
50 Part of DJIA
51 Scruff

DOWN
1 Wood-shaping tool
2 Despondent
3 "Exodus" character
4 Olfactory stimuli
5 Two-way
6 Keyboard key
7 Take up with an old flame
8 Daisy variety
9 "Mona Lisa" singer
10 MPs' quarry
11 Complaint
13 A wood-wind
19 Theater award
20 Personal question?
21 "Mayday!"
22 "Into — of dew"
23 Slays
25 Gave unwanted advice
26 Rain cats and dogs
27 Post-Christmas event
29 Cabbie's due
31 Office trans-mission
33 Ceremony
34 If you break your word, use this
36 Treaty
37 Rebuff a masher
38 100 cents, overseas
39 Sandbox toy
40 Garbage barge
43 Mil. entertainer
44 401(k) alternative
45 Pinch
46 Lemieux milieu

Solution time: 27 mins.

Monday's answer

12-1

CRYPTOQUIP

JBA OYUPT ZOJXMWMDAX, EBAW ZOTAK EBZJ Z GYZWAJ EZO, XAGYUAK "WM PMDAJ."

Monday's answer: WHICH FAMOUS ACTOR LIKES ORDERING STEAMED MILK WITH HIS COFFEE? AL CAPPUCCINO.

Today's Cryptoquip Clue: J equals T

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 1! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to CryptoClassics Book 1, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475

The Cryptoquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.

© 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

IN RETROSPECT

WORLD IN REVIEW: 7 THINGS YOU DIDN'T KNOW 7 DAYS AGO

Iraq: the right stuffing

Anja Niedringhaus | THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President George W. Bush carries a platter of turkey and fixings as he visits U.S. troops for Thanksgiving Thursday in Baghdad.

Staff and wire reports

Wartime requires extreme measures, and so, to attract soldiers to a Thanksgiving dinner in a makeshift U.S. Army post at Baghdad International Airport, top officials resorted to celebrity disinformation.

They fanned rumors that country star Shania Twain would be at the event, accompanied by actor Nicolas Cage. When even that did not generate buzz in the barracks.

Word ended up to be that some administration higher up, maybe Vice President Dick Cheney, was the real attraction. Only the head of the Coalition Provisional Authority, Paul Bremer, and the tightest circle of insiders knew what was up: George W. Bush, flying aboard Air Force One, was the guest of honor.

The appearance was a public relations victory for the president and a morale booster for troops.

OUT OF GAS

Republican leaders in the Senate needed two votes to break a bipartisan filibuster, but they could not find them. So Republicans pulled the plug on energy legislation, which had been a top priority of the White House.

DeLay

Their surrender came after President Bush failed to budge Tom DeLay, the House majority leader, who insisted on granting legal immunity to producers of a gasoline additive blamed for water pollution, a provision that sparked considerable resistance.

SUSPECT RELEASED

The military announced that it was releasing Captain Yee, the former Muslim chaplain at Guantanamo, after confining him for nearly three months on suspicion of espionage activities. The military suddenly found itself vulnerable to the allegation that it had fecklessly taken aim at him because of his Muslim faith.

THE 2000 DIVIDE

She was the face of Florida's 2000 presidential recount. And now, Katherine Harris, former Florida secretary of state, contemplates leaping into a high-stakes, high-profile Senate race next year.

Harris

Surveys confirmed a Republican nightmare — that her presence on the ballot would drive Democrats to the polls.

LIFE AT GROUND ZERO

New York City's subway PATH train returned to the rebuilt station at the World Trade Center site.

A few cried as they gripped the station's latticework walls and stared at ground zero, but others just charged up the escalators to get to work.

NO SANCTIONS, FOR NOW

Iran got a stern rebuke by the International Atomic Energy Agency for concealing its nuclear program over 18 years. For now, though, it ducked the threat of sanctions by the United Nations. Nuclear inspectors return to Iran this week.

WATCH THE SALSA

A batch of bad scallions at a Chi-Chi's restaurant put the focus on Hepatitis A after the largest outbreak recorded in U.S. history has three dead and 600 infected. The short-term solution? Get the Hepatitis A shot that has been available since 1995.

The blotter | Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Monday, Nov. 24

- At 12:55 p.m., Rex Fortner, 2421 Timberlane Drive, was arrested for harassment. Bond was set at $250.
- At 3:30 p.m., Kyle Weyant, Lenexa, was arrested for criminal trespass. Bond was set at $500.
- At 5 p.m., Mark Garten, 5330 Thompson Rd, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $1,500.
- At 5:14 p.m., Philip Major, Junction City, Kan., was arrested for failure to appear and driving on a suspended license. Bond was set at $901.

Tuesday, Nov. 25

- At 12:29 a.m., Julian Williams, 2215 College Ave, No. G125, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $133.
- At 12:45 a.m., Kyle Weyant, Lenexa, Kan., was arrested for battery. Bond was set at $5,000.
- At 2:10 a.m., Brady Hanna, 4440 Tuttle Creek, No. 8, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
- At 3:15 p.m., Derek Braddock, 2500 Farm Bureau, No. 294, was arrested for probation violation. No bond was set.
- At 5:45 p.m., John Johnston, Topeka, was arrested for theft and criminal damage to property. Bond was set at $2,500.
- At 7:05 p.m., Heather Birdwell, 3802 Powers Lane, No. 37, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $100.
- At 7:45 p.m., Treasa Sylvester, 2121 Walnut, was arrested for battery. Bond was set at $750.
- At 8:30 p.m., Jacob Durrance, 2082 College Heights, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $500.

The planner | Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@spub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- KSU Aikido will conduct a martial arts class from 7 to 9 tonight in Ahearn 301.
- ECM Christian Explorers will hold their weekly worship service including a guest speaker at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday at the ECM Building, 1071 Denison Ave.
- "Listening to the Prairie: Farming in Nature's Image," an exhibition that teaches the history of the prairie and new farming approaches, is at Hale Library.
- The College of Business Administration's Study Abroad Advocates will host a "Last-Minute Studying Abroad Tips" seminar for business students going out in the spring at 5:00 p.m., Tuesday in Calvin 212.
- Occupational Therapy Club will meet Tuesday in Union 202.
- Entries for the Intramural 3-point shootout will be taken from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. today through Thursday at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex administration office.

Contact us

Kansas State Collegian
Kedzie 103
Manhattan, KS 66502
Display ads.....532-6560
Classified ads.....532-6555
Newsroom.....532-6556
news@spub.k-state.edu
Delivery problems.....532-6555

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor James Hurla at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@spub.ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291-020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.

© Kansas State Collegian, 2003

Little Caesars
HOT-N-READY pizza
$5.00 LARGE WITH PEPPERONI Carry Out Only
ALL DAY, EVERYDAY!
1150 Westloop • 539-3333

GIVE PLASMA GET CASH
Donate Plasma And Earn $45 this week
Save Lives & Earn Cash.
ZLB Plasma Services
1130 Claflin Gardenway
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785)776-9177 • www.zlb.com

PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER
"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting & adoption."
539-3338
Free pregnancy tests
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment
Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Lasting Impressions:
Print Portfolio of Contemporary Native American Artists and Prints of Jaune Quick-To-See Smith

On display through December 7, 2003
at the Marianna Kistler Beach Museum of Art
Come hear: Native American artist, Jaune Quick-To-See Smith
Tuesday, December 2 - 5:30 p.m.
Reception following the lecture.
Jaune Quick-To-See Smith
Portrait
Ghost Dance Dress 2001
Courtesy of University of Arizona College of Fine Arts School of Art
Beach Museum of Art
701 Beach Lane • Manhattan, KS
785-532-7718
Tues. - Fri. 10a.m. - 5p.m.
Sat. & Sun. 1 - 5p.m.
FREE ADMISSION
Sponsored by the Student Friends of the Beach Museum of Art and the Native American Student Association
Funded by UCA

A DAY OF HOPE
WORLD AIDS DAY 2003
Monday, December 1st
American Red Cross K-State Club presents a speech by Neil Willenson entitled Make Your Life Count: A Call to Action
Forum Hall at 5:00 p.m.
"An estimated 5 million people acquired the Human Immunodeficiency Virus (HIV) in 2002 including 2 million women and 800,000 children under 15." - Center for Disease Control
Funded by DPC

Worried about pregnancy after unprotected SEX?
Contact your heath care provider or Lafene for more information or contact;
National EC Hotline
1-888-Not-2-Late
(1-888-668-2528)
http://ec.princeton.edu
Paid for by Women's Reproductive Information Network (WRIN) Manhattan, KS
EC
Emergency Contraceptive Pills
The Best Kept Secret in the USA
Prevent Pregnancy Up to 72 Hours After Sex

Crops Team extends winning streak, wins 5th straight national competition

By Kristi Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A team like no other.

The K-State Crops Team has three members, but for the past five years, it has had to change its members every year.

It isn't because of lack of interest, but because once a person has placed in the top three at one of the two national competitions, the team must replace that member for the next year of competitions.

This year's team – consisting of Mike Epler, Chris Pachta and Cole Taylor – won the fifth straight pair of national competitions last week in Kansas City, Mo., and Chicago.

The competitions include three categories – grain grading, seed analysis and seed identification, have placed the crops team in first place at the national competitions.

Seed identification requires the team to have knowledge of plants or seeds.

They must properly name 200 species.

In seed analysis, competitors name weed seeds and acknowledge the same characteristics as a seed company would when certifying the seeds for sale to farmers.

The grain grading identifies grains used for U.S. exports.

Gerry Posler, crops teams coach and professor of agronomy, said the team has competed for at least 50 years, although he has coached for only 12 to 15 of those years.

"Basically, it is a matter of being committed. We spend a lot of time on this and want to be excellent. We all strive for perfection, and the mindset of the students is working hard."

Gerry Posler
CROPS TEAM COACH

Posler said the team moved on to nationals after winning the regional competition nine years in a row.

For every one of the regional wins, the team moves on to nationals.

Every year the team has won the regional competition, they have traveled to two different national competitions.

"Basically, it is a matter of being committed. We spend a lot of time on this and want to be excellent. We all strive for perfection, and the mindset of the students is working hard," Posler said.

The team practices twice a week for two hours. Team members are assigned crop samples similar to those given at competitions.

Lindsey Bauman | COLLEGIAN
Chris Pachta, junior in agronomy and member of the K-State Crops Team, practices early in November for crop judging national competitions last week in Kansas City, Mo., and Chicago. The team took first place at both competitions for the fifth straight year.

"They also get two hours of credit and plaques if they do well," Posler said.

Taylor, senior in agronomy, said this year's team hasn't done anything out of the ordinary.

"We do have to practice quite a bit, but we were expected to place first. Thanks to Posler, we have won both competitions for five years. We didn't do anything that no one else has," Taylor said.

Taylor said his involvement with the team started in high school.

"I had judged before, with a little different set up. I had gotten a lot of experience from high school, but my roommate last year was on the team. I knew about it and just went for it," Taylor said.

Pachta, junior in agronomy, said he gained experience through high school activities as well.

"I did FFA in high school and it gave me quite a bit of experience. Cole and I both did some related things," Pachta said.

Pachta said the Chicago competition was close in numbers.

"We only won by a little, but it is a great feeling that we won again. We sure didn't want to be the ones who broke the streak," Pachta said.

Missing teen's body found

ASSOCIATED PRESS

The death of a teenager who went missing Nov. 22 is being investigated as a homicide, authorities said.

The body of Esmeralda Gonzales, 15, who was last was seen just blocks from her home in central Hill City, was found east of town Nov. 24.

An autopsy was performed Friday, Graham County Attorney Tony Potter said.

"All indications are that she died from unnatural means," Potter said.

Potter said rumors that authorities already had arrested someone were unfounded.

"Law enforcement is still continuing the investigation. I understand everybody wants things to move at the speed of light, but we are going to do things correctly," he said.

Gonzales was the youngest daughter of Juan and Marsella Gonzales. She had three sisters and one brother and was a sophomore at Hill City High School.

Sebelius follows Truman

By John Hanna
ASSOCIATED PRESS

In 1948, facing a tough campaign for re-election, President Harry Truman decided to bedevil Republicans by calling a special session, set to start on what he said was "Turnip Day" in his home state of Missouri.

When the session failed to produce legislation on inflation, housing, civil rights or education, the Democratic president lambasted the "do-nothing Congress," controlled by Republicans and won his own race.

Fifty-five years later, Gov. Kathleen Sebelius, a Democrat also facing GOP legislative majorities, appears ready to embark on a similar strategy, with the funding of public schools as the issue for boosting her party in elections in 2004.

Sebelius spent part of her summer playing host to summits on education, and she's promised to propose a school finance plan to the 2004 Legislature. GOP leaders have appointed a school finance committee, but its timetable does not contemplate seeking major changes until 2005.

Almost since the state's 1992 school finance law took effect, education officials have complained that the state hasn't provided enough money. Some of them also complain that state does not distribute its dollars fairly.

"Something needs to be done to fix it _ we were told that over and over again," said Sebelius spokeswoman Nicole Corcoran. "The governor has been very clear that she does intend to have something."

Cleaning house?
Sell your stuff to students.
Kansas State Collegian • classifieds • 103 Kedzie Hall • 532-6555

The Wait is over! Your 2003 Royal Purple is here Pick it up! 103 Kedzie 8am-5pm

$7.99 ONE-TOPPING LARGE HomeStyle PIZZA
• NOT TOO THICK
• NOT TOO THIN
• CHOICE OF DIPPING SAUCE
-Marinara
-Ranch
-Garlic
AVAILABLE ONLY AT PIZZA HUT
$7.99 One Topping HomeStyle
• Aggieville 1121 Moro 539-7666
• Westloop 2931 Claflin 539-7447
• 3rd & Moro 231 Moro 776-4334
EXPIRES DEC. 23, 2003
•1/20 Cent Cash Redemption Value
Pizza Hut of Manhattan 2003
Pizza Hut

Bobby T's
Monday Night Football Mega Blowout
50¢ Wings Biggest, Baddest, Best Wings in Town 10¢ Peel & Eat Shrimp 8-10 pm only
3 X-Box and PS/2 games competing at the same time
Pool Tourney 8 pm Monday Night Football •Madden 2004 •Bingo Win $475 CASH & Prizes
Win Madden 2004 EA SPORTS
$2 Domestic Bottles $2 Wells & Calls
$5.95 Chicken Fried Steak
$2.95 Chili Dog

We deliver for FREE the latest!
Checks add 50¢
GUMBY'S Pizza & Pub
Call now! 770-3333
702 N. 11th Street
Sunday 10:30 a.m. - 2 a.m.
Mon. - Wed. 10:30 a.m. - 2:30 a.m.
Thurs. - Sat. 10:30 a.m. - 3:30 a.m.
Monday mania $3.99
•LARGE CHEESE PIZZA • MONDAY ONLY • CARRY OUT ONLY • TOPPINGS EXTRA•
BUY ONE POKEY STICK AT REGULAR PRICE GET ONE EQUAL OR LESSER VALUE FREE
stick it to me Tuesday
DINE IN•CARRY OUT OR DELIVERY • TUESDAY
Rock N Roll wednesday
50¢ Pepperoni Rolls/ pizza sauce/ ranch extra + tax.
$5.00 MINIMUM DELIVERY
DELIVERY•DINE-IN•CARRY-OUT
Must mention coupon when ordering Not valid w/ any other specia!
THURSDAY Mania
XL-16" Cheese Pizza $5.99
DINE-IN • CARRY OUT • DELIVERY
BONUS BUY
Add on to any regular order
10 Stix $2.99 12 Stix $5.99
10" cheese $3.99 4 Pizza Rolls $3.99
10 wings $3.99 2 Liter Pepsi $1.59
KISS MY BIG ASS SPECIAL
20" TOPPINGS EXTRA Cheese Pizza
Limited Time!!
ONLY $9.99 OR GET TWO FOR $18.99
THE DIRTY JOHN
One 14" One Topping Pizza, 2 Liter of Pepsi, PLUS Free Bread Sticks [NOT POKEY STIX]
Limited Time!! ONLY $10.99

FRESH, UNOPENED FILM
Priced 20% less than discount stores.
Deeper discounts when buying in volume.
Fujifilm Color 800 Speed 35mm $2.52 36 Exposures
$12.10 for 5 rolls
$23.95 for 10 rolls
Fujifilm Color 400 Speed 35mm $1.80 36 Exposures
$8.50 for 5 rolls
$16.75 for 10 rolls
Fujifilm Color 100 Speed 35mm $1.44 36 Exposures
$6.70 for 5 rolls
$13.15 for 10 rolls
Film SALE stock up now for the holidays
Purchase in 103 Kedzie 8-5 M-F

Quite possibly the perfect gift.
(It's even easy to wrap.)
Visa Gift Cards
Looking for the perfect gift? You can't miss with Visa® Gift Cards – they can be used virtually anywhere! They're more personal than checks, cash or store cards, and you can choose from a selection of designs. Designate any gift amount you want!
Ideal for all gift occasions:
• Holidays
• Birthdays
• Weddings
• Graduations
• Employee incentives
• Special thank-you gifts
Give a Gift Card!
intrustgiftcard.com
800-222-7458

INTRUST Bank is also the exclusive provider of K-State Platinum Visa Credit Cards and Check Cards.
yes you can INTRUST

TO THE POINT

Low number of student tickets discouraging

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Paul Restivo
Katie Lane
James Hurla
Abbie Whited
Edie Hall
Andrew Lawson
Dave Skretta
Rachel Krier
Corbin H. Crable
Chris Harrop

While athletics officials have stated their desire for Arrowhead Stadium to be "bathed in purple" for the upcoming Dr. Pepper Big 12 Championship game, their actions are speaking much louder.

Students were allotted a mere 500 tickets of the 8,500 total for the university – the rest were sold on priority. This allotment is far too little for some of the team's most devoted and vocal fans.

The setting of ticket prices by the Big 12 Conference – as much as $15 more than those available through Ticketmaster – also is reason for complaint from Wildcat faithful.

While it is possible for fans to get tickets in a number of ways and for varying prices, the difficulty for students to obtain tickets for the K-State section of the stadium is far too high.

It is honorable that K-State alumni and season ticket holders are rewarded for their devotion and donations to K-State athletics, but the degree to which they have been awarded priority does a disservice to students who frequent athletic competitions.

Students already must contend with the hustle and bustle of the holiday season – including upcoming final exams – and finding cash for holiday gifts. Being able to support fellow students in their attempt to secure a BCS bowl berth should not be the cause of so much trouble.

CAMPUS FOURUM
395-4444

Kappa Kappa Gamma — the only ones classier than the Classy Cats.

I bought the KSU tuba calendar, and now I have bad dreams about a chicken choking me in the middle of the night with cold hands.

My RA started dating his girlfriend because she looked like a man. I'm disturbed now.

Will it hurt my mouse if I put it in the fridge? It's optical — does that matter?

Whoops, she's my RA's girlfriend — and she looks like a man!

Please forward this message to Bob Stoops and all the other OU Sooners: You're gonna lose!

Bill Snyder? More like "The Man."

Elf Roberson? More like Harry Potter with eyebrows — the Quidditch master.

Since last June, Bush has attended 35 political fund raisers and Cheney 31. The number of funerals of soldiers killed in Iraq that they have attended remains at zero. Shows where the priorities lie, doesn't it?

I think the new nudity ordinance encourages pedophilia.

Man, with the new nudity ordinances, how many plumbers are going to get arrested for showing crack?

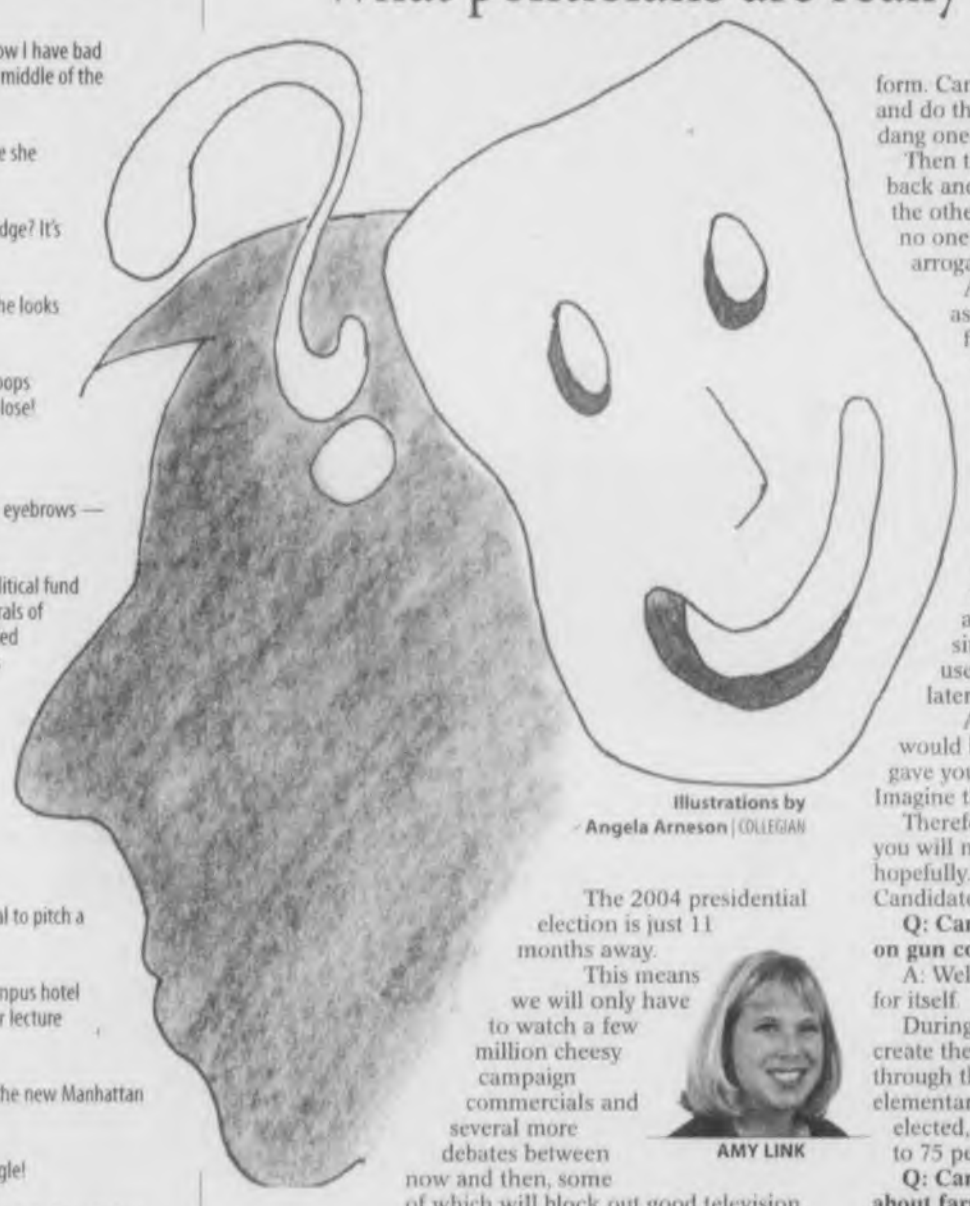
In the city of Manhattan, it is now illegal to pitch a tent in public.

Why is K-State so intent on building a campus hotel when we don't even have desks in all of our lecture halls?

Maybe SGA should adopt a resolution on the new Manhattan nudity policy.

Down with the Mercury! Up with the Eagle!

My boss just got activated and called up for duty to go to Iraq. You know, I'm starting to like this whole war business.



If someone calls the Fourum during Thanksgiving break and no one is there to listen, does it make a sound?

Hey, Jesse, I'd rather be three times more likely to be robbed than 163 times more likely to be killed by a gun

Not enough Fourum? Visit www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

Two-faced politics

What politicians are really thinking behind those masks

Illustrations by Angela Arneson | COLLEGIAN

The 2004 presidential election is just 11 months away.

AMY LINK

This means we will only have to watch a few million cheesy campaign commercials and several more debates between now and then, some of which will block out good television.

I should confess that I am actually one of those people who enjoy politics. What can you not love about "the show business of ugly people?" After all, politics is an art form. Candidates face questions every day and do their absolute best not to answer a dang one.

Then there are all the insults that fly back and forth, as each side tries to pin the other down as the instigator, because no one wants to be seen as mean or arrogant.

After all, they are just like us – assuming your father earns a six-figure income, sent you to an Ivy League school and gave you all the benefits that come with being in the upper class.

Still, I love politics, even as I sat watching the Democrats debate in Iowa.

I couldn't help but be mesmerized by the passion each candidate tried to convey while doing his or her best not to answer the question presented, since their answer may actually be used to hold them accountable later.

As I watched, I wondered what it would be like to have a candidate who gave you straightforward answers. Imagine that.

Therefore, I compiled a list of responses you will never hear this campaign season, hopefully. I've dubbed this person Candidate X.

Q: Candidate X, what is your position on gun control?

A: Well, Bob, I think my record speaks for itself.

During my term in the Senate, I helped create the Guns for Kids program, and through that, we were able to get half our elementary school kids armed. If I am elected, we will see that number increase to 75 percent.

Q: Candidate X, how do you feel about farm subsidies and supporting the small farmer?

A: Who? Oh, yes – small farmers. Well, they don't have much money, and there are certainly not enough of them left to have a strong voter bloc, so I say forget about them. Ag is over. Besides, we know they are the ones responsible for country music anyway.

Q: Candidate X, what is your position on gay marriage?

A: Let them get married. Why should heterosexuals be the only ones unhappy?

Q: Candidate X, how do you feel about racial profiling?

A: I am absolutely against it. We are not going to harass anyone based on race – just those who don't pray to Jesus.

Q: Candidate X, what should we do about Iraq?

A: Iraq is just like crack. They're both whack and way too expensive.

Q: Candidate X, unemployment is at all-time high and the economy has been dismal over the past months. What is to be done?

A: I'm rich! Who cares about those lazy people who can't find jobs?

Q: Candidate X, the increasing Hispanic population has led many candidates to reach out to this group of people. Do you think the Hispanic vote will be significant?

A: Oh, absolutely. Let me say I love Hispanic people. During my time in the Senate, I ate at Taco Bell once a week.

Obviously Candidate X is way out there, but wouldn't it be nice if the candidates told you exactly what they plan to do and what they know, and admit what they don't?

For those of you wanting to be informed without losing your ear, CNN has a great Web site at www.cnn.com/ELECTION/2004/special/president/issues/index.html.

This way, you can get to the real meat of the issue without having to sift through all the candidates' bologna.

Amy is a senior in print journalism. You can e-mail her at aml7555@k-state.edu.

Nudity ordinance vague, has negative effects

JESSE LOEWEN

One week ago, the Collegian ran a story on Manhattan City Ordinance sections 22-59, 22-60 and 22-61, a law designed to limit public nudity in this city.

The ordinance outlaws public exposure of the buttocks, anal cleavage, the breasts below the top part of the areola and all portions of the male and female genitals, and specifically bans men from having an erect penis, "...even if completely and opaquely covered," in public places.

The law then defines public places in such a way that public restrooms, locker rooms, dressing rooms, doctors' offices and similar areas are about the only place where one can expose oneself.

The maximum penalty for a display of public nudity is a $500 fine and/or six months in jail.

The law has three effects.

First, it effectively outlaws strip clubs, wet T-shirt competitions, mud wrestling and a dozen other events Aggieville bars might sponsor.

Wet T-shirts would not completely and opaquely cover the nipple and areola. Mud wrestling events would very likely result in at least one competitor winding up naked.

This greatly limits what kind of promotions and special events bars can put on to lure customers and definitely limits the student body's entertainment opportunities throughout the year.

Second, it severely restricts what clothing we can wear.

Obviously, jeans designed to expose a woman's anal cleavage have to go, as do Speedo brief bathing suits for men.

Granted, Speedos are disgustingly tasteless and cleavage jeans leave too little to the imagination, but the law still effectively outlaws quite a bit of what is considered acceptable women's attire by most students on campus.

How many women, when they sit down or bend over, expose some of their anal cleavage as the fabric of their pants shifts?

How often do our cheerleaders have to fix the wedgies their underwear gives them?

How many ladies wear thongs or G-strings to the pool?

How often do bikini bottoms ride up?

Due to the incredibly broad definition of nudity the law employs, K-State students now must adhere to a much stricter sense of modesty than was previously practiced.

The law effectively becomes a tool to enforce the conservative tastes of a select group of the Manhattan community, restricting the rest from wearing clothes considered acceptable by the majority of K-State's campus.

Third, it turns a normal physiological phenomenon into a crime.

Men get erections all the time. We cannot help it – our bodies do not ask our permission before doing what they are programmed.

Ask any man if he has ever gotten an erection on the way to school from the vibrations on the bus.

Ask any guy if he has ever pitched a tent while sitting bored in class. Ask any man who has taken a nap on the library couches if he has ever woken up with a case of morning wood.

The simple truth is men cannot completely control their members. The male erection is a response to any of a dozen different stimuli, such as the presence of a pretty lady, the vibrations on a bus or the need for sexual release.

If enforced, the new ordnance is effectively a tax on men for being men. It is a penalty for suffering the burden of a not completely controllable biological function.

What is this city ordnance? It is an attempt to restrict what goes on at bars and to enforce a code of modesty upon the younger and more liberal citizens of Manhattan, namely college students, and it is a penalty for being men.

I suppose that, instead of raising taxes, the next time Manhattan is running low on revenue, the police can stop by the high school and wait for the bus to drop the kids off.

Jesse is a senior in mechanical engineering. You can e-mail him at jesseloewenks@yahoo.com.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Paul Restivo | EDITOR IN CHIEF Katie Lane | MANAGING EDITOR

James Hurla NEWS EDITOR
Kelly Glasscock PHOTO EDITOR
Corbin H. Crable COPY CHIEF
Dave Skretta SPORTS EDITOR
Rachel Krier THE EDGE EDITOR
Chris Harrop ONLINE EDITOR
Abbie Whited CITY/GOV EDITOR
Andrew Lawson OPINION EDITOR
Jared Jaynes AD MANAGER
Edie Hall CAMPUS EDITOR
Dana Strongin WRITING COACH
Jenny Calvert ASST. AD MANAGER

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@spub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

TUESDAY'S OPINIONS

NASRINA WILLIAMS

Nasrina Williams offers some tips to students dealing with the last few weeks of academic stress.

M&Ms offer good snack food

ON THE MENU

A weekly column that critiques restaurants or discusses the details of cuisine.

SETH BISHOP

In the coming weeks, the 21,000 students at K-State will find themselves engaged in a common endeavor, a unifying pursuit of a goal so elusive, that success or failure will determine two very different paths for the future.

I speak not of the pursuit of knowledge that first led us to these hallowed halls, but the baser and infinitely more essential pursuit for the quintessential study-time snack.

Each of us must discover our own snack Muse – the snack that grants edification of the palate and gastronomic bliss, thereby allowing all energies to divert towards final examinations.

For me, it has always been M&M's.

M&M's originated in 1941 as part of GI food rations. Years later, as soon as my chubby infant fingers developed enough motor control to close around those candy-coated buttons, I had found my snack.

As youngsters, M&M's were our super hero pills, each color transforming us into a particular comic book super hero. (Too young to cow tip and too old to hunt snipe, rural Kansans are sometimes forced to develop their own entertainment). I remember browns made you Batman, but it was reds everyone wanted – the color of Superman.

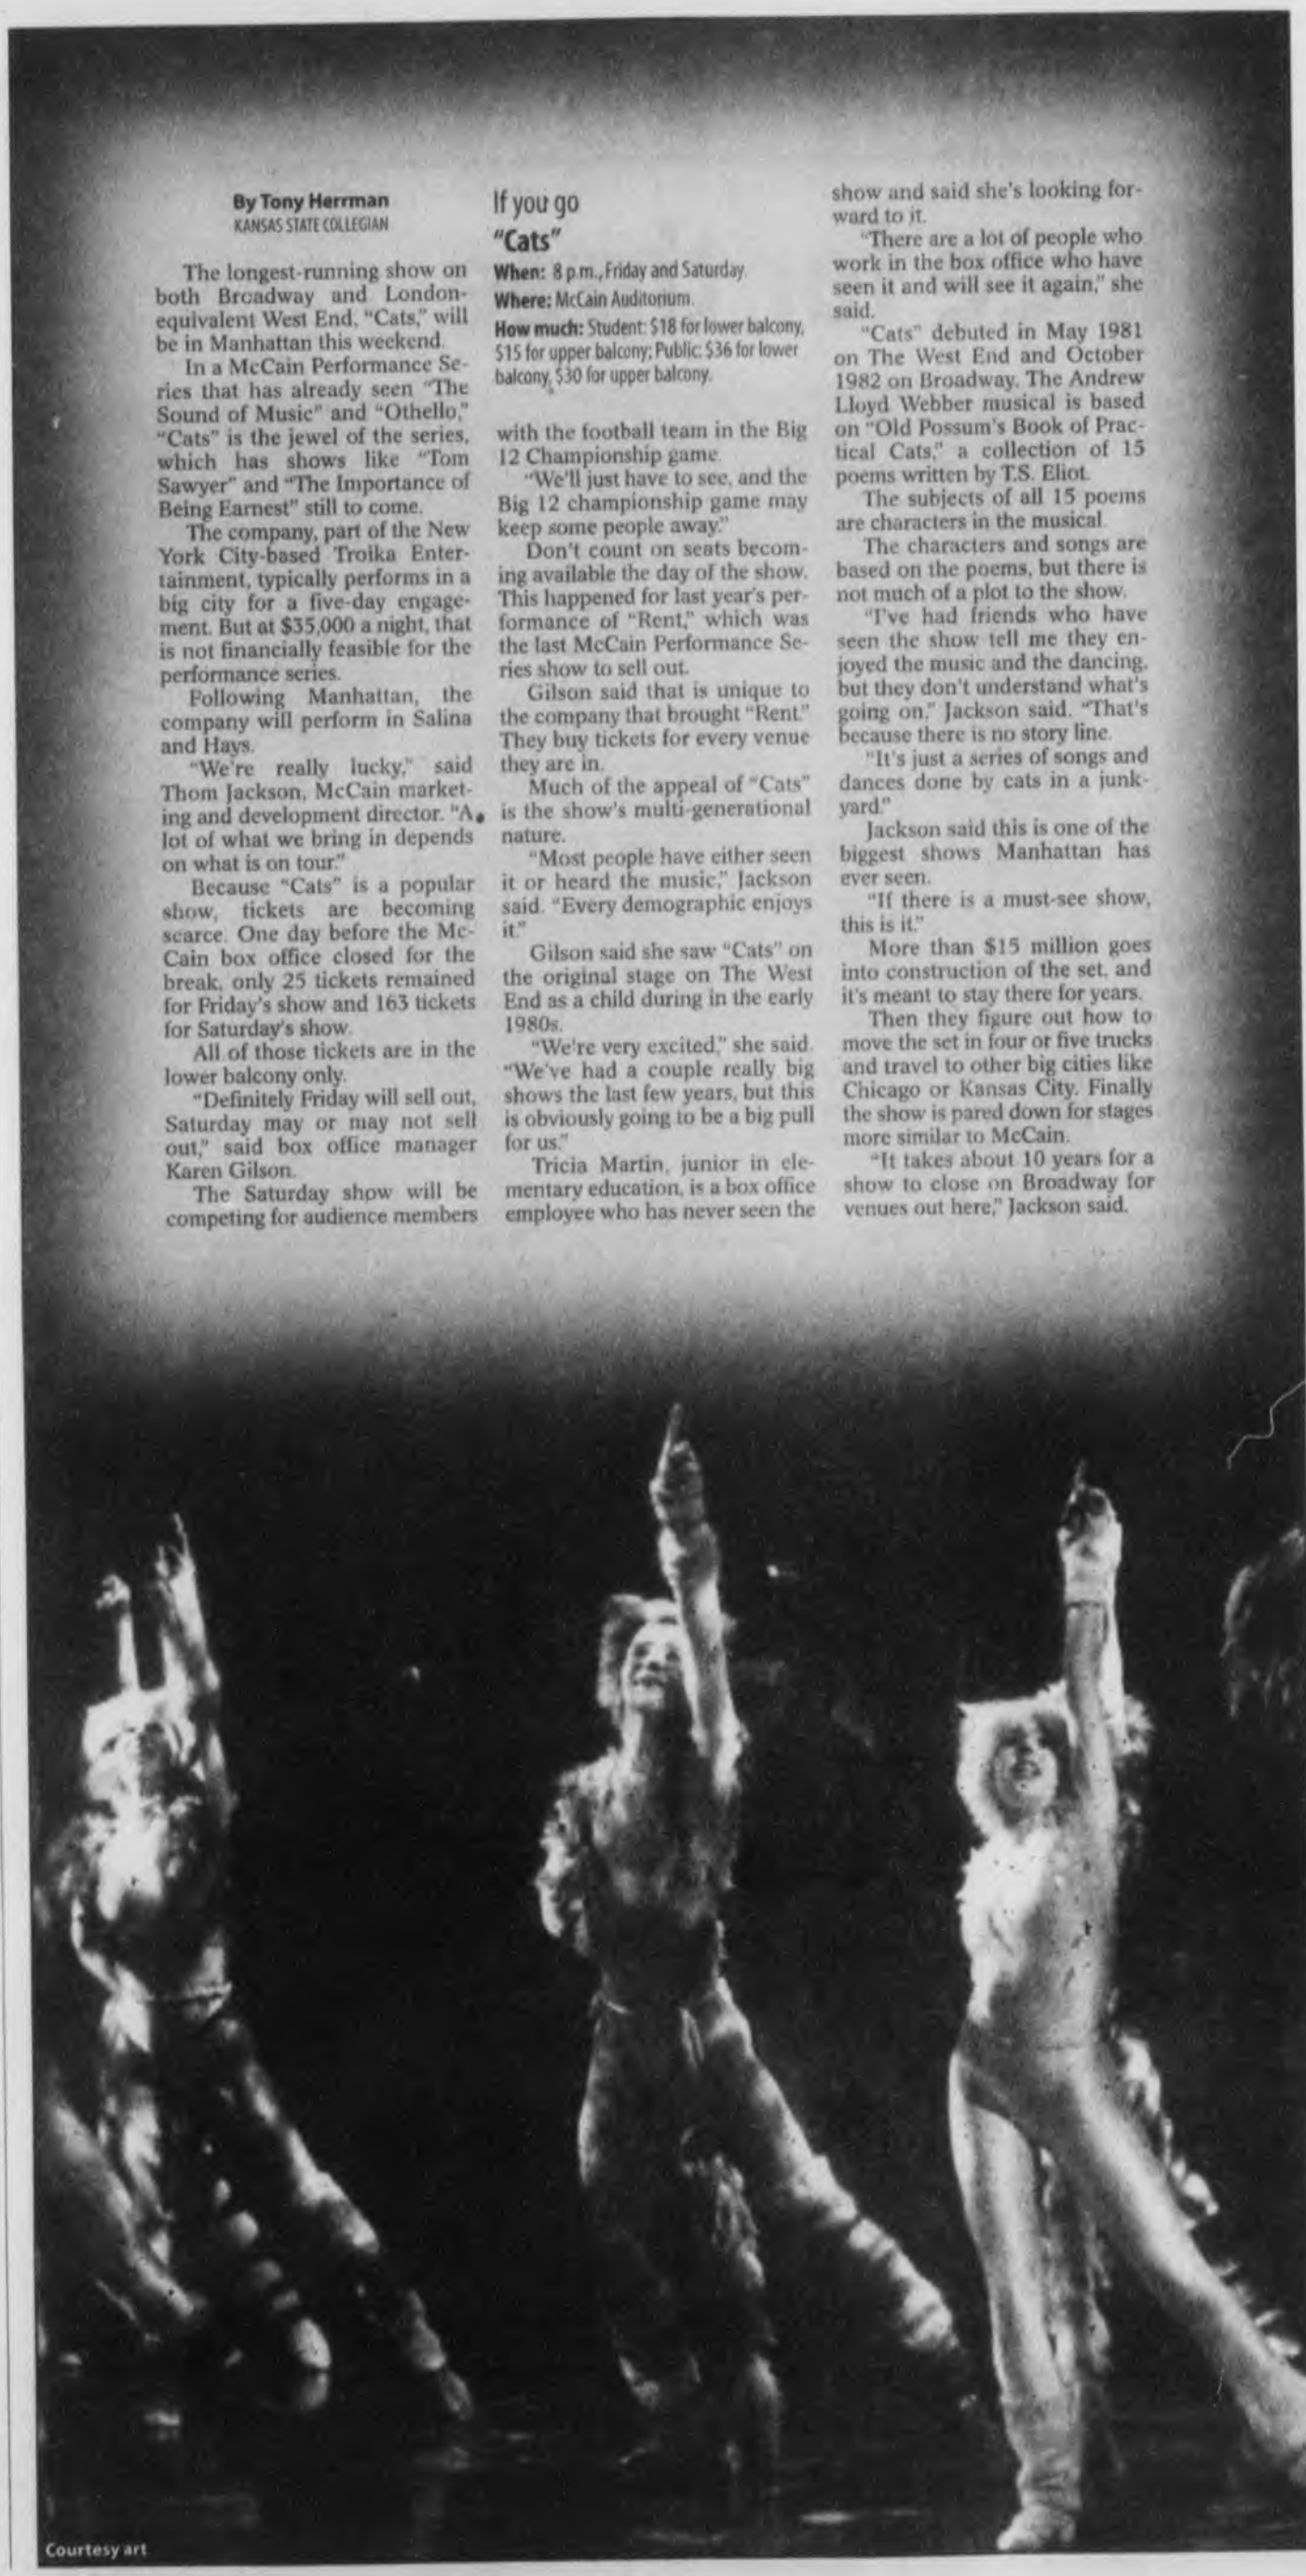
In 1976, there was a cancer scare concerning red food dye, and Superman disappeared from our list of options. Cosmic equilibrium was not restored until reds' re-emergence in 1987.

I e-mailed M&M/Mars recently with questions concerning their candies.

They have assured me that although reds were removed from the market, it was to avoid consumer confusion or misplaced concern. M&M/Mars never used the controversial dye to create M&M's.

Transformation into superheros is not normally the extraordinary "power" attributed to M&M's, but, according to the company, there is absolutely no evidence that any of the M&M's, especially green, have any special qualities.

And lastly, chocolate does have minerals such as lead in it, but, despite what was portrayed recently on the popular TV show, "CSI," food safety experts state a person cannot eat enough chocolate in a lifetime for these naturally occurring elements to be harmful.



Thus, with my snack Muse found and verified safe, I can turn all my attention toward finals.

Right after the movie.

Seth is a graduate student in math. You can e-mail him at sbishop@k-state.edu.

Send in the cats

Former Broadway fave debuts at McCain

Courtesy art

By Tony Herrman
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The longest-running show on both Broadway and London-equivalent West End, "Cats," will be in Manhattan this weekend.

In a McCain Performance Series that has already seen "The Sound of Music" and "Othello," "Cats" is the jewel of the series, which has shows like "Tom Sawyer" and "The Importance of Being Earnest" still to come.

The company, part of the New York City-based Troika Entertainment, typically performs in a big city for a five-day engagement. But at $35,000 a night, that is not financially feasible for the performance series.

Following Manhattan, the company will perform in Salina and Hays.

"We're really lucky," said Thom Jackson, McCain marketing and development director. "A lot of what we bring in depends on what is on tour."

Because "Cats" is a popular show, tickets are becoming scarce. One day before the McCain box office closed for the break, only 25 tickets remained for Friday's show and 163 tickets for Saturday's show.

All of those tickets are in the lower balcony only.

"Definitely Friday will sell out, Saturday may or may not sell out," said box office manager Karen Gilson.

The Saturday show will be competing for audience members with the football team in the Big 12 Championship game.

"We'll just have to see, and the Big 12 championship game may keep some people away."

Don't count on seats becoming available the day of the show. This happened for last year's performance of "Rent," which was the last McCain Performance Series show to sell out.

Gilson said that is unique to the company that brought "Rent." They buy tickets for every venue they are in.

Much of the appeal of "Cats" is the show's multi-generational nature.

"Most people have either seen it or heard the music," Jackson said. "Every demographic enjoys it."

Gilson said she saw "Cats" on the original stage on The West End as a child during in the early 1980s.

"We're very excited," she said. "We've had a couple really big shows the last few years, but this is obviously going to be a big pull for us."

Tricia Martin, junior in elementary education, is a box office employee who has never seen the show and said she's looking forward to it.

"There are a lot of people who work in the box office who have seen it and will see it again," she said.

"Cats" debuted in May 1981 on The West End and October 1982 on Broadway. The Andrew Lloyd Webber musical is based on "Old Possum's Book of Practical Cats," a collection of 15 poems written by T.S. Eliot.

The subjects of all 15 poems are characters in the musical.

The characters and songs are based on the poems, but there is not much of a plot to the show.

"I've had friends who have seen the show tell me they enjoyed the music and the dancing, but they don't understand what's going on," Jackson said. "That's because there is no story line.

"It's just a series of songs and dances done by cats in a junkyard."

Jackson said this is one of the biggest shows Manhattan has ever seen.

"If there is a must-see show, this is it."

More than $15 million goes into construction of the set, and it's meant to stay there for years.

Then they figure out how to move the set in four or five trucks and travel to other big cities like Chicago or Kansas City. Finally the show is pared down for stages more similar to McCain.

"It takes about 10 years for a show to close on Broadway for venues out here," Jackson said.

If you go
"Cats"

When: 8 p.m., Friday and Saturday.
Where: McCain Auditorium.
How much: Student: $18 for lower balcony, $15 for upper balcony; Public: $36 for lower balcony, $30 for upper balcony.

IN BRIEF

The Associated Press

Celebrity AIDS benefit

Knowles

Beyoncé Knowles, Bono, Peter Gabriel and other musicians from around the world performed Saturday for an AIDS benefit concert hosted by former South African President Nelson Mandela.

More than 30,000 people filled Cape Town's Greenpoint Stadium for the show, part of Mandela's 4666-4 campaign to fight AIDS, named after his number when he was imprisoned for his fight against apartheid.

"For the 18 years that I was in prison on Robben Island, I was supposed to be reduced to that number," Mandela said. "Millions infected with HIV/AIDS are in danger of being reduced to mere numbers if we don't act now. They are serving a prison sentence for life."

The concert — broadcast live by the South African Broadcasting Corporation's Africa channel and on the Internet — is part of an appeal to governments to declare a global AIDS emergency.

Michael Jackson scandal

Jackson

Michael Jackson has donated to so many charities that the Guinness Book of World Records in 2000 listed him as the world record holder for "most charities supported by a pop star."

Now, as the singer faces new allegations of child molestation, charities, schools and even cities that benefited or hoped to benefit from his largesse are reconsidering their affiliation with the "King of Pop."

Others say they will distance themselves only if Jackson is convicted of a crime.

Despite concerns by sponsors and other groups, the allegations shouldn't hurt Jackson's popularity if he escapes prosecution or is acquitted once charges are brought, said Mary Hall Ross, president and founder of The Ross Group in Santa Monica, Calif., which specializes in celebrity endorsements.

THE CHARTS

Billboard Hot 100

Top 10

1. "Baby Boy," Beyonce Featuring Sean Paul.
2. "Stand Up," Ludacris Featuring Shawnna .
3. "Hey Ya!," OutKast.
4. "Holidae In," Chingy Featuring Ludacris & Snoop Dogg.
5. "The Way You Move," OutKast Featuring Sleepy Brown.
6. "Here Without You," 3 Doors Down.
7. "Damn!," YoungBloodZ Featuring Lil Jon.
8. "Suga Suga," Baby Bash Featuring Frankie J.
9. "Walked Outta Heaven" Jagged Edge.
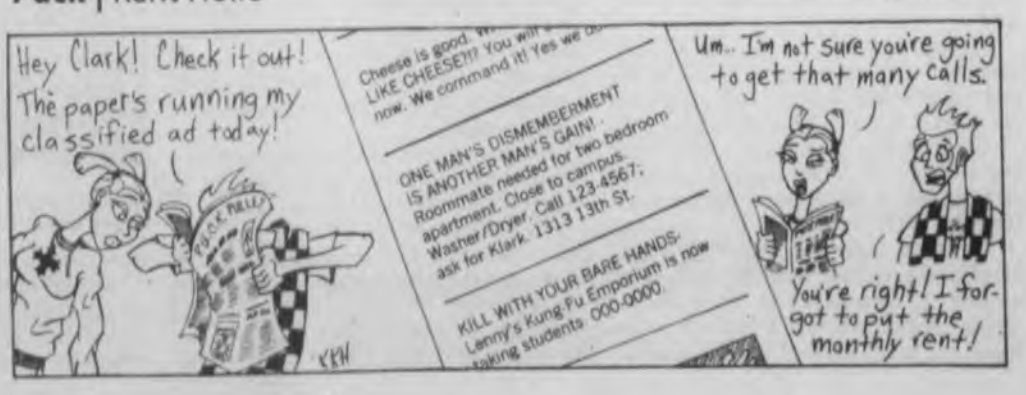
10. "Get Low," Lil Jon & The East Side Boyz Featuring Ying Yang Twins.

200 Top Albums



Top 10

1. "The Black Album," Jay-Z.
2. "Tupac: Resurrection," Soundtrack.
3. "Beg For Mercy," G-Unit.
4. "Closer," Josh Groban.
5. "Shock'n Y'all," Toby Keith.
6. "Now 14," Various Artists.
7. "Afterglow," Sarah McLachlan.
8. "Kid Rock," Kid Rock.
9. "Try This," Pink.
10. "The Very Best Of Sheryl Crow," Sheryl Crow.

Herr Metzger | Julian Narino — www.herrmetzger.com

Puck | Kent Holle — kentramone@yahoo.com

Cats lose to No. 7 Penn State in the Bahamas

By David Skretta
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The women's basketball team didn't lose its second game until Jan. 29 last season.

It didn't take nearly as long this year.

Behind 23 points from Tanisha Wright, No. 7 Penn State rolled past No. 9 K-State 69-56 in the championship game of the Junkanoo Shootout Saturday in Freeport, Bahamas.

The Wildcats lost to then-No. 7 Purdue on Nov. 16.

K-State (2-2) led 26-19 late in the first half before the Nittany Lions (3-1) went on a 12-0 streak for a 31-26 halftime advantage. Penn State scored 19 points off 12 K-State turnovers during that stretch.

"At the 4:36 mark in the first half we started to waste some offensive possessions," Coach Deb Patterson said. "Coupled with some turnovers, we could never recover from that."

All-American Kelly Mazzante scored 15 for the Lions, which lost to K-State in the final of the Preseason WNIT last season.

"Revenge is sweet and we definitely talked about it a lot," said guard Jess Strom, who had 15 points and six assists. "That was a bad game for us last year and we just wanted to come back and prove they are not better than us."

Nicole Ohlde led K-State with 15 points and 11 rebounds despite being hampered by an ankle injury sustained in K-State's 59-50 win over Arizona State in the tournament's opening round.

Megan Mahoney also scored 15 for the Wildcats, but turned the ball over six times to just one assist, while Kendra Wecker added 13 points and 10 rebounds.

K-State was outshot 34.5 percent to 43.4 percent for the game, and hit just 23.8 percent of its 3-point baskets.

Using a press similar to the one that frustrated Western Illinois on Nov. 21, Penn State was able to slip through at will. Lions turned the ball over just six times in the game.

"We decided just to attack their press, and I was able to dribble through it," Strom said.

— The Associated Press contributed to this story.

Three for three

Last minute 3-pointer lifts unbeaten men's basketball team to third consecutive victory

By Louie Novak
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The men's basketball team is 3-0 for the first time since the 1998-99 season, thanks to the play of senior guard Jarrett Hart.

Hart came through in the final seconds of Saturday night's game against Gardner-Webb with a clutch 3-pointer from the left wing with 0.4 seconds remaining to propel K-State past the Bulldogs 68-65 at Bramlage Coliseum.

"I was just trying to get in position where Dez Willingham could find me without having to reach around somebody," Hart said. "It was a low pass, so I had to get down. I knew I had to let it go because the clock was winding down. I was in the right place at the right time, and I'm blessed that it went in."

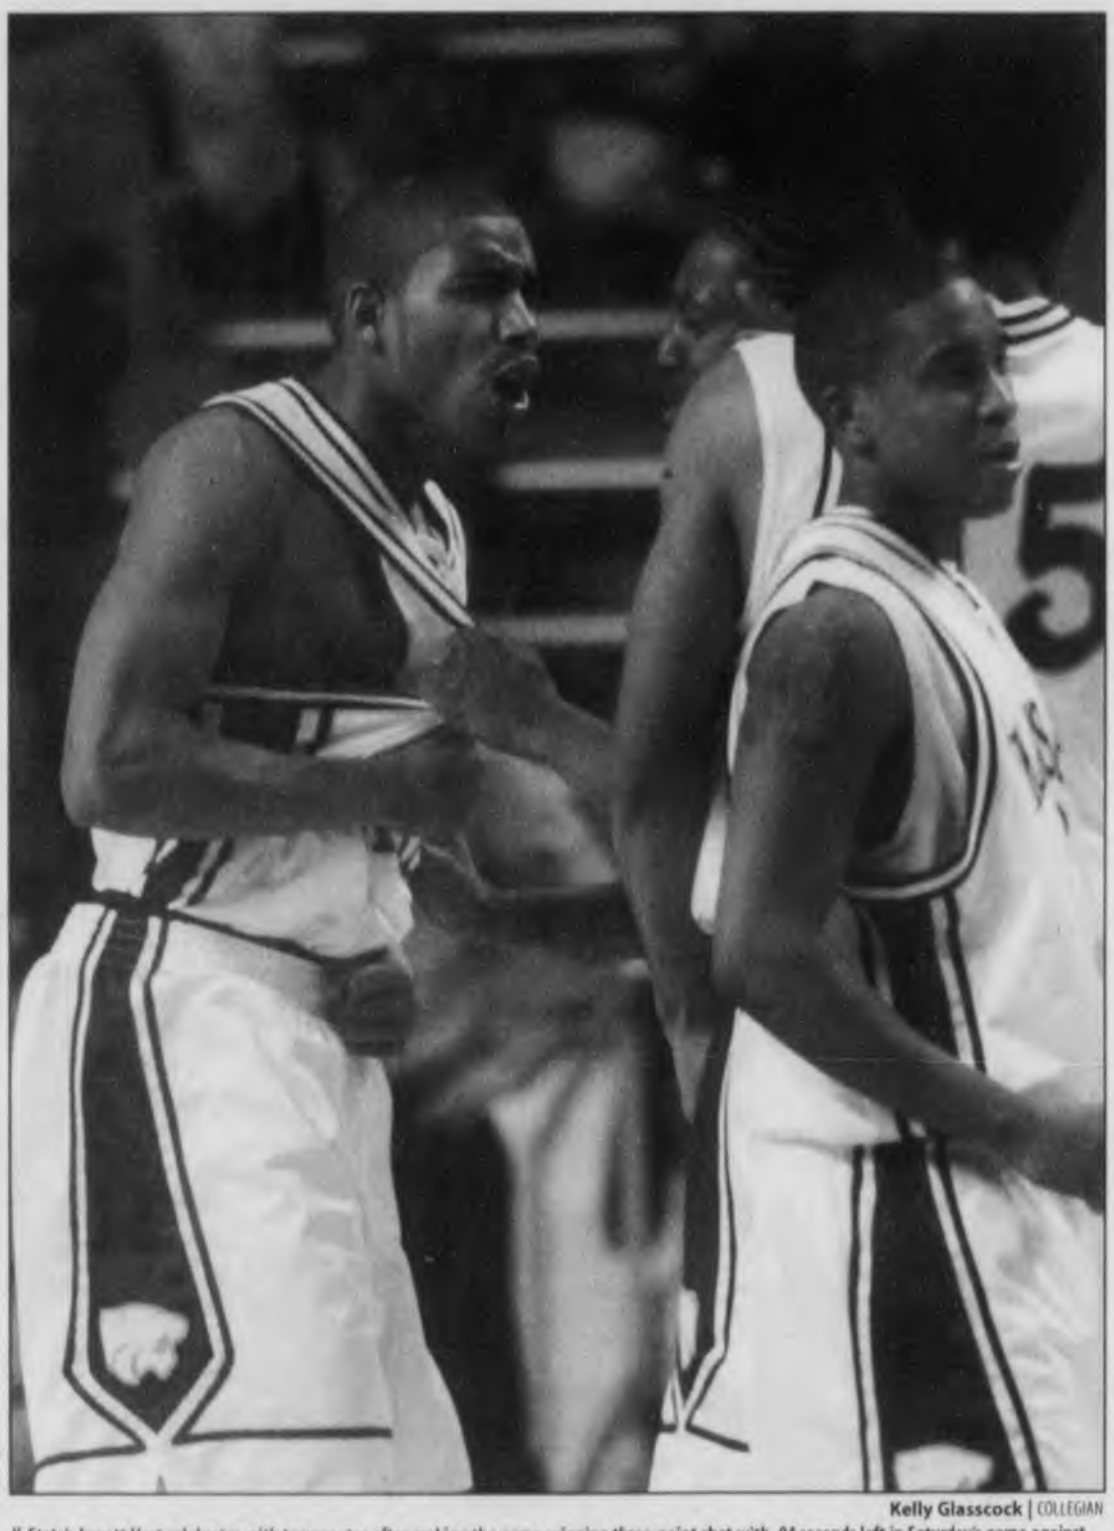
"(Hart) made the two plays to win the game — defensive possession, offensive possession. He was our bail-out guy."

Jim Wooldridge
COACH

K-State never thought its contest against Gardner-Webb would come down to the final seconds, but the Runnin' Bulldogs, ranked ninth out of 11 teams in the Atlantic Sun Conference, gave the Wildcats all they could handle.

Gardner-Webb trailed by as many as 15 points in the first half, but had the ball with the game tied at 65.

Bulldog guard Andre Manning made a move down the left side of the lane and passed Dez Willingham, point guard, with less than 20 seconds left in the game.



Then Hart stepped in and was floored by Manning, picking up a charge foul with 16.5 seconds remaining.

"I knew a charge was coming," Hart said. "I knew they were going to drive it. We kept talking, communicating, and everybody rotated right. It was a team effort that got that play done."

After the game, Coach Jim Wooldridge was pleased by Hart's performance.

"He made a couple of big plays, didn't he? The charge was a game-winning play and the shot was the difference," Wooldridge said. "He made the two plays to win the game – defensive possession, offensive possession. He was our bail-out guy."

K-State scored 13-straight points in the first half, a stretch in which Gardner-Webb missed 12 consecutive shots, to lead 39-26 at the half.

Kelly Glasscock | COLLEGIAN
K-State's Jarrett Hart celebrates with teammates after making the game-winning three-point shot with .04 seconds left in Saturday's game against Gardner-Webb at Bramlage Coliseum. Hart was the leading scorer for K-State with 14 points.

But then the Wildcats fell apart early and often after the intermission.

The Wildcats struggled turning the ball over, committing 13 of the team's 18 turnovers in the second half.

That's one aspect of the game in which K-State still has plenty to learn, Hart said.

"I don't think we understand that we are playing possession to possession," Hart said. "That's the way college basketball is. Coach says it all the time. We've got to learn that when we are up by 20, we've got to do positive things. We get lackadaisical and make some bad passes.

"Tonight was a teaching tool. That's why we play these games – and I'm just glad we got the win."

Wildcats land No. 6 seed, selected as Tournament host

Cats look to rebound from 3-1 loss to Texas with match vs. Ohio Friday

By Wes Marfield
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

After one of the longest days in recent memory, K-State's postseason plans were finally made clear on Sunday night.

The Cats, one day after dropping their last regular season match, learned they would be a host team for the first two rounds of the NCAA Tournament on Friday.

A No. 6 seed overall, K-State will face Ohio at 7:30 Friday night. Filling in the rest of the bracket are Arkansas and Southwest Missouri State, who play at 5.

On Saturday, the Cats lost a 3-1 contest at Texas. That loss, coach Suzie Fritz said, added to the pressure of Sunday's selection show.

"I was a little concerned after last night and how that would effect where we end up," Fritz said. "We lost to an unranked opponent, and I don't want to dwell too much on that match, because this is a new season, and we've got to be able to look forward now."

The loss to Texas, Fritz said, is something that could benefit the Cats for the postseason with the level of play the Longhorns showed them on Saturday night.

"I thought they played absolutely out of their minds," Fritz said. "They played great, we played slightly above average, and it was a good match. They are an extremely dangerous, physical team – they are not a 14-14 team, at least the team that showed up last night to play us certainly wasn't."

In general, Fritz said her team's seeding was no surprise to her, adding that it was the best they could have expected.

"It gives us an opportunity to get as far as we can get," Fritz said. "You can't look too far forward. Right now, I know nothing about Ohio, and that's going to keep me awake tonight. I think it's about as favorable of seed as we could have anticipated."

Drew Rose | COLLEGIAN
Lisa Martin, Lauren Goehring and Gabby Guerre joke around after the announcement that K-State will be the number six seed in the Big 12 Tournament. Manhattan will host the first round of the tournament this weekend.

Along with the Cats, fellow Big 12 schools Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Colorado and Texas A&M were all given berths into the NCAA Tournament.

Fritz said there weren't any surprises in that area, although she wasn't sure if Texas would get propelled in with their

See VOLLEYBALL Page 8

1-MINUTE DRILL

Staff Reports

Football | K-State gets boost in national rankings

Despite having an off-week, K-State jumped in both polls after higher-ranked teams were beaten last weekend.

K-State bypassed Washington State in the ESPN/USA Today Coaches' Poll and Florida in both the Coaches' Poll and the Associated Press Top 25. The Wildcats are now No. 13 in both rankings.

Oklahoma, which plays K-State in the Dr. Pepper Big 12 Championship game Saturday at Arrowhead Stadium in Kansas City, Mo., remained a unanimous No. 1 in both polls.

The Associated Press

Big 12 | Nebraska officially fires Solich as football coach

Nebraska athletics director Steve Pederson officially announced the firing of football coach Frank Solich Sunday, citing refusal to "let the program gravitate into mediocrity."

Solich

The Huskers, who finished 9-3 after a 31-22 win over Colorado Saturday, announced defensive coordinator Bo Pelini would be interim head coach for the bowl game, wherever that may be.

Big 12 | Younger Stoops leaving OU for Arizona

Former K-State assistant coach and current Oklahoma defensive coordinator Mike Stoops is the new head coach at Arizona, the university announced Saturday.

Stoops

Rumors ensued that current K-State assistant Bret Bielema would follow Stoops, but Bielema told the Topeka Capital-Journal Saturday that those reports were unfounded.

SEC | Georgia gets nod for SEC title game

Georgia secured a spot in the Southeastern Conference championship game Sunday, setting up a rematch with LSU next weekend.

The Bulldogs tied Tennessee and Florida in the East Division, but a series of tie-breakers granted Georgia the bid.

Golf | Sorenstam takes second in Skins game

Fred Couples won the Skins Game for the fourth time, but it was Annika Sorenstam making news in California. The Swedish star won $225,000 to finish second, beating out PGA Tour players Phil Mickelson and Mark O'Meara.

SPORTS ONLINE

www.kstatecollegian.com

Column | Solich's firing was nothing but wrong

The University of Nebraska was unfair when it came to its dismissal of football coach Frank Solich, Dave Skretta writes. He also attempts to explain why, just two years after being named Big 12 Coach of the Year and playing for a national title, Nebraska could begin to think it was justified in its decision to buy out his contract. Read the complete column exclusively at the eCollegian, www.kstatecollegian.com.

NFL scores

Kansas City	28	Minnesota	17
San Diego	24	St. Louis	48
Cincinnati	24	Buffalo	24
Pittsburgh	20	NY Giants	7
New England	38	Atlanta	13
Indianapolis	34	Houston	17
Arizona	3	Philadelphia	25
Chicago	28	Carolina	16
San Francisco	6	New Orleans	24
Baltimore	44	Washington	20
Cleveland	7	Denver	22
Seattle	34	Oakland	8
Tampa Bay	10
Jacksonville	17

Meth lab arrests prompt warnings from law enforcement

By Scott Seel
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

It may seem like there is a large arrest for methamphetamine production in this area every month.

While it is not quite that often, Pottawatomie County Sheriff Detective Shane Jager said meth labs are more prevalent in Kansas and other relatively rural areas.

"Meth labs can be anywhere really – under bridges, on dirt roads, back roads – anywhere really," he said. "The biggest reason for the rural communities is because of the easy access to anhydrous ammonia. Farms utilize anhydrous for fertilizer."

Jager said he estimates between five and 10 meth labs were broken up in Pottawatomie County during the past year, though the number has declined drastically over the last year and a half.

Jager said he believes the decline of meth labs in the area is due to several factors.

One reason is that the Pottawatomie County Sheriff's office has established a community education plan in which they give presentations to different groups and organizations in the community.

The county prosecution office also deserves some of the credit, he said. First-time offenders who are convicted of producing methamphetamines receive 11 to 12 years in prison, Jager said.

Another reason for the decline in meth labs is the implementation of local "meth-watch" programs in which many local businesses take part.

"The program only allows people to buy a certain amount of products that are commonly used in the production of methamphetamines like lithium batteries and Sudafed cold medicine," he said.

Many different household items can be used in the production process, he said, including cold medicines, lithium batteries, rock or table salt and sulfuric acid, which is in many industrial strength drain cleaners.

Kristin Badders, pharmacist at Walgreen's, said the store limits its quantities of certain items.

Some stores only have Sudafed and its generics available upon request, but Badders said it is available on the shelves at Walgreen's.

Jager also said there are warning signs of meth labs people should watch for.

"People taking smoke breaks outside because the chemicals inside are explosive and a lot of traffic coming from one spot, especially like an abandoned building," Jager said. "Also, ether and anhydrous ammonia have very distinct smells."

Because the ingredients used can be found almost anywhere, Jager said people should avoid suspicious containers.

Such containers, he said, may contain ether or ammonia which can be very dangerous if it comes in contact with the body.

Gyms ban camera phones

By Kristi Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Nationwide problems with camera phones are not likely to affect Manhattan fitness centers.

Many fitness facilities on the east and west coasts have banned the use of cellular phones with built-in cameras, but local fitness centers and gyms have not experienced problems with camera phone usage.

The camera accessory has been used to post photographs of unsuspecting gym members on the Internet. The phones are banned to prevent problems.

The Washington Post reported that most of the incidents have been in foreign countries or in celebrity–filled cities.

Raydon Robel, director of Recreational Services at K-State, said he hasn't encountered any problems yet and will not yet establish any procedures.

Richard Jones Sr., co-owner of Unique Fitness, said many people don't even take their cell phones around the gym, and Suzy Zotson, owner of Curves for Women, said because the gym is only for women, she hasn't had a problem with camera phones.

"Most everyone leaves their phones in their bag. I doubt that we will ever need to ban these phones since we are all women," Zotson said.

Credit ratings used in figuring auto insurance rates

By Kristi Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Getting car insurance can be tough if you have a poor driving record.

However, obtaining insurance can be even more difficult if you also have bad credit.

Although some people might think it is unfair to take credit history into account when determining insurance rates, many insurance companies do look at credit when quoting customers.

Tommy Dillon, Allstate Insurance agent in Manhattan, said most companies today look at credit history to determine auto insurance rates.

"Although every company is different, the better a person's credit is, the better the price they can possibly get their insurance," he said. "Not every company looks at credit background, though."

Mike Holmes, insurance agent at Holmes Insurance in Manhattan, said insurance companies that look at an individual's credit will do so for several reasons.

"Like any business, they want to make a profit," he said. "Lots of companies now base credit in the process of determining rates like we do with speeding tickets or accidents."

Dillon said good credit, whether or not insurance companies take history into consideration, can affect people only for the better.

"If you've got good credit, even if the company doesn't look at it to determine your rate, it can help you in other areas," Dillon said. "A good, solid driving record and a good history with other insurance companies will give you more opportunities to work with different companies, that may look at credit."

Dillon said there are a few precautionary measures to keep good credit, thus affecting auto insurance rates.

"You need to make sure to pay bills on time and don't ever run your credit card limits to the max. Lots of companies now look at income ratios, and this can majorly affect your insurance rate," he said.

Did you know?
Factors affecting insurance

- Driving record.
- Experience.
- Prior insurance.
- Credit background.
- Age.

Source: Tommy Dillon, Allstate Insurance agent.

CLASSIFIEDS

LET'S RENT

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

A LARGE two-bedroom apartment, close to campus. Available mid- December. (785)317-7713.

BRITTNAY RIDGE. Four-bedroom, study, two and one-half bath, town home. Washer/ dryer. 2519 Candlecrest, lease required. No pets. $1050, $1050 deposit. (785)537-9740.

FOR JANUARY 1. Nice large two-bedroom apartment. Gas, water, trash three-forths paid, laundromat. $480. (785)539-2482 or (785)539-9315 or cell phone (785)565-8116.

TWO-BEDROOM WITH study, private balcony, laundry, cover parking, walk to campus, central air-conditioning. January lease. $515- $545/ month. (785)341-6091.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE for a four-bedroom duplex. Washer/ dryer. Available January. Rent $275. Call Megan (785)539-8490.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for luxury, four-bedroom apartment across street from West campus. Laundry, parking, no smoking, no pets. $300. (785)776-6318.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for spring semester. Nice five-bedroom three bath house. Common rooms furnished. Washer/ dryer. $300 rent plus one-fifth utilities. (785)539-9887, (785)825-2937.

150 Sublease

CAMPUS/ AGGIEVILLE- spring semester, two-bedroom, 1212 Bluemont. Trash/ water paid, laundry facility. $300/ each. January 1. Kelly or Karen (785)776-8980.

ADVERTISE
ADVERTISE
CLASSIFIEDS • 532-6555

FOUR-BEDROOM, ONE and one-half bath, spacious, practically in Aggieville. $900/ month heating included. (four roommates- only $225 per person). (785)776-5102.

ROOMS FOR rent, next to campus. one-bedroom apartment. Free washer/ dryer, central-air, parking. (785)537-7050

BROKE?
Find a job under the help wanted section.
Kedzie 103 532-6555

145 Roommate Wanted

A ROOMMATE needed January- July at 1836 Todd, very close to campus, washer/ dryer. $275 for rent. (785)341-8498.

FEMALE FOR Spring. Nice apartment, one-half block from campus, close to REC. $260/ month plus cheap bills. Parking. Laundry. (785)770-3837.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted January- July 2004. $255 rent plus one-third utilities. Right next to Union. Dishwasher, large bedroom. Call (785)565-9340.

GREAT PLACE, great location, great people. Female roommates wanted for spring semester sublease. Large rooms, private parking, common rooms furnished, washer/ dryer. Call Lindsay at (785)587-0296.

MALE OR female for spring semester. Nice two-bedroom apartment across street from Aggieville and campus. 1212 Bluemont. (316)641-2636 leave a message.

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share a two-bedroom house. Five minutes from the Student Union. Rent $275. (785)539-9981.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for clean three-bedroom, two bath, new house. Available January. For more information call (785)770-9206.

ROOMMATE NEEDED, January- July. Huge 20X20 room. All amenities, four roommates needing the fifth. (785)537-0699. Rent negotiable.

ROOMMATE WANTED $200/ month plus one-half utilities. Washer/ dryer, can have two bedrooms, six blocks off campus. University Dr., no smoking, nice house and neighborhood. (785)317-4742.

SPRING SEMESTER roommate needed. Master bedroom in four-bedroom house. 0.3 miles from campus. Washer/ dryer, two bathrooms, cable internet, $250 plus utilities. Call Tyler (913)908-7162.

THREE CHRISTIAN guys looking for roommate. One and one-half mile west of campus. Washer/ dryer, $275/ month, negotiable. (785)341-3464, (785)537-4278.

150 Sublease

CADI- CORNER from Union. One- four rooms available immediately. Great spot, act fast! $230/ month. 1725 Anderson. Call David (785)770-2711.

CAMPUS/ AGGIEVILLE, one and one-half bedrooms available January. Central heat and air, parking. Water/ trash paid. 1212 Thurston. (620)870-9741.

FEMALE ROOMMATE WANTED starting January to live with two other girls. $265/ month plus utilities. Very nice house, can see campus from house. 1206 Bertrand. Call Lesley at (785)539-6790 leave message if not home.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed for spring semester. One-bedroom apartment. Two blocks from Aggieville. Rent negotiable call (785)564-1173.

MALE SUBLEASER needed. Two-bedroom apartment. Private parking, dishwasher, washer/ dryer. $262.50 a month. Available January, 716 Humboldt. Contact Casey (785)341-1162.

MALE SUBLEASERS needed: spring semester. Call (785)317-7558.

ONE ROOM available. You will love this place. Please call to come see! Ask for Jacquelyn (785)341-3769.

ONE-BEDROOM, $400/ month, water and trash paid, lease January- May. (785)537-9379.

ROOM FOR rent during spring semester. $280/ month includes water, trash, laundry. Has all amenities including fireplace. Low bills. (785)539-1272. mrl8888@ksu.edu.

ROOMMATE WANTED to share brand new duplex with three guys. Four-bedroom/ two bath/ kitchen/ laundry. $275/ month plus utilities. Call (316)990-6862 or (785)539-2356.

SPACIOUS TWO-BEDROOM/ one bath. All utilities paid except electric. Available end of December. Call (785)806-3068.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for one-bedroom apartment. $379.56 rent/ month starting January 1. Includes utilities. Pets are allowed. (785)770-3060.

SUBLEASER NEEDED, great two-bedroom house. Fully furnished, five minutes from Union. Private parking, available now. $380, all bills paid. (785)539-3408.

SUBLEASER WANTED for spring semester. One-bedroom, one block from campus. Trash and water included. Call (785)776-6963 for details.

SUBLEASER WANTED January- July. Two-bedroom apartment. $575 a month plus electric. Laundry facilities. Dishwasher. Water and trash paid. (785)820-0879.

SUBLEASER WANTED- recently remodeled three-bedroom apartment. Close to campus and Aggieville. $265/ month. Call (785)770-7575.

SUBLEASER WANTED one-bedroom, January 1- August 1. $370. Water and trash paid. (785)539-7653.

SUBLEASERS NEEDED. Close to campus, Aggieville, and City park. nice two-bedroom apartment. $270/ month. Available January. Call Michele or Amy. (785)539-5334.

SUBLEASERS NEEDED. two-bedroom basement apartment 520 Osage. Pets allowed. Call Ryan at (785)565-1950 or Chris at (785)317-2992 leave message if no answer.

SUBLEASERS NEEDED. three-bedroom apartment available soon at Woodway Apartment across from stadium. Great place! $753/ month. Please call! (785)845-5666.

SUBLEASERS WANTED for spring semester. Two-bedroom, one and one-half bath apartment. Water/trash paid, laundry facilities, very close to campus, (785)658-5680.

TWO STORY, two-bedroom apartment. One bathroom, washer and dryer, one block west of campus, available January- July. (785)323-1712.

WANTED: SUBLEASERS for extra clean, two-bedroom apartment within walking distance of campus. For more information call (785)776-9992.

200 service directory

210 Resume/ Typing

ARE YOU a procastinator? I can help you type papers or projects. Call Rhonda (785)539-3570.

300 employment/ opportunities

310 Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/ she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

! BARTENDING $300 a day potential. No experience necessary. Training provided. Call 1-800-965-6520 ext. 144.

ASSISTANT WRESTLING position, Marysville High School. Paid commensurate. Contact Athletic Director, Randy Adams at (785)562-5594.

BARTENDER TRAINEES needed. $250/ day potential. Local positions. (800)293-3985 ext. 548.

GET PAID For Your Opinions! Earn $15- $125 and more per survey! www.paidonlinesurveys.com

MAKE MONEY taking Online Surveys. Earn $10-$125 for Surveys. Earn $25-$250 for Focus Groups. Visit www.cash4students.com/ksu <http://cash4students.com/ksuucinn>

SUBSTITUTE TEACHERS needed; Rock creek USD 323 needs substitute and emergency substitute teachers. Pays $71/ per day. Please contact the district office for application packet, (785)457-3732 or email caffreyt@rockcreekschools.org.

ADVERTISE
Kansas State Collegian

310 Help Wanted

TEACHER AIDES (certificate preferred) for Kindegarden and 5/ 6 classroom at Westmoreland Elementary. Start date and salary negotiable. Single health insurance provided. Call (785)457-3732 for application or Email: caffreyt@rockcreekschools.org. Equal opportunity employer.

330 Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

400 open market

410 Items for Sale

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS- sleeping bags, overshoes, combat boots, camouflage clothing, wool socks and gloves, much more. Also Carhartt work wear. Open Monday- Friday, 9am-5:30pm, Saturday 9am-4pm, Open Sundays till Christmas 12noon- 4pm. St. Mary's Surplus Sales. St. Marys Kansas. (785)437-2734.

415 Furniture to Buy/Sell

COUCH FOR sale. Call (785)539-6410.

465 Tickets to Buy/Sell

THREE BIG 12 championship tickets, section 123, row 40, in corner end zone. $240 for all three. (417)889-7568

500 transportation

510 Automobiles

1991 GRAND AM. Excellent condition. Factory cd. New tires. Boyfriend is a mechanic. $1200 firm. Call Katie. (785)466-1708.

1993 SATURN SL2. Good condition. $1000 or best offer. Call (785)341-7559 for details.

600 travel/ trips

610 Tour Package

WINTER AND Spring Break, ski and beach trips on sale now! www.Sunchase.com or call 1-800-SUNCHASE today!

630 Spring Break

!SO MANY Spring Break companies... Book DIRECT with the established leader in Spring Break travel. Better trips, better prices. Early booking incentives. book now with a small deposit. (800)367-1252/ www.springbreakdirect.com

ACT NOW! Book 11 people, get 12th trip free. Group discounts for six plus www.springbreakdiscounts.com or (800)838-8202.

#1 SPRING Break Company in Acapulco now offers three destinations! Go loco in Acapulco, party in Vallarta, or get crazy in Cabo with BIANCHI-ROSSI TOURS. Organize a group and travel for FREE. Book now before it's too late! Call (800)875-4525 or www.bianchi-rossi.com.

NUMBER ONE spring break vacations! 110% best prices! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas, Florida, Acapulco, book now and receive free parties and meals. Campus reps wanted! 1-800-234-7 0 0 7 endlesssummertours.com

JAMAICA
SPRING BREAK
K-STATE FLIGHTS FROM KANSAS CITY!!!
NEGRIL BEACH CLUB
BAR B BARN
WHITE SANDS
from $649
CLUB BOTTLE
CHICKLES
OCEAN EDGE
TIGRESS II
from $469
ASTA
SPACE IS LIMITED - BOOK NOW!
1-800-234-7007
www.endlesssummertours.com

SPRING BREAK 2004. Travel with Student Travel Services, America's #1 Student Tour Operator to Jamaica, Cancun, Acapulo, Bahamas, and Florida. Now hiring campus reps. Call for group discounts. Information/ reservations 1-800-648-4849 or www.ststravel.com.

SPRING BREAK- sign up with Student Express and get FREE round trip airline tickets to over 15 International destinations- including Aruba, Dominican Republic, Costa Rica, Caribbean hot spots and more. Why go with anyone else. Limited offer- call now. Commission rep positions also available (800)787-3787or www.studentexpress.com now.

USASPRINGBREAK.COM CANCUN, Bahamas, Acapulco, Jamaica, and more. Don't be fooled! Go with quality and experience! 28 years in business. Largest Student Tour Operator (Division of USA Student Travel). Call (877)460-6077. Now hiring Campus Reps. Earn two free trips for 15 travelers and $$.

Found something?
You can place an ad FREE for three days!
Kedzie 103 532-6555

000 bulletin board

010 Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY!" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes and lowest rates. Call (785)776-1744. www.ksu.edu/kstc

ATTORNEY, CHUCK Harper, expunge convictions before job application, paternity, custody, net free adoption, civil law. 400 Poyntz. (785)539-8100, chuckharper@msn.com

FRATERNITIES— SORORITIES, Clubs— Student Groups. Earn $1000- $2000 this semester with a proven CampusFundraiser, three hour fund raising event. Our free programs make fund raising easy with no risks. Fund raising dates are filling quickly, so get with the program! It works. Contact CampusFundraiser at (888)923-3238, or visit www.campusfundraiser.com

020 Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

BRACELET FOUND a Pat's Blue Ribbon on Saturday, November 15. Call to identify. (785)776-0976

FOUND; LADY'S ring at Walmart in mid- November. Call (785)539-2016 to identify.

030 Post a Note

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a post a note.

100 housing/ real estate

105 For Rent- Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2440.

ONE-BEDROOM CLOSE to campus. Water and trash included. Available January 1. Central air/ heat. (785)537-7810.

"Stay In Class At The Commons"
Now Leasing for 2003-2004!
•Fully Furnished
•2 & 4 Bedroom
•Alarm System
•Swimming Pool
•Washer/Dryer
•Computer Lab
•Fitness Center
•Permit Parking
•Tennis/Volleyball Courts
•Individual Leases
Office Hours: M-F 9-5
539-0500
university COMMONS APARTMENTS
2215 College Ave.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

AVAILABLE JANUARY 1. Two-bedroom, newly decorated. Washer/ dryer hookup. Off-street parking. $500/ month. (785)537-2119, 8- 5pm, (785)539-2347 after 5pm.

EFFICIENCY, TWO/ three-bedroom units immediately available. (785)341-4496.

NICE ONE-BEDROOM apartments. Close to campus. Water and trash paid. $415- $430/ month. Call MDI (785)776-3804.

ONE- TWO-BEDROOM apartment and houses. Available January 1 and now. Close to campus. www.rent-apm.com/ (785)539-4357.

ONE-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 1523 Pierre. Washer/ dryer, $285/ month plus utilities. (785)776-4805.

STUDIO APARTMENT and one-bedroom, close to campus. No pets. $280/ month. 1030 Kearney. Call (785)537-0177.

STUDIO APARTMENT. $250/ month. All utilities except electric paid. Lease and deposit required. Available January 1. (785)537-7794.

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE block to campus. New carpet/ flooring/ some utilities paid. $660/ month, or best offer. (785)539-4641.

TWO PLUS bedroom, one block to campus. New carpet/ flooring/ some utilities paid. $620/ month. (785)539-4641.

TWO, three, and four-bedroom apartments. Close to campus, laundry, and parking. Call (785)537-6017.

TWO-BEDROOM TOWNHOUSE, one and one-half bath plus unfinished basement. Washer/ dryer hookups. Water/ trash paid. No pets. (785)539-5627.

VERY NICE two-bedroom apartment for rent, starting January 1st. Cats allowed. Call (785)539-5563 or (785)341-5441 for more information.

115 Rooms Available

ROOMMATE WANTED to sublease. Close to campus/ Aggieville. Washer/ dryer, $300 plus utilities. Call Nicole (785)776-6099 or (785)565-8785.

120 For Rent- Houses

1724 WINNE. Four-bedroom, one and one-half bath. Updated and spacious. New carpet, paint, and ceramic tile. Close to football stadium. $900/ month plus utilities. Available December. (785)556-2652.

LARGE NICE houses- June or August leases. Call now for best selections. www.foremostproperty.com or (785)539-4641.

THREE AND four-bedroom houses and apartments available January 1 and now. Close to campus. www.rent-apm.com/ (785)539-4357.

TIRED OF Apartment Living? Manufactured Homes For Rent. Pets Allowed. Beautifully maintained communities. Pool, playground, community center. Professionally managed. Call Manager for more details. (785)539-5841.

135 For Sale- Mobile Homes

FOR SALE: two-bedroom, one bath mobile home. Well cared for, owners are December graduates. $4800 or best offer. Please call (785)323-0055.

145 Roommate Wanted

MALE ROOMMATE to share newer mobile home. $150/ month. (785)770-9547.

LAUNDROMAT | Late-night patrons bicker, laugh, tell life stories

Continued from Page 1

While Wright talks, Mridula Kamra, graduate student in human nutrition, folds her freshly dried clothes. She spends two hours doing her laundry twice a month.

"I usually just read my book," Kamra says. "Normally, people keep to themselves, but once or twice you find people to talk to."

While many of the laundromat customers said they keep to themselves, Wright tells stories of meeting all kinds of interesting people.

"Usually they come up to me," Wright says. "They think I am a little kid and start giving me advice. A lot of people seem to talk to me."

As she talks, a young man walks into the entrance of the laundromat, walks through the building and out the back door.

"Freak," Wright says as she rolls her eyes.

She gets up from her chair and peers out the back door.

"I was trying to figure out where he would go," she says. "I think I am going to follow him."

In Junction City, she says, the laundry scene is even more entertaining.

"It's brand new, but they're all strippers," she says.

Her favorite story to tell is about the stripper who went out to smoke a cigarette and came back with a $10 bill in hand.

As Wright talks, she catches the attention of Tom Marks and they begin to talk about the semi-truck driver signals Wright has seen on the highway. Marks drives a semi all across the country.

They quickly move on to discuss which food items are ruined when heated in the microwave. They decide the microwave is good for hot dogs but only makes pizza crusts soggy.

While they talk, Kat and Pam Marks argue over who owns a purple fleece shirt. Pam then points out a stain on Tom's button-down shirt.

Once again, a man enters the laundromat and briskly walks through and out the back door.

"Freak," Wright yells again.

She calls her husband as she gathers up his clean uniform and recalls the stories she will tell him when she gets home.

"He gets a kick out of it," she says as the door closes behind her.

FIREFIGHT | 5 U.S. soldiers wounded in deadly attack against rebels

Continued from Page 1

responded with rifles, 120mm tank rounds and 25mm cannon fire from Bradley fighting vehicles.

U.S. fire destroyed three buildings the attackers were using, MacDonald said.

"It sounds like the attack had some coordination to it, but the soldiers responded, used their firepower, used tank and Bradley fire and other weapons available to them, to stop this attack and take the fight to the enemy," he said.

When the smoke cleared, 46 Iraqis were dead, 18 were wounded and eight were captured, MacDonald said. Five American soldiers and a civilian were wounded, he said, adding that none of the injuries were life-threatening.

"We have been very aggressive in our convoy operations to ensure the maximum force protection is with each convoy," MacDonald said. "But it does send a clear message that if you attempt to attack one of our convoys, we're going to use our firepower to stop that attack."

Shortly after the firefight, four men in a BMW attacked another U.S. convoy in Samarra with automatic rifles, MacDonald said. The soldiers wounded all four men, and found Kalashnikov rifles and grenade launchers in their car.

MacDonald said the attack was the largest faced by his Task Force Ironhorse – whose mission includes the hunt for Saddam. Military officials in Baghdad said they haven't reported a deadlier attack since May 1, when President Bush declared major combat over.

U.S. officials have only sporadically released figures on Iraqi casualties, and wouldn't say whether there has been a deadlier firefight that went unreported.

Samarra is 60 miles north of Baghdad in the so-called Sunni Triangle, where opposition to the U.S. occupation of Iraq has been fiercest.

Also Sunday, U.S. forces reported an attack the previous day near the Syrian border in Husaybah, 200 miles northwest of Baghdad, in which two U.S. soldiers were killed and a third was wounded.

Their deaths brought to 104 the number of coalition troops who have died in Iraq in November, including 79 American troops. In terms of coalition losses, it has been the bloodiest month of the war that began March 20.

MacDonald said the attack on the South Koreans – on the highway between Samarra and Tikrit – had no apparent link to the attacks on the U.S. convoys.

The South Koreans were electricians who were laying power lines for the Seoul-based Ohmoo Electric Co., said Lee Kwang-jae, director general of South Korea's Foreign Ministry. Two were killed and two were injured in the attack.

U.S. officials said insurgents were targeting citizens of countries that support the U.S.-led occupation of Iraq in an effort to undermine support for the coalition. But U.S. and allied officials vowed that multinational forces would not be cowed in their mission to rebuild Iraq after the ouster of Saddam Hussein.

"They clearly are targeting coalition members in an effort to intimidate all allies in Iraq and discourage their participation in the reconstruction of Iraq," said coalition spokesman Dan Senor. "The enemies of freedom ... are trying to break the coalition's will."

VOLLEYBALL | Fans create advantage for Cat volleyball team

Continued from Page 6

win on Saturday.

"It's about where we thought," Fritz said. "I didn't know if Texas' win over us last night would be enough to put them in or not. There was a pretty distinct separation between them and the sixth place team, but I felt like we were deserving of getting six teams in, and I was happy to see that for our conference."

In addition to a NCAA Tournament seeding, K-State also learned on Sunday that they took home a majority of the 2003 All-Big 12 Awards, with four Cats receiving individual honors.

Senior Lauren Goehring was named Player of the Year, junior Valeria Hejjas was Newcomer of the Year, senior Laura Downey-Wallace was Libero of the Year, and Fritz took home Coach of the Year Honors.

However, the focus remains on Friday's match against Ohio. Fritz said the Cats have an advantage being a host team.

"It's big time," Fritz said of hosting the first two rounds. "We're perfect at home this year – it's very, very difficult to beat us in Ahearn Field House. We love our fans, we love our environment and we love being at home. It's very big in it creates a competitive advantage for us to be able to play in our palace."

Royal Purple
$34.95 Yearbook
get it in 103 Kedzie
8am-5pm

We're psychic, you need a vacation, why not
Spring Break
and we KNOW KSU can PARTY!!
Jamaica
Acapulco
Cancun
Bahamas
Florida
Beach Life
Group Discounts!!
Book before Dec 15th and $ave!!
Sell trips, earn cash, travel free!!
1.800.733.6347
www.BeachLifeVacations.com

PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS
1800 Claflin Road
776-5577
We Deliver During Lunch!
VISA

December Specials
$60 Foil Highlight
(add another color & haircut $10)
$30 Men's Highlight & Haircut
$25 Full Set of Nails
$12 Lip & Brow Wax Combo
$40 One Hour Massage
$30 Facials
539-7621
"Best Deal in the Ville"

Expanded Hours. Expanded Learning. Expanded Opportunities.

K-State Evening College makes it simple for working adults to earn their degrees. Through night classes or a combination of night classes and distance education courses, you can earn a bachelor's degree or enhance your skills without quitting your day job.

For more information, call 1-800-622-2KSU or 785-532-5575 today!

EARN CREDITS TOWARD YOUR BACHELOR'S DEGREE!

Enroll now for Spring 2004 Evening College courses!

Course#	Ref.#	Days	Times	Course Title	Room	Instructor
16 Week Courses, January 22-May 21, 2004
Monday
FSHS 110	96700	M	5:30-8:20	Introduction to Human Development	256 Justin	Proffitt
FSHS 301	96701	M	5:30-8:20	Helping Relationships (P)	341 Justin	Beggs
HRIMD 441	96709	M	6:30-8:30	Introduction to Wines	110 Justin	Barrett
Tuesday
FSHS 350	96703	T	5:30-8:20	Family Relationships and Gender Roles (P)	015 Eisenhower	Thompson
FSHS 350	96707	T	5:30-8:20	Family Relationships and Gender Roles (P)	350 Waters	Welch
FSHS 580	96706	T	5:30-6:20	Directed Field Experience (P)	1052 Durland	Myers-Bowman
Wednesday
FSHS 510	96704	W	5:30-8:20	Human Development and Aging (P)	256 Justin	Doll
FSHS 550	96702	W	5:30-8:20	The Family (P)	149 Justin	Schumm
Thursday
FSHS 552	96705	U	5:30-8:20	Families and Diversity (P)	149 Justin	Webb
FSHS 776	96708	U	5:30-8:20	Insurance Planning for Families	350 Waters	Grable
First 8 Weeks, January 14 - March 13, 2004
Monday/Wednesday/Saturday
CHM 110	96200	M/W	5:30-7:30	General Chemistry (P) 12 Weeks (Jan 14-Apr 7)	209 King	STAFF
CHM 111	96201	Sat	8:30-12:30	General Chemistry Lab (P) 12 Weeks (Jan 17-Apr 10), 1 credit	TBA	STAFF
Tuesday/Thursday/Saturday
CIS 101	96202	TU Sat	5:30-7:55 8:30-10:30	Intro to Information Technology (Jan 15-Jan 31), 1 credit	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
CIS 102	96203	TU Sat	5:30-7:55 8:30-10:30	Spreadsheet Applications (P) (Feb 3-Feb 14), 1 credit	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
CIS 103	96204	TU Sat	5:30-7:55 8:30-10:30	Database Applications (P) (Feb 17-Feb 28), 1 credit	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
CIS 104	96205	TU Sat	5:30-7:55 8:30-10:30	Word Processing Applications (P) (Mar 2-Mar 13), 1 credit	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
GEOG 220	96211	TU Sat	8:05-10:30 9:00-12:00	Environmental Geography I 4 credits	213 Thompson	STAFF
Monday/Wednesday
ECON 120	96206	M/W	5:30-7:55	Princ/Microeconomics (P)	348 Waters	STAFF
HIST 251	96214	M/W	8:05-10:30	History of the US to 1877	224 Eisenhower	VanderGeisen
MATH 100	96215	M/W	5:30-7:55	College Algebra (P)	130 Cardwell	Hawkinson
SOCIO 362	96221	M/W	8:05-10:30	Police & Society (P)	041 Waters	STAFF
SPCH 106	96223	M/W	5:30-7:55	Public Speaking I	123 Seaton	Riley
SPCH 321	96224	M/W	8:05-10:30	Public Speaking II (P)	210 Mil Science	Riley
STAT 351	96228	M/W	5:30-8:30	Bus/Econ Stat II (P)	207 Dickens	STAFF
ACCTG 231	96227	M/W	5:30-7:55	Acctg/Bus Operations (P)	212 Calvin	STAFF
Tuesday/Thursday
ECON 530	96207	TU	8:05-10:30	Money & Banking (P)	120 Cardwell	STAFF
ENGL 200	96208	TU	5:30-7:55	Expository Writing II (P)	012 Eisenhower	STAFF
ENGL 251	96209	TU	8:05-10:30	Introduction to Literature	012 Eisenhower	Friedmann
GEOG 100	96210	TU	5:30-7:55	World Regional Geography	213 Thompson	STAFF
MATH 205	96216	TU	5:30-7:55	Gen Calc/Linear Algebra (P)	144 Cardwell	Mohammad
PHILO 130	96230	TU	5:30-7:55	Intro to Moral Philosophy	TBA	Patterson
POLSC 110	96217	TU	5:30-7:55	Intro to Political Science	112 Leasure	Unekis
POLSC 605	96218	TU	8:05-10:30	The American Presidency (P)	333 Waters	Unekis
SOCIO 541	96222	TU	5:30-7:55	Wealth, Power & Privilege (P)	120 Willard	Buurman
STAT 330	96225	TU	5:30-8:30	Elem Stat/Social Science (P)	206 Dickens	STAFF
Monday/Wednesday/Friday
GEOL 100	96212	M/W	5:30-7:55	Earth In Action	213 Thompson	STAFF
GEOL 103	96213	Fri	5:30-7:55	Geology Lab (P), 1 credit	TBA	STAFF
Second 8 Weeks, March 15-May 15, 2004 (no classes during week of Spring Break, March 22-26)
Tuesday/Thursday/Saturday
CIS 101	96300	T/TH Sat	5:30-7:55 8:30-10:30	Intro to Information Technology (Mar 16-Apr 3 —No class Spring Break), 1 credit	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
CIS 102	96301	T/TH Sat	5:30-7:55 8:30-10:30	Spreadsheet Applications (P) (Apr 6-Apr 17), 1 credit	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
CIS 103	96302	T/TH Sat	5:30-7:55 8:30-10:30	Database Applications (P) (Apr 20-May 1), 1 credit	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
CIS 104	96303	T/TH Sat	5:30-7:55 8:30-10:20	Word Processing Applications (P) (May 4-15), 1 credit	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
GEOG 221	96309	T/TH Sat	8:05-10:30 9:00-12:00	Environmental Geography II 4 Credits	213 Thompson	STAFF
Monday/Wednesday
GEOG 200	96308	M/W	5:30-7:55	Human Geography	213 Thompson	STAFF
GEOL 115	96310	M/W	5:30-7:55	Environmental Geol: Water & Air	223 Eisenhower	STAFF
HIST 252	96311	M/W	8:05-10:30	History of the US Since 1877	224 Eisenhower	STAFF
HIST 546	96329	M/W	5:30-7:35	History of American Military	211 Eisenhower	Borowski
MATH 100	96312	M/W	5:30-7:55	College Algebra (P)	130 Cardwell	Hawkinson
SOCIO 531	96321	M/W	8:05-10:30	Urban Sociology (P)	120 Willard	STAFF
SPCH 106	96322	M/W	5:30-7:55	Public Speaking I	211 Mil Science	Riley
SPCH 321	96323	M/W	8:05-10:30	Public Speaking II (P)	211 Mil Science	Riley
STAT 351	96325	M/W	5:30-8:30	Bus/Econ Stats II (P)	207 Dickens	STAFF
WOMST 105	96327	M/W	8:05-10:30	Intro to Women's Studies	001 Leasure	STAFF
Tuesday/Thursday
ECON 110	96304	T/TH	5:30-7:55	Princ/Macroeconomics (P)	115 Willard	STAFF
ECON 520	96305	T/TH	8:05-10:30	Inter/Microeconomics (P)	120 Cardwell	STAFF
ENGL 200	96306	T/TH	5:30-7:55	Expository Writing II (P)	012 Eisenhower	STAFF
ENGL 320	96328	T/TH	8:05-10:30	The Short Story	012 Eisenhower	STAFF
MATH 150	96313	T/TH	5:30-7:55	Plane Trigonometry (P)	144 Cardwell	Mohammad
MUSIC 250	96314	T/TH	5:30-7:55	Intro to Music	114 Burt Hall	Cochran
POLSC 325	96316	T/TH	5:30-7:55	US Politics	333 Waters	Unekis
POLSC 603	96317	T/TH	8:05-10:30	Political Parties & Elections (P)	333 Waters	Unekis
SOCIO 511	96320	T/TH	5:30-7:55	Comparative Social Theories (P)	120 Willard	Buurman
STAT 350	96324	T/TH	5:30-8:30	Bus/Econ Stats I (P)	106 Dickens	STAFF
ACCTG 241	96326	T/TH	5:30-7:55	Acctg/Investment & Finance	209 Calvin	STAFF

NOTE: (P) Courses that have a prerequisite

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY
EVENING College

www.dce.ksu.edu/eveningcollege

GIFT GUIDE
Monday, December 1, 2003

On a budget

Gift ideas in your price range for all the special people in your life

	$5	$10	$10.5	$20	$20.5	$20.5
Mother	Assorted designs of 2.5 x 3.5 inch picture frames for $3.99 from Kmart	Hallmark gift books from Coach House Gifts ranging in price from $5.95 to $14.95	Mary Engelbreit tea cup and saucer candle set for $14 from The Palace	Memory maker, photo frame bracelet for $19.99 from Coach House gifts	Embroidered cardigan in black, blue or peach for $24.99 from JC Penny	Silver Loving Family pendant for $26.95from www.lifetimemothers.com
Father	Jar of Blazing Bull BBQ sauce for $4.95 from Kansas Kollection	Talking Big 12 Bottle openers for $7.98 from Trends N' Trinkets	Ferris wheel or carousel photo frames for $12.95 from Target	Enhanced CD soundtrack of "O Brother Where Art Thou" for $15.99 from Sears	Fishing fillet set with stainless steel knifes for $24.99 from JC Penny	"Bond Girls are Forever: The Women of James Bond" book from Hastings for $40
Grandma	Heaven's angels, stain-glass ornaments with charms, for $4.99 from Coach House Gifts	K-State ceramic bobblehead picture frame for $9.95 from Kansas Kollection	Lil' Family of Friends clay figurines for $12.95 from Coach House Gifts	Foundations of Whispers Angel figurines for $17.95 from Kansas Kollection	Crabtree and Evelyn fragrances, perfume dusting powder fro $25 from The Palace	Loving family locket with up to five birthstones for $29.95 from www.lifetimemothers.com
Grandpa	John Deere miniature tin mailbox for $4.95 from Kansas Kollection	32-piece glass chess set with wooden box for $9.99 at Target	Electric windshield scraper for $10.80 from JC Penny	John Deere tire clock for $19.95 from Kansas Kollection	Eddie Bauer multi-function pocket tool with thermometer for $24.99 from Target	Kansas State Nostalgia 2 neck tie from Varney's Bookstore for $25.99
Girlfriend	Umm, yeah, you should probably be spending more than $5 on your girlfriend	Long, colorful scarves for $8.88 at Wal-Mart	Sketchbook or journal for $4.99 to $15.95 from Waldenbooks	Bath and Body Works Joy gift set with lotion, shower gel and body splash for $18	Wide-neck shirt with embroidered initial and matching scarf or hat for $22.50 from Gadzooks	Gift set of Clinique Happy perfume for $45 from Dillards
Boyfriend	The same goes for your boyfriend — you should probably be spending more than $5	Knit beanies and stocking caps for $7.99 from Target	"Calvin and Hobbes" or "The Far Side" books at Hastings for $9.95 to $10.95	"The Simpsons" trivia game at Hastings for $19.99	"The Lord of the Rings: The Two Towers" two disc DVD for $22.99 from Sam Goody	Braun electric razors from K-Mart for $29.99 to $49.99 depending on model
Sister	Pair of earrings or necklace for $3.99 from Claire's Boutique	Chunky metal wrist watches in various designs from Coach House Gifts for $9.99	T-shirts from Gadzooks, 2 for $28 (if you have two sisters or keep one for yourself)	DVD from Kmart ranging from $14.99 to $19.99	American Idol game with CD for $24.99 from Sam Goody	Steel frame sphere chair with plush cushion for $49.99 from Target
Brother	Magnavox TV swivel base at Kmart for $4.98	Wilson NFL Extreme junior size football with tee for $9.99 at Target	Wildcat fan parking only sign for $12.99 from Varney's Bookstore	"Gangs of New York" DVD for $18.98 from Wal-Mart	Durabuilt 42-piece cordless screw-driver tool kit for $24.99 at Target	"The Lord of the Rings: Weapons and Warfare" book from Hastings for $29.95

Compiled by Rachel Krier | COLLEGIAN

Rick's Music Shop
Custom Shop Guitars
Fender·Alvarez·Epiphone
Ovation·Crate·Ibanez
Guitar Lessons
314 Tuttle Creek Blvd. 785.539.5900

A CUT ABOVE
Hair and Nail Salon
$5 off Chemical Service
$5 off Full Set of artificial nails
$3 off Shampoo, Cut and Style
Coupon Expires Dec. 31, 2003
Gift Certificates Available
1800 Claflin Rd. · Suite 110 · 785 537-3200

Little Caesars
HOT-N-READY pizza
$5.00 LARGE WITH PEPPERONI
Carry Out Only
ALL DAY, EVERYDAY!
1150 Westloop • 539-3333

LET'S HELP OUR LOCAL CHARITIES.
Please consider a contribution to support our local charities.
THINK GLOBALLY. ACT LOCALLY.

Give the gift of MASSAGE
BODY FIRST
2308 ANDERSON
(785)587-8300
www.bodyfirst.com
GIFT CERTIFICATES AVAILABLE

Smile enhancement by the professionals
Teeth cleaning from $40
SAGER DENTAL ASSOCIATES, P.A.
514 Humboldt Plaza Hygiene Department 913-537-6824
For more information, see our ad in your Sprint *Manhattan Southwestern Bell Yellow Pages.

Kansas Gift Boxes!
We ship U.P.S.
(see them @ www.EastsideandWestsideMarkets.com)

Kansas Deluxe Gift Box.....$24.99
- 16 oz. Kaw Pie Chocolate Fudge Brownie
- 8 oz. Eleanor's Farmhouse Kansas Cheese
- 8 oz. Usinger's Beef Summer Sausage*
- 2 oz. Cock a Doodle Brew Flavored Coffee
- 8 oz. 2B Apiaries (Manhattan, KS) Honey
- 6 oz. Jar Honey Toasted Sunflower Seeds

Simplicity Gift Box.....$16.99
- 8 oz. Eleanor's Farmhouse Kansas Cheese
- 8 oz. Usinger's Beef Summer Sausage*
- 2 oz. Cock a Doodle Brew Flavored Coffee
- 8 oz. 2B Apiaries (Manhattan, KS) Honey
- 3 oz. Candy Coated Sunflower Seeds

K-State Tailgate Gift Box.....$29.99
- 2 oz. Box of Wildcat Shortbread Cookies
- 4 oz. Mild Cheese in Football shape*
- 8 oz. Usinger's Beef Summer Sausage*
- 12 oz. Wildcat Blend Gourmet Coffee
- 8 oz. Power Cat Grape Jelly
- 4 oz. Purple Pride Popped Popcorn
- 3 oz. Purple & White Sunny Seed Drops

Add $10 shipping and handling continental USA.
indicates not a Kansas product*
Call 776-8111 to order or stop by!
Eastside/Westside Markets
E. Hwy. 24 by Super-8 or by the Holidome

Finding the perfect gift

Acme Gift employee Sara Kearns arranges items on the shelf during a slow part of her afternoon shift Saturday in Aggieville.

Nicole Donnert
COLLEGIAN

Manhattan venues offer unique gifts for various tastes, ages

By Kristi Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Tired of the same lame gifts, year after year?

There are several venues in Manhattan that offer unique gifts for everyone.

Terry Bolan, co-owner of Glass Impressions, said that from the feedback she has received, no other store offers the same items.

"We haven't heard there are other places that have similar items," Bolan said.

Glass Impressions has handmade glass ornaments, paperweights, K-State merchandise, engraved cabinet doors and radiometers, which are solar windmills.

"The radiometers are a great guy gift," Bolan said.

Bolan's store orders many of the items from wholesale industries, but the engraving is done by her partner, Ralph Flowers.

"Many of the K-State items we make are engraved for awards or for plaques," Bolan said.

Bolan has a fine arts degree from K-State and says she likes to select items people won't normally see in other stores.

Julie Strecker, owner of Geometrics, has a wide array of gifts and collectibles inside her store.

"We carry lots of contemporary and whimsical items," Strecker said.

Her store has shag pillows, star catchers for children, Gel Gems, which are a new stick on glass-decoration, fuzzy coasters and furniture.

"This doesn't begin to cover everything we offer," Strecker said.

Strecker said the picture frames are always a popular item.

"Whether it is Christmas time or someone's birthday, or even just to decorate, the picture frames are a highly popular item," Strecker said.

Emily Ohmes, Geometrics employee, said she recommends magnetic poetry for any occasion.

"I see people come in often to buy magnetic poetry. It is just lots of fun to write funny sentences in magnets," Ohmes said.

Strecker said she wanted people to know that although her store may look expensive, it is highly affordable.

"Lots of college students just skip over our store because it may look expensive," Strecker said.

"The truth is though, we sell things for as cheap as they would any other place that could offer these things. We even have a children's corner that we call 'Grandmas's Corner.'"

Grant Haun, employee at On the Wildside, said the store is the only one of its type in Manhattan.

"We have been here since 1991 and we are still the only store of our kind in Manhattan," Haun said.

On the Wildside has a large selection of incense, four brands of scented candles, oils, tapestries, subway posters and smaller posters.

Haun said because of a recent change of ownership, the store has become more in tune to what the customers want.

"About three years ago, we changed ownership. The old owner wasn't informed on what the customers wanted.

"The new owner now likes to do special orders and has added more clothing, like skirts," Haun said.

Haun said because of the recent addition of more clothing, the store has become more customer-friendly.

"I would say it is good for people to shop here especially now that we have some cool clothing and everything is very inexpensive," Haun said.

Diane Meredith co-owns Acme Gifts with David Sauter. The store offers flowers for customers to create their own bouquets and many novelty items.

The store has rubber ducks with different themes from Australia, bags and wallets from New York and baby socks packed into egg cartons.

"We try and have a variety, we like to have a little something for everyone. We market in Los Angeles and in New York for a variety," Meredith said.

The store has been open since June and Meredith said she enjoys having an excuse to find unique items.

"I thrive on finding interesting and fun things. They are also not too expensive.

"I hope that we can complement what is already here in Manhattan," Meredith said.

Jewelry makes lasting gift, worth the price

By David Skretta
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Diamonds may be forever, and one could argue they really are a girl's best friend.

But like most jewelry, they are often overlooked during the holiday season, particularly by college students.

Misperceptions abound when it comes to jewelry, said Charles Elliott, owner of Reed & Elliott in Manhattan.

From price concerns to the stigma that jewelry is impersonal, Elliott said he sees few students walking through his doors come December.

Still, he said jewelry prices shouldn't scare people away.

"High quality need not be high priced," Elliott said. "It doesn't necessarily need to be a costly piece – you can buy a ring that costs $75, and it's a quality ring well within their budget."

David Sternblitz, senior director of public relations for Zales Corporation, said Zales and its sister companies, Gordon's and Piercing Pagoda, target those feeling the budget crunch.

One example Sternblitz cited is the Italian charm bracelet, which he also said solves the problem of jewelry being impersonal.

The bracelet is often made of leather but personalized with charms – some 800 different styles from Piercing Pagoda alone – that can be tailored to anyone's hobbies or interests.

"It's around 10 dollars for the bracelet and eight dollars for each charm," Sternblitz said.

"It's not real dangly or inconvenient, so it's very hot right now. The charms are sterling silver, so it's a nice look."

Sternblitz said other forms of bracelets are popular right now, and at premium stores such as Zales, rings and earrings can be found for less than $100.

Other hot items include three-stone jewelry such as pendants and rings, body jewelry such as eyebrow and navel rings, and Powercat pendants, with the K-State sports symbol engraved in gold or silver.

Elliott said even traditional jewelry, such as earrings, chains and rings can be personalized as well.

His store offers customized engraving and inscriptions on most jewelry, and on some pieces, such as the Signet rings, the engraving is included in the price.

"Signet rings are made with a monogram with the last initial in the center and the first and middle initials to the sides," Elliott said. "That would be customized but would come included in the price."

Other customization may come at an additional charge, but most often it is worth it, Elliott said.

"It makes it more personalized," he said. "It's more special than just an individual piece made up off an assembly line."

Another way to personalize jewelry is to add birthstones, which often is less expensive than most other stones used for adornment.

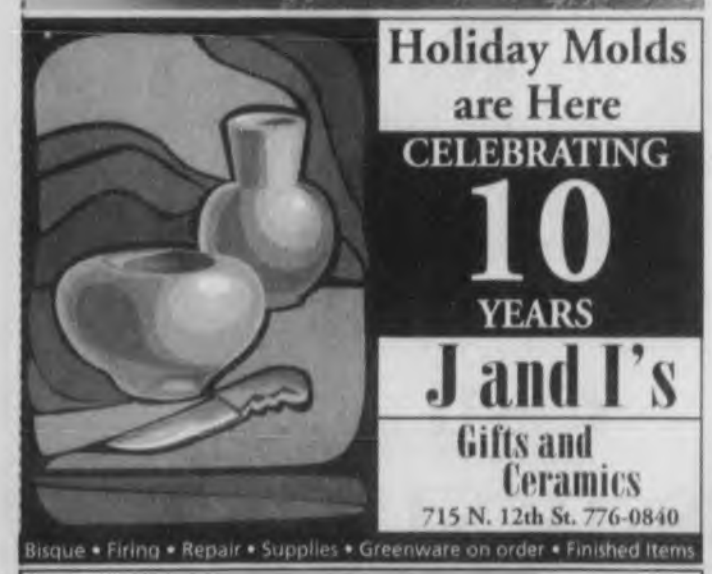
Elliott said nearly all birthstones come in different colors and shades, and added that amethyst, the February birthstone, is most popular because of its purple color.

"That's very popular here," he said. "But all birthstones are popular. We have them already made up for each month, so it's very convenient."

Elliott said most jewelry stores also do sizing at no extra charge, and it often is done while a person waits. That alleviates the stress of making sure a ring or bracelet is the correct size.

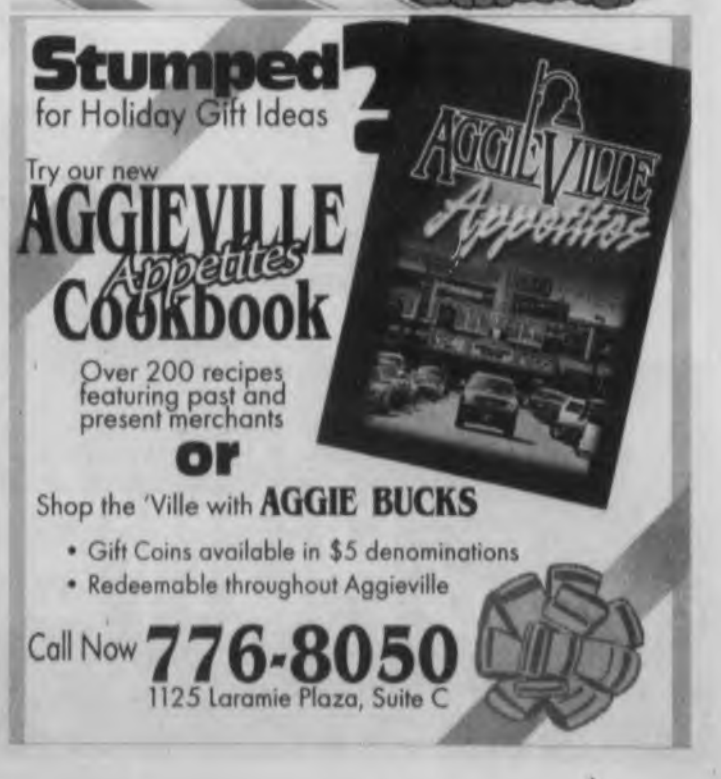
From the choice of metal (yellow gold, white gold, sterling silver) to the type of stone (diamond, ruby, sapphire or none at all), Elliott said it is difficult to go wrong with jewelry as a gift.

"It's not only a gift of love, but a treasure of everlasting love and a heritage piece that is handed down for generations," Elliott said. "It's a choice, in that respect, that can be appreciated for many years."



And, while not typical for college students, it is a choice Sternblitz said often is made during the holiday season.

"It's more of an emotional, romantic gift," Sternblitz said. "Even as the economic environment hasn't been stellar, jewelry is one thing people haven't cut back on. People give one more meaningful gift instead of several smaller gifts."



This holiday's top 5 albums

People appreciate gift of music; various genres to fit different tastes

By Matthew Webber
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Neck ties. Foreman Grills. Another Manheim Steamroller album.

If you're running out of gift ideas, try giving some of the year's best CDs. If you're feeling particularly Grinchy, buy them for yourself.

JOHN MAYER, "HEAVIER THINGS"
Perfect for: guitar players, Gap models, all college girls

At 26, Mayer is only a few years older than most college students.

However, he writes songs like a wizened old pro.

He details his life like a journalist and croons like he's singing lullabies.

If they were heavier, his songs – about getting married in the song "Home Life," cuddling in "Come Back to Bed," and being lonely in "Something's Missing" – could be anthems for 20-something life.

But Mayer's a softie, and his ode to females, "Daughters," guarantees they will be swooning over him.

THE WHITE STRIPES, "ELEPHANT"
Perfect for: siblings, bassists, upholsterers

Cymbals crash, guitars squeal, and Jack and Meg White play loudly enough for two hundred.

Jack screams the blues, while Meg drums like a toddler.

The simplicity of the songs is what gives them their power.

Their energy gives them vitality and urgency. Plus, you can make your very own White Stripes ornaments.

Cut out Jack and Meg from the cover and hang them from your tree like candy canes.

NORTHERN STATE, "DYING IN STEREO"
Perfect for: English grad students, music critics, feminists

These three white girls can rap.

Really. They're nasally and whiny, but so are the Beastie Boys, whose "Licensed to Ill" album is obviously an influence.

Sylvia Plath, Hillary Clinton and the progressive rock band Yes also have inspired the group.

The old school beats are simple, but the rhyme schemes are complex.

The group is so esoteric that they name drop "Fast Food Nation" but populist enough to rap about being rappers.

OUTKAST, "SPEAKERBOXXX/THE LOVE BELOW"
Perfect for: lovers, haters, schizophrenics, Prince

Some of the songs on this bloated two-disc set are failed experiments.

But the ones that work are among the most mind-blowing hip-hop songs of all time.

For example, just listen to Andre 3000's huge hit, "Hey Ya." What is it? Rap? Funk? Garage rock? Pop? Whatever it is, it is insane.

Even if Outkast's other half, Big Boi, is more conservative in replicating the group's signature sound, he is still creating instant classics.

MANDY MOORE, "COVERAGE"
Perfect for: your little sister

It's not the best album of the year by a long shot, but if you can find it for $8 as I did at Wal-Mart, Mandy Moore's covers of Elton John, Joni Mitchell, Cat Stevens, Blondie, Carole King, Todd Rundgren and others are certainly tolerable.

Turning anybody on to these artists instead of teen pop is the best Christmas gift you can give.

New releases on DVD, video to consider when present shopping

By Tony Herrman
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Buying movies as Christmas presents is a safe bet.

In fact, they are all I asked for and all I would buy if I had the money.

Here are some 2003 releases to consider.

I remember sitting in the theater during the credits before "Star Wars: Episode II - Attack of the Clones," when those familiar illegible green letters of "The Matrix" began to scroll down the screen. I have never heard so much cheering in a theater.

I actually prefer "Matrix Reloaded" to the original Matrix.

Who cares if there is a weaker and more incomprehensible plot? It is amazing what you can do with twice the budget.

At $127 million, "Reloaded" cost $17 million more to make than the far inferior "Revolutions."

Besides "Kill Bill," my favorite film of 2003 was "Pirates of the Caribbean: The Curse of the Black Pearl." Making more than $600 million worldwide, "Pirates" is a rare profitable Johnny Depp movie.

In case you are one of the six people in Manhattan who haven't seen the movie, Depp vibes Keith Richards as Captain Jack Sparrow.

Check it out
Tony's top DVD releases

1. "Matrix Reloaded."
2. "Pirates of the Caribbean: The Curse of the Black Pearl."
3. "Bend It Like Beckham."
4. "Fear and Loathing in Las Vegas."

Sparrow tries to steal his ship (the Black Pearl) back from cursed pirates led by Geoffrey Rush.

Of course, the appearance of 18-year-old sweetheart Keira Knightley doesn't hurt the movie.

My second favorite movie of the summer was the British import, "Bend It Like Beckham," which also starred Knightley.

"Beckham" is the story of soccer stud Jess Bhamra, an Indian girl who lives with her family in London.

It is a great movie, because it dissects cultural differences.

Her parents want her to take an active role in her older sister's wedding, but she sneaks around behind her parents' backs to hang out with gal pal Jules (Knightley) and play soccer.

The movie goes into great detail depicting a traditional Indian wedding, and it is interesting to see the Brits' attitude toward gender roles.

But I still don't understand why the entire country is in love with a goofy looking soccer player who is married to a Spice Girl.

My final pick for movie of the year was actually in theaters in 1998, but "Fear and Loathing in Las Vegas" was released by the Criterion Collection in March.

"Fear and Loathing" is based on the book of same title written by Hunter S. Thompson.

It is the story of gonzo journalist Raoul Duke and his lawyer Dr. Gonzo, who travel from LA to Las Vegas in a drug-filled haze.

They search for the American dream as Duke attempts to cover a motorcycle race.

If you are unfamiliar with the Criterion Collection, it is the single greatest thing to happen to cinema since Knightley was conceived.

Currently with 228 selections, movies found within the collection are the ultimate special edition DVDs.

I have about 10 Criterion selections of my own, the most in-depth being "Fear and Loathing."

Its a two-disc offering with many great features, including two documentaries about Thompson and three commentary tracks.

The Criterion Collection and this movie are why I say, "Why spend $15 for a DVD when you can spend $40."

Your 2003 Royal Purple Yearbook is here
You can still purchase a Royal Purple Yearbook for $34.95
get it at 103 Kedzie Now 8am-5pm

all i want for christmas is a...
BIG ASS
or at least a Gumby's gift certificate

Gift cards available for ALL your holiday cravings
Redeemable across the US
Thanks K-Staters for making Gumby's #1
GUMBY'S Pizza
702 W. 11th 770-3333

Boots, Hats, Jeans, Belts, Shirts, and much more.
Stay in style with our most popular brands! Wrangler, 20X, Levi's, Cinch, Cruel Girl, and Montana Silversmiths

Lee's Western Wear
If we don't have it, we will gladly special order it!
8424 E. Hwy 24
21/2 miles East of Manhattan
(785) 776-6715
Mon.-Fri. 10-6, Sat. 10-5
Happy Holidays! Seasonal Savings Storewide

FOUR WINDS
Therapeutic Massage
Bernice Martin, Licensed Massage Therapist
$5.00 OFF
Gift Certificates and Gift Packages
785-539-5919 1114 Laramie St.

2 perfect gifts for your K-State FAN

Call 1-888-4KSUCAT or 785-539-8041
GO POWERCAT .com
www.gopowercat.com
&
POWERCAT ILLUSTRATED

Nicole Donnert | COLLEGIAN

Marc Moreau, Kmart employee and sophomore in psychology and Spanish, puts a receipt into a customer's bag while working Friday morning. The day after Thanksgiving, stores open earlier and have sales to start the holiday shopping season.

Retailers feel the after-Thanksgiving rush

By Katie Lane
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The Friday after Thanksgiving was full of excitement and stress for both employees and customers at local retailers.

Marc Moreau, Kmart employee and sophomore in psychology and Spanish, started work at about 5:45 a.m., and said the day never slowed after the doors opened.

"It was really hectic and really busy," Moreau said. "I kept hearing, 'Marc I need this.' But it was a change from the slow days we get."

Moreau said there were no large problems during the day.

"There were no big problems, just about a million small ones. That's the way it usually is," Moreau said.

Roy Hulett, manager at Wal-Mart, said one of the biggest shopping days of the year has become a tradition.

"I think it's more tradition for folks," Hulett said. "Every retailer puts out bargains, and each year we try to provide those items that make people want to come out and get them."

Wal-Mart's doors opened at 6 a.m. to a line of people waiting to shop. Hulett said Nov. 28 was different from any other shopping day because of the increase in shoppers.

"There's nothing like it," he said. "When you open the doors and you have hundreds and hundreds of people coming in, there's just nothing like it."

The increase in customers helped Target overshoot its expected sales, Karel Rickerby, store team leader, said.

"We do have a sales increase, and we are overshooting our projection right now," Rickerby said. "It's a kickoff to the Christmas season. It's a good time to get out and about."

The day was hectic for employees, Rickerby said.

"It's hectic, but we're all having a good time. It's a fun hectic," she said. "We prepare by mostly getting the product out so it's available for the guests. We build risers and that sort of thing, but mostly we are getting the product out and available."

Brett Jensen, Target employee and junior in electronic journalism, has worked at Target for three months. He said this has been his busiest day on the job.

"It's completely busy. More so than any day I've been here," Jensen said. "We opened a couple of hours earlier, and it's been just a constant stream of customers."

By 10 a.m., Jensen said some of the customers were starting to look tired.

"Some are a little haggled, but people have been very decent so far. The hardest part is getting people to explain what they want or what it was they saw in the newspaper," Jensen said. "They look tired and maybe a little frustrated, but they are being polite. It's been a smooth-running day."

Preparing for the day after Thanksgiving involves long hours and getting the products on the shelves, said Adam McGuire, Wal-Mart employee and senior in accounting.

"Typically on Wednesday, people come in and work overnight to setup displays, so everyone can enjoy their Thanksgiving," McGuire said. "We come in earlier today to make sure everything is ready."

Customers' moods were generally good, McGuire said.

"Customers are excited to find what they want at a good price. It's really amazing to see all of those people ready to shop early in the morning."

Hulett said Wal-Mart's customer count increases significantly around this time of year.

"In comparison to days prior to it, the customer count is almost double. And as we get toward the holidays, the customer count continues to increase."

Working on the biggest shopping day of the year is exciting for employees, Hulett said.

"Generally, customers' attitudes and moods are good," Hulett said. "It's very rewarding. Our cashiers that have been here for years want to be here that morning."

The customers' good moods can be attributed to buying items they want, but do not necessarily need, Moreau said.

"Everyone is usually in a lot better mood because they aren't shopping for necessities. They're shopping because they want to," Moreau said. "Most of them are friendly and energetic. Only a few were disgruntled – mostly the guys drug there by their wives at six in the morning."

McGuire said the lack of free time and the excited customers makes the day fun.

"Overall, you don't feel too much stress because the day goes by so much quicker," he said. "You walk away feeling like you did a good job that day."

Government issues list of recalled products

By Jennifer C. Kerr
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON, D.C. – The government is urging consumers who got an early start on their holiday shopping to make sure the items they bought haven't been recalled for safety reasons.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission is releasing its annual top 10 list of children's product safety recalls to coincide with the start of the holiday shopping season.

"They should be off store shelves," CPSC Chairman Hal Stratton said. But "it may very well be that people still have these at home, so we kind of use Christmas as a reminder."

Most of the products on the list are toys that were recalled in 2003, but there also are five brands of playpens that can collapse. The playpens, which the commission blames for 15 deaths, have turned up on the list in previous years.

The CPSC has a new Web site with the latest information on all government recalls.

The CPSC's list of top recalled children's toys and products includes:

■ 300,000 Magic Start Crawl 'n Stand toys by Playskool. The toy is supposed to help crawling babies pull themselves up and stand, but can tip over during use. There have been 26 reports of babies suffering injuries.

■ 1.3 million cans of Spit Smatter spray foam by JAKKS Pacific Inc. of Malibu, Calif. The aerosol cans can forcefully break apart, potentially causing serious injury.

■ 67,000 Little People Animal Sounds Farm toys distributed by Fisher-Price of East Aurora, N.Y., because two small metal screws that hold the stall doors in place can come off, posing a choking hazard to young children.

■ 1.2 million Cosco Arriva and Turnabout Infant Car Seats/Carriers distributed by Dorel Juvenile Group Inc. Handle locks can break or unexpectedly release from the carrying position, causing the seat to unlatch or flip forward. Nine children have been injured.

■ 85,000 scooters and mini-bikes recalled by Fisher-Price because the motor control circuits can malfunction, causing the machines to continue running after the power or throttle button is released, leading to possible injuries.

Did you know?

Government recall list

Consumers can log on to www.Recalls.gov or call 1-800-638-2772 to learn about recalls of consumer goods, automobiles, boats, drugs, cosmetics and environmental products.

K.C. Plaza lights lit Thursday

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

KANSAS CITY, Mo. – Hundreds of thousands of people turned out Thursday night for the annual Thanksgiving night lighting of the Country Club Plaza.

A crowd estimated at about 250,000 people filled the streets and more watched from balconies.

Kate Spade, a Kansas City native and New York fashion designer, helped flip the switch to turn on the lights.

The ceremony kicked off with a Broadway-themed musical program that featured the Plaza Lights Orchestra.

The lighting display features about 288,000 red, blue, yellow and green lights. It will remain on until Jan. 18.

The Plaza lighting tradition began in 1925 with one strand of 16 lights over a single doorway. It has expanded into a celebration that brings Kansas City area residents and tourists to the midtown shopping area.

Look your best this holiday season!

Get rid of the damage this summer did to your face.
Microderm Abrasions
Glycolic Peels • Blue Peel

Enhance your appearance
Botox • Collagen
Skin care products available only through a physician

10% off with valid Student ID
Don't forget Holiday Gift Certificates are a perfect gift idea for those that have everything!
The Plastic Surgery Clinic, PA
Dr. Kenneth A Fischer
1133 College Ave., Bldg A Ste. 211
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785) 776-7500

1st Annual Apparel Drive
Now through Dec. 24th! 1 item = $1 off
All items collected will be donated to Riley County Budget Shop and Goodwill.
Limit applies see store for details.

Zotcis Wish List
Sign up today and we'll notify your friends and family about everything you want for the holidays!

ZOTCIS
ATTIRE
Trendy Men's and Women's Apparel
Store Hours:
Mon. - Sat.
11am to 8pm
Sun
1pm to 6pm
1203 Moro
-Aggieville-
785 539 - 4356

Gift Certificates Gift Certificates Gift Certificates

shear dynamics
salon and day spa
Laramie Plaza in Aggieville
www.sheardynamics.net
776-9100

Free Holiday Gift Bag W/ All purchases and services (Bag valued up to$50.00)
Micro Manicure/ Pedicure and 20 minute massage $50.00 (Tara-Erica)
Men's haircut w/ brow shaping and 30 minute massage $40.00 (Jordan-Erica) mention this ad

Pedicure, facial, polish change, & body scrub 80.00 with Tara

TIGI Bedhead • Redken • OPI • Matrix • Biolage • Nioxin American Crew • Bio Elements

Gift Certificates Gift Certificates Gift Certificates

PIZZA PAPA JOHN'S
This season's best stocking stuffer: the PAPA Card late night $6.99 large one topping pizza
BEGINS AT 9PM. $7.99 ANY OTHER TIME
$14.99 two large one topping pizzas
$9.99 large one topping and an order of cheesesticks
Customer pays all applicable sales tax. Specials not valid with other offers. Limited delivery area, charges may apply.

Homemade food can win hearts

SETH BISHOP

December is a magical month.

Everyone you meet has a twinkle in their eye, hope in their heart, and a wish of health and good fortune on their lips.

Whether the inspiration be the birth of Christ, the Hebrew Festival of Lights, Ramadan, Kwanzaa, or simply the end of a semester and the return home to family and friends, December is a magical month.

Throughout this season of caring, many of us bestow gifts to give our wishes of happiness more sincerity and greater impact; to show those for whom we care how truly special they are to us. While the latest and greatest sitting on Wal-Mart's shelves are nice gifts, a gift of time and talent can be more meaningful than a gift of monetary value.

To borrow the jingle from an old Pillsbury commercial, "nothing says lovin' like somethin' from the oven." A card atop a plate of cookies, a smile and a box of fudge – these can be sweet and tender gifts that do not require a tremendous sacrifice. If fudge is involved, you don't even really have to smile.

But for those who do not have the means to cook, or those who profess no talent or desire to cook, here are some easily constructed presents from the kitchen.

Chex mix becomes a staple in our house during the holiday season, but it does require an oven and an hours time. For a quicker, non-cooking version, try a type of trail mix. This sweet and easy snack yields six cups for you to divvy into pretty packages for friends and family.

SWEET 'N' EASY SNACK MIX

2 cups holiday M&Ms
2 cups whole almonds or cashews
1 cup dried apricots, snipped into fourths
1 cup golden raisins

Combine all ingredients in large bowl, then store in tightly covered containers.

Another excellent and easy to assemble gift is Winter Bean Soup Mix. Give this gift and the instructions to prepare the soup, and you will be warming their bellies as well as their hearts.

WINTER BEAN SOUP MIX

1/3 cup each of yellow split peas, green split peas, lima beans, pinto beans, kidney beans, great northern beans
1/2 cup minced onion
2 teaspoon chicken bouillon granules
1/2 teaspoon cumin
1/2 teaspoon garlic powder

Layer all ingredients in 1-pint glass jar. Store tightly covered at room temperature up to 2 months.

Write the following directions on a card and include with the jar of ingredients:

WINTER BEAN SOUP

8 cups water
1 cup chopped carrots
1 cup chopped celery
2 lbs. smoked ham

In 4-quart Dutch oven, heat water and soup mix to boiling. Boil 2 minutes.

Remove from heat, cover and let stand one hour. Stir carrots, celery and ham into bean mixture.

Heat to boiling. Reduce heat, cover and simmer two hours. Skim fat if necessary. Remove ham from bone and chop into 1/2 inch pieces. Stir back into soup and heat until hot. Serves six.

Holiday well-wishes can quickly become squelched when gift-giving is always accompanied by gift-buying.

Holiday shopping can be a frustrating and aggravating experience. Lions, wolves, holiday merchandisers, and salesmen, all have the innate ability to cull out the weakest among us and wear down our defenses.

However, I have never experienced a high-pressure sales pitch from any Dillons employee.

I have never used a purchase once and then had to return it as defective. Gift-giving can retain its pleasure.

For those who brave the Town Center fray, or any various other commercial venue, a gift of relaxation follows.

Make an extra batch and treat yourself.

MIRACLE MILK BATH

2 cups salt
2 cups baking soda
2 cups nonfat dry milk

Mix all ingredients and store in airtight container up to 1 year. To use, add 1 cup mixture to bath water.

Accompany this gift with a pair of votive candles and you have a relaxing spa treatment at home.

Seth is a graduate student in math. You can e-mail him at sbishop@k-state.edu.

Stupidity, acts of appreciation result in continuous giving of tasteless gifts

Remember the worst gift you have ever received?

Socks. Lopsided sweater. Hideous tie. Ear hair trimmer.

I'm the guy that buys those gifts.

Before you all charge me to inflict pain, give me a chance to defend myself.

I'm not very smart. And when you spend several hours shopping, battling old women who wouldn't hesitate to maim you with their walkers, every gift looks like the perfect one.

My instinct for survival is stronger than my instinct for finding good gifts. For this, I offer no apology.

Still, I'm not very smart.

The after-Thanksgiving sales seem luxurious. The rebates, price cuts and incentives all are irresistible. But they are only useful if you can handle the pressures that accompany the deals. I can't.

I implore each of you to give a big hug to whoever buys you the worst gift this year. Chances are they didn't buy it to be malicious, but rather because they feared for their life.

I know that the gifts I bought for my loved ones this year reek of tackiness, but I figure my well being is worth it to them.

Many of them would disagree.

Despite my love of giving, I've never been very good at it.

Although it begins with trying to avoid rabid shoppers, the amount of suckiness in my gift-giving ability is shrouded during the next few weeks as I convince myself that I actually bought a good gift.

JAMES HURLA

Fearing failure, I use my third-grade guidance counselor self-esteem boosters to tell myself that I did the best job I could, and the recipient would be appreciative of that.

In large part, I blame the public education system for teaching children to make crappy gifts. Sure, the construction-paper chalkboard and yarn Santas were acceptable, but others – like the special "reindeer doo" – only teach children that it's OK to give crappy gifts.

Simultaneously, parents learn to act pleased with these sub-par gifts. They do themselves and their children a disservice by putting on this facade, as the habit will only transfer to the next generation.

If I were a parent, I'd make my child gather his allowance, ride his bicycle to the local merchant, and put his allowance down as a payment on his Taco Bell uniform, because that kid should get a job to buy his hard-working parents some nice gifts.

The real problem, though, is not with the person who buys the gift.

Further problems arise when the recipient actually acts appreciative.

It is great that he spared my feelings. But this only ensures that I will buy more horrible gifts in the future.

Sitting across from me in the living room, my cousin will open the Scooby Doo Chia Pet, and after taking a deep breath, look up at me with a smile that screams "Thanks! I couldn't have asked for anything better."

Inside, of course, are visions of this cousin altering my physiology to allow grass to grow out of my scalp.

The proper response would have been to rise from his chair, walk over to me and flog me senseless with his apple-filled stocking.

The proper response would have not only served to inform me that I failed miserably at choosing an appropriate gift, but would also allow other cousins to take out their frustrations with previous gifts.

But intense physical pain is not the only way someone like me can learn that bad gifts are unacceptable.

Verbal abuse also would work well.

Calling someone out on all the bad gifts he has bought through the years should serve as an effective wake-up call to his habits.

If this fails, resort to continued physical abuse.

James is a junior in print journalism and public relations. You can e-mail him at jahurla@k-state.edu.

ZipZaps, Bratz dolls make the list for this year's biggest holiday fad gifts

By Tony Herrman
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

In the 1980s, it was Cabbage Patch dolls.

In more recent years, Tickle Me Elmo made the top of the list for fad gifts.

What items are on the list this year? What makes a toy or gadget a fad gift?

"More or less something that is fun for all ages and can be fun for longer than one month after Christmas," Radio Shack sales associate Josh Martin said.

"Something you can actually get into and build upon."

The big item for Radio Shack this holiday season is the XMOD. XMODs are remote-control cars with optional body kits to upgrade lights, wheels and all-wheel drive.

They are similar to last year's toy of the season, ZipZaps.

"These are basically a bigger scale with a lot more upgrades," he said of XMODs.

"The ZipZaps are more for desktop play.

The XMODs are more for skilled driving."

Another big seller is the LifeWise line, which is a series of health products – blood pressure measures, aroma-therapy machines and hand massagers.

All are big sellers, Martin said, especially the Environizer electronic air purifier – the line's most popular product.

> "If you can get it on the floor, it usually sells."
>
> Steve Bussman
> CO-MANAGER AT WAL-MART

"I try to wipe these things down at least once a week, and it is amazing how much dust they collect," he said. "You can tell air is cleaner over here, and the smell that comes out is pleasant."

Martin said the only surprise in lack of sales was the remote-control Hummer, due to a lack of advertising.

"It's pretty big, has four-wheel drive and is pretty quick," Martin said of the Hummer, which can move up to 1,200 feet per minute.

In stores like Wal-Mart, Target and KB Toys, with a larger variety of toys than just electronics, Bratz dolls are the big sellers.

Aimed at the Barbie crowd, Bratz are much like the traditional doll with a much larger head and hipper clothes.

"They're more stylish and wear more trendy clothes than the typical Barbie," said Jordan Ediger, executive team leader for Hardline, which covers all non-clothing merchandise at Target stores.

Bratz are so popular that they even have their own board game, "Bratz Passion for Fashion," which sells for $14.99 at KB Toys.

The reason for the dolls' success: good marketing, Jaime Pride, KB Toys manager, said.

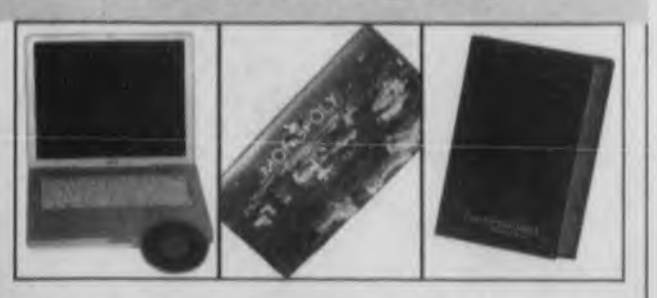
"They're on television, and they're a little bit cooler than Barbie with cooler clothes and accessories," Pride said.

Pride said that fads depend on two things: marketing and recognition from TV.

Pride said toys based on characters from TV shows are marketed well and tend to do the best.

"Lord of the Rings" is also big in the board game market with it's own trivia and "Risk" games.

Steve Bussman, co-manager at Wal-Mart, said big sellers include Limbo Elmo, remote-control Hummer, Bratz, LeapFrog educational toys, board games like 20th edition Trivial Pursuit and Barbie of Swan Lake dolls and video.



He could not think of any toys that have been major busts.

"That's something we try not to think about," Bussman said. "If you can get it on the floor then it usually sells."

CAMPUS FORUM: 395-4444

WILLIE'S FAVORITE HOLIDAY GIFTS

Give the gift you can open again & again.

Your student is a cornerstone of K-State.

For only $49.95 you can order the Royal Purple Spirit Pack
giving your student the 512-page story of the year at K-State. The Spirit Pack includes:

- 2004 Royal Purple yearbook & supplemental DVD and three other great items –
- 12 oz. insulated mug
- leather ID/keyring
- Parker Brothers' K-State Monopoly

Come into Kedzie 103,
Mon.- Fri., 8 a.m. - 5 p.m.
to order yours today!

MISTER MONEY USA Pawn Loans INC.
LOOK HERE for great Saving deals on great gift ideas
705 n. 11th
565-0046
6501 A Fort Riley Blvd.
537-1803

A Bernina Holiday Sale
Special financing and great prices, too.
Come in to Bernina, there's something for you.
No payments, no interest for one year on Bernina purchases of $1,000 or more.*
November 1-November 30
BERNINA SHOPPE
330 N. 4th Street Manhattan, KS 66502
785-537-8919
www.berninashoppe.com
Nothing Sews Like A Bernina. Nothing.
BERNINA
www.berninausa.com

*Offer is subject to credit approval by GE Capital Consumer Card Co. Applies to Bernina purchases over $1,000 made 11/01/03 to 12/31/03 using your Bernina consumer credit card account. No finance charge will be assessed on the promotional purchase amount until expiration or termination of the promotion. Minimum monthly payments are not required on the promotional purchase during the promotional period. If minimum monthly payments on any other balances on your account are not paid when due, all special promotional terms may be terminated. Standard account terms apply to non-promotional purchases and other promotion ends, to your promotional purchase. Variable APR is 21.90% as of 04/15/03. Fixed APR is 14.75% if payment is 30 days or more past due. Minimum finance charge is $1. Offer available at participating dealers.
© 2003 Bernina of America

$5.00 OFF
Flannel PJ Pants
Reg. $24.00
Only $19 with coupon

$10.00 OFF
Classic Flannel PJs
Reg. $34.00
Only $24.00 with coupon
Coupon Expires 12/15/03

Patricia's UNDERCOVER Lingerie
1224 Moro
Aggieville
Mon-Fri 10-6
Thurs 10-7
Sat 10-5

Collegian
Explore it!
kstatecollegian.com

GLASS IMPRESSIONS
QUALITY ETCHED GLASS
Including New Choices!

KSU Paperweights, Boxes, Clocks
Bookends, Nameplates, Decanters
Glassware & Pendants $6 - $67
HOLIDAY HOURS
Mon-Fri 10:30-6:30 • Sat 10-5 • Sun 1-5
Glass Impressions • 329 Poyntz

Christmas Specia

The ultimate treatment for balance of mind, body and spirit.
Enlightment
Swedish Massage, Facial, Class Manicure and Pedicure
3½hrs. $120.00
The Stress Reliever
Half Body Massage, Classic Manicure
1½hrs. $55.00
TINA'S Studio 32 FOR HAIR
776-8830 • Candlewoo

Philanthropies anticipate more holiday donations

By Eileen Alt Powell
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK – Americans tend to get charitable around the holidays.

Charities usually collect at least half of their contributions between Thanksgiving and the New Year as families prepare for Christmas, Hanukkah or Kwanzaa.

An incentive for donors is that charitable gifts must be made before the end of the year to qualify for tax deductions next April.

This year, gifts from individuals and families will be especially appreciated because institutional giving is down.

"Corporate, government and foundation giving is expected to be off by 10 percent for calendar year 2003," said Trent Stamp, executive director of Charity Navigator, which rates philanthropic organizations.

He blamed the 2000-02 decline in the stock market and the less-than-robust economy.

With mailboxes already stuffed with charity requests, and solicitors out in force in the nation's shopping malls, how should consumers go about choosing a charity?

Stamp recommends people follow their passions.

"If you're interested in cleaning up your local river ... I'll bet you can find a nonprofit dedicated to cleaning up that river," he said. "The same goes for eradicating homelessness in your neighborhood, stopping the spread of AIDS or supporting missionary efforts."

Tips for Giving to charities

- Check the credibility of charity organizations at www.charitynavigator.com or www.guidestar.org, which maintains a large database of nonprofit groups.
- Consult the Better Business Bureau's www.give.org site, which sets standards for charitable groups and keep track of registered charities.
- Don't give cash. Make checks payable to the charity — and never to the individual who is doing the solicitation.
- Don't "be fooled by names that look impressive or that closely resemble the name of a well-known organization."
- Keep track of receipts and canceled checks to document contributions at tax time.

Source: The Associated Press and the Better Business Bureau

Price-cutting limited during 2003 holiday shopping season

By Anne D'Innocenzio
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK – As holiday shopping started in earnest this weekend amid an improving economy, many of the nation's retailers – particularly department stores and apparel merchants – plan to be stingier with markdowns than in past holiday seasons.

They're counting on consumers to be so pleased with new services and exclusive merchandise that they'll be willing to pay full price.

Many retailers are hoping to wean shoppers away from the heavy discounts of the past, but some analysts question whether the strategy will work.

Consumers have gotten used to putting off their shopping while they wait for prices to fall, and they may well force retailers to take heavy markdowns as the season progresses.

"This is definitely a high stakes Christmas," said John Morris, an analyst at Harris Nesbitt Gerard, estimating there were 10 percent fewer markdowns going into the start of the season than there were a year ago at the 25 apparel chains he follows. That's the first decline since 1998.

"Retailers are trying to lure the consumer with fewer discounts, but how strong will consumers be? We're moving away from a period of uncertainty, and consumers are feeling a little bit better, but they are still tentative," he added.

Shoppers interviewed this week were indeed cautious.

"It's good if you can find sales," said Ruthann Pinkerton, who was at the Circle Centre Mall with her husband in Indianapolis, Ill. "That always helps out on a limited income."

Pinkerton, retired and on a fixed income, said she'll be looking for deep discounts.

Margee Kenyon, of Billings, Mont., said she will spend much more this season because she plans to buy household items for her son. But she's also focusing on discounts.

"I've done more pricing of things. What I have bought so far has been on sale," she said while shopping at the Rimrock Mall.

Clearly, retailers are more optimistic than in the past. In 2002, uncertainty over the prospect of war in Iraq and a spate of corporate layoffs weighed heavily on consumers. This year, the economy is on the rebound, with employment improving. Consumer confidence is also improving.

Still, after a strong summer, retail sales have been uneven the past few weeks, hurt in part by warm weather that has made winter apparel less appealing, according to Michael Niemira, vice president of Bank of Tokyo-Mitsubishi Ltd.

In fact, stores worried about the sales pace are entering the season with inventories that average 7 percent below last year's levels, according to Marshal Cohen, senior industry analyst at NPD Inc., a market research firm in Port Washington, N.Y.

Many problems still plague the industry. Deflation, or a drop in prices, has been an issue for some retailers, such as toy and electronics merchants. And while the labor market is improving, the unemployment rate is still at six percent.

Meanwhile, no must-have item have emerged, although in toys, Fisher-Price's Hokey Pokey Elmo, Mighty Beanz from Spin Master, and MGA Entertainment's Bratz dolls are some of the best sellers.

Niemira forecasts a sales gain of 4.5 percent for the November-December period, the best performance since 1999, when the tally rose 5.4 percent. He based the estimate on sales from stores open at least a year, considered the best indicator of a retailer's health.

Last holiday season's results were unchanged from 2001.

The Washington-based National Retail Federation projects total holiday sales to rise 5.7 percent to $217.4 billion.

The luxury business is expected to be a big winner this season, and analysts believe upscale merchants will have the easiest time persuading customers to pay full price. Bergdorf Goodman said its sales have been strong although the company is discounting less. Bergdorf plans one sales event during the season, eliminating two others, and hopes to delay markdowns until after Christmas.

"The customer's appetite is back," said Robert Burke, vice president of fashion.

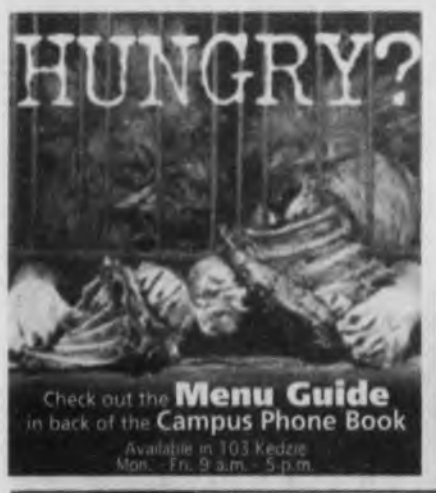
At Domain, the upscale furniture chain, founder and CEO Judy George said the free design consults, which started in October, have generated average furniture purchases of $1,800 per visit.

Toy sellers compete for holiday business

By Jeffrey Gold
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NORTH BRUNSWICK, N.J. – The annual holiday wars between the nation's two largest toy sellers is well under way. Wal-Mart Stores Inc. and Toys "R" Us Inc. are cutting prices and deploying brigades of Barbie and Elmo dolls as they joust for market share.

In a move that took Toys "R" Us and the rest of the industry by surprise, Wal-Mart cut prices on more than a dozen hot toys in mid-October, a month earlier than normal. By selling some items below cost, the discounter is using toys as a loss leader to woo shoppers to other aisles elsewhere in the store, analysts observed.



Toys "R" Us countered with its coupon book, cutting the price gap and hoping its wider selection will make its stores the destination for holiday buyers, especially as inventories dwindle elsewhere. Still, it acknowledged in a recent conference call that Wal-Mart's discounting hurt third-quarter results.

"Things got little more cutthroat earlier this holiday season," says Sean McGowan, toy analyst at Harris Nesbitt Gerard.

For example, Wal-Mart slashed the price of Mattel's Hot Wheels T-Wrecks playset to $29.74, from its original $49.88. Most retailers were selling the toy for around $50.

The struggle for holiday sales matters because about 40 percent of all toys are sold in the last two months of the year. Fierce price cuts by Wal-Mart have already bedeviled toy operator FAO Inc., which owns FAO Schwarz, The Right Start and Zany Brainy. The chain, which emerged from bankruptcy in April, said it might not continue normal operations through the end of the month.

Analysts are closely watching how Toys "R" Us will do this holiday season, the first where all the parts of its turnaround have been in place, including store remodelings, tighter inventory management and a better-trained staff.

When you're looking for a bargain, check out the Collegian Classifieds.
If you don't find what you need, advertise in the Open Market section!
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN 103 Kedzie 532-6555

GIVE US YOUR OPINION.
CAMPUS FORUM: 395-4444

KSU Meat Sale
WEDNESDAY 3-6 p.m. & FRIDAY Noon-6 p.m.
Rm. 166 Weber Hall
BEEF
roast, steak, ground beef, bratwurst
PORK
pork chops, pork steaks, sausage, ground pork, bacon
PRODUCT OF THE DEPT. OF ANIMAL SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY MANHATTAN, KS 66506
For information call 532-1279

Make this Christmas Xtreme
1122 Laramie 539-3742
Monthly Packages Starting at $19.99
Gift Certificates

How To Get What You Want:
1. Circle your favorite items.
2. Cut on dotted line.
3. Send to Santa.
Mountain Bike
Sleeping Bag
Backpack
Ski Pants
Tent
Hiking Boots
Swiss Army Knife
North Face Jacket
Fleece Vest
Fly Rod
Climbing Harness
Gift Certificate for $___
the PATHFINDER
OUTDOOR EQUIPMENT SPECIALISTS
304 Poyntz
Downtown Manhattan
785-539-5639

Need something original for a gift this year?
Stop by Gei Gei's ltd
• Gift Certificates Available
1201 MORO • AGGIEVILLE • 537-0330

Magical Holiday Decor
One of a kind Ornaments and Decorations!
Collectible Santas • Angels • Snowmen
Campbell's
in Historic Downtown Manhattan
5th & Poyntz • 776-9067
M-S 10-6 • Thurs. 10-7 • Sun. 1-5
Gifts Galore!
• Custom Silk Arrangements
• Holiday Decor
• Dept. 56 Light Houses
• Collectibles
• Candles
• Home Decor
Visit our website:
www.campbellsgifts.com

K-STATE SUPER STORE
Holiday Gift List
• K-State Santa Hats
• Desk Accessories
• Holiday Collectibles
• Jewelry
• Decade of Dominance DVD Set
• Ornaments
• Golf Accessories
• Mugs
• Leather Chairs
FREE GIFT WRAPPING
with any purchase over $50!
520 McCall Road • kstategear.com • 785-537-0844
Mon–Fri 8:30 a.m.–7 p.m. • Sat 9 a.m.–7 p.m. • Sun 12 p.m.–5 p.m.

It's Christmas on the Prairie...
Unique Gifts Abound...
• Brighton leathers & accessories
• Caswell-Massey
• Italian Modular Charms
• Women's apparel
• Unique jewelry
• Home décor and fine gifts
At Lilacs on the Prairie
327 Poyntz Ave.
785-565-0900
Hours: Monday-Saturday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.
Thursdays to Christmas open 'til 8 p.m.
Open Sundays November 23 through Christmas, 1-5 p.m.

Little things that count

How to make your own personalized gift basket for friends, family

By Rachel Krier
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Whether you are strapped for cash or tired of buying the same basket of cheese spreads, meat logs and bubble bath, try making your own gift basket.

Here are a few ideas to get you started in creating the perfect personalized gift for friends and family.

The items are inexpensive, but together they can mean a lot.

Decorative box or bag

Wrap the bottom of a shoe box in Christmas gift-wrap, covering the top half of the inside as well. Line the inside with tissue paper, letting the ends hang out the sides.

You want to make the box look full, so be selective in the size of the box. Try using a smaller box even if it makes putting the items in it like putting together a jigsaw. If you don't have much of a selection in boxes, you can use extra tissue paper to make the box look full — hey, it is the same packaging techniques used by the professionals.

Alternative: For a simple fix, you can always use gift bags to hold your goodies. You can buy solid colored gift bags at Wal-Mart for $1, which also helps if you are making multiple baskets.

Joy of music

The gift of music is never one to be overlooked, but can also be an expensive one to indulge — buying a CD at $15 per friend adds up fast. Consider burning a CD instead. You can fill one with holiday tunes, tried and true melodies or personal favorites.

However, don't forget that making a compilation for another person can be a means of subtle, yet powerful communication depending on how deep you look into it. For those romantically involved, this may be an opportune time to express just how you feel to the other person, only by letting other people sing it.

Alternative: Pick up a used CD from CD Tradepost or Hastings — you never know what treasure you might stumble upon for under $10. Check out the used DVDs and videos while you're at it.

Final touches

For little additions to your gift basket you can add little bottles of lotion, soap or candles. These gifts by themselves might scream "cliché," but they make nice touches along with the rest of the items. You can pick up a package of votive candles in your favorite scent and put one in each basket. As for the lotion and soap, you can grab a bunch of the travel-size items in the beauty and cosmetics department.

Alternative: If you want to skip the lotion and candles, simply add a few more treats to your gift basket to make up the difference and sign the card with the same amount of love.

Photo illustration by Jeanel Drake | COLLEGIAN

Drink up

Good food and good drink are synonymous with the holidays and essential to any personal gift basket. Start with their favorite drink, whether it is a can of pop, a miniature bottle of alcohol (for those 21 and over), a small can of coffee beans or a box of tea bags (thinking of your grandmother here).

Alternative: If keeping track of each friend's favorite drink gets a little out of hand, you can always go with cocoa mix. You can buy the individual packets of gourmet cocoa mix at Dillons for around 50 cents each.

Your smiling face

A great idea for both friends and adoring relatives is to give them a simple picture frame, filled with a photo of the two of you. You can pick up a blank 3.5 x 5 picture frame from Wal-Mart in craft department for about $1.50.

The blank picture frame needs a little paint — it is cardboard-brown otherwise — which requires time. You can grab a bottle of acrylic paint in the craft department at Wal-Mart for under $2, and one bottle will probably last you over 15 frames, granted you paint them all the same color.

If you are feeling really creative, find yourself a hot glue gun and start decorating. Try cutting an old CD up or bending it back and forth until it snaps to make small mirrored shapes. Slick paints — the tubes of paint usually used to paint t-shirts — are another easy way to make designs or to write words on your frame.

If you are not a crafty-person and don't mind spending the extra money, there is a wide selection of decorative frames at almost any department, craft or card store. Whether the frame is homemade or not, the gift will still be extremely personal by the photo you place inside.

Alternative: If you think your friends and family are all filled up on photos, try framing a nice holiday card or writing a cute little poem, if you are blessed with the ability.

Chocolate lovers unite

Bake up a batch of chocolate chip cookies or a pan of brownies. If you go for the brownies, cut them into squares (after they cool) and wrap them individually in colored plastic wrap. Or you can make a pan of fudge using this extra-simple recipe.

The best part is that you can change the flavor of the fudge just by changing the flavor of the chocolate chips — look for butterscotch, white chocolate, mint or even raspberry chocolate chips. You can also make peanut butter fudge by substituting the chips with 1 cup of peanut butter. Again, cut the fudge into squares and wrap individually.

Alternative: If you aren't the baker but still like the personal touch, you can purchase holiday sugar cookies from the K-State bakery sale on Wednesdays and decorate them with frosting yourself.

Easy fudge recipe
3 cups sugar
3/4 cup butter or margarine
2/3 cup evaporated milk
12 ounces semi-sweet chocolate chips
7 ounces marshmallow creme
1 teaspoon vanilla

Directions: Combine sugar, margarine and milk in heavy 2.5 quart saucepan; bring to full rolling bowl, stirring constantly. Continue boiling 5 minutes over medium heat, stirring constantly to prevent scorching. Remove from heat; stir in chips until melted. Add marshmallow creme and vanilla; beat until well blended. Pour into greased 9x13 inch pan. Cool at room temperature, cut into squares.

Uncommon ornaments

& other uncommon gifts
Come to GEOMETRICS
for a small town experience with big city products
Free gift wrapping
407 Poyntz, Manhattan
M-F 10-6, Sat 10-5 537-7677

Southern Sun
Great Gift Ideas
Two-fer Special
2 people enjoy 1 month unlimited tanning for just $50

•Gift Certificates
•30% OFF All Lotions
•Discounts on all packages
•Hydro massages
3232 Kimball Ave. (next to Bobby T's) 776-8060

university
COMMONS apartments
Get plugged in at UNIVERSITY COMMONS, where every apartment has access to Ethernet Connections, so you can always stay totally plugged in. Plus, along with an awesome ethernet connection, we'll throw in an incredible, ideally located, and affordable, fully furnished apartment with other awesome amenities . . .
• 2 & 4 Bedroom Apartment Homes • Individual Leases
•Decked-out Kitchens • Fully Furnished • Near KSU Stadium
•Computer Lab with Copier & Fax • Washers and Dryers in unit
• Tennis, Basketball & Volleyball Courts • Recreation Room
• Swimming Pool • Hot Tub • Permit Parking • Exercise Room
•Monitored Alarm Systems • Roommate Matching • Balconies
the place for people like you...
2215 COLLEGE AVENUE / 785-539-0500
www.universitycommons.com

DISCOUNTS GALORE
Reg. Sale
Coats..... $169.99 $149.99
House Shoes..... $49.99 $37.49
$44.99 $33.74
75% OFF Assorted Sandals and Shoes Limited Supply
35% OFF Leather Goods Belts • Billfolds Purses
25% OFF Shine Kits Wooden Boxes Travel Bags
MANHATTAN SHOE REPAIR
776-1193
216 South Fourth

THE Palace Cards & Gifts
Holiday Shopping 24 Days Left
Yankee Candles • Lang
Crabtree & Evelyn • Boyds
Silvestri • M. Engelbreit
K-State Apparel & Gifts
Picture Frames & Albums
Plus
Christmas Candles
Decorations, Cards
and the BEST selection of ornaments in town!!!

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

www.kstatecollegian.com | Tuesday, December 2, 2003 | Vol. 108, No.70

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

K-State Police continue search for 2-time flasher

By Melissa Hildebrand
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State Police continue to search for a man who allegedly exposed himself, one day after the Riley County Police Department arrested a man on similar charges.

Campus police received two separate reports of lewd behavior Nov. 23.

The first reported a man exposing his penis to a woman at Hale Library.

Sketch of suspect

The victim was inside the ground floor of Hale Library when she heard tapping on the window. When she looked out the window she found the suspect revealing to her his penis.

The second incident occurred in Leasure Hall. The suspect exposed his penis again to another female who was working in the office on the second floor. Both incidents were reported within 10 minutes of each other.

Both victims describe the suspect as a white male, about 19 to 23 years old and 5'11" to 6'0" tall, weighing around 170 lbs. He has a small tattoo on his right pelvic area. The tattoo was described as 2 inches in diameter with jagged edges.

"Right now our only lead we have is the clothes he was wearing," Lt. Troy Lane of K-State Police said.

The police department also has created a photo composite which is posted on the police Web site. Photos of the shirt he was wearing are on the Web site, as well, Lane said.

He said the case is not connected to the man who was arrested Saturday for lewd behavior. Michael Barton, senior in recreation and park administration, was arrested Saturday after exposing his penis to two victims in the McDonald's drive-thru. While ordering breakfast at 9:40 a.m., he exposed his penis to two female employees.

"We checked to see if there was a connection between the two cases," Lane said. "A victim looked at a picture of the man and determined he was not the right person."

How to Report information

1. Contact Lt. Troy Lane at 532-6412.
2. Go to the K-State police department in Edwards Hall.
3. Go to Silent Witness at www.ksu.edu/police to leave an anonymous tip.

Yuletide on parade

2nd annual Mayor's Lighted Christmas Parade draws hundreds of Manhattan residents.

Above, children carry a banner as they make their way down Poyntz Avenue to start the Mayor's Lighted Christmas Parade. The parade began at the Manhattan Town Center and ended at Triangle Park, where Mayor Mark Taussig lit a Christmas tree.
Right, Holly Edmonds, 10; Megan Clapp, 10; and Sarah Dempster, 9, all Manhattan residents, sing Christmas carols during the Mayor's Lighted Christmas Parade. Edmonds, Clapp and Dempster are members of the Girl Scouts troop 368.

Photos by Chris Hanewinckel
COLLEGIAN

See Page 3 for full story

UPC sponsors debate on marijuana legalization

By Scott A. Seel
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The debate over the legalization of marijuana rages on, but tonight, K-State students will be able to play a first-hand role in the argument.

The Union Program Council is sponsoring a debate "Heads vs. Feds," between prominent figures from both sides of the issue.

If you go "Heads vs. Feds"
What: legal forum on the legalization of marijuana.
When: 7 tonight.
Where: Union Main Ballroom.

Dusty McDonald, graduate assistant program adviser for UPC, said the debate will feature Steve Hager, former editor-in-chief of High Times magazine, where he has worked for more than 12 years, and Robert Stutman, a 25-year veteran of the Drug Enforcement Agency and current drug consultant for both PBS and CBS.

McDonald said Hager has been an enthusiastic supporter for reform in the U.S. legislation concerning marijuana for more than a decade and still plays a major role in both High Times and other counterculture endeavors.

"(Hager) created Freedom Fighters, a national marijuana legalization group," he said. "He currently edits all video content for High Times Magazine and just recently released a book called 'Adventures in Counterculture', which was released in August of 2002."

Stutman is a retired DEA agent who also authored an autobiography titled "Dead on Delivery" which has appeared on the New York Times Bestseller list.

He said Stutman was the head of the New York office of the DEA, which is the largest DEA office in the world.

McDonald said UPC was excited to bring this event, which is part of a national tour, to K-State.

"We thought this is something which would be relevant to both students on campus and to people in the community," McDonald said. "It's interesting to know that these two gentlemen are actually very close friends, despite how heated the debate can get."

Greg Bura, an agent for Wolfman Productions, the promotions company which promotes this event and others like it, said debates like this are important because they give audience members different perspectives on the issue.

"Debate stimulates intellectual conversation, and that is one of our goals," Bura said.

McDonald said the event will be extremely interactive.

"It will be a typical debate in that they will each be given a 15-minute opening remark and there will be comments and questions from the audience that follow."

4 football players charged in death of Fort Hays State University student

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

HAYS, Kan. – Prosecutors on Monday charged three Fort Hays State University football players and a fourth man in the beating death of another student last month.

Kansas Attorney General Phill Kline and Ellis County Attorney Tom Drees charged three football players – Bradley Deary, a 21-year-old junior from Smithville, Texas; Luis Llamas, 23, a senior from San Diego; and Christopher Ross, 19, a freshman from Wylie, Texas – and Fort Hays student Jaime Lopez III, 23, a senior from Chula Vista, Calif., with second-degree murder.

All four are accused of killing Clint Johnson, 18, of Healy, a freshman business major who was beaten in a Nov. 13 fight at an apartment complex north of the campus.

Johnson died two days later at a Wichita hospital.

Deary, Llamas, Ross and Lopez were being detained Monday in the Ellis County Jail on $50,000 bond.

If convicted, they face between nine and 41 years in prison.

Assistant Attorney General Stephen Maxwell will prosecute the case with Drees.

Llamas is a 6-foot-5, 245-pound linebacker who transferred to Fort Hays State this year from Bowling Green State University in Ohio.

He was the third-leading tackler on the Fort Hays team, which concluded its season Saturday.

Deary is a 6-1, 280-pound defensive lineman who had transferred from Eastern Arizona Community College.

Ross is a 6-1, 180-pound wide receiver who was an all-state performer at Wylie High School.

Hill City police arrest teenager for murder

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

HILL CITY, Kan. – A Hill City teenager was arrested Monday in the death of a 15-year-old girl whose body was found Nov. 24.

The 17-year-old boy is to be charged with kidnapping and first-degree murder in the death of Esmeralda Gonzales, Graham County Attorney Tony Potter said.

Bond had not been set, Potter said, and as of late Monday he did not know when the first court appearance would be held.

Assistant Attorney General John Bork is assisting Potter's office with the case.

Gonzales' body was found near a row of trees about 150 feet north of U.S. 24 near Hill City. She had been missing since late Nov. 22.

INSIDE

Don't let your wardrobe get stale. See latest winter fashions.

The Edge, Page 5

HEADLINES

The Associated Press

Budget season
With a decision looming on whether to seek a tax increase, Gov. Kathleen Sebelius began discussions Monday with her staff about the proposed budget she will submit to legislators in January.

Sebelius
KANSAS GOVERNOR

Insurgents' coordination
The Iraqi insurgency in Baghdad appears to have a central leadership that finances attacks in the capital and gives broad orders to eight to 12 rebel bands — some with as many as 100 guerrillas, U.S. Army generals said Monday.

Tripp marriage
Linda Tripp, her breast cancer arrested, said Monday she will marry her childhood sweetheart. Tripp was the Pentagon employee who went public with Monica Lewinsky's secrets and helped set in motion the scandal over President Clinton's relationship with the intern.

Boeing shift
Boeing Co. chairman and chief executive Phil Condit, citing a year of controversies involving the huge aerospace manufacturer, resigned unexpectedly only days after the company fired two other Boeing officials for an alleged ethics breach.

Condit

DON'T FORGET

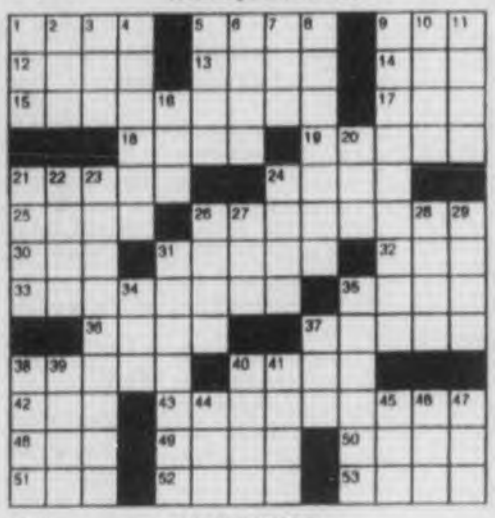
■ Student tickets for the Dr Pepper Big 12 Championship game go on sale at 8 a.m. today at Bramlage Coliseum. Cost is $70 each, and only football season ticket holders are eligible to purchase.

Weather

Today: Afternoon showers 49 | 33
Wednesday: Mostly cloudy 43 | 29

Claflin Books and Copies
1814 Claflin Rd. (785) 776-3771
www.claflinbooks.com Fax: (785) 776-1009

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer



ACROSS
1 Loutish sort
5 Set off the polygraph
9 The girl
12 Wash
13 Instrument
14 Hem's partner
15 On the road
17 Feast-famine link
18 "When — 17, ..."
19 Poe inspiration
21 Viewpoint
24 Rayburn or Roddenberry
25 Remedy
26 Cajoled
30 Altar affirmative
31 Satan's purchases
32 Dockworkers' org.
33 Fans, big-time
35 Estival pest
36 Cupid's aka
37 Carta lead-in
38 Bourbon recipe
40 Bellow
42 Inventor Whitney
43 Whiny
46 — Arbor, MI
49 — noire
50 It's all in your head
51 Kvatch
52 2003, e.g.
53 Cornfield comments

DOWN
1 Lunch counter order
2 Scull need
3 Eggs
4 Abuse verbally
5 Showgirl "At the Copa"
6 Wading bird
7 A long time
8 Fraternal lodge levels
9 Wintertime chore
10 Aesoplan also-ran
11 Actor McGregor
16 Ram's ma'am
20 Moreover
21 Alkali neutralizer
22 Artist's model, maybe
23 Subservient, perhaps
24 Solidifies
26 Troubles
27 Coloration
28 Vivacity
29 Information
31 Visits
34 Tramcar contents
35 Vampire repellent
37 West of Hollywood
38 Arp or Anouilh
39 Radius' neighbor
40 Beatles' meter maid
41 At an end
44 Born
45 Cretan mountain
46 Fresh
47 Filling-station supply

Solution time: 21 mins.

Yesterday's answer 12-2

12-2 CRYPTOQUIP

HJ QTZL URLGYT VIHGL HQ YHFHAM HA BOIZTAN, NTR ZON BOFL O MILOV GHM BTUH JOZHYN.

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: THE SLICK ASTRONOMER, WHEN ASKED WHAT A PLANET WAS, REPLIED "NO COMET."

Today's Cryptoquip Clue: B equals H

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 2! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to CryptoClassics Book 2, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475

The Cryptoquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.

© 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

STRANGE BUT TRUE

NEWS OF THE WEIRD BY CHUCK SHEPHERD

Illustration by Stefanie Shank | COLLEGIAN

IN THE LAST MONTH

Hearing jeers during a curtain call after his version of the Richard Wagner opera "Tristan and Isolde," director Gerald Thomas dropped his trousers and mooned the audience (Rio de Janeiro). And Lyon, France, bought 10,000 plastic dog droppings to place on the city's sidewalks, hoping they would shock dog owners' consciences into cleaning up after their own dogs. And Naked Lunch, believed to be the country's first stand-alone (not located in a nudist camp) clothing-optional restaurant, opened in downtown Key West.

INEXPLICABLE

In July, to increase membership, the Gay and Lesbian Alliance of Cape Town, South Africa, voted 19-2 to become the Death Penalty Party of South Africa, with a special "lesbigay" subgroup. And in September, the Manitoba government announced it was ordering 40,000 condoms for prisoners in its 10 jails and specified that they be of "assorted flavors" of "strawberry, banana and vanilla" (though shortly afterward, it cut back on the number).

LATEST RELIGIOUS MESSAGES

During filming in a remote area of Italy earlier this year for the controversial Mel Gibson film "The Passion of Christ," the actor who portrays Jesus was struck during a lightning storm, according to an October report in the trade paper Variety. Also struck was assistant director Jan Michelini, who had been struck by lightning at a previous shoot for the film, in Matera, Italy. None of the strikes created a serious injury. The film's portrayals of Christ and of Jews are expected to make it extremely controversial.

LEAST COMPETENT CRIMINALS

News of the Weird has reported several times on police officer wannabes who don uniforms and perform free-lance traffic stops (usually limiting their work to merely lecturing the motorists). However, faced with recalcitrant drivers, police imposters Jeremy Lepianka, 22, in Syracuse, N.Y., in September, and Donald Sebastian, 54, in Cleveland, Ohio, in November, took an extra, bold step: They actually called headquarters for backup. In both cases, the incidents eventually led to the imposters' arrests. (Asked for an explanation for his obsession, Sebastian said it was just his way of giving back to the community.)

MORE THINGS TO WORRY ABOUT

According to testimony at a disciplinary hearing, British dentist Neville Kan, working on a patient who already owed him the equivalent of US $100, drilled a hole in her tooth and said he'd fill it only if she paid up immediately (Chiswick, England, July). And a 26-year-old man, arrested in an Internet sting trying to meet a "15-year-old girl" (who was, of course, a cop), asked the arresting officer if he'd be released on bond in time to make a scheduled meeting with his fiancee about their upcoming wedding (Fort Worth, Texas, July).

The blotter | Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Wednesday, Nov. 26

■ At 11 a.m., Beverly Joyce, 2617 Northfield Circle, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $50,000.
■ At 1 p.m., David Sherwin, 530 Kearney St., was arrested for endangering a child, unlawful possession of depressants, driving on a suspended license and DUI. Bond was set at $4,000.
■ At 4 p.m., Eric Ortmann, 1851 Todd, No. E4, was arrested for driving on a suspended license. Bond was set at $1,500.
■ At 9:30 p.m., Tharon Johnson, Junction City, Kan., was arrested for driving on a suspended license. Bond was set at $1,000.
■ At 11 p.m., Sherwood Bishop, 5613 High Meadow Circle, was arrested for criminal damage to property. Bond was set at $2,000.

Thursday, Nov. 27

■ At 11:15 p.m., Ronni Jones, Junction City, Kan., was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 11:45 a.m., Clayton Burgess II, 905 Enoch, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $241.
■ At 3:43 p.m., Allison Shearer, 929 Colorado St., was arrested for probation violation. Bond was set at $500.

Friday, Nov. 28

■ At 11:29 p.m., Allen Arceneaux Jr, 1127 Pierre St., was arrested for driving on a suspended license. Bond was set at $750.

Saturday, Nov. 29

■ At 12:30 a.m., Christopher Brown, 1323 Houston St., was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $1,500.
■ At 2:03 a.m., Shawn Cargal, 730 Allen Road, No. 19, was arrested for driving on a suspended license and DUI. Bond was set at $1,500.
■ At 3:50 a.m., Jared Appel, 1711 Westbank Way, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 6:25 a.m., Monisure Slaughter, Junction City, Kan., was arrested for battery, aggravated escape from custody and sale of opiates. Bond was set at $72,000.
■ At 9:30 a.m., Jacob Weil, Manhattan, was arrested for burglary, possession of a controlled substance and unlawful possession of depressants. Bond was set at $4,000.
■ At 11 a.m., Michael Barton, 408 Summit, was arrested for lewd and lascivious behavior. Bond was set at $500.
■ At 4:07 p.m., Jeanette Olivan, 1431 Cambridge, was arrested for criminal trespass. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 5:45 p.m., Shawn Penland, 4748 Freeman, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 11:24 p.m., Brian Riffle, Wakefield, Kan., was arrested for assault of a law officer, worthless check, disorderly conduct and failure to appear. Bond was set at $1,628.74.

Sunday, Nov. 30

■ At 12:50 a.m., Jared Peterson, Wamego, Kan., was arrested for transporting an open container and DUI. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 1:35 a.m., Timothy Colston Sr., 900 Gardenway, No. 7, was arrested for criminal damage to property and criminal trespass. Bond was set at $1,500.
■ At 1:50 a.m., Jessica Hedgecock, 901 Leavenworth St., was arrested for disorderly conduct. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 2:38 a.m., Matthew Newkirk, 1740 Leavenworth St., was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 2:45 a.m., Timothy Colston Sr., 900 Gardenway, No. 7, was arrested for criminal damage to property. Bond was set at $500.
■ At 2:23 p.m., Jason Brinkerhoff, 2010 Seaton, No. 2, was arrested for driving on a suspended license. Bond was set at $3,000.

Monday, Dec. 1

■ At 2:15 a.m., Blake Evans, 429 Moore Hall, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $1,500.

The planner | Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@spub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

■ "Listening to the Prairie: Farming in Nature's Image," an exhibition that teaches the history of the prairie and new farming approaches, is at Hale Library.
■ Entries for the Intramural 3-point shootout will be taken from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. today through Thursday at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex administration office.
■ The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Timur Osipov at 11 a.m. today in Cardwell 220.
■ The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Leanna Wilson at 1 p.m. today in Bluemont 368.
■ The Department of Geology will be host to a seminar by members of the Kansas Geological Survey at 4 p.m. today in Thompson 213.
■ The Division of Biology will be host to a seminar at 4 p.m. today in Ackert 221.
■ Powercat Masters Toastmasters will have a meeting at 5 p.m. today in Durland 1029.
■ Lutheran Campus Ministry will have a supper and Bible study at 6 tonight at the Lutheran Campus Center, 1745 Anderson Ave.
■ AED Pre-health Honorary will meet at 7 tonight in Rathbone 1066.
■ The Baptist Campus Center will have a topical Bible study at 8 tonight. The discussion will be on relationships.
■ KSU Habitat for Humanity will meet at 8 tonight in Union East Stateroom.
■ Occupational Therapy Club will meet today in Union 20.
■ The College of Business Administration's Study Abroad Advocates will host a "Last-Minute Studying Abroad Tips" seminar for business students going out in the spring at 5 p.m. Wednesday in Calvin 212.

Kansas State Collegian
(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.

© Kansas State Collegian, 2003

Corrections and clarifications
Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor James Hurla at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@spub.ksu.edu.

Contact us

Kansas State Collegian
Kedzie 103
Manhattan, KS 66502
Display ads.....532-6560
Classified ads.....532-6555
Newsroom.....532-6556
news@spub.k-state.edu
Delivery problems.....532-6555

dependable, quality service
✓copy your dissertations
Claflin Books and Copies

Cure Discovered for Being Broke!

Scientists Discover A Thing They Called A JOB!

And Sykes Has Plenty!

- Good Pay
- Good Benefits
- Clean and comfortable A/C working environment
- Flexible work available 24 x 7 for class schedules
- Paid Training in latest Computer/Internet Skills
- Paid vacation and holidays
- Part time schedules available

Sykes is now hiring Customer Support Technicians
Full time or Part time
SYKES
Apply 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.
5970 Sykes Blvd.
(behind the Manhattan Airport)
Manhattan, KS 66503

PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS
1800 Claflin Road
776-5577
We Deliver During Lunch!
VISA

Bobby T's
Neighborhood Sports Bar and Grill
$2.00 Margaritas
50¢ Tacos
$1.50 Draws
$2 Coronas
Taco Tuesday
3240 Kimball Ave
537-8383
Salsa Dance Party at 9:30 p.m.

Film SALE | stock up now for the holidays
FRESH, UNOPENED FILM
Priced 20% less than discount stores.
Deeper discounts when buying in volume.
Fujifilm Color 800 Speed 35mm
$2.52 36 Exposures
$12.10 for 5 rolls
$23.95 for 10 rolls
Fujifilm Color 400 Speed 35mm
$1.80 36 Exposures
$8.50 for 5 rolls
$16.75 for 10 rolls
Fujifilm Color 100 Speed 35mm
$1.44 36 Exposures
$6.70 for 5 rolls
$13.15 for 10 rolls
Purchase in 103 Kedzie
8-5 M-F

Christmas parade wows crowd

By Kristi Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Santa Claus made a special appearance at the second annual Mayor's Lighted Christmas Parade. Twice.

"It is pretty cool, but Santa hasn't come yet," Marvin Schaller said.

Mitchell Schaller corrected his older brother, saying, "There he is!"

Marvin and Mitchell's sisters agreed on one thing. "I like the lights," Molly said.

"Me too," little sister Mariah said. "I like the candy, too."

Monday night, hundreds of people gathered on the parade route, from Manhattan Town Center to Triangle Park in Aggieville.

Couples, young and old, sat on blankets atop benches, and mothers and fathers kept their children close to the curbside.

When the parade drew to a close at the park, a tree was lit.

George and Dorothy Dickerhoof stayed covered with a blanket sitting on the wall of First United Methodist Church. They said they were there to see the golf cart float created by members of their church, Blue Valley Memorial United Methodist.

"We had to come and cheer them on," Dorothy said.

The Dickerhoofs have been to the parade both years of its existence.

"We are enjoying it," George said.

Gayle Connet and her son, Trey, watched the parade after Trey's cello lesson at Glenn's Music.

"I knew we were going to be stuck here on the street, so we decided to just stick around and watch it," Gayle said.

Mark Claussen, owner of Claussen's Custom Jewelry, stood in the doorway of his shop.

"I'm enjoying this in the warmth as opposed to the cold," Claussen said.

Victoria Beemer and her younger friend, Justin Youngblood, stuck around the parade site with their parents after it was over.

"I liked the candy best," Youngblood said.

Beemer said she liked one of the Santas.

"I liked the first Santa, the one on the tractor," she said.

Bonnie Eaton and her daugther waited outside a coffeeshop with drinks in hand. They anticipated seeing Eaton's son with the Riley County High School Band.

"This is his first year in it," Eaton said.

As the streets cleared, Beemer and Youngblood's parents yelled for them to come back close.

The lights on the tree brightened after the countdown, and the children saw the man in red. The 2003 Christmas excitement brought to the community by Mayor Mark Taussig finally drew to a close.

VISIONS

Nov. 19, 2003 | Washington, D.C.

Jeanel Drake | COLLEGIAN

"It ain't no use putting up your umbrella 'til it rains."

Alice Caldwell Rice, American humorist and writer

Texas plague researcher cleared of charges

By Betsy Blaney
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LUBBOCK, Texas – A world-renowned plague researcher was cleared Monday of the most serious charges he faced related to a bioterrorism scare triggered when he reported plague samples missing from his Texas Tech University lab.

Thomas Butler was convicted of 47 charges, but most of them stemmed from an investigation entirely separate from the plague scare.

The jury acquitted Butler of 22 charges accusing him of smuggling and illegally transporting the potentially deadly germ, as well as lying to federal agents.

Butler, 62, appeared stunned as the verdicts were read after two days of deliberations. He closed his eyes, shook his head and fought back tears. After the jury left the courtroom, Butler's wife and son hugged him tightly for several seconds.

The charges stemmed from his report to police Jan. 14 that 30 vials of the potentially deadly plague bacteria were missing from his lab. FBI agents rushed to Lubbock to investigate the scare, and President Bush was briefed about the incident.

In a statement written later, Butler said he accidentally destroyed the samples. However, during his trial he testified that he had no clear memory of destroying the vials but that they could have been destroyed during his cleanup of an accident in January.

Butler declined to comment after the verdict.

The jury of nine men and three women also cleared him of smuggling plague samples into the United States in April 2002 and illegally transporting them to federal facilities.

"We are pleased that Tom was found not guilty of lying to the FBI. We are particularly pleased the jury found him not guilty of perpetuating a hoax regarding his report of the missing plague vials," defense lawyer Chuck Meadows said.

Butler was found guilty of 44 theft, embezzlement, fraud, and mail and wire fraud charges pertaining to shadow contracts prosecutors claimed he had illegally negotiated with pharmaceutical companies with which he also had clinical studies contracts. Butler was acquitted of 10 similar charges.

Those 54 charges were part of an indictment alleging Butler received $320,675 from two pharmaceutical companies to conduct clinical trials on drugs to treat Type 2 diabetes and severe sepsis, an often-fatal infection of the bloodstream, without Texas Tech's knowledge.

The companies paid him amounts separate from and above payments to the university's health science center for other clinical studies, the indictment said.

The jury also found Butler guilty of making a false statement on a Fed Ex package that contained plague samples he sent to Tanzania and their unauthorized export to the African country.

The Wait is over! Your 2003 Royal Purple is here Pick it up! 103 Kedzie 8am-5pm

BUY • TRADE • SELL • TRADE
OLE MIKE'S SHOOTERS SUPPLY & TACKLE
HUNTING & FISHING LICENSES
1111 N. 3RD • 537-9015
www.las-vegas.com

Little Caesars
HOT-N-READY PIZZA
$5.00 LARGE WITH PEPPERONI Carry Out Only
ALL DAY, EVERYDAY!
1150 Westloop • 539-3333

PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER
"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting & adoption."
539-3338
Free pregnancy tests
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment
Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

HUNAM
Restaurant and Mongolian BBQ
1304 Westloop 539-8888
Lunch Buffet $4.95 Mon.-Sat. All you can eat!
Dinner Buffet $6.95 All you can eat!
Friday Night Seafood Buffet $8.45
Crabs legs, scallops, fish, shrimp, etc.
FREE DELIVERY
• OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK •
$1.00 off Buffet
Please present coupon
1304 Westloop 539-8888

Sell it on half.com and get more out of it than you did all semester.

Get a better return on your textbooks by selling them direct to buyers on half.com. Just click on "sell your stuff." It's easy, and you'll never have to stand in line. Remember, half.com is not just a great place to sell textbooks, it's also a great place to buy holiday gifts!

half.com™ by ebay®

For a limited time, first-time buyers
Save an additional $5
on purchases of $50 or more!
Simply use this code:
GOKANSASSTATE

Holiday gifts at half prices.

Great deals on all the hottest gifts, including the latest DVDs, CDs, video games and more!

Copyright 2003 Half.com, Inc. Half.com and the Half.com logo are service marks of Half.com, Inc. All other trademarks and service marks are the property of their owners. Quantities, pricing and availability are not guaranteed and will vary due to supply and demand. Coupon is for first-time buyers only. Limited time offer; excludes shipping and handling; offer subject to change or termination without prior notice.

TO THE EDITOR

City ordinance has no place to preach morality to citizens

Editor,

In response to Mr. Loewen's column Monday concerning Manhattan City Ordinance sections 22-59, 22-60 and 22-61, I offer one solid piece of advice: learn the art of the "tuck-up." It is a well-documented fact that public erections are a detriment to society, opaquely covered or not, and a product of the "evil doers" of the world.

Such people, including atheists, feminists, and Democrats, continually argue that pornography, such as the mere hint of a butt-crack, has a place in our social environment and personal life.

They are wrong.

I have been raised to believe that freedom of expression deserves the utmost prominence in our society, as long as it does not conflict with my beliefs or practices.

Holding true to one's convictions is not very popular these days, but the great City of Manhattan has taught me an important lesson today on faith: sometimes eternal salvation just has to be legislated.

Jared Wiesner
SENIOR IN POLITICAL SCIENCE

Supporters of new anti-nudity bill lack logical arguments

Editor,

Leann Sulzen's Nov. 24 report on Manhattan's anti-nudity ordinance understandably leaves out a few things.

First, the ordinance is mainly a copy-cat adoption from the radical religious right, whose reputation for understanding, tolerance and creative problem-solving is not exactly widespread.

Some think the Supreme Court has upheld this ordinance, but it is being used without examination. In particular, it discriminates against women, whose chests are deemed indecent or obscene while men's aren't.

It also engages in a logical impossibility, claiming that nudity involves being covered. That's in the part where guys are forbidden to have erections under their clothes. Yes, that's what it implies.

Would fraternities at K-State consider that constitutional?

The ordinance also forbids many healthful forms of nudity. Most significantly, it signs on to the rampant and obsessive American body shame, phobia, even demonization. That's what the real crime is.

Paul Rapoport
SCHOOL OF THE ARTS
MCMASTER UNIVERSITY
HAMILTON, ONTARIO, CANADA

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@spub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Paul Restivo | EDITOR IN CHIEF Katie Lane | MANAGING EDITOR

James Hurla NEWS EDITOR
Kelly Glasscock PHOTO EDITOR
Corbin H. Crable COPY CHIEF
Dave Skretta SPORTS EDITOR
Rachel Krier THE EDGE EDITOR
Chris Harrop ONLINE EDITOR
Abbie Whited CITY/GOV EDITOR
Andrew Lawson OPINION EDITOR
Jared Jaynes AD MANAGER
Edie Hall CAMPUS EDITOR
Dana Strongin WRITING COACH
Jenny Calvert ASST. AD MANAGER

WEDNESDAY'S OPINIONS

CHRIS HARROP

Christopher Harrop argues in favor of satirical writing and cartooning about politics as a valid and necessary form of free speech.

KATHRYN HOLLINGSWORTH

Kathryn Hollingsworth lays down some simple driving rules that people just don't seem to understand, which can be dangerous this time of year.

Tactical changes

3 recent trends indicate additional centralized guerrilla planning in Iraq

ANDREW LAWSON

As I predicted Nov. 20, a shift in tactics by the insurgents in Iraq has shed more light on their identities.

This shift was not precipitated by Americans pulling out of various cities of the Sunni Triangle, though.

There are three main signs that the guerrillas have adjusted their "mission planning." In doing so, they are revealing a depth of foresight and planning that seems to correspond more to al Qaeda-like organizations than simple homegrown freedom fighters.

1. UNPROTECTED INTERNATIONAL TARGETS HAVE BECOME POPULAR.

Last week, several Italians were killed in Iraq. Between Saturday and Sunday, a Colombian contractor, two Japanese diplomats, two South Korean electricians and seven Spanish intelligence officers were killed in incidents that might be related to the large ambush on American troops.

Although it is possible apolitical insurgents fighting only to drive out "invaders" may have targeted these civilians, it is more likely their deaths were part of a more far-reaching plan to pressure our allies into pulling out of Iraq and leaving America with even less international support.

For now, Italy, Japan, South Korea and Spain have spoken out that they will not be intimidated, but if tolls continue to be incurred, they and others eventually might rethink that position.

Regardless, this kind of thinking seems to be more typical of a group with long-range goals that span multiple countries, not just a band of thugs preying on international workers.

2. FIGHTERS ARE BECOMING MORE OPEN ABOUT THEIR IDENTIFICATION.

The soldiers in the ambush have been described as wearing "Fedayeen-like" black garments. This is the first report of any kind of identifiable allegiances among the guerrillas.

These outfits seem to lend credence to the theory that some combination of Fedayeen, Republican Guardsmen and Baathist loyalists are behind the coordination of these attacks, perhaps even with Saddam as the guiding influence.

Additionally, the military announced recently that they had captured three al Qaeda fighters in Iraq. While interrogations might have produced this information, these soldiers may well have been carrying some kind of documentation that identified them as such. Either way, this is the first such report.

Perhaps the insurgents' increasing willingness to be identified reflects a greater appeal for support to the general Iraqi population. People remember the Fedayeen and have heard of al Qaeda, and thus might rally around them patriotically, but faceless killers in the night inspire only fear.

3. ATTACKS ARE DECREASING IN FREQUENCY, BUT INCREASING IN DEADLINESS.

If there is one trait that can be attributed to al-Qaeda, it is the organization's knack for planning elaborate operations at low cost that produce large numbers of casualties and profound psychological impact.

Clearly, Sept. 11 was their crowning achievement in this regard.

Until recently, the hit-and-run attacks in Iraq did not really meet this standard. Yes, body counts have been rising, but the average attack has only killed a handful of soldiers. Therefore, it has taken frequent and numerous small attacks to create even the current level of casualties.

Now, however, there is a new and disturbing trend.

Over the last few months, the military estimates the frequency of attacks have dropped 30 percent, but they have become 35 percent more deadly. This weekend's ambush was the largest battle since May, when hostilities supposedly ended.

While no attack or combat in Iraq has yet single-handedly approached the complexity or deadliness of typical al Qaeda operations, it is indisputable that Saturday's and Sunday's attacks represent a new, intermediate stage.

Taken together, these three operational trends strengthen the theory that there is a guiding vision to what initially appeared to be more of a grassroots effort.

Unfortunately, while we can speculate as to the identity of the creator or creators of the said vision all we want, we will probably not get a clearer picture until the next attack.

Andrew is a junior in print journalism and political science. You can e-mail him at lawson@k-state.edu.

Illustrations by Angela Arneson

Surviving academic stress requires taking care of mind, body

NASRINA WILLIAMS

College students have it rough this time of year.

We might live the "good life" for the majority of the year, but the final few weeks of a semester are horrific enough to balance the scales of justice.

Thanksgiving break is over. The last three weeks of the semester are upon us. For some students, a final exam will determine their grade in a course. For others, a last round of lengthy papers will decide their fate.

It is time to talk about survival.

How can we all get through these final few weeks with our sanity intact? My experiences have left me with the following suggestions for anyone else who is "feeling the burn," in an academic sense this time of year.

START PREPARING NOW

You're tired, stressed out and ready for the semester to be over already. It is very tempting to put off preparing for finals week until the last minute. While procrastination might be tempting, this is the worst time of year to indulge in it.

Cumulative finals take more preparation time than one all-night cram session. If you start studying now, then the amount of studying needed during finals week will be significantly decreased. The same principle applies to composing final papers. Beginning now will take the pressure off later.

DON'T NEGLECT YOUR PHYSICAL HEALTH

If you let your body run down now, then once finals arrive, you will be unable to perform. Now is the time to make sleep a priority, eat right and exercise.

Your body is like a race car. You need to make sure it's in peak condition before the race or else you risk a mid-lap breakdown.

Stress is damaging to the immune system. Since there's really no logical way to not have some end-of-the-semester stress, be sure you aren't adding to the problem with other unhealthy habits. Being ill during finals week has caused scores to suffer.

CHECK YOUR ATTITUDE

It's natural to feel a bit on edge during this time of year, but don't let it get the best of you. Snapping at loved ones and reveling in your feelings of despondency will not help matters. Complaining about your workload does not make it magically diminish.

A short session of bonding with a friend over shared miseries is fine, but working your stress into every conversation only makes you sound self-centered and whiny.

What will help matters is doing your best to make light of things.

Remember, there are worse things in life than a poor grade on a final. Putting additional pressure on yourself takes focus away from the process and puts it on the end result.

Don't be so focused on the grade that you forget to really learn something valuable from the course.

Nasrina is a senior in philosophy. You can e-mail her at neb6793@k-state.edu.

CAMPUS FOURUM | 395-4444

Toby Keith and Darryl Worley are leeches. How many millions of dollars have they made off the Sept. 11 tragedy? Yeah, they're real patriots — laughing all the way to the bank.

I finally figured out why Santa's so jolly — because he knows where all the bad girls live.

Here I am, stranded on I-70, and my roommate's too busy having sex to answer her phone.

Vanier Academic Counselors? More like Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry professors.

No, I wasn't talking to you. I was talking to myself. I was just hoping you overheard.

Edie Hall is the best damn campus editor ever.

Maybe the Tri-Delts should start taking showers. They're getting kinda stinky.

Paris Hilton has flooded my inbox — an incredibly rich, spoiled little girl who has never had to work a day in her life. I often wonder if people like this sold their souls to the devil before they even made it into the womb.

This is to Mark Taussig, me and my erection are sitting here in the Union, you'd better come and arrest me.

It's nudie magazine day! It's nudie magazine.

I am the English wiz.

K-State football tickets, $150. K-State out of state tuition $6,000. Finding Viagra at a college party: Priceless.

Love your enemies in case your friends turn out to be a bunch of bastards.

Oklahoma? More like your mother.

Not enough Fourum?
Visit www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

Illustration by Jeanel Drake | COLLEGIAN

The latest trends in winter fashion

By Rachel Krier
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The trees might have turned orange and the sky a shade of gray, but the color this winter is actually pink – at least for women's fashion.

"Pink is overall really popular right now. A lot of greens and pinks together, which is unusual," said Jennifer Saunders, sales associate at American Eagle Outfitters and senior in marketing.

One hot item that comes in an array of colors is the scarf. Scarves are making a comeback with matching hats and gloves. They can be found almost anywhere clothes are sold, from Wal-Mart to the mall.

"We have matching hats and scarves," Cindy Kulp, district manager for The Buckle, said. "Girls are definitely wearing scarves with or without the coat."

Another fashion making a comeback is styles from the 1970s and '80s, Michelle Kozer, salesperson at Gadzooks, said.

Monogram embroidery has been resurrected from the Lavern and Shirley era, Kozer said. The cursive initial now decorates the top corner of shirts, sweaters, jackets, even hats and scarves.

Kozer said '80s fashion is steadily being integrated into the new millennium with plaid skirts, big prints and bold colors.

"Last year was more western and this year is more mod," Kozer said. "We have multicolored prints, big checkered prints, plaid, and white pipping on black jackets."

Another change from last year is the more fitted look for sweaters, Saunders said.

"Sweaters are a lot tighter fitting – not as big and bulky as they have been," Saunders said. "We have a lot of sweaters with hoods. Sweaters over the collar shirts are back too."

As far as coats go, Kozer said fur is still popular along with leather, suede and corduroy. She said bomber and aviator jackets also are popular.

Preseason coat sales were down due to the warmer weather in October, Saunders said, but winter clothing sales have picked up with the holiday. Saunders said they tend to sell fewer winter items than other seasons, in general.

"Winter clothes tend to be more expensive," Saunders said. "Obviously, we'll sell more tank-tops for $12 than sweaters for $50 each."

AND IN MEN'S FASHION

The seasons change, but men's fashion does not.

"Guys fashion is pretty repetitive. It's the same red sweater every winter," Thayer said. "More variety would help a lot with looking more unique."

Thayer, though, said men still like to buy new clothes.

"Guys like to get new things as well," Thayer said. "They still go buy new clothes for the season – it's just the same old stuff."

The colors for men's fashion seem to be the usual darker colors: red, navy, hunter green.

One relatively drastic change in men's fashion is shoes, Kulp said.

"Men's shoes have gone through a total rebirth," Kulp said. "We are way past the days of one pair of tennis shoes and a pair of Doc Martins."

Kulp said they are now carrying a wide variety of styles from the vintage tennis shoe to the worn-leather shoe.

Kulp said men's jeans also have changed over the years. The slimmer fit is more popular now in a variety of washes and shades, Kulp said.

Stocking caps are back as usual, but this year men's scarves might be on the shelves as well. Scarves aren't nearly as popular for men as they are for women, but Thayer said he thinks a few guys might wear them.

"Kansas is too conservative for something like that," Thayer said. "But scarves might do well. Stocking caps and woolies will of course."

IN BRIEF

The Associated Press

Roy still hospitalized

Illusionist Roy Horn of "Siegfried & Roy" is slowly recovering from a tiger attack that has kept him hospitalized since October, his partner said Monday.

"He is moving now, little by little," Siegfried Fischbacher said in an interview on NBC's "Today" show. "(He's) speaking a few words ... but this develops also every day."

Roy has been off his respirator for two weeks, Fischbacher said, and has recovered enough to spend Christmas in Las Vegas, where the duo was performing at the time of the attack.

When Harry Met Sally

"When Harry Met Sally ..." is coming to London's West End as a stage show, starring Luke Perry in the role Billy Crystal made famous in the 1989 film.

Perry

The play is scheduled to open Feb. 20 at the Theatre Royal Haymarket, producer James Tod said.

New York honors band

Joey Ramone and his bandmates helped put CBGB on the cultural map, and his friends and fans from the legendary punk rock club have now returned the favor.

The Manhattan corner where the Bowery meets Second Street was renamed Joey Ramone Place on Sunday, 2 1/2 years after his death from cancer at age 49.

Ramone

"Joey was a true New Yorker," said bandmate Marky Ramone. "This honor today conveys what a monolith of talent he was."

Although many Ramones songs, such as "Beat on the Brat," reflect their twisted teen years in Queens, they are most closely associated with the East Village and CBGB, widely considered the birthplace of American punk.

NEW RELEASES

DVD (*also on video)

"Big O 2"
"Farscape" season 4 collection 1
"Legend of Dragon Kings"
"Original Dirty Pair"
"Pirates of the Caribbean: The Curse of the Black Pearl"
"Rahxephon 7"
"Faint Seiya 2"
"Spirit Warrior"
"Stream Detectives"
"To Live and Die in LA"
"Witch Hunter Robin 2"

Music

Alicia Keys, "Diary of Alicia Keys"
David Bowie, "Best of Bowie"
John Hammond, "Footwork"
Pillar, "Broken Down: The EP"
Various Artists, "Tooth & Nail 10th Anniversary"
Trace Adkins, "Comin on Strong"
Dirty Rig, "Blood, Sweat and Beer Make America Strong"

Supported by
Digital Shelf
7,000 + different DVD titles
706 N. 11th 776-6959
www.ksuDIGITALSHELF.com
Hours:
Mon.-Sun. 11 a.m.-midnight
sell us your DVDs & video games

A kiss could mean more than what some might think

PILLOW TALK

A weekly column discussing the issues of dating, relationships and sex.

If memory serves me, besides the time I tackled that guy in first grade, I have never kissed anyone. Nor been kissed. I would like to think that I am no "Josie Grossie," but who knows?

It has not been due to a lack of chances nor desire to kiss another. But I have chosen to wait. Some may ask why. A kiss is just a kiss – nothing more.

I mean, abstinence from sex is enough of a challenge, why abstain from kissing?

The truth is not having kissed anybody only makes me more excited for what that first kiss brings. I believe anyone can make such a commitment at anytime.

In a society which trades patience for uninhibited pleasure-seeking, one may discover that a kiss – not to mention the act of sex itself – loses all meaning when carelessly given out before the timing is right. Our bodies reach maturity before our social selves do, and we find it hard to ignore the desires and needs of our bodies.

TAMMY JO OSBORN

Why should we wait if our body is telling us it is ready to exert its maturity?

What we gain from waiting may be invisible now, but in the end, profits much more.

I maintain that even the granting of a kiss says a lot. It creates a connection with another. A kiss is the first step down a path that leads one's body to believe further satisfaction is just around the corner. Even though it seems harmless, reality only serves to illustrate our continuing separation we maintain between our body and mind.

Our body has a mind of its own, and we must acknowledge and appreciate that fact.

We must listen to it and not play with it. Even a kiss tells our body something our mind may not be ready to go along with.

The truth is we can never "find" ourselves through a kiss or the act of making love. We must find ourselves apart from that, and then bring our self to the relationship that demands constant care and work.

So before you believe the song "if you wanna know, it's in his (her) kiss ..." remember: what you want to know comes from deep inside. That knowledge comes from maturity, time and the ability to seek it in yourself, and not another.

It is OK to acknowledge that your mind is not ready for what your body wants, and one should expect another to understand such an important factor.

After all, if a person really loves you, they want you to be there in body, mind and soul. So before you get excited about a kiss, remember what it tells your body, and make sure you are ready for that commitment.

The greatest gift you can give someone else is to let him or her know that you are not ready, and you want to wait. That is an act of love, no matter what strong emotions that seem to course through your veins tell you about romance.

Tammy Jo is a senior in political science, international studies, anthropology and pre-medicine. You can e-mail her at tammyjo@k-state.edu.

Herr Metzger | Julian Narino — www.herrmetzger.com

Puck | Kent Holle — kentramone@yahoo.com

Cats look to get back on winning track after loss

Huskies make rare visit to Manhattan

By Nabil Shaheen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

DeKalb, Ill., was once simultaneously home to Cindy Crawford and K-State Coach Deb Patterson.

Patterson helped lead the Huskies to their first NCAA Tournament berth and highest national ranking in the 1989-90 season, and Crawford helped herself leave the city for presumably bigger and better things.

Patterson eventually left to take the helm of the Wildcat women's program in 1997.

Crawford wears the glass slipper every day as a supermodel, while Patterson turned a team around – and now wants her squad to wear that same slipper symbolizing a Cinderella-story, again, in late March.

Her team will be looking to bounce back from its 69-58 defeat at the hands of No. 7 Penn State in the Junkanoo Jam Tournament on Saturday night.

The Cats return to Bramlage at 7 tonight after spending a week in the Bahamas, where they they were runners-up in the tournament's Freeport Division.

K-State won its only home game this year, and dating to the 2001 season, the Cats have lost three times in Bramlage, going 32-3.

Northern Illinois is 2-1 and returns to Manhattan for the first time in 19 years, hoping to avenge last season's 63-58 loss in DeKalb.

After the Huskie football team played spoiler in the fall, the women's basketball team carried the baton into winter.

See WOMEN Page 8

Decisive defense

Zach Long | COLLEGIAN

K-State linebacker Josh Buhl drops Missouri quarterback Brad Smith for a loss during the Wildcats' win over the Tigers at KSU Stadium. K-State will face Oklahoma Saturday in the Big 12 Championship game.

Oklahoma, K-State among nation's best when it comes to stopping opponents

By David Skretta
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Even Nick Leckey – a center, the first man to touch the ball on offense – realizes the importance of defense.

More succinctly, Leckey realizes how important defense will be Saturday when No. 13 K-State meets No. 1 Oklahoma for the Dr Pepper Big 12 Championship at Arrowhead Stadium in Kansas City, Mo.

Kickoff is scheduled for 7 p.m., and ABC will televise the game nationally.

"You combine some of the greatest defenses in the nation right now, yeah," Leckey said, "it's going to be a defensive battle."

Ahem. Perhaps somebody should introduce Leckey to the Sooner offense, which is ranked at or near the top of the Big 12 in almost every statistical category.

Make that tops in the nation.

The Sooner scoring offense is ranked first in the country, averaging more than 48 points per game, while their passing offense is ranked ninth, and Oklahoma is No. 11 in total offense, rolling up more than 466 yards per game.

"If you blitz them the whole time, they'll take the ball and run up and down the field," defensive-end Thomas Houchin said. "We have to get them rattled a little bit."

If one defense can do that, it is likely to be K-State's.

After inconsistency and early-season lapses plagued the Wildcats, the defense took it upon themselves to simply get better.

The result is the seventh-best scoring defense in the nation, the sixth-best passing defense and the fifth-best team in total defense – allowing just 270 yards per game.

"I'm very grateful for the response we got," Coach Bill Snyder said. "They got back to the base of things that allowed our program to be successful in the past."

Historically, K-State's defense is among the nation's best.

In the last eight seasons, the Wildcat defense has never been rated worse than 16th. In seven of those eight seasons, K-State has been ranked among the top five.

"We're looking to the challenge of competing against Kansas State," Oklahoma Coach Bob Stoops said. "Look at statistical categories, and Kansas State is at the top, one or two, in about every category. We realize this and understand we're playing a complete team."

But as much as Oklahoma's offense has dominated this season, and as much as the focus this week will turn to the Wildcat defense, the Sooners sport a dominating defense, as well.

In fact, more dominating than K-State.

Oklahoma, led by defensive tackle Tommie Harris, linebacker Teddy Lehman and defensive back Derrick Strait, repeatedly has shut down opposing offenses.

Lindsey Bauman | COLLEGIAN

K-State's Thomas Houchin chases down Missouri quarterback Brad Smith during the first half of the Wildcats' 24-14 win Nov. 22 at KSU Stadium.

The best defense in the nation, statistically speaking, the Sooners allow just 13 points per game and give up only 233 yards Total.

"They bring a bunch of guys who hustle and fly around and play as a unit," Leckey said. "You don't hear about the defense, but they get the job done, that's for sure."

They also allow Oklahoma to jump on its opponents early. In 10 of its 12 games, the Sooners have scored first – usually on the Sooners' first possession.

Getting behind early could spell certain doom for the Cats, Snyder said. It will be up to the defense of the Wildcats to prevent that.

"They've set the tone very early. You just have to prepare as well as you can and see where it all lies when the gun goes off," Snyder said.

Disappointing sports television schedule hard to justify

Fans' wish for the best game often neglected by networks

JOSH WITT

Thanksgiving break was a good one.

Although I didn't fulfill my plans to work on the load of school work I have due, there were no worries.

I was enjoying a week of nothing but sitting around and watching sports.

However, when the week was through, I was left with a bitter taste in my mouth.

Despite some solid basketball and football games, several instances of poor television scheduling left me feeling robbed.

Call me idealistic, but I've always thought those making decisions on what games to televise would do their best to make logical choices based on what fans want to see. There were several cases last week in which that just didn't happen.

I'll admit, I'm no scheduling guru and lack the most complete idea of what goes into making the NBA television schedule.

But come on!

Thanksgiving night's games were – insert Bill Walton voice – "horrrrible."

That New York versus Indiana game would have been good five years ago, but that rivalry's best years are definitely behind.

Then the night-cap of the TNT double-header was the Los Angeles Clippers against the New Jersey Nets. The Clippers have come a long way, but not that far.

Scheduling people, did you get the memo that Thanksgiving night is one evening where all people have to do is watch TV?

Why not deliver the best?

There should have been a swap with Sunday night's slate that failed to be televised: Sacramento – the most exciting team in basketball – versus New Jersey and the Los Angeles Lakers against the Pacers.

With the weekend came every die-hard sports fan's friend – regional coverage. I understand the whole concept, and it makes perfect sense to show local games to local audiences, for obvious reasons.

However, Iowa State and Missouri was the early Saturday afternoon college football game we were blessed with here in central Kansas.

I'll say that again: Iowa State versus Missouri.

Iowa State was on ABC. This is wrong on so many levels.

Nothing was riding on the game. Iowa State is horrible, and there were better games that could have been shown.

I really want to meet the guy who thought, "Iowa State playing Missouri? That'll be a ratings bonanza in the Midwest!"

As if my anger at regional coverage couldn't get any worse, Sunday afternoon rolls around.

It's the Colts versus the Patriots. A classic battle between two of the AFC's best teams.

The Colts are driving down the field in the final minutes, attempting to take the lead. Manning drops back, and …

Oh, scrolling at the bottom of the screen is a friendly reminder that we're leaving the game in progress to switch over to the Chiefs game.

By god, we can't miss one second of the Chiefs. The world would just go to hell if they had to run over that game by a minute.

I'm willing to bet even Chiefs fans were ticked they were robbed of the final minute of the Colts/Pats game just to see the Chiefs' Trent Green throw an interception.

Unfortunately, my beef with the sports television schedule is only increasing.

A look at Saturday's college football reveals what should be a mortal sin.

The Big 12 Championship and SEC Championship are both on at the same time.

Sports fans from across the country will be forced to choose between showcases of the best teams from the two best conferences in the country.

I don't know exactly who is at fault, whether it be the TV networks, the sponsors or what.

But something is wrong here.

Saturday will provide yet another example of the fans' viewing pleasure being overlooked for reasons that are impossible to justify.

Josh is a junior in journalism. You can e-mail him at witt316@hotmail.com.

SPORTS ONLINE

www.kstatecollegian.com

Football | Guerre Big 12 Player of the Week

Oklahoma has some of the best individual players in the nation. It only figures, considering the Sooners are ranked No. 1 in virtually every statistical category. Read about Heisman Trophy candidate Jason White and the rest of the Sooners only on the eCollegian at www.kstatecollegian.com.

1-MINUTE DRILL

NFL scores

Monday Night Football

Tennessee	17
NY Jets	24

Staff Reports

Volleyball | Guerre Big 12 Player of the Week

K-State setter Gabby Guerre was named Big 12 volleyball Player of the Week on Monday for her performances against Texas and Texas A&M, league officials announced Monday.

Guerre

Guerre, a two-time First Team All-Big 12 selection, had 10 kills, 13 digs and 50 assists against Texas and 17 kills, 83 assists, 16 digs and eight blocks against the Aggies.

Guerre and the Wildcats will be in action Friday as they play host to Ohio in the first round of the NCAA Tournament. Action begins at 7:30 p.m.in Ahearn Field House.

Football | Sproles among 3 finalists for Doak Walker

Junior Darren Sproles was named a finalist for the Doak Walker Award, presented to the nation's top running back, the SMU Athletic Forum Board of Directors announced Monday.

Sproles

The annual award has recognized the top back since 1990. Joining Sproles as finalists are Kevin Jones of Virginia Tech and Chris Perry of Michigan. The winner of the 2003 award will be announced Thursday on ESPN's Home Depot College Football Awards show from Orlando, Fla.

Sproles leads the country in all-purpose yardage with a school-record 2,305 yards, and his 1,713 rushing yards ranks fifth all-time on the Big 12 single-season charts. He ranks fifth in the nation with 132 yards per game. He ranks fourth in yards-per-carry with 6.3.

The Associated Press

Fort Hays State | 3 football players charged with murder

Prosecutors on Monday charged three Fort Hays State football players and a fourth man in the beating death of another student last month.

Charged with second-degree murder were players Bradley Deary, a 21-year-old junior; Luis Llamas, a 23-year-old senior; Christopher Ross, a 19-year-old freshman. Also charged was Fort Hays student Jaime Lopez III, 23, from Chula Vista, Calif.

The men are accused of killing Clint Johnson, 18, of Healy, Kan., a freshman business major who was beaten in a Nov. 13 fight at an apartment complex north of campus. Johnson died two days later at a Wichita hospital.

Kansas | Jayhawks take top spot in national rankings

After the top four teams in the nation lost during a five-day span last week, it opened the door for Kansas to take over the No. 1 ranking in the ESPN/USA Today Coaches' Poll and the Associated Press Top 25, released Monday afternoon.

The unbeated Jayhawks beat then-No. 5 Michigan State in Lawrence, but recently lost starting guard Michael Lee for six to eight weeks with a broken collar bone sustained during practice.

Hepatitis C prevention starts with education

By Scott A. Seel
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Tattoos and body piercings are common among college students, but both trends can increase one's risk of Hepatitis C.

Hepatitis C is a liver disease Americans know very little about, said Vivian Nutsch, infection control coordinator at Mercy Regional Health Center. She said 99.5 percent of people awaiting liver transplants had Hepatitis C as the initial disease entity.

Nutsch said people are unaware of both risks and warning signs of Hepatitis C.

"Just like other illnesses, until they are confronted with it, most people don't seek out that kind of knowledge," Nutsch said. "The symptoms are very vague in general, fatigue, nausea, vomiting, some jaundice. The symptoms are very much like a mild case of the flu."

However, George Marchin, associate professor of biology, said many people are asymptomatic. That is, they don't show any symptoms whatsoever – even though they are infected.

"Many people don't even know they have it because they don't realize they have it until quite some time later," he said.

Whether a person is aware he or she has Hepatitis, estimates show four million people are infected in the United States and as many as 170 million people are infected world wide, Marchin said.

Nutsch said Hepatitis C can be acquired by coming into contact with contaminated blood or blood containing bodily fluids.

"You have to get the contaminated blood or the virus into your bloodstream," Nutsch said. "It can, in theory, be spread by sexual contact, but incidents of that are very low."

Gail Hansen, Deputy State Epidemiologist for the Kansas Department of Health and Environment, said blood donations and transfusions have played a lesser role in the spread of Hepatitis C. Since the prominence of HIV and AIDS, blood transfusions are screened much more thoroughly for disease contamination.

However, she said infections as a result of drug use and needle sticks have been increasing lately.

Nutsch said only a few drugs were available to treat chronic Hepatitis C.

"The problem is, many of these drugs must be strictly regulated by a physician," Nutsch said. "The drugs in and of themselves can cause all kinds of other problems with the body because they are so strong."

Fast facts
Hepatitis C

- What: liver disease and most common blood-borne infection in U.S.
- Transmission: through blood
- Symptoms: fatigue, sore muscles, headache, widespread abdominal pain, nausea, dark urine, light-colored stools, loss of appetite, weight loss, aversion to some food, jaundice
- Prevention: avoid risky behavior
- Risks: recipients of blood transfusion before 1990, intravenous drug users, intranasal cocaine users, health care workers, dialysis patients, household contact of people infected, engagement in high-risk sexual activity (multiple partners or with infected persons), getting a body piercing or tattoo, children born to infected women.

Source: www.webmd.com.

Marchin said current treatment options can be dangerous.

"Interferons are typically used to treat Hepatitis C, and they can be very dangerous in and of themselves," he said.

Interferons are found in the human body and lessen the effects of viruses on the body, Marchin said.

Hansen said some new medications are being developed to treat Hepatitis C.

"More people have positive responses to the new medication," she said. "They have fewer side effects and more benefits."

There are three common types of Hepatitis – A, B and C. Marchin said Hepatitis C leads to liver disease more often than any other variant of the virus and is the most dangerous of the three.

"They hadn't developed a test for it until fairly recently, so it contaminated a lot of blood supplies," he said. "People who get blood transfusions and plasma donations were at risk."

Even though there are now tests for Hepatitis C, Marchin said one of the main concerns surrounding Hepatitis C is that an immunization for the virus has not yet been developed.

Marchin said he advocates simple common sense and caution to avoid contracting the virus.

"Just watch who you hang around with," he said. "If you are getting a manicure or a piercing or a tattoo, make sure the utensils are clean and you are dealing with a licensed establishment."

Hansen said the best way to avoid the disease is to avoid using intravenous drugs.

"If you do, don't share your needles," she said. "Even one time is enough."

KU counseling services treating more students

By Terry Rombeck
LAWRENCE JOURNAL-WORLD

LAWRENCE, Kan. – Frank DeSalvo has seen a shift in the students who enter the Counseling and Psychological Services office at Kansas University.

They're coming in larger numbers, and they have more severe problems.

"It really speaks to the increasing stress in our society in general," said DeSalvo, CAPS director. "It trickles down to the students as well. There's not much difference between students and the general public."

Nationwide, universities are seeing more suicides among students, which is leading some campuses to bolster mental health services.

According to the Jed Foundation, which provides mental health resources to universities and students, suicide is the second-leading cause of death among college students. About 1,100 students commit suicide each year.

The suicide rate for 15-to-25 -year olds is 300 percent higher now than it was in the 1950s.

DeSalvo said KU didn't keep data on how many students committed suicide. Suicides are difficult to track, he said.

But according to a study in 2002, 8 percent of the 357 counseling sessions performed at CAPS somehow involved discussion of suicidal thoughts or tendencies.

"That is a pretty significant number," he said.

The most common reasons for contemplating suicide were romantic relationships (22 percent), parent/family problems (20 percent) and academic concerns (19 percent).

DeSalvo also said more KU students were being hospitalized for their mental and emotional problems.

When he first started at KU in 1991, CAPS referred an average of four or five students for hospitalization each semester. Now, that number is up to 13 to 15 a semester. But while demand for services is increasing, and cases are getting more complex, staffing at CAPS is remaining steady.

There are seven psychologists offering clinical services. The office also employs three full-time doctoral interns in psychology and two part-time interns in social work.

LET'S RENT

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

A two-bedroom apartment, close to campus. Short term lease available. Available mid- December or 1st of January. (785)317-7713.

BRITTNAY RIDGE. Four-bedroom, study, two and one-half bath, town home. Washer/ dryer. 2519 Candlecrest, lease required. No pets. $1050, $1050 deposit. (785)537-9740.

COZY TWO-BEDROOM. Only a year old with all new appliances. Includes washer and dryer. Has own driveway. (785)341-1636

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT. Available for Spring semester. $380 month includes cable, water, trash. Brand new carpet (785)537-1336.

FOR JANUARY 1. Nice large two-bedroom apartment. Gas, water, trash three-forths paid, laundromat, $480. (785)539-2482 or (785)539-9315 or cell phone (785)565-8116.

TWO-BEDROOM WITH study, private balcony, laundry, cover parking, walk to campus, central air-conditioning, January lease, $515- $545/ month. (785)341-6091.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE for a four-bedroom duplex. Washer/ dryer. Available January. Rent $275. Call Megan. (785)539-8490.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for luxury, four-bedroom apartment across street from West campus. Laundry, parking, no smoking, no pets. $300. (785)776-6318.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for spring semester. Nice five-bedroom three bath house. Common rooms furnished. Washer/ dryer. $300 rent plus one-fifth utilities. (785)539-9887, (785)825-2937.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share three-bedroom house. $225/ month plus one-third electric and cable. Call Kimberly (785)456-4204.

Found something?
You can place an ad FREE for three days!
Kedzie 103 532-6555

150 Sublease

CAMPUS/ AGGIEVILLE- spring semester, two-bedroom, 1212 Bluemont. Trash/ water paid, laundry facility. $300/ each, January 1. Kelly or Karen (785)776-8980.

FOUR-BEDROOM, ONE and one-half bath, spacious, practically in Aggieville. $900/ month heating included. (four roommates- only $225 per person). (785)776-5102.

ROOMS FOR rent, next to campus, one-bedroom in brand new four-bedroom apartment. Free washer/ dryer, central-air, parking. (785)537-7050.

135 For Sale- Mobile Homes

16X76 1994 Shult. Excellent condition. Three-bedroom, two bath; dishwasher, disposal; washer/ dryer, all appliances stay. $23900 or best offer. (785)587-4661.

FOR SALE: two-bedroom, one bath mobile home. Well cared for, owners are December graduates. $4800 or best offer. Please call (785)323-0055.

145 Roommate Wanted

A ROOMMATE needed January- July at 1836 Todd, very close to campus, washer/ dryer. $275 for rent. (785)341-8498.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted January- July 2004. $255 rent plus one-third utilities. Right next to Union. Dishwasher, large bedroom. Call (785)565-9340.

FEMALE ROOMMATE WANTED. $275/ month, clean, quite apartment. Washer/ dryer. 1017 Vattier. Ask for Jacquelyn (785)341-3769.

GREAT PLACE, great location, great people. Female roommates wanted for spring semester sublease. Large rooms, private parking, common rooms furnished, washer/ dryer. Call Lindsay at (785)587-0296.

MALE OR female for spring semester. Nice two-bedroom apartment across street from Aggieville and campus. 1212 Bluemont. (316)641-2636 leave a message.

MALE ROOMMATE to share newer mobile home. $150/ month. (785)770-9547.

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share a two-bedroom house. Five minutes from the Student Union. Rent $275. (785)539-9981.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for clean three-bedroom, two bath, new house. Available January. For more information call (785)770-9206.

ROOMMATE NEEDED, January- July. Huge 20X20 room. All amenities, four roommates needing the fifth. (785)537-0699. Rent negotiable.

ROOMMATE WANTED $200/ month plus one-half utilities. Washer/ dryer, can have two bedrooms, six blocks off campus, University Dr., no smoking, nice house and neighborhood. (785)317-4742.

SPRING SEMESTER roommate needed. Master bedroom in four-bedroom house. 0.3 miles from campus. Washer/ dryer, two bathrooms, cable internet, $250 plus utilities. Call Tyler (913)908-7162.

SUBLEASER WANTED for spring semester, three-bedroom apartment with dishwasher. One block from campus. $210/ month 1850 Claflin. Call (785)770-3810/ (785)313-0013.

THREE CHRISTIAN guys looking for roommate. One and one-half mile west of campus. Washer/ dryer, $275/ month, negotiable. (785)341-3464, (785)537-4278.

150 Sublease

CADI- CORNER from Union. One- four rooms available immediately. Great spot, act fast! $230/ month. 1725 Anderson. Call David (785)770-2711.

CAMPUS/ AGGIEVILLE, one and one-half bedrooms available January. Central heat and air, parking. Water/ trash paid. 1212 Thurston. (620)870-9741.

150 Sublease

FEMALE ROOMMATE WANTED starting January to live with two other girls. $265/ month plus utilities. Very nice house, can see campus from house. 1206 Bertrand. Call Lesley at (785)539-6790 leave message if not home.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed for spring semester. One-bedroom apartment. Two blocks from Aggieville. Rent negotiable call (785)564-1173.

MALE SUBLEASER needed. Two-bedroom apartment. Private parking, dishwasher, washer/ dryer, $262.50 a month. Available January, 716 Humboldt. Contact Casey (785)341-1162.

MALE SUBLEASERS needed: spring semester. Call (785)317-7558.

NEED A subleaser from January to May for four-bedroom apartment. Three guys there now. $285 per month, washer/ dryer. 1215 Bertrand. Please help! (785)565-1496.

ONE-BEDROOM, $400/ month, water and trash paid, lease January- May. (785)537-9379.

ROOM FOR rent during spring semester. $280/ month includes water, trash, laundry. Has all amenities including fireplace. Low bills. (785)539-1272. mrl8888@ksu.edu.

SPACIOUS TWO-BEDROOM/ one bath. All utilities paid except electric. Available end of December. Call (785)806-3068.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for one-bedroom apartment. $379.56 rent/ month starting January 1. Includes utilities. Pets are allowed. (785)770-3060.

SUBLEASER NEEDED, great two-bedroom house. Fully furnished, five minutes from Union. Private parking, available now. $380, all bills paid. (785)539-3408.

SUBLEASER WANTED for spring semester. One-bedroom, one block from campus. Trash and water included. Call (785)776-6963 for details.

SUBLEASER WANTED January- July. Two-bedroom apartment. $575 a month plus electric. Laundry facilities. Dishwasher. Water and trash paid. (785)820-0879.

SUBLEASER WANTED- recently remodeled three-bedroom apartment. Close to campus and Aggieville. $265/ month. Call (785)770-7575.

SUBLEASER WANTED: one-bedroom. January 1- August 1. $370. Water and trash paid. (785)539-7653.

SUBLEASERS NEEDED- January. Nice two-bedroom apartment, two balconies, one bath, fireplace, fully equipped kitchen. Trash paid. $640/ month. (785)317-4418.

SUBLEASERS NEEDED. Close to campus, Aggieville, and City park. nice two-bedroom apartment. $270/ month. Available January. Call Michele or Amy. (785)539-5334.

SUBLEASERS WANTED for spring semester. Two-bedroom, one and one-half bath apartment. Water/trash paid, laundry facilities, very close to campus. (785)658-5680.

TWO STORY, two-bedroom apartment. One bathroom, washer and dryer, one block west of campus, available January- July. (785)323-1712.

WANTED: SUBLEASERS for extra clean, two-bedroom apartment within walking distance of campus. For more information call (785)776-9992.

200 service directory

210 Resume/ Typing

ARE YOU a procastinator? I can help you type papers or projects. Call Rhonda (785)539-3570.

255 Other Services

FIRST RESPONDER. This program is for those who may be the initial care giver for an individual suffering from a medical emergency or traumatic accident. Fracture management, medical emergencies and CPR are covered in the course curriculum. Begins January 5. Manhattan Area Technical College (785)587-2800 for more information.

300 employment/ opportunities

310 Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/ she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

! BARTENDING $300 a day potential. No experience necessary. Training provided. Call 1-800-965-6520 ext. 144.

BARTENDER TRAINEES needed. $250/ day potential. Local positions. (800)293-3985 ext. 548.

GET PAID For Your Opinions! Earn $15- $125 and more per survey! www.paidonlinesurveys.com

MAKE MONEY taking Online Surveys. Earn $10-$125 for Surveys. Earn $25-$250 for Focus Groups. Visit www.cash4students.com/ksu <http://cash4students.com/ksuucinn>

OFFICE HELP and dance instructors needed for Manhattan Dance Studio. Approximately 10- 15 hours per week. Must have dance experience and be dependable. Please email NO1dancing@hotmail.com by December 5th, 2003.

STAFF RADIOGRAPHER. We are looking for a staff radiographer that is ARRT or registry eligible to work the night shift 2230 to 0700 hours. Applicant must be flexible and able to work independently. Interested and qualified personnel should contact Geary Community Hospital, 1102 St. Mary's road, Junction City, KS, 66441, fax (785)238-1700 or email to: cwitt@gchks.org, equal opportunity employer.

310 Help Wanted

TEACHER AIDES (certificate preferred) for Kindegarden and 5/ 6 classroom at Westmoreland Elementary. Start date and salary negotiable. Single health insurance provided. Call (785)457-3732 for application or Email: caffreyt@rockcreekschools.org. Equal opportunity employer.

THE OPERATIONS branch of CNS is seeking to hire two Computer Operations Assistants. The positions involve working with the university enterprise server, processing production request; decollating/ bursting output; and delivering printouts across campus. Must be able to work 10- 30 hours per week, including weekends, holidays, school breaks, and summer months. Applicants with two or more years of employment potential and/ or work study eligibility will be given preference. Hourly salary is $5.75. Contact Virginia Nowland at (785)532-4941. Applications can be picked up at Hale Library room 14 and will be accepted until 5pm Wednesday, December 10.

THE OPERATIONS branch of CNS is seeking to hire a Student Computer Operator for third shift. Job responsibilities include operating the Multiprise server; processing production jobs; printing and running cleanup output as needed; as well as other duties that may arise. Candidate must be able to work between the hours of 1:30am and 7:30 am Wednesday and Fridays and midnight to 9:00am every other Saturday. they must also be able to work weekends, holidays, breaks and summer months. Experience with computers is a plus. Applicants with two or more years of employment potential will be given preference. Work study is preferred, but not required. Hourly salary is $7.00 per hour. Applications can be picked up at hale Library room 14 and will be accepted until 5pm Wednesday, December 10.

330 Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

400 open market

410 Items for Sale

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS- sleeping bags, overshoes, combat boots, camouflage clothing, wool socks and gloves, much more. Also Carhartt work wear. Open Monday- Friday, 9am-5:30pm, Saturday 9am-4pm, Open Sundays till Christmas 12noon- 4pm. St. Mary's Surplus Sales, St. Marys Kansas. (785)437-2734.

415 Furniture to Buy/Sell

COUCH FOR sale. Call (785)539-6410.

465 Tickets to Buy/Sell

BIG TWELVE Football Championship Tickets. Lower level, section 123, row 14. $750 per ticket or best offer. (816)985-6174.

500 transportation

510 Automobiles

1991 GRAND AM. Excellent condition. Factory cd. New tires. Boyfriend is a mechanic. $1200 firm. Call Katie (785)466-1708.

600 travel/ trips

610 Tour Package

WINTER AND Spring Break, ski and beach trips on sale now! www.Sunchase.com or call 1-800-SUNCHASE today!

630 Spring Break

!SO MANY Spring Break companies. Book DIRECT with the established leader in Spring Break travel. Better trips, better prices. Early booking incentives. book now with a small deposit. (800)367-1252/ www.springbreakdirect.com

ACT NOW! Book 11 people, get 12th trip free. Group discounts for six plus www.springbreakdiscounts.com or (800)838-8202

#1 SPRING Break Company in Acapulco now offers three destinations! Go loco in Acapulco, party in Vallarta, or get crazy in Cabo with BIANCHI-ROSSI TOURS. Organize a group and travel for FREE. Book now before it's too late! Call (800)875-4525 or www.bianchi-rossi.com

NUMBER ONE spring break vacations! 110% best prices! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas, Florida, Acapulco, book now and receive free parties and meals. Campus reps wanted! 1-800-234-7 0 0 7 endlesssummertours.com

SPRING BREAK 2004. Travel with Student Travel Services, America's #1 Student Tour Operator to Jamaica, Cancun, Acapulo, Bahamas, and Florida. Now hiring campus reps. Call for group discounts. Information/ reservations 1-800-648-4849 or www.ststravel.com.

SPRING BREAK- sign up with Student Express and get FREE round trip airline tickets to over 15 International destinations- including Aruba, Dominican Republic, Costa Rica, Caribbean hot spots and more. Why go with anyone else. Limited offer- call now. Commission rep positions also available (800)787-3787or www.studentexpress.com now.

000 bulletin board

010 Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY!" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes and lowest rates. Call (785)776-1744, www.ksu.edu/kslfc

ATTORNEY, CHUCK Harper, expunge convictions before job application, paternity, custody, net free adoption, civil law, 400 Poyntz, (785)539-8100, chuckharper@msn.com

020 Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

FOUND; LADY'S ring at Walmart in mid- November. Call (785)539-2016 to identify.

030 Post a Note

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a post a note.

100 housing/ real estate

105 For Rent- Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2440.

ONE-BEDROOM CLOSE to campus. Water and trash included. Available January 1. Central air/ heat. (785)537-7810.

SEPARATE BEDROOM, study, living room, and eat-in kitchen. No smoking, drinking, pets. (785)539-1554.

"Stay In Class At The Commons"
Now Leasing for 2003-2004!
•Fully Furnished
•2 & 4 Bedroom
•Alarm System
•Swimming Pool
•Washer/Dryer
•Computer Lab
•Fitness Center
•Permit Parking
•Tennis/Volleyball Courts
•Individual Leases
Office Hours: M-F 9-5
539-0500
university COMMONS APARTMENTS
2215 College Ave.

TWO-BEDROOM, WALK to campus, ample parking, quiet conditions. Furnished or unfurnished. No pets. Available December 20. (785)539-3638.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

AVAILABLE JANUARY 1. Two-bedroom, newly decorated. Washer/ dryer hookup. Off-street parking. $500/ month. (785)537-2119, 8- 5pm, (785)539-2347 after 5pm.

EFFICIENCY, TWO/ three-bedroom units immediately available. (785)341-4496.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, all appliances including washer and dryer. Only three years. Ready for spring semester. (785)556-6899.

JANUARY-- ONE-BEDROOM-$315, two-bedroom-$475. No pets. (785)587-0399.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

NEWLY REMODELED two-bedroom apartments available January 1st, all utilities paid, $600/ month. Call McCullough Development Inc. (785)776-3804.

NEWLY REMODELED two-bedroom, one bath basement apartment, no pets, water and trash paid. $450/ month. Call McCullough Development, Inc. (785)776-3804.

NICE ONE-BEDROOM apartments. Close to campus. Water and trash paid. $415- $430/ month. Call MDI (785)776-3804.

ONE- TWO-BEDROOM apartment and houses. Available January 1 and now. Close to campus. www.rent-apm.com/ (785)539-4357.

ONE-BEDROOM AVAILABLE January 1. Rent $365. Call Amy (913)709-6283.

ONE-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 1523 Pierre. Washer/ dryer, $285/ month plus utilities. (785)776-4805.

SEPARATE BEDROOM, study, living room and eat-in kitchen. No smoking, drinking, or pets. (785)539-1554.

STUDIO APARTMENT and one-bedroom, close to campus. No pets. $280/ month. 1030 Kearney. Call (785)537-0177.

STUDIO APARTMENT available January 1st located in the Wareham hotel. Water and trash paid, $405/ month. Call McCullough Development Inc. (785)776-3804.

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE block to campus. New carpet/ flooring/ some utilities paid. $660/ month, or best offer. (785)539-4641.

TWO PLUS bedroom, one block to campus. New carpet/ flooring/ some utilities paid. $620/ month. (785)539-4641.

TWO, three, and four-bedroom apartments. Close to campus, laundry, and parking. Call (785)537-6017.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT available immediately. $230/ person. Free cable (785)313-1435. Please leave a message.

TWO-BEDROOM BASEMENT, near City Park, washer/ dryer, no pets, $450. Available January 1st (785)539-1145.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

TWO-BEDROOM TOWNHOUSE, two and one-half bath plus unfinished basement. Washer/ dryer hookups. Water/ trash paid. No pets. (785)539-5627.

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bath basement apartment, no pets, water and trash paid. $360/ month. Call McCullough Development, Inc. (785)776-3804.

VERY NICE two-bedroom apartment for rent, starting January 1st. Cats allowed. Call (785)539-5563 or (785)341-5441 for more information.

115 Rooms Available

ROOMMATE WANTED to sublease. Close to campus/ Aggieville. Washer/ dryer, $300 plus utilities. Call Nicole (785)776-6099 or (785)565-8785.

THREE ROOMS in large house available, block from campus. No pets, washer/ dryer, off-street parking. $250/ month. (785)317-1333.

120 For Rent- Houses

1724 WINNE. Four-bedroom, one and one-half bath. Updated and spacious. New carpet, paint, and ceramic tile. Close to football stadium. $900/ month plus utilities. Available December. (785)556-2652.

LARGE NICE houses- June or August leases. Call now for best selections. www.foremostproperty.com or (785)539-4641.

THREE AND four-bedroom houses and apartments available January 1 and now. Close to campus. www.rent-apm.com/ (785)539-4357.

TIRED OF Apartment Living? Manufactured Homes For Rent. Pets Allowed. Beautifully maintained communities. Pool, playground, community center. Professionally managed. Call Manager for more details. (785)539-5841.

Lindsey Bauman | COLLEGIAN

Kendra Wecker tries to move around Western Illinois' Kristina Grbic during the Wildcats' 76-48 win earlier this season. The team plays host to Northern Illinois at 7 tonight in Bramlage Coliseum.

WOMEN | Basketball team to play Northern Illinois at home

Continued from Page 6

The Huskies started their season by upsetting Wisconsin in the Badgers' home-opener, 68-65.

The Huskies' only loss came at the hands of Western Illinois, a team K-State soundly beat, 76-48, Nov. 21.

"Northern Illinois will bring great defensive intensity to the floor," Patterson said. "NIU's victory over Wisconsin proves the ability of the Huskies to compete and win in a hostile environment on the road."

To counter that, the Cats will be looking to the "Big Three," including junior Kendra Wecker who put up a 25-point, 10-rebound performance in last year's contest, and its core freshmen, who now are combining for 19 percent of the team's scoring and rebounding off the bench.

Freshmen Twiggy McIntyre and Claire Coggins are averaging 6.3 and 3.8 points per game, respectively, and Shanda Murdoch is the fourth leading rebounder, grabbing nearly four boards per contest.

Answering on the NIU side will be senior forward Jen Youngblood, who averages 9.3 points and 8.3 rebounds per game, and senior guard Monique Davis, averaging 11.3 points and two steals per game. Senior forward Lindsay Secrest is the current Mid-American Conference West Division Player of the Week, averaging almost two blocks per game.

Exhibit looks at WTC recovery operation at Fresh Kills landfill

By Deepti Hajela
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK – For hour after hour, day after day, month after month, they kept at it.

From the original mountains of debris down to the last quarter-inch, workers at the Fresh Kills landfill sifted through 1.8 million tons of rubble from the World Trade Center, looking to recover whatever they could.

Some of what they found, from car parts to building remnants, makes up an exhibit chronicling the massive effort. "Recovery: The World Trade Center Recovery Operation at Fresh Kills" opened Nov. 25 at the New-York Historical Society and runs through March 21.

The exhibit – featuring more than 50 objects and 65 photographs – is part of "History Responds," the institution's program that collects historical materials relating to the Sept. 11 attacks.

The work at Fresh Kills, miles from ground zero and closed to the general public, is an important part of the Sept. 11 story that most people don't know about, organizers said.

"I don't think people have a good sense of the extraordinary lengths to which every single worker there went to find human remains, personal property, anything to bring some comfort to the families who lost people on Sept. 11," said Amy Weinstein, assistant curator at the Historical Society.

"It's a glimpse of something that very few people see," said Mark Schaming, director of exhibitions for the New York State Museum, which put the exhibit together. "It's a remarkable thing. ... They sorted things down to the size of a dime."

It took workers 10 months to accumulate the items, which range from a paperweight found during the sifting process to vehicle parts to equipment used in the search – such as rakes and a bucket.

There are doors from a fire engine and the trunk lid from a destroyed police car; remnants of elevator floor numbers and a beam from the twin towers. There are pieces of fuselage and a seat belt from the airplanes that crashed into the buildings. There's also a slew of small items, such as keys, found in the rubble.

The photographs record the daily activities at the site, from the huge piles that had to be sorted to images of those who worked there, spending hours at conveyor belts watching for the smallest fragment of something vital to drift by.

Closed by the city in March 2001, Fresh Kills was reopened Sept. 12, 2001, a day after the attacks. The landfill was the last stop for debris hauled by trucks and barges to be sifted one last time for remains, personal property and criminal evidence.

Lasting Impressions:
Print Portfolio of Contemporary Native American Artists and Prints of Jaune Quick-To-See Smith

Jaune Quick-To-See Smith
Flathead
Ghost Dance Dress, 2001
Courtesy of University of Arizona College of Fine Arts, School of Art

On display through December 7, 2003
at the Marianna Kistler Beach Museum of Art

Come hear: Native American artist, Jaune Quick-To-See Smith
Tuesday, December 2 - 5:30 p.m.
Reception following the lecture.

Beach Museum of Art
701 Beach Lane • Manhattan, KS
785-532-7718
Tues. - Fri. 10a.m. - 5p.m
Sat. & Sun. 1 - 5p.m.
FREE ADMISSION

Sponsored by the Student Friends of the Beach Museum of Art and the Native American Student Association. Funded by SGA.

Give us your opinion.
Campus Forum: 395-4444

GIVE PLASMA GET CASH
Donate Plasma And Earn $45 this week
Save Lives & Earn Cash.
ZLB Plasma Services
1130 Gardenway
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785)776-9177 • www.zlb.com

Check the COUPON GUIDE in back of the Campus Phone Book
Available in 103 Kedzie
M - F 8 a.m. - 5 p.m.

We deliver for FREE the latest!
Checks and Sits
GUMBY'S Pizza & Pub
Call now! 770-3333
702 N. 11th Street
Sunday 11:30 a.m. - 2 a.m.
Mon. - Wed. 10:30 a.m. - 2:30 a.m.
Thurs. - Sat. 10:30 a.m. - 3:30 a.m.

Monday $3.99
•LARGE CHEESE PIZZA • MONDAY ONLY • CARRY OUT ONLY • TOPPINGS EXTRA•

BUY ONE POKEY STICK AT REGULAR PRICE GET ONE EQUAL OR LESSER VALUE FREE
stick it to me Tuesday
DINE-IN/CARRY OUT OR DELIVERY • TUESDAY

Rock N Roll wednesday
50¢ Pepperoni Rolls/ pizza sauce/ ranch extra + tax.
$5.00 MINIMUM DELIVERY
DELIVERY•DINE-IN•CARRY-OUT

Must mention coupon when ordering. Not valid w/ any other special
THURSDAY Mania
XL-16" Cheese Pizza $5.99
DINE-IN • CARRY OUT • DELIVERY

BONUS BUY
Add on to any regular order
10 Stix $2.99 / 12 Stix $5.99
10" cheese $3.99 / 4 Pizza Rolls $3.99
10 wings $3.99 / 2 Liter Pepsi $1.99

KISS MY BIG ASS SPECIAL
20" TOPPINGS EXTRA Cheese Pizza
Limited Time!!
ONLY $9.99 OR GET TWO FOR $18.99

THE DIRTY JOHN
One 14" One Topping Pizza, 2 Liter of Pepsi, PLUS Free Bread Sticks (NOT POKEY STIX)
Limited Time!! ONLY $10.99

Expanded Hours. Expanded Learning. Expanded Opportunities.

K-State Evening College makes it simple for working adults to earn their degrees. Through night classes or a combination of night classes and distance education courses, you can earn a bachelor's degree or enhance your skills without quitting your day job.

For more information, call 1-800-622-2KSU or 785-532-5575 today!

EARN CREDITS TOWARD YOUR BACHELOR'S DEGREE!

Enroll now for Spring 2004 Evening College courses!

Course#	Ref.#	Days	Times	Course Title	Room	Instructor
16 Week Courses, January 22-May 21, 2004
Monday
FSHS 110	96700	M	5:30-8:20	Introduction to Human Development	256 Justin	Proffitt
FSHS 301	96701	M	5:30-8:20	Helping Relationships (P)	341 Justin	Beggs
HRIMD 441	96709	M	6:30-8:30	Introduction to Wines	110 Justin	Barrett
Tuesday
FSHS 350	96703	T	5:30-8:20	Family Relationships and Gender Roles (P)	015 Eisenhower	Thompson
FSHS 350	96707	T	5:30-8:20	Family Relationships and Gender Roles (P)	350 Waters	Welch
FSHS 580	96706	T	5:30-6:20	Directed Field Experience (P)	1052 Durland	Myers-Bowman
Wednesday
FSHS 510	96704	W	5:30-8:20	Human Development and Aging (P)	256 Justin	Doll
FSHS 550	96702	W	5:30-8:20	The Family (P)	149 Justin	Schumm
Thursday
FSHS 552	96705	U	5:30-8:20	Families and Diversity (P)	149 Justin	Webb
FSHS 776	96708	U	5:30-8:20	Insurance Planning for Families	350 Waters	Grable
First 8 Weeks, January 14 - March 13, 2004
Monday/Wednesday/Saturday
CHM 110	96200	M/W	5:30-7:30	General Chemistry (P) 12 Weeks (Jan 14-Apr 7)	209 King	STAFF
CHM 111	96201	Sat	8:30-12:30	General Chemistry Lab (P) 12 Weeks (Jan 17-Apr 10), 1 credit	TBA	STAFF
Tuesday/Thursday/Saturday
CIS 101	96202	TU Sat	5:30-7:55 8:30-10:30	Intro to Information Technology (Jan 15-Jan 31), 1 credit	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
CIS 102	96203	TU Sat	5:30-7:55 8:30-10:30	Spreadsheet Applications (P) (Feb 3-Feb 14), 1 credit	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
CIS 103	96204	TU Sat	5:30-7:55 8:30-10:30	Database Applications (P) (Feb 17-Feb 28), 1 credit	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
CIS 104	96205	TU Sat	5:30-7:55 8:30-10:30	Word Processing Applications (P) (Mar 2-Mar 13), 1 credit	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
GEOG 220	96211	TU Sat	8:05-10:30 9:00-12:00	Environmental Geography I 4 credits	213 Thompson	STAFF
Monday/Wednesday
ECON 120	96206	M/W	5:30-7:55	Princ/Microeconomics (P)	348 Waters	STAFF
HIST 251	96214	M/W	8:05-10:30	History of the US to 1877	224 Eisenhower	VanderGeisen
MATH 100	96215	M/W	5:30-7:55	College Algebra (P)	130 Cardwell	Hawkinson
SOCIO 362	96221	M/W	8:05-10:30	Police & Society (P)	041 Waters	STAFF
SPCH 106	96223	M/W	5:30-7:55	Public Speaking I	123 Seaton	Riley
SPCH 321	96224	M/W	8:05-10:30	Public Speaking II (P)	210 Mil Science	Riley
STAT 351	96228	M/W	5:30-8:30	Bus/Econ Stat II (P)	207 Dickens	STAFF
ACCTG 231	96227	M/W	5:30-7:55	Acctg/Bus Operations (P)	212 Calvin	STAFF
Tuesday/Thursday
ECON 530	96207	TU	8:05-10:30	Money & Banking (P)	120 Cardwell	STAFF
ENGL 200	96208	TU	5:30-7:55	Expository Writing II (P)	012 Eisenhower	STAFF
ENGL 251	96209	TU	8:05-10:30	Introduction to Literature	012 Eisenhower	Friedmann
GEOG 100	96210	TU	5:30-7:55	World Regional Geography	213 Thompson	STAFF
MATH 205	96216	TU	5:30-7:55	Gen Calc/Linear Algebra (P)	144 Cardwell	Mohammad
PHILO 130	96230	TU	5:30-7:55	Intro to Moral Philosophy	TBA	Patterson
POLSC 110	96217	TU	5:30-7:55	Intro to Political Science	112 Leasure	Unekis
POLSC 605	96218	TU	8:05-10:30	The American Presidency (P)	333 Waters	Unekis
SOCIO 541	96222	TU	5:30-7:55	Wealth, Power & Privilege (P)	120 Willard	Buurman
STAT 330	96225	TU	5:30-8:30	Elem Stat/Social Science (P)	208 Dickens	STAFF
Monday/Wednesday/Friday
GEOL 100	96212	M/W	5:30-7:55	Earth In Action	213 Thompson	STAFF
GEOL 103	96213	Fri	5:30-7:55	Geology Lab (P), 1 credit	TBA	STAFF
Second 8 Weeks, March 15-May 15, 2004 (no classes during week of Spring Break, March 22-26)
Tuesday/Thursday/Saturday
CIS 101	96300	T/TH Sat	5:30-7:55 8:30-10:30	Intro to Information Technology (Mar 16-Apr 3 —No class Spring Break), 1 credit	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
CIS 102	96301	T/TH Sat	5:30-7:55 8:30-10:30 (Apr 6-Apr 17), 1 credit	Spreadsheet Applications (P)	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
CIS 103	96302	T/TH Sat	5:30-7:55 8:30-10:30 (Apr 20-May 1), 1 credit	Database Applications (P)	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
CIS 104	96303	T/TH Sat	5:30-7:55 8:30-10:20 (May 4-15), 1 credit	Word Processing Applications (P)	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
GEOG 221	96309	T/TH Sat	8:05-10:30 9:00-12:00	Environmental Geography II 4 Credits	213 Thompson	STAFF
Monday/Wednesday
GEOG 200	96308	M/W	5:30-7:55	Human Geography	213 Thompson	STAFF
GEOL 115	96310	M/W	5:30-7:55	Environmental Geol: Water & Air	223 Eisenhower	STAFF
HIST 252	96311	M/W	8:05-10:30	History of the US Since 1877	224 Eisenhower	STAFF
HIST 546	96329	M/W	5:30-7:35	History of American Military	211 Eisenhower	Borowski
MATH 100	96312	M/W	5:30-7:55	College Algebra (P)	130 Cardwell	Hawkinson
SOCIO 531	96321	M/W	8:05-10:30	Urban Sociology (P)	120 Willard	STAFF
SPCH 106	96322	M/W	5:30-7:55	Public Speaking I	211 Mil Science	Riley
SPCH 321	96323	M/W	8:05-10:30	Public Speaking II (P)	211 Mil Science	Riley
STAT 351	96325	M/W	5:30-8:30	Bus/Econ Stats II (P)	207 Dickens	STAFF
WOMST 105	96327	M/W	8:05-10:30	Intro to Women's Studies	001 Leasure	STAFF
Tuesday/Thursday
ECON 110	96304	T/TH	5:30-7:55	Princ/Macroeconomics (P)	115 Willard	STAFF
ECON 520	96305	T/TH	8:05-10:30	Inter/Microeconomics (P)	120 Cardwell	STAFF
ENGL 200	96306	T/TH	5:30-7:55	Expository Writing II (P)	012 Eisenhower	STAFF
ENGL 320	96328	T/TH	8:05-10:30	The Short Story	012 Eisenhower	STAFF
MATH 150	96313	T/TH	5:30-7:55	Plane Trigonometry (P)	144 Cardwell	Mohammad
MUSIC 250	96314	T/TH	5:30-7:55	Intro to Music	114 Burt Hall	Cochran
POLSC 325	96316	T/TH	5:30-7:55	US Politics	333 Waters	Unekis
POLSC 603	96317	T/TH	8:05-10:30	Political Parties & Elections (P)	333 Waters	Unekis
SOCIO 511	96320	T/TH	5:30-7:55	Comparative Social Theories (P)	120 Willard	Buurman
STAT 350	96324	T/TH	5:30-8:30	Bus/Econ Stats I (P)	106 Dickens	STAFF
ACCTG 241	96326	T/TH	5:30-7:55	Acctg/Investment & Finance	209 Calvin	STAFF

NOTE: (P) Courses that have a prerequisite.

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY
EVENING College
www.dce.ksu.edu/eveningcollege

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

www.kstatecollegian.com | Wednesday, December 3, 2003 | Vol. 108, No.71

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

Judge orders Kansas to fix school finance by July '04

By John Milburn
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TOPEKA – A Shawnee County District judge has given the Legislature until July 1, 2004, to fix what he has determined to be "constitutional flaws" in the state's school finance formula.

Judge Terry Bullock said the deadline would give the Legislature and Gov. Kathleen Sebelius time to address concerns about how Kansas distributes more than $2.6 billion in aid to schools and, in particular, how the distribution pertains to closing the various achievement gaps between students.

"To be blunt and specific, as the school officials who testified were, the current funding scheme is irrational. That is, those schools with the most expensive children receive the least," Bullock wrote.

The state constitution requires the Legislature to "make suitable provision for finance of the educational interests of the state." The formula fails to do so for all students, Bullock found, but poor and vulnerable students are the most dramatically affected by the funding disparities.

Bullock said that because of the constitutional issues at hand, the Legislature's intent when the finance formula was enacted wasn't a consideration.

See FINANCE Page 12

Check it out
The case on the net

The case is Eric and Ryan Montoy, et al., v. the state of Kansas. For more information, visit the following Web sites:

- Shawnee County District Court: www.shawneecourt.org.
- Kansas State Department of Education: www.ksbe.state.ks.us.

Quality of education

The Collegian takes a look at the quality of education at K-State with a three-part series breaking down each of the eight colleges on the Manhattan campus.

High-quality professors make degree worth cost

By Edie Hall and Amy Preston
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Quality.

In a time when higher education has taken precedence in America, the quality of teaching is integral to the learning process that goes on at a university.

Quality professors not only teach their students, they prepare them for the real world.

Here is K-State's story of how eight colleges maintain their quality of education through its professors.

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

George Ham, interim dean for the College of Agriculture, said he's seen many changes to the College of Agriculture over the past two decades.

Professors have come and gone and the Research and Extension program has developed into a nationally recognized program.

One change, however, seems to stand out in his mind.

"There's more of a focus on teaching," Ham said. "There are probably very few institutions that put more focus on teaching than K-State does."

The reason?

One is that the faculty at the College of Agriculture focuses on having a working relationship with students.

"If you look at the student ratings of advising, I think the College of Agriculture gives out a close working relationship," he said. "Our faculty is very willing to go the extra mile."

See PROFESSOR QUALITY Page 7

Police arrest 5 people in drug bust

By James Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Five people were arrested and about $500 worth of drugs were seized during a drug raid at 812 El Paso St. on Tuesday morning.

One-half pound of marijuana and 1.1 grams of crack cocaine were seized at the address. The drugs had an estimated street value of about $500, according to a Riley County Police Department press release.

The arrests were part of an ongoing investigation into the distribution of marijuana and cocaine in the Riley County area, according to the press release.

Police also seized $1,461 in cash and several pieces of stolen property. RCPD Lt. Kurt Moldrup said there were no further details about the property.

Arrested were Demarco Griffin, 26, Junction City; Joshua Davis, 22, Junction City; Warren Moultrie, 37, 410 S. 5th St.; Laura Fabre, 34, 812 El Paso St.; and Joseph Fabre, 38, 812 El Paso St.

Police also found that two children, a 4-year-old and a 14-year-old, lived at the address, but no further information was available.

Griffin was arrested on four felony counts, including possession of crack cocaine with intent to distribute within 1,000 feet of a school, possession of drug paraphernalia, no drug tax stamp and unlawful acts involving drug proceeds.

Davis was arrested for possession of marijuana with intent to distribute within 1,000 feet of a school, possession of drug paraphernalia and unlawful acts involving drug proceeds.

Moultrie was arrested for possession of marijuana with intent to distribute within 1,000 feet of a school, possession of drug paraphernalia, endangering a child and theft.

Laura Fabre was arrested for possession of marijuana with intent to distribute within 1,000 feet of a school, possession of drug paraphernalia, child endangerment and no drug tax stamp.

Joseph Fabre was arrested for possession of drug paraphernalia, endangering a child and probation violation.

Not in demand

Photos by Zach Long | COLLEGIAN
Justin Raybern, sophomore in secondary education, and Layne Stafford, senior in secondary education, sort through tickets Tuesday at Bramlage Coliseum for the Dr Pepper Big 12 Championship game. Students could begin buying the 500 allotted tickets at 8 a.m. for K-State's matchup with Oklahoma on Saturday at Arrowhead Stadium in Kansas City, Mo.

Students buy only 165 of 500 tickets allotted for them

By Sarah Rice
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

At 7:30 a.m. Tuesday, more than 70 students slept in sleeping bags on the concrete floor outside the athletic ticket office.

They came with lawn chairs, pillows, heavy-duty sleeping bags and cups of coffee – all for a chance to purchase a $70 ticket to the Big 12 Championship on Saturday when K-State plays Oklahoma in the conference championship at Arrowhead Stadium in Kansas City, Mo.

The Department of Intercollegiate Athletics announced on Nov. 25 that 500 tickets of the 8,500 tickets would be allotted to students.

But the rows of chains and barriers were not needed to keep students in line. Although students were allowed to bring two K-State IDs at one ticket per ID card, there was no chance of the tickets selling out at 8 a.m. when the office opened.

Only 165 student's tickets were sold, and later in the day Tuesday, the student allotment was opened up to the general public because of lack of student interest, Bob Howell, ticket manager, said. Howell said the full K-State allotment had been sold by 5 p.m. Tuesday.

Wes Pike, senior in math and secondary education, holds his Dr Pepper Big 12 Championship game tickets while waiting on his friends Tuesday at the Bramlage Coliseum ticket office. Pike was part of a group of students purchasing 18 tickets so they could sit by one another.

"I was kind of disappointed in the turnout," he said. "I really anticipated a larger student turnout. We thought we would move all of them in a couple of hours."

Nathan Boepple, senior in architectural engineering, arrived at 3:45 a.m. with 15 of his friends and camped out until Bramlage Coliseum security guards let them in at 6 a.m. Boepple was first in line when the ticket office opened at 8 a.m.

Because it is such an important game, he said, he figured there would be more people competing for tickets.

"I think a lot of it was they didn't tell us about it until late," Boepple said. "We were looking for tickets online, and when they announced the tickets allotted for students, it kind of threw us for a loop."

Tickets also are available on Ticketmaster ranging in price from $55 to $75 and were not yet sold out as of Tuesday evening. There also are more than 200 auctions on eBay for game tickets.

Howell said he isn't sure what caused the low turnout.

"It would be difficult to say," he said. "I think a lot of students purchased it on eBay or on Ticketmaster. Ticketmaster made them available before we did."

Wes Pike, senior in mathematics and secondary education, camped out with his friends last weekend, thinking the student tickets would be available at the same time alumni tickets went on sale.

"We actually camped out last week," Pike said. "We didn't feel it was clear that student tickets didn't go on sale the same time as alumni tickets. A phone call was made to a vice president, and shortly thereafter, there were tickets for students."

Pike said a lot of his friends already have gotten tickets through Ticketmaster outlets.

See TICKETS Page 8

K-State faculty salaries remain low in Big 12

By Kristi Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State officials worry that low faculty salaries reflect the university's quality.

Low salaries already have resulted in several documented cases of faculty leaving.

K-State salaries are lowest among Big 12 schools.

The school ranks 43rd of 50 for the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges, said Jana Fallin, compensation task force chair and music professor.

To cope with faculty losses, officials started a compensation task force.

The force has three sections writing drafts for increasing faculty salaries – tuition waivers and faculty dependence, salaries, and honors and rewards.

Tuition waivers and faculty dependence focus on retention and recruitment of quality faculty members. The

See SALARY Page12

INSIDE

The women's basketball team clawed its way to a 60-41 victory over Northern Illinois on Tuesday night.

Sports, Page 6

HEADLINES

The Associated Press

Teen charged
Phillip D. Switzer Jr., 17, was charged with first-degree murder and aggravated kidnapping in the death of Esmeralda Gonzales. Switzer, a junior at Hill City High School, is the son of Hill City Assistant Police Chief Lesta Stonecipher.

Military pay
In an effort to bolster military morale, the Pentagon soon will begin paying travel expenses for troops to get all the way home on leave from Iraq and Afghanistan. The cost of that extra leg for tens of thousands of soldiers: $55 million.

Court ruling
After knocking, police don't have to wait longer than 20 seconds before breaking into the home of a drug suspect, a unanimous Supreme Court ruled Tuesday in a case involving a man who emerged soapy and naked to find armed officers searching for drugs in his apartment.

SUV safety
The Alliance of Automobile Manufacturers adopted a set of standards to improve the safety of vehicles in side-impact crashes over the next five years, including side-impact air bags and improved door beams and bumpers.

DON'T FORGET

- Tim Wise will present a lecture at 7 tonight in the Union Main Ballroom. The lecture is cosponsored by Black Student Union and Union Program Council.
- The men's basketball team plays at 7 tonight against Wyoming at Bramlage Coliseum.

Weather

Today: Mostly cloudy 42 | 27
Thursday: Partly cloudy, windy 44 | 19

Claflin Books and Copies
1814 Claflin Rd. (785) 776-3771
www.claflinbooks.com Fax: (785) 776-1009

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS
1 TVA construction
4 Posterior
8 Induce ennui
12 What "little lambs" eat
13 Heinz Holliger's instrument
14 Bloodhound's clue
15 Postal Creed word
16 Mitch Miller telecast, in part
18 Pundit
20 One of the kin
21 Llama territory
24 Wooden pin
28 New York prison
32 Protuberance
33 Packed away
34 "When I Take My Sugar —"
36 Three — match
37 Check bar codes
39 Unique
41 Mini-tree?
43 Welsh emblem
44 Bombastic talk
46 Dud
50 South China Sea island
55 — out a living
56 Sheltered
57 Eve's grandson
58 "— Miniver"
59 Scenario
60 Newbies to society
61 Feedbag tidbit

DOWN
1 Cacophonies
2 Acknowledge
3 "— Breckinridge"
4 Most optimistic
5 Where (Lat.)
6 Calendar abbr.
7 Cribbage scorers
8 "The Jazz Singer" star
9 Trouble
10 Get dressed in
11 Work unit
17 Succor
19 Fuel rate abbr.
22 Ocho —, Jamaica
23 No later than
25 Knitter's need
26 Dame — Everage
27 Mad king of literature
28 Back talk
29 Hankering
30 Approach
31 DNA component
35 Eternal
38 Hunk of gold
40 Guitar's cousin
42 Remark from the flock
45 Courted a ticket
47 Interoffice e-mail, maybe
48 Gumbo ingredient
49 Egg container?
50 Dimwit
51 Under the weather
52 Keanu in "The Matrix"
53 Inseparable
54 Pirate

Solution time: 21 mins.

B	O	O	R		L	I	E	D		S	H	E
L	A	V	E		O	B	O	E		H	A	W
T	R	A	V	E	L	I	N	G		O	R	A
			I	W	A	S		R	A	Y	E	N
A	N	O	L	E			G	E	N	E
C	U	R	E		W	H	E	E	L	E	D
I	D	O		S	O	U	L		I	L	A
D	E	V	O	T	E	E	S		O	N	A	I
		E	R	O	S			M	A	G	N	A
J	U	L	E	P		R	O	A	R
E	L	I		S	N	I	V	E	L	I	N	G
A	N	N		B	E	T	E		I	D	E	A
N	A	G		Y	E	A	R		C	A	W	S

Yesterday's answer 12-3

1	2	3	■	4	5	6	7	■	8	9	10	11
12			■	13				■	14
15			■	16				17
18			19		■	■	20			■	■	■
■	■	■	21		22	23	■	24		25	26	27
28	29	30					31	■	32
33			■	34				35	■	36
37			38	■	39				40
41				42	■	43				■	■	■
■	■	■	44		45	■	■	46		47	48	49
50	51	52				53	54		■	55
56				■	57				■	58
59				■	60				■	61

12-3 CRYPTOQUIP

K QDJDIADQDC OZD JKFKLODQ'L FHJD, APO K VNFCDQDC, VNPEC ZKL MHKOZ AD MHJKEKHQ?

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: IF SOME PUEBLO TRIBE IS LIVING IN HARMONY, YOU MAY HAVE A GREAT BIG HOPI FAMILY

Today's Cryptoquip Clue: J equals M

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 1! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to CryptoClassics Book 1, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475

The Cryptoquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.

© 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Contact us

Kansas State Collegian
Kedzie 103
Manhattan, KS 66502
Display ads.....532-6560
Classified ads.....532-6555
Newsroom.....532-6556
news@spub.k-state.edu
Delivery problems.....532-6555

SATIRICALLY SPEAKING: THE FAKE NEWS

"Satirically Speaking" is entirely satirical. Except in the case of public figures, all names are manufactured and any similarity to real persons is accidental or coincidental.

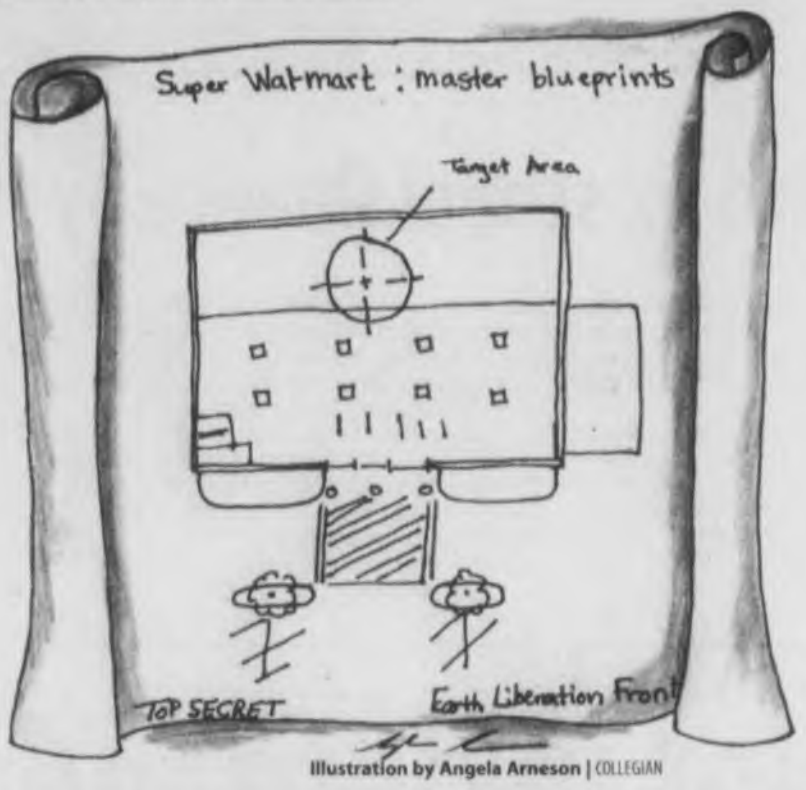

Illustration by Angela Arneson | COLLEGIAN

ELF PRE-EMPTIVE STRIKE AGAINST SUPER WAL-MART FAILS

Riley County police successfully thwarted an attack on Manhattan's incomplete Super Wal-Mart by the Earth Liberation Front on Tuesday.

Penelope Vanderploeg, one of the captured anti-globalization terrorists, confessed to authorities that planning for the pre-emptive strike had been under way for months.

Members of the Front found their hand forced when construction did not cease over Thanksgiving as they had expected, meaning completion of the structure was impending.

Fearing the Super Wal-Mart was vulnerable only when under construction, the ELF terrorists struck immediately.

Vanderploeg blamed the attack's failure on the inclination of her cell's leaders to rely too heavily on "Return of the Jedi" for planning inspiration.

"We were doomed from the beginning, as there was no cute, indigenous species to aid us," she said.

"Plus, we looked everywhere for the shield generator, but to no avail. Then Tom got stuck in the drainage ditch, and Sally accidentally set her charges at the other Wal-Mart. It was operational chaos."

INTERNATIONAL TERRORIST SOUGHT BY PRESIDENT BUSH

During his unprecedented overseas trip last Thursday, President George W. Bush not only found time to visit with troops in Baghdad, but also globetrotted in search of international terrorist Carmen Sandiego.

While the effort resulted in no official arrests, a number of public television officials were transported to the U.S. prison at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, for questioning.

Bush was repeatedly informed of Sandiego's whereabouts by a source only referred to as "The Chief." When suspicions arose that "The Chief" was Vice President Dick Cheney, Cheney issued a clarifying statement.

"I've been having the president watch old PBS children's programming to foster his mental capabilities in preparation for the 2004 campaign," Cheney said.

"While we've had some success, the president is now convinced that Barney is an al Qaeda operative."

In other news, Sesame Street was added as a member of the Axis of Evil, and Clifford the Big Red Dog now is officially listed as a coalition member of Operation Iraqi Freedom.

'RETURN OF THE KING' SIGNALS SHIFT IN POPULARITY TRENDS

Jocks, cheerleaders and other socialites everywhere are eagerly anticipating the final installment of the "Lord of the Rings" trilogy – but not for a desire to see how the epic story ends.

The International Consortium of Cool approved the final version of the coolness standards for 2004-05, taking into consideration the film's premiere.

"For the past three years, the ICC has generously allowed geeks, nerds and even a majority of dweebs to be considered cool based on the popularity of the 'Lord of the Rings' films," ICC delegate Charles Nelson Reilly said. "The standard of coolness will now return to its previous settings."

Flyers will be sent out to high school theater teachers and comic book store owners to pass the information along to the large majority of J.R.R. Tolkien fans.

Posers who buy the Tolkien books after the release of the final film also will be notified. Subsequent editions of Tolkien's "The Hobbit" and the "Lord of the Rings" trilogy will include a prologue concerning the decline in popularity the books now face.

A number of new cool standards were set at the ICC convention's ratification meeting. Among the many new cool things to do: supporting a Democratic presidential candidate no one has heard of, being a Dallas Cowboys fan, having a big DVD collection and paying for music online instead of pirating.

The blotter | Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Monday, Dec. 1

- At 8:27 a.m., Eric Madsen, 1512 Houston St., was arrested for worthless check. Bond was set at $500.
- At 9:57 a.m., Celinda Smith, 730 Allen, No. 58, was arrested for worthless check. Bond was set at $500.
- At 10:42 a.m., Kenneth Matthews, 1925 Dunbar, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $300.
- At 1:50 p.m., Lee Lindquist, 421 Moore Hall, was arrested for computer crime. Bond was set at $1,500.
- At 2:25 p.m., Damian Schmidt, 923 Ratone St., was arrested for driving on a suspended license. Bond was set at $750.
- At 4:44 p.m., Christopher Jones, Clarksville, Tenn., was arrested for forgery. Bond was set at $1,500.
- At 11:35 p.m., Crystal Anschutz, 236 Moore Hall, was arrested for worthless check. Bond was set at $1,172.39.

Tuesday, Dec. 2

- At 2:20 a.m., Charlotte Kersten, 3032 Claflin Road, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.

The planner
Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@spub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- Unrecovered lost items are available for recovery in Hale 504.
- "Listening to the Prairie: Farming in Nature's Image," an exhibition that teaches the history of the prairie and new farming approaches, is at Hale Library.
- Entries for the Intramural 3-point shootout will be taken from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. today through Thursday at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex administration office.
- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Amy Wintermantel at 2 p.m. today in the Family Center Room 114.
- There will be a basic library class at 2:30 p.m. today in Hale 408.
- ECM Christian Explorers are sponsoring a presentation by Shannon Howard from Nicaragua on Social Justice Education at 5 p.m. today in Union 213.
- The K-State chess club will meet from 6 to 10 tonight in Union Staterooms 1 and 2.
- KSU Aikido will conduct a martial arts class from 7 to 9 tonight in Ahearn 301.
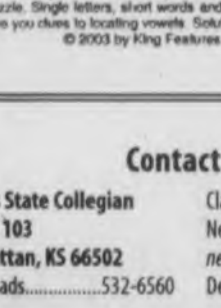
- Chase County poet Annie Wilson will read and discuss her literary work and ranch life at 7 tonight at the Manhattan Public Library Auditorium.
- The Baptist Campus Center will have a Bible study at 8 tonight at the center, 1801 Anderson Ave. The study will focus on the Book of Revelations.

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor James Hurla at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@spub.ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian



(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.

© Kansas State Collegian, 2003

December Special
1 hr massage...$40
Body First
2308 Anderson
587-6300
GIFT CERTIFICATES AVAILABLE

New Clients Only
FREE Haircut
w/Hilite Foil Weave or 2 Color Weave
$50 to $70
by Kelly and Allysa
TINA'S Studio 32 FOR HAIR
776-8830 Candlewood

PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS
1800 Claflin Road
776-5577
We Deliver During Lunch!
VISA

Yoshiro Ikeda
Strecker-Nelson Gallery
406½ Poyntz
Monday-Saturday 10-6

FIGHT NIGHT
Thursday, Dec. 4th 2003
Male and Female Boxing
Beginner and Amateur Levels Only
18 and over show
SILVERADO SALOON
Tickets
$7 Advance
$10 Day of Show
For more info or to register go to
www.knockoutevents.com
Weigh-Ins at 8 pm
Doors Open at 9 pm
Fights Start at 10 pm
$2.50
Miller Lite Pounders

Pastrami on Rye
Limited Time ONLY
Ask to Combo:
Mr. Goodcents Subs & Pastas
We Deliver!
1337 Anderson
539-1900
– Limited Time Offer –
Buy any regular price 1/2 Sub Sandwich and get the second 1/2 Sub Sandwich for only 99¢
Mr. Goodcents Subs & Pastas
Valid on subs of equal or lesser value. Offer Valid at Participating Topeka, Manhattan, Junction City and Salina Mr. Goodcents® locations. Not valid in conjunction with any other offers. Offer expires 12/31/03
Mr. Goodcents It's a bigger, better deli-fresh sub

Pakistani Students Association
Kansas State University
Presented by:
Ghulam Nabi Fai
Director,
Kashmiri American Council
KASHMIR
And
United Nations
WHEN: Thursday, December 04, 2003
TIME: 4:00 - 6:00 p.m.
WHERE: Big 12, Student Union
Refreshment will be served after the program.

Student feedback sought for end-of-semester evaluations

By Scott Seel
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Teacher evaluations are back for this week and next.

"I take them quite seriously," said Brent Maner associate professor of history. "It is something that all professors have to take seriously."

Provost James Coffman said the evaluations are used by department heads to monitor the progress of faculty members and by the faculty members, themselves to improve and adapt their own teaching styles.

"Self-improvement is very key for that purpose that faculty member is the primary owner of the information," Coffman said. "They are also used in the annual evaluation and promotion and tenure decisions."

Vicki Clegg, director of the Center for Advancement of Teaching and Learning, said there were two different types of forms used at K-State, both of which were developed after a process of on-campus research.

University policy states that all non-tenured professors must have students in all their courses complete teacher evaluations.

The handbook also requires tenured professors to be evaluated in one class per year. Each department may also have additional policies.

Clegg said her department does not evaluate the immediate results of each evaluation, but does review the statistics on a much larger scale to determine if any changes need to be made to the system.

"We talk to both faculty members and department heads to determine what kinds of questions to ask," Clegg said.

She said the degree to which teacher evaluations and student feedback directly affect administrative decisions varies among departments.

"I would say, personally, that student input is probably weighed too heavily," Clegg said. "In a lot of facets, student input is very critical, but it should never, ever be the only factor, and a lot of times it is."

In the history department, Maner said, teachers are required to go through an annual evaluation project in which teacher evaluations play "an extremely important role."

"It is required that I distribute the forms as a non-tenured professor," he said.

Maner said he believes it is important for professors to add more questions to get feedback.

"I always ask one or two specific questions for the students to answer on the back."

Maner said he does this because there are issues within the course that he feels need examining.

Maner said he believes if he can get students writing on the back answering a question, they will be more likely to provide other helpful information not prompted by the question.

"I'm just absolutely convinced if I didn't write a specific question to answer on the back, 95 percent of students wouldn't even turn the paper over," he said.

While Maner values the feedback he gets from students, he said the system still should be evaluated further.

"I'm frustrated with the formulaic questions," he said.

Maner said open-ended questions are more likely to provide feedback that could help him become a better teacher.

"When someone writes sincere comments of three or four sentences, that person deserves my time to read it," he said.

He said there are some other concerns. For instance, some students may be reluctant to respond honestly.

"I'm hearing from an audience I have some kind of autonomous authority over," he said.

Joseph Aistrup, head of the Department of Political Science, said the department requires all professors to be evaluated by the students in every class.

He said it is important to note that teacher evaluations are considered with varying degrees of importance based on the role each professor plays within the department.

"Some professors have a heavier teaching load," Aistrup said, so evaluations will play a larger role with them."

1st reading of rezoning act passes, Commission addresses housing density

By Rogie Dorpinghaus
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Mike Cardella became emotional when speaking to city commissioners Tuesday night.

He said he wished they would have down-zoned south Manhattan years ago.

Commissioners unanimously passed the first reading of phase two of the traditional neighborhood overlay district and related rezoning at the meeting.

Phase two affects areas south of Poyntz Avenue and north of Fort Riley Boulevard. The phase also has three sub-areas.

Cardella said several super-duplexes recently built by his house have caused the 65-year old sewers in the neighborhood to back up into his basement, he said.

"You didn't think what it was going to do to our neighborhood before," Cardella said to commissioners. "You didn't care."

The duplexes aren't built for families – they're built for K-State students, he said.

"I'm not saying students are bad," he said. "They're good people. However, when you have this many people living in a small place, you have density problems."

Cardella said that in an area where four people used to live, 20 now live – and each owns a vehicle.

"For 40 years, K-State has neglected student housing shortage," he said. "K-State has upgraded buildings on campus but has let the city of Manhattan take care of the housing needs for students."

Cardella said there are 15 super duplexes and 32 one-story two-family duplexes on the southside of Manhattan.

"We're duplexed to death," he said.

Eric Cattell, assistant director for planning, said the re-zoning is to strike a balance between protecting neighborhoods and providing opportunity for redevelopment.

Mayor Mark Taussig said he was concerned with passing phase two.

"It seems there was a lot of talk about affordable housing, and I'm concerned that passing this will be eliminating some affordable housing," he said.

Taussig said his parents rent out their basement to help pay bills.

"I don't think down-zoning this particular area is going to change people's behavior," he said.

"Rentals are still going to exist. It's not going to return back to the 'good ol' days.'"

Commissioners also approved unanimously the first reading of ordinances annexing and rezoning the St. Joseph Independent Living Planned Unit from County U, university development district, to PUD, residential planned unit development.

Fast facts
Rezoning plans

Sub-area A
- Formerly zoned R-2 for two-family residential housing, was down-zoned to R-1 single-family residential with traditional neighborhood overlay.
- Area is from south of Poyntz to Colorado Street between North 18th Street and South Juliette Avenue.

Sub-area B
- Formerly zoned R-2 for two-family residential, was changed to R-2 two-family residential with traditional neighborhood overlay.
- Area encompasses housing south of Colorado to Fort Riley Boulevard between 18th Street to Juliette.

Sub-area C
- Formerly zoned R-M four family residential, was changed to R-M four-family residential with a traditional neighborhood overlay.
- Area covers houses from Houston Street to El Paso Lane between Juliette to North 5th Street.

upc
LEAVING OUR MARK...ONE EVENT AT A TIME.
STUDENT Photo Contest
To get more info, go to www.bsu.edu/upc or go to the UPC Office, located on the 3rd floor of the Student Union
UPC Arts commitee encourages all students to enter picture your talent viewed by thousands
plus, win some money too
Winners will be displayed in the Kemper Art Gallery and have an opportunity to be featured in the Spring '04 UPC Calendar.
Entries due in the Union Program Council Office TODAY by 4p.m.
K-STATE STUDENT UNION
HOTLINE: 532 6572 WEBSITE: www.ksu.edu/upc

KANSAS STATE
BASKETBALL

It's Game Time!
K-STATE
vs.
Wyoming
Wed. Dec. 3, 7 p.m.
Bramlage Coliseum
FOR TICKET INFORMATION CALL
1-800-221-CATS
OR VISIT WWW.K-STATESPORTS.COM

Kansas State University
Black Student Union
Presents:

Tim Wise
Beyond "Diversity:" Challenging Racism in an age of Backlash
December 3, 2003
K-State Student Union
Main Ballroom
7:00 p.m.
Free Admission
Sponsored by Black Student Union Funded in-part by DPC
Reception immediately following lecture at K-State Alumni Center Great Room

Phi Kappa Phi
An Honor Society Across All Academic Areas
Kansas State University Chapter
Established Nov. 15, 1915
Congratulations To Our New Initiates

AGRICULTURE
Amber E. Brazle
Blake Matthew Bryant
Melissa Ann Colgan
Cary Jane Davis
Kira D. Everhart
Todd R. Jennison
Alicia M. Lloyd
Jill L. Merkel
Erin Brooke Rarden
Kimberly M. Terrell
Justin Brent Turner
Audrey Elaine Young
Amber Dawn Zachgo

ARCHITECTURE AND DESIGN
Daniel William Cooper
Christopher Robert Ricke

ARTS & SCIENCES
Scott C. Ackerman
Kristin Diana Baker
Brittany L. Blattner
Sarah A. Bouker
Andrea Renee Brown
Rebecca E. Butler
Rebecca Ann Davidson
Jacquelyn Elizabeth Engelbrecht
Meghan B. Hampton
Tara Beth Hanney
Nathan R. Heckerson
Tristan Thomas Hinderliter
Patrice R. Holderbach
Ryan Dean Hubbard
Richard C. Kidwell
Dustin Skyler Kruse
Abbey R. Lindholm
Kathryn Joy O'Hara
Adrienne Denise Olney
Katherine A. Settle
Jessica Marie Shank
Jay Paul Simons
Israel Stanage
Sarah E. Stewart
Jennifer Strong
Tiffany Tinkum
Sonya R. Wesselowski
Lisa Anne Zerbe

BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION
Adam Paul Akin
Aaron Daniel Anderson
Kyle David Donaldson
Ryan David Dusenberry
Clint Francis
Justin T. Keller
James Joseph Kutter
Damian Michael Lair
Allison Dyan Lindsey
Erin C. Ludvicek
Jesse Daniel Newton
Eric Ryan Quinn
Rebecca D. Thrasher
Alison Marie Weber
Kimberly Ann Weber
Raymond A. Wilcox
Julie Marie Wondra

EDUCATION
Rachel Grimmer
Yvette Hickey
Jessica Cora McClenahan
Sarah Jane Meissner
McKenzie Marie Miller
John Trung Nguyen
Staci M. Novak
Usha Lakshmi Reddi
Kaysie Renae Reed
Jessica Rae Rzeszut
Kari Strelcheck
Jennifer A. Ward
Daniel Clark Wilson

ENGINEERING
Jason Ryan Blankenship
James Robert Kummer
Kent Brian McArthur
Gina Maria Mercurio
Brandon J. Owston
Brian David Platt
Mr. Scott Daniel Rock
Craig A. Wilson

HUMAN ECOLOGY
Jennifer Allene Barnett
Sarah M. Burdick
April Renea Hammond
April Marie Johns
Anne Elizabeth Parker

TECHNOLOGY & AVIATION
Darick Barnes
Seth Elliott Short
Owen K. Walker

VETERINARY MEDICINE
Heather Renee Gill
Daniel Jackson Longfellow
Margaret Sheriff

GRADUATE SCHOOL
Connie Aumen
Matthew Mario Battiston
Edwin L. Brokesh
Megan A. Bygness
Eileen M. Caspers
Keith Tadashi Chinn
Jennifer B. Culver
Jennifer Lynn Dean
Shawna Elisabeth Doerksen
Margery M. Hanfelt, DVM
Gavin Kyle Garman
Marya Ann Heinen Haverkamp
Cora Ellen Holt
Jeffrey Lee Hurn
Bonnie Lynn Kenewell
Girish A. Khare
Jeffery A. Koch
Andrea Christina Kohl
Victoria Martinez de Maldonado
Annette Therese Montgomery
David Wilson Montgomery
Marian C. Page
Manoj Pathak
Rachel Eryn Potucek
Aditya Sakhalkar
Matthew Ryan Sanderson
Tamarind Schaffler
James George Schneider
Debra S. Stevens
Robert J. Weber
Yanmei Xiao
Tao Yang

Phi Kappa Phi

TO THE POINT

Effective tevals require detailed student feedback

Students will be asked within the next week to evaluate their teachers' performances. Students should take full advantage of this opportunity.

Student feedback is crucial because teachers cannot improve unless they know which area needs improvement.

The tevals are used for annual evaluations of teachers, promotion and tenure decisions. All non-tenured professors are required to have students complete the evaluations in all of their classes.

The types of forms used for evaluation pose categorical questions on the front and allow student feedback on the back.

Many times students rush through the questions and turn it in without including personal responses.

The statistical information that the front of the tevals offer only goes so far in telling teachers how they could improve. Students need to flip it over and provide details and examples of what they thought their teacher did well and where they could improve.

It is through this mechanism that the quality of teaching will improve.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Paul Restivo
Katie Lane
James Hurla
Abbie Whited
Edie Hall
Andrew Lawson
Dave Skretta
Rachel Krier
Corbin H. Crable
Chris Harrop

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@spub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Paul Restivo | EDITOR IN CHIEF Katie Lane | MANAGING EDITOR

James Hurla NEWS EDITOR
Kelly Glasscock PHOTO EDITOR
Corbin H. Crable COPY CHIEF
Dave Skretta SPORTS EDITOR
Rachel Krier THE EDGE EDITOR
Chris Harrop ONLINE EDITOR
Abbie Whited CITY/GOV EDITOR
Andrew Lawson OPINION EDITOR
Jared Jaynes AD MANAGER
Edie Hall CAMPUS EDITOR
Dana Strongin WRITING COACH
Jenny Calvert ASST. AD MANAGER

THURSDAY'S OPINIONS

LINDSEY PRAECHTER

Lindsey Praechter does not agree with the demand that the Smithsonian display anti-nuke platitudes next to the Enola Gay exhibit.

GRANT REICHERT

Grant Reichert can't get over Dennis Kucinich's strange defense plans and even stranger deity.

Rules of the road

Illustrations by Kent Holle| COLLEGIAN

Selfish motorists make travel difficult for millions of people

The screech of brakes and objects flying through my car resounded in my ears.

Shaking, I drew a shallow breath and stared at the inches separating me from the maroon car before me.

KATHRYN HOLLINGSWORTH

Confusion was quickly replaced with anger as facts began arranging themselves in my scrambled brain. The light had flashed green, and I had lightly applied the gas to move forward.

However, that procedure had almost turned to devastation when the maroon car made a left-hand turn on a red light and almost met my car in a head-on collision.

According to the New Mexico Business Weekly, the American Aviation Association estimated 31.1 million people would travel 50 or more miles from home by vehicle last weekend.

This Thanksgiving, my family and I made the 13-hour journey from Montezuma, Kan., to Shelby, Miss.

During this voyage, I watched selfish drivers make the road a miserable place and cause several episodes of road rage.

With the onslaught of Christmas travel approaching, drivers need to study their habits and rationale when on the road.

If all drivers would adhere to the conventions most children grasp by the second grade, holiday driving would be safer and less frustrating.

1. THE LEFT LANE

If you ever have the opportunity to drive through Arkansas, don't expect to pass any cars in the left lane.

As soon as I crossed the Oklahoma border into Arkansas and continued toward Little Rock, the left lane became a joke. Nothing can persuade slow drivers to drive into the right lane in this beautiful state.

Riding the offending car's bumper while laying on your horn and pointing at the right lane does not faze these self-centered, dim-witted drivers.

There is a myth that the left lane is smoother than the right lane. However, it doesn't matter if the left lane is paved with gold. If drivers plan on going 10 mph while talking on their cell phones and reloading their shotguns, they should stay in the right lane where they belong.

2. CONSTRUCTION ZONES

Meeting a construction zone during a long journey on the interstate is frustrating, but what is absolutely maddening is when cars try to break through the line of traffic and pass in a construction zone.

About 20 miles from Little Rock, all the drivers who wouldn't get out of the left lane moved to the now-closed right lane. This caused traffic to gridlock when they were forced to move to the left lane five miles up the road.

By jumping ahead in line, they caused the flow of traffic to move at about 2 mph.

Everyone believes their destination is important, but staying in line and making the appropriate lane changes in construction zones keeps the flow of traffic moving at a reasonable speed.

3. TURNING SIGNALS

If you are ever speeding through Oklahoma City and see any signs for Dallas in the distance, keep your eyes peeled for lane jumpers who don't use blinkers. In a mad dash to get back to Texas, these drivers absent-mindedly don't signal before they cut you off to jump four lanes.

When drivers are traveling at high speeds on the interstate, blinkers are mandatory.

Being conscientious of other drivers makes the road a better place for everyone. People who follow the speed limit and wear seat belts may be following police law.

But if these drivers selfishly ignore the rights of other drivers, they are ignoring basic human decency.

Kathryn is a senior in public relations. You can e-mail her at kat_crazy13@hotmail.com.

Challenges to satire jeopardize freedoms of speech

Sometimes the truth is stranger than fiction.

As someone who reads as many as three dozen newspapers and Web logs online every week, lots of crazy news items pass before my eyes – articles that stagger my mind with their audacious content or the stupidity of the parties involved.

CHRIS HARROP

Such was the case with the Nov. 13 edition of the Atlanta Journal-Constitution.

A story by Jackie Halifax related how Florida Gov. Jeb Bush said, "The people of San Francisco are an endangered species, which may not be a bad thing. That's probably good news for the country." Bush went on to make fun of Gary Coleman and his short stature, as the story details.

Sometimes, the satire writes itself.

Gaffes and political missteps such as this are fodder for parody and satire. Unfortunately, even the freedom of speech protecting the often-humorous interpretations of news events are in jeopardy.

The Dec. 1 issue of the Christian Science Monitor told of a local news item – a satirical piece on a judge who sentenced an adolescent to prison for a Halloween story he wrote – having its legality challenged all the way to the Texas Supreme Court, with hearings slated for today.

Apparently, the story was too close for comfort to the original story for the judge's taste. A variety of other news outlets also picked up the story and ran it as a legitimate piece.

That it was interpreted as a serious piece of journalism is raising libel issues.

A general sentiment against comical political commentaries has grown in America, it seems. Even editorial cartoonists receive more than their fair share of abuse from people who just cannot take a joke.

The Kansas City Star's Lee Judge and countless other cartoonists are lambasted frequently for their often acquiescent take on politics.

Our desire to see pretty pictures and avoid reading lengthy columns has lead many to believe those cartoons can eviscerate an idea or belief with as much credibility as a Cal Thomas piece.

Our society legally protects speech but socially condemns dissent or opposing opinions. We should all take time to recall Voltaire's wish to defend our individual rights to speech, despite whatever personal or political qualms we have with the content of the message.

The problem is the proliferation of Ann Coulter-esque talking heads that reside on all sides of the political spectrum. They come in various incarnations, but they each base their entire existence on the notion that anyone who disagrees with you is wrong, stupid or unpatriotic.

These pundits may be the greatest satirists, given their ability to make political statements and make them seem like fact.

We should also recall that entertaining a thought without immediately accepting or rejecting it is a true measure of a learned mind, as Aristotle is often quoted.

Should legitimate news outlets put warning labels on pieces that are satirical or have humorous takes on issues? Absolutely.

However, constraining the many ways in which a story can be told or a point made is neither beneficial for people who make it their business, nor helpful in the ongoing debate concerning protected speech.

Christopher is a senior in history and political science. You can e-mail him at chris@k-state.edu.

TO THE EDITOR

College athletics should put students 1st

Editor,

I just read the story about students only being allowed 500 tickets.

What a shame.

College athletics should be for the students, first and foremost. In appreciation, students should support their team through thick and thin.

It is a shame what corporate America, television and the big bucks that now want to jump on the bandwagon are doing to college sports.

I hope the students realize many long-time supporters have also been phased out because they cannot afford the tab. We only can hope that at some point, someone will be more supportive of the student.

In the meantime, hang on and keep being the strong supporters you have been, as you will always be crucial to your team's success.

We all love our Cats, and you are very much a key to our team's success.

Good luck, and I hope you get a better deal next time.

Andy Galyardt | CLASS OF 1954

CAMPUS FOURUM | 395-4444

Laundromats? Who's running the Collegian? Bozo the Clown?

Who do I contact about being on the erection patrol?

How many ADD kids does it take to change a light bulb? Wanna go ride bikes?

Attention Derby Dining Center: One of your sugar shakers has salt in it. Good luck finding it.

If K-State beats Oklahoma, I'm growing my hair out and putting it in cornrows.

Two-faced politician? Isn't that an oxymoron, like military intelligence?

If Patterson could coach like Wooldridge, our girls would be undefeated.

Tammy Jo, kissing is not the same as having sex or getting married. If you like a guy, you should just kiss him.

The only way K-State's going to lose this weekend is if Jesse Tetuan plays.

Andrew Lawson? More like tool of the establishment.

George W. Bush? More like "Where's Waldo?"

I find it awful curious that we can put a story about the Fort Hays football players beating somebody up, but when K-State players do it, it doesn't even make the papers.

Hey, I want to meet that I-70 chick's roommate.

To all the fun Nazis on the Manhattan City Council: Why don't you consider banning premarital sex and masturbation? In fact, I think the Taliban has a sale on burqas going for all the ladies in town.

I want to thank the Manhattan City Council for proving that Kansas isn't a backwater, backwards state. Thank you.

I just broke a public ordinance...

Not enough Fourum? Visit www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

Witness: Malvo tried to elude Muhammad before sniper attacks

By Matthew Barakat
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHESAPEAKE, Va. – A few months before the Washington-area sniper attacks for which he and John Allen Muhammad were arrested, a teenage Lee Boyd Malvo sought a way out of his "situation," Muhammad's first wife testified Tuesday.

The letter in which he asked for help was not read to the jury, and it was unclear what situation Malvo wanted to escape.

But in his opening statement last month, one of Malvo's lawyers alluded to a letter his client wrote to one of Muhammad's nieces in which he said he was despondent, adding that his mother had abandoned him and "I have a father who will kill me for a righteous society to prevail."

Malvo's lawyers contend Muhammad brainwashed him and molded the young man into a killer to help him carry out the sniper attacks that killed 10 people in and around the nation's capital in October 2002. If convicted, Malvo, 18, could get the death penalty.

Muhammad's first wife, Carol Williams, testified Tuesday that Malvo wrote a letter to her niece in the summer of 2002, when Muhammad and Malvo were visiting her family in Baton Rouge, La.

Malvo, who had been introduced as Muhammad's son, was "asking for help to get out of the situation he was in," Williams said. She said Malvo and Muhammad left Baton Rouge before any members of her family could find a way to help Malvo.

Asked on cross-examination by prosecutors whether Malvo and Williams' niece, both 17 at the time, had a romantic relationship, Williams responded that she believed the two simply liked to spend time together.

Malvo's lawyers plan to introduce the letter to the jury Wednesday, with the expected testimony of the niece, LaToria Williams.

Saddam landmarks torn down; insurgents arrested

By Aleksandar Vasovic
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BAGHDAD, Iraq – Workers began demolishing gigantic bronze busts of Saddam Hussein in Baghdad on Tuesday, while U.S. troops to the north arrested at least 20 insurgents in a raid – both moves aimed at stamping out loyalty to Iraq's ousted regime.

Iraqi police said a senior former member of Saddam's elite Republican Guard was among those captured in Hawija, 155 miles north of Baghdad. However, the U.S. troops failed to catch the target of the raid – Izzat Ibrahim al-Douri, considered a key planner of attacks against U.S. troops.

Also in the north, insurgents kept up attacks against American-led forces, with a soldier of the 4th Infantry Division killed in a roadside explosion in Samarra, the scene of deadly weekend battles between Americans and Iraqis.

Meanwhile, relatives of U.S. troops visiting Iraq pressed their agenda to meet with leaders of the occupation authority, hoping to voice their opposition to the U.S.-led occupation.

One mother held back tears while looking at U.S. soldiers guarding the entrance of the Habbaniyah military base in Baghdad.

"They are so young. This is not for them. ... They look just like my boy," said Annabelle Valencia, whose daughter, 24, and son, 22, are both based in Iraq.

Elsewhere in the capital, workers using a construction crane started dismantling the 13-foot busts of Saddam from his former Republican Palace, now the headquarters of the U.S.-led Coalition Provisional Authority.

It was unclear how long the work would take.

Lt. Col. William MacDonald, spokesman for the 4th Infantry Division, said the raids in Hawija were aimed at capturing former regime members financing guerrilla attacks in the region.

Eric Ladd, a senior at Manhattan High School, puts memorials on a poinsettia tree at the Manhattan Town Center on Tuesday night. The "Light of Life Tree" was part of a project by the Homecare and Hospice Foundation that gave individuals the opportunity to remember loved ones with doves or stars.

Zach Long
COLLEGIAN

Light of Life tree project honors lost loved ones

By Abbie Whited
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Holidays can be tough for those who have lost someone.

The Homecare and Hospice Foundation offers one opportunity for local residents to honor loved ones this season.

The ninth-annual Light of Life campaign began Tuesday night with a dedication ceremony at Manhattan Town Center.

During the three-week campaign, people may donate money and have an ornament with someone's name on it placed on the Poinsettia tree. The tree is in the mall in front of JCPenney.

"It's not finished tonight though," Christy Ladd, volunteer coordinator, said.

Vera Hintz, executive director, said ornaments may be dedicated until Christmas. People can request an ornament, and hospice staff will create it and hang it on the tree.

"Basically, it's just trying to remember loved ones," she said.

"Sometimes, people will remember their entire family. There's one ornament honoring all veterans."

Ornaments do not have to be dedicated to deceased people, Hintz said.

To receive an ornament, people fill out an information card specifying donation amount and the loved one's name. Volunteers cut out the ornaments and write the names on the ornaments.

How to
Dedicate an ornament

- Call the Homecare and Hospice Foundation at 537-0688.
- Visit them at 323 Poyntz Ave.
- Visit their table or customer service at Manhattan Town Center for more information.
- Tell them you want to make a donation to dedicate an ornament for the Poinsettia tree.
- $25 for a dove ornament.
- $50 for a star.
- $100 for an angel.

"We do a mailing in November to those people who are on our mailing list or who have left memorials before to let them know about this opportunity," Ladd said.

Reverend Mark Waterhouse, Hospice chaplain, dedicated the tree at the ceremony's start.

He said he has done this every year for almost five years in Manhattan, Junction City and Wamego.

Waterhouse said his father died 10 years ago.

He hasn't put an ornament on the tree but said he would consider it.

"I put other people's ornaments up, and I enjoy that," he said. "I see the names, and I remember them and think of them."

Putting names on the tree is a positive experience for people, Waterhouse said.

"It is an acknowledgment of the names of people, that their lives were meaningful, and that they are missed."

Little Caesars
HOT-N-READY pizza
$5.00 LARGE WITH PEPPERONI Carry Out Only
ALL DAY, EVERYDAY!
1150 Westloop • 539-3333

GIVE PLASMA GET CASH
Donate Plasma And Earn $45 this week
Save Lives & Earn Cash.
ZLB Plasma Services
1130 Gardenway
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785)776-9177 • www.zlb.com

PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER
"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting & adoption."
539-3338
Free pregnancy tests
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment
Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

ADVENTURE:
by The North Face
the PATHFINDER
OUTDOOR EQUIPMENT SPECIALISTS
304 POYNTZ DOWNTOWN 539-5639

January Intersession 2004
January 5-21, 2004

Time Is Running Out. Enroll today! To enroll and/or obtain an Intersession schedule with complete course descriptions and prerequisites, visit our Web site at http://www.dce.ksu.edu/intersession. If you prefer, call (785) 532-5687 or 1-800-432-8222 or visit the Division of Continuing Education at 131 College Court Building, 1615 Anderson Ave., Manhattan, KS. Enrollment deadline is January 5 unless indicated with an *.

Tuition for on-campus coursework will be $129 per undergraduate resident credit and $178 per graduate credit hour, plus $1 per day special and health fees. A student services fee and/or materials fee may be required for some courses. A $14/ credit hour fee is assessed for Engineering and Architecture courses.

Course Title	Course #	Ref#	Credit	Dates	Times
AGRICULTURE
Practicum in Bakery Technology	GRSC 701	94101	1 UG/G	1/12- 1/16	MTWUF 8:00 AM-4:30 PM
ARCHITECTURE, PLANNING, & DESIGN
Portfolio Design Studio	IAR 406	94142	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:30 PM
Problems: Car Design Studio	IAR 406	94143	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 5:00 PM-8:30 PM
Problems: Portfolio Design Studio	IAR 830	94140	3 G	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:30 PM
Problems: Car Design Studio	IAR 830	94128	3 G	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 5:00 PM-8:30 PM
Sketching with Watercolor	LAR 741	94144	2 UG/G	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:30 PM
ARTS & SCIENCES
Forensic Medicine & Investigation of Death	ANTH 684	94132	3 UG/G	1/5-1/20	MTWUFSa 8:00 AM-5:00 PM
Special Studies: Experiments in Color: Theory & Application	ART 300	94107	2 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 10:00 AM-3:00 PM
Problems: Practical Aspects of NMR	CHM 799	94104	0	1/5-1/21	MTWU 9:00 AM-12:30 PM
Independent Studies in Dance: Intensive on Applied Movement Fundamentals	DANCE 599	94133	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 9:00 AM-12:30 PM
Topics: America's Nuclear Age	HIST 200	94113	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 9:00 AM-1:00 PM
War Films & American Culture 1945-2000	HIST 200	94103	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 1:00 PM-5:00 PM
Topics: Religion & the American Civil War	HIST 200	94102	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 6:00 PM-9:30 PM
Seminar in Kinesiology: Sport & Exercise Personality	KIN 590	94108	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 9:00 AM-12:30 PM
History of Musical Instruments	MUSIC 310	94116	2 UG	1/5-1/14	MTWUF 9:00 AM-12:30 PM
Jazz in Kansas City & the Southwest	MUSIC 424	94117	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:30 PM
Social Construction of Serial Murder	SOCIO 501	94123	3 UG/G	1/5-1/20	MTWUF 1:00 PM-5:30 PM
Business & Economic Statistics I	STAT 350	94110	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 8:05 AM-11:45 AM
Topics: Role Theory In Action	THTRE 630	94121	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 12:00 PM-5:00 PM
Topics: Women and Islam	WOMST 500	94150	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 8:30 AM-12:00 PM
BUSINESS
Advanced Prob. in Finance: Finance for Entrepreneurs	FINAN 898	94100	3 G	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF 9:00 AM-12:30 PM
Business, Government, and Society	MANGT 596	94141	3 UG/G	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF 8:30 AM-11:45 AM
Marketing	MKTG 400	94115	3 UG	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF 8:30 AM-11:45 PM
Retailing	MKTG 541	94119	3 UG	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF 8:30 AM-11:45 PM
International Marketing	MKTG 544	94124	3 UG	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:15 PM
Sports Marketing	MKTG 630	94122	3 UG/G	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF 8:30 AM-11:45 PM
Intro to TQM	MANGT 300	94120	1 UG	1/9- 1/13	F 4:30 PM-10:00 PM MT 5:00 PM-9:30 PM
EDUCATION
Topics: Leadership and Spirituality	EDADL 502	94126	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 1:00 PM-5:00 PM
IS/Stress Management	EDCEP 502	94127	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 3:30 PM-7:30 PM
Topics: The Study of Happiness	EDCEP 786	94129	2 UG	1/7-1/21	MTWUF 3:00 PM-5:15 PM
Stress Management for Teachers, Counselors, Administrators	EDCEP 802	94125	3 G	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 3:30 PM-7:30 PM
Teaching as a Career	EDSEC 102	94130	1 UG	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF
Special Topics: Teaching Adolescent Literature	EDSEC 786	94131	1UG	1/14- 1/21	TWUF 4:30 PM-7:00 PM
ENGINEERING
AutoCAD for Engineering & Construction	ARE 311	94105	2 UG	1/5- 1/20	MTWUF 8:00 AM-12:00 PM
Introduction to Information Technology	CIS 101	94146	1 UG	1/5- 1/7	MTW 8:00 AM-12:10 PM
Introduction to Microcomputer Spreadsheet Applications	CIS 102	94147	1 UG	1/8- 1/12	MUF 8:00 AM-12:10 PM
Introduction to Microcomputer Database Applications	CIS 103	94148	1 UG	1/13- 1/15	TWU 8:00 AM-12:10 PM
Introduction to Microcomputer Word Processing	CIS 104	94149	1 UG	1/16- 1/21	TWF 8:00 AM-12:10 PM
Topics in Construction Management: Tilt-Up Concrete Structures in Construction Management	CNS 644	94118	2 UG/G	1/5- 1/16	MTWUF 8:30 AM-11:30 AM
Intro to TQM	DEN 300	94145	1 UG	1/9- 1/13	F 4:30 PM-10:00 PM MT 5:00 PM-9:30 PM
HUMAN ECOLOGY
Topics in FSHS: Marital Infidelity	FSHS 300	94137	3 UG	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF 9:30 AM-1:00 PM
Topics in FSHS: Introduction to Marriage & Family Therapy	FSHS 300	94138	3 UG	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF 8:00 AM-12:00 PM
Topics: Building Intimate Relationships	FSHS 300	94135	3 UG	1/5- 1/21	MTWU 8:45 AM-12:30 PM
Seminar in Long Term Care Administration	GERON 610	94112	3 UG/G	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF 5:00 PM-8:30 PM
VETERINARY MEDICINE
Fundamental Concepts in Emerging Pathogenic Disease	DMP 770	94109	3 CR	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF 8:30 AM-11:45 AM

K-STATE
Division of Continuing Education
www.dce.ksu.edu/intersession

Football team prepares for championship like usual

By Marshall Ice
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State's players, despite being heavy underdogs, and coaches are preparing for the Big 12 Championship game the same way they would for any other opponent.

"All the things you need to do are the same things you need to do week-in and week-out to be a decent football team," Coach Bill Snyder said.

K-State will need a strong performance in every facet of its game to beat the Sooners.

"Obviously, we have to play very well, Snyder said. "That goes without saying. The important thing is to play as well as we possibly can – to play as well as they can and let the chips fall where they may."

NO FREEBIES

While K-State may need big plays to win the game, the Cats also will have to avoid turnovers. Oklahoma is among the nation's best in turnover differential.

"That is what you attempt to do every time out," Snyder said. "You always look for ways to create big plays, and you look for ways to avoid giving up big plays."

ROBERSON MORE EXPERIENCED

The last time K-State and Oklahoma faced each other, during the Cats' forgettable 6-6 season in 2001, quarterback Ell Roberson struggled early.

But Roberson, who was making just the third start of his career, settled down to have one of his best games. He has made vast improvement since.

"I think he is a better football player collectively today than he was at that particular point in time," Snyder said. "He made some mistakes in his early years he is probably less prone to right now."

Snyder said maturity has been one of the main factors contributing to Roberson's improvement.

"Just his knowledge of the offense, command of the offense and understanding defenses better," Snyder said.

PASS ATTACK

K-State can expect Oklahoma to throw early and often.

See FOOTBALL Page 10

SPORTS ONLINE

www.kstatecollegian.com

Football | News and notes heading to Big 12 title game

Read about what K-State will have to stop in Oklahoma's vaunted offense and why turnovers will be important Also, find out who is likely to make a return after an injury

1-MINUTE DRILL

Staff Reports

Volleyball | Cats add another to recruiting class

K-State's volleyball team added its sixth recruit Tuesday in Megan Kroeker, a 6-foot-3 middle blocker from Solomon, Kan.

The Wildcats are hosts to Ohio on Friday night at 7:30 in the NCAA First Round at Ahearn Field House.

The Associated Press

NBA | Judge dismisses Armstrong case

Charges against NBA player Darrell Armstrong were dismissed Tuesday by a judge who ruled it couldn't be proved the Charlotte Hornets guard intentionally struck a police officer.

Armstrong

The dismissal came on the trial's second day. Armstrong could have faced a sentence ranging from probation to six years in prison if convicted of felony battery on an officer and misdemeanor resisting arrest without violence.

Big 12 | Chiefs' Saunders denies contact with Nebraska

Al Saunders, assistant head coach and offensive coordinator for the Kansas City Chiefs, said he had not been contacted by Nebraska about the job as head football coach.

Saunders' name surfaced in media reports in Nebraska as a possible replacement for Frank Solich, who was fired last week.

Big East | Jones to foregoe senior season, enter NFL draft

Virginia Tech running back Kevin Jones will pass up his final season of college eligibility to enter the NFL draft, his father and the team's running backs coach told The Associated Press on Tuesday night.

Jones, a 6-foot, 221-pound junior projected as possibly the top running back in the draft, has rushed for a school-record 1,494 yards this season, averaging 5.6 yards for 265 carries. He has scored 20 touchdowns and caught 10 passes for 136 yards. He, along with K-State's Darren Sproles and Michigan's Chris Perry, are finalists for the Doak Walker Award, given to the nation's top running back.

NFL | Chiefs to return to Wisconsin for training camp

The tug-of-war between Wisconsin and five area colleges for the right to host the Kansas City Chiefs' training camp has been won by Wisconsin — at least for one more year.

Carl Peterson, president and general manager, said Tuesday he had signed a one-year agreement to return to the campus of the University of Wisconsin-River Falls.

The news was especially disappointing to two Missouri colleges that thought they had the best chance of hosting the Chiefs — Northwest Missouri State in Maryville and Missouri Western in St. Joseph. Pittsburg State in Pittsburg, Kan., was also in contention.

USBL | Dodge City pro team decides not to fold

When the owners of the Dodge City Legend decided in October to fold the franchise, fans of the United States Basketball League team howled in protest.

The owners have now reversed course, and the reigning champs of the professional league will play in 2004 after all.

With rosters of former college players, as well as hopeful and former NBA players, the USBL has 10 teams in the Northeast and Midwest that play April through June. The Legend joined in 2000 and have won two championships.

Dear Santa: Please eliminate the Yankees

WES MARFIELD

By Wes Marfield
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

With Thanksgiving now in the rear-view mirror, I can't help but begin thinking about the impending holiday season.

With that in mind, I compiled a list of things in the sports world I would like for Santa to take care of when I visit him at the mall this weekend.

1. CONTRACTION OF THE NEW YORK YANKEES

I've said it before, and I'll keep saying it until every last pinstriped uniform has been torched – I hate the Yankees.

This weekend, after the Red Sox acquired flamethrower Curt Schilling from the Diamondbacks, Yankee owner George Steinbrenner's head almost burst. "How dare someone try to compete?" he must have been thinking.

His response? Dangle $13 million each season to sign perennial All-Star Gary Sheffield, who is expected to ink the deal within the week.

The Yankees also re-signed third baseman Aaron Boone and lured reliever Tom Gordon from the Red Sox.

In other news, Alex Rodriguez has expressed interest in wearing pinstripes in the future.

2. LOCAL TEAM WINS NATIONAL TITLE

I don't care who does it, but it needs to happen soon.

Our area, including the Chiefs, Royals and K-State, has been on a serious title drought dating to the 1985 MLB season.

Sure, we've been close, but that bitter taste still looms from previous failures.

The Royals made a post-season run this year but fell short. The Chiefs, meanwhile, are cruising through the regular season and sit at an overwhelming 11-1.

However, this weekend marks the five-year anniversary of my darkest day as a sports fan.

Just five years ago this Saturday, K-State was plowing through the Big 12 Championship game with quarterback Michael Bishop leading the way.

Then, with news of a UCLA loss broadcast throughout the stadium, K-State realized it was within grasp of its first-ever national title.

The rest, as you know by

See COLUMN Page10

Going up

Chris Hanewinckel | COLLEGIAN

Freshman guard Claire Coggins drives passed Northern Illinois' Monique Davis before getting fouled and sent to the line for two. Coggins started at point guard in place of junior guard Chelsea Domenico and helped the Wildcats to a 60-41 win over the Huskies.

Women win 60-41 against Huskies

By Nabil Shaheen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

After playing a Pac 10 team, a top-10 team and practicing in a high school gym nearly on the equator, the Cats were back.

Twenty-two hours after returning to Manhattan, the women's basketball team took the floor for its third game in five days.

Of the 14 Wildcat players in uniform, 11 saw action against Northern Illinois as the Cats cruised to a 60-41 victory.

"I'm somewhat surprised when I walk off the floor and see that we scored 60 and not 75 or 79," Coach Deb Patterson said. "But I'm happy because the answer is at our fingertips. We're even closer to clicking."

As starting lineups were announced, a new face was among the first five.

Freshman Claire Coggins became the first rookie to start a game since juniors Kendra Wecker and Megan Mahoney kicked off the 2001 season.

The move put Mahoney in more of a point guard role, a challenge she welcomed.

"Coach P. is trying to mix things up," Mahoney said. "Whatever they need me to do, I try and do that."

Wecker led all scorers, pouring in 20 points in 31 minutes.

Defensively, the Cats relied on their long arms and quick feet, suffocating the Huskies to 26.5 percent shooting. The Cats also forced 18 turnovers resulting in 13 points.

"It's the thing you can do every night, whether your shot is falling

See WOMEN Page 10

Wecker shines in Tuesday's victory against Northern Illinois

Lindsey Bauman | COLLEGIAN

Megan Mahoney goes in for a layup against Northern Illinois' Stephanie Smith. The Wildcats won 60-49 at Bramlage Coliseum.

By Matthew Girard
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Forward Kendra Wecker registered a double-double Tuesday for the second game in a row in K-State's 60-41 win over Northern Illinois.

The junior finished with 20 points and 11 rebounds to get her third double-double in the Wildcats' first five games of the season. Wecker shot 53 percent from the field, 2-for-3 from beyond the three-point line, and 2-for-2 on free throws.

"I had some nice feeds from Ohlde, and I had some pretty good three-point looks and was able to knock those down," Wecker said.

Wecker has now scored in double figures in 52 consecutive games, and 69 of her 73 career games dating to the 2001-02 season.

Although she shot over 50 percent, Wecker said her shooting was not the best it could have been.

"I don't think I shot the ball particularly well tonight," Wecker said. "Getting on balance and going up strong, just little things like that – things that I know I'm capable of doing."

Coach Deb Patterson said that with the double and triple teams underneath the basket, it opened Wecker up on the outside for open three-point shots.

"They did a good job of making the next pass and got some good looks from the three-point line," Patterson said.

Wecker finished with nine defensive and two offensive rebounds after having only four rebounds in the first half.

In her 31 minutes on the floor, she also had four assists and two steals.

Starting slowly on offensive in the first half, Wecker only took five shots. In the second half she became more comfortable with the rhythm of the offense.

Coming into Tuesday's game, Wecker was tied for fourth on the career double-doubles list with Carlisa Thomas at 25 but moved into a third-place tie with Tammie Romstad with her 26th.

"We settled down and moved the ball around and got into the flow," Wecker said.

Men's basketball team looks to improve record to 4-0 against Wyoming

By Louie Novak
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The men's basketball team will attempt to improve its record to 4-0 when the Wildcats face Wyoming at 7 tonight in Bramlage Coliseum.

The Wildcats are off to their best start since the 1998-99 campaign. However, this year's team has struggled to find consistency.

"I told the team that we still have a lot of things to address," Coach Jim Wooldridge said. "The turnovers, the porous defense, the second shots, the kick out threes – all have been problems."

K-State is coming off a dramatic 68-65 win in which senior guard Jarrett Hart's three-pointer with four-tenths of a second remaining was the deciding factor against a scrappy Gardner-Webb team.

Hart said the game against the Runnin' Bulldogs served as a wake up call for the long stretch the team is about to embark.

"We all take it as a teaching tool. We're all angry that we haven't executed the things that we could have," Hart said. "We have a lot of young guys. We're just trying to be great in March.

The Wildcats' road to March greatness will have to go through a Wyoming team that stands at 2-1 and is coming off an 84-63 beating of Middle Tennessee State.

The Cowboys leading scorer, senior forward Joe Ries, had a career-high 29 points against Middle Tennessee and averages 15.0 points per game.

Wyoming junior guard Jay Straight

See MEN Page 10

PROFESSOR QUALITY | Colleges struggle with professor retention, balancing classroom time and research

Continued from Page 1

Another is the stress put on the faculty advising program.

"Some of our advisers are almost employment agencies," Ham said. "I think we have the best advising on campus, but if we're not making strides, we're going to go backwards, so we need to continue to make that better."

The most important test of professor quality, Ham said, comes from the college's alumni.

"We run into our graduates ,and they're all so ecstatic about the place," Ham said. "I don't even have to ask who they are because they'll tell me they're K-State graduates. I haven't run into anyone that was very unhappy."

COLLEGE OF ARCHITECTURE, PLANNING AND DESIGN

In the College of Architecture, Planning and Design, the Department of Interior Design is ranked third nationally by Design Intelligence – the college's Department of Architecture is ranked sixth.

Its Department of Landscape Design has won nearly 50 American Society of Landscape Awards ranking that program first nationally.

Dean Dennis Law said there is no other program in the United States that has three programs so highly ranked, making K-State's college among the elite in terms of comprehensive design institutes.

Law said high-quality professors as well as good students, a good curriculum and the administration's support are the causes of the college's success.

"The quality of professors is extremely high because they measure their accomplishments by the achievements of their students," he said noting that the design team that won the competition for the new World Trade Center design included two K-State faculty members and one K-State graduate.

Despite the rankings and achievements, Law said the average pay for an architecture professor was extremely inadequate, which potentially could take the competitive edge off of the college.

"One of the bizarre things about this, frankly, is that we rarely have a faculty member leave," Law said. "I think that the state is taking advantage of the fact that faculty is staying here for reasons other than pay. They affiliate themselves with an award-winning program, and the quality of life in Manhattan, Kansas, is among the best in the world.

"They should be rewarded, but the state has chosen not to do that. These people make sacrifices every day. Despite their low pay, they are the best faculty in the country."

Law said it is highly unlikely that a GTA would teach a class, but instead GTAs do support work or assist in instruction.

Along with permanent faculty, the architecture college also employs visiting professors, who are usually world-renowned experts at K-State on temporary assignment.

Law said the typical load for a professor is 70 percent teaching, 20 percent scholarly or creative work, and 10 percent service work, although these guidelines are flexible. However, Law said great emphasis is put on teaching.

COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES

The College of Arts and Sciences produces 55 percent of all student credit hours university-wide and about 75 percent of all lower division credit hours. During the past five years, the college has increased its students by 10 percent and lost 18 tenured-track faculty members.

"We are teaching more students and more credit hours with fewer people," Dean Stephen White said. "What I have personally find, and I've been here 28 years, is that you really do have a very committed, dedicated faculty who have done what they can to make this work."

White said the significant decrease in funding with $1 million cut last year is another piece of the instructional puzzle.

"So, the numbers suggest that we have faculty members who are actually performing at a very high level in terms of providing more student credit hours with less money to more students. And they are doing so with minimal complaints."

White provided evidence of what he called an exceptional quality of professors by citing not only the numerous Presidential Award recipients, but also the research awards generated by arts and sciences faculty.

During the past five years, arts and sciences extra-mural funded research has increased almost 50 percent. White said that in fiscal year 2003, the college earned $26.4 million in competitive research awards. This amount exceeds the combined faculty salary amount of around $22 million." White said. "That's a high impact number."

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

The College of Business Administration has experienced more than a 40-percent increase in its enrollment in the last seven to eight years. Because of this, Dean Yar Ebadi said he was afraid if the trend continued, the faculty no longer could deliver the same type of quality education with the resources the college had.

To help alleviate this problem, the college started an enrollment management program two to three years ago that increased GPA requirements and in return impacted enrollment numbers.

However, Ebadi said the other piece of the puzzle of providing a better-quality education is hiring more professors and more GTAs to serve the growing number of students.

Ebadi also said business professors' pay is not adequate when compared to the salaries of business professors at peer institutions.

"In comparison to our peer institutions, we are still behind quite a bit in every category of our salary," he said.

Ebadi said the enrollment growth at business colleges nationwide has created a high demand for business professors, which has opened better pay options for them as well.

"Two years ago, we lost nine faculty," Ebadi said. "I have their letters of resignation still, and most of them went because of the salary differences. They were paid 20 to $30,000 more at other institutions than we were able to pay them."

Ebadi said students in the business college are very likely to be in classes taught by professors in comparison to instructors or GTAs.

"One of the things we take pride in is how much our professors are involved in teaching and helping students," he said. "The students are the reason we are here, so our ranked faculty are involved in teaching as well as research."

Ebadi said no faculty member is exclusively on research appointment, but the amount of research versus teaching each professor does is flexible. He said depending on the department, professors spend 30 to 50 percent of their time doing research and about the same amount of teaching, with service taking up 10 percent of their time.

Ebadi said students are not only likely to have a professor teaching their classes, but that the quality of professors students are learning from is outstanding.

"I think we have an excellent group of scholars and outstanding teachers," he said. "We have faculty who have won and continue to win outstanding teaching awards, service awards and are well-known scholars. They are outstanding in terms of their accomplishments in the scholarly opportunities as well as teaching."

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION

Michael Holen, dean of the College of Education, said he admits that all colleges of education in Kansas have good programs that provide good preparation for a beginning teacher.

K-State's quality of teaching, though, seems to stand out above the rest, he said.

"We believe that our relationship with public schools is one of the very strongest of any of them in the state," Holen said. "We think our students get as strong and in most cases stronger experiences in working in public school settings."

Holen said a combination of both professors and teaching assistants teach undergraduate classes. There are, he said, specific requirements with those who teach courses within the college.

"Everybody who teaches classes for us is somebody who has an advanced degree and is certified as a teacher and has public school teaching experience," Holen said. "They're all professional teachers."

Quenten Troyer, education student senator and senior in elementary education, said he agrees.

"Overall, I have been impressed with my instructors in education," Troyer said. He said a majority of his professional classes for elementary education showed him ways to adapt lessons to fit all grade levels and provided a wide range of topics to teach.

One section, Troyer said, could be improved.

"In my science methods course, I would like to see more examples of lessons that focus on each grade level," he said. "This would help me when I go out to teach."

Faculty at the College of Education is required to do research with a majority on a full-time instructional load. For the few who have research grants, Holen said the college usually grants release time from teaching.

Despite the college's strong educational programs, Holen said students can complain when it comes to the faculty advising.

Students cannot be fully admitted into the College of Education until they are almost a junior. As a result, Holen said freshmen and sophomores are advised through the college's Office of Student Personnel Services.

After they have been admitted, the student then changes to a faculty member adviser but continues to stay in contact with personnel services for graduation checks and preparation for student teaching.

"When you do that, you guarantee a student changes advisers at least once," Holen said. "That means they have to reestablish a relationship and if something happens, like a faculty member leaves, they get shifted again. Sometimes we hear criticism from students that they've been shifted more times than they like and are not sure their adviser really knows them."

Troyer, however, said he has been extremely happy with the advising in the college. As a former business and engineering student, he said the College of Education is the most informative.

"The advisers give us up-to-date e-mails and let us know what is going on in the college," Troyer said. "They are on top of it and very organized like every teacher should be."

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

Nearly half of all students who enter the College of Engineering leave the college before they graduate.

Terry King, dean of the College of Engineering, said he and the faculty are striving to change this statistic – which will overall improve the quality of education the college offers.

"Of the students that come to us, the vast majority of them are well-qualified and they can certainly do it," King said. "But they find they just don't want to do it, or they're not excited about it or for some reason they don't want to put in the effort to be successful, and therefore they go into other things."

Therefore King said the College of Engineering is educating students about the program before they dive into the college's courses.

"We're trying to do a much better job of giving our freshmen, our first-year students, a good idea of why they are taking the math, physics, and chemistry, and how that will affect their performance later," King said. "We can't expect our mathematician friends, the physics, the chemists, to be able to do that."

In the College of Engineering, all faculty is encouraged to teach and conduct research. King said 100 percent of the faculty teaches, but the workload does vary.

In addition, King said the college does have teaching assistants, but the number is low – a number he would like to see increase.

"We could certainly use teaching assistants, but we just don't have them," he said. "We'd love to have them, but we just don't have the money for them."

Zach Stover, student senator for engineering and junior in information systems, said the College of Engineering maintains a strong quality of teaching.

"From my own experience, I've only had a few professors from within my major that I haven't been totally satisfied with," Stover said. "We all hear horror stories about professors, but most of them do a pretty good job."

King said many students, like Stover, tend to comment about the heavy course load.

"It's rigorous," King said. "We have a good blend of fundamental background plus hands-on experience."

Overall, though, King said graduating students leave knowing they received a good education.

"By and large, we find our graduates are better prepared than students educated in other engineering schools elsewhere," he said.

COLLEGE OF HUMAN ECOLOGY

Carol Kellett, dean of the College of Human Ecology, is proud of her professors.

"I think we have outstanding professors, and that's true all the way from our instructors to full professors," she said. "It has always been a high priority, and we're nationally known for being innovative in terms of instructional technology and distance education.

Amber Lafferty, junior in family life and community service and human ecology senator, said she has a good opinion of her professors.

"I think that for the most part they're very good," she said. "They are willing to work with you one-on-one, if you need it, and they're not intimidating."

Kellett said the college has a goal to meet or exceed the

See PROFESSOR QUALITY Page12

FRESH, UNOPENED FILM
Priced 20% less than discount stores.
Deeper discounts when buying in volume.

Fujifilm Color 800 Speed 35mm
$2.52 36 Exposures
$12.10 for 5 rolls
$23.95 for 10 rolls

Fujifilm Color 400 Speed 35mm
$1.80 36 Exposures
$8.50 for 5 rolls
$16.75 for 10 rolls

Fujifilm Color 100 Speed 35mm
$1.44 36 Exposures
$6.70 for 5 rolls
$13.15 for 10 rolls

Film SALE
stock up now for the holidays
Purchase in 103 Kedzie
8-5 M-F

Cure Discovered for Being Broke!

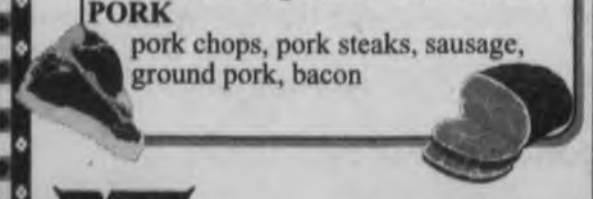
Scientists Discover A Thing They Called A JOB!

And Sykes Has Plenty!

- Good Pay
- Good Benefits
- Clean and comfortable A/C working environment
- Flexible work available 24 x 7 for class schedules
- Paid Training in latest Computer/Internet Skills
- Paid vacation and holidays
- Part time schedules available

Sykes is now hiring Customer Support Technicians
Full time or Part time
SYKES
Apply 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.
5970 Sykes Blvd.
(behind the Manhattan Airport)
Manhattan, KS 66503

Bake Sale Today!



KSU Bakery Science Club
WEEKLY BAKE SALE
TODAY 3 TO 5 P.M.
Shellenberger First Floor

KSU Meat Sale
WEDNESDAY 3-6 p.m. & FRIDAY Noon-6 p.m.
Rm. 166 Weber Hall

BEEF
roast, steak, ground beef, bratwurst
PORK
pork chops, pork steaks, sausage, ground pork, bacon

For information call 532-1279

BIG 12 CHAMPIONSHIP PEP RALLY
Thursday, December 4, 7pm
at Manhattan Town Center

Support the Cats at the Big 12 Title Game Pep Rally featuring the KSU Cheerleaders and Willie the Wildcat!

Register to win a trip for 2 to the Big 12 Title Game at Arrowhead Stadium, plus other great prizes! The first 50 people receive a free 52oz. K-State insulated mug!

MANHATTAN TOWN CENTER

Must be present at time of drawing to win. Employees of Manhattan Town Center or any of its stores, and relatives thereof, are ineligible.

In Downtown Manhattan • 539-9207 • www.manhattantowncenter.com

Terrorist suspect granted legal access

By Matt Kelley
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Reversing course, Pentagon officials have decided to allow a U.S.-born terrorism suspect access to a lawyer, the Defense Department announced Tuesday.

The Defense Department will make arrangements over the next few days for a lawyer to visit Yaser Esam Hamdi "subject to appropriate security restrictions," a Pentagon statement said. Hamdi is being held as an "enemy combatant," a designation the Bush administration says denies him rights to a lawyer or a trial.

The Supreme Court is considering whether to hear an appeal from a public defender, Frank Dunham, who challenged Hamdi's detention and wanted to act as his lawyer.

Dunham had asked the Supreme Court to decide if the government has unconstitutionally imprisoned Hamdi without access to attorneys and without charges being filed against him.

Dunham said the Justice Department told him Tuesday night that officials would arrange for him to see Hamdi within a few days.

"U.S. citizens shouldn't be held without counsel for long periods of time," Dunham said. "I don't think it cures all the ills of this enemy combatant situation, especially for U.S. citizens."

The Pentagon announcement came one day before the Bush administration was scheduled to file a response at the Supreme Court to that appeal.

Hamdi will be allowed to decide whether he wants to be represented by Dunham or a private attorney, said Air Force Maj. John Smith, a spokesman for the Defense Department's legal office.

Hamdi was being held in the U.S. Navy brig in Charleston, S.C. He was captured in Afghanistan in November 2001. Originally taken to the prison for terrorism suspects in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, he was transferred to the United States in April 2002 after military authorities determined he had been born in Louisiana and therefore is a U.S. citizen.

The Pentagon statement said that allowing Hamdi access to a lawyer "is not required by domestic or international law and should not be treated as a precedent."

Officials decided to grant the access to a lawyer because Hamdi is a U.S. citizen and the military has finished interrogating him, the Pentagon statement said. Hamdi has not been charged with any crime.

The 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond, Va., rejected Dunham's appeal challenging his detention, ruling that the president has wide powers to detain enemy combatants during wartime. The Bush administration argues that under international law, enemy combatants such as Hamdi can be held until the war is over – which could be years, if not decades, away.

Dunham and other lawyers challenging the detentions say they violate the prisoners' constitutional rights to a lawyer and a trial.

Hamdi is one of three terrorism suspects being held at the Charleston brig as enemy combatants. The other two are Jose Padilla, a former Chicago gang member who is accused of plotting to detonate a radioactive "dirty bomb," and Ali Saleh Kahlah al-Marri, a Qatari man accused of being an al-Qaida sleeper agent.

Because Hamdi and Padilla are U.S. citizens, they are not eligible for trials by military tribunals like the foreigners being held at the Navy base in Guantanamo Bay.

FHSU halts bottle opener promotion over concerns

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

HAYS, Kan. – Fort Hays State University has stopped handing out bottle-opening key chains after a Ness County school official complained they might send the wrong message to young people.

Fort Hays State had been giving the gold-colored Tiger key chains as part of its efforts to recruit high school students.

Tonja Vallin, the university's academic affairs marketing specialist, said prospective students could choose between various items, including T-shirts, pens and the key chains.

Vallin said she ordered the key chains, which she said can be used to opened soda cans rather than beer cans or bottles. She said she never considered that they might be a problem with school officials or parents.

But Roger Schieferecke, director of admissions, said he took a call from an angry school official in Ness County who did not think it was appropriate to hand out bottle openers to young people. The university did not identify the school official.

Vallin this week wrote a letter of apology to the woman and threw away the remaining key chains. Vallin said she did not want to offend anyone because of the items the university hands out.

"That's not the point of our giveaway," she said. "This is a problem that we can solve."

University spokesman Kent Steward said because teens can drink nonalcoholic canned and bottled drinks legally, he did not consider the openers to be a problem.

"It's up to the person who has these items to act responsibly," he said. "I don't think this makes them more able to break the law."

Appeals court hears Limon case following sodomy ruling case

By John Hanna
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TOPEKA – Calling the some of the state's justifications "utterly ridiculous," an appellate judge questioned Tuesday whether the state can punish illegal sex more harshly when it involves homosexual acts.

Kansas Court of Appeals Judge G. Joseph Pierron presided over a three-judge appeals panel as it heard arguments in the case of Matthew R. Limon, whose conviction stems from sex acts in 2000 with a 14-year-old boy. Both were residents of a Paola group home for the developmentally disabled. Limon was 18 at the time.

Convicted of criminal sodomy, Limon was sentenced to 17 years and two months in prison. Had Limon engaged in sex with an underage girl, he could have been sentenced to one year and three months in prison.

"I'm just trying to come up with a reason, other than you don't like homosexuals," Pierron told Deputy Attorney General Jared Maag, who was representing the state.

Maag argued the state has broad latitude in making such distinctions to protect children from sex crimes.

However, Tamara Lange, an American Civil Liberties Union attorney representing Limon, argued the different treatment of similar criminal acts represents unconstitutional discrimination against gays and lesbians. Lange said only Texas has a similar provision in its laws against underage sex.

The Kansas court rejected Limon's challenge in February 2002, but in June of this year, the U.S. Supreme Court struck down a Texas law criminalizing gay sex and returned Limon's case to the Kansas state courts.

The appellate court is expected to rule by February, and its decision can be appealed to the Kansas Supreme Court.

Pierron peppered attorneys for both sides with questions, challenging their arguments, suggesting at one point that the ACLU could be reading the Texas decision too broadly.

However, Pierron repeatedly challenged Maag to provide valid reasons for the different treatment of similar sex acts. The state had suggested the difference promoted marriage, encouraged procreation and protected public health.

"The first two seem utterly ridiculous," Pierron said.

The judge added that the public health argument seemed dubious, given the lesser punishment for a female defendant, even if she transmitted venereal diseases to an underage male. Lange said in the Texas case, public health organizations debunked a similar argument.

Maag countered that if the court tells the Legislature it cannot make such distinctions, "The state would lose one of its most eminent police powers, that is teaching moral values to children."

Maag began his presentation to the judges by arguing that the U.S. Supreme Court ruling in the Texas case dealt only with sex between adults and did not apply to Limon.

Pierron jumped in, asking, "Then why are we here?" The appeals judge said that if Maag were correct, "It wouldn't make any sense for them to send it back to us."

Later, Pierron likened punishing a sex crime more harshly because an offender is gay to punishing a crime more severely because the criminal is a plumber.

Maag replied: "The decision turns on how far the state can go in its police powers in regulating sexual activity involving children."

Kansas law makes any sexual activity involving a person under 16 illegal, regardless of the context. The attorney general's office has made much of Limon having two previous, similar offenses on his record, suggesting it helps to justify his lengthy sentence.

Limon could have received a much lighter sentence had he or the 14-year-old boy, identified only as M.A.R, been female.

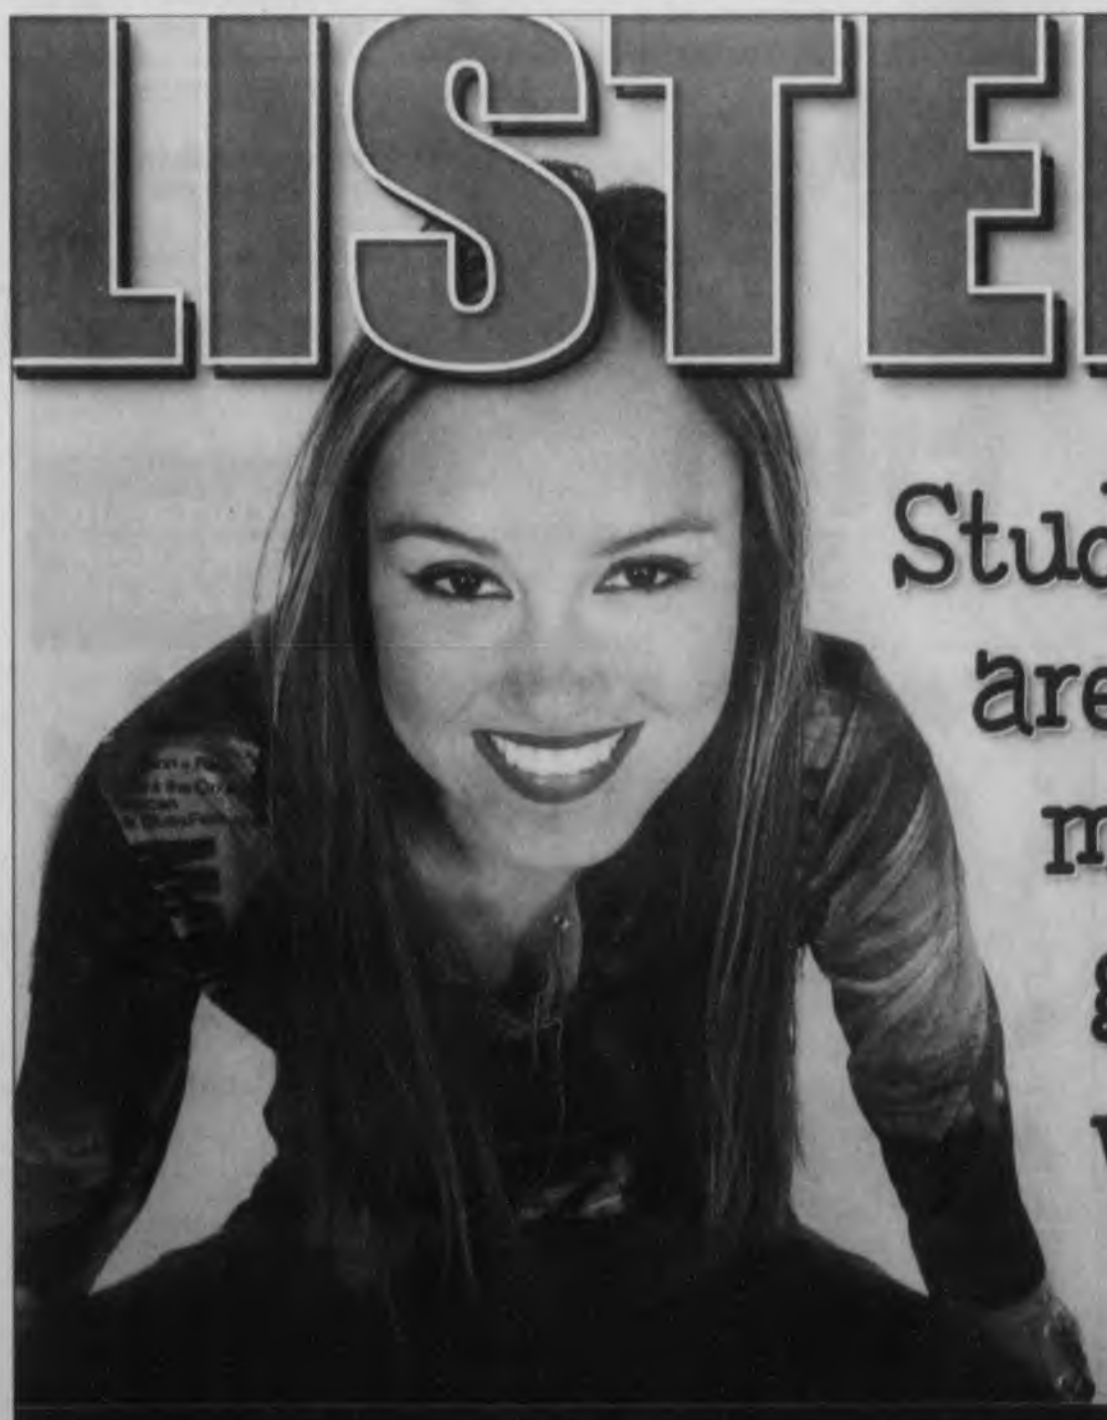
TICKETS | Response to Big 12 ticket availability and price varied

Continued from Page 1

"I am disappointed in the athletic department for not communicating effectively," he said.

"Students are more likely to get their tickets right away."

At the very end of the line, Zach Gipson, sophomore in kinesiology, said he wasn't worried about missing out on tickets since so few people were in line. He arrived 20 minutes before the office opened.



"I hope there will be enough," he said. "I stayed up too late. I was going to come earlier. There's not as many people as I thought there would be."

The $70 will be worth the sacrifice if K-State wins, Gipson said.

"They have a chance," he said. "If anybody can beat Oklahoma, we can beat Oklahoma."

MANHATTAN FLORAL
Receive 15% off
with Wildcat Card KSU ID
Find Us Near Target
776-8801

LISTEN UP!

Student loan bills aren't gonna stress me out when I get out of school What about you?

SallieMae
Nobody lends you more support.™

That's why I'm consolidating my student loans with Sallie Mae after I leave school.

- Slash your monthly payments in half.
- Lock in the absolute lowest interest rates ever offered.
- Save even more by applying during your grace period.
- Pay off credit cards with the money you save each month.
- Cut your rates even more with Sallie Mae's borrower benefits.
- No application fee or credit check.

Log on to SMARTLOAN.COM or call 1-800-448-3533

SLM Corporation and its subsidiaries (other than the Student Loan Marketing Association) are not sponsored by or agencies of the United States of America. SC03

Karaoke attracts talented and talentless

Night-life of the wannabe star

They're not superstars, and some of them super-suck, but either way students have discovered the joy of karaoke.

"I enjoy karaoke because I love to sing, and hanging out with friends is always a plus," Kristy Schneider, senior in kinesiology and pre-physical therapy said. "It feels good to have a crowd there cheering you on."

Schneider said the crowds are usually very receptive and encouraging to all the singers.

"It always helps to have people cheer for you, and I have never seen anyone made fun of or booed off stage for their singing abilities," Schneider said.

Each Manhattan location with regular karaoke nights has something different to offer.

"Thursdays at McGraw has the best sound system," Schneider said. "Sundays at BoWinkle's is very laid back and not a lot of people."

Alcohol can add to the fun and helps people get up and perform in front of a crowd.

"I don't need the courage provided by alcohol, but some people do," Schneider said.

Performers with excitement get the crowd into it, Schneider said.

"There is a guy who comes into BoWinkle's and sings 'Copacabanna' every time he is there," Schneider said. "It's a lot of fun, because he gets the crowd into it."

Schneider said group performances are always fun and entertaining.

"There are some duos and groups," Schneider said. "Groups usually sing songs like 'Girls Just Wanna Have Fun' and 'I will Survive.'"

Romantic duets can be crowd favorites.

"A regular girl with a really beautiful voice often sings Faith Hill and Tim McGraw type duets," Danny Bernardi, kitchen manager at Bobby-T's said. "The crowd just shuts up and listens. They can't do anything else."

Crowd sizes may vary, depending on the day of the week.

"On Thursday it is packed, and on Sundays it varies," Lynn McAlly, bartender at BoWinkle's Sport Bar and Grill said. "It can either be a big crowd or a mediocre one.

"The crowd listens to a variety of songs for the most part," McAlly said. "Some people come to listen, and others just come to drink and listen."

Some locations do not have a cover charge.

"We do not have a coverage charge right now, but we did have one in the past," McAlly said. "The under 21 crowd used to just come in and drink pop all night."

Other locations do charge a cover for minors.

"We have karaoke every Wednesday night," Bernardi said. "The under 21 crowd has a five dollar cover charge.

Those not of legal drinking age can also go out and enjoy themselves.

"We have a deal where you buy the first pop and can get free refills all night," McAlly said.

Bernadi said classic songs are always popular.

"There is one regular college age kid, around 23-24 that sings old school songs, like Led Zeppelin," Bernardi said. "The crowd really gets into it and almost rushes the stage.

Some of the crowds are mostly college students, like at BoWinkle's, McAlly said.

Other locations are geared toward a variety of karaoke fans.

"We get a mix of age groups," Bernardi said. "I see every group from working class to college students. It is just a bunch of people."

Illustration by Kent Holle | COLLEGIAN

Musician brings emotion, excitement to BirdHouse stage

By Rachel Krier
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Musician Mark Selby has definitely been influenced by blues, but his music is in no way limited to one style.

"I don't technically think of myself as a blues artist, although a lot of what I do is blues-based," Selby said. "Ultimately, I am a singer, songwriter and guitarist. I play organic American music, which encompasses a lot of music I love: blues, rock, folk, country."

Selby will be playing the fourth and final BirdHouse concert of the semester. Playing at the BirdHouse gives Selby a chance to go acoustic and get back to the raw form of the song, he said.

Selby said he has alternated between playing acoustic and playing with a band his whole career. Acoustic, he said, is more intimate and allows him to talk to the audience more.

David Kamerer, BirdHouse committee member, said Selby "is one hell of an acoustic player."

"We think it's exciting to see the up-and-comers and hear their songs stripped down to their essence, and that's what we get with an acoustic show."

Strip down Selby's songs and at the core are love, relationships and life choices.

In his song, "Reason Enough," Selby sings: "Don't want to play it safe just so I won't ever bleed ... I'm not gonna love just so I won't be alone."

In his commentary of his songs, Selby said that "Reason Enough" is about doing the right thing for the right reasons and not being swept away in life.

Selby said his Midwest background is a big influence in his songwriting.

"Growing up in Kansas and Oklahoma has really shaped who I am as a musical artist," Shelby said. "I realize that more and more as time progress. I wouldn't think about it, if it didn't come out in my music so much."

Joining Selby on the stage will be his wife and co-writer Tia Sillers. She will be singing harmony.

"It's a real treat to have them both here," Kamerer said.

Both Selby and Sillers have had their songs covered by other well-known artists. Sillers co-wrote the country song "I Hope You Dance." Selby co-wrote the songs "There's Your Trouble," covered by the Dixie Chicks, "Blue on Black" covered by Kenny Wayne Shepherd and "Barbed Wire and Roses" covered by PinMonkey.

"Selby is an excellent writer and a powerful conveyer of his songs," Kamerer said.

Steve Martini, BirdHouse committee member, said he has heard great things about Selby, but isn't sure how many people will get to hear him for themselves.

"Unfortunately, there's so much going on Saturday," Martini said. "Of course, we hope to draw a crowd for him. The show will be good regardless of whether there are 30 people or 130 people."

Martini said they scheduled the show months in advance and it just happened to fall on a busy weekend. The BirdHouse seats 160, and about 70 tickets were sold or reserved by Tuesday.

Kamerer said it can be expensive to bring in well-known bands and local business sponsors help make it happen. Selby's performance is sponsored by Meadowlark Hills.

Selby said he always likes to have a full house because it's good for the performer as well as the venue, but a less-than-full house doesn't mean a bad show.

"I always try to put on a great show, no matter how many people are there," Selby said. "I've been doing this for a while and I've played in front of 50 thousand people and a handful of people.

"The quality of audience is most important though. It matters most that the audience is getting into it and responding to the music."

Courtesy art

If you go
Musician Mark Selby

What: BirdHouse concert.
When: 8 p.m. Saturday.
Where: Manhattan Arts Center, 1520 Poyntz Ave.
Tickets: $15 for adults, $12 for students and seniors. Available at the arts center, Dusty Bookshelf, Claflin Books and Copies, or at 537-4420.

IN BRIEF

The Associated Press

Richard Gere campaigns against AIDS in India

Richard Gere says he's started a campaign to draw together Hollywood movie stars, sports celebrities, business leaders and government officials to battle the spread of AIDS.

Gere

Gere said he's formed close bonds with actors, writers and directors in India because of their common concern over HIV/AIDS.

Gere has been visiting India since the 1970s.

He said his program, called "The Heroes Project," would get people talking about the AIDS problem in India through television, radio and print ads.

Las Vegas' New Year's Eve

The Las Vegas Strip is planning a half-million-dollar New Year's Eve fireworks display that organizers hope will rival East Coast celebrations and help mark Sin City's 2004 centennial.

The production will feature a five-minute warm-up to a midnight countdown and a computer-controlled pyrotechnics display blasting 65,000 fireworks from 10 hotels along the Strip.

"We're definitely going head-to-head with New York City," said Terry Jicinsky, a top Las Vegas Convention and Visitors Authority marketing official.

Legoland's annual celebration

It's a 30-foot-tall Christmas tree. And it's made from LEGOs.

The tree is the centerpiece of LEGOLAND's annual holiday "Block Party," held this year from Dec. 20 to 31. The festival includes nightly fireworks, a life-sized LEGO model of Santa and his sleigh and ornament-making with LEGO's master builders . Visit www.legoland.com for details.

WISECRACKS

1. "Many a man's reputation would not know his character if they met on the street."
a) writer Guy Davenport
b) writer Elbert Hubbard
c) writer Ernest Hemingway

2. "Sometimes a scream is better than a thesis."
a) poet Ralph Waldo Emerson
b) poet Robert Frost
c) poet Emily Dickinson

3. "I don't know anything about music. In my line you don't have to."
a) musician Cher
b) musician David Bowie
c) musician Elvis Presley

4. "A film is — or should be — more like music than like fiction. It should be a progression of moods and feelings. The theme, what's behind the emotion, the meaning, all that comes later."
a) director Alfred Hitchcock
b) director George Lucas
c) director Stanley Kubrick

5. "He who devotes sixteen hours a day to hard study may become at sixty as wise as he thought himself at twenty."
a) writer Mary Wilson Little
b) writer Monica Baldwin
c) writer Sir Arthur Conan Doyle

Answers: 1) b, 2) a, 3) c, 4) c, 5) a

Herr Metzger | Julian Narino — www.herrmetzger.com

Puck | Kent Holle — kentramone@yahoo.com

FOOTBALL | K-State cornerback Randy Jordan to return Saturday

Continued from Page 6

This season, Sooner quarterback Jason White has thrown 40 touchdown passes and only six interceptions. The senior from Tuttle, Okla. has also completed more than 65 percent of his passes.

"He is a tremendous student of the game," Snyder said of White. "There are a lot of things to like about him, but that promotes all the others."

White's favorite target is wide receiver Mark Clayton, who Snyder said is the real deal despite not being as well known as Texas's Roy Williams or Rashaun Woods of Oklahoma State.

"He does a nice job of getting himself open," Snyder said. "He runs good routes, he has got excellent quickness. I think he is a 40-plus vertical jumper, so he can get himself up in the air."

Clayton also possesses a knack for making the big catch, such as his late touchdown catch and long run that sealed Oklahoma's victory over Colorado.

"Where he really defines himself is by making the catches that are contested by his opponents and become extremely difficult to catch," Snyder said.

MEDIC-AIDED

K-State's secondary will be bolstered by the return of cornerback Randy Jordan.

The senior started the first 12 games of the season before missing the regular-season finale against Missouri.

On whether he expected Jordan to play in Kansas City, Snyder replied, "Yes, Randy will be back."

COLUMN | Men's basketball rivalry with KU needed

Continued from Page 6

now, is history.

To this day, I still have trouble talking about it.

3. TERRY PENDLETON ELECTED TO HALL OF FAME

On Saturday, the ballot for the 2004 Hall of Fame was released.

New this year are obvious candidates Dennis Eckersley and Paul Molitor. But looking down the list, one name in particular stood out: former Braves third baseman Terry Pendleton.

Pendleton, a career .270 hitter, will probably never be enshrined in Cooperstown, but he should be.

Standing 5-foot-9 and weighing in at a lofty 180 pounds, he represented everything that was good about baseball. I can promise you that no trace of any performance-enhancing substance could be detected when he won the NL MVP in 1991.

I only wish we could say the same thing today.

His career ended as a member of the Royals in 1998, but his legend will not soon be forgotten. With three Gold Gloves also under his belt, Pendleton was the epitome of an all-around player.

It's about time he got some respect.

4. K-STATE-KANSAS BASKETBALL GAME MOVED TO AHEARN

Growing up as a K-State fan, I remember hearing tales of how obnoxious Ahearn Field House would get during men's basketball games.

I never had the chance to witness the bleachers rattling or experience the deafening crowd, and neither have many other current students.

So, this year, I would love to see the heated K-State-KU rivalry moved into Ahearn Field House.

It has been 21 years since a K-State team defeated the Jayhawks in Manhattan, and this might level the playing field.

Wes is a sophomore in journalism. You can e-mail him at marfield@k-state.edu.

Christmas Special

The ultimate treatment for a balance of mind, body and spirit.

Enlightment
Swedish Massage, Facial, Classic Manicure and Pedicure
3½hrs. $120.00

The Stress Reliever
Half Body Massage, Classic Manicure
1½hrs. $55.00

TINA'S Studio 32 FOR HAIR
776-8830 • Candlewood

Give us your opinion.
Campus Fourum: 395-4444

WOMEN | Coach experimented with different rotations on court

Continued from Page 6

or not," junior Laurie Koehn said. "We want to come out and do that every night."

The 26.5 percent shooting was the lowest an opponent was held to by the Cats this season. Coggins and Mahoney led the way with three steals each. Inside, center Nicole Ohlde swatted two shots and grabbed 12 rebounds.

"Being smart is the key thing for me – not getting out of control and not playing soft" Coggins said. "It's a lot of patience that needs to be learned. Defense is key for me to really play hard at."

Patterson said she tried many different rotations on the floor, trying to attain the highest level of offensive and defensive production.

"It was a lot more challenging for people coming off the bench than our core," she said. "I thought we defended at a high level regardless of what was happening on the other end of the floor. But we need to become more and more comfortable finding rhythm."

One key substitution came at the 13:58 mark of the second half, when a timeout was taken on the floor with K-State leading 33-20.

Patterson took out all five starters and put in the combination of seniors Amy Dutmer and Kimmery Newsom, junior Brie Madden, and freshmen Twiggy McIntyre and Shanda Murdoch.

"We had strung together four or five very careless possessions in a row," Patterson said. "I want this team to bring a strong sense that this is costly. It was just past the point of my patience."

Just 2:52 later, the starters were back in – point very well taken – as they went on a 10-0 run to make the score 47-27.

"We flat out weren't playing well," Wecker said.

"She was frustrated at us and she had every right to be. We weren't bringing it. But when she did that it kind of woke us all up."

MEN | Freshman forward expected to return after suspension

Continued from Page 6

has been equally impressive, averaging 14.5 points, and K-State will also keep a close eye on sophomore guard Tim Henry, who has averaged 12.7 points in three games for the Cowboys.

Some good news for the Wildcats is the expected return of freshman forward Cartier Martin, who was suspended for three games for receiving an improper benefit from a family friend during his high school career in Houston, Texas.

Martin was impressive for K-State in the team's first two exhibition games, leading them in scoring, and will join a Wildcat lineup that is beginning to take shape.

K-State opened its game against Gardner-Webb with junior Jeremiah Massey and sophomore Marques Hayden at the forward spots and freshman Dez Willingham, senior Tim Ellis and senior Frank Richards at the guard positions.

At the beginning of the season, Wooldridge said every position was open for competition. The Wildcats game against the Runnin' Bulldogs marked the third straight contest that K-State opened with that line-up.

Prosecutors hint of slaying in Laci Peterson case

By Brian Melley
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SACRAMENTO, Calif. – Scott Peterson, charged with killing his pregnant wife Laci, bled inside the truck he allegedly used to haul away the corpse of his slain wife, prosecutors contend.

In court papers filed Tuesday, prosecutors gave the first hint of their theory of the slaying, arguing to keep the pickup truck as crime evidence.

Prosecutors have never previously said Scott Peterson was wounded in the killing – saying he was injured either during or after the alleged attack on his wife – and have never publicly revealed where Laci Peterson was killed.

The mention that her body was trucked to Scott Peterson's nearby warehouse indicates prosecutors believe she was killed at home. It also explains why lawyers sparred at the preliminary hearing over a mop and bucket used to clean the couple's kitchen.

Stanislaus County District Attorney James Brazelton said he wants jurors to view the pickup truck as part of the crime scene.

For their part, defense attorneys want the truck returned to Peterson's family because he faces mounting legal bills and continues to pay $643 in monthly auto payments.

Lawyers will argue the matter Wednesday when Peterson, 31, is scheduled to be arraigned in Stanislaus County Superior Court on two counts of first-degree murder in the killings of his wife and unborn son nearly a year ago.

Peterson, a former fertilizer salesman, previously pleaded innocent but faces a second arraignment after a judge ruled last month there was enough evidence to go to trial.

The arraignment marks the beginning of the next phase of the case as the defense seeks to move the trial out of Modesto. Lawyers argue over the admissibility of evidence and the news media ask the judge to consider unsealing court documents and lifting a gag order in the case.

Expanded Hours. Expanded Learning. Expanded Opportunities.

K-State Evening College makes it simple for working adults to earn their degrees. Through night classes or a combination of night classes and distance education courses, you can earn a bachelor's degree or enhance your skills without quitting your day job.

For more information, call 1-800-622-2KSU or 785-532-5575 today!

EARN CREDITS TOWARD YOUR BACHELOR'S DEGREE!

Enroll now for Spring 2004 Evening College courses!

Course#	Ref.#	Days	Times	Course Title	Room	Instructor
16 Week Courses, January 22-May 21, 2004
Monday
FSHS 110	96700	M	5:30-8:20	Introduction to Human Development	256 Justin	Proffitt
FSHS 301	96701	M	5:30-8:20	Helping Relationships (P)	341 Justin	Beggs
HRIMD 441	96709	M	6:30-8:30	Introduction to Wines	110 Justin	Barrett
Tuesday
FSHS 350	96703	T	5:30-8:20	Family Relationships and Gender Roles (P)	015 Eisenhower	Thompson
FSHS 350	96707	T	5:30-8:20	Family Relationships and Gender Roles (P)	350 Waters	Welch
FSHS 580	96706	T	5:30-6:20	Directed Field Experience (P)	1052 Durland	Myers-Bowman
Wednesday
FSHS 510	96704	W	5:30-8:20	Human Development and Aging (P)	256 Justin	Doll
FSHS 550	96702	W	5:30-8:20	The Family (P)	149 Justin	Schumm
Thursday
FSHS 552	96705	U	5:30-8:20	Families and Diversity (P)	149 Justin	Webb
FSHS 776	96708	U	5:30-8:20	Insurance Planning for Families	350 Waters	Grable
First 8 Weeks, January 14 - March 13, 2004
Monday/Wednesday/Saturday
CHM 110	96200	M/W	5:30-7:30	General Chemistry (P) 12 Weeks (Jan 14-Apr 7)	209 King	STAFF
CHM 111	96201	Sat	8:30-12:30	General Chemistry Lab (P) 12 Weeks (Jan 17-Apr 10), 1 credit	TBA	STAFF
Tuesday/Thursday/Saturday
CIS 101	96202	TU	5:30-7:55	Intro to Information Technology	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
		Sat	8:30-10:30	(Jan 15-Jan 31), 1 credit
CIS 102	96203	TU	5:30-7:55	Spreadsheet Applications (P)	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
		Sat	8:30-10:30	(Feb 3-Feb 14), 1 credit
CIS 103	96204	TU	5:30-7:55	Database Applications (P)	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
		Sat	8:30-10:30	(Feb 17-Feb 28), 1 credit
CIS 104	96205	TU	5:30-7:55	Word Processing Applications (P)	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
		Sat	8:30-10:30	(Mar 2-Mar 13), 1 credit
GEOG 220	96211	TU	8:05-10:30	Environmental Geography I	213 Thompson	STAFF
		Sat	9:00-12:00	4 credits
Monday/Wednesday
ECON 120	96206	M/W	5:30-7:55	Princ/Microeconomics (P)	348 Waters	STAFF
HIST 251	96214	M/W	8:05-10:30	History of the US to 1877	224 Eisenhower	VanderGeisen
MATH 100	96215	M/W	5:30-7:55	College Algebra (P)	130 Cardwell	Hawkinson
SOCIO 362	96221	M/W	8:05-10:30	Police & Society (P)	041 Waters	STAFF
SPCH 106	96223	M/W	5:30-7:55	Public Speaking I	123 Seaton	Riley
SPCH 321	96224	M/W	8:05-10:30	Public Speaking II (P)	210 Mil Science	Riley
STAT 351	96228	M/W	5:30-8:30	Bus/Econ Stat II (P)	207 Dickens	STAFF
ACCTG 231	96227	M/W	5:30-7:55	Acctg/Bus Operations (P)	212 Calvin	STAFF
Tuesday/Thursday
ECON 530	96207	TU	8:05-10:30	Money & Banking (P)	120 Cardwell	STAFF
ENGL 200	96208	TU	5:30-7:55	Expository Writing II (P)	012 Eisenhower	STAFF
ENGL 251	96209	TU	8:05-10:30	Introduction to Literature	012 Eisenhower	Friedmann
GEOG 100	96210	TU	5:30-7:55	World Regional Geography	213 Thompson	STAFF
MATH 205	96216	TU	5:30-7:55	Gen Calc/Linear Algebra (P)	144 Cardwell	Mohammad
PHILO 130	96230	TU	5:30-7:55	Intro to Moral Philosophy	TBA	Patterson
POLSC 110	96217	TU	5:30-7:55	Intro to Political Science	112 Leasure	Unekis
POLSC 605	96218	TU	8:05-10:30	The American Presidency (P)	333 Waters	Unekis
SOCIO 541	96222	TU	5:30-7:55	Wealth, Power & Privilege (P)	120 Willard	Buurman
STAT 330	96225	TU	5:30-8:30	Elem Stat/Social Science (P)	206 Dickens	STAFF
Monday/Wednesday/Friday
GEOL 100	96212	M/W	5:30-7:55	Earth In Action	213 Thompson	STAFF
GEOL 103	96213	Fri	5:30-7:55	Geology Lab (P), 1 credit	TBA	STAFF
Second 8 Weeks, March 15-May 15, 2004 (no classes during week of Spring Break, March 22-26)
Tuesday/Thursday/Saturday
CIS 101	96300	T/TH	5:30-7:55	Intro to Information Technology	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
		Sat	8:30-10:30	(Mar 16-Apr 3 —No class Spring Break), 1 credit
CIS 102	96301	T/TH	5:30-7:55	Spreadsheet Applications (P)	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
		Sat	8:30-10:30	(Apr 6-Apr 17), 1 credit
CIS 103	96302	T/TH	5:30-7:55	Database Applications (P)	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
		Sat	8:30-10:30	(Apr 20-May 1), 1 credit
CIS 104	96303	T/TH	5:30-7:55	Word Processing Applications (P)	9 Fairchild	Pednekar
		Sat	8:30-10:20	(May 4-15), 1 credit
GEOG 221	96309	T/TH	8:05-10:30	Environmental Geography II	213 Thompson	STAFF
		Sat	9:00-12:00	4 Credits
Monday/Wednesday
GEOG 200	96308	M/W	5:30-7:55	Human Geography	213 Thompson	STAFF
GEOL 115	96310	M/W	5:30-7:55	Environmental Geol: Water & Air	223 Eisenhower	STAFF
HIST 252	96311	M/W	8:05-10:30	History of the US Since 1877	224 Eisenhower	STAFF
HIST 546	96329	M/W	5:30-7:35	History of American Military	211 Eisenhower	Borowski
MATH 100	96312	M/W	5:30-7:55	College Algebra (P)	130 Cardwell	Hawkinson
SOCIO 531	96321	M/W	8:05-10:30	Urban Sociology (P)	120 Willard	STAFF
SPCH 106	96322	M/W	5:30-7:55	Public Speaking I	211 Mil Science	Riley
SPCH 321	96323	M/W	8:05-10:30	Public Speaking II (P)	211 Mil Science	Riley
STAT 351	96325	M/W	5:30-8:30	Bus/Econ Stats II (P)	207 Dickens	STAFF
WOMST 105	96327	M/W	8:05-10:30	Intro to Women's Studies	001 Leasure	STAFF
Tuesday/Thursday
ECON 110	96304	T/TH	5:30-7:55	Princ/Macroeconomics (P)	115 Willard	STAFF
ECON 520	96305	T/TH	8:05-10:30	Inter/Microeconomics (P)	120 Cardwell	STAFF
ENGL 200	96306	T/TH	5:30-7:55	Expository Writing II (P)	012 Eisenhower	STAFF
ENGL 320	96328	T/TH	8:05-10:30	The Short Story	012 Eisenhower	STAFF
MATH 150	96313	T/TH	5:30-7:55	Plane Trigonometry (P)	144 Cardwell	Mohammad
MUSIC 250	96314	T/TH	5:30-7:55	Intro to Music	114 Burt Hall	Cochran
POLSC 325	96316	T/TH	5:30-7:55	US Politics	333 Waters	Unekis
POLSC 603	96317	T/TH	8:05-10:30	Political Parties & Elections (P)	333 Waters	Unekis
SOCIO 511	96320	T/TH	5:30-7:55	Comparative Social Theories (P)	120 Willard	Buurman
STAT 350	96324	T/TH	5:30-8:30	Bus/Econ Stats I (P)	106 Dickens	STAFF
ACCTG 241	96326	T/TH	5:30-7:55	Acctg/Investment & Finance	209 Calvin	STAFF

NOTE: (P) Courses that have a prerequisite.

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY
EVENING College

www.dce.ksu.edu/eveningcollege

CLASSIFIEDS

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

A two-bedroom apartment, close to campus. Short term lease available. Available mid- December or 1st of January. (785)317-7713.

BRITTNAY RIDGE. Four-bedroom, study, two and one-half bath, town home. Washer/ dryer. 2519 Candlecrest, lease required. No pets. $1050, $1050 deposit. (785)537-9740.

COZY TWO-BEDROOM. Only a year old with all new appliances. Includes washer and dryer. Has own driveway. (785)341-1636

CRESTWOOD APARTMENTS. West side Two-bedroom, one and one-half baths. Personal washer/ dryer. Water, trash, cable television paid. No pets. $590. (785)776-3345.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT. Available for Spring semester. $380 month includes cable, water, trash. Brand new carpet (785)537-1336.

FOR JANUARY 1. Nice large two-bedroom apartment. Gas, water, trash three-forths paid, laundromat. $480. (785)539-2482 or (785)539-9315 or cell phone (785)565-8116.

TWO-BEDROOM WITH study, private balcony, laundry, cover parking, walk to campus, central air-conditioning, January lease, $515- $545/ month. (785)341-6091.

120 For Rent- Houses

TWO, THREE, or four-bedroom house. Very nice four-bedroom house will rent as two or three bedroom with reduced rent. Central-heat and air, washer/ dryer hookups. Very spacious with two bathrooms, six blocks to campus. Available January 1. Call Doug at (785)341-4554.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE for a four-bedroom duplex. Washer/ dryer. Available January. Rent $275. Call Megan. (785)539-8490.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for luxury, four-bedroom apartment across street from West campus. Laundry, parking, no smoking, no pets. $300. (785)776-6318.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for spring semester. Nice five-bedroom three bath house. Common rooms furnished. Washer/ dryer. $300 rent plus one-fifth utilities. (785)539-9887, (785)825-2937.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share three-bedroom house. $225/ month plus one-third electric and cable. Call Kimberly (785)456-4204.

150 Sublease

FOUR-BEDROOM, ONE and one-half bath, spacious, practically in Aggieville. $900/ month heating included. (four roommates- only $225 per person). (785)776-5102.

ROOM FOR Rent. Sub-leaser wanted for spring semester. House two blocks west of campus. $240/ month plus one-fifth utilities. Laundry facilities. (785)537-3096.

ROOMS FOR rent, next to campus, one-bedroom in brand new four-bedroom apartment. Free washer/ dryer, central-air, parking. (785)537-7050.

ADVERTISE
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
532-6560

BUY-HIRE-SELL-RENT

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
103 Kedzie 532-6555

000 bulletin board

010 Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY!" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes and lowest rates. Call (785)776-1744, www.ksu.edu/ksfc

ATTORNEY, CHUCK Harper, expunge convictions before job application, paternity, custody, net free adoption, civil law, 400 Poyntz, (785)539-8100, chuckharper@msn.com

020 Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

FOUND; LADY'S ring at Walmart in mid- November. Call (785)539-2016 to identify.

030 Post a Note

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a post a note.

100 housing/ real estate

105 For Rent- Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2440.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT available January 1. One block from campus. Water/ trash paid. Off-street parking. $330/ month. Call (785)539-5579.

ONE-BEDROOM CLOSE to campus. Water and trash included. Available January 1. Central air/ heat. (785)537-7810

SEPARATE BEDROOM, study, living room, and eat-in kitchen. No smoking, drinking, pets. (785)539-1554.

TWO-BEDROOM, WALK to campus, ample parking, quiet conditions. Furnished or unfurnished. No pets. Available December 20. (785)539-3638.

got tickets?
Advertise your tickets to sell in the classifieds.
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
103 Kedzie 532-6555

105 For Rent- Apts. Furnished

"Stay In Class At The Commons"
Now Leasing for 2003-2004!
- Fully Furnished
- 2 & 4 Bedroom
- Alarm System
- Swimming Pool
- Washer/Dryer
- Computer Lab
- Fitness Center
- Permit Parking
- Tennis/Volleyball Courts
- Individual Leases

Office Hours: M-F 9-5
539-0500
university COMMONS APARTMENTS
2215 College Ave.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

AVAILABLE JANUARY 1. Two-bedroom, newly decorated. Washer/ dryer hookup. Off-street parking. $480/ month. (785)537-2119, 8- 5pm, (785)539-2347 after 5pm.

EFFICIENCY, TWO/ three-bedroom units immediately available. (785)341-4496.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, all appliances including washer and dryer. Only three years. Ready for spring semester. (785)556-6899.

JANUARY-- ONE-BEDROOM-$315, two-bedroom-$475. No pets. (785)587-0399.

NEWLY REMODELED two-bedroom apartments available January 1st, all utilities paid, $600/ month. Call McCullough Development Inc. (785)776-3804.

NEWLY REMODELED two-bedroom, one bath basement apartment, no pets, water and trash paid, $450/ month. Call McCullough Development, Inc. (785)776-3804.

NICE ONE-BEDROOM apartments. Close to campus. Water and trash paid. $415- $430/ month. Call MDI (785)776-3804.

ONE- TWO-BEDROOM apartment and houses. Available January 1 and now. Close to campus. www.rent-apm.com/ (785)539-4357.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT in quiet six-plex at 1811 Platt. Available January 1, 2004. Unfurnished, central air, parking, water and trash paid. No pets. $370 per month. Call KSU Foundation at (785)532-7569 or (785)532-7541.

ONE-BEDROOM AVAILABLE January 1. Rent $365. Call Amy (913)709-6283.

ONE-BEDROOM, NO pets or smokers. 1523 Pierre. Washer/ dryer, $285/ month plus utilities. (785)776-4806.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

SEPARATE BEDROOM, study, living room and eat-in kitchen. No smoking, drinking, or pets. (785)539-1554.

STUDIO APARTMENT and one-bedroom, close to campus. No pets. $280/ month. 1030 Kearney. Call (785)537-0177.

STUDIO APARTMENT available January 1st located in the Wareham hotel. Water and trash paid, $405/ month. Call McCullough Development Inc. (785)776-3804.

SUBLEASERS WANTED, two- three-bedrooms. All bills paid except phone and internet. One block to campus, one block to Aggieville. $260/ month per person. (785)539-9751.

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE block to campus. New carpet/ flooring/ some utilities paid. $660/ month, or best offer. (785)539-4641.

TWO OR three-bedroom, spacious. Close to campus or city library. Dishwasher, central air, laundry facility. No pets. (785)539-0866.

TWO PLUS bedroom, one block to campus. New carpet/ flooring/ some utilities paid. $620/ month. (785)539-4641.

TWO, three, and four-bedroom apartments. Close to campus, laundry, and parking. Call (785)537-6017.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT available immediately. $230/ person. Free cable (785)313-1435. Please leave a message.

TWO-BEDROOM BASEMENT, near City Park, washer/ dryer, no pets, $450. Available January 1st (785)539-1145.

TWO-BEDROOM TOWNHOUSE, two and one-half bath plus unfinished basement. Washer/ dryer hookups. Water/ trash paid. No pets. (785)539-5627.

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bath basement apartment, no pets, water and trash paid. $360/ month Call McCullough Development, Inc. (785)776-3804.

VERY NICE two-bedroom apartment for rent, starting January 1st. Cats allowed. Call (785)539-5563 or (785)341-5441 for more information.

115 Rooms Available

ROOMMATE WANTED to sublease. Close to campus/ Aggieville. Washer/ dryer, $300 plus utilities. Call Nicole (785)776-6099 or (785)565-8785.

THREE ROOMS in large house available, block from campus. No pets, washer/ dryer, off-street parking. $250/ month. (785)317-1333.

120 For Rent- Houses

1724 WINNE. Four-bedroom, one and one-half bath. Updated and spacious. New carpet, paint, and ceramic tile. Close to football stadium. $850/ month plus utilities. Available December. (785)556-2652.

LARGE NICE houses- June or August leases. Call now for best selections. www.foremostproperty.com or (785)539-4641.

THREE AND four-bedroom houses and apartments available January 1 and now. Close to campus. www.rent-apm.com/ (785)539-4357.

TIRED OF Apartment Living? Manufactured Homes For Rent. Pets Allowed. Beautifully maintained communities. Pool, playground, community center. Professionally managed. Call Manager for more details. (785)539-5841.

135 For Sale- Mobile Homes

16X76 1994 Shult. Excellent condition. Three-bedroom, two bath, dishwasher, disposal, washer/ dryer, all appliances stay. $23900 or best offer. (785)587-4661.

FOR SALE: two-bedroom, one bath mobile home. Well cared for, owners are December graduates. $4800 or best offer. Please call (785)323-0065.

145 Roommate Wanted

A ROOMMATE needed January- July at 1836 Todd, very close to campus, washer/ dryer. $275 for rent. (785)341-8498.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted January- July 2004. $255 rent plus one-third utilities. Right next to Union. Dishwasher, large bedroom. Call (785)565-9340.

FEMALE ROOMMATE WANTED. $275/ month, clean, quite apartment. Washer/ dryer. 1017 Vattier. Ask for Jacquelyn (785)341-3769.

GREAT PLACE, great location, great people. Female roommates wanted for spring semester sublease. Large rooms, private parking, common rooms furnished, washer/ dryer. Call Lindsay at (785)587-0296.

MALE OR female for spring semester. Nice two-bedroom apartment across street from Aggieville and campus. 1212 Bluemont. (316)641-2636 leave a message.

MALE ROOMMATE to share newer mobile home. $150/ month. (785)770-9547.

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share a two-bedroom house. Five minutes from the Student Union. Rent $275. (785)539-9981

MALE, WALK to class, lower level. All furnished. Washer/ dryer without meter. (785)539-1554.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for clean three-bedroom, two bath, new house. Available January. For more information call (785)770-9206.

ROOMMATE NEEDED, January- July. Huge 20X20 room. All amenities, four roommates needing the fifth. (785)537-0699. Rent negotiable.

145 Roommate Wanted

ROOMMATE WANTED $200/ month plus one-half utilities. Washer/ dryer, can have two bedrooms, six blocks off campus, University Dr., no smoking, nice house and neighborhood. (785)317-4742.

ROOMMATE WANTED: Less than 100 steps from apartment door to Fiedler. $300/ month plus one-fourth utilities. Available January. (785)317-0099.

SUBLEASER WANTED for spring semester, three-bedroom apartment with dishwasher. One block from campus. $210/ month 1850 Claflin. Call (785)770-3810/ (785)313-0013.

THREE CHRISTIAN guys looking for roommate. One and one-half mile west of campus. Washer/ dryer, $275/ month, negotiable. (785)341-3464, (785)537-4278.

150 Sublease

CADI- CORNER from Union. One to four rooms available immediately. Great spot, act fast! $230/ month. 1725 Anderson. Call David (785)770-2711.

CAMPUS/ AGGIEVILLE- spring semester, two-bedroom, 1212 Bluemont. Trash/ water paid, laundry facility. $300/ each, January 1. Kelly or Karen (785)776-8980.

FEMALE ROOMMATE WANTED starting January to live with two other girls. $265/ month plus utilities. Very nice house, can see campus from house. 1206 Bertrand. Call Lesley at (785)539-6790 leave message if not home.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed for spring semester. One-bedroom apartment. Two blocks from Aggieville. Rent negotiable call (785)564-1173.

MALE SUBLEASER needed. Two-bedroom apartment. Private parking, dishwasher, washer/ dryer. $262.50 a month. Available January, 716 Humboldt. Contact Casey (785)341-1162.

MALE SUBLEASERS needed: spring semester. Call (785)317-7558.

NEED A subleaser from January to May for four-bedroom apartment. Three guys there now. $285 per month, washer/ dryer. 1215 Bertrand. Please help! (785)565-1496.

ONE BEDROOM in three-bedroom house. Close to campus with washer and dryer. Available January 1. (620)245-7681.

ONE-BEDROOM, $400/ month, water and trash paid, lease January- May. (785)537-9379

ROOM FOR rent during spring semester. $280/ month includes water, trash, laundry. Has all amenities including fireplace. Low bills. (785)539-1272. mrl9888@ksu.edu.

SPACIOUS TWO-BEDROOM/ one bath. All utilities paid except electric. Available end of December. Call (785)806-3068.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for one-bedroom apartment. $379.56 rent/ month starting January 1. Includes utilities. Pets are allowed. (785)770-3060.

SUBLEASER NEEDED from January 1- July 30 to share a two-bedroom duplex. Very close to campus. Rent is negotiable. Call (913)269-2622.

SUBLEASER NEEDED, great two-bedroom house. Fully furnished, five minutes from Union. Private parking, available now. $380, all bills paid. (785)539-3408.

SUBLEASER NOW or by January 1. Block to campus, walk to Aggieville. All December bills paid. (785)565-8199.

SUBLEASER WANTED for spring semester. One-bedroom, one block from campus. Trash and water included. Call (785)776-6963 for details.

SUBLEASER WANTED January- July. Two-bedroom apartment. $575 a month plus electric. Laundry facilities. Dishwasher. Water and trash paid. (785)820-0879.

SUBLEASER WANTED: one-bedroom. January 1- August 1. $370. Water and trash paid. (785)539-7653.

SUBLEASERS NEEDED- January. Nice two-bedroom apartment, two balconies, one bath, fireplace, fully equipped kitchen. Trash paid. $640/ month. (785)317-4418.

SUBLEASERS NEEDED. Close to campus, Aggieville, and City park. nice two-bedroom apartment. $270/ month. Available January. Call Michele or Amy. (785)539-5334.

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE and one-half bath. Close to Aggievile/ campus. (785)341-9733.

150 Sublease

SUBLEASERS WANTED for spring semester. Two-bedroom, one and one-half bath apartment. Water/trash paid, laundry facilities, very close to campus. (785)658-5680.

SUBLEASERS WANTED January- May or longer if needed. Two-bedroom basement apartment. Close to campus. Very nice and clean. Call (785)776-2483.

WANTED: SUBLEASERS for extra clean, two-bedroom apartment within walking distance of campus. For more information call (785)776-9992.

200 service directory

210 Resume/ Typing

ARE YOU a procastinator? I can help you type papers or projects. Call Rhonda (785)539-3570.

220 Weight Loss & / Nutrition

LOOK BETTER, feel better, live longer. Proven, effective weight loss system and beauty care. Call Lancelot (785)223-5303, www.unicitynetwork.com/lancelot.

255 Other Services

FIRST RESPONDER. This program is for those who may be the initial care giver for an individual suffering from a medical emergency or traumatic accident. Fracture management, medical emergencies and CPR are covered in the course curriculum. Begins January 5. Manhattan Area Technical College (785)587-2800 for more information.

300 employment/ opportunities

310 Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/ she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

! BARTENDING $300 a day potential. No experience necessary. Training provided. Call 1-800-965-6520 ext. 144.

BARTENDER TRAINEES needed. $250/ day potential. Local positions. (800)293-3985 ext. 548.

COUNSELOR/ ASSISTANT director for Highland Community College's Student Support Services program located on the Main Campus in Highland, Kansas. Grant funded position with benefits. Master's Degree in student personnel/ guidance, counseling, school psychology, higher education or related field. Three years related experience desired. Bachelor's degree considered with appropriate experience. Request job description and application packet: Human Resources, Highland Community College, 606 W. Main, Highland, KS 66053; (785)442-6010; egronniger@highlandcc.edu. Equal Opportunity Employer.

GET PAID For Your Opinions! Earn $15- $125 and more per survey! www.paidonlinesurveys.com

KSU STUDENTS- earn serious income! Work part-time from home. Be your own boss. We need self-motivated, ambitious young entrepreneurs! Call toll-free (800)306-3602, ext. 4

MAINTENANCE: APARTMENT COMPLEX seeking full-time general maintenance position. Must have experience in repairs, painting, grounds keeping, make ready, etc. (785)776-3345 days.

MAKE MONEY taking Online Surveys. Earn $10- $125 for Surveys. Earn $25- $250 for Focus Groups. Visit www.cash4students.com/ksu <http://cash4students.com/ksuucinn>

OFFICE HELP and dance instructors needed for Manhattan Dance Studio. Approximately 10- 15 hours per week. Must have dance experience and be dependable. Please email NO1dancing@hotmail.com by December 5th, 2003.

PROGRESSIVE FARM 35 miles NE of Manhattan has full-time opening for personable individual who enjoys working with other non-smoking employees. Individual would assist in management of a farrow to finish operation producing F1 Gilts for breeding stock. Position also includes row cropping operation with large late model equipment. Housing provided. (785)889-4514

STAFF RADIOGRAPHER. We are looking for a staff radiographer that is ARRT or registry eligible to work the night shift 2230 to 0700 hours. Applicant must be flexible and able to work independently. Interested and qualified personnel should contact Geary Community Hospital. 1102 St. Mary's road, Junction City, KS, 66441, fax (785)238-1700 or email to: cwitt@gchks.org. equal opportunity employer.

TEACHER AIDES (certificate preferred) for Kindegarden and 5/ 6 classroom at Westmoreland Elementary. Start date and salary negotiable. Single health insurance provided. Call (785)457-3732 for application or Email: caffreyt@rockcreekschools.org. Equal opportunity employer.

THE OPERATIONS branch of CNS is seeking to hire two Computer Operations Assistants. The positions involve working with the university enterprise server, processing production request: decollating/ bursting output; and delivering printouts across campus. Must be able to work 10- 30 hours per week, including weekends, holidays, school breaks, and summer months. Applicants with two or more years of employment potential and/ or work study eligibility will be given preference. Hourly salary is $5.75. Contact Virginia Nowland at (785)532-4941. Applications can be picked up at Hale Library room 14 and will be accepted until 5pm Wednesday, December 10.

THE OPERATIONS branch of CNS is seeking to hire a Student Computer Operator for third shift. Job responsibilities include operating the Multiprise server; processing production jobs; printing and running cleanup output as needed; as well as other duties that may arise. Candidate must be able to work between the hours of 1:30am and 7:30 am Wednesday and Fridays and midnight to 9:00am every other Saturday. they must also be able to work weekends, holidays, breaks and summer months. Experience with computers is a plus. Applicants with two or more years of employment potential will be given preference. Work study is preferred, but not required. Hourly salary is $7.00 per hour. Applications can be picked up at hale Library room 14 and will be accepted until 5pm Wednesday, December 10.

WANTED: TUTOR for high school student. Call (785)539-8293 after 6:00pm

330 Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

400 open market

410 Items for Sale

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS- sleeping bags, overshoes, combat boots, camouflage clothing, wool socks and gloves, much more. Also Carhartt work wear. Open Monday- Friday, 9am-5:30pm, Saturday 9am-4pm, Open Sundays till Christmas 12noon- 4pm. St. Mary's Surplus Sales, St. Marys Kansas. (785)437-2734.

415 Furniture to Buy/Sell

COUCH FOR sale. Call (785)539-6410.

465 Tickets to Buy/Sell

BIG TWELVE Football Championship Tickets. Lower level, section 123, row 14. $750 per ticket or best offer. (816)985-6174.

500 transportation

510 Automobiles

1991 GRAND AM. Excellent condition. Factory cd. New tires. Boyfriend is a mechanic. $1200 firm. Call Katie. (785)466-1708.

1999 OLDS Alero, remote start, excellent condition, $7250. Please call (785)341-4797.

FOR SALE: 1997 Jeep Cherokee. Excellent condition. Motivated seller, $5800, or best offer. No reasonable offer will be refused. (785)223-5303.

600 travel/ trips

610 Tour Package

WINTER AND Spring Break, ski and beach trips on sale now! www.Sunchase.com or call 1-800-SUNCHASE today!

630 Spring Break

!SO MANY Spring Break companies... Book DIRECT with the established leader in Spring Break travel. Better trips, better prices. Early booking incentives. book now with a small deposit. (800)367-1252/ www.springbreakdirect.com

ACT NOW! Book 11 people, get 12th trip free. Group discounts for six plus www.springbreakdiscounts.com or (800)838-8202.

#1 SPRING Break Company in Acapulco now offers three destinations! Go loco in Acapulco, party in Vallarta, or get crazy in Cabo with BIANCHI-ROSSI TOURS. Organize a group and travel for FREE. Book now before it's too late! Call (800)875-4525 or www.bianchi-rossi.com.

NUMBER ONE spring break vacations! 110% best prices! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas, Florida, Acapulco, book now and receive free parties and meals. Campus reps wanted! 1-800-234-7 0 0 7 endlesssummertours.com

JAMAICA
SPRING BREAK
K-STATE FLIGHTS FROM KANSAS CITY!!!
NEGRIL BEACH CLUB
BAR B BARN
WHITE SANDS
from $649
CLIFF HOTELS
CHICKLES
OCEAN EDEN
from $469
TIMBERS II
SPACE IS LIMITED - BOOK NOW!!
1 800 234 7007
www.endlesssummertours.com

SPRING BREAK 2004. Travel with Student Travel Services, America's #1 Student Tour Operator to Jamaica, Cancun, Acapulo, Bahamas, and Florida. Now hiring campus reps. Call for group discounts. Information/ reservations 1-800-648-4849 or www.ststravel.com.

SPRING BREAK- sign up with Student Express and get FREE round trip airline tickets to over 15 International destinations- including Aruba, Dominican Republic, Costa Rica, Caribbean hot spots and more. Why go with anyone else. Limited offer- call now. Commission rep positions also available (800)787-3787or www.studentexpress.com now.

BROKE?
FIND A JOB
look in the help wanted section.
Kedzie 103 532-6555

Deadlines

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run.
CALL 532-6555

ClassifiedRATES

1 DAY
20 words or less $8.00
each word over 20 20¢ per word

2 DAYS
20 words or less $9.40
each word over 20 25¢ per word

3 DAYS
20 words or less $11.05
each word over 20 30¢ per word

4 DAYS
20 words or less $12.25
each word over 20 35¢ per word

5 DAYS
20 words or less $13.35
each word over 20 40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

TO PLACE AN AD
Go to Kedzie 103 (across from the K-State Student Union). Office hours are Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The office is open except on holidays.

HOW TO PAY
All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an account with Student Publications Inc. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks. We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

FREE FOUND ADS
As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CORRECTIONS
If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

CANCELLATIONS
If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day before the ad is to be published.

HEADLINES
For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

000 bulletin board
100 housing/ real estate
200 service directory
300 employment/ opportunities
400 open market
500 transportation
600 travel/ trips

NEED A ROOMMATE or are you LOOKING FOR A PLACE TO LIVE?
advertise in the KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN 103 Kedzie 532-6555

FINANCE | Per-pupil education-aid ruling pressures state Legislature

Continued from Page 1

"This case involves the fundamental law of our land, and this court has no discretion whatsoever in whether it will be enforced and preserved," he wrote. "There is no such thing as 'a little bit pregnant,' and there is no such thing as 'slightly unconstitutional.'"

The decision was a preliminary order, meaning it cannot be appealed until after the July 1 deadline. If the flaws are fixed to his satisfaction, Bullock said he would dismiss the case. If no changes are made, Bullock said he would "enforce our Constitution if the other branches of government fail to do so."

Bullock's ruling followed eight days of testimony this fall that challenged the state's finance formula, which was revised in 1992.

The lawsuit was filed in 1999 on behalf of parents and administrators in Salina and Dodge City. Their attorneys argued that districts with higher concentrations of poor students, minority students and students with limited English skills struggled to meet those students' needs.

Alan Rupe, attorney for the plaintiffs, called the ruling the biggest development in Kansas education "since the invention of the chalkboard." Rupe said Bullock exceeded his expectations.

"What he's saying is that there's not enough water in the ocean. All the boats need to float," Rupe said. "It's not a piecemeal kind of ruling."

State attorneys argued that districts were able to find resources to address student achievement, contending it was more important how money was spent than how much each district received.

Dan Biles, the attorney who defended the State Board of Education in the case, said Bullock's ruling contrasted with his ruling two years ago, when he initially dismissed the case. That decision was reversed by the Kansas Supreme Court.

"There's no doubt he intended to put pressure on the Legislature to take action sooner, rather than later," Biles said.

Attorney General Phill Kline said he would fight to protect the authority of the Legislature and governor to set education funding.

Kansas spends $3,863 per pupil on education. But the state provides extra money in some cases – for example, for every student who receives a free lunch, or for each student in a small school district. The amount districts actually receive can vary by as much as $10,000 per pupil.

Senate President Dave Kerr, R-Hutchinson, said Bullock ignored legislative efforts to fund schools equitably.

"Our goal has always been a strong K-12 educational system that encourages academic achievement, efficiency and equity," Kerr said.

Bullock stopped short of ordering legislators to implement the 2001 recommendations by Denver consultants Augenblick & Myers, as the plaintiffs requested in the lawsuit. The consultants found that Kansas was underfunding a suitable education for all students by $852 million. Though commissioned by legislators, the study has been largely ignored because of its cost.

Since 1992, legislators have never voted to increase the base state aid per pupil by more than $50 in a single year. To satisfy the plaintiffs' request, the state would have to increase aid by $787 per pupil.

Sebelius, the State Board of Education and numerous advocacy groups have endorsed the recommendation as a goal _ and a means for improving education and complying with the federal No Child Left Behind reform law.

Sebelius plans to make budget recommendations in January, while a bipartisan legislative panel is reviewing the funding formula, with a report due by Dec. 31, 2004.

SALARY | Faculty salaries and benefits face statewide budget cuts

Continued from Page 1

salaries committee is drafting an increase in faculty salaries, and the honors and rewards section hopes to give faculty better benefits, Fallin said.

She said K-State is losing quality members to other universities that can offer better benefits and salaries.

"We want to keep the good faculty here. We want K-State to be strong and have students look back 10 years after graduating and say K-State is still strong," Fallin said.

No faculty received pay increases last year because of a shortage of funding, she said.

"The state is in a budget crisis. The state supports six regents universities and several community colleges," Fallin said. "The money is very diluted."

Provost James Coffman said the state should allocate money to schools before it becomes more of a problem.

"We need to come to grips sooner rather than later," he said.

Fallin said Coffman has estimated a $12 to $14 million increase in the budget for faculty salaries to reach the same as other land grant universities. Fallin said the budget crisis hinges on the legislature.

"Some legislators don't understand higher education. They think that since a professor may only have nine hours or three classes, they only work nine hours a week," she said. "We all realize that isn't the case, everyone works much harder than that."

The drafts being written by the task force are near completion. Fallin said two are finished, and all should be complete by January.

"We discussed this last May and started over the summer," Coffman said. "It is something we are sincerely worried about."

"One thing our committee wants to recognize is good faculty, and we have lots of quality faculty," Fallin said.

Fallin said she contacted four college deans on Tuesday and will talk with others within two weeks. She wants the deans to know what the task force is doing.

"It's not that anyone disagrees with paying the faculty more, but they all should know about it," she said.

One part lacking in faculty benefits is that children of faculty still have to pay student fees and tuition, Fallin said.

The draft from the task force offers faculty 12 hours of tuition for faculty's children.

"I have one son here now, and my other son may end up here. The crazy thing is that even though we are suffering with money, we are the university that has the most to offer," Fallin said.

Bob Zabel, president of Faculty Senate and professor of special education, said K-State students and faculty definitely suffer from low salaries.

"The quality of the university is based on the quality of the faculty. The quality of faculty is determined in large part by what the university is able to hire, retain and reward their faculty with," he said. "Consequently, K-State has trouble doing those three."

Zabel said he, President Jon Wefald, and Coffman recognize faculty salaries are important to K-State.

"We think only when we can improve salary can we improve quality and reputation of our university. That we think is to benefit current student, alumni and everyone who is a supporter of KSU."

PROFESSOR QUALITY

Professor-to-GTA ratio considered

Continued from Page 7

national salary average, and up until the past few years has been able to do so. She said that when recent budget cuts dropped salaries below the national average, human ecology faculty varied in their responses.

"For the most part, people are so glad to be at K-State and be a part of our college – we're nationally ranked in the top 10 – so they're very glad to be a part of a prestigious college," Kellett said. "On the other hand, we've lost some of our best faculty because they've had offers at much higher salaries at other colleges."

Although the human ecology college has an equal number of GTAs and professors, Kellett said she thinks each department does a good job of balancing work loads.

Lafferty said she likes the teaching style used in the college.

"The teachers for the most part are really into what they teach, so it's easier to get into yourself," she said.

Kellett said this doesn't happen by mistake.

"Our department heads try to be very analytical in matching the expertise and interests of the professors with the nature of the class," she said. "And all of our GTAs and first- and second-year faculty have senior faculty members that help them to succeed."

COLLEGE OF VETERINARY MEDICINE

Each year the College of Veterinary Medicine accepts 108 students.

This small number, Dean Ralph Richardson said, only benefits the students who go through the professional college.

Richardson said the college is accredited by the Council of Education under the offices of the American Veterinary Medical Association every seven years.

"It's a great checks and balances to maintain good quality," he said.

As a result, there are no teaching assistants that teach courses within the college. In fact, there are very few instructors that teach – the majority of courses are taught by professors, Richardson said.

Corbin Hodges, president for the college and junior in veterinary medicine, said the majority of teachers have both a doctorate of veterinary medicine and a doctoral degree along with a board certification in their respective fields.

"The quality of these professors is amazing," Hodges said. "The vast majority of our professors truly care about their profession, their patients, and their students."

Sarah Sweet, co-president of the college and senior in veterinary medicine, said the most important aspect of veterinary medicine is obtaining a body of knowledge that students can take with them into clinical practice.

The college and its professors, Sweet said, do just that.

"The quality of professors is generally very good," she said. "Our clinical sciences department is excellent – both large and small animal medicine and surgery. We get excellent clinical training in the classroom."

Richardson said most of the instruction in veterinary medicine consists of team teaching. For example, veterinary medicine students will have segments in small animal medicine, from studying the kidney to a segment on the skin.

Team teaching, Richardson said, allows teachers from a variety of backgrounds to come in and teach their area of expertise.

Overall, Richardson said the quality of faculty in the college is simply based off tradition.

"I just think that we're built on a heritage of excellent teaching," Richardson said. "Kansas State veterinary graduates are known for being hard-working and good at communicating. It's a tremendous heritage that we have."

dependable, quality service
✓printing from various memory card formats
Claflin Books and Copies

Mel's Tavern
105 N 3rd
785-776-9879
Wednesday Specials
$2 Pitchers
$1.75 Domestic Bottles
$5.99 salad spaghetti meatballs
$3 Taxi-A-Less 720-5500
Roundtrip from aggieville to Mel's and back to aggieville holiday red & winter wonderland

SPECIALS:
Global Red $20
10 Foil Red $10
Back Facial Special w/ Paraffin $17
Nail Techs Special, Hot Oil Manicure $9
Pedicure $10
All products, Buy 1, get 1 half price
All services performed by students under supervision of licensed instructors
CRUM'S BEAUTY COLLEGE
512 POYNTZ AVENUE
776-4794

We deliver for FREE the latest!
GUMBY'S Pizza & Pub
Call now! 770-3333
Monday $3.99
•LARGE CHEESE PIZZA • MONDAY ONLY • CARRY OUT ONLY • TOPPINGS EXTRA•
BUY ONE POKEY STICK AT REGULAR PRICE GET ONE EQUAL OR LESSER VALUE FREE
stick it to me Tuesday
DINE IN/CARRY OUT OR DELIVERY • TUESDAY
Rock N Roll wednesday
50¢ Pepperoni Rolls/ pizza sauce/ ranch extra + tax.
$5.00 MINIMUM DELIVERY
DELIVERY•DINE-IN•CARRY-OUT
Must mention coupon when ordering. Not valid w/ any other special
THURSDAY Mania
XL-16" Cheese Pizza $5.99
Bonus Buy
Add on to any regular order
KISS MY BIG ASS SPECIAL
20" TOPPINGS EXTRA Cheese Pizza
Limited Time!!
ONLY $9.99 OR GET TWO FOR $18.99
THE DIRTY JOHN
One 14" One Topping Pizza, 2 Liter of Pepsi, PLUS Free Bread Sticks [NOT POKEY STIX]
Limited Time!! ONLY $10.99

the provost's lecture series 2003-2004
10:30 a.m.-Noon
Thursday, Dec. 4
Hemisphere Room
5th Floor, Hale Library
Comforting the Afflicted and Afflicting the Comfortable: Teaching Heroes and Warrior-Pacifists
Dr. Andrew Barkley
2003-2004 Coffman Chair for Distinguished Teaching Scholars
Professor of Agricultural Economics, Kansas State University
Provost James Coffman
Host
Presentation followed by Q & A
For more information, visit the Provost's web site: <www.ksu.edu/provost/academic/lecture/barkley.htm>
Students Welcome

Hurry! Hurry! Hurry!
Dec. 5 is the last day to bill your 2004 Royal Purple yearbook to your spring tuition bill.
royalpurple yearbook.ksu.edu
Go to royalpurple.ksu.edu to order yours today.

Need a Stocking Stuffer?

Receive an adorable 12" Holiday Bear with gourmet truffles, FREE!
With only $125 in mall receipts, dated December 3-7.
Limit one per customer, per day, while supplies last. Redeem at the Customer Service Center.
MANHATTAN TOWN CENTER
In Downtown Manhattan • 539-9207 • www.manhattantowncenter.com

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

www.kstatecollegian.com | Thursday, December 4, 2003 | Vol. 108, No.72

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

Fort Riley soldier killed during combat

Illinois native becomes 18th casualty from Fort Riley since the Iraqi war's inception

By James Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A Fort Riley soldier was killed in Iraq on Monday.

Spc. Uday Singh, 21, was killed in Habbaniyah, Iraq, when enemy forces attacked his patrol, according to a Fort Riley press release.

Fort Riley officials could not offer further details of the events surrounding his death, except that he was in a tank unit.

The incident is under investigation.

The deaths of the other 17 Fort Riley soldiers killed during Operation Iraqi Freedom also remain under investigation, said Christie Vanover, public affairs officer at Fort Riley.

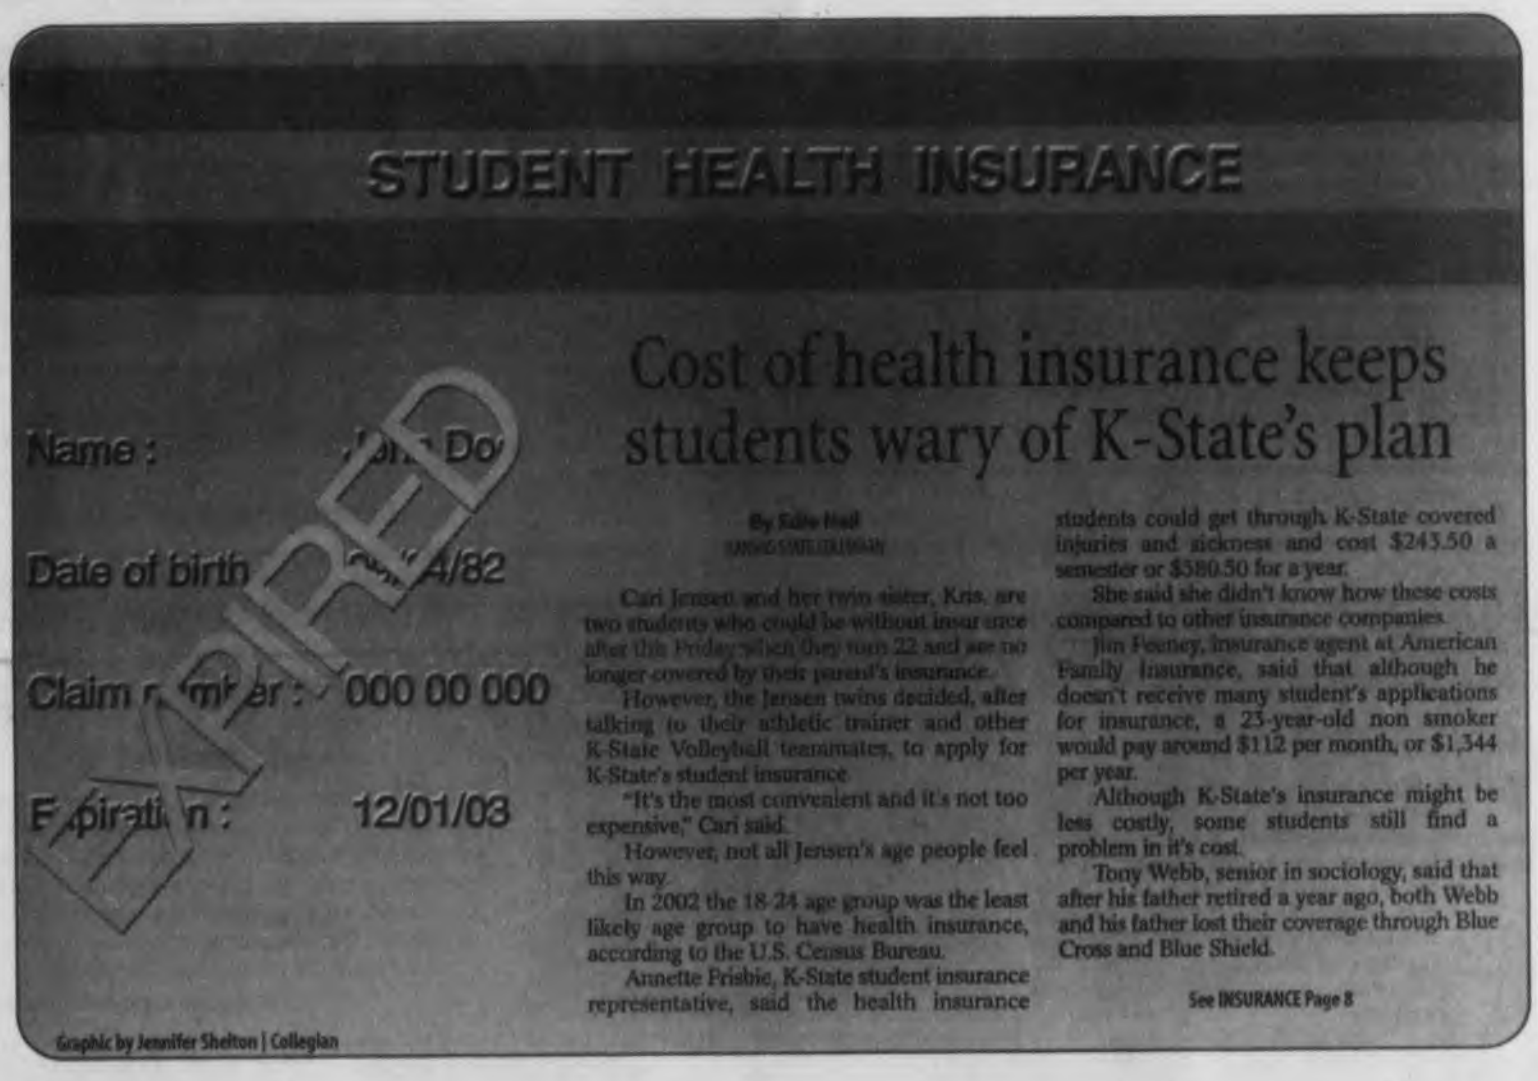
Only one of the 18 Fort Riley soldiers' investigation was complete as of Wednesday afternoon.

The investigations can take from a few months or even a couple of years, Vanover said.

"The investigations are very thorough to provide the most accurate information possible to the families," she said.



Singh, from Lake Forest, Ill., is survived by his parents and other relatives.

He was part of Company C, 1st Battalion, 34th Armor, 1st Brigade, 1st Infantry Division.

Singh joined the army in August 2000, and had been at Fort Riley since December of that year.

He was deployed to Iraq in September.

He is the second soldier from his company and the fourth from his battalion to be killed during the mission in Iraq.

Cost of health insurance keeps students wary of K-State's plan

By Edie Hall
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Cari Jensen and her twin sister, Kris, are two students who could be without insurance after this Friday when they turn 22 and are no longer covered by their parent's insurance.

However, the Jensen twins decided, after talking to their athletic trainer and other K-State Volleyball teammates, to apply for K-State's student insurance.

"It's the most convenient and it's not too expensive," Cari said.

However, not all Jensen's age people feel this way.

In 2002 the 18-24 age group was the least likely age group to have health insurance, according to the U.S. Census Bureau.

Annette Prisbie, K-State student insurance representative, said the health insurance students could get through K-State covered injuries and sickness and cost $243.50 a semester or $580.50 for a year.

She said she didn't know how these costs compared to other insurance companies.

Jim Feeney, insurance agent at American Family Insurance, said that although he doesn't receive many student's applications for insurance, a 23-year-old non smoker would pay around $112 per month, or $1,344 per year.

Although K-State's insurance might be less costly, some students still find a problem in it's cost.

Tony Webb, senior in sociology, said that after his father retired a year ago, both Webb and his father lost their coverage through Blue Cross and Blue Shield.

See INSURANCE Page 8

Graphic by Jennifer Shelton | Collegian

Scott Peterson pleads innocent to murder charges

By Brian Melley
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MODESTO, Calif. – Scott Peterson pleaded innocent Wednesday to charges of murdering his wife, Laci, and their unborn son, again denying the allegations that could land him on death row.

Judge Al Girolami scheduled trial to begin Jan. 26 after Peterson entered his plea for the second time since his arrest in April.

"That's correct, your honor, I'm innocent," Peterson told Girolami Wednesday, after he waived the reading of the indictment.

Peterson, 31, was arraigned again because a judge last month said there was enough evidence for prosecutors to take the case to trial.

The hearing came a day after prosecutors for the first time hinted at parts of their theory behind the Laci Peterson slaying – saying Scott bled inside the truck he allegedly used to haul her body away after killing her.

Laci Peterson, 27, was eight months pregnant when she was reported missing last Christmas Eve. Her remains washed ashore in April a few miles from the area where her husband said he had gone fishing.

Assistant District Attorney Rick Distaso revealed that authorities believe Laci Peterson was killed at home, explaining why lawyers grappled at the preliminary hearing over a mop and bucket used to clean up the kitchen area in the couple's house.

See PETERSON Page 8

Bart Ah You | THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Scott Peterson, left, sits with attorney Mark Geragos during his arraignment in a courtroom in Modesto, Calif., on Wednesday. Peterson pleaded innocent Wednesday to charges of murdering his wife and unborn son, and a judge scheduled his trial to begin Jan. 26.

Quality of education

The Collegian takes a look at the quality of education at K-State with a three-part series breaking down each of the eight colleges on the Manhattan campus.

Educational costs change with cuts

University colleges strive to maintain quality services

By Edie Hall and Amy Preston
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Federal and state budget cuts. Tuition increases.

All are factors involved in the quality of education at K-State. Here's the story of the university's eight colleges and how each one is maintaining quality despite the increased costs of higher education.

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

Tuition and fees for the College of Agriculture follow the standard university cost structure, said George Ham, interim dean for the College of Agriculture.

The cost of in-state tuition for the 2003-04 school year jumped about 20 percent from last school year. Annual tuition for in-state students is $4,085 with $550 in student fees for a combined total cost of $4,635.

Out-of-state tuition for the College of Agriculture, as well as other colleges at the Manhattan campus, rose 12 percent from last year. The total tuition and fees is $11,975.

Ham said other than tuition and fees, students in the College of Agriculture are not responsible for additional equipment purchases, such as computers. Although the majority of students bring computers, Ham said computers are available in labs and for other classes.

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION

Students in the College of Education pay the university standard for tuition and fees. There are no special fees or additional costs, said Michael Holen, dean for the College of Education.

But Quenten Troyer, education student senator and senior in elementary education, said a new structure should be made for those students entered in the student teaching program.

Secondary education majors are required to enroll in 12 hours of student teaching while elementary education majors are required to take 16.

This, Troyer said, creates a cost problem.

"I am very disappointed that secondary education majors only pay for 12 credit hours to student teach, while elementary majors pay for 16 credit hours," Troyer said.

"This does not make any sense at all and needs to be changed so both elementary and secondary education majors pay the same amount of tuition dollars to student teach."

See COST QUALITY Page 10

Did you know?
Fast facts

College of Agriculture
- In-state tuition for the 2003-04 school year jumped about 20 percent from last school year.
- Out-of-state tuition rose 12 percent from last year.

College of Education
- Secondary education majors are required to enroll in 12 hours of student teaching.
- Elementary education majors are required to take 16 hours of student teaching.

College of Engineering
- 60 percent of its faculty left to find higher paying jobs in the industry.

College of Veterinary Medicine
- In-state tuition and fees are about $10,590 this year.
- Out-of-state tuition and fees are at about $29,389 this year.

COMING FRIDAY

WinterDance is back. A look at one of K-State's biggest annual events.

HEADLINES

The Associated Press

Highway killings
A deadly series of 12 shootings in Columbus, Ohio, since May have unnerved parents, motorists and others. The shootings — which investigators believe are connected — have taken place around a five-mile stretch of Interstate 270. One woman in a car was killed last week.

Sniper's history
Sniper mastermind John Allen Muhammad was suspected of lobbing a grenade into another soldier's tent during the Gulf War and once threatened to "slaughter" a superior, a former platoon sergeant testified Wednesday.

Muhammad

Music pirates
The recording industry has filed 41 more lawsuits against computer users in at least 11 states it said were caught illegally distributing songs over the Internet, continuing its aggressive campaign against online music piracy. The latest copyright suits this week bring to 382 filed in the past six months.

Economic surge
The productivity of America's workers soared by the largest amount in 20 years last quarter, raising hopes that economic recovery is taking hold. The Labor Department reported Wednesday that productivity rocketed at an annual rate of 9.4 percent in the July-to-September quarter.

DON'T FORGET

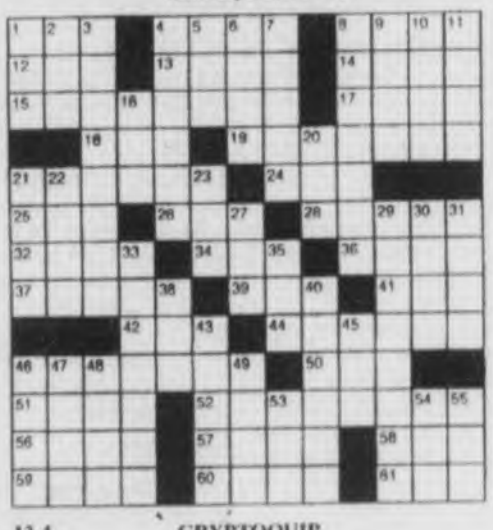
- There will be a pep rally to support the football team at 7 tonight at Manhattan Town Center.
- Tickets for Saturday's showing of "Cats" are still available at the McCain Box Office. Cost for lower balcony seating is $18 for students and $36 for the general public.

Weather

Today: Partly cloudy 44 | 24
Thursday: Sunny 37 | 17

Claflin Books and Copies
1814 Claflin Rd. (785) 776-3771
www.claflinbooks.com Fax: (785) 776-1009

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer



ACROSS
1 Mahal preceder
4 Continues talking
8 Despondent
12 Rhoda's mom
13 Nephew of Caligula
14 Passenger Parks
15 Occupation of a Jim Carrey character
17 Change for a five
18 Vagrant
19 Rope used for support
21 Joan's "Dynasty" role
24 Buddhist sect
25 Standard
26 Jungfrau, e.g.
28 Coven member
32 Big name in daredevilry
34 "Uh-huh!"
36 Pennsylvania port
37 Imus' medium
39 6 pts.
41 Cartesian conclusion
42 Clear the tables
44 Sappho's island
46 Bug
50 "Simpsons" storekeeper
51 Stench
52 Savion Glover's specialty
56 — podrida
57 Stud fee
58 Love boat?
59 Sense
60 In the neighborhood
61 Caustic chemical

DOWN
1 First O?
2 Computer language
3 Wouldn't shut up
4 Result of an iron deficiency
5 M.A., for ex.
6 Pharmacology topic
7 Russian launch vehicle
8 Fudgy treat
9 Ms. Anderson
10 — -friendly
11 Comfort
18 Light (Lat.)
20 Heavy fine-grain wood
21 Rich Little, e.g.
22 Stromboli spillage
23 Crafty
27 Prizefighter
29 Court of justice
30 Florentine farewell
31 Equivocates
33 Generous
35 Crony
38 Chic no more
40 No. 1 ranker
43 Devil
45 Resort
46 Bow-wow
47 Between assignments
48 Auditioner's hope
49 Glazier's sheet
53 Bake-sale org.
54 Exclaim
55 Scratch (out)

Solution time: 25 mins.

D	A	M	■	R	U	M	P	■	J	A	D	E
I	V	Y	■	O	B	O	E	■	O	D	O	R
N	O	R	■	S	I	N	G	A	L	O	N	G
S	W	A	M	I	■	■	S	I	S	■	■	■
■	■	■	■	P	E	R	U	■	D	O	W	E	L
S	I	N	G	S	I	N	G	■	N	O	D	E
A	T	E	■	T	O	T	E	A	■	O	N	A
S	C	A	N	■	S	I	N	G	U	L	A	R
S	H	R	U	B	■	L	E	E	K	■	■	■
■	■	■	G	A	S	■	■	L	E	M	O	N
S	I	N	G	A	P	O	R	E	■	E	K	E
A	L	E	E	■	E	N	O	S	■	M	A	S
P	L	O	T	■	D	E	B	S	■	O	A	T

Yesterday's answer 12-4

12-4 CRYPTOQUIP

ZAYX UDX BTC DSC UDX DZLA SUUSYDXC UZ DTV ETBX, DX VSTC "EXXJ JLXJSLXC!"

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: I REMEMBERED THE MINISTER'S NAME, BUT I WONDERED, WOULD HIS FAITH BE FAMILIAR?

Today's Cryptoquip Clue: X equals E

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 2! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to CryptoClassics Book 2, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475

The Cryptoquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.

© 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

BEST BETS

Your guide to this weekend's entertainment

1 | PERFECT SPOILERS?

K-State looks to spoil Oklahoma's undefeated run this year when the teams square off at 7 p.m. Saturday at Arrowhead Stadium. The game airs on ABC. Check Ticketmaster for tickets, otherwise, check out some online auctions, like ebay.

2 | HOME, SWEET HOME

K-State is to play host to the first two rounds of the NCAA volleyball tournament, and the action begins at 7:30 p.m. Friday when the Wildcats take the court against Ohio at Ahearn Field House. All-tournament tickets are $10 for adults, $8 for students and seniors, $6 for children under 12. Single-game tickets are available at the door and are $8 for adults, $7 for students/seniors, $5 for children under 12.

3 | CLIP CLOP

Cinderella's turned to a pumpkin after midnight, but at After Hours on Friday, you can have a free carriage ride — and only foul weather will ruin your glamorous evening. Sign up in the Union Courtyard to reserve your spot, or just hang out for the free board games, crafts, music, spaghetti and "Sweet Home Alabama." Events begin at 9 p.m.

4 | DOWN, NOT OUT

Slightly bruised after two losses, the women's basketball team will be host to the Wildcat Classic tournament Friday and Saturday. The Cats play Sacramento State at 5 p.m. Friday at Bramlage Coliseum. The championship game is at 3 p.m. Saturday, against the winner of St. Louis versus Texas Pan-American. The losers from the first round will play at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Megan Mahoney

5 | DEAD AT LAST

You're almost there. This weekend marks the beginning of dead week, with finals nipping close on its heels. Make use of the break and prepare for your finals.

HOW TO
Drive in the snow

By Melissa Haug
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Now that the weather is getting cold, the snow soon will start flying. As this takes place, student's dread of driving home for the holiday begins. If you have a long way to travel this Christmas season, there are some tips you should keep in mind when attempting the dangers of icy and snowy road. The following should keep you safe this winter:

1) Be sure there is plenty of tread on your tires. This will decrease your chances of skidding.
2) Plan on taking more time to arrive at your destination. Go slow.
3) Never slam on your brakes. If you begin to skid, ride it out and break gently.
4) When approaching stop signs, coast and step softly on the brakes, allowing for a safe stop.

Source: Pam Anders, Tire Sale Manager at Expert Tire

The blotter | Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Tuesday, Dec. 2

- At 6 a.m., Joseph Fabre, 812 El Paso Lane, was arrested for contempt of court, probation violation violation, endangering a child and possession of controlled substance. Bond was set at $500.
- At 6 a.m., Laura Fabre, 812 El Paso Lane, was arrested for endangering a child, theft, possession of controlled substance and possession of depressants. Bond was set at $10,000.
- At 6 a.m., Demarco Griffin, Junction City, Kan., was arrested for possession of opiates and possession of controlled substances. Bond was set at $20,000.
- At 2:17 p.m., Brady Smith, 1124 Ratone St., was arrested for driving on a suspended license. Bond was set at $750.
- At 4:35 p.m., Michael Bishop, Topeka, was arrested for theft. Bond was set at $750.

Wednesday, Dec. 3

- At 2:11 a.m., Robert Cassidy, 1001 Sunset Ave., was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.

The planner
Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@spub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- "Listening to the Prairie: Farming in Nature's Image," an exhibition that teaches the history of the prairie and new farming approaches, is at Hale Library.
- Entries for the Intramural 3-point shootout will be taken from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. today through Thursday at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex administration office.
- The Division of Biology will be host to a seminar at 4 p.m. today in Ackert 221.
- KSU Pre-Vet Club will have a case study at 6:30 and a meeting at 7:30 tonight in Trotter 201.
- ECM Christian Explorers will have their weekly dinner and activity at 5:30 p.m. Sunday at the ECM Building, 1021 Denison Ave.

Contact us

Kansas State Collegian
Kedzie 103
Manhattan, KS 66502
Display ads.....532-6560
Classified ads.....532-6555
Newsroom.....532-6556
news@spub.k-state.edu
Delivery problems.....532-6555

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor James Hurla at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@spub.ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.

© Kansas State Collegian, 2003

GUMBY'S Pizza
SUNDAY
NFL FOOTBALL ON ALL TV'S
$2 Killian's Pints
$2.25 Rolling Rock Bottles
MONDAY
Monday Night Football w/ NEW 54" widescreen
GOLDEN TEE TOURNEY 9 PM
$1 Old Style Pints
$2.50 Amaretto Sours
$2.25 Shiner Bottles
DAILY
$1.50 OLD STYLE PINTS
$2 HIGH LIFE BOTTLES
TUESDAY
$2 Boulevard Wheat Pints
$2.25 Red Stripe Bottles
$2.50 SoCo & Lime Shots
CHICAGO 7 CLAP LIVE @ 10PM
WEDNESDAY
POOL TOURNEY 9 PM
GUMBY'S PINT NIGHT
$3 Domestic Pints
$1.50 Refills- Keep the Glass!
$2 Wells
$2.25 Rolling Rock Bottles
THURSDAY
OPEN MIC 10 PM
$1.75 Michelob Family Pints
$3.75 Long Islands
$2.25 Bacardi Silver/O Bottles
FRIDAY
LIVE MUSIC - 10PM
POOL PRETENSIS
$2.75 Gumby Juice
$2 Kami Shots
$2.25 Shiner Bottles
SATURDAY
COLLEGE FOOTBALL ON 7 TV'S
$2 Wells $2 Flavored Vodkas
$3.50 60 oz. Old Style Pitchers

PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER
"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting & adoption."
539-3338
Free pregnancy tests
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment
Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Road Trip?
Stop by The Pathfinder first for:
• Wool socks
• Gloves or mittens
• Warm hat
• Fleece vest or jacket
• Long underwear
the PATHFINDER
OUTDOOR EQUIPMENT SPECIALISTS
304 POYNTZ, DOWNTOWN 539-5639

Pakistani Students Association
Kansas State University
Presented by:
Ghulam Nabi Fai
Director,
Kashmiri American Council
KASHMIR
And
United Nations
WHEN: Thursday, December 04, 2003
TIME: 4:00 - 6:00 p.m.
WHERE: Big 12, Student Union
Refreshment will be served after the program.

College BOWL '03
We have questions...Do you have answers?
Registration forms due Dec. 19 in the UPC office.
Cash prizes for 1st, 2nd, 3rd prize. $30 entry fee per 4 person team
Register in the UPC office, located on the 3rd floor of Student Union upc LEAVING OUR MARK...ONE EVENT AT A TIME.
HOTLINE: 532 6572 WEBSITE: www.ksu.edu/upc

WinterDance to kick off tonight

Emily Happer | COLLEGIAN

Haley Cherveny, senior in theater; Whitney Boomer, senior in theater; Amy Hurrelbrink, senior in theater; and Lacey Beamon, junior in medical technology; rehearse for "Fly," a modern dance piece choreographed by Mary Chase, professor of dance. The women started rehearsing weekly in September for the December performance.

Students and faculty to display dance talent in annual show

By Tony Herrman
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

WinterDance 2003 kicks off tonight with the first of four performances.

The show includes 10 works, four of which are choreographed by faculty members or guest artist Susan Warden.

The six other works are choreographed by students. Five of those students are enrolled in the dance composition class taught by David Ollington, who is also the coordinator of WinterDance.

Haley Cherveny, senior in psychology and dance, said students should will see a variety of dance styles. It is also important to stay involved in the arts, she said.

"Students can expect to see a lot of talented dancers and choreography," Cherveny said. "It's also an aspect of K-State they might not get to experience any other way."

Cherveny said he thinks the event has something for everyone, "We have dances that entertain children, inspire people to think and are enjoyable to watch."

One tradition for WinterDance is to include the work of a guest artist. This year that artist is Warden, a former K-State dance professor who has returned to reset her piece, "Sorting," which was performed during WinterDance 20 years ago.

"As the title suggests, there is a lot of sorting in and out of the dance," Lacey Beamon, junior in medical technology, said.

Beamon is one of the seven dancers in "Sorting." In addition to Warden's piece, Beamon dances in two other pieces and has choreographed her own piece called "Trilogy of Compassion."

"I've seen all of them, but it's a totally different experience with full lighting, costumes and makeup," she said.

Ollington has been involved with WinterDance for the past three years, choreographing a piece two years ago, dancing as well as coordinating the show last year.

If you go
WinterDance 2003
What: A showcase of 10 different dance acts
When: 8 p.m. Dec. 4 - Dec. 6 and 2 p.m., Dec. 6
Where: Nichols Theater
How much: $7 for students, $11 for public

ABC issues fines to bars, underage drinkers

By Kristi Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Fake IDs aren't always of the highest quality.

This is a good thing for local bars.

When a minor is caught drinking, not only is the minor slapped with a fine, but the bar is, too.

Pete Bodyk, operations officer for Alcoholic Beverage Control, said bars will be cited with an administrative violation can be shut down for a number of days depending on the offense, and pay a fine of about $1,000.

"Usually, there is quite a bit of party activity on game days, so we are out and about whenever we think there may be minors out trying to snag a drink," he said.

For every jurisdiction, there is a different fine for the minor and the bars, Bodyk said.

A minor caught drinking an alcoholic beverage inside a bar is charged with a misdemeanor and a fine. The fine varies for every jurisdiction, ranging from $1 to $400.

"The minor is also given a criminal ticket for consumption and any other penalty that can be required, maybe like doing community service," he said. "They also get their license suspended for 30 days."

Bodyk said bars are limited to nine offenses in four years.

"Depending on the circumstance, we will catch different numbers of people. At the beginning of the semester, you may catch 10 to 100 people, but in the winter it may be less," he said.

The ABC doesn't catch all offenders. Bodyk said local police departments do a large amount of the work.

"The police departments are out every night. They catch a lot more than we do on average," Bodyk said.

"At the ABC, we watch liquor stores to see if someone buys drinks for minors. We also do bar checks and observe inside the bars," Bodyk said. "We will talk to people who look underage and eventually get it out of them."

Even if a bar doesn't serve alcohol to a minor, Bodyk said they are the responsible party.

"These bars are responsible for what happens inside of them. Giving alcohol to people underage is a violation, whether or not the bartender serves it directly to the minor," he said.

He said offenses occurring at Country Stampede aren't included in the totals.

"For just the ABC, we take in 25 to 200 people at the Stampede alone. It is a very unique event," Bodyk said.

Because there are no regulations from the ABC on who serves the alcohol at Stampede, Bodyk said only the minor receives an offense.

Wayne Winfrey, owner of Mel's Tavern, said the bartender and the bars are in charge of reporting an MIP to authorities.

"Usually, they are to confiscate the drink and call the police. If we catch the problem and take care of it, the authorities are a little more lenient knowing we want to stop underage drinking before it starts," he said.

Judge questions punishment in sodomy case

By John Hanna
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TOPEKA – Calling some of the state's justifications "utterly ridiculous," an appellate judge has questioned whether the state can punish illegal sex more harshly when it involves homosexual acts.

Kansas Court of Appeals Judge G. Joseph Pierron presided Tuesday over a three-judge appeals panel as it heard arguments in the case of Matthew R. Limon, whose conviction stems from sex acts in 2000 with a 14-year-old boy. Both were residents of a Paola group home for the developmentally disabled. Limon was 18 at the time.

Convicted of criminal sodomy, Limon was sentenced to 17 years and two months in prison. Had Limon engaged in sex with an underage girl, he could have been sentenced to one year and three months in prison.

"I'm just trying to come up with a reason, other than you don't like homosexuals," Pierron told Deputy Attorney General Jared Maag, who was representing the state.

Maag argued the state has broad latitude in making such distinctions to protect children from sex crimes.

However, Tamara Lange, an American Civil Liberties Union attorney representing Limon, argued the different treatment of similar criminal acts represents unconstitutional discrimination against gays and lesbians. Lange said only Texas has a similar provision in its laws against underage sex.

The Kansas court rejected Limon's challenge in February 2002, but in June of this year, the U.S. Supreme Court struck down a Texas law criminalizing gay sex and returned Limon's case to the Kansas state courts.

The appellate court is expected to rule by February.

Pierron peppered attorneys for both sides with questions, challenging their arguments, suggesting at one point that the ACLU could be reading the Texas decision too broadly.

However, Pierron repeatedly challenged Maag to provide valid reasons for the different treatment of similar sex acts.

Royals not interested in deal with Dodgers for outfielder Beltran

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

KANSAS CITY, Mo. – The Los Angeles Dodgers still want to trade for outfielder Carlos Beltran, but don't have anyone the Kansas City Royals want in return for their leading offensive player, general manager Allard Baird said.

"Right now, there's no reason to believe Carlos Beltran won't be the starting center fielder for the Kansas City Royals on opening day," Baird said. "And that's a good thing."

After failing to land either Derrek Lee or Richie Sexson, both power-hitting first basemen, Los Angeles returned its attention to Beltran. The Dodgers pushed hard for Beltran last summer, who led the Royals in virtually every offensive category last season, but the Royals want more than lower-level prospects in return.

"In our position, I have to be willing to listen," Baird said. "But for anything to happen, I need a return that helps us in the short term and in the long term."

With the departure of left fielder Raul Ibanez to Seattle and a hole at the catcher's position, Kansas City would find its offensive needs even more acute if Beltran were to be traded for someone with lesser offensive skills. Beltran becomes a free agent at the end of the 2004 season.

k-state after hours:
FRIDAY, DECEMBER 5TH
AT THE K-STATE STUDENT UNION

CARRIAGE RIDES (Sign up in Courtyard) 8 P.M. - 11 P.M.
• weather permitting

CRAFTS: SNOWMEN (Courtyard) 8 P.M.
• Board Games (Courtyard)
• Holiday Music

FREE FOOD (Courtyard) 10 P.M.
• Spaghetti

FREE MOVIE (Little Theater) 11 P.M.
• Sweet Home Alabama

www.ksu.edu/afterhours
Have a safe and Happy winter break, afterhours will resume next semester!!

FREE GAS!*
Short Stop
TANK BANK
Shop in the Store - Save at the Pump.
PHILLIPS 66

Coors Light 18-pack ..... .15¢/Gallon
Marlboro 3-Packs ..... .05¢/Gallon
12-pack Pepsi Products..... .05¢/Gallon

2010 Tuttle Creek Blvd. • Manhattan, Kansas
* Up to 15 Gallons
* See store for details!
CHECK STORES FOR ADDITIONAL ITEMS

FRESH, UNOPENED FILM
Priced 20% less than discount stores.
Deeper discounts when buying in volume.

Fujifilm Color 800 Speed 35mm
$2.52 36 Exposures
$12.10 for 5 rolls
$23.95 for 10 rolls

Fujifilm Color 400 Speed 35mm
$1.80 36 Exposures
$8.50 for 5 rolls
$16.75 for 10 rolls

Fujifilm Color 100 Speed 35mm
$1.44 36 Exposures
$6.70 for 5 rolls
$13.15 for 10 rolls

Film SALE stock up now for the holidays
Purchase in 103 Kedzie
8-5 M-F

SAFE RIDE
Every Weekend!
Thursday, Friday, and Saturday
11:00 p.m. - 3:00 a.m.
A free service provided by the K-State Student Governing Association
Call:
539-0480

TO THE POINT

Reporting MIPs would bode well for local bars

When bar staffs are honest and report an underage drinker to authorities, the bar should not be fined.

Yes, a drinking establishment's staff is responsible for any behavior within the bar's premises.

However, some action is unpreventible.

Many fake IDs obviously are fake, but some of them are less detectable. Even a good bouncer can admit a minor unknowingly, and sometimes a bartender might serve a minor unknowingly.

And every once in a while, a friend might even purchase a drink legally but then give it to his or her underage friend. Things like this happen.

If an Alcoholic Beverage Control official or another law enforcement official catches a minor before the bar's staff do, the bar and the minor should be fined.

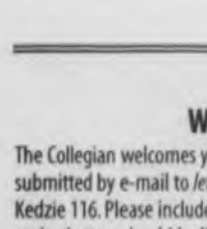
It is illegal for persons under 21 years of age to purchase, consume or be in possession of alcoholic beverages. Every attempt should be made to prevent minors from doing so. However, fining a bar when an employee reports a minor deters staff from doing so later.

A responsible staff member reporting a minor to law enforcement officials is a pro-active step, and the bar should not be fined.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Paul Restivo
Katie Lane
James Hurla
Abbie Whited
Edie Hall
Andrew Lawson
Dave Skretta
Rachel Krier
Corbin H. Crable
Chris Harrop

WRITE TO US



The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@spub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Paul Restivo | EDITOR IN CHIEF Katie Lane | MANAGING EDITOR

James Hurla NEWS EDITOR
Kelly Glasscock PHOTO EDITOR
Corbin H. Crable COPY CHIEF
Dave Skretta SPORTS EDITOR
Rachel Krier THE EDGE EDITOR
Chris Harrop ONLINE EDITOR
Abbie Whited CITY/GOV EDITOR
Andrew Lawson OPINION EDITOR
Jared Jaynes AD MANAGER
Edie Hall CAMPUS EDITOR
Dana Strongin WRITING COACH
Jenny Calvert ASST. AD MANAGER

FRIDAY'S OPINIONS

JASON HEASER

Jason Heaser applauds the Senate for filibustering down the energy bill, which could have had disastrous ramifications for the environment.

TAMMY JO OSBORN

Tammy Jo Osborn reminds us all to appreciate the gifts of the season, when in countries like Zimbabwe, starving masses suffer under dictators.

Warplane exhibit ignites controversy

Smithsonian to display the airplane that dropped the 1st atomic bomb

LINDSEY PRAECHTER

Protests against the public display of the bomber Enola Gay, known for dropping the first atomic bomb on Hiroshima, Japan, in August 1945, have been planned for Dec. 15.

Different groups of critics, including A-bomb survivors and war veterans, are appalled at the Smithsonian National Air and Space Museum's exhibit because they believe it is lacking in information about the destruction and casualties of the bombing.

A statement released in early November by the Smithsonian explained the exhibit's purpose differently. According to the statement, the exhibit "does not glorify or vilify the role this aircraft played in history." The sign will "tell visitors what the object is and the basic facts concerning its history."

Terumi Tanaka, chairman of the Japan Confederation of A-Bomb and H-Bomb Sufferers Organization, spoke out against the exhibit.

"As victims of the A-Bombs, we can't bear to have the Enola Gay, which killed thousands of Hiroshima residents, on public display without including details of the destruction it wrought," Tanaka said.

Sensitivity toward this matter is of utmost importance due to the severe repercussions such an act as dropping an atomic weapon involves.

However, several considerations must be understood before such harsh criticism is directed toward this great American institution.

First, the Smithsonian is in one of the most respected museums in America, and probably the world. This almost guarantees the plane is not being displayed in a disrespectful manner or being used to glorify the bombings.

In fact, it is one of 200 historic aircraft displayed in the National Air and Space Museum that highlight technological innovations in aviation and space. The plane is among many other military planes with similar basic facts displayed.

What makes this plane any more of a military killing machine than the others? How should the Smithsonian distinguish the planes? A victim is a victim, whether it is 135,000 or one.

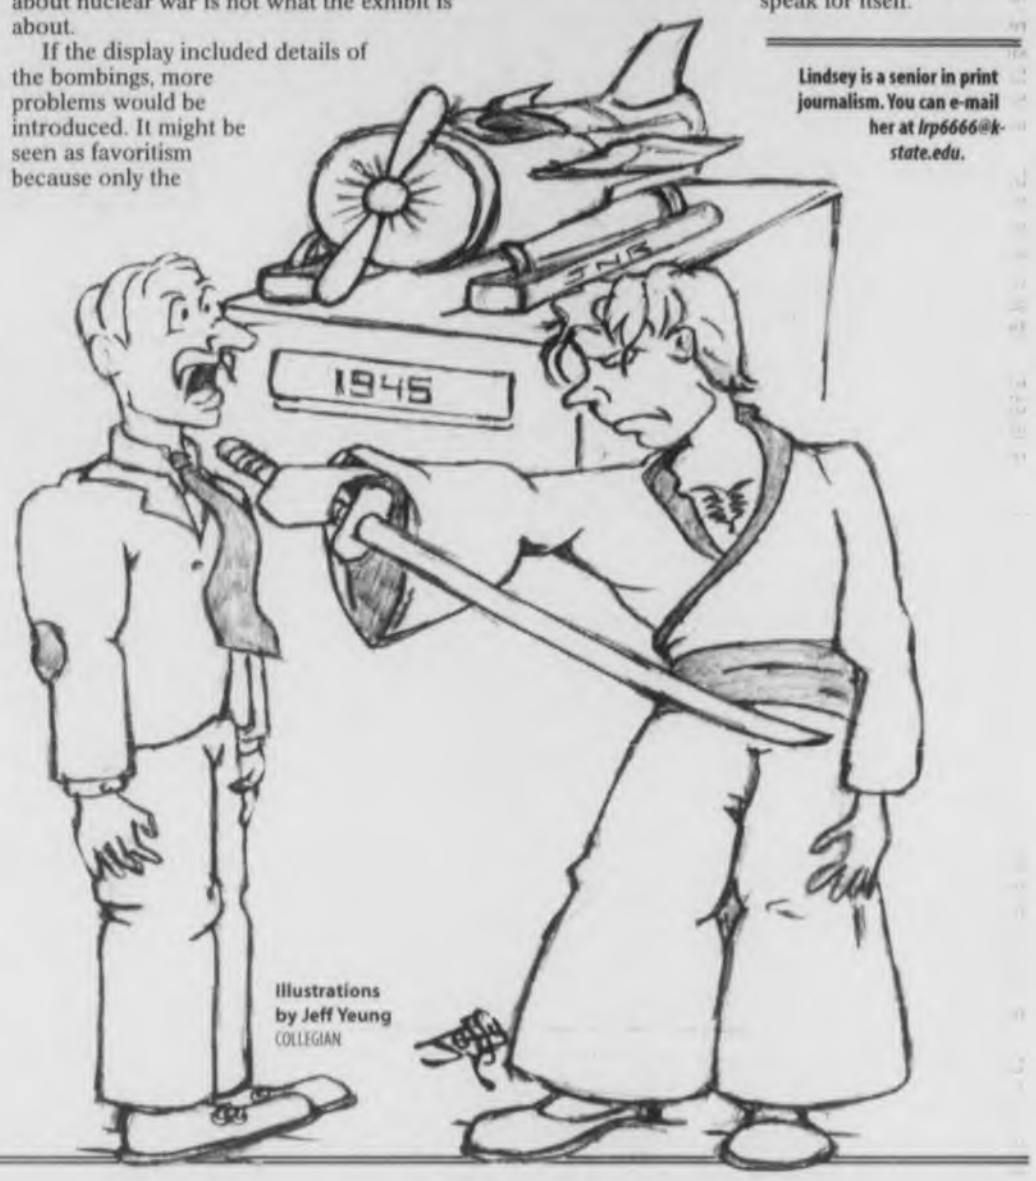
Besides, accompaniment of a detailed explanation and exhibits of the Hiroshima bombing victims doesn't make sense in this exhibit, which is designed to highlight the technology and long restoration of the plane.

The Enola Gay has been under restoration since 1984 and has required 300,000 hours of work funded by private donations.

Second, it has a significant place in aviation and military history. Technology in this field has, for the most part, advanced specifically for military efforts and security. Both the location and exhibit of the plane are appropriate, given the other aviation advancements.

It is right to display the Enola Gay and suitable to include general facts. Mentioning the consequences of the bombing and preaching about nuclear war is not what the exhibit is about.

If the display included details of the bombings, more problems would be introduced. It might be seen as favoritism because only the victims of Hiroshima are highlighted, despite the presence of other aircraft that contributed to death.



The Smithsonian might not display the facts the critics want shown, in the manner they deem fit.

It is no question the Enola Gay draws forth many emotions for any museum guest because of the historical context in which it was used.

The plane will spark questions and invite historical research into both the incident and B-29 history.

Therefore, it is best to let the Enola Gay speak for itself.

Lindsey is a senior in print journalism. You can e-mail her at lrp6666@k-state.edu.

Illustrations by Jeff Yeung COLLEGIAN

Kucinich dooms campaign by just being himself

GRANT REICHERT

Although Dennis Miller called the current field of Democratic presidential candidates "the worst starting nine since the 1962 New York Mets," most people don't agree with this summation.

Their responses range from, "Come on, that Dean guy seems angry, and angry people always make good leaders" to "Whoa, let's not be Met-bashing here."

Are these guys really that bad? As a completely bipartisan, objective journalist, I was going to examine this current field of contenders.

However, seeing as how there are nine of them and only one of me, and the one of me is lazier than a tenured professor, I instead will use this column to make fun of Dennis Kucinich – that's easier than sucker-punching Gandhi.

Dennis Kucinich, current Democratic presidential aspirant, announced his candidacy by saying he was "running for president of the United States to enable the goddess of peace to encircle within her arms all the children of this country and all the children of the world."

OK, Michael Jacks ... er, I mean Dennis Kucinich, don't make any sudden moves – just back away slowly and put the campaign down. Goddess of peace? What was he thinking? Incidentally, Kucinich favors decriminalizing marijuana and counts Willie Nelson as a big supporter. Still, goddess of peace? Whatever happened to the separation of goddess of peace and state?

And how does he know it is a goddess? I've always pictured the deity of peace as a man, albeit an effeminate, body-pierced, Abercrombie and Fitch-wearing metrosexual. Either way, the liberal left has just lost all mocking privileges against the religious right.

To be fair, though, Kucinich can't just be judged by one remark, no matter how weird or disturbing, so here's another hymn from the church of Kucinich:

"The energy of the stars becomes us. We become the energy of the stars. Stardust and spirit unite, and we begin: One with the universe. Whole and holy. From one source, endless creative energy, bursting forth, kinetic, elemental. We, the earth, air, water and fire source of nearly 15 billion years of cosmic spiraling."

This guy can cosmically spiral on his own. I swear, if anybody votes for this guy, goddess of peace be damned, I'm going to start using my universal stardust energy to dispense some righteous kicks to the groin. Oh, and did I mention the pot legalizing thing already?

But what of the issues? Even though Kucinich's speeches sound like bad B-movie scripting, perhaps he has a grasp on the issues.

Or maybe not. On his campaign Web site – surprisingly not located at www.anenga.com/secret/index.swf – Kucinich fails to list the war on terror as an issue.

The only thing I can glean from his military and defense plan is that he wants to cut the military's budget 15 percent and create a "Department of Peace."

Kucinich then channels his inner New Age high priestess again and writes:

"We can conceive of peace as not simply the absence of violence but the active presence of the capacity for a higher evolution of human awareness [...] of peace, wherein we all may tap the infinite capabilities of humanity to transform consciousness and conditions that impel or compel violence at a personal, group or national level toward creating understanding, compassion and love..."

To which the obvious response is, "What the hell is he talking about?" Can you imagine Osama bin Laden reading this stuff? I bet it would win his vote.

Thankfully, Kucinich has the name recognition of a first round "Survivor" dropout making the daytime talk show circuit.

Sure, you can vote for him if you like, but it's you who has to answer to the goddess of peace, not me.

Grant is a freshman in open-option. You can e-mail him at grantreich@hotmail.com.

CAMPUS FOURUM | 395-4444

Seven out of 10 people suffer from hemorrhoids. Does that mean the other three enjoy it?

So the women's basketball team stays in the Bahamas to practice the day after their tournament, meaning that they traveled back to Kansas on Monday. If they truly are student-athletes, Coach Patterson should have had them back for Monday's classes.

I feel so relieved now that I finally quit Kramer.

I was gonna go to the marijuana debate, but then I got high.

$70 for the Big 12 Championship Game? Why don't you just kick me in the balls?

I find it ironic that a flasher would choose Leasure Hall to expose himself. If I were the police, I'd station an officer outside of Dickens.

I also find it ironic that both flasher victims noticed the tattoo but failed to remember what it looked like.

I find it hard to imagine an effective police sketch without eyebrows.

So, can a girl get charged with aiding and abetting for giving me a boner? Just wondering.

I've said it before and I'll say it again — Kathryn Hollingsworth is a flamingo.

Note to self: Make out with Tammy Jo Osborn before I graduate.

All I want for Christmas is a Classy Cat.

I can't prove it, but I think my identity's been stolen. I don't know — it's just a feeling I have.

I'd like to donate money to Operation Tammy Jo Smooch.

Tammy Jo, I'm sorry that you never kissed a guy before, but I think girls are like cars — you've gotta test drive them before you buy them.

Last time I did LSD I was at Disney World, but I didn't go there. It came to me.

It's cold and raining. The parking Nazis should lay off for one night.

I go to a friendly marijuana debate and look what it gets me — a parking ticket!

So I don't get it — it's OK to spend $5 on your mom, but it's not OK to spend $5 on your boyfriend?

Thank God for roommates with arthritis at the age of 20, 'cause that way I know when the weather's gonna change.

Dude, I'm not paying for the towel rack — I wasn't the one handcuffed to it.

I love killing Canadians. Geese, that is.

High-quality professors? I just want one that speaks English.

Tammy Jo Osborn? More like Josie Grossie.

Not enough Fourum? Visit www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

Iraq's new council led by Shiite cleric

By Hamza Hendawi
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BAGHDAD, Iraq – The new president of Iraq's Governing Council is a Shiite cleric and former militia leader who strongly objects to a key part of a U.S. plan to give sovereignty to Iraqis by July 1.

Abdel-Aziz al-Hakim is in charge only for the month of December, but his elevation to the top Iraqi office testifies to a post-Saddam Hussein regime in which a long-oppressed Shiite majority has emerged as the nation's dominant force.

Addressing his first news conference Wednesday since taking over the rotating post, al-Hakim renewed his demands that a transitional legislature set to be formed by the end of May should be directly elected rather than selected from regional caucuses.

"The assembly will be elected by the Iraqi people. This is what we are trying to achieve and that's what, God willing, will happen," said al-Hakim, wearing the black turban signifying his claim of descent from the 7th-century Prophet Muhammad.

"There are differences of opinion on the council, but we are still discussing the issue," he added, alluding to the controversy over how to choose the transitional legislature.

Under a Nov. 15 agreement between the U.S.-led coalition and the Governing Council, Iraqis will vote in early 2005 for an assembly that would draft a new constitution and twice again before the end of that year – once to ratify the new constitution and again to choose a government.

Secretary of State Colin Powell emphasized that the coalition in Iraq would stick to the original plan, which he said had the support of a majority on the U.S.-appointed council.

Commenting on al-Hakim's presidency and Shiite criticisms of the election plan, he said he was encouraged by the "open discussion."

"For the first time in decades, you can have an open debate about the future of the country," he said Tuesday as he flew from Tunisia to Morocco. "And we hope through this process of dialogue ... we can reconcile whatever differences there are."

A Shiite cleric ranked one step below ayatollah, al-Hakim has a relatively modest standing in the complex Shiite hierarchy. That contrasts with his record as an able commander of the Badr Brigade, a militia set up in 1983 as the military wing of the Supreme Council of the Islamic Revolution in Iraq.

Coroner: Struggle with police cause of death

By John Nolan
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CINCINNATI – The death of a 350-pound black man who collapsed after being clubbed by police in a videotaped beating was caused primarily by the struggle, the coroner said Wednesday in a case that has heightened racial tensions.

Hamilton County Coroner Carl Parrott said Nathaniel Jones, 41, suffered from an enlarged heart, obesity and had intoxicating levels of cocaine, PCP and methanol in his blood.

He said the death will be ruled a homicide, but added that such a decision does not mean police used excessive force. The coroner said he had to rule the death a homicide because it did not fall under the other categories: accident, suicide or natural.

"Since the struggle was the result of a purposeful act, in this case, the effort by the police to subdue him, to do their jobs, that purposeful act was a primary cause of death," Parrott said.

Black activists say Jones' death was another example of police brutality against blacks in a city that was rocked by race riots two years ago. That unrest was sparked after a white police officer shot and killed an unarmed fleeing black suspect.

But city officials have said the officers in the current case were properly defending themselves against a violent suspect. The officers – five whites and one black – were placed on administrative leave, which is standard procedure.

The struggle occurred early Sunday after an employee at a White Castle called 911 to report that a man had passed out on the lawn outside. Emergency personnel arrived and reported that the man was awake and becoming a nuisance, according to police radio transmissions.

The first two arriving officers were shown on a police video striking Jones after he ignored orders to "stay back," took a swing at an officer and put his arm around one's neck.

The officers later knocked Jones to the ground and fell on him, and jabbed or clubbed him with nightsticks at least a dozen times over several minutes until he was handcuffed. They kept yelling, "Put your hands behind your back!" as they struggled to handcuff him.

Jones' body had bruising on the lower half, but did not show signs of blows to the head or organ damage, the coroner said.

In Jones' car, police found cocaine and three hand-rolled cigarettes that had been dipped in methanol, an ingredient in embalming fluid that gets people high, authorities said.

Do-si-do your partner

Calvin Wilson, Junction City, receives a hug from fellow four-square dancer Connie Stewart of Abilene during a break in dancing Nov. 18 at the Riley County Senior Service Center.

Photos by Nicole Donnert
COLLEGIAN

Square dancing offers social outlet for enthusiasts

By Angela Rickard
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Ralph Fine, Junction City, dances with Connie Stewart of Abilene as they work their way around the group during the two-and-a-half hour session Nov. 18 at Riley County Senior Service Center.

These couples and singles gather to dance, socialize and have a good time just like everyone else.

But there is no DJ, no smoke and no alcohol.

Instead of tight pants and short shirts, brightly colored petticoats fill the room.

In place of pounding speakers, a caller sings, "Now bow to your partners and do-si-do."

"I come because I purely like dancing, and square dancing is so much fun," Connie Stewart said. "Besides, a night of dancing is equal to ten miles of walking, so it keeps me in good shape."

Mel and Lori Jenkins aren't daunted by the spinning, twisting and turning.

Mel, 86, and Lori, 82 ,dance two to five nights a week.

"It's terrific social, mental and physical exercise," Mel said. "The environment is always great."

Mike Huddleson, a caller from Wichita, Kan., said the dances always offer good, wholesome fun.

"A lot of young people might think it's hokey, but the dances aren't memorized. The dancers have to react to the calls," he said.

Huddleson travels throughout the United States to attend dances and said the people are the best part of square dancing.

"A lady can take her purse, set it down and not worry about it all night," he said.

Kathy Brothers, vice president of The Lone Rangers square dancing club, said square dancing has opened many doors for her.

"If it wasn't for square dancing, I would never have met many wonderful people and traveled to all the places I have," she said.

Bill Ogden, Lone Wrangler's member, said he would like to see more young people learning to square dance.

"Square dancing is an American tradition that is part of our heritage and it needs to be passed down to younger generations," he said.

Ogden said visitors to the Senior Service Center, where the dances are, will be paired with an angel.

Angels are experienced dancers who instruct newcomers. Lessons are offered at 7 p.m. Thursdays at the Senior Service Center. Lessons usually begin the first week in September and run through January.

"It's clean fun, no drinking, no smoking. We come to have fun and we do," Ogden said.

Elton Vaughn said he realizes young people dance very differently these days, but he thinks square dancing has its advantages.

"I like the old-fashioned way where you hold a girl," he said. "They go through the motions, but they don't get the same closeness."

The Wait is over! Your 2003 Royal Purple is here Pick it up! 103 Kedzie 8am-5pm

dependable, quality service
is it snowing?
Claflin Books and Copies

HUNGRY?
Check out the Menu Guide in back of the Campus Phone Book

OLE MIKE'S SHOOTERS SUPPLY & TACKLE
HUNTING & FISHING LICENSES

We're psychic, you need a vacation, why not
Spring Break
and we KNOW KSU can PARTY!!
Jamaica
Acapulco
Cancun
Bahamas
Florida
Beach Life
Group Discounts!!
Book before Dec 15th and Save!!
Sell trips, earn cash, travel free!!
1.800.733.6347
www.BeachLifeVacations.com

GIVE PLASMA GET CASH
Donate Plasma And Earn $45 this week
Save Lives & Earn Cash.
ZLB Plasma Services
1130 Gardenway
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785)776-9177 • www.zlb.com

Ten Til Blue
Live Tonight
Shotz
doors open @ 8

Gamma Phi Beta
Congratulations to our new initiates!
Love in IIKE, Your Gamma Phi Sisters
Alyson Adams
Sarah Affalter
Lindsey Altwegg
Macie Ayers
Stephanie Black
Nacole Boan
Angie Bramlett
Emily Calovich
Kayla Campbell
Kelly Dahlstrom
Tara Doerfler
Katie Donaldson
Jessica Dreiling
Laura Ebbert
Mary Flowers
Rachelle George
Lexi Hammond
Amanda Henriksen
Erin Hoppock
Michelle Hughes
Jennie Jester
Abbie Johnson
Shea Larson
Christy Loudon
Mary McGivern
Lauren Mitchell
Jessica Moore
Felicia Nelson
Holly Oakleaf
Lauren Quint
Mandi Rackers
Kasey Randle
Lauren Reinert
Beth Rieke
Nicole Schippers
Heather Schmidt
Danielle Sellers
Hannah Smith
Megan Stanley
Allison Stark
Kate Wallace
Danielle White
Ashley Young

Have a Stylin' Holiday.
Greet the season with a fresh, cool haircut.
Gift certificates available. Ask your stylist.
greatclips.com
HAIRCUT $7.99 Not valid with other offers. Limit one coupon per customer. Good at OFFER EXPIRES 1/15/04 participating locations.
HAIRCUT $7.99 Not valid with other offers. Limit one coupon per customer. Good at OFFER EXPIRES 1/15/04 participating locations.
Great Clips for hair
Great Clips for hair
Seth Child Commons
(Next to Target)
785.539.8998
Hours: M-F: 9-9; Sat: 9-6; Sun: 10-5

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY
Department of Speech Communication, Theatre, and Dance
PRESENTS:
WinterDance
Choreographed by KSU Dance Faculty, KSU Dance Students, and Guest Artist Susan Worden
December 4th - 6th 8:00 p.m.
Matinee December 6th 2:00 p.m.
Nichols Theatre, KSU
For Tickets Call the McCain Box Office
785.532.6428

Roberson must prove himself all over again

Saturday's game will place K-State's golden boy in the football spotlight

JOEL REICHENBERGER

I watched it from a bar in Aggieville.

I couldn't drink there yet and wasn't with a large group of friends – just one, really – but somehow it seemed like the right place.

I hadn't known what to expect, of course. My team was going against a team that everyone thought was so good, and my boys had that new guy running the show.

But as I sat there, not knowing what to expect in the bar where I couldn't drink with only one person to talk to, I was amazed.

I was shocked, and even though my team lost, I was pumped.

Three years ago Ell Roberson introduced himself to me via an electric performance against Oklahoma.

The Cats, fresh off losing to OU twice a year before, and OU, fresh off winning the national championship, played neck and neck in one of the best thrillers of the season.

In the end, some ridiculous trickery for which Bob Stoops is known, ended the chances at a Cat comeback.

He allowed a safety so as to bring K-State within one, but also forcing them to throw a hail-Mary pass rather than allow K-State a chance to block the punt.

I didn't know much about Ell Roberson. Far from the sporting genius I am today, I knew who he was – knew people had big expectations.

That day, he lived up to them. He threw and ran all over the vaunted Sooner defense. Compiling 115 yards on the ground and 257 through the air, Roberson was amazing.

K-State lost, though, 38-37.

Three years and after more ups and downs than Paris Hilton on a pogo stick – naked – Roberson has another shot at OU.

I've always been a Roberson fan. Granted, I felt Marc Dunn was going to be the leader last season, but I changed my tune after witnessing Roberson tear apart Southern Cal.

Still, I have long defended the much-maligned quarterback. I've always been happy when he succeeded – the end of the 2002 season – and I've always winced when he failed – all the rest of the 2001 season.

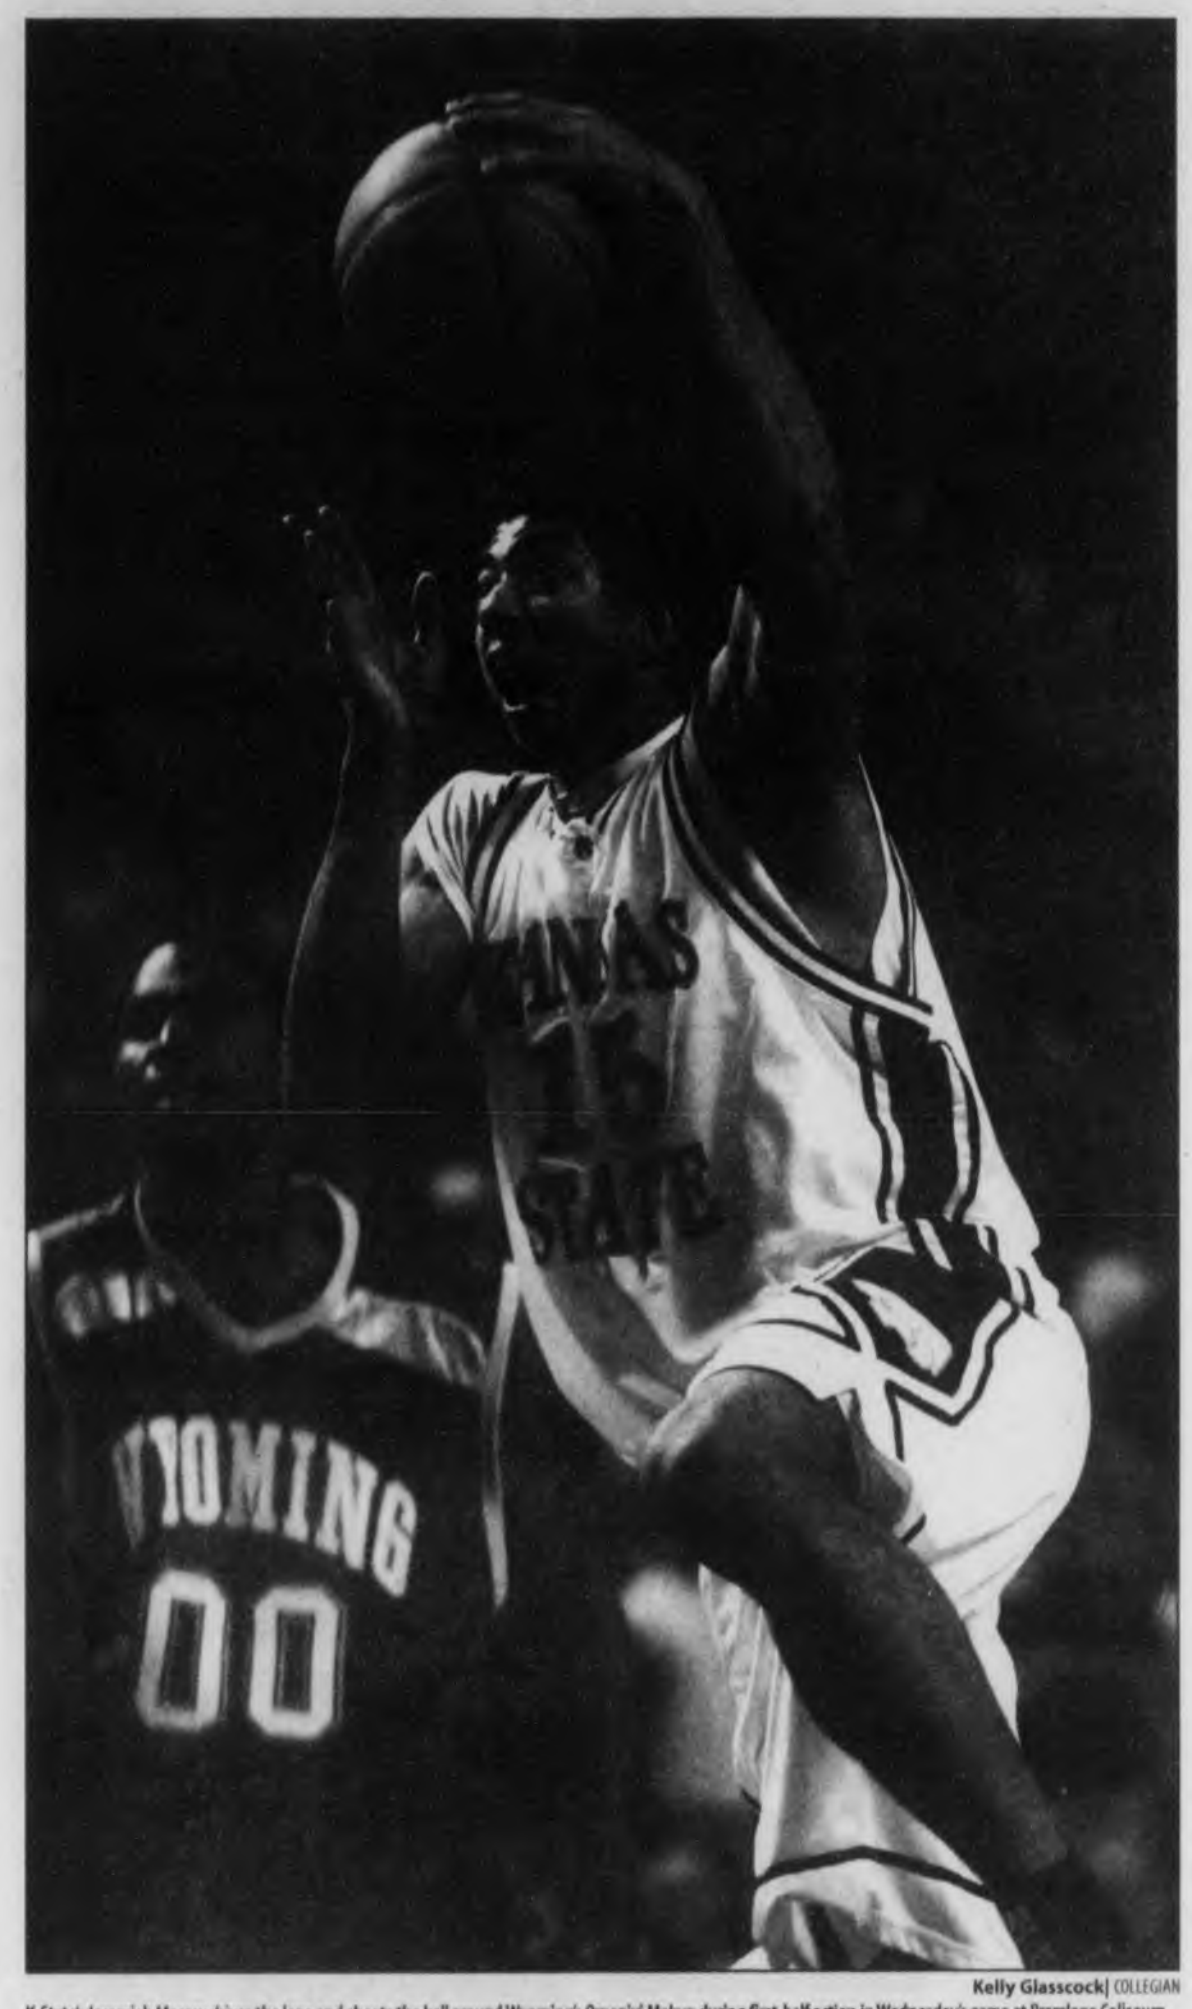
I'm not sure he's ever impressed as much as he did in that OU game three years ago, though.

Saturday, Roberson will have to impress me again. He can't throw any interceptions. The OU offense is too good to allow any extra chances. He can't fumble the ball when All-Universe linebacker Teddy Lehman hits him hard.

Saturday's game will be about Ell Roberson. It will be the pinnacle moment in a season, a career and an era, all about Ell Roberson. I've been waiting for three-years to see Roberson dominate like he did that day in 2001.

Darren Sproles might be the best player on this team. Contrary to popular August belief, the running back has K-State's best ever shot at a Heisman.

Terry might be the most prolific playmaker. His catches remind me of Kevin Lockett, whom I consider one of the greatest players I've ever seen.



But this is Roberson's team. Sproles can bring his best on Saturday and Terry can make all the amazing catches, but if Roberson doesn't come to play, K-State is sunk.

Saturday it will Roberson's game.

I will be impressed on Saturday.

Joel is a senior in journalism and history. You can e-mail him at pilotksu@hotmail.com.

Racking up rebounds

Kelly Glasscock | COLLEGIAN

K-State's Jeremiah Massey drives the lane and shoots the ball around Wyoming's Omoniyi Makun during first-half action in Wednesday's game at Bramlage Coliseum.

K-State improves to 4-0 with win over Wyoming

By Joel Reichenberger
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

It was a game of streaks, but by halftime of Wednesday night's basketball game at Bramlage Coliseum, K-State had buried Wyoming en route to an 80-67 win and their fourth consecutive victory.

The Wildcats scored eight of the first 10 points, but Wyoming battled back, tying the game at 15, 17 and 19 before taking a three-point lead with five minutes remaining in the first half.

Neither team seemed able to break away, and turnovers, sloppy play and fouls ground away any momentum from the game's early minutes.

"I thought if we could figure out how to play offense, we could put a little string together," Coach Jim Wooldridge said. "We had 12 turnovers. Shot selection was hurried. We played a lot of one-on-one type plays – we can't be that kind of team. We need to be more inclined to play together, execute and not beat ourselves."

With five minutes remaining in the first half, the Cats figured it out. K-State put the Cowboys away, finishing the period with an 11-0 run and opening the second half with a 20-8 streak.

See MEN Page 8

Zach Long | COLLEGIAN

K-State's Frank Richards blocks a shot by Wyoming's Jay Straight during the first half of Wednesday's game.

Kelly Glasscock | COLLEGIAN

K-State's Jarrett Hart catches a pass from teammate Marques Hayden during the first-half of Wednesday's game.

K-State guard establishing himself as men's team leader

By Louie Novak
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The K-State men's basketball team improved to 4-0 Wednesday night after its 80-67 victory over the Wyoming Cowboys.

A vital part to K-State's hot start has been the play of senior guard Jarrett Hart.

Hart has improved each game since returning from a team-imposed suspension last fall.

Hart did not have a let down from his 14-point, four-rebound performance against Gardner-Webb, a game in which he hit the winning shot. The Wildcat had a career-high 19 points and chipped in seven rebounds and four assists against the Cowboys.

After the game, Hart was vocal in giving his team credit for his performance.

"I put it all on my teammates," Hart said. "They got me in good position to help me get all my points out of the offense."

See HART Page 8

1-MINUTE DRILL

Staff Reports

Football | 15 Wildcats earn All-Big 12 honors

Darren Sproles, Nick Leckey and Josh Buhl were named first-team All-Big 12 by the league's coaches, while James Terry, Ryan Lilja, Andrew Shull, Justin Montgomery and Rashad Washington earned second-team honors, the Big 12 Conference announced.

Ell Roberson, Randy Jordan and Joe Rheem earned third-team honors while Brian Casey, Travis Wilson, Bryan Hickman and Jared Brite were honorable mention All-Big 12 selections.

The 15 total selections ties Oklahoma for second in the league. Oklahoma State had 17 All-Big 12 picks but nine of those were honorable mention selections. Oklahoma had 11 first-team picks.

K-State | Wildcat weekend sports schedule

Fri., Dec. 5
Women's basketball: K-State vs. Sacramento State, 5 p.m. at Bramlage Coliseum
NCAA Volleyball: K-State vs. Ohio, 7:30 p.m. at Ahearn Field House

Sat., Dec. 6
Women's basketball: K-State vs. Texas Pan-Am or Saint Louis, 1 p.m. (with loss Friday) or 3 p.m. (with win) at Bramlage Coliseum
NCAA Volleyball: K-State vs. winner of Arkansas and Southwest Missouri State, 5 p.m. (with win Friday) at Ahearn Field House
Big 12 Championship: K-State vs. Oklahoma, 7 p.m. at Arrowhead Stadium in Kansas City, Mo. televised live by ABC
Men's basketball: K-State at Oregon State, 9 p.m. at Corvallis, Ore.

The Associated Press

MLB | Oklahoma sweeps Big 12 Conference awards

No. 1 Oklahoma swept the Big 12 Conference's top honors Wednesday as quarterback Jason White was named Offensive Player of the Year, cornerback Derrick Strait was named Defensive Player of the Year, and Coach Bob Stoops was named Coach of the Year as voted on by the Associated Press.

White

K-State's Darren Sproles was one of only two others to receive votes for Offensive Player of the Year, along with Oklahoma's Mark Clayton. Oklahoma's Tommie Harris, Nebraska's Demorrio Williams and Texas's Derrick Johnson received defensive votes.

MLB | Hawkins signs deal with Cubs

The Cubs confirmed Wednesday they'd agreed to terms with free agent pitcher LaTroy Hawkins. The deal, which includes a player option for 2006, guarantees the pitcher $11 million over three years.

Hawkins, who turns 31 later this month, was 9-3 with a 1.86 ERA in 77 1-3 innings for the Minnesota Twins. He had 75 strikeouts, and didn't allow a run over 20 games from July 31 to Sept. 14.

MLB | Francona to be hired as Red Sox manager

Terry Francona will be hired as the new Red Sox manager, a baseball source told The Associated Press on Wednesday, speaking on the condition of anonymity. The source told the AP that the team has scheduled a Thursday afternoon news conference at which they will announce Francona's hiring.

Francona, 44, managed Philadelphia through four losing seasons from 1997-2000 when the Phillies were a young team trying to rebuild. He joins former pitching ace Curt Shilling in trying to end the Yankees' run in the American Leage Eastern Division.

MLB | Francona to be hired as Red Sox manager

Junior college transfer Randy Pulley has been cleared to play for No. 4 Missouri, the school announced Wednesday.

Pulley had been sidelined while Missouri officials reviewed his credits last year from Barton County Community College in Great Bend, Kan.

Meeting a mate

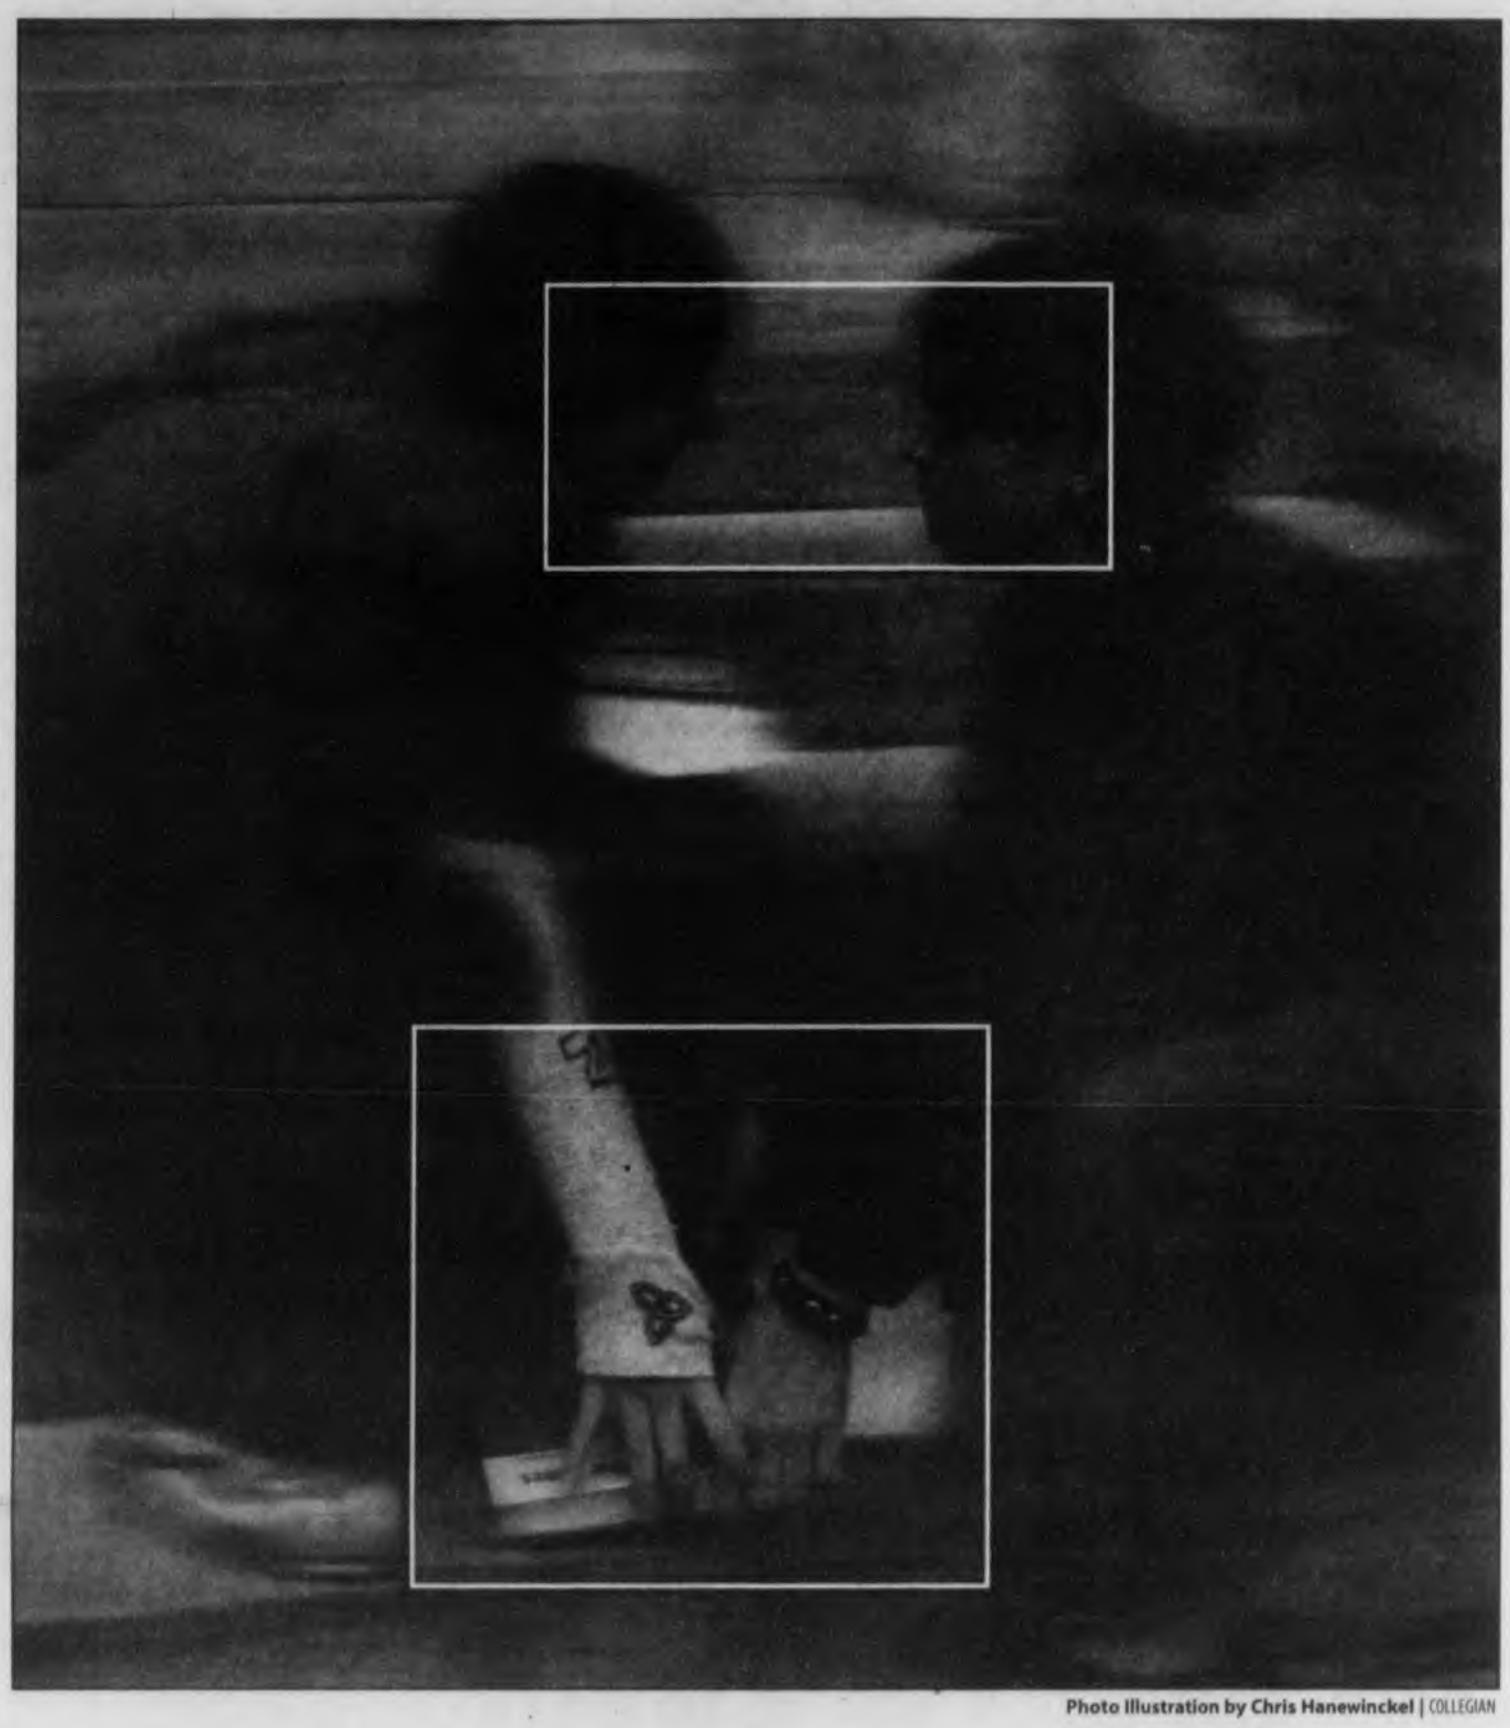

Photo illustration by Chris Hanewinckel | COLLEGIAN

Friendships often blossom into something more

By Lauren Morano
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

When Sarah Pride first met her fiance, she was not thinking love at first sight – she actually thought he was annoying.

"When I first met Phil, I just thought he was so annoying," Pride, sophomore in sociology, said. "I met him through my current roommate. We would hang out, but there was no physical attraction. Actually, he liked my roommate."

Soon after meeting Phil, Sarah broke up with her boyfriend of the time. Then, Sarah and Phil began hanging out more, and they soon became a couple. Nine months later, Phil proposed to Sarah.

Pride said she learned her lesson and hopes other people will learn from her experiences as well.

"Don't judge," Pride said. "Don't base your decision on physical appearance, and know that you don't have to go to parties and drink to find a mate.

"Phil is the complete opposite of what I thought I would marry."

Though Pride's story has an unusual twist, it seems meeting one's life partner through friends and during college is a common trend.

"There have been many successful stories when people have common occurrences, such as class, work or church," said Tony Jurich, professor of family studies and human services. "When you are close to someone, regarding class or church, you have an easier time starting a conversation. This happens to a lot of people.

"We started out as friends, and the relationship escalated from there."
Vi Pham
JUNIOR IN LANDSCAPE DESIGN

"When looking for someone – be honest and let your intentions be known."

Starting out as friends and getting a feel for the person is a common way for relationships to begin.

Ashley Lewis, junior in radio and television, met her boyfriend, Jared Sutherland, junior in computer science engineering, by 'becoming friends first.

Lewis said they met through mutual friends in their residence hall and started dating after three months.

"We got to know each other really well through being friends, and the more I hung out with her, the more I wanted to be with her," Sutherland said. "I also knew that we got along really well, so a relationship would work."

Friends setting two people up also can be a successful way of getting two together – it worked for Ashley Arnold, junior in finance.

"My friend was dating one of Rick's friends, and we met through them," Arnold said. "He got my phone number from his friend and called me. That night he came over and hung out with my friends and me. A few weeks later, he invited me to a wedding, and it went from there."

Rachel Hogan, junior in public relations, was set up by her friends in a similar way.

"Mark lived in the same apartment complex that my friends did," Hogan said. "One night I went out with a big group of friends from high school for someone's birthday, and he was there. The next weekend I saw him again at another birthday party. Then he asked for my number, and the next weekend was our first date."

While it takes time for the attraction to set in for some, others know right away.

Kelly Buckner, junior in marketing, met her boyfriend when she least expected it.

"It was the first weekend of school, and my boyfriend just broke up with me," Buckner said. "I was all sad, but my friends dragged me out anyway. I went to this party, where he eventually showed up. I told my friend that I thought he was cute, and she told him, and right when I was getting ready to leave, he came over and talked to me. I ended up staying at the party, and we were together every day then on."

For Buckner, this was the first man she dated with whom she wasn't friends first or didn't know previously.

"You always find someone when you're not looking," Buckner said. "I didn't want to go out at all that night, but I'm glad I did."

Lindsay Rader, junior in landscape design, met her boyfriend while working with him at Gilligans.

"I was a waitress and he was a cook," Rader said. "We knew each other for about seven months before we began dating."

Vi Pham, sophomore in pre-veterinary medicine, also met her boyfriend of five years at work.

"Larry and I both worked at Best Buy together in California," Pham said. "We started out as friends, and the relationship escalated from there. At first, I didn't want a relationship, but one day he looked cute to me.

"Don't try too hard and look just to be looking."

After dating for about two years, Larry proposed.

"We were at a party on New Year's Eve with our close friends," Pham said. "He actually did it in front of everyone there."

CALENDAR

- Slick Rhodes X-mas Extravaganza play tonight at Auntie Mae's Parlor.
- Winter Dance at 8 tonight, Friday and Saturday and 2 p.m. Saturday in Nichols Theatre.
- Open Mic Night at Gumby's Pizza and Pub.

IN BRIEF

The Associated Press

Manager sues bride-to-be Trista Rehn

Rehn

Something borrowed, something blue — and a lawsuit, too, for bride-to-be Trista Rehn of ABC's "Bachelorette."

Rehn's former manager, Kevin Allyn, is suing for a cut of the $1 million fee he said he negotiated from ABC to air her wedding to Ryan Sutter, "Entertainment Tonight" reported Tuesday.

Ty Pennington hosts new improvement show

Ty Pennington, the hunky carpenter on the popular TLC show "Trading Spaces," is the host of ABC's new home improvement show, "Extreme Makeover: Home Edition."

The show debuts at 9 p.m. Wednesday.

WEB REVIEWS

Online Yellow Pages

yp.yahoo.com

What clicks
- Offers links to businesses' web sites, maps and driving directions to a particular business.
- Offers "City Guides" for the surrounding area of the business — including restaurant reviews and night life information.

What bytes
- Does not offer white pages, so you can only look up companies.

Bottom line
A great resource for looking up companies' address and telephone information, plus much more.

www.anywho.com

What clicks
- Run by AT&T, a trusted and reliable company.
- Provides yellow and white pages, reverse look up, toll-free and international numbers.
- Also provides maps to businesses and residences, as well as extra information about both.

What bytes
- The extra information, like a person's public records, costs a fee.
- Cell phone numbers are not listed.

Bottom line
Probably your best bet for looking up individual's information, but not very reliable for information on people who don't own their residence.

www.yellowpages.com

What clicks
- Um, the little information they do give is accurate.

What bytes
- There are advertisements everywhere.
- Only offers most basic address and telephone information for businesses not advertising with yellowpages.com.
- You have to deal with pop-ups at every click.

Bottom line
Yahoo yellow pages will get you the same accurate information for business listings plus more resources and without all the advertisements.

Tiffany Miller | COLLEGIAN

Herr Metzger | Julian Narino — www.herrmetzger.com

Puck | Kent Holle — kentramone@yahoo.com

INSURANCE | More students going uninsured

Continued from Page 1

Although his father now is covered by Medicare, Webb is without insurance.

Webb said that with only two years of college left before he could get coverage through a job in law enforcement, he decided to do without, mainly due to lack of funds.

"I live month to month on paychecks and have a ton of bills to pay, and I just didn't think that I could afford to have another bill each month to pay for," he said. "I know if I asked my dad, he would let me borrow money, but with him being retired, I didn't want to do that."

Don Brown, consumer education coordinator for the Kansas Insurance Department, said along with the other types of health insurance, student insurance costs have increased over the past three to four years.

"We are seeing it across the board with health insurance,from small to large policies," he said. "We're seeing what have been close to double-digit increases. We're seeing projections that it will continue this way."

Frisbie said she didn't know if K-State's prices had increased over the past few years.

Brown said that although it might be easy for students to qualify for health insurance, individual policies that usually cover students are more costly than group policies.

"Qualifying is fairly easy, but the ability to afford the coverage could be an entirely different matter," he said. "Costs are often times the biggest barrier."

Brown said that because students usually are covered by an individual plan, they are at a disadvantage.

"As individuals, they don't have the group purchasing power," he said. "If I work for Goodyear of the State of Kansas, I'm one of a number of people buying policies at once. A single policy doesn't have the same advantages when dealing with the insurance company."

Did you know?

Student insurance cost

- $243.50 per semester
- $580 per year running from Aug. 1 to July 31.
- Fine more information at www.studentresources.com

Source: Annette Frisbie, student insurance representative

However, Webb said that although not having insurance usually dissuades him from going to the doctor, when he got too sick to avoid the doctor's office seven months ago, he wished he was covered.

"I had to go to the doctor and just pay them out of pocket," he said. "In the long run, I should have just got insurance because I would be spending a lot less on it if I had to go to the doctor or hospital."

Frisbie said student insurance information is sent out with an application at the beginning of the fall semester and also in December for students who are graduating. She said there are brochures in her office, which is in the K-State Student Union or in Lafene Health Center.

Carol Kennedy, director of health promotion at Lafene, said the Board of Regents contracts one insurance company and through the Board, that company's insurance plans are offered to Kansas schools.

"This approach is cost competitive, as the Board of Regents chooses a lower cost company," she said. "Also, since the insurance is offered through the Board of Regents, the plans usually cover any type of treatment students would receive at Lafene. The schools do work with the company to make the policy more favorable to students."

Kennedy said students can buy the insurance through the Student Insurance office in the K-State Student Union. She said students could go to the office with questions about K-State's student insurance.

However, Frisbie, K-State's only student insurance representative, said that because she has only worked at the office since August, there are some questions she has to pass on to the insurance company, MEGA Life and Health Insurance or her supervisor if she is unable to answer them.

Although Brown said there is no data on how many student-aged people in Kansas are uninsured, he said 11 percent or 250,000 Kansans are uninsured at any given time. In 1996, when K-State was looking into requiring students to have insurance, G-M Underwriters Agency reported that approximately 25 percent of students were uninsured, and would be affected by such a policy, according to a Collegian article.

Webb, who is one of the 11 percent of uninsured Kansans, said he's pushing through his last year of being uninsured with not much more than a hope and a prayer.

"I figure this is my last year of school, so hopefully I will make it our alive without something serious happening to me," he said. "Knock on wood."

— Katie Lane contributed to this article.

MEN | Team chalks up 4th consecutive victory

Continued f rom Page 6

The 31-8 swing set Wyoming in a hole from which it would never recover. The Cowboys turned the ball over three times, missed five shots and gave up two fouls in the five minutes before halftime.

In the second half, seniors Jarrett Hart and Tim Ellis helped guide the team home. Hart scored four in the first-half run and added 13 in the second to lead K-State with 19 points. Ellis tacked on 10 in the second half to finish the night with 16.

The upperclassmen also helped dominate the boards. The Cats won the rebounding wars by more than 20, a number so strong that Wooldridge referred to it as the stat of the game.

"We're looking at a team tonight that needed the returning players to step forward," Wooldridge said. "The stat that has to be talked about is rebounding."

That's a welcome sight for the Wildcats.

Cartier Martin, considered one of the crown jewels of K-State's highly regarded freshmen class, saw his first action of the regular season Wednesday night. Martin had to sit the first three games due to a suspension involving gifts received while he was in high school.

Martin didn't start, but came in at the 15:45 mark in the first half. He helped provide the spark fans expected, too, finishing the night with 10 points and shooting 2-of-3 from the three point arch.

"He brought a lot of energy," Ellis said. "It just felt good to have him out on the court again."

Martin did miss four short shots and grabbed only one rebound, but Wooldridge remained unfazed and said better days lie ahead for the 6-foot-8 freshman.

"He's going to end up playing better. You saw some glimpses of his play-making ability and his shot-making ability," Wooldridge said. "This is his first time out against a good basketball team. He's got a lot of minutes left in him through the year."

After handling lower-tier teams Birmingham-Southern, Lipscomb and Gardner-Webb, the victory over the Mountain West Conference's Cowboys will loom large, Wooldridge said.

As the team prepares for its first road game, where the Cats have been inconsistent in recent years, Wooldridge said his first 4-0 start in Manhattan was an important step for the program.

"It was a good step in the right direction," Wooldridge said. "We were able to get some things done against a quality team that I think we can build on as we move forward."

HART | Player establishes himself among team

Continued from Page 6

In addition to recognizing his teammates, Hart said he is pleased to be putting up good numbers.

"I am happy to get that," Hart said. "The scouting reports and hard work in practice has helped. I am just glad to be helping the team."

Perhaps the most vital element of Hart's importance this year is something that can't be seen on a stat sheet.

"Jarrett Hart opens up the floor for a lot of us," sophomore Marques Hayden said. "The guy is able to drive the ball, and he can shoot it outside anytime he wants. Plus, he has been doing a heck of a job on defense."

Hayden also said Hart is a team leader.

"Since day one he has been a leader," Hayden said. "When things aren't going right and coach is on me, J-Hart has been there to lift me up. He is definitely a leader."

Coach Jim Wooldridge also was vocal in expressing Hart's importance to the team.

"Of all players, Jarrett helps us play this game better then anyone on this team," Wooldridge said. "He is a jack-of-all-trades and has a great feel for the game."

Hart said being a leader is something of which he is proud.

"I feel like I have been a leader all along," Hart said. "I know I got myself in a situation where I couldn't step up the whole time and talk up the team, but the great thing is we have other guys who can step up and be leaders, too. It's not just me."

Although his teammates told him that he didn't have to earn respect back, Hart felt the need to show them he wanted to be a leader on and off the court.

"I wanted to come back and do everything right," Hart said. "I wanted to keep things on a positive note and encourage my teammates to do their best."

Now, the Wildcat guard's confidence is high and his outlook on the game is focused.

"I am going to take it one game at a time," Hart said. "Sometimes you are going to be up, and other times you are going to be down. I am not always going to be the leading scorer, but I will always try to play hard, bring a lot of energy and control the things I can control."

PETERSON | Court will reconvene in early January as officials examine evidence in Laci Peterson's murder

Continued from Page 1

Authorities believe her body was transported in the truck, then weighted down and tossed into in the San Francisco Bay.

In court papers, prosecutors said cement-like material was found in the bed of the pickup truck. A detective at the preliminary hearing said there was evidence Peterson fashioned several concrete anchors in his warehouse, but only one of those anchors was found in the boat he said he took fishing the day Laci vanished.

Prosecutors had refused to return Peterson's pickup truck because they believe it was used in the murder and wanted to keep it as evidence.

But on Wednesday, defense lawyer Mark Geragos, who is simultaneously representing Michael Jackson, persuaded the judge to order prosecutors to return the truck to his family. With legal bills mounting, the family has made $643 in monthly auto payments for nearly a year.

Girolami also refused to lift a gag order Wednesday or unseal any of the sealed court documents. A lawyer representing The Modesto Bee and four other newspapers had asked the judge to release police reports filed in support of arrest and search warrants.

He scheduled a hearing for Jan. 6 so the defense can request that the trial be moved from Stanislaus County because of pretrial publicity in Laci Peterson's hometown.

The judge said he would rule on the change of venue motion before scheduling further hearings for the defense to challenge wiretaps, the use of devices that tracked Peterson and cadaver-sniffing dogs used to search for Laci Peterson's scent in the boat.

Even if you can't be together this holiday, you can still be close.

1000 ANYTIME MINUTES FOR LIFE

$40 month

- 1000 mobile-to-mobile minutes
- Unlimited nationwide long distance
- Unlimited nights and weekends

Download ringtones and games.

Audiovox 8410 $24.99

Kyocera Phantom™ KE414 FREE

GET ONE MONTH FREE with 2-year agreement

CELLULARONE

Proud to be the next best way to say hello.

Cellular One Stores

Manhattan

1115 Westloop Place, 537-4646 •

100 Manhattan Town Center, 776-1414

• Now open Sundays

1 800 CELL ONE Business Customers, 1 877 566-3222 CellularOne.com

Solutions by NORTEL NETWORKS

Experience Our Enhanced Digital Network

Offers good for a limited time on new activations on select rate plans only and are subject to change without notice. 1000 anytime minutes for life promotion available to subscribers as long as they continue to pay for the $40 local plan described above. Any interruption, payment default or change to the subscribers plan to any regular rate result in the loss of the 1000 anytime minutes for life promotion. If subscriber's service is interrupted and the subscriber wishes to return to the $40 local plan described above, such subscriber would not have the option to retain the 1000 anytime minutes for life promotion. One month free offer requires 2-year agreement and is limited to monthly access charge only and does not include charges for roaming, long distance, taxes, and/or other fees associated with your monthly price plan. Unlimited Nights & Weekends available on select Local and Western Plus plans only. Mobile-to-mobile minutes apply to calls placed between Cellular One customers on the Western Wireless Corp. network and apply per phone only. Credit approval required. Some customers may not qualify. $18 WATCH customers may be required to pay a non-refundable program fee and covering administration fee. Not available in all areas. May not be combined with any other offers or discounts. Included minutes apply to calls from within local service area only. Unused minutes expire each month. "Night" minutes apply to calls made from 8:00 p.m. to 5:59 a.m. Monday through Thursday, and "weekend" minutes apply to calls made from 9:00 p.m. Friday to 11:59 p.m. Sunday. From within home calling area only. Free mobile-to-mobile long distance applies to calls made from the home area to anywhere within the United States only. Except as indicated, additional fees apply for taxes, assessments, surcharges, roaming, long distance, operator-assisted, credit card or other toll charges. Incoming and outgoing calls are rounded up and billed in full minute increments from the time the network begins to process the call (before the call connects) to conclusion of the call, any fraction of a minute of usage is rounded up and charged or deducted from any included minutes at the full minute rate. Service is subject to the terms of our standard 1- to 2-year service agreement that includes a $200 fee for early cancellation and a mandatory arbitration provision for each phone. Kyocera KE414 Phantom phone is $219.99 after $20 mail in rebate with one year agreement. Audiovox 8410 phone is $34.99 after $25 mail in rebate with one-year agreement. Activation fee and deposit may be required. Digital handset required. Outside the digital coverage area, service may be analog and certain digital features may not function. Rebates/Rebates have no cash value. Taxes apply to original purchase price. Only one rebate per phone purchased. Featured handsets available at Cellular One stores and participating dealers while supplies last. Service is not TTY compatible. See store for complete details. Other restrictions may apply. Phantom and the Phantom logo are trademarks of Kyocera Wireless Corp. Nortel Networks and the Nortel Networks logo are trademarks of Nortel Networks. All service marks are marks of The Cellular One Group. © 2003 Western Wireless Corporation.

LOST? & FOUND

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN 103 Kedzie 532-6555

Fat's Bar & Grill Located at 12th & Lanamie in Aggieville

Thursday

$2.75 Fish Bowls

$1.50 Domestic Bottles

$1.00 Burgers

Thursday

Holidazzle!!

20% OFF

Spa Pedicure
Hilite
Color
Body Massage

Gift Certificates Available

REDKEN

IMPRESSIONS HAIR DESIGN AND BODY TONING

PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS

1800 Claflin Road

776-5577

We Deliver During Lunch!

2 VISTA COMBOS for $4.99

VISTA COMBO
Includes 1/4 lb ALL BEEF VISTA BURGER, Regular Fries & 16 oz. Pepsi

Vista DRIVE IN

537-0100 1911 Tuttle Creek

537-0222 Manhattan Town Center

Limit one coupon per customer. Not valid in combination with any other offer. Extra charges for cheese and bacon. Valid after 10:30 a.m. Coupon expires December 31, 2003

CLASSIFIEDS

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

A two-bedroom apartment, close to campus. Short term lease available. Available mid- December or 1st of January. (785)317-7713.

BRITTNAY RIDGE. Four-bedroom, study, two and one-half bath, town home. Washer/ dryer. 2519 Candlecrest, lease required. No pets. $1050, $1050 deposit. (785)537-9740.

COZY TWO-BEDROOM. Only a year old with all new appliances. Includes washer and dryer. Has own driveway. (785)341-1636

CRESTWOOD APARTMENTS. West side Two-bedroom, one and one-half baths. Personal washer/ dryer. Water, trash, cable television paid. No pets. $590. (785)776-3345.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT. Available for Spring semester. $380 month includes cable, water, trash. Brand new carpet (785)537-1336.

FOR JANUARY 1. Nice large two-bedroom apartment. Gas, water, trash three-forths paid, laundromat, $480. (785)539-2482 or (785)539-9315 or cell phone (785)565-8116.

ONE-BEDROOM NICE basement apartment. Right next to campus. Ready for spring semester. $385 with gas and water paid. (785)556-6899.

TWO-BEDROOM WITH study, private balcony, laundry, cover parking, walk to campus, central air-conditioning, January lease, $515- $545/ month. (785)341-6091.

120 For Rent- Houses

SHORT TERM lease January- May or July. Two-bedroom house, laundry hookup, parking, campus six blocks. (785)537-8389 leave message.

TWO, THREE, or four-bedroom house. Very nice four-bedroom house will rent as two or three bedroom with reduced rent. Central-heat and air, washer/ dryer hookups. Very spacious with two bathrooms, six blocks to campus. Available January 1. Call Doug at (785)341-4554.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE for a four-bedroom duplex. Washer/ dryer. Available January. Rent $275. Call Megan. (785)539-8490.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for luxury, four-bedroom apartment across street from West campus. Laundry, parking, no smoking, no pets. $300. (785)776-6318.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share three-bedroom house. $225/ month plus one-third electric and cable. Call Kimberly (785)456-4204.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for spring semester. Nice five-bedroom three bath house. Common rooms furnished. Washer/ dryer. $300 rent plus one-fifth utilities. (785)539-9887, (785)825-2937.

150 Sublease

FOUR-BEDROOM, ONE and one-half bath, spacious, practically in Aggieville. $900/ month heating included. (four roommates- only $225 per person). (785)776-5102.

ROOM FOR Rent. Sub-leaser wanted for spring semester. House two blocks west of campus. $240/ month plus one-fifth utilities. Laundry facilities. (785)537-3096.

ROOMS FOR rent, next to campus, one-bedroom in brand new four-bedroom apartment. Free washer/ dryer, central-air, parking. (785)537-7050

145 Roommate Wanted

ROOMMATE NEEDED, January- July. Huge 20X20 room. All amenities, four roommates needing the fifth. (785)537-0699. Rent negotiable.

ROOMMATE WANTED $200/ month plus one-half utilities. Washer/ dryer, can have two bedrooms, six blocks off campus, University Dr., no smoking, nice house and neighborhood. (785)317-4742.

ROOMMATE WANTED. Less than 100 steps from apartment door to Fiedler. $300/ month plus one-fourth utilities. Available January. (785)317-0099.

SUBLEASER WANTED for spring semester, three-bedroom apartment with dishwasher. One block from campus. $210/ month. 1850 Claflin. Call (785)770-3810/ (785)313-0013.

THREE CHRISTIAN guys looking for roommate. One and one-half mile west of campus. Washer/ dryer, $275/ month, negotiable (785)341-3464, (785)537-4278.

TWO-BEDROOMS AVAILABLE, four-bedroom house. Five minutes from campus $240/ month all bills paid. (316)706-8548.

150 Sublease

CADI- CORNER from Union. One to four rooms available immediately. Great spot, act fast! $230/ month. 1725 Anderson. Call David (785)770-2711.

CAMPUS/ AGGIEVILLE- spring semester, two-bedroom, 1212 Bluemont. Trash/ water paid, laundry facility. $300/ each, January 1. Kelly or Karen (785)776-8980.

CAMPUS/ AGGIEVILLE- three-bedroom spacious apartment, start January. Central air, laundry, parking. 519 North Manhattan. Call (785)341-4158 or (785)341-9582.

FEMALE ROOMMATE WANTED starting January to live with two other girls. $265/ month plus utilities. Very nice house, can see campus from house. 1206 Bertrand. Call Lesley at (785)539-6790 leave message if not home.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed for spring semester. One-bedroom apartment. Two blocks from Aggieville. Rent negotiable call (785)564-1173.

MALE SUBLEASER needed. Two-bedroom apartment. Private parking, dishwasher, washer/ dryer. $262.50 a month. Available January. 716 Humboldt. Contact Casey (785)341-1162.

MALE SUBLEASERS needed. spring semester. Call (785)317-7558.

NEED A subleaser from January to May for four-bedroom apartment. Three guys there now. $285 per month, washer/ dryer. 1215 Bertrand. Please help! (785)565-1496.

ONE-BEDROOM IN three-bedroom house. Close to campus with washer and dryer. Available January 1 $150/ month. (620)245-7681.

ONE-BEDROOM. $400/ month, water and trash paid, lease January- May. (785)537-9379.

ROOM FOR rent during spring semester. $280/ month includes water, trash, laundry. Has all amenities including fireplace. Low bills. (785)539-1272. mrl8888@ksu.edu.

SPACIOUS TWO-BEDROOM/ one bath. All utilities paid except electric. Available end of December. Call (785)806-3068.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for one-bedroom apartment. $379.56 rent/ month starting January 1. Includes utilities. Pets are allowed. (785)770-3060.

SUBLEASER NEEDED from January 1- July 30 to share a two-bedroom duplex. Very close to campus. Rent is negotiable. Call (913)269-2622.

SUBLEASER NEEDED, great two-bedroom house. Fully furnished. five minutes from Union. Private parking, available now, $380, all bills paid. (785)539-3408.

SUBLEASER NOW or by January 1. Block to campus, walk to Aggieville. All December bills paid. (785)565-8199.

SUBLEASER WANTED for January, brand new carpet, two-bedroom. Chase Manhattan Apartments. Email at ben_kern1@hotmail.com or call Ben (520)275-1344.

SUBLEASER WANTED for spring semester. One-bedroom, one block from campus. Trash and water included. Call (785)776-6963 for details.

SUBLEASER WANTED January- July. Two-bedroom apartment. $575 a month plus electric. Laundry facilities. Dishwasher. Water and trash paid. (785)820-0879.

SUBLEASER WANTED: one-bedroom. January 1- August 1. $370. Water and trash paid. (785)539-7653.

SUBLEASER(S) WANTED for nice two-bedroom apartment at 11th and Laramie. Total rent $475/ month available in January. Call Dana at (785)565-0662.

SUBLEASERS NEEDED- January. Nice two-bedroom apartment, two balconies, one bath, fireplace, fully equipped kitchen. Trash paid. $640/ month. (785)317-4418.

SUBLEASERS NEEDED. Close to campus, Aggieville, and City park. nice two-bedroom apartment. $270/ month. Available January. Call Michele or Amy (785)539-5334.

SUBLEASERS WANTED for spring semester. Two-bedroom, one and one-half bath apartment. Water/trash paid, laundry facilities, very close to campus, (785)658-5680.

SUBLEASERS WANTED January- May or longer if needed. Two-bedroom basement apartment. Close to campus. Very nice and clean. Call (785)776-2483.

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE and one-half bath. Close to Aggieville/ campus. (785)341-9733.

WANTED: SUBLEASERS for extra clean, two-bedroom apartment within walking distance of campus. For more information call (785)776-9992.

200 service directory

210 Resume/ Typing

ARE YOU a procastinator? I can help you type papers or projects. Call Rhonda (785)539-3570.

220 Weight Loss & / Nutrition

LOOK BETTER, feel better, live longer. Proven, effective weight loss system and beauty care. Call Lancelot (785)223-5303, www.unicitynetwork.com/lancelot.

255 Other Services

310 Help Wanted

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/ she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

! BARTENDING $300 a day potential. No experience necessary. Training provided. Call 1-800-965-6520 ext. 144.

GET PAID For Your Opinions! Earn $15- $125 and more per survey! www.paidonlinesurveys.com

KSU STUDENTS- earn serious income! Work part-time from home. Be your own boss. We need self-motivated, ambitious young entrepreneurs! Call toll-free: (800)306-3602, ext. 4

MAINTENANCE: APARTMENT COMPLEX seeking full-time general maintenance position. Must have experience in repairs, painting, grounds keeping, make ready, etc. (785)776-3345 days.

MAKE MONEY taking Online Surveys. Earn $10-$125 for Surveys. Earn $25-$250 for Focus Groups. Visit www.cash4students.com/ksu <http://cash4students.com/ksuucinn>

OFFICE HELP and dance instructors needed for Manhattan Dance Studio. Approximately 10- 15 hours per week. Must have dance experience and be dependable. Please email NO1dancing@hotmail.com by December 5th, 2003.

PROGRESSIVE FARM 35 miles NE of Manhattan has full-time opening for personable individual who enjoys working with other non-smoking employees. Individual would assist in management of a farrow to finish operation producing F1 Gilts for breeding stock. Position also includes row cropping operation with large late model equipment. Housing provided. (785)889-4514

RECEPTIONIST NEEDED: State of the art dental practice seeking an energetic, patient oriented, self-disciplined receptionist to complement our existing staff. a dental background is preferred, but willing to train the right person. we offer a full benefit package along with a competitive salary. If you feel stuck at your current job, and are ready for a move fax your resume to (785)537-1401 attention: Kim.

STAFF RADIOGRAPHER. We are looking for a staff radiographer that is ARRT or registry eligible to work the night shift 2230 to 0700 hours. Applicant must be flexible and able to work independently. Interested and qualified personnel should contact Geary Community Hospital, 1102 St. Mary's road, Junction City, KS, 66441, fax (785)238-1700 or email to: cwitt@gchks.org, equal opportunity employer.

STEEL AND Pipe Supply Company has an immediate opening for a part-time (approximately 20- 25 hours/ week) Warehousing Assistant at our Corporate office in Manhattan. Position is responsible for extensive typing and providing various types of assistance to the Quality and Warehouse departments. Candidates must have High School diploma or G.E.D. Vocational Technology and/ or college training preferred. Must have high degree of computer skills and be proficient in Work and Excel. Also must have knowledge of general office procedures and use of Dictaphone. Interested Candidates should send resume to: Steel and Pipe Supply Company, Warehousing Assistant, P. O. Box 1688, Manhattan, Kansas 66505. Equal Opportunity Employer.

TEACHER AIDES (certificate preferred) for Kindegarden and 5/ 6 classroom at Westmoreland Elementary. Start date and salary negotiable. Single health insurance provided. Call (785)457-3732 for application or Email: caffreyt@rockcreekschools.org. Equal opportunity employer.

THE OPERATIONS branch of CNS is seeking to hire two Computer Operations Assistants. The positions involve working with the university enterprise server, processing production request: decollating/ bursting output; and delivering printouts across campus. Must be able to work 10- 30 hours per week, including weekends, holidays, school breaks, and summer months. Applicants with two or more years of employment potential and/ or work study eligibility will be given preference. Hourly salary is $5.75. Contact Virginia Nowland at (785)532-4941. Applications can be picked up at Hale Library room 14 and will be accepted until 5pm Wednesday, December 10.

310 Help Wanted

THE OPERATIONS branch of CNS is seeking to hire a Student Computer Operator for third shift. Job responsibilities include operating the Multiprise server; processing production jobs; printing and running cleanup output as needed; as well as other duties that may arise. Candidate must be able to work between the hours of 1:30am and 7:30 am Wednesday and Fridays and midnight to 9:00am every other Saturday. they must also be able to work weekends, holidays, breaks and summer months. Experience with computers is a plus. Applicants with two or more years of employment potential will be given preference. Work study is preferred, but not required. Hourly salary is $7.00 per hour. Applications can be picked up at hale Library room 14 and will be accepted until 5pm Wednesday, December 10.

WANTED: TUTOR for high school student. Call (785)539-8293 after 6:00pm.

WANTED: OFFICE Assistant in doctor's office. Flexible hours. Must be personable, and have computer skills. Call (785)539-3975.

330 Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

400 open market

410 Items for Sale

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS- sleeping bags, overshoes, combat boots, camouflage clothing, wool socks and gloves, much more. Also Carhartt work wear. Open Monday- Friday, 9am-5:30pm, Saturday 9am-4pm, Open Sundays till Christmas 12noon- 4pm. St. Mary's Surplus Sales, St. Marys Kansas. (785)437-2734.

415 Furniture to Buy/Sell

COUCH FOR sale. Call (785)539-6410.

465 Tickets to Buy/Sell

BIG TWELVE Football Championship Tickets. Lower level, section 123, row 14. $750 per ticket or best offer. (816)985-6174.

FOUR BIG 12 tickets, section 320. $85 each. (913)522-8572.

ONE TICKET to Big 12 Championship in Kansas City on Saturday. $75. (479)650-2513 or (479)461-3148.

500 transportation

510 Automobiles

1991 GRAND AM. Excellent condition. Factory cd. New tires. Boyfriend is a mechanic. $1200 firm. Call Katie. (785)466-1708.

1999 OLDS Alero, remote start, excellent condition, $7250. Please call (785)341-4797.

FOR SALE: 1997 Jeep Cherokee. Excellent condition. Motivated seller, $5800, or best offer. No reasonable offer will be refused. (785)223-5303.

600 travel/ trips

610 Tour Package

WINTER AND Spring Break, ski and beach trips on sale now! www.Sunchase.com or call 1-800-SUNCHASE today!

630 Spring Break

!SO MANY Spring Break companies... Book DIRECT with the established leader in Spring Break travel. Better trips, better prices. Early booking incentives. book now with a small deposit. (800)367-1252/ www.springbreakdirect.com

ACT NOW! Book 11 people, get 12th trip free. Group discounts for six plus www.springbreakdiscounts.com or (800)838-8202.

#1 SPRING Break Company in Acapulco now offers three destinations! Go loco in Acapulco, party in Vallarta, or get crazy in Cabo with BIANCHI-ROSSI TOURS. Organize a group and travel for FREE. Book now before it's too late! Call (800)875-4525 or www.bianchi-rossi.com.

NUMBER ONE spring break vacations! 110% best prices! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas, Florida, Acapulco, book now and receive free parties and meals. Campus reps wanted! 1-800-234-7 0 0 7 endlesssummertours.com

SPRING BREAK 2004. Travel with Student Travel Services, America's #1 Student Tour Operator to Jamaica, Cancun, Acapulo, Bahamas, and Florida. Now hiring campus reps. Call for group discounts. Information/ reservations 1-800-648-4849 or www.ststravel.com.

SPRING BREAK- sign up with Student Express and get FREE round trip airline tickets to over 15 International destinations- including Aruba, Dominican Republic, Costa Rica, Caribbean hot spots and more. Why go with anyone else. Limited offer- call now. Commission rep positions also available (800)787-3787or www.studentexpress.com now.

USASPRINGBREAK.COM CANCUN, Bahamas, Acapulco, Jamaica, and more. Don't be fooled! Go with quality and experience! 28 years in business. Largest Student Tour Operator (Division of USA Student Travel). Call (877)460-6077. Now hiring Campus Reps. Earn two free trips for 15 travelers and $$.

000 bulletin board

010 Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY!" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes and lowest rates. Call (785)776-1744, www.ksu.edu/ksfc

ATTORNEY, CHUCK Harper, expunge convictions before job application, paternity, custody, net free adoption, civil law, 400 Poyntz, (785)539-8100, chuckharper@msn.com

020 Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

HEADBAND FOUND December 23 on the sidewalk on the northwest side of Justin Hall. Come to room 225 Justin to identify and claim.

030 Post a Note

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a post a note.

100 housing/ real estate

105 For Rent- Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2440.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT available January 1. One block from campus. Water/ trash paid. Off-street parking. $330/ month. Call (785)539-5579.

ONE-BEDROOM CLOSE to campus. Water and trash included. Available January 1. Central air/ heat. (785)537-7810

ONE-BEDROOM STUDIO, 1219 Claflin, half block from campus. $330 deposit, $330/ month. Water/ trash paid, no pets. (785)456-2812.

SEPARATE BEDROOM, study, living room, and eat-in kitchen. No smoking, drinking, pets. (785)539-1554.

TWO-BEDROOM, WALK to campus, ample parking, quiet conditions. Furnished or unfurnished. No pets. Available December 20. (785)539-3638.

BROKE?
Find a job under the help wanted section.
Kedzie 103 532-6555

"Stay In Class At The Commons"
Now Leasing for 2003-2004!
•Fully Furnished
•2 & 4 Bedroom
•Alarm System
•Swimming Pool
•Washer/Dryer
•Computer Lab
•Fitness Center
•Permit Parking
•Tennis/Volleyball Courts
•Individual Leases
Office Hours: M-F 9-5
539-0500
university COMMONS apartments
2215 College Ave.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

APARTMENT FOR rent spacious three-bedroom, two bath apartment. One-half block from campus at 1207 Kearney. Very low utilities. $245/ person per month Very nice apartment at great location. Call (785)539-5236 or Angie at (785)537-7810

AVAILABLE JANUARY 1. Two-bedroom, newly decorated. Washer/ dryer hookup. Off-street parking. $480/ month. (785)537-2119, 8- 5pm, (785)539-2347 after 5pm.

EFFICIENCY, TWO/ three-bedroom units immediately available. (785)341-4496.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, all appliances including washer and dryer. Only three years. Ready for spring semester. (785)556-6899.

JANUARY- ONE-BEDROOM-$315, two-bedroom-$475. No pets. (785)587-0399.

NEWLY REMODELED two-bedroom apartments available January 1st, all utilities paid, $600/ month. Call McCullough Development Inc. (785)776-3804.

NEWLY REMODELED two-bedroom, one bath basement apartment, no pets, water and trash paid, $450/ month. Call McCullough Development, Inc. (785)776-3804.

NICE ONE-BEDROOM apartments. Close to campus. Water and trash paid. $415- $430/ month. Call MDI (785)776-3804.

ONE- TWO-BEDROOM apartment and houses. Available January 1 and now. Close to campus. www.rent-apm.com/ (785)539-4357.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT in quiet six-plex at 1811 Platt. Available January 1, 2004. Unfurnished, central air, parking, water and trash paid. No pets. $370 per month. Call KSU Foundation at (785)532-7569 or (785)532-7541.

ONE-BEDROOM AVAILABLE January 1. Rent $365. Call Amy (913)709-6283.

SEPARATE BEDROOM, study, living room and eat-in kitchen. No smoking, drinking, or pets. (785)539-1554.

TWO, three, and four-bedroom apartments. Close to campus, laundry, and parking. Call (785)537-6017.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

STUDIO APARTMENT and one-bedroom, close to campus. No pets. $280/ month. 1030 Kearney. Call (785)537-0177.

STUDIO APARTMENT available January 1st located in the Wareham hotel. Water and trash paid, $405/ month. Call McCullough Development Inc. (785)776-3804.

SUBLEASERS WANTED, two- three-bedrooms. All bills paid except phone and internet. One block to campus, one block to Aggieville. $260/ month per person. (785)539-9751.

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE block to campus. New carpet/ flooring/ some utilities paid. $660/ month, or best offer. (785)539-4641.

TWO OR three-bedroom, spacious. Close to campus or city library. Dishwasher, central air, laundry facility. No pets. (785)539-0866.

TWO PLUS bedroom, one block to campus. New carpet/ flooring/ some utilities paid. $620/ month. (785)539-4641.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT available immediately. $230/ person. Free cable (785)313-1435. Please leave a message.

TWO-BEDROOM BASEMENT, near City Park, washer/ dryer, no pets, $450. Available January 1st (785)539-1145.

TWO-BEDROOM TOWNHOUSE, two and one-half bath plus unfinished basement. Washer/ dryer hookups. Water/ trash paid. No pets. (785)539-5627.

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bath basement apartment, no pets, water and trash paid. $360/ month. Call McCullough Development, Inc. (785)776-3804.

VERY NICE two-bedroom apartment for rent, starting January 1st. Cats allowed. Call (785)539-5563 or (785)341-5441 for more information.

115 Rooms Available

ROOMMATE WANTED to sublease. Close to campus/ Aggieville. Washer/ dryer, $300 plus utilities. Call Nicole (785)776-6099 or (785)565-8785.

THREE ROOMS in large house available, block from campus. No pets. washer/ dryer, off-street parking. $250/ month. (785)317-1333.

120 For Rent- Houses

1724 WINNE. Four-bedroom, one and one-half bath. Updated and spacious. New carpet, paint, and ceramic tile. Close to football stadium. $850/ month plus utilities. Available December. (785)556-2652.

LARGE NICE houses- June or August leases. Call now for best selections. www.foremostproperty.com or (785)539-4641.

THREE AND four-bedroom houses and apartments available January 1 and now. Close to campus. www.rent-apm.com/ (785)539-4357.

120 For Rent- Houses

TIRED OF Apartment Living? Manufactured Homes For Rent. Pets Allowed Beautifully maintained communities. Pool, playground, community center. Professionally managed. Call Manager for more details. (785)539-5841.

135 For Sale- Mobile Homes

16X76 1994 Shult. Excellent condition. Three-bedroom, two bath, dishwasher, disposal, washer/ dryer, all appliances stay. $23900 or best offer. (785)587-4661.

1976 18X70 trailer in Countryside Estates. $4000 or best offer. (785)313-3147 or (620)767-8279.

FOR SALE: two-bedroom, one bath mobile home. Well cared for, owners are December graduates. $4800 or best offer. Please call (785)323-0055.

FURNISHED 12X60 newly remodeled, pets allowed. 10X20 storage shed. Five minutes to campus. $16000 or best offer. (785)770-8794.

145 Roommate Wanted

A ROOMMATE needed January- July at 1836 Todd, very close to campus, washer/ dryer. $275 for rent. (785)341-8498.

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed for three-bedroom, two bath $210 rent and one-third utilities. Call Jessica (785)776-1621.

FEMALE ROOMMATE WANTED. $275/ month, clean, quite apartment. Washer/ dryer. 1017 Vattier. Ask for Jacquelyn (785)341-3769.

GREAT PLACE, great location, great people. Female roommates wanted for spring semester sublease. Large rooms, private parking, common rooms furnished, washer/ dryer. Call Lindsay at (785)587-0296.

MALE OR female for spring semester. Nice two-bedroom apartment across street from Aggieville and campus. 1212 Bluemont (316)641-2636 leave a message.

MALE ROOMMATE needed next semester, 1850 Claflin, fully furnished bedroom, kitchen, living, two bath, DSL internet, $270/ month negotiable (785)539-5429.

MALE ROOMMATE to share newer mobile home. $150/ month. (785)770-9547.

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share a two-bedroom house. Five minutes from the Student Union. Rent $275. (785)539-9981

MALE, WALK to class, lower level. All furnished. Washer/ dryer without meter. (785)539-1554.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for clean three-bedroom, two bath, new house. Available January. For more information call (785)770-9206.

ROOMMATE NEEDED starting January at 1321 Pierre. Close to City Park, washer/ dryer/ trash included. $225 for rent. Call (785)224-9704.

Deadlines

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run.
CALL 532-6555

ClassifiedRATES

1 DAY
20 words or less $8.00
each word over 20 20¢ per word

2 DAYS
20 words or less $9.40
each word over 20 25¢ per word

3 DAYS
20 words or less $11.05
each word over 20 30¢ per word

4 DAYS
20 words or less $12.25
each word over 20 35¢ per word

5 DAYS
20 words or less $13.35
each word over 20 40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

TO PLACE AN AD
Go to Kedzie 103 (across from the K-State Student Union). Office hours are Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The office is open except on holidays.

COST QUALITY | Department heads, professors believe K-State students' tuition dollars put to good use

Continued from Page 1

Troyer said he pays about $105.75 per credit hour this semester, but remembers paying only $63 per credit hour in his first semester.

The increase, he said, has given him a reason to worry.

"If the tuition continues to rise, I think that you are going to see a decline in the number of students who are going to attend college," he said.

Holen said students in the College of Education are not responsible for any additional purchase of equipment, such as computers. Computers are available to check out within the college.

Despite no additional fees, Troyer said he has made some costly textbooks purchases.

On average, he has paid anywhere from $350 to $525 each semester.

Small purchases like making copies at Kinko's and supplies for creative lessons also come into effect, he said.

Overall, though, Troyer said he feels he is getting his money's worth.

"I have been pleased with the education that I have been paying for, he said."

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

Two years ago, the College of Engineering had 60 percent of its faculty leave to find higher paying jobs in the industry.

As a result, Terry King, dean for the College of Engineering, said the college has been trying to reallocate money into the faculty salaries.

This is where student fees come in.

"Students who are taking engineering classes pay a higher tuition to help with the salaries of faculty members," King said. "It has made a little bit of a difference in the last year or so, but the market out here isn't quite as strong as it has been."

King said the additional $10 per credit hour for engineering classes was supported by the students. The college also has an additional equipment fee of $14 per credit hour.

"They see the value that they're getting," King said. "In our disciplines, they see it as a good investment."

Zach Stover, student senator for engineering and junior in information systems, said the increase in fees is not the only additional item for which he is required to pay. Stover also has to buy equipment for some of his computer classes, ranging from expensive being a piece of software to a set of floppy disks.

Calculators and certain materials for manufacturing classes also are items students may have to pay for over the course of their education in the college, King said.

Compared to other schools, though, King said K-State's College of Engineering offers the best deal to its in-state students.

"K-State engineering has a really good reputation for quality education," he said. "It's a lot cheaper than going out of state."

COLLEGE OF VETERINARY MEDICINE

In-state tuition and fees at the College of Veterinary Medicine are about $10,590 this year. Out-of-state tuition and fees run at about $29,389 this year.

Ralph Richardson, dean for the College of Veterinary Medicine, said the high costs do not stop students from applying to the college.

"Our economic challenges have been great, but we have been pretty successful," he said.

Richardson said students pay $275 each semester in privilege fees. In-state tuition is $251 per credit hour, while out-of-state tuition is $720.75 per credit hour.

Sarah Sweet, senior in veterinary medicine and co-president of the college, said tuition for the class of 2004 is capped at 15 credit hours. Rather than paying by the credit hour, the college provided one single cost for each student.

Classes beyond 2005 will pay the linear tuition by the credit hour, she said.

In addition, students are responsible in paying for clothing, surgical supplies and their own stethoscopes.

A majority of the students make these types of purchases through the Kansas Veterinary Education Supply Service, a non-profit organization that provides books and supplies to veterinary students and veterinarians.

Corbin Hodges, president of the college and junior in veterinary medicine, said that despite state budget cuts and tuition increases, the college has maintained strong quality.

"The quality of education that is offered has not appeared to be effected," he said. "There is a great difference in the cost between in-state and out-of-state students, but as an in-state student, I feel very confident in saying that I am receiving my money's worth of education."

But as an out-of-state student, Sweet said the cost of education seems a little high.

"Many students leave vet school with well over $100,000 in student loan debt," she said. "For instance, my loan debt will approach $125,000, and I have classmates who will have even more than I do. People need to know how expensive this education is."

COLLEGE OF HUMAN ECOLOGY

Dean Carol Kellett said students in the College of Human Ecology pay a variety of amounts for their schooling depending on their field of study.

Some majors require the use of computers, typically during the freshman and sophomore years, which adds $24 per credit hour to their tuition. Also, some programs have required classes that are taught in the College of Business Administration or the College of Architecture, Planning and Design, both of which charge extra money per credit hour.

Kellett also said some programs, such as interior design, require expensive specialized supplies.

Although the price of college might vary for human ecology students, within four years, all of them will have the extra cost of a required computer, although this requirement will be implemented first in the interior design program and then in the apparel design program.

Kellett said that although college officials discussed charging more per credit hour like the colleges of Business, Engineering, and Architecture Planning and Design currently do, there was no official plan to do so.

"We've talked about it in terms of salaries," she said. "The areas where we are less competitive in salary than our peer institutions is primarily in hotel and restaurant management. We have gaps, but not as serious as they had in engineering or business, in other areas in our college."

With tuition steadily increasing for the past two years, Kellett said the human ecology college has been able to use the extra money toward undergraduate equipment and technology. She said Justin Hall is completely wireless, and they were able to hire a technology coordinator for support help in the college labs, among other technological advances.

COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES

In the College of Arts and Sciences, money from increased tuition has gone to improve advising by adding more advising support, among other things, Dean Stephen White said.

"What it's done is allow faculty to take on a reasonable amount of advisees and still do the teaching and research," he said. "So, in a way, it's enhanced the opportunity that students have for quality advising in their program."

White said GTA salaries also have increased, allowing different departments more flexibility in recruitment, which, in turn, provided undergraduates with higher quality GTAs.

"GTA stipends lagged further behind peer institutions than do some other areas," White said. "That was a n enormous shot in the arm – it was a big help."

Because the College of Arts and Sciences is so diverse, White said that besides the same $117 cost per credit hour, it wasn't possible to say how much an "average" student in his college paid.

White said enrollment in the arts and sciences has increased 10 percent over the last five years, and in the last two years it lost $1.8 million due to state cuts. So, despite the increased tuition, the college has had to make decisions on what to maintain and what to cut and still make sure students are still getting what they are paying for.

"Within our college, we've had to make decisions about whether or not to put faculty in classrooms and offer the same amount of sections, or to have fewer sections and increase our equipment purchases," he said. "Our philosophy has been to provide the highest quality instructional support on the human side. We want to make sure we have qualified staff teaching the sections and that we have enough sections to accommodate students."

However, White said college officials did recognize the need for equipment.

"We are trying to figure out what we can do with the equipment money that we have, which is somewhat minimal right now, and have the highest impact on the quality of the students' education at K-State," he said.

COLLEGE OF ARCHITECTURE, PLANNING AND DESIGN

In the College of Architecture, Planning and Design, students pay an extra $14 per credit hour for technology, which includes computing, tools and desk furnishings among other things. This extra money also goes toward the salaries of technological help staff, Dean Dennis Law said.

Although this is the first semester for the technology fee, Law said the battle to implement it has taken a while.

"We and KU are the last universities in the Big 12 to have a technology fee," he said. "Our competition has had it for years. I've been fighting for it for nine years."

One of the bigger tools the extra money goes toward is an instrument that simulates sunlight during different times of the day and year for Manhattan. Students can use this to find out how different angles of the sun will affect their building models.

Another example Law gave was of an instrument that simulates a 3-D building so the student can get an idea of what it would feel like to walk through a building that has not yet been built.

Law said he thinks students actually get more than they pay for in the College of Architecture, Planning and Design.

"What they pay for is actually a fraction of what it costs to educate them," he said.

"They're hugely subsidized by state taxes as well as private funding and scholarships. It's a bargain here.

"And our students are definitely getting more from their investment than anyone else. They can pay a lot more at another university and not get an education as highly ranked as it is here."

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Students in the College of Business Administration pay an extra $10 per credit hour this year, which goes to increase faculty salaries. The Kansas Board of Regents approved the principle of a $5 per credit hour increase every year for three years beginning in the 2002-03 school year. After receiving the $5 per credit hour increase the last two years, Dean Yar Ebadi said he hopes the increase is carried on for another year, which would up the increase to $15 per credit hour.

"In order for us to have the quality of education that we want to provide for our students, we need to recruit and then retain the caliber of faculty that we have," he said.

"The salary gaps of the College of Business faculty was quite large, and in order to catch up or close that gap with peer institutions or any comparable groups, we had to come up with this surcharge."

Ebadi said business students were in favor of the increase, and he appreciated that.

"They didn't want to lose the best and the brightest faculty," he said.

In the business college, Ebadi said one program doesn't have significantly higher costs than another, and there are no programs that require specialized equipment.

Ebadi used the college's 94 percent placement rate to defend his opinion that students are getting what they are paying for.

"Our graduates find jobs even in these challenging times," he said.

"Those who hire our graduates are very happy with the education they have and want to come back to hire more. So, I think not only we feel that we provide the kind of quality education that the business world needs, but also outsiders value the level of education we provide our students."

Trying to sell your car?
Try the Collegian Classifieds
532-6555

13th ANNUAL X-MAS LIGHTING CEREMONY
Auntie Mae's Parlor
FEATURING HOLIDAY ROCK LEGEND SLICK RHODES
DEC 4TH SANTA WILL BE HERE WITH LOTS OF GIFTS
WWW.AUNTIEMAES.COM

January Intersession 2004
January 5-21, 2004

Time Is Running Out. Enroll today! To enroll and/or obtain an Intersession schedule with complete course descriptions and prerequisites, visit our Web site at http://www.dce.ksu.edu/intersession. If you prefer, call (785) 532-5687 or 1-800-432-8222 or visit the Division of Continuing Education at 131 College Court Building, 1615 Anderson Ave., Manhattan, KS. Enrollment deadline is January 5 unless indicated with an *.

Tuition for on-campus coursework will be $129 per undergraduate resident credit and $178 per graduate credit hour, plus $1 per day special and health fees. A student services fee and/or materials fee may be required for some courses. A $14/ credit hour fee is assessed for Engineering and Architecture courses.

Course Title	Course #	Ref#	Credit	Dates	Times
AGRICULTURE
Practicum in Bakery Technology	GRSC 701	94101	1 UG/G	1/12- 1/16	MTWUF 8:00 AM-4:30 PM
ARCHITECTURE, PLANNING, & DESIGN
Portfolio Design Studio	IAR 406	94142	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:30 PM
Problems: Car Design Studio	IAR 406	94143	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 5:00 PM-8:30 PM
Problems: Portfolio Design Studio	IAR 830	94140	3 G	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:30 PM
Problems: Car Design Studio	IAR 830	94128	3 G	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 5:00 PM-8:30 PM
Sketching with Watercolor	LAR 741	94144	2 UG/G	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:30 PM
ARTS & SCIENCES
Forensic Medicine & Investigation of Death	ANTH 684	94132	3 UG/G	1/5-1/20	MTWUFSa 8:00 AM-5:00 PM
Special Studies: Experiments in Color: Theory & Application	ART 300	94107	2 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 10:00 AM-3:00 PM
Problems: Practical Aspects of NMR	CHM 799	94104	0	1/5-1/21	MTWU 9:00 AM-12:30 PM
Independent Studies in Dance: Intensive on Applied Movement Fundamentals	DANCE 599	94133	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 9:00 AM-12:30 PM
Topics: America's Nuclear Age	HIST 200	94113	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 9:00 AM-1:00 PM
War Films & American Culture 1945-2000	HIST 200	94103	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 1:00 PM-5:00 PM
Topics: Religion & the American Civil War	HIST 200	94102	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 6:00 PM-9:30 PM
Seminar in Kinesiology: Sport & Exercise Personality	KIN 590	94108	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 9:00 AM-12:30 PM
History of Musical Instruments	MUSIC 310	94116	2 UG	1/5-1/14	MTWUF 9:00 AM-12:30 PM
Jazz in Kansas City & the Southwest	MUSIC 424	94117	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:30 PM
Social Construction of Serial Murder	SOCIO 501	94123	3 UG/G	1/5-1/20	MTWUF 1:00 PM-5:30 PM
Business & Economic Statistics I	STAT 350	94110	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 8:05 AM-11:45 AM
Topics: Role Theory in Action	THTRE 630	94121	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 12:00 PM-5:00 PM
Topics: Women and Islam	WOMST 500	94150	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 8:30 AM-12:00 PM
BUSINESS
Advanced Prob. in Finance: Finance for Entrepreneurs	FINAN 898	94100	3 G	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF 9:00 AM-12:30 PM
Business, Government, and Society	MANGT 596	94141	3 UG/G	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF 8:30 AM-11:45 AM
Marketing	MKTG 400	94115	3 UG	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF 8:30 AM-11:45 PM
Retailing	MKTG 541	94119	3 UG	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF 8:30 AM-11:45 PM
International Marketing	MKTG 544	94124	3 UG	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:15 PM
Sports Marketing	MKTG 630	94122	3 UG/G	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF 8:30 AM-11:45 AM
Intro to TQM	MANGT 300	94120	1 UG	1/9- 1/13	F 4:30 PM-10:00 PM MT 5:00 PM-9:30 PM
EDUCATION
Topics: Leadership and Spirituality	EDADL 502	94126	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 1:00 PM-5:00 PM
IS/Stress Management	EDCEP 502	94127	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 3:30 PM-7:30 PM
Topics: The Study of Happiness	EDCEP 786	94129	2 UG	1/7-1/21	MTWUF 3:00 PM-5:15 PM
Stress Management for Teachers, Counselors, Administrators	EDCEP 802	94125	3 G	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 3:30 PM-7:30 PM
Teaching as a Career	EDSEC 102	94130	1 UG	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF
Special Topics: Teaching Adolescent Literature	EDSEC 786	94131	1UG	1/14- 1/21	TWUF 4:30 PM-7:00 PM
ENGINEERING
AutoCAD for Engineering & Construction	ARE 311	94105	2 UG	1/5- 1/20	MTWUF 8:00 AM-12:00 PM
Introduction to Information Technology	CIS 101	94146	1 UG	1/5- 1/7	MTW 8:00 AM-12:10 PM
Introduction to Microcomputer Spreadsheet Applications	CIS 102	94147	1 UG	1/8- 1/12	MUF 8:00 AM-12:10 PM
Introduction to Microcomputer Database Applications	CIS 103	94148	1 UG	1/13- 1/15	TWU 8:00 AM-12:10 PM
Introduction to Microcomputer Word Processing	CIS 104	94149	1 UG	1/16- 1/21	TWF 8:00 AM-12:10 PM
Topics in Construction Management: Tilt-Up Concrete Structures in Construction Management	CNS 644	94118	2 UG/G	1/5- 1/16	MTWUF 8:30 AM-11:30 AM
Intro to TQM	DEN 300	94145	1 UG	1/9- 1/13	F 4:30 PM-10:00 PM MT 5:00 PM-9:30 PM
HUMAN ECOLOGY
Topics in FSHS: Marital Infidelity	FSHS 300	94137	3 UG	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF 9:30 AM-1:00 PM
Topics in FSHS: Introduction to Marriage & Family Therapy	FSHS 300	94138	3 UG	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF 8:00 AM-12:00
Topics: Building Intimate Relationships	FSHS 300	94135	3 UG	1/5- 1/21	MTWU 8:45 AM-12:30
Seminar in Long Term Care Administration	GERON 610	94112	3 UG/G	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF 5:00 PM-8:30
VETERINARY MEDICINE
Fundamental Concepts in Emerging Pathogenic Disease	DMP 770	94109	3 CR	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF 8:30 AM-11:4

K-STATE Division of Continuing Education
www.dce.ksu.edu/intersession

IN A SPECIAL GAMEDAY

Full coverage of this weekend's matchup for the Big 12 title.

They met in 2000 for the title. Will history play a part in a game of underdog versus football's powerhouse?

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

www.kstatecollegian.com | Friday, December 5, 2003 | Vol. 108, No.73

Man arrested for cocaine production

By James Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A man was arrested Wednesday on charges of manufacturing crack cocaine, and police said his arrest was related to Monday's arrests of five people on charges of cocaine distribution.

Bobby Franklin Jr., 27, was taken into custody and then released on $50,000 bond.

During the arrest, police seized paraphernalia used in the production and distribution of crack cocaine, 27 grams of cocaine, 61 grams of marijuana and $287 in cash.

The drugs were estimated at a street value of $3,000.

Franklin, 2133 Sloan, was arrested as part on an ongoing investigation into the distribution of cocaine and marijuana, according to a Riley County Police Department press release.

See COCAINE Page 12

Quality of education

The Collegian takes a look at the quality of education at K-State with a three-part series breaking down each of the eight colleges on the Manhattan campus.

Educators address state of classrooms

University colleges strive to maintain quality services

By Edie Hall and Amy Preston
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Due to a Crumbling Classrooms initiative a few years ago, around $30 million was earmarked for updating classrooms and infrastructures. However, there are still leaky roofs, freezing cold classrooms and mold growing on some walls.

Officials from each of the eight colleges speak about the buildings in which their students spend their time, and what each is doing to try to improve the quality of learning environments K-State has to offer.

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

Teamwork theories have allowed some of the classrooms in College of

See BUILDING QUALITY Page 5

19th Ft. Riley soldier dies from injuries

Army sergeant succumbs to wounds sustained during Nov. 8 attack in Iraq

By James Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A Fort Riley soldier died Tuesday from wounds sustained during an attack that also claimed the lives of two other Fort Riley soldiers.

Sgt. Ryan Young, 21, died at Walter Reed Army Medical Center in Washington, D.C., of wounds he sustained in Fallujah, Iraq, on Nov. 8.

An improvised explosive device hit Young's vehicle, causing the injuries. The incident is under investigation, according to a Fort Riley press release.

Christie Vanover, public affairs officer at Fort Riley, said she could not release details about Young's injuries.

Young was first treated at an army base in Germany before being transferred to Walter Reed Army Medical Center on Nov. 14.

Almost 300 Fort Riley soldiers have been injured during Operation Iraqi Freedom, including 145 who were wounded in action.

Young is the 19th Fort Riley soldier to die during Operation Iraqi Freedom.

Young, from Corona, Calif., was a member of Company A, 1st Battalion, 16th Infantry, 1st Brigade, 1st Infantry Division. He joined the army in July 2000 and has been stationed at Fort Riley since January 2001. He deployed to Iraq in September of this year.

The Associated Press reported that 442 U.S. soldiers have died during the operation in Iraq.

Dance with heart

WinterDance incorporates diverse styles of dance

By Tony Herrman
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Dressed in red unitards, blue and yellow knee pads and multicolored beanies, the seven dancers lifted, fell and jumped all over the stage.

The dance "Sorting" began Thursday night's sold out performance of WinterDance 2003.

"It's a mix of pure entertainment and intense artistry," said Mary A. Chase, assistant professor of dance. "Anyone will walk away experiencing a broad range of emotion and expression."

WinterDance is comprised of a variety of different dances, including modern dance, movement theater (when the dancer is an actor and the dance tells a story), ballroom, classical ballet on pointe and tap.

All the different types of dance ensure there is something for everyone in WinterDance, even those who aren't dance aficionados.

"It's great for the same reason I think the Ed Sullivan show was popular," David Ollington, WinterDance coordinator, said. "There is a variety of performances, and you knew if you didn't like it, it wouldn't be on long."

Amanda Slead, sophomore in dance and elementary education, choreographed one piece and danced in another.

See WINTERDANCE Page 12

Chris Hanewinckel | COLLEGIAN

Dancers, from left to right, Laura Parkhurst, senior in theater; Whitney Boomer, senior in theater; Amy Hurrelbrink, senior in theater; and Lacey Beamon, junior in technology, perform the dance "Fly" during their dress rehearsal Wednesday night in Nichols Theater.

Emily Happer | COLLEGIAN

Tim Taylor, freshman in theater, spins Candace Feldman, sophomore in theater, during the WinterDance 2003 dress rehearsal Thursday. They were in the salsa dance, "Tres Deseos."

Injured students return to classes following near-fatal car accident

By Sarah Rice
KANSAS STTE COLLEGIAN

She calls it a miracle.

Just two weeks ago, Mollie Delph, sophomore in pre-health, was in a hospital bed at the University of Kansas Medical Center with a suspected cracked vertebrae in her neck, a bruised lung and broken rib.

Now, she is recovering at home in Dunlap, Ill., and will be back at K-State in January.

Delph, along with Eric Lovig, junior in biology; Evan Riordan, junior in pre-pharmacy; and Kevin Armstrong, junior in economics, were driving to the K-State football game in Lincoln, Neb., on Nov. 14 when a car crossed the center line on U.S. Highway 77 near Randolph, Kan. Riordan, the driver, went on to the right shoulder and then overcorrected and hit an oncoming car driven by Jeffrey Tryon of Waterville, Kan. The car then went airborne, landing on top of a vehicle driven by Donna Logback of Manhattan.

Tryon and Armstrong were killed instantly.

Delph was airlifted to KU Med in Kansas City, Kan., with severe head trauma.

Doctors feared brain injury and kept her sedated in the neuro-intensive care unit, but she surpassed expectations.

"There have been countless miracles involved in this," she said. "I got out of the hospital after 10 days, and while in the hospital I did speech therapy and physical therapy."

Doctors also found that her original injuries weren't as bad as expected. Her neck vertebrae was not cracked and her rib was not broken.

See UPDATE Page 12

INSIDE

A look at the 6th-seeded volleyball team's weekend tournament.

Sports, Page 8

HEADLINES

The Associated Press

Insurgents' funding
A spate of U.S. raids on Iraqi smugglers signals a new strategy to deny the guerrilla insurgency one of its chief recruiting assets: money. If U.S. military strategists are correct, the insurgency will soon face a financial crisis when old Iraqi dinar notes bearing the face of Saddam Hussein will be worthless.

Rush's drugs
Investigators who raided the offices of Rush Limbaugh's doctors said in search warrants filed Thursday that the conservative radio commentator engaged in illegal drug use and "doctor shopping" for prescription painkillers.

Limbaugh

Kidnapping
The man charged in the kidnapping of a North Dakota college student was ordered detained on $5 million bail Thursday after his lawyer said he wanted to stay behind bars for his own safety. As Alfonso Rodriguez Jr., 50, appeared in court, law officers in two states continued the search for 22-year-old Dru Sjodin, missing since Nov. 22.

Tariffs scrapped
President Bush on Thursday scrapped import tariffs he had imposed last year to help the battered U.S. steel industry, defusing a threatened trade war with Europe and Japan but creating political problems for himself in states that could be key in next year's election.

DON'T FORGET

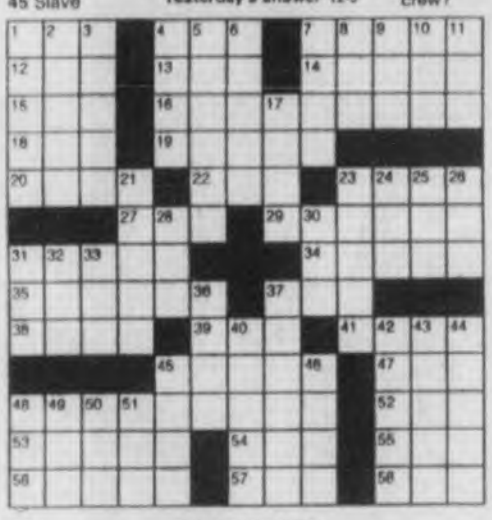
■ After Hours will have free carriage rides, spaghetti, crafts and a viewing of "Sweet Home Alabama" beginning at 9 tonight at the K-State Student Union.

Weather

Today: Sunny, windy 39 | 15
Saturday: Mostly sunny 43 | 30

Claflin Books and Copies
1814 Claflin Rd. (785) 776-3771
www.claflinbooks.com Fax: (785) 776-1009

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer



ACROSS
1 Beatnik's abode
4 Discombobulate
7 Phobias
12 Melody
13 Dined
14 Stan's pal
15 Tackle moguls
16 Perk up
18 X rating
19 Small protuberance
20 Egyptian cross
22 "— was saying, ..."
23 "Sad to tell, ..."
27 Wildcatter's quest
29 Acquire
31 Skilled
34 Ring contender
35 React to smelling salts
37 Card-table call
38 In such a manner
39 Jane Smiley novel
41 Stare stupidly
45 Slave
47 Vast expanse
48 Be transient
52 It's for the course!
53 Intense campaign
54 Shade provider
55 NASA space-walk
56 Logic
57 CSA soldier
58 Trawler equipment

DOWN
1 Trattoria entree
2 Clay of "American Idol"
3 Quaff
4 Moolah
5 Lacking keys
6 "Song of the South" uncle
7 Equine kid
8 Architectural addition
9 Will Smith biopic
10 "6 Rms — Vu"
11 Witness
17 Leif's father
21 Aspirations
23 In the midst of
24 Law, to Livy
25 Honest politician
26 U.A.R. country, once
28 Hirsute Addams
30 Sapporo sash
31 Performance
32 Homer's expletive
33 Down Under bird
36 Eerie clue
37 Popular search engine
40 Wiser, supposedly?
42 Skiers' mecca
43 Bob's partner?
44 1/24 pure gold
45 Visibility hindrance
46 Pyramid, actually
48 Rather's employer
49 Flamenco outcry
50 Least amt.
51 UFO crew?

Solution time: 25 mins.

T	A	J		A	D	D	S		B	L	U	E
I	D	A		N	E	R	O		R	O	S	A
C	A	B	L	E	G	U	Y		O	N	E	S
		B	U	M		G	U	T	W	I	R	E
A	L	E	X	I	S		Z	E	N
P	A	R		A	L	P		W	I	T	C	H
E	V	E	L		Y	U	P		E	R	I	E
R	A	D	I	O		G	A	L		I	A	M
		B	U	B		L	E	S	B	O	S
W	I	R	E	T	A	P		A	P	U
O	D	O	R		T	A	P	D	A	N	C	E
O	L	L	A		A	N	T	E		A	R	K
F	E	E	L		N	E	A	R		L	Y	E

Yesterday's answer 12-5

12-5 CRYPTOQUIP

R V S W N V S S W U B Q A V N S X L V S Y F S L Q F S A N P B P R S Y K P Z Y N S A N A L P Y S, V X A V S F S U Y X F S F K P Z ?

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: ONCE THE KID HAD THE HORN ATTACHED TO HIS BIKE, HE SAID "BEEP PREPARED!"

Today's Cryptoquip Clue: F equals D

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 1! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to CryptoClassics Book 1, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475

The Cryptoquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.

© 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NAMES IN THE NEWS

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rajesh Nirgude | THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Actor Richard Gere talks with social worker Diane Cross, left, at the red light district in Bombay, India, on Tuesday. Gere met sex workers and their clients to inquire about their knowledge of AIDS.

RICHARD GERE VISITS BROTHEL WORKERS IN INDIA

Richard Gere visited brothel workers in Bombay as part of his campaign to slow the spread of HIV-AIDS in India.

Gere, who's been a vocal campaigner against HIV-AIDS in the region for several years, is preparing an AIDS awareness campaign called "The Heroes Project" with celebrities he believes can carry the message of prevention and care to the average Indian.

"Obviously, there is a huge problem, but there is light at the end of the tunnel when you see so many dedicated (aid) workers," the 54-year-old actor said Tuesday.

Aid workers estimate at least 50 percent of some 10,000 sex workers who work in Kamathipura area in downtown Bombay are HIV-positive.

"I have so many friends who are (HIV) positive. ... There's no way you should leave sick people to die," Gere told The Associated Press. "You've got to do everything you can to take care of sick people and also spend all your energy on prevention."

MYSTIKAL'S LAWYER WANTS JUDGE TO STEP DOWN

The judge who accepted rapper Mystikal's guilty plea to sexual battery shouldn't be allowed to sentence him because he has seen an "inflammatory" videotape of the assault, his lawyer says.

Mystikal

The rapper, whose real name is Michael Tyler, had been scheduled for sentencing Wednesday, but it was put off until Jan. 15 after a hearing on attorney David Bourland's complaint.

Judge Tony Marabella refused to step down, saying Bourland's request is groundless.

Tyler, 33, and two bodyguards pleaded guilty in June to sexual battery, which has a maximum 10-year prison sentence.

They'd videotaped themselves in forced sex acts with Tyler's hairstylist. The woman said Tyler accused her of stealing $80,000 worth of his checks and told her he wouldn't go to police if she did something degrading, according to prosecutor Sue Bernie. The woman has denied stealing money.

MICHAEL JACKSON'S TV DOCUMENTARY COULD HAVE SPARKED INVESTIGATION

More than a year ago, Michael Jackson let a BBC crew into his bizarre world for a TV documentary he no doubt hoped would boost his fading career.

Instead, "Living With Michael Jackson" might have triggered the child molestation case that threatens to destroy Jackson and his multimillion-dollar music empire.

Jackson

Exactly what happened is a matter of dispute, but interviews with several sources close to Jackson and the accuser's family reveal one consistent thread: The documentary set in motion a series of events that led to the pop star's arrest last month.

The TV special, broadcast worldwide last February to an audience of millions, offered images of Jackson's fairy-tale estate, Neverland, his lonely trips to Las Vegas and his lavish spending habits. It also showed him talking about sleepovers with children at Neverland and holding the hand of a cancer-stricken boy – the boy who now is Jackson's accuser.

RAY ROMANO IS BRANCHING OUT INTO CHILDREN'S BOOKS

Ray Romano, the Emmy-winning star of CBS' "Everybody Loves Raymond," is writing a children's book.

"Raymie, Dickie, and the Bean: Why I Love and Hate My Brothers" is described by the publisher as "the funny and true story of why brothers can be gross, disgusting and downright mean – but still love each other."

Romano

Romano is writing it with his brothers Richard and Robert, Simon & Schuster Books for Young Readers announced Tuesday.

"When my brothers and I weren't fighting with each other, we had a lot of fun growing up," the 45-year-old comedian-actor said in a statement.

"Now it's great as adults to collaborate with them on this book and fight with each other once again."

The blotter | Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Wednesday, Dec. 3

■ At 3:15 p.m., Bobby Franklin, 2133 Sloan, was arrested for possession of controlled substance, manufacture of controlled substance, sale of opiates and unlawful possession and sale of depressants. Bond was set at $50,000.

Thursday, Dec. 4

■ At 1:30 a.m., Jamaica Chism, Junction City, was arrested for battery and obstruction of the legal process. Bond was set at $1,500.

The planner
Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@spub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

■ The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Yan Chen at 9:30 a.m. today in Throckmorton 2024.
■ The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Monica Ribeiro Pirozi at 10 a.m. today in Shellenberger 204.
■ The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Mahmoud Abu Ghoush at 1 p.m. today in Call 206.
■ The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Dru Earls at 3:30 p.m. today in Shellenberger 204.
■ The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Basel Saleh at 3:40 p.m. today in Waters 329.
■ KSU Aikido will conduct a martial arts class from 7 to 9 tonight in Ahearn 301.
■ K-State After Hours will have free food, activities and movie from 9 p.m. to midnight tonight in the K-State Student Union.
■ ECM Christian Explorers will have their weekly dinner and activity at 5:30 p.m. Sunday at the ECM Building, 1021 Denison Ave.
■ The Lutheran Campus Ministry will meet for worship at 7 p.m. Sunday in Danforth Chapel.

Contact us

Kansas State Collegian
Kedzie 103
Manhattan, KS 66502
Display ads.....532-6560
Classified ads.....532-6555
Newsroom.....532-6556
news@spub.k-state.edu
Delivery problems.....532-6555

Corrections and clarifications

There was an error in Wednesday's Collegian. Uday Singh is a native of India, but enlisted for the army in Lake Forest, Ill. The Collegian regrets the error.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.

© Kansas State Collegian, 2003

Beaded Silver Jewelry
Greek and KSU Bracelets. Plus More see our ad in the Campus Phone Book
1346 Westloop 539-0567 The frame maker

Readers wanted.
Order your 2004 Royal Purple yearbook at www.royalpurple.ksu.edu

Fat's Bar & Grill 12th & Laramie in Aggieville
FRIDAY & SATURDAY
$4.00 Pitchers
$4.75 Fish Bowls
FRIDAY ONLY: FREE BURGERS 4-6pm

PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS
1800 Claflin Road
776-5577
We Deliver During Lunch!

Coffee Makes You Smarter!! (or at least it's fun to think so)
JAVA
Bring this coupon in during Dead Week, Dec. 8-12, to purchase 1 drink and get 1 drink FREE of equal or lesser value!
Mon-Fri: 6:30am - midnight
Sat: 7:00am - midnight • Sun: 8:00am - midnight
1219 Moro • Aggieville • 785.587.8888

SAFE RIDE
Every Weekend! Thursday, Friday, and Saturday
11:00 p.m. - 3:00 a.m.
A free service provided by the K-State Student Governing Association
Call:
539-0480

k-state after hours:
FRIDAY, DECEMBER 5TH
AT THE K-STATE STUDENT UNION
CARRIAGE RIDES (Sign up in Courtyard) 8 P.M. - 11 P.M.
• weather permitting
CRAFTS: SNOWMEN (Courtyard) 8 P.M.
• Board Games (Courtyard)
• Holiday Music
FREE FOOD (Courtyard) 10 P.M.
• Spaghetti
FREE MOVIE (Little Theater) 11 P.M.
• Sweet Home Alabama
www.ksu.edu/afterhours
Have a safe and Happy Winter break, afterhours will resume next semester!!

Nicole Donnert | COLLEGIAN

Judd Patterson, junior in biology and environmental chair of Van Zile Hall, collects newspapers on the second floor of Van Zile to take to the recycling center Thursday afternoon.

Halls' recycling policies undergo change

By Kristi Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Since that fateful day, when all the residents of the residence halls moved in Aug. 17, they've known recycling wasn't going to be the same.

Judd Patterson, environmental chair for Van Zile Hall and junior in biology, said everyone was informed on their first day in the halls that due to fire safety issues, no more recyclables could be stored in closets.

"Recycling in the residence halls has not been the same this year," Patterson said. "This effectively killed recycling in many halls. I know that some of the smaller halls, such as Boyd and Van Zile, decided to implement a new strategy."

This new strategy was to take the recycling into their own hands. Patterson is in charge of a weekly newspaper pickup.

"The residents save their newspapers in their rooms all week, and then on Thursdays I go room to room and collect what has been set out for me. I then take it to Howie's Recycling. This plan has been going quite smoothly," Patterson said.

Patterson said there are no restrictions on storing recyclables in rooms.

"Residents are not restricted from having recyclables in their own rooms, so that is why our program has been a success so far. I am hoping that someday a residence-hallwide policy can be adopted," Patterson said.

Patterson said even a small hall like Van Zile can collect a large amount of newspapers for recycling.

"I've completely filled my car multiple times this semester. I can imagine that if other items such as plastic bottles, aluminum cans and white paper were added it could quickly become too much for a single person to handle," Patterson said.

Patterson said transportation to Howie's already is a dilemma.

"The use of a truck and proper hauling containers would be very helpful," Patterson said.

Patterson said that after the announcement that the Department of Housing and Dining Services wasn't running the recycling in the halls, the former environmental chair resigned.

"I decided that recycling was important to me, so I ran and was elected to take her place," Patterson said.

Stefani Schrader, environmental chair for Boyd Hall and sophomore in interior design, said the hall recycles everything that Howie's accepts.

"Aluminum cans, newspaper, bottles – glass and plastic and cardboard. Everything," Schrader said.

Schrader said she has been involved with recycling in Boyd for about a year. She said the publicity chairs in the hall have done a few things to advertise the recycling.

"When we first started the program, we made door hangers and handed them out. We have made posters, but lots of the stuff is by word of mouth."

Putnam Hall no longer does any recycling as a group.

Chris Rude, president of Putnam and junior in animal science, said that after the announcement from the fire marshal that newspapers in the closet was a fire hazard, they have stopped the program.

"A few people still do recycle," Rude said. "However, we don't do it as a hall."

Rude said he was sorry to see the program go.

"It was something people enjoyed doing to help the environment. It is only too bad that we couldn't work it out for a while longer," Rude said.

Senate allocates funds for students to attend march

By Abbie Whited
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Student Senators passed a bill allocating funds for Kansas State Students for the Right to Life after much debate at Thursday night's meeting.

The organization requested $1,000 for travel to the March for Life in January in Washington, D.C.

Several senators said they felt state money should not be used for such an event because it supported one side of an issue.

Allocations Chair Eleri Griffin said the committee felt funding travel is appropriate because the event encourages education about an idea.

"We feel it's important to support students interested in both sides of an idea," she said.

Arts and Sciences Senator Christine Baker said she hoped senate would pass a bill funding student travel to a pro-choice rally in the future.

Vicki Conner, arts and sciences senator, said senators need to step back and look without personal viewpoints. Senators should vote for what constituents are interested in, she said.

"It's not about where I stand," she said. "It's about the fact that K-State students presented us with a request."

In other news, vice-chair Julie Quackenbush announced recommendations for allocation by the Diversity Programming Committee.

By the Oct. 24 deadline, DPC received 48 proposals from almost 30 campus organizations, she said. These requests totaled almost $391,000, she said, while DPC only has $100,000 in funding.

"We were able to select 15 of those requests to fund," she said. "To those we could not fund, we sent letters suggesting them to requests funds elsewhere. They were excellent proposals, but we have limited funds."

Committee discusses downtown proposals

By Joanna Rubick
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The Downtown Redevelopment Steering Committee had the third public meeting for the Downtown Redevelopment Master Planning process Thursday night.

Two new plans were presented after revising the three proposals from the Nov. 13 meeting.

The new options feature a walking/bicycle trail along Tuttle Creek Boulevard.

At the November meeting, a main concern was that there was too much room for parking in the plans. At Thursday's meeting, those concerns continued to be mentioned.

"I still see a sea of parking lots," Vincent Tracey said. "I can't see the visual tie-in between this development and the existing Poyntz."

He suggested a parking garage as an alternative.

Some felt a parking garage would not be as safe as an open parking lot, whereas others felt an open parking lot would have other dangers.

Doris Carroll said public safety issues needed to be discussed.

"Hopefully, in the future, you will speak more on what kind of safety measures will be taken," she said.

Possible traffic problems was another issue raised.

"I like some of the changes on both of these plans, but I am still concerned about the conflict between the walking traffic and automotive traffic," Carroll said. "I can envision some conflicts arising in that concern."

Mayor Mark Taussig also said he was concerned about the fate of existing companies.

"I hope there's going to be a lot of opportunity for small businesses to transition over," he said.

The next public meeting is Jan. 8.

hastings
Your Entertainment Superstore
NEED MONEY for the Holidays?
We Pay CA$H for Used CDs, DVDs & Video Games!
Up to $5 CA$H for Used CDs
Up to $10 CA$H for Used DVDs
Up to $18 CA$H for Used Video Games
Must meet buy-back requirements. Restrictions apply. See store for details.
ALL CURRENT LATE FEES FORGIVEN!
with this coupon
Offer good 12/1-12/21/03. Limit one coupon per guest per visit.
Must meet membership requirements.

Religion Directory

QuEST Campus Ministry
University Christian Church
2800 Claflin • 776.5440
(across from Taco Hut)
9:45 Contemporary Service
11:00 Breakfast and Bible Study
Natalie Holdren • www.uccks.org

Episcopal Church at K-State
5:00 p.m. Sunday
Danforth Chapel
Holy Communion
Fr. Matthew Cobb · 532-9099

ADVERTISE YOUR CHURCH HERE
Call 532-6560

FIRST LUTHERAN
10th Poyntz 537-8532
Worship
Sat. 5:30 p.m., Sun. 8:30 & 11 a.m.
Sunday School all ages 9:40 a.m.

St. Luke's Lutheran Church
330 Sunset Avenue
Saturday-
Traditional Worship 6:00 p.m.
Sunday-
Traditional Worship 8:30 a.m.
College Bible Study 9:45 a.m.
Contemporary Worship 11:00 a.m.
Campus Pastor - Eric Wood
Email: campusmn@flinthills.com
(785) 539-2604

ST MARY
CHRISTIAN
DIVINE LITU
OF THE HOL
8:00 AM NA
BUILDING, 1

MANHATTAN MENNONITE CHURCH
Sunday School 9:30, Worship 10:45
1000 Fremont • Manhattan
(785) 539-4079

WESTVIEW COMMUNITY CHURCH
8:15, 9:30, 11:00AM & 6:00PM
College and Young Married Couples Sunday School @ 9:30 & 11:00AM
Youth Ministry Opportunities
College Pastor: Ben Rotz
Senior Pastor: David Thompson
3001 Ft. Riley Blvd.
537-7173
www.westviewcommunity.com

First Baptist Church
Sunday Worship 11 a.m.
Church School 9:45 a.m.
For free transportation within city limits, call the church.
Pastors Karen & Alan Selig
2121 Blue Hills Rd.
539-8691
An American Baptist Congregation

Christ Evangelical Lutheran Church LCMS
9 a.m. Sunday School
10:00 a.m. Fellowship
10:30 a.m. Divine Worship Service
KSU - ALL FAITHS CHAPEL

Peace Lutheran Church
Worship Sundays
8:30 and 11:00
Sunday School and Adult forum 9:45
Contemporary Service 7:00 p.m.
Pastor Michael Ide
peace-lutheran@sbcglobal.net
With Christ . . . Gather . . . Grow and Go Forth!

Unitarian-Universalist Fellowship of Manhattan
481 Zeandale Road. (South on K-177 across viaduct, left on K-18 1/2 mile)
Program each Sunday at 10:45 a.m. Religious education classes for youth.
Day care for toddlers.
The Rev. David Grimm.
For information call (785) 537-2349
www.flinthills.com/~uufellow/

Faith Evangelical Free Church
• Worship at 8:00, 10:30, 12:00
• Sunday School at 9:15
• College Class at 9:15
Steve Ratliff, Senior Pastor
Brian Anderson, Assoc. Pastor
1921 Barnes Rd
1.6 Miles North of Kimball
776-2086

St. Isidore's Catholic Student Center
MASS SCHEDULE
Tuesday-Thursday 10:00 p.m.
Friday 12:10 p.m.
Saturday 5 p.m.
Sunday 9:30 a.m., 11 a.m.
Sun. 4:30 p.m., 6 p.m.
Father Keith Weber, Chaplain
711 Denison 539-7496

Lutheran Campus Ministry
Tuesday Supper, 6 p.m.
at Luther House 1745 Anderson
Sunday Evening Worship
7 p.m., Danforth Chapel
www.ksu.edu/lcm-elca
Pastor Jayne Thompson
(pastorj@ksu.edu) 539-4451
— Open to All —

First Presbyterian Church
Students Welcome!
• Sunday Worship at •
9:15 & 10:30 a.m.
801 Leavenworth St.
537-0518

You are welcome at...
FIRST ASSEMBLY OF GOD
Sunday School.....9 AM
Sunday AM Worship.....10 AM
Sunday PM Worship.....6 PM
Wednesday Prayer Meeting...7 PM
Come to Chi Alpha, Wednesday nights at 8 PM in the KSU Student Union Little Theater for worship, the Word, and friends.
2310 CANDLEWOOD DR.
MANHATTAN, KS 66503
(785) 537-7633
WWW.MANHATTANAG.ORG

Christian Science Society
Sunday 10:30 a.m.
Danforth Chapel
KSU Campus
Wed. 7:30 in Reading Room
Reading Room open Tues.-Thurs. 11-1
105 N. 4th St.

Grace Baptist Church
2901 Dickens - 2 blks. E. of of Seth Child
◆ Sunday ◆
Morning Worship
8:15 & 10:45 a.m.
Bible Classes For All Ages 9:30 a.m.
776-0424

OPINION

TO THE POINT

Money needs to be used for renovations

K-State needs to more aggressively seek out money to renovate classrooms and the infrastructures of the buildings on campus. We encourage the KSU Foundation to ask alumni for donations – not to build more buildings, but to update the ones we already have.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Paul Restivo
Katie Lane
James Hurla
Abbie Whited
Edie Hall
Andrew Lawson
Dave Skretta
Rachel Krier
Corbin H. Crable
Chris Harrop

Although it is true that some classrooms are equipped with state-of-the-art technology, the next door down might have moldy walls, a leaking roof or a lack of climate control.

In some classrooms, students cannot move in their desks without disturbing the class because of the creaks and moans the old furniture makes. Even in some high-tech classrooms, students have to wear coats because the windows don't fully insulate the room despite heating.

These are big problems. The learning environment should be at the top of the K-State administration's priority list. Not only will this help with recruitment of the best and brightest students, it also will provide type of environment K-State students deserve.

If we could conduct classes outside year round, the beauty of the K-State campus would be adequate. However, this is not an option, so we are asking for an initiative to make the inside look as good as the outside.

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@spub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Paul Restivo | EDITOR IN CHIEF Katie Lane | MANAGING EDITOR

James Hurla NEWS EDITOR
Kelly Glasscock PHOTO EDITOR
Corbin H. Crable COPY CHIEF
Dave Skretta SPORTS EDITOR
Rachel Krier THE EDGE EDITOR
Chris Harrop ONLINE EDITOR
Abbie Whited CITY/GOV EDITOR
Andrew Lawson OPINION EDITOR
Jared Jaynes AD MANAGER
Edie Hall CAMPUS EDITOR
Dana Strongin WRITING COACH
Jenny Calvert ASST. AD MANAGER

MONDAY'S OPINIONS

AMY LINK

Amy Link wishes to return to a simpler time, when buying gifts and other Christmas worries didn't weigh on her mind.

JESSE LOEWEN

These Democratic candidates don't do anything for Jesse Loewen, so he explains Monday why Bush still has his vote.

Air vs. Water

Senate makes right choice in energy bill rejection

Illustrations by Ben Dozel | COLLEGIAN

Any automotive-owning American would testify that they are a little tired of the fluctuating price of gas lately.

One would assume, then, that any attempt to stabilize and lower the price of fuel and energy would be supported by everyone and their senators alike.

JASON HEASER

As the recent filibuster of the new energy bill shows, that assumption is incorrect, and to be honest, I am completely relieved.

To anyone environmentally-minded, this bill was a battle between water conservation and agriculture support.

The energy bill, which passed through the House of Representatives, would have lowered prices and increased agriculture support by increasing funding of the development of ethanol.

The increased funding would have helped spread the use of ethanol. However, its protection for makers of the additive methyl tertiary butyl ether makes it too much for this writer to swallow.

The energy bill would have assisted the spread of ethanol through tax breaks for producers and requirements to double the usage of ethanol by 2005.

Ethanol is a corn-based substitute for gasoline, a renewable fuel source and cleaner burning fuel. I have always been in favor of its expansion.

It also is great for corn-producing states like Iowa and my home state of Minnesota. Kansas also could be incorporated in those states that will benefit from expanded ethanol use. So far, it sounds like a win-win situation for agriculture and the environment.

Methyl tertiary butyl ether is the problem.

It is an additive that first was introduced in 1979 to help eliminate smog and burn fuels cleaner. It was made a required additive for many states with smog problems in the Clean Air Act of 1992.

While it has performed that function well, it also has been accused of contaminating water supplies in more than 1,500 cities across the nation.

The additive, when leaked out of cracked underground storage tanks or spilled on the ground, can pollute underground private and municipal wells. Water polluted with methyl tertiary butyl ether has both a pungent odor and foul taste.

Methyl tertiary butyl ether has been banned in several states and was on the fast track for elimination from gas supplies during the Clinton administration.

Both the Environmental Protection Agency and the Department of Agriculture made formal pleas to the legislature to pass legislation banning the use of this additive.

What the new energy bill would have done is place a protective umbrella over the makers of methyl tertiary butyl ether and hold them without liability from lawsuits both private and governmental, placing the major burden of cleaning up on the local governments.

According to www.cnn.com, New Hampshire recently filed a lawsuit against 22 oil and refining companies, demanding that they help pay for water clean up from methyl tertiary butyl ether pollution.

The provision in the energy bill would have barred the state from going after these companies on the basis of product liability.

Most local governments are having a hard time paying their teachers and police officers. Forcing them to carry the burden of industrial malfeasance would be just bad politics and even worse for the federal relationship.

Cheers to the Senate and the democratic process of filibusters for keeping a potentially nasty taste out of our mouths.

Jason Heaser is a sophomore in political science. You can e-mail him at jrh5775@k-state.edu.

Zimbabwe suffers from poor leadership

The country of Zimbabwe once was the breadbasket of Africa, feeding millions through the sweat of its brow. Now it lies in ruins, populated by farmers who have no idea how to till the fertile land.

TAMMY JO OSBORN

This situation shows that good ideology can be fatal under the hand of a fundamentalist heavy with power. A socialist with whiplash policies, President Robert Mugabe is ruling the land with an iron hand hardened by his absolute power.

His policies, instead of creating the necessary harmony for a dichotomous land, instead have allowed for an enlarging dissonance to emerge between the ethnic populations in the country, notably the previous white farmers and the current black farmers.

Attempting to place land back in the hands of black Africans, Mugabe has failed to approach the process with logical reasoning.

Instead of allowing for the changeover to occur slowly, and for trained farmers to replace those required to leave, Mugabe removed and replaced the entire labor force of Zimbabwein one swift move.

That's his "fast-track" land reform programs. The Human Rights Watch seeks to raise awareness of Mugabe's subsequent uses of food as a political weapon to ensure his hold on power. Sadly, international agencies have little power to interfere with the manipulation of such a system.

Hungry mouths across the continent cry the story of this man's abuse of power. His role as leader has become a safety net for his own desires, and since 1987, he has maintained his role through death, coercion and fear.

The crazy thing is that he began as a freedom fighter, demanding the freedom of his people from white rule, a noble cause that many participated in during the 1960s and 1970s.

Now, his desperation to maintain power and attempts to make needed changes quickly have led to some horrifying statistics.

As of 2003, CIA estimates place inflation in Zimbabwe at over 200 percent, and about 70 percent of the population is below the poverty line and/or unemployed.

Compare that to the United States, where there is a 1.6 percent inflation rate, 12.7 percent of the population is below the poverty line and unemployment is at 5.8 percent.

You get the picture. Funny how much Americans, including me, complain about what seem to be such big issues, like gas prices.

Such a dichotomy makes it easier to put up with the frustration of finals and last week's Thanksgiving dinner sit a little heavier on the old stomach. It also makes me appreciate those farmers who, as we all know, each feed "128 people plus you!"

I hope they know I think of them when I walk through the store bursting full of easily purchased goods. We are truly blessed!

The point I hope to make is that the world is the way it is because of the choices we make. It becomes even harder to make logical decisions when we are fighting against the loss of our self-respect or loss of power.

Mugabe began as a warrior for freedom, but that freedom has been transformed into the freedom of his rule. He kills to maintain his self-respect, or power, and we would do the same if in his position.

He thinks he is doing what is right, and therefore is willing to do anything to keep himself as decision maker. How often do we make that same mistake daily?

The problem with being in a leadership position and maintaining such an attitude is that it destroys the lives of many, instead of just those close to you.

Across the world, individuals are dying of a hunger that is preventable. In this season of giving, don't forget those who have lost such subsistence and remember to be thankful.

Be thankful, and fight against the need to always be right.

Tammy Jo is a senior in political science, international studies, anthropology and pre-medicine. You can e-mail her at tammyjo@k-state.edu.

CAMPUS FOURUM | 395-4444

To the person talking trash on Jesse Tetuan: I'd like to see you say that to his face.

I want my $150 back that I paid for the Internet since it only works half the time.

Dude, I missed that article. There's actually now a city ordinance against erections? My God!

I think there are way too many drug busts in this town.

I found out this weekend that hamster droppings kinda taste like chocolate.

Hey, Collegian, I'm gonna be doing my laundry at about 7 o'clock tonight, so if you wanna come down and do a story, go right ahead.

Coldstone should call their "Gotta Have It" cups "Gluttony Cups."

Dude, I missed that article. There's actually now a city ordinance against erections? My God!

Have you ever noticed the people who think that they're being really witty just come off as being really annoying?

Yeah, I'm sitting at the K-State basketball game, and all I have to say is OU sucks.

Obesity is taking over our house.

Did you ever notice that the Simpsons always wear the same clothes?

If Jesse Tetuan's so bad, why is he starting over a senior?

My boyfriend just broke a city ordinance, but I kinda liked it.

Last night John O'Hara taught me how to shot gun a beer.

I have the best roommates I know.

Just as a reminder: isn't it illegal for a 23-year-old guy to receive oral sex from a 17-year-old girl?

Tammy I have seen your picture and I can't see why you haven't been kissed. So I was wondering: how much do you weight?

I have the best roommates I know.

I'm going to hit my roommate up for money. The KSU security envelopes are see through and she is $218 richer. Way to go Edwards Hall.

If it's illegal for guys to have an erection, is it illegal for girls to have hard nipples?

Tammy Osborn, I applaud you.

I'm going to hit my roommate up for money. The KSU security envelopes are see through and she is $218 richer. Way to go Edwards Hall.

Not enough Fourum? Visit www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

BUILDING QUALITY | Many campus buildings still crumbling despite costly renovations in recent years

Continued from Page 1

Agriculture buildings to be renovated.

Recently, Cargill donated money to create a classroom for agriculture economics that was made out of pods so that students could work more in groups and, in turn, enhance their future work skills, said George Ham, interim dean for the College of Agriculture.

"It used to be where students came out as individuals and had to learn to become members of a team," Ham said. "Some people made the transition well and some didn't. Corporations want to be able to hire students that come out of programs where they're trained as team members."

The college has a majority of its classes in Throckmorton, Shellenberger, Weber and Call halls, as well as additional classes across campus, Ham said.

Throckmorton is the college's newest facility, where classrooms opened in 1981. Since then, some of the space has been updated in addition to renovations done to Weber Hall.

Shellenberger and Call halls, Ham said, appear to be the oldest. Ham said he was not aware of any recent plans for the renovations to these halls.

Ham said the college is responsible for all of its renovations and repairs made to the buildings, and contributions from major donors, such as Cargill, assist the costs.

"Things have been a combination," Ham said. "The major renovation in ag econ was done with a gift contribution."

However, Ham said the college is cautious when accepting and working with donor money.

"We actually get some criticism of that," Ham said. "People think we're working too close with industries."

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION

There's nothing fancy about Bluemont Hall, but Michael Holen, dean for the College of Education, said the building is clean, safe and serviceable to its students and faculty – even without windows.

"We all wish it had some windows," Holen said.

Almost all education classes take place in Bluemont Hall, with a few classes in nearby Eisenhower, Denison and Cardwell halls.

In addition to its simplicity, Holen said one advantage of the building is the wireless network implemented in Bluemont a few years ago.

"We have wireless cards that are available to take to classes throughout the building," Holen said. "That way, students can work on computers in classes and hook to the network without doing anything. That's very important to us, because we try to incorporate the use of technology in almost all of the classes that we can."

Quenten Troyer, education student senator and senior in elementary education, said the availability of technology throughout the building only enhances the education the college provides.

"As teachers, we need to learn how to use the latest technology so we can inform our student how to enhance their project and be informed of what is going on in the world," Troyer said.

Alison Darby, education student senator and junior in secondary education, said improvements to technology could be made, but the smaller classrooms in the building still provide a positive learning experience.

"I believe that smaller classroom settings are more conducive to learning, and that is a big plus for education majors," Darby said.

The college recently remodeled its media center and turned it into a student center with a small library and resources for students, such as a laminating machine, die press machines and a paper cutter.

Troyer said that, most importantly, Bluemont Hall provides a comfortable learning environment.

"The seating is arranged so you can easily walk around the room and have plenty of personal space, so you do not feel cramped," he said. "It is important to feel comfortable in the room, and Bluemont Hall does a good job of doing this."

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

Classroom space in the College of Engineering is not only being designed for the advances in technology, but changes in philosophy as well.

"Now we require our students at least sometimes to work as a team on projects," said Terry King, dean for the College of Engineering. "So we designed space for teamwork."

King said the college has classes in a total of six academic buildings.

The college's newest building, Fiedler Hall, opened in 2000. Rathbone Hall was built in the mid-1980s, Durland Hall in the mid-1970s, and Ward Hall in the early 1960s. Years earlier, Seaton and Nichols halls were built.

Ward Hall, King said, is where the nuclear program is located.

Money for building maintenance and renovations comes out of the college's budget.

Currently, the college is in the process of initiating a renovation to the west wing of Seaton Hall, which should enhance the quality of space similar to Fiedler Hall, the college's best use of space, King said.

"We have a pretty good quality of all the space," he said.

Zach Stover, student senator for engineering and junior in information systems, said the proper use of space is critical – especially for a future engineer.

"In the field of engineering, it is very important to have the right equipment," Stover said. "From my experience with other students involved in the college, I get the impression that everyone is fairly satisfied with the technology available to them."

Despite the advantages of wireless Internet access, Stover said he would like to see some minor adjustments to improve the building's quality.

"Increasing the strength of the wireless Internet would be a plus, and some of the classrooms could stand to be upgraded a little bit in terms of furniture, but that's about it," Stover said.

COLLEGE OF VETERINARY MEDICINE

When buildings were constructed for the College of Veterinary Medicine, creating a family atmosphere was important.

After all, students spend over 40 hours sometimes each week in the classroom, so establishing a comfortable learning environment seemed necessary, said Ralph Richardson, dean for the College of Veterinary Medicine.

Each floor in Trotter Hall consists of a separate graduating class. Each student has his or her own lab area and work space in the classroom.

Trotter and Mosier halls are about 30 years old and have had minor renovations done to them, Richardson said.

"We get the experience of wear and tear of the infrastructure, but they are in excellent repair and condition," he said.

Because the college is a separate line item from the university, the college provides funds for the facilities, and the university, in turn, provides support. In addition, Richardson said the college has its own facilities director housed in Trotter Hall.

Sarah Sweet, co-president for the college and senior in veterinary medicine, said the quality of space in Trotter Hall is excellent for the first two years of school.

However, third-year students take classes in Frick Auditorium, which has good space but small desks and uncomfortable chairs.

Improvements that could be made, Sweet said, would be a better regulation of the temperature in a classroom as well as larger lab space.

Corbin Hodges, president of the college and junior in veterinary medicine, said the senior students spend all of their time in an impressive learning environment – the hospital.

"The hospital here at Kansas State is first-rate," Hodges said. "The college is equipped with numerous surgery suites as well as a linear accelerator for the treatment of cancer with radiation."

Despite the comments, Richardson said students and faculty work in excellent facilities.

"We would always like to be a little better, and there are certain needs, but we are fortunate to have the facilities that we have," he said.

COLLEGE OF ARCHITECTURE, PLANNING AND DESIGN

Dean Dennis Law believes in the power of the learning environment, and thus the importance of getting Seaton Court, where part of his college is housed, up to date. Although Seaton Hall went through a $6.2 million renovation four years ago that made it a state of the art building, Seaton Court still needs significant renovations.

Law said that when Seaton Hall was upgraded he saw an almost instantaneous increase in the incoming grade point average of architecture, planning and design students.

"Really good students would walk through here, and regardless of our record, they were not interested in going to school here," he said. "Now, it's hard to get into this school, and I would say facilities had everything to do with that. My gosh, we had bats in here. You could look through the floor and see the students below you."

Although the classrooms in Seaton Court are not that bad, students are still dealing with leaking roofs, inadequate climate control, electrical power and wiring. However, the funding to fix such problems is difficult to find, Law said.

"We don't have the money to handle that," Law said. "I think Seaton Court is going to have to come from additional funding out of Crumbling Classrooms bonds, if we ever get those sold again."

The infrastructure of the college is not the whole story, though.

The college has found space to create three workshops for students and provides not only tools for building projects but also a shop technician to teach them how to use the equipment safely.

"And the dean still stays awake at night worrying about student's cutting their fingers off," Law said.

In some classrooms in Seaton Court, faculty have been creative in adding space by building lofts for students to work in.

"We've really made sows' ears into silk purses where we can," Law said.

COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES

Although some colleges have classrooms in only a few buildings on campus, this is not the case for Dean Stephen White. The College of Arts and Sciences has classrooms or labs in 23 buildings, all of which have varying degrees of quality.

"The quality ranges from the newest, state-of-the-art research facility in Chalmers Hall, to buildings like Leasure Hall that is in need of incredible improvement, or Denison Hall, which won't be here next year," White said.

White said there is no budgeted money for repairs the college shoulders. Instead, the money would come from an operating budget.

Although White said things had improved since the Crumbling Classrooms initiative was adopted, buildings on campus are still very old, and there are still some very serious infrastructural problems.

"They're unique situations," he said. "For one building, it could be a mold problem. In another building, it could be that classrooms are either too hot or too cold, and sometimes we still have leaky roofs.

"So there's a range of issues that tend to come that are there simply because we do have some very old structures here that needed to be and still need to be upgraded."

White said there are positive things happening in buildings across campus with the creation of more than 20 high-tech classrooms.

White noted another positive aspect of K-State's buildings as well.

"What we do have architecturally is buildings that look beautiful from the outside," he said. "But their bones are getting old."

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Calvin Hall, which houses most of business student's classes, has gone through a $2.5 million renovation process for the past several years. Dean Yar Ebadi said the building – constructed in 1908 for $70,000 – was much in need of this facelift.

"We're now more than adequate in providing a learning environment," he said. "We maintained a historical look, but still made enough changes to make it a very comfortable place to learn."

Ebadi said that when repairs do need to be made, the college tries to make sure they are done while students aren't in class, to keep disturbances at a minimum.

Ebadi said one of his most important jobs is to provide a quality learning environment.

"We want students to be able to learn what we intend for them to learn," he said. "We try to respond to everything by monitoring it directly or finding out from others what types of things need to be fixed. We want an environment that we can take pride in for today's and tomorrow's graduates."

COLLEGE OF HUMAN ECOLOGY

College of Human Ecology students have been enjoying renovations and expansions of many of the buildings in which their classrooms are housed and will enjoy more of the same in the future

Dean Carol Kellett said the Galichia Institute for Gerontology and Family Studies, also called the campus creek building, will go through an addition that will be completely funded by private funds. Plans are in progress for the renovation and expansion of Justin Hall as well.

The recent $2.2 million renovation and expansion of the Hoeflin Early Childhood Education Center also was completely privately funded. The original 1860s farmhouse is the only completely privately funded building on K-State's campus, Kellett said.

Although the college enjoys these new spaces, some classes are still in Edwards Hall and Leasure Hall, which are in need of renovation.

Kellett said the college tries to do continual repairs as well as try to earmark some money for what she called deferred maintenance.

"One problem in the university is that we build buildings, but we don't plan to maintain them," she said. "So you get what's called deferred maintenance."

An example she gave were the windows on the north side of Justin Hall that fail to completely insulate the classrooms and offices on that side of the building.

"It's a huge cost to replace them, and I don't know if they could've been maintained," she said.

Christmas TREES
$3.50/ft
Sat 9-5 & Sun 12-5 Nov. 29 - Dec. 14
ALL Trees over 8ft $28.00
Fresh Traditions Tree Farm Questions? 317-0839
10 miles East of K-Mart to Flint Rock Rd. then South 1/2 mile to 6th

PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER
"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting & adoption."
539-3338
Free pregnancy tests
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment
Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

HUNAM
Restaurant and Mongolian BBQ
1304 Westloop 539-8888
Lunch Buffet $4.95 Mon.-Sat. All you can eat!
Dinner Buffet $6.95 All you can eat!
Friday Night Seafood Buffet $8.45
Crabs legs, scallops, fish, shrimp, etc.
FREE DELIVERY
• OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK •
$1.00 off Buffet
Please present coupon
1304 Westloop 539-8888

First, Check the Collegian Classifieds.
The Collegian should be the first place you look when you need something. Whether you want football tickets for the next home game, are looking to buy a good used car, want to find the perfect person to take to your next date party, or am hoping to find a new place to live... You'll find it in the Classifieds.
103 Kedzie Hall • 532-6555

The time has come...

Westport
4112 Pennsylvania
In Kansas City
The shortest drive after the victory to K-State's post game party
Your KC KSU Football Headquarters

Little Caesars
HOT-N-READY pizza
$5.00 LARGE WITH PEPPERONI
Carry Out Only
ALL DAY, EVERYDAY!
1150 Westloop • 539-3333

Fast Eddy's BILLIARDS
CELEBRATING 20YEARS
SUNDAYS IN DECEMBER:
1/2 PRICE POOL
OPEN TO CLOSE
DAILY DRINK SPECIALS

KSU Meat Sale
WEDNESDAY 3-6 p.m. & FRIDAY Noon-6 p.m.
Rm. 166 Weber Hall
BEEF
roast, steak, ground beef, bratwurst
PORK
pork chops, pork steaks, sausage, ground pork, bacon
For information call 532-1279

Road Trip?
Stop by The Pathfinder first for:
• Wool socks
• Gloves or mittens
• Warm hat
• Fleece vest or jacket
• Long underwear
the PATHFINDER
OUTDOOR EQUIPMENT SPECIALISTS
304 POYNTZ, DOWNTOWN 539-5639

Auditions for
The Apple Tree
A musical by Harnick and Bock
Based on stories by Mark Twain and Jules Feiffer
Director: Marci Maullar
Music Director: Jennifer Edwards
Dec 8 & 10
7 - 9 p.m.
Roles available for 3-4 men and 2-3 women plus chorus
To be performed at the Manhattan Arts Center February 20-22 & 27-29, 2004. Reading scripts are available at the Manhattan Arts Center. An accompanist will be provided.
MAAHC 1520 Poyntz Ave. * 785-537-4420

ONCE IN A LIFETIME

Alexander-Harlan

Lori Alexander, senior in agricultural communications and journalism, and Bill Harlan, K-State graduate, announce their engagement.

Lori is the daughter of George and Carolyn Alexander, Melvern, Kan., and Bill is the son of Robert and Annette Harlan, Hanover, Kan.

They plan a Dec. 20 wedding in Manhattan.

Finley-Willis

Anne Finley, senior in accounting, and Andrew Willis, senior in industrial engineering, announce their engagement.

Anne is the daughter of Pat and Betty Finley, Atwood, Kan., and Andrew is the son of Jeff and Barbara Willis, Wichita.

They plan a Feb. 7 wedding in Manhattan.

Fowler-Hurla

Laura Fowler, junior in elementary education, and James Hurla, junior in print journalism and public relations, announce their engagement.

Laura is the daughter of Mark and Elizabeth Arnold, Overbrook, Kan., and Thad Fowler, Lyndon, Kan., and James is the son of Louis and Kathy Hurla, Topeka.

They plan a June 5 wedding in Topeka.

Linnebur-Holmes

Melissa Linnebur, graduate student in adult and continuing education, and Christian Holmes, announce their engagement.

Melissa is the daughter of Daniel and Dana Linnebur, Colwich, Kan., and Christian is the son of Jan Kelly, Chandler, Ariz.

They plan a Jan. 3 wedding in Colwich, Kan.

Morton-Elliott

Jessica Morton, senior in biology and pre-medicine, and Robbie Elliott, senior in finance and pre-nursing, announce their engagement.

Jessica is the daughter of Stan and Becky Morton, Lawrence, Kan., and Robbie is the son of Stan and Vickie Elliott, Clay Center, Kan.

They plan a July 3 wedding in Lawrence, Kan.

Prentice-Witters

Donna Prentice, senior in advertising, and Ben Witters, K-State graduate, announce their engagement.

Donna is the daughter of Teresa Prentice, Overland Park, Kan., and Ron Prentice, Liberal, Kan., and Ben is the son of Lynn and Teresa Witters, Seneca, Kan.

They plan a May 22 wedding in Manhattan.

Woods proposes in South Africa

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tiger Woods and his Swedish girlfriend, Elin Nordegren, are engaged.

The golfer's agent, Mark Steinberg of IMG, confirmed the couple's engagement to The Associated Press on Friday but declined to give details.

"She called this morning and was incredibly happy," Nordegren's father, Thomas, told the Swedish newspaper Expressen. "I only spoke shortly with them on the telephone, but they were happy and I congratulated them."

Thomas Nordegren, a correspondent for Swedish Radio in Washington, could not immediately be reached for comment by the AP.

Ashley Cocks, a spokesman for the Shamwari Game Reserve in South Africa, said in a statement that Woods proposed to Nordegren while at the game park outside Port Elizabeth. Woods had been in Fancourt, South Africa, for the Presidents Cup, which ended Sunday.

The proposal came during a walk at sunset Tuesday, he said, adding that when the couple left Friday aboard a private jet, Nordegren had a "huge diamond on her finger."

Nordegren's mother, Barbro Holmberg, who is Sweden's migration minister, had no comment.

Woods, 27, and Nordegren, a 23-year-old model, have been dating for nearly two years.

The South African Broadcasting Corp. also reported the engagement, saying the couple spent the night under the stars in sleeping bags and prepared their own food.

Expressen said the date and location of the wedding were not disclosed, but that it was likely to take place in Sweden.

Woods' caddie, Steve Williams of New Zealand, got engaged the weekend before the President's Cup.

Seemann-Penka

Jenni Seemann, K-State graduate, and Mark Penka, senior in secondary education, announce their engagement.

Jenni is the daughter of Shorty and Dona Kulhanek, Colby, Kan., and Mark is the son of Eugene and Dorin Penka, Healy, Kan.

They plan a Jan. 10 wedding in Colby, Kan.

Strecker-Quint

Jennifer Strecker, K-State graduate, and Josh Quint, senior in geography, announce their engagement.

Jennifer is the daughter of Joe and Jana Strecker, Concordia, Kan., and Josh is the son of Mike and Karen Quint, Pratt, Kan.

They plan a June 5 wedding in Concordia, Kan.

Wehrman-Holle

Beth Wehrman, senior in animal science and industry, and Orrin Holle, senior in agricultural economics, announce their engagement.

Beth is the daughter of Howard and Suzanne Wehrman, Sylvan Grove, Kan., and Orrin is the son of Kevin and Mary Holle, Atwood, Kan.

They plan a June 5 wedding in Beloit, Kan.

Thousands wed on one auspicious day

By Andrew Wang
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW DELHI – As night fell Thursday, India's capital swarmed with weddings as some 14,000 couples tied the knot on a day considered lucky by Hindus.

Tens of thousands of relatives and friends danced in the streets to popular film music as bridegrooms on horsebacks made their way to marriage ceremonies at parks, temples, banquet halls and farmhouses.

"I hope that I reach my wedding on time," a bride named Jaya said as traffic in parts of New Delhi stalled for hours, with buses, cars and motor scooters sitting idle to give way to wedding processions. "I'm afraid that I won't because there are so many weddings tonight."

Hindu priests considered Thursday auspicious because it was the fourth night after the sighting of the full moon and a festival associated with Ganesha, the elephant-headed god.

Friday will be another busy marriage day, as the wedding anniversary of the god Rama, the hero of the Hindu epic narrative Ramayana.

This nation of 1 billion people is predominantly Hindu, and many parents decide on wedding dates after consulting Hindu priests who determine compatibility by comparing astrological readings for prospective brides and grooms.

The wedding ceremony, which can last as long as five hours, begins with the couple exchanging marigold garlands. They later walk around a bonfire seven times and are declared husband and wife.

A huge feast, singing and dancing mark the occasion, and a middle-class family can end up spending a minimum of $8,780. Dowries are high for parents of brides, and friction over the payments sometimes lead to mistreatment of daughters and wives.

Give us your opinion.
Campus Fourum: 395-4444

pick it up
Your 2003 Royal Purple Yearbook is here
You can still purchase a Royal Purple Yearbook for $34.95.
get it at 103 Kedzie Now 8am-5pm

Announce your engagement or wedding
www.kstatecollegian.com or stop by Kedzie 103
Deadline Jan 22 5 pm

MANHATTAN FLORAL
Receive 15% off with Wildcat Card KSU ID
Find Us Near Target
776-8801

BOCKERS II CATERING
-Providing special care and attention to special people on a very special day.
-Specializing in catering to the Wareham Opera House and the Houston Street Ballroom.
-Wedding specialists since 1971
-Church centers & outdoor facilities
-Offering a vast array of buffet, social, reception and decorating packages.
-Linen & Rental packages available
-Decorating packages available
1108 Laramie — (785) 539-9431

Preserve your memories with dry cleaning
Ideal Cleaners
1206 Moro
539-2521

When it matters...
alan honey PHOTOGRAPHY
537-2210

Celebrations of the Heart
401 Poyntz Avenue
Manhattan, KS 66502
785.587.1830
Bridal's Formal Wear Tuxedo Rental
For the special occasions in life
Congratulations from Celebrations of the Heart on the following November marriages:
Loretta Wilson and Hank Sagenhagen
Shannon Jones and Travis Hartwich
Suzanne Pryor and Rod Gfeller
Laura Falk and Trampis Nickel
Jen Ballman and Troy Sedlacek
Wedding Gown Sale!
25% - 75% off on selected gowns

It's Kistner's Flowers on your special day . . .
when quality, experience and professional service are so important.
Fresh and silk flower wedding designs
FREE WEDDING CONSULTATIONS
Serving Manhattan For 30 Years
Kistner's
Flowers and Greenhouse
1 mile south of the Mall on Highway 177 South
776-7989 776-7044

Byers' Choice Event
December 6, 11:00 a.m.
Please join us as we celebrate the 25 anniversary of Byers' Choice
a handcrafted American tradition
Enjoy seeing the heartwarming new 2003 line and the special anniversary pieces of Victoria and Victoria's Mother that Joyce Byers has designed to commemorate this special year
Campbell's Downtown
We Have Tickets to the Historic Tour of Homes in Manhattan
5th and Poyntz • Manhattan

ONCE IN A LIFETIME PLANS A WEDDING

The Collegian's Once in a Lifetime section is planning a wedding with help from Celebrations of the Heart, GAIA Salon, and Steve's Floral. This month features the four dresses and online voting will begin at midnight today on the Collegian Web site, www.kstatecollegian.com.

Dress 1 - Organza gown

■ Satin bands compliment the neckline and are carried through the hemline.
■ Silver embroidery in a floral pattern peeks through the side split in the front of the gown.

Dress 2 - Strapless satin gown with wrapped wasteline

■ Swarovski crystals and pearls accents. n Asymmetrically placed beaded bands at the waistline
■ Embellished banding of crystals and pearls surround the hemline and train.

Dress 3 - Two-piece whisper chiffon gown

■ Embroidery on the sheer banding at the neckline.
■ An asymmetrical front drape accentuates the waistline.
■ Decorated edge of the chapel-length train.

Dress 4 — A-line, satin gown with sweetheart neckline

■ Wide satin band at the hemline matches that at the neckline.
■ Elegant envelope back.
■ Beads and clear sequins above hemline.
■ Hand beaded buttons are attached from the invisible zipper down the train.

Couple looks forward to finally spending their lives together after 6 years of dating

By Amy Preston
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Aaron Stohs just knew.

The senior in veterinary medicine knew that he wanted to marry his fiancee, Kelly Lynn, K-State alumna, shortly after their first date.

He knew he wanted to marry her three years ago, when they both graduated with undergraduate degrees.

But he had to wait.

"We were definitely ready by the time undergraduate school let out," Stohs said. "But her senior year she wanted to try for law school, and I was going to vet school. The main reason we waited is because we both went our separate ways."

But the wait was worth it.

Stohs and Lynn were selected by readers to receive a free wedding from the Collegian's Once in a Lifetime Plans a Wedding.

And after six years of waiting for the big day, the news of having a free wedding couldn't be any sweeter, Lynn said.

"This is such a dream come true," she said. "With Aaron and I being in school for so long, we get stressed out a lot. I'm so busy right now with adjusting to work and living in KC that I didn't really have time to be planning for a wedding."

Kelly Lynn and Aaron Stohs

Stohs and Lynn met in August 1997 during the first weeks of school at a club fair in the K-State Student Union. Stohs was working at a booth through his fraternity, Beta Sigma Psi, and was winking at the girls walking by.

One girl, however, stood out in the crowd.

"He winked at me and waved me over," Lynn said. "I went over there and started talking to him and he asked me if I would join the club he was working for."

Soon after Lynn joined the club, she and Stohs began dating, she said.

"The first time I really hung out with him was at a party for that club," Lynn said. "We got to know each other at that party and seriously started hanging out all the time after that."

And the rest, Lynn said, is history.

Stohs and Lynn became engaged this summer at a friend's wedding. Now, the couple said they can't wait to live together and start a family – since their families are so much alike.

Lynn grew up in Lawrence with her parents, Chuck and Melissa, and her younger sister, Kate, who is in nursing school.

Stohs grew up in Marysville, Kan. His father, Lynn, manages an insurance company while his mother, Cheryl, is a nurse. Stohs had an older brother who died of leukemia at the age of seven and a younger brother, Jeremy, who is a graduate student at George Washington University.

Both families, Lynn said, are a perfect match.

"Aaron is the son my dad never had," she said. "When Aaron comes to visit, they'll go golf and go hang out with the guys. He fits in really well with my family."

Stohs said Lynn provides a good balance in his family as well.

"She's a lot like my mom in the fact that she's super caring," Stohs said. "My mom has kind of adopted her because she's her only girl in the family. My mom finally has a daughter."

Stohs currently works at a law firm in Kansas City, where she practices civil litigation. Stohs is currently a senior in veterinary medicine and will graduate in May 2005.

After they get married, the couple said they will reside outside of Kansas City – finally together.

"I'm looking forward to spending every day with him," Lynn said. "It's really hard right now living weekend to weekend. I can't wait to see him at night and see him in the morning and spend time with him."

Mark Rose PHOTOGRAPHY
Weddings
Engagements
Families
Events
Portraits for a Lifetime
Please Call for an Appointment (785) 341-5738

425 Poyntz Avenue, Downtown Manhattan, 776-7821
Danenberg JEWELERS ESTABLISHED 1968
Distinctive Jewelry
Quality Diamonds
Across from the Courthouse
Downtown, Manhattan

Weisner's Bridal Boutique & Sew Unique
•Over 100 Bridal Gowns (in stock)
•Bridesmaid Gowns
•Bridal Shoes
•Bridal Accessories
•Bridal Fabric
•Tuxedos
Special Orders Welcome
314 Poyntz • Downtown
(785) 776-6100
www.GoToTheBusiness.com/WeisnersSewUnique-BridalBoutique

It's time to get your hands on Bernina's newest machines.
artista 200E, 185E and 165E
Visit Bernina and get a hands-on demonstration of the newest artista sewing and embroidery systems, including the revolutionary artista 200E. Then, imagine all the creative projects your hands can make. Give us a call today.
www.berninashoppe.com
Bernina Shoppe
330 N. 4th St.
Manhattan, KS
537-8919
BERNINA
©2003 Bernina of America • www.bernina.com

Once in a Lifetime
engagements and weddings in the Collegian, the first friday of the month.
call 532-6560

Manhattan's Newest Tanning Salon
Start tanning for your Wedding & Honeymoon
Xtreme tanning
1122 Laramie • 539-3742
No Appt. Necessary • *Some restrictions apply
$5 off One Month Unlimited five dollars off

34nd Annual
MANHATTAN BRIDAL SHOW
SUNDAY, JANUARY 18, 2004
$250 gift certificate toward purchase of wedding dress
Win a TUXEDO PACKAGE for Wedding party
Must be present to win
Thousands of dollars in prizes:
$1,000 toward your wedding
FREE wedding band
Much, much more
KANSAS STATE STUDENT UNION
Grand Ballroom on 2nd floor, Manhattan
Doors open at noon • Fashion show at 3 p.m. • Free admission

Advertise your business here
K-State Collegian • 118 Kedzie • 532-6560

Game time

Photos by Lindsey Bauman | COLLEGIAN

Gabby Guerre, Laura Downey-Wallace, and Kris Jensen celebrate a point during game two against Texas Tech on Nov. 22. K-State faces Ohio tonight at Ahearn Field House in the first round of the NCAA Tournament.

6th-seeded Cats open NCAA Tournament

By Wes Marfield
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

It all comes down to this.

After winning its first ever Big 12 Title, the 6th-seeded Wildcats will host the first round match in the 2003 NCAA Tournament when they face Ohio at 7:30 tonight in Ahearn Field House.

The Cats, coming off of a 3-1 loss to Texas to end their regular season, are looking to reverse their fortunes against Ohio.

While in a normal circumstance, that loss might have served as motivation. But Coach Suzie Fritz said that is not the case this time around.

"I don't think you need motivation in the NCAA Tournament," Fritz said. "You get no more chances."

Ohio, this year's MAC Conference champion, is making its first appearance in the NCAA Tournament.

Even though statistically the Bobcats might be the underdog, Fritz said any team that has made it this far could be potentially lethal.

See VOLLEYBALL Page 10

Laura Downey-Wallace and Kris Jensen go for a dig during the first game of K-State's win over Texas Tech on Nov. 22 at Ahearn Field House. K-State faces Ohio at 7:30 tonight in the first round of the NCAA tournament.

Cats ready for back-to-back games

Travel not a factor in road losses; Cats set to take on Hornets

By Nabil Shaheen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

When someone asked junior Megan Mahoney on Tuesday about the endurance of the team's travels last week and its effect on the game, she quickly removed any doubt.

Anyone else could understand the fatigue of four Division I basketball games in seven days, right?

Wrong

"I wouldn't blame any of our mishaps on our traveling. That's what you do all season especially in the Big 12. You play a game, come back, get a day to prepare and then go back at it."

The No. 12 Cats (3-2) go back at it tonight, taking on the Sacramento State Hornets (0-5) at 5 in the Commerce Bank Wildcat Classic.

The universities of Saint Louis and Texas-Pan American will be the other two teams participating in this year's event.

"We've been on the road and played some tough competition," Coach Deb Patterson said. "Now we've got a chance to play back-to-back basketball games and dig in and take significant steps in our competitive intensity and execution."

One way Patterson will utilize play will be with continued rotations.

While she said she would like to experiment a little more, one move Patterson has been pleased with thus far is the move of Mahoney to the point guard role.

"I like the size it presents for our opposition, and it gives us another scoring option and someone that understands a little bit more about our system right now," she said. "At this point in time, we're learning how to deal with double teams, and I don't want them to triple team us. We need that fifth scorer on the floor."

See WOMEN Page 10

Zach Long | COLLEGIAN

Kansas State's Megan Mahoney looks for a teammate while being pressured by Purdue's Shereka Wright during the Wildcats' loss to the Boilermakers in West Lafayette,Ind.

K-State men hit the road Saturday night

By Louie Novak
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The men's basketball team is going on a road trip, and Coach Jim Wooldridge was unclear on whether his team was prepared.

"Ready or not, here we go," Wooldridge said of his team, which has won its first four games of the season, all at home.

After two exhibition games and four regular season contests, the Wildcats travel to face Oregon State at 9 tonight in Corvallis, Ore.

The Beavers are coming off an 81-66 loss to Colorado on Wednesday night in a game in which the Beavers pulled within eight points with 9:16 remaining before the Buffs put the game away with a 10-0 run.

The Beavers now have lost nine consecutive games to Big 12 foes, and the last time Oregon State defeated a Big 12 team was when the Beavers knocked off K-State 66-48 in December 1988.

Wooldridge said now is the time for his team to get out of Manhattan.

"We are going to get out there, and I am confident that now is a good time," Wooldridge said. "This team has had every practice, scrimmage, game and every team meeting here. Right now, I am not sure the guys know there is life outside of Manhattan and Bramlage Coliseum."

Wooldridge said his team still has things to work on and needs to refocus for the new challenges that playing on the road presents.

"We have to work on things that really matter on the road," Wooldridge said.

"Toughness, limiting turnovers, rebounding and all the other blue-collar things that are so important to winning away from home."

K-State is primed to improve on its dismal road play last year, when the team went 1-9 away and 1-3 at neutral sites.

Senior guard Jarrett Hart said this year's team is much different than last.

"I think last year we were unable to take what we did in practice and use it in the game," Hart said. "This year we, along with the coaches, have made adjustments and believe we will bring a lot of energy. We will be ready."

Senior Tim Ellis said he agreed that each Wildcat wants to erase the memories of last year's road woes.

"Everybody is looking forward to Saturday's game," Ellis said.

"Last year we struggled on the road, so all of us are looking to improve this year."

One thing is certain, K-State is not intimidated by leaving the friendly confines of Bramlage.

"Its not like we are afraid," sophomore forward Marques Hayden said.

1-MINUTE DRILL

Staff Reports

Football | Roberson, Wilson accept all-star game invites

Roberson

Senior quarterback Eli Roberson and senior fullback Travis Wilson have accepted invitations to play in the 58th Hula Bowl all-star game, bowl representatives announced Thursday.

The 2004 Hula Bowl will be played Jan. 17 on the island of Maui and will kick off at 7 p.m.

Football | Leckey a finalist for Rimington Award

Leckey

Two-time first-team All-Big 12 selection Nick Leckey has been named one of six finalists for the 2003 Rimington Trophy, given to the outstanding center in college football, the organization announced Thursday.

The winner will be announced at an award banquet at the Rococo Theater in Lincoln, Neb. Dec. 13.

Golf | K-State men getting winter break recognition

K-State will be the No. 1 team in the NCAA Central Region when the men's golf schedule opens Feb. 16-17 in Lakeland, Fla., the NCAA Advisory Committee announced Thursday.

K-State is ranked in the Top 25 in all four major polls. Golfstat has the Cats 14th, Golfweek/Sagarin has K-State 22nd, Golfworld and the Golf Coaches Association of American has K-State at No. 22.

The Associated Press

NFL | FBI investigating hate mail sent to football teams

The FBI is investigating hate mail sent to black NFL players and other black men during the past year.

A memo sent Nov. 18 to all NFL teams by the league's security department said all the threatening letters came from the same person and were postmarked Cleveland; Youngstown, Ohio; and Erie, Pa.

Special agent Robert Hawk of the FBI's Cleveland office said more than 30 racially hateful letters also were sent to "high-profile people in their respective communities — professional athletes, business leaders, civic leaders, community leaders or organizations."

Big 12 | Missouri president meets with NCAA

University of Missouri President Elson Floyd and other top school officials met Thursday with the NCAA to discuss investigations of the Tigers' basketball program, The Associated Press reported Thursday.

The investigations intensified this summer because of allegations by the former girlfriend of ex-player Ricky Clemons that he received cash, clothes and improper academic help.

MLB | Bonds denies steroid use in front of grand jury

Barry Bonds appeared before a grand jury focusing on possible tax and drug violations by a California lab that supplied nutritional supplements to some of the nation's top athletes.

Grand jurors were able to ask the San Francisco slugger under oath whether his growth has been entirely natural. The panel is looking into possible violations by the Bay Area Laboratory Co-Operative, or BALCO.

SPORTS ONLINE

www.kstatecollegian.com

Column | Lords selling rings

Matt Girard took offense to football players on last season's SEC Champion selling their conference title rings to make a quick buck. They may have been the league's best, Girard said, but that only cheapens the memory.

"Missing" the audience's attention

Director Ron Howard's latest Western thriller drags its feet but still provides unexpected turns

"The Missing"
★★★☆☆
Album review by Jacob Walker

Ron Howard's latest film, "The Missing," manages to combine realism and the supernatural smoothly and believably.

The movie begins when a young healer woman, Maggie Gilkeson (Cate Blanchett), discovers that her eldest daughter has been kidnapped by Indians. To save her daughter, she enlists the aid of her estranged father, Samuel (Tommy Lee Jones), who wandered off one day and decided to live with the Apaches when Maggie was still very young.

Samuel helps her in order to do his part in caring for his family, though his motives are slightly different than what one might expect.

The most pleasing part about Jones's character is that it is different from the conventional portrayal of the "half-breed" mentality.

Characters like Blade (Wesley Snipes) or Hawkeye (Daniel Day-Lewis) from "The Last of the Mohicans" always seem to benefit from the best of both worlds. They are made out to be rough-and-tumble men who force the plot to produce more and more ridiculous challenges for their awesomeness to overcome.

This is not the case with Samuel.

He is only slightly improved by his native experience. He initially tries to fix his past with his daughter by giving her money, but his tracking skills, honed through years of hunting mountain lions for a living, prove to be a better gift.

Blanchett's character was cut from freaking granite. She refuses to accept any of her father's money and assistance until she finds she has no other choice, and even then she does it grudgingly.

The practicality of these roles is skillfully offset by the arcane practices of the evil shaman behind the kidnapping.

While the genre is not very original, the movie stayed refreshingly unpredictable.

The beginning dragged its feet a little bit – including a scene in which Blanchett removes an old woman's tooth against her will – but the audience might be most bothered by the film's slow pace. There are points at which you wish the movie would just end, regardless of the status of the plot.

Aside from that, "The Missing" was an excellent movie, one worth seeing on the big screen, even if "Last of the Mohicans" was way cooler.

Courtesy Art

CALENDAR

■ Poal Pretensis plays tonight at Gumby's Pizza and Pub.
■ The film "Once Upon A Time in Mexico" will be shown at 7 and 9:30 Friday and Saturday night and 8 p.m. Sunday in the Little Theatre. Cost is $2.

MOVIES

■ All times are p.m. unless otherwise noted.
■ All times in parentheses show Saturday and Sunday only.

"The Haunted Mansion"
(1), (3:10), 5:20, 7:30, 9:40
Eddie Murphy stars in this movie based upon a popular theme park attraction as a father who brings his family along to a real estate meeting at a mansion that turns out to be haunted.

"Honey"
(1:10), 4:15, 7:20, 9:35
Jessica Alba stars as a dancer from the inner city whose dream of becoming a successful video choreographer comes true.

"The Missing"
(12:30), 4, 7:05, 10:05
Cate Blanchett and Tommy Lee Jones star in this Ron Howard-directed psychological thriller set in New Mexico in the 1880s about a mother whose daughter is kidnapped by Army deserters.

"The Last Samurai"
(12:30), 3:45, 7, 10:15
Tom Cruise stars in this historical epic as a Civil War veteran who is recruited to train the troops of the Japanese emperor as a modern military threatens to bring an end to the samurai code.

"Bad Santa"
(1:30), 4:30, 7:20, 9:40
Billy Bob Thornton stars as a criminal who gets jobs as a Mall Santa Claus so he can rob malls blind, until a little boy reminds him of the true meaning of Christmas.

"Timeline"
(1:15), 4:10, 7:10, 9:50
A science fiction adventure about a '3-D fax machine' that is actually a time machine, which traps an archaeologist in 14th century France.

"Cat in the Hat"
(12:15), (2:30), 4:45, 7:05, 9:15
Comedian Mike Myers stars as the titular feline in this live-action adaptation of the beloved book by children's author Dr. Seuss.

"Gothika"
(1:25), 4:25, 7:25, 9:55
In this psychological horror film, a criminal psychologist (Halle Berry) finds herself a patient in the very institution in which she works.

"Love Actually"
(1), 4:05, 7:15, 10:10
A romantic comedy telling ten separate but intertwining stories set in London around Christmas.

"Master and Commander: The Far Side of the World"
(12:45), 4, 7:10, 10:10
Russell Crowe stars in this seafaring adventure set during the Napoleonic Wars, based upon a novel by Patrick O'Brien.

"The Matrix Revolutions"
9:30
Neo, Trinity, Morpheus, Agent Smith and the rest of the Matrix cast of characters return for the conclusion to the science fiction epic.

"Brother Bear"
(1), (3:05), 5:10, 7:15
In this Disney animated feature, a Native American tribal chief's son, voiced by Joaquin Phoenix, is transformed into a bear to see the world in a new way.

"Elf"
(12), (2:20), 4:40, 7, 9:20
Will Ferrell stars in this Christmas comedy as a human raised by Santa's elves who travels to Manhattan looking for his real dad.

Getting personal in 1st person

DIVERSIONS
A weekly column on music, movies, and all things related to pop culture.

MATTHEW WEBBER

Chuck Klosterman, Spin magazine's senior writer and the author of "Fargo Rock City" and "Sex, Drugs, and Cocoa Puffs," gave me some good advice this summer.

He told me that although newspapers seldom allow first-person narratives, readers typically love them. When a writer uses the first person, Klosterman said, readers feel like they know him.

They like him for his honesty. They think he probably writes like he talks. Readers feel like if they were to meet the writer in the street, he would say exactly what they expect.

This, as he told me, isn't necessarily true, because nobody truly writes like they talk.

We edit, proofread and punctuate, for starters, and we consciously and constantly try to appear more brilliant, interesting and clever than we are in real life.

We can even stretch our truth when we write – even outright lie – all for the sake of writing readable copy.

Maybe I'm lying now, and Klosterman didn't say any of this. Maybe I imagined him discussing music journalism with me over coffee in the other Manhattan on a sunny day in late July.

I know for a fact I'm paraphrasing what he said and omitting some of his words – which is a pretty neat expository writing rhetorical strategy, eh?

Why? Because I hope to get at least one reader to think this column is interesting. Because I hope this can get me a job.

All because I'd rather use the writing skills I've learned in six years of undergraduate and graduate English studies to write about pop music instead of to teach sleepy, suburban high school kids about irony and the Reverend Dimmesdale.

Although I didn't tell him so explicitly, I want to write like Chuck Klosterman. When he asked me what my career goals were, I told him I want to have the artistic license and financial security to write features in newspapers, magazines and books, about whatever topics I choose, for people who look forward to reading and buying my words.

I did manage to tell him I loved "Fargo Rock City," but I didn't have the courage to tell him he's my favorite music critic for the same reason we were discussing.

I love to read him because I somehow feel like I know him through his writing.

After one chat, I really don't know him any better than before. But I know he gives good advice. I'm merely trying to follow it. If you meet me in the street, that's what you can expect me to say.

Matt is a graduate student in English. You can e-mail him at maw8686@k-state.edu.

Beatles should have let it be

Musical icons revise tracks to create unessential album

"Let it Be...Naked"
★★☆☆☆
Album review by Matthew Webber

My friend with a thousand CDs tried to save me.

"I'll burn you the Russian import, dude," he said.

He didn't want me to waste my money on the Beatles' remastered "Let It Be" album that I needed to review.

"I should probably review the real product," I said. "Plus, it will be a collector's item."

So I wasted $10 on an album I already had.

The Beatles' original idea for "Let It Be" was to capture "the warmth and freshness of a live performance," according to oral history and the back of the original album. The band recorded "Let It Be" as they were in the midst of breaking up, and John Lennon gave the unfinished tapes to famed "wall of sound" maestro and alleged murderer Phil Spector to produce.

For years, Paul McCartney compared Spector's production to vomit. He especially hated the baroque orchestration on "The Long and Winding Road."

So "Let It Be... Naked" is the attempt of the living Beatles – especially Paul – to strip away the string sections and overdubs and release the album as it originally was intended.

As Paul says in the liner notes, "That was the noise we made in the studio. It's all exactly as it was in the room, but you're in a clearer room with the guys."

It also is, of course, an attempt to cash in.

"The dedicated Abbey Road team" removed two songs, "Maggie Mae" and "Dig It," as well as the annoying between-take patter. They added "Don't Let Me Down" and changed the album's sequencing.

As a raucous rock record, "Naked" suffers from the same shortcomings as its predecessor. Because of the band's turmoil, many of the songs seem incomplete or rushed, and no amount of repackaging can salvage them.

"One After 909" still sounds tossed off. "The Long and Winding Road" now sounds like a demo.

Some of the songs are classics, however. John's "Across the Universe" sounds even prettier when stripped down to its bare acoustics. The harmonies in "Two of Us" sound as warm and fresh as anything the Beatles ever recorded.

But since I – and millions of others – already owned these songs, "Naked" is completely unessential.

Worse, the re-release of a spotty and unpopular album reeks of revisionist history.

I half expected to see John clipped out of the photographs, replaced by the newest smiling Russian leaders.

Courtesy Art

Herr Metzger | Julian Narino — www.herrmetzger.com

Puck | Kent Holle — kentramone@yahoo.com

Beach Museum to throw weekend toy party with crafts, refreshments

By Kristi Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

If you don't want to grow up, patrons of the Marianna Kistler Beach Museum of Art suggest the Toy Party from 1 to 3 p.m. Sunday at the museum.

Marie Konarik, senior in biology and predentistry and president of the Student Friends of the Beach Museum of Art, said the party is a type of craft show.

Visitors will have a chance to make animal puzzles, do face painting, have a story corner, refreshments, card making and other small crafts. The cost for the party is $3.

Konarik said people of all ages are encouraged to attend.

"Anyone is invited and should come. It is a great way to spend time with your family," Konarik said.

She said a Valentine's Day, took place in the spring. The museum collaborated with Big Brothers and Big Sisters for the party and this encouraged the museum to have a party in the fall.

"We wanted something in the holiday season, and we thought this would be the best since it worked so well before," Konarik said.

Jenny Curoe, secretary of Student Friends of the Beach Museum of Art and junior in family studies and human services, said the money collected from the party will be spent on other workshops, K-State Family Day, All-University Open House and to host artist lectures.

"We want to bring them in and show them what we have to offer," Curoe said. "We have art and activities for everyone."

Konarik said the museum workers will help with the program on Sunday.

"We will have people here helping out and just hope that lots of people will show up," Konarik said.

Konarik said the museum wants to continue with the workshop if the toy party is a success.

"It worked very well in the spring, and we were very pleased with it. Everyone had a great time, and we are looking forward to more people to come to the holiday party. Maybe we will do this again next year," Konarik said.

If you go
Toy Party

When: 1 to 3 p.m. Sunday at the Marianna Kistler Beach Museum of Art.
Cost: $3.

Spirit of the holiday

Zach Long | COLLEGIAN

The K-State cheer squad entertains the crowd Thursday at the Manhattan Town Center during a rally for the Big 12 Championship game. In addition to the cheerleaders, prizes were given away including a pair of tickets to Saturday's matchup between the Wildcats and Oklahoma.

VOLLEYBALL | K-State chosen to be host team for NCAA tourney

Continued from Page 6

"I think that anyone that earns a berth into the NCAA Tournament becomes a dangerous team," Fritz said. "There are very few easy matches when you get to this point."

Looking at Ohio, Fritz said they have a similar style of play to teams they have played previously this season.

"They are a very good ball-control team. They are a scrappy defensive team, and it appears as if they like to run things relatively fast offensively," Fritz said.

Tonight's winner will face whoever wins the matchup between No. 23 Southwest Missouri State and Arkansas. First serve for that match is slated for 5:30 tonight.

Fritz said she likes K-State's chances within its bracket.

"I think it's favorable in terms of our opportunity to advance," Fritz said. "Having said that, we'll have to play very good volleyball to do so. "

With USC and Florida being the clear favorites, Fritz said she would love the chance for a rematch against the Gators, who handed them a 3-1 defeat on Aug. 23.

"There's a lot of people talking about the fact that they don't know if USC can be beaten," Fritz said. "We took a game off of Florida earlier in the year, and I think we're a lot better volleyball team than we were then."

This marks the third consecutive season that K-State has been chosen to be a host team for the first two rounds of the NCAA Tournament.

However, in both of the previous two seasons, the Cats have been unable to advance past the second round. One factor that should help them get over that hump, Fritz said, was the experience of her seniors.

A pair of those seniors – 2003 Big 12 Player of the Year Lauren Goehring and Cari Jensen – were a part of the 2000 squad that made it to the regional semifinals. That remains the farthest the Cats have ever advanced in the NCAA Tournament.

"It is critical when you get to this point because they have been in the NCAA Tournament the last three years in a row and they are experienced, and they know what to expect," Fritz said. "It's invaluable."

If you go
No. 6 K-State vs. Ohio

When: Tonight at 7:30.
Where: Ahearn Field House.
Tickets: All-Tournament package on sale until noon today. Remaining tickets will be available Ahearn beginning at 4 p.m today.
- All-tournament package
$10 for adults, $8 for students or senior citizens, $6 for children under 12.
- At the door, if available
$8 for adults, $7 for students or senior citizens, $5 for children under 12.
- Round 2: The winner will face the winner of tonight's 5:30 matchup of #23 Southwest Missouri State and Arkansas.

WOMEN | Mahoney's move to point guard expected to benefit Cats

Continued from Page 6

Not only has the move helped Mahoney's game, Ohlde and Wecker also have benefited in the paint, Patterson said.

"It seems teams come and decide they're going to play two on Ohlde or three on Ohlde," she said. "When Megan is in the game, she has to be guarded or she's going to hurt you one way or another, and that's what she brings. There is a lot of learning going on. As teams take away something, they're giving something that you have to get used to."

Although each team presents its challenges each season, Patterson said the 2003-04 Wildcats bring an extra one in the form of its youth.

"Every year, even if you are returning the same kids, it's a new year and a new team," she said. "With the time I've taken at practice to integrate all our younger players into this system, we've given up some things there (like) significant reps and familiarity. We've injected a lot of different personnel to give everyone an opportunity early on. I'm willing to give a little bit now in order to help us in the long run.

"Now, I don't want us playing sloppy, but I think we've answered the issues as they've presented themselves."

The Wildcat Classic tips off at 3 p.m. today with Saint Louis taking on Texas-PanAm and the Wildcats versus Hornets immediately following. Depending on tonight's outcome, the next Wildcat action would be at 1 or 3 p.m. Saturday.

"We're really excited about the opportunity to play back-to-back games at home," Patterson said. "This is a huge weekend for athletics in general at Kansas State, and I think our kids feel that enthusiasm about Kansas State being in the forefront of the sports scene right now."

December Special
1 hr massage...$40
Body First
2308 Anderson
587-8300
GIFT CERTIFICATES AVAILABLE

Claflin Books and Copies
1814 Claflin Road
776-3771 Fax: 776-1009
claflin@interkan.net
www.claflinbooks.com

GIVE PLASMA GET CASH
Donate Plasma And Earn $45 this week
Save Lives & Earn Cash.
ZLB Plasma Services
1130 Gardenway
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785)776-9177 • www.zlb.com

The Women of Alpha Xi Delta
would like to invite the following men to our Winter Formal

Arrow Caryl	Brett Reed	Jason Miller	Sean Walts
Kelley Simon	Drew Gibson	Colin Thomasset	Nolan Henderson
Joe Lane	Grant Caffrey	Corey Wedler	Mike Sykes
Manny Cervantes	Greg Burnett	Peter Hinkle	Jacob Johnson
Chris Shomin	Chris Graham	Ben Hall	Jeff Cakin
Dustin Gaydusek	Scott Pauly	J.R. Schneller	Brent Burkholder
Jeff Mann	Casey Hicks	John Huff	Erik Flood
Jon Rector	Rey Morales	Chance Dannen	Matt Wertzberger
Jason Smith	Micahel Hoffman	Matt Otte	Andy Tompkins
Kevin Coomes	Adam Works	Travis Bussen	Brian Roberts
Clint West	Joseph Leopold	Adam Tucker	Andy Johnson
Grayson Magner	Christopher Zimmerman	Justin Goetz	Chris Patch
Micah Kile	Allen Stewart	Andy Viebrock	Heath Unrien
Grant Brownback	Landon Shaffer	John Eck	Tim Mason
Bubba Tadtman	Kenton Managan	Danny Adrain	Frank Basgall
Bryan Alexander	Patrick Atchity	Jason Heine

January Intersession 2004
January 5-21, 2004

Time Is Running Out. Enroll today! To enroll and/or obtain an Intersession schedule with complete course descriptions and prerequisites, visit our Web site at http://www.dce.ksu.edu/intersession. If you prefer, call (785) 532-5687 or 1-800-432-8222 or visit the Division of Continuing Education at 131 College Court Building, 1615 Anderson Ave., Manhattan, KS. Enrollment deadline is January 5 unless indicated with an *.

Tuition for on-campus coursework will be $129 per undergraduate resident credit and $178 per graduate credit hour, plus $1 per day special and health fees. A student services fee and/or materials fee may be required for some courses. A $14/ credit hour fee is assessed for Engineering and Architecture courses.

Course Title	Course #	Ref#	Credit	Dates	Times
AGRICULTURE
Practicum in Bakery Technology	GRSC 701	94101	1 UG/G	1/12- 1/16	MTWUF 8:00 AM-4:30 PM
ARCHITECTURE, PLANNING, & DESIGN
Portfolio Design Studio	IAR 406	94142	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:30 PM
Problems: Car Design Studio	IAR 405	94143	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 5:00 PM-8:30 PM
Problems: Portfolio Design Studio	IAR 830	94140	3 G	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:30 PM
Problems: Car Design Studio	IAR 830	94128	3 G	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 5:00 PM-8:30 PM
Sketching with Watercolor	LAR 741	94144	2 UG/G	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:30 PM
ARTS & SCIENCES
Forensic Medicine & Investigation of Death	ANTH 684	94132	3 UG/G	1/5-1/20	MTWUFSa 8:00 AM-5:00 PM
Special Studies: Experiments in Color: Theory & Application	ART 300	94107	2 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 10:00 AM-3:00 PM
Problems: Practical Aspects of NMR	CHM 799	94104	0	1/5-1/21	MTWU 9:00 AM-12:30 PM
Independent Studies in Dance: Intensive on Applied Movement Fundamentals	DANCE 599	94133	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 9:00 AM-12:30 PM
Topics: America's Nuclear Age	HIST 200	94113	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 9:00 AM-1:00 PM
War Films & American Culture 1945-2000	HIST 200	94103	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 1:00 PM-5:00 PM
Topics: Religion & the American Civil War	HIST 200	94102	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 6:00 PM-9:30 PM
Seminar in Kinesiology: Sport & Exercise Personality	KIN 590	94108	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 9:00 AM-12:30 PM
History of Musical Instruments	MUSIC 310	94116	2 UG	1/5-1/14	MTWUF 9:00 AM-12:30 PM
Jazz in Kansas City & the Southwest	MUSIC 424	94117	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:30 PM
Social Construction of Serial Murder	SOCIO 501	94123	3 UG/G	1/5-1/20	MTWUF 1:00 PM-5:30 PM
Business & Economic Statistics I	STAT 350	94110	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 8:05 AM-11:45 AM
Topics: Role Theory in Action	THTRE 630	94121	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 12:00 PM-5:00 PM
Topics: Women and Islam	WOMST 500	94150	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 8:30 AM-12:00 PM
BUSINESS
Advanced Prob. in Finance: Finance for Entrepreneurs	FINAN 898	94100	3 G	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF 9:00 AM-12:30 PM
Business, Government, and Society	MANGT 596	94141	3 UG/G	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF 8:30 AM-11:45 AM
Marketing	MKTG 400	94115	3 UG	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF 8:30 AM-11:45 PM
Retailing	MKTG 541	94119	3 UG	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF 8:30 AM-11:45 PM
International Marketing	MKTG 544	94124	3 UG	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:15 PM
Sports Marketing	MKTG 630	94122	3 UG/G	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF 8:30 AM-11:45 PM
Intro to TQM	MANGT 300	94120	1 UG	1/9- 1/13	F 4:30 PM-10:00 PM MT 5:00 PM-9:30 PM
EDUCATION
Topics: Leadership and Spirituality	EDADL 502	94126	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 1:00 PM-5:00 PM
IS/Stress Management	EDCEP 502	94127	3 UG	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 3:30 PM-7:30 PM
Topics: The Study of Happiness	EDCEP 786	94129	2 UG	1/7-1/21	MTWUF 3:00 PM-5:15 PM
Stress Management for Teachers, Counselors, Administrators	EDCEP 802	94125	3 G	1/5-1/21	MTWUF 3:30 PM-7:30 PM
Teaching as a Career	EDSEC 102	94130	1 UG	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF
Special Topics: Teaching Adolescent Literature	EDSEC 786	94131	1UG	1/14- 1/21	TWUF 4:30 PM-7:00 PM
ENGINEERING
AutoCAD for Engineering & Construction	ARE 311	94105	2 UG	1/5- 1/20	MTWUF 8:00 AM-12:00 PM
Introduction to Information Technology	CIS 101	94146	1 UG	1/5- 1/7	MTW 8:00 AM-12:10 PM
Introduction to Microcomputer Spreadsheet Applications	CIS 102	94147	1 UG	1/8- 1/12	MUF 8:00 AM-12:10 PM
Introduction to Microcomputer Database Applications	CIS 103	94148	1 UG	1/13- 1/15	TWU 8:00 AM-12:10 PM
Introduction to Microcomputer Word Processing	CIS 104	94149	1 UG	1/16- 1/21	TWF 8:00 AM-12:10 PM
Topics in Construction Management: Tilt-Up Concrete Structures in Construction Management	CNS 644	94118	2 UG/G	1/5- 1/16	MTWUF 8:30 AM-11:30 AM
Intro to TQM	DEN 300	94145	1 UG	1/9- 1/13	F 4:30 PM-10:00 PM MT 5:00 PM-9:30 PM
HUMAN ECOLOGY
Topics in FSHS: Marital Infidelity	FSHS 300	94137	3 UG	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF 9:30 AM-1:00 PM
Topics in FSHS: Introduction to Marriage & Family Therapy	FSHS 300	94138	3 UG	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF 8:00 AM-12:00 PM
Topics: Building Intimate Relationships	FSHS 300	94135	3 UG	1/5- 1/21	MTWU 8:45 AM-12:30 PM
Seminar in Long Term Care Administration	GERON 610	94112	3 UG/G	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF 5:00 PM-8:30 PM
VETERINARY MEDICINE
Fundamental Concepts in Emerging Pathogenic Disease	DMP 770	94109	3 CR	1/5- 1/21	MTWUF 8:30 AM-11:45 AM

K-STATE Division of Continuing Education
www.dce.ksu.edu/intersession

PLUG INTO A USED COMPUTER with the classifieds
Kansas State Collegian
103 Kedzie • 532-6555

CLASSIFIEDS

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

A two-bedroom apartment, close to campus. Short term lease available. Available mid- December or 1st of January. (785)317-7713.

BRITTNAY RIDGE. Four-bedroom, study, two and one-half bath, town home. Washer/ dryer. 2519 Candlecrest, lease required. No pets. $1050, $1050 deposit. (785)537-9740.

COZY TWO-BEDROOM. Only a year old with all new appliances. Includes washer and dryer. Has own driveway. (785)341-1636

CRESTWOOD APARTMENTS. West side Two-bedroom, one and one-half baths. Personal washer/ dryer. Water, trash, cable television paid. No pets. $590. (785)776-3345.

FOR JANUARY 1. Nice large two-bedroom apartment. Gas, water, trash three-forths paid, laundromat, $480. (785)539-2482 or (785)539-9315 or cell phone (785)565-8116.

ADVERTISE ADVERTISE
CLASSIFIEDS • 532-6555

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT. Available for Spring semester. $380 month Includes cable, water, trash. Brand new carpet (785)537-1336.

ONE-BEDROOM NICE basement apartment. Right next to campus. Ready for spring semester. $385 with gas and water paid. (785)556-6899.

TWO-BEDROOM WITH study, private balcony, laundry, cover parking, walk to campus, central air-conditioning. January lease, $515- $545/ month. (785)341-6091.

120 For Rent- Houses

SHORT TERM lease January- May or July. Two-bedroom house, laundry hookup, parking, campus six blocks. (785)537-8389 leave message.

TWO, THREE, or four-bedroom house. Very nice four-bedroom house will rent as two or three bedroom with reduced rent. Central-heat and air, washer/ dryer hookups. Very spacious with two bathrooms, six blocks to campus. Available January 1. Call Doug at (785)341-4554.

125 For Sale- Houses

FOUR- FIVE-BEDROOM house, close to campus. Available. Call Larry at Century 21, night (785)317-7713.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE for a four-bedroom duplex. Washer/ dryer. Available January. Rent $275. Call Megan. (785)539-8490.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for luxury, four-bedroom apartment across street from West campus. Laundry, parking, no smoking, no pets. $300. (785)776-6318.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for spring semester. Nice five-bedroom three bath house. Common rooms furnished. Washer/ dryer. $300 rent plus one-fifth utilities. (785)539-9887, (785)825-2937.

ROOMMATE NEEDED to share house. Three blocks west of campus. (785)556-0098.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share three-bedroom house. $225/ month plus one-third electric and cable. Call Kimberly (785)456-4204.

150 Sublease

FOUR-BEDROOM, ONE and one-half bath, spacious, practically in Aggieville. $900/ month heating included. (four roommates- only $225 per person). (785)776-5102.

ROOM FOR Rent. Sublease wanted for spring semester. House two blocks west of campus. $240/ month plus one-fifth utilities. Laundry facilities. (785)537-3096.

ROOMS FOR rent, next to campus, one-bedroom in brand new four-bedroom apartment. Free washer/ dryer, central-air, parking. (785)537-7050.

we kick ads.
CLASSIFIEDS • 532-6555

000 bulletin board

010 Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY!" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes and lowest rates. Call (785)776-1744, www.ksu.edu/ksfc

ATTORNEY, CHUCK Harper, expunge convictions before job application, paternity, custody, net free adoption, civil law, 400 Poyntz, (785)539-8100, chuckharper@msn.com

020 Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

HEADBAND FOUND December 23 on the sidewalk on the northwest side of Justin Hall. Come to room 225 Justin to identify and claim.

030 Post a Note

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a post a note.

100 housing/ real estate

105 For Rent- Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2440.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT available January 1. One block from campus. Water/ trash paid. Off-street parking. $330/ month. Call (785)539-5579.

ONE-BEDROOM CLOSE to campus. Water and trash included. Available January 1. Central air/ heat. (785)537-7810

ONE-BEDROOM STUDIO, 1219 Claflin, half block from campus. $330 deposit. $330/ month. Water/ trash paid, no pets. (785)456-2812.

SEPARATE BEDROOM, study, living room, and eat-in kitchen. No smoking, drinking, pets. (785)539-1554.

TWO-BEDROOM, WALK to campus, ample parking, quiet conditions. Furnished or unfurnished. No pets. Available December 20. (785)539-3638.

ADVERTISING... IT WORKS
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
103 Kedzie
532-6560

105 For Rent- Apts. Furnished

"Stay In Class At The Commons"
Now Leasing for 2003-2004!
•Fully Furnished
•2 & 4 Bedroom
•Alarm System
•Swimming Pool
•Washer/Dryer
•Computer Lab
•Fitness Center
•Permit Parking
•Tennis/Volleyball Courts
•Individual Leases
Office Hours: M-F 9-5
539-0500
university COMMONS apartments
2215 College Ave.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

APARTMENT FOR rent spacious three-bedroom, two bath apartment. One-half block from campus at 1207 Kearney. Very low utilities. $245/ person per month. Very nice apartment at great location. Call (785)539-5236 or Angie at (785)537-7810

AVAILABLE JANUARY 1. Two-bedroom, newly decorated. Washer/ dryer hookup. Off-street parking. $480/ month. (785)537-2119, 8- 5pm, (785)539-2347 after 5pm.

EFFICIENCY, TWO/ three-bedroom units immediately available. (785)341-4496.

EXTRA NICE two-bedroom in four-plex with washer/ dryer hook-ups. Available January 6. $440/ month. No pets. (785)539-2356

FOUR-BEDROOM APARTMENT, 1521 Leavenworth, bills paid, $800. (785)539-8401

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, all appliances including washer and dryer. Only three years. Ready for spring semester. (785)556-6899.

JANUARY-- ONE-BEDROOM-$315, two-bedroom-$475. No pets. (785)587-0399

LARGE ONE-BEDROOM at 431 Leavenworth, $450, bills paid. (785)539-8401

NEWLY REMODELED two-bedroom apartments available January 1st, all utilities paid, $600/ month. Call McCullough Development Inc. (785)776-3804.

NEWLY REMODELED two-bedroom, one bath basement apartment, no pets, water and trash paid, $450/ month. Call McCullough Development, Inc. (785)776-3804.

NICE ONE-BEDROOM apartments. Close to campus. Water and trash paid. $415- $430/ month. Call MDI (785)776-3804.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT at 901 Moro, bills paid, $450. (785)539-8401.

ONE- TWO-BEDROOM apartment and houses. Available January 1 and now. Close to campus. www.rent-apm.com/ (785)539-4357.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENTS in new building, close to campus/ Aggieville. Available June/ August 2004. Call John at (785)313-7473.

ONE-BEDROOM AVAILABLE January 1. Rent $365. Call Amy (913)709-6283.

ONE-BEDROOM CLOSE to campus. Available January 1. $250, water/ trash paid. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296.

SEPARATE BEDROOM, study, living room and eat-in kitchen. No smoking, drinking, or pets. (785)539-1554.

STUDIO APARTMENT and one-bedroom, close to campus. No pets. $280/ month. 1030 Kearney. Call (785)537-0177.

STUDIO APARTMENT available January 1st located in the Wareham hotel. Water and trash paid, $405/ month. Call McCullough Development Inc. (785)776-3804.

SUBLEASERS WANTED, two- three-bedrooms. All bills paid except phone and internet. One block to campus, one block to Aggieville. $260/ month per person. (785)539-9751.

THREE-BEDROOM APARTMENT 815 N. 10th St, central air, bills paid, $675. (785)539-8401

THREE-BEDROOM APARTMENT at 930 Osage, $600, bills paid. (785)539-8401

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE block to campus. New carpet/ flooring/ some utilities paid. $660/ month, or best offer. (785)539-4641.

TWO BEDROOMS available in four-bedroom apartment. Near College and Claflin. $300/ month (utilities and internet included) Call Toby at (913)579-2486.

TWO OR three-bedroom, spacious. Close to campus or city library. Dishwasher, central air, laundry facility. No pets. (785)539-0866.

TWO PLUS bedroom, one block to campus. New carpet/ flooring/ some utilities paid. $620/ month. (785)539-4641.

TWO, three, and four-bedroom apartments. Close to campus, laundry, and parking. Call (785)537-6017.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT at 431 Leavenworth, $400, bills paid. (785)539-8401.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT available immediately. $230/ person. Free cable (785)313-1435. Please leave a message.

TWO-BEDROOM BASEMENT, near City Park, washer/ dryer, no pets, $450. Available January 1st (785)539-1145.

TWO-BEDROOM TOWNHOUSE, two and one-half bath plus unfinished basement. Washer/ dryer hookups. Water/ trash paid. No pets. (785)539-5627.

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bath basement apartment, no pets, water and trash paid. $360/ month. Call McCullough Development, Inc. (785)776-3804.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

VERY NICE two-bedroom apartment for rent, starting January 1st. Cats allowed. Call (785)539-5563 or (785)341-5441 for more information.

115 Rooms Available

ROOMMATE WANTED to sublease. Close to campus/ Aggieville. Washer/ dryer, $300 plus utilities. Call Nicole (785)776-6099 or (785)565-8785.

THREE ROOMS in large house available, block from campus. No pets, washer/ dryer, off-street parking. $250/ month. (785)317-1333.

120 For Rent- Houses

1724 WINNE. Four-bedroom, one and one-half bath. Updated and spacious. New carpet, paint, and ceramic tile. Close to football stadium. $850/ month plus utilities. Available December. (785)556-2652.

LARGE NICE houses- June or August leases. Call now for best selections. www.foremostproperty.com or (785)539-4641.

NEWER: FOUR-BEDROOM/ two bathroom. All appliances including washer/ dryer. Private parking. No smoking/ pets. 622 Bluemont- $1195. (785)776-9386.

NICE THREE-BEDROOM, close to campus. Available January 1. (785)537-0205.

NICE: THREE-BEDROOM/ two bathroom. All appliances including washer/ dryer. Private parking. No smoking/ pets. 620 Bluemont, $795. (785)776-9386.

THREE AND four-bedroom houses and apartments available January 1 and now. Close to campus. www.rent-apm.com/ (785)539-4357.

TIRED OF Apartment Living? Manufactured Homes For Rent. Pets Allowed. Beautifully maintained communities. Pool, playground, community center. Professionally managed. Call Manager for more details. (785)539-5841.

135 For Sale- Mobile Homes

16X76 1994 Shult. Excellent condition. Three-bedroom, two bath, dishwasher, disposal, washer/ dryer, all appliances stay. $23900 or best offer. (785)587-4661.

1976 18X70 trailer in Countryside Estates. $4000 or best offer. (785)313-3147 or (620)767-8279.

FOR SALE: two-bedroom, one bath mobile home. Well cared for, owners are December graduates. $4800 or best offer. Please call (785)323-0055.

FURNISHED 12X60 newly remodeled, pets allowed. 10X20 storage shed. Five minutes to campus. $16000 or best offer. (785)770-8794.

145 Roommate Wanted

A ROOMMATE needed January- July at 1836 Todd, very close to campus, washer/ dryer. $275 for rent. (785)341-8498.

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed for three-bedroom, two bath $210 rent and one-third utilities. Call Jessica (785)776-1621.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted $235/ month plus one-fourth utilities. Good study environment, townhouse, off-campus. (785)539-2288 or sublease_me_plz@hotmail.com

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted! Available January-July. Large bedroom. Rent $255 plus one-third utilities. Right across from East Stadium. (785)565-9340.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted, nice three-bedroom, one block from campus. 1850 Claflin. $260/ month plus one-third utilities. Needed for January. Call Anessa (816)806-6094.

FEMALE ROOMMATE WANTED. $275/ month, clean, quite apartment. Washer/ dryer. 1017 Vattier. Ask for Jacquelyn (785)341-3769.

GREAT PLACE, great location, great people. Female roommates wanted for spring semester sublease. Large rooms, private parking, common rooms furnished, washer/ dryer. Call Lindsay at (785)587-0296.

MALE ROOMMATE needed next semester, 1850 Claflin, fully furnished bedroom, kitchen, living, two bath, DSL internet. $270/ month negotiable (785)539-5429.

MALE ROOMMATE to share newer mobile home. $150/ month. (785)770-9547.

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share a two-bedroom house. Five minutes from the Student Union. Rent $275. (785)539-9981.

MALE, WALK to class, lower level. All furnished. Washer/ dryer without meter. (785)539-1554.

NEW, CLEAN duplex one block from campus on Ratone. Two full baths washer/ dryer, $250/ month plus one-fourth utilities. (785)776-3936 or (785)313-4381.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for clean three-bedroom, two bath, new house. Available January. For more information call (785)770-9206.

ROOMMATE NEEDED starting January at 1321 Pierre. Close to City Park, washer/ dryer/ trash included. $225 for rent. Call (785)224-9704.

ROOMMATE WANTED $200/ month plus one-half utilities. Washer/ dryer, can have two bedrooms, six blocks off campus, University Dr., no smoking, nice house and neighborhood. (785)317-4742.

ROOMMATE WANTED (for next semester. 1106 Bluemont. $250/ month (785)640-4752.

ROOMMATE WANTED to share a two-bedroom apartment. Walking distance to campus and Aggieville. Washer/ dryer, water/ trash paid, off-street parking and cheap rent. Call Jami (785)220-3744.

ROOMMATE WANTED. Less than 100 steps from apartment door to Fiedler. $300/ month plus one-fourth utilities. Available January. (785)317-0099.

SUBLEASER WANTED for spring semester, three-bedroom apartment with dishwasher. One block from campus. $210/ month 1850 Claflin. Call (785)770-3810/ (785)313-0013.

THREE CHRISTIAN guys looking for roommate. One and one-half mile west of campus. Washer/ dryer, $275/ month, negotiable. (785)341-3464, (785)537-4278.

TWO-BEDROOMS AVAILABLE, four-bedroom house. Five minutes from campus $240/ month all bills paid. (316)706-8548.

150 Sublease

CADI- CORNER from Union. One to four rooms available immediately. Great spot, act fast! $230/ month. 1725 Anderson. Call David (785)770-2711.

CAMPUS/ AGGIEVILLE- spring semester, two-bedroom, 1212 Bluemont. Trash/ water paid, laundry facility. $300/ each, January 1. Kelly or Karen (785)776-8980.

CAMPUS/ AGGIEVILLE- three-bedroom spacious apartment, start January. Central air, laundry, parking. 519 North Manhattan. Call (785)341-4158 or (785)341-9582.

DEPOSIT PAID for you! One-bedroom apartment available January 2- July 31. Water, trash, and cable paid. $380/ month. (785)539-6665.

FEMALE ROOMMATE WANTED starting January to live with two other girls. $265/ month plus utilities. Very nice house, can see campus from house. 1206 Bertrand. Call Lesley at (785)539-6790 leave message if not home.

150 Sublease

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed for spring semester. One-bedroom apartment. Two blocks from Aggieville. Rent negotiable call (785)564-1173.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed for spring semester. Beautiful house and three great roommates. Near City Park. $250/ month plus utilities. Call Renee at (785)565-0340.

MALE SUBLEASER needed. Two-bedroom apartment. Private parking, dishwasher, washer/ dryer. $262.50 a month. Available January, 716 Humboldt. Contact Casey (785)341-1162.

MALE SUBLEASERS needed: spring semester. Call (785)317-7558.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT, one block from campus. Off-street parking $300/ month plus cheap utilities. Available January 1st. Call (785)313-5550.

ONE-BEDROOM IN three-bedroom house. Close to campus with washer and dryer. Available January 1. $150/ month. (620)245-7681.

ONE-BEDROOM, $400/ month, water and trash paid, lease January- May. (785)537-9379.

ROOM FOR rent during spring semester. $280/ month includes water, trash, laundry. Has all amenities including fireplace. Low bills. (785)539-1272. mrl8888@ksu.edu.

SPACIOUS TWO-BEDROOM/ one bath. All utilities paid except electric. Available end of December. Call (785)806-3068.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for one-bedroom apartment. $379.56 rent/ month starting January 1. Includes utilities. Pets are allowed. (785)770-3060.

SUBLEASER NEEDED from January 1- July 30 to share a two-bedroom duplex. Very close to campus. Rent is negotiable. Call (913)269-2622.

SUBLEASER NEEDED, great two-bedroom house. Fully furnished, five minutes from Union. Private parking, available now. $380, all bills paid. (785)539-3408.

SUBLEASER NOW or by January 1. Block to campus, walk to Aggieville. All December bills paid. (785)565-8199.

SUBLEASER WANTED for January, brand new carpet, two-bedroom. Chase Manhattan Apartments. Email at ben_kern1@hotmail.com or call Ben (520)275-1344.

SUBLEASER WANTED January- July. Two-bedroom apartment. $575 a month plus electric. Laundry facilities. Dishwasher. Water and trash paid. (785)820-0879.

SUBLEASER WANTED: one-bedroom. January 1- August 1. $370. Water and trash paid. (785)539-7653.

SUBLEASER(S) WANTED for nice two-bedroom apartment at 11th and Laramie. Total rent $475/ month available in January. Call Dana at (785)565-0662.

SUBLEASERS NEEDED- January. Nice two-bedroom apartment, two balconies, one bath, fireplace, fully equipped kitchen. Trash paid. $640/ month. (785)317-4418.

SUBLEASERS NEEDED. Close to campus, Aggieville, and City park. nice two-bedroom apartment. $270/ month. Available January. Call Michele or Amy. (785)539-5334.

SUBLEASERS WANTED for spring semester. Two-bedroom, one and one-half bath apartment. Water/trash paid, laundry facilities, very close to campus. (785)658-5680.

SUBLEASERS WANTED January- May or longer if needed. Two-bedroom basement apartment. Close to campus. Very nice and clean. Call (785)776-2483.

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE and one-half bath. Close to Aggievilie/ campus. (785)341-9733.

WANTED MALE or female subleaser starting January 1 until May 1. House two blocks east of campus on Thurston. Call Dave at (913)208-0016.

200 service directory

210 Resume/ Typing

ARE YOU a procastinator? I can help you type papers or projects. Call Rhonda (785)539-3570.

220 Weight Loss & / Nutrition

LOOK BETTER, feel better, live longer. Proven, effective weight loss system and beauty care. Call Lancelot (785)223-5303, www.unicitynetwork.com/lancelot.

255 Other Services

FIRST RESPONDER. This program is for those who may be the initial care giver for an individual suffering from a medical emergency or traumatic accident. Fracture management, medical emergencies and CPR are covered in the course curriculum. Begins January 5. Manhattan Area Technical College (785)587-2800 for more information.

300 employment/ opportunities

310 Help Wanted

! BARTENDING $300 a day potential. No experience necessary. Training provided. Call 1-800-965-6520 ext. 144.

BARTENDER TRAINEES needed. $250/ day potential. Local positions. (800)293-3985 ext. 548.

CONOCO BRANDED C-store accepting applications for part-time clerk. Apply in person 2233 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

EARN YOUR associate's degree in Accounting Support/ Administrative Support in our Business and Computer Technology program. Full-time/ part-time classes begin January 7, 2004. Financial aid available. Manhattan Area Technical College. (800)352-7575, www.matc.net

GET PAID For Your Opinions! Earn $15- $125 and more per survey! www.paidonlinesurveys.com

HOME DAYCARE assistant needed. Looking for responsible, energetic, organized person to work part-time, beginning January 5. Call Julie (785)776-0019.

KSU STUDENTS- earn serious income! Work part-time from home. Be your own boss. We need self-motivated, ambitious young entrepreneurs! Call toll-free: (800)306-3602, ext. 4

MAINTENANCE: APARTMENT COMPLEX seeking full-time general maintenance position. Must have experience in repairs, painting, grounds keeping, make ready, etc. (785)776-3345 days.

MAKE MONEY taking Online Surveys. Earn $10- $125 for Surveys. Earn $25- $250 for Focus Groups. Visit www.cash4students.com/ksu <http://cash4students.com/ksuucinn>

OFFICE HELP and dance instructors needed for Manhattan Dance Studio. Approximately 10- 15 hours per week. Must have dance experience and be dependable. Please email NO1dancing@hotmail.com by December 5th, 2003.

PROGRESSIVE FARM 35 miles NE of Manhattan has full-time opening for personable individual who enjoys working with other non-smoking employees. Individual would assist in management of a farrow to finish operation producing F1 Gilts for breeding stock. Position also includes row cropping operation with large late model equipment. Housing provided. (785)889-4514

RECEPTIONIST NEEDED: State of the art dental practice seeking an energetic, patient oriented, self-disciplined receptionist to complement our existing staff. a dental background is preferred, but willing to train the right person. we offer a full benefit package along with a competitive salary. If you feel stuck at your current job, and are ready for a move fax your resume to (785)537-1401 attention: Kim.

RETAIL LIQUOR Store accepting applications for part-time clerk. Apply in person 2233 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

THE K-STATE Student Union Bookstore is now hiring an art and Alltel sales associate. Full-time Monday-Friday 8am- 5pm. Competitive wages plus commissions. 401K dental and medical plans. We are looking for an outgoing, self-motivated, friendly, people person who is interested in both art and technology. Application deadline is December 12. Apply at the art desk.

310 Help Wanted

STAFF RADIOGRAPHER. We are looking for a staff radiographer that is ARRT or registry eligible to work the night shift 2230 to 0700 hours. Applicant must be flexible and able to work independently. Interested and qualified personnel should contact Geary Community Hospital, 1102 St. Mary's road, Junction City, KS, 66441, fax (785)238-1700 or email to: cwitt@gchks.org, equal opportunity employer.

ADVERTISE.
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

STEEL AND Pipe Supply Company has an immediate opening for a part-time (approximately 20- 25 hours/ week) Warehousing Assistant at our Corporate office in Manhattan. Position is responsible for extensive typing and providing various types of assistance to the Quality and Warehouse departments. Candidates must have High School diploma or G.E.D. Vocational Technology and/ or college training preferred. Must have high degree of computer skills and be proficient in Work and Excel. Also must have knowledge of general office procedures and use of Dictaphone. Interested Candidates should send resume to: Steel and Pipe Supply Company, Warehousing Assistant, P. O. Box 1688, Manhattan, Kansas 66505. Equal Opportunity Employer.

TEACHER AIDES (certificate preferred) for Kindegarden and 5/ 6 classroom at Westmoreland Elementary. Start date and salary negotiable. Single health insurance provided. Call (785)457-3732 for application or Email: caffreyt@rockcreekschools.org. Equal opportunity employer.

THE OPERATIONS branch of CNS is seeking to hire two Computer Operations Assistants. The positions involve working with the university enterprise server, processing production request: decollating/ bursting output; and delivering printouts across campus. Must be able to work 10- 30 hours per week, including weekends, holidays, school breaks, and summer months. Applicants with two or more years of employment potential and/ or work study eligibility will be given preference. Hourly salary is $5.75. Contact Virginia Nowland at (785)532-4941. Applications can be picked up at Hale Library room 14 and will be accepted until 5pm Wednesday, December 10.

THE OPERATIONS branch of CNS is seeking to hire a Student Computer Operator for third shift. Job responsibilities include operating the Multiprise server; processing production jobs; printing and running cleanup output as needed; as well as other duties that may arise. Candidate must be able to work between the hours of 1:30am and 7:30 am Wednesday and Fridays and midnight to 9:00am every other Saturday. they must also be able to work weekends, holidays, breaks and summer months. Experience with computers is a plus. Applicants with two or more years of employment potential will be given preference. Work study is preferred, but not required. Hourly salary is $7.00 per hour. Applications can be picked up at hale Library room 14 and will be accepted until 5pm Wednesday, December 10.

WANTED: COWBOYS, Cowgirls to guide tourists and horses through the Rocky Mountains. Come work for the largest horse operation in North America. Write Sombrero Ranch at 3300 Airport Road, Boulder, CO 80301 or visit our website at www.sombrero.com

WANTED: TUTOR for high school student. Call (785)539-8293 after 6:00pm.

WANTED: OFFICE Assistant in doctor's office. Flexible hours. Must be personable, and have computer skills. Call (785)539-3975.

330 Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

400 open market

410 Items for Sale

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS- sleeping bags, overshoes, combat boots, camouflage clothing, wool socks and gloves, much more. Also Carhartt work wear. Open Monday- Friday, 9am-5:30pm, Saturday 9am-4pm, Open Sundays till Christmas 12noon- 4pm. St. Mary's Surplus Sales, St. Marys Kansas. (785)437-2734.

415 Furniture to Buy/Sell

COUCH FOR sale. Call (785)539-6410.

465 Tickets to Buy/Sell

BIG TWELVE Football Championship Tickets. Lower level, section 123, row 14. $750 per ticket or best offer. (816)985-6174.

FOUR BIG 12 tickets, section 320. $85 each. (913)522-8572.

ONE TICKET to Big 12 Championship in Kansas City on Saturday. $75. (479)650-2513 or (479)461-3148.

500 transportation

510 Automobiles

1996 HONDA Civic. White, two door, CD, and moon roof. Automatic. Asking $4500 or best offer. Call (785)317-2366 or (785)238-1942.

1999 OLDS Alero, remote start, excellent condition, $7250. Please call (785)341-4797.

FOR SALE: 1997 Jeep Cherokee. Excellent condition. Motivated seller, $5800, or best offer. No reasonable offer will be refused. (785)223-5303.

600 travel/ trips

610 Tour Package

WINTER AND Spring Break, ski and beach trips on sale now! www.Sunchase.com or call 1-800-SUNCHASE today!

630 Spring Break

ISO MANY Spring Break companies... Book DIRECT with the established leader in Spring Break travel. Better trips, better prices. Early booking incentives: book now with a small deposit (800)367-1252/ www.springbreakdirect.com

ACT NOW! Book 11 people, get 12th trip free. Group discounts for six plus www.springbreakdiscounts.com or (800)838-8202.

#1 SPRING Break Company in Acapulco now offers three destinations! Go loco in Acapulco, party in Vallarta, or get crazy in Cabo with BIANCHI-ROSSI TOURS. Organize a group and travel for FREE. Book now before it's too late! Call (800)875-4525 or www.bianchi-rossi.com.

NUMBER ONE spring break vacations! 110% best prices! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas, Florida, Acapulco, book now and receive free parties and meals. Campus reps wanted! 1-800-234-7 0 0 7 endlesssummertours.com

SPRING BREAK 2004. Travel with Student Travel Services, America's #1 Student Tour Operator to Jamaica, Cancun, Acapulo, Bahamas, and Florida. Now hiring campus reps. Call for group discounts. Information/ reservations 1-800-648-4849 or www.ststravel.com.

SPRING BREAK- sign up with Student Express and get FREE round trip airline tickets to over 15 International destinations- including Aruba, Dominican Republic, Costa Rica, Caribbean hot spots and more. Why go with anyone else. Limited offer- call now. Commission rep positions also available (800)787-3787or www.studentexpress.com now.

COCAINE
Crack cocaine production at center of arrests

Continued from Page 1

Lt. Kurt Moldrup of the RCPD said police would not speculate on whether Franklin was a primary manufacturer of crack cocaine in the Manhattan area.

"We believe he was doing the things he was arrested for," Moldrup said.

Franklin was arrested on charges of manufacture of crack cocaine, possession of crack cocaine with intent to distribute, possession of marijuana with intent to distribute, unlawful acts involving drug proceeds, no drug tax stamp and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Moldrup said the arrest was related to Monday's arrests of five people at 812 El Paso St., who were arrested on various drug charges.

WINTERDANCE | Annual dance showcases the work of department's students, faculty

"WinterDance is important because it shows what we've been doing in the basement of Nichols all semester," she said. "It's our way of saying 'come look at us, we've been working hard.'"

Of the 237 seats in Nichols Theater, 50 are still available for Friday's show and 100 are left for Saturday afternoon. There are 140 seats still open for the Saturday night show, which is competing for audience members with the Big 12 football championship game and one of the two "Cats" performances in McCain Auditorium.

"Sorting" was reset after 20 years by guest artist Susan Warden, who served as a K-State dance professor from 1977 to 1984.

Ollignton said guest artists are incorporated into WinterDance to expose the students to as many different styles of dance as possible.

"It's like the irritant inside of an oyster that becomes a pearl," he said. "Bringing in more styles creates better, more diverse dancers."

The second dance was "Trilogy of Compassion," choreographed by Lacey Beamon, junior in medical technology.

"The dance was originally going to be about stress, but the concept changed and is much more flowing," Beamon said, "although you can still see the stress."

The third piece, "Scrub Brush," which was choreographed by Kelsey Gray, senior in theater, is the story of two girls supposed to be working but are playing instead. Their boss catches them and the two girls drag their boss into their game.

"This is something everyone can relate to, because everyone at some point in their lives would rather be playing than working," Gray said.

Chase choreographed two pieces. Her first, "Fly," concluded the first act.

"Fly" is a sextet of advanced modern dancers, wearing unitards resembling clouds, who all have studied with Chase for at least two years.

"As I choreographed the dance, I realized there is a lot of flying-related imagery," she said.

Chase's other piece is a 17-member movement theater piece called "Invitation." This dance had no music, just the footsteps of the cast and dialogue inspired by Oriah Mountain Dreamer's poem "The Invitation."

Chris Hanewinckel | COLLEGIAN

Shawn Fisher, sophomore in biology and Lindsay Hartman, freshman in apparel marketing and design, perform a dance choreographed by Mary A. Chase titled "Invitation" during the dress rehearsal Wednesday night. WinterDance opened Thursday night and continues tonight with a show at 8 p.m. and two shows at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. Saturday in Nichols Theatre.

Joyce Yagerline, professor of dance, choreographed the first piece of the second act, "The Musical Offering."

"The Musical Offering" is WinterDance's sole ballet number set to a five-movement Johann Sebastian Bach song.

"I like classical music because it is educational for students and gives them something else to listen to," Yagerline said.

UPDATE | Students recovering after accident

Continued from Page 1

"I am feeling great," she said. "I still go to therapy in Illinois to get ready for next semester. I am a little bit more tired than normal. I am doing great."

Delph will be unable to finish the fall semester, as her memory and ability to focus are still limited.

"They said I might have subtle differences," she said. "My focus and memory will all get better within the next few weeks. I don't remember anything about the accident or a couple of days before the accident."

Lovig and Riordan also are continuing to heal after spending time in Manhattan's Mercy Regional Health Center. Both have returned to classes.

"Physically, I am healing up really fast," Lovig said. "It's been a really speedy process. I just had a few scrapes and bruises, and I dislocated my hip. I went back to classes the following Thursday."

Riordan, who suffered from a punctured spleen and collapsed lung, returned to classes Monday. He said he does have memory of the accident, and still is struggling emotionally with the loss of a friend.

"I realize that it's not my fault, but it's still tough losing a friend like we did," he said. "Mollie, Eric and Evan's parents have been really supportive of me."

It's his faith and support from friends and family, Riordan said, that has provided continued comfort. All four students were involved in KSU Navigators, a Christian campus organization.

"It has definitely been my faith and all the support from people in Navigators," he said. "Pat Bosco (dean of student life) and Scott Jones (assistant dean of student life) have been really good about keeping in contact and making sure things are going well. It's been a surprise at a big university like K-State that they would take the time to do all that."

Jones said the Office of Student Life makes an effort to reach out to students in times of tragedies.

"We reach out to them during the time of the incident and follow up shortly after," he said. "It's not uncommon for someone to get back in touch with us weeks or months after something happens."

Lovig said it has been difficult to concentrate on classes as the semester ends.

"It's still tough to focus during classes," he said. "I always find myself just staring off and thinking about the accident and Kevin. It's really hard to concentrate on doing anything."

Riordan and Lovig said they have plans to place a cross at the accident site as well as making the trip to Paola, Kan., to talk to the Armstrong family.

"We realize that it was Kevin's time, and God has a reason for everything," Lovig said. "He is definitely in a better place now."

KANSAS STATE
BASKETBALL
It's Game Time!
Commerce Bank Classic
Friday, Dec. 5
3:00 p.m. - Saint Louis vs. UTPA
5:00 p.m. - K-STATE vs. Sacramento State
Saturday, Dec. 6
1:00 p.m. - Consolation Game
3:00 p.m. - Championship Game
FOR TICKET INFORMATION CALL
1-800-221-CATS
OR VISIT WWW.K-STATESPORTS.COM

Liquidation SALE
20-50% off
•ALL SMALL ANIMAL SUPPLIES AND FOOD
•BIRD SUPPLIES & FOOD
•DOG & CAT SUPPLIES
Merry Christmas from Scaly Dave's Herp Shack
Stuff your pet's stockings without breaking the bank.
Scaly Dave's Herp Shack
"making you the expert on your pet"
1111 Moro • 539-1667
Tues-Fri: 10-8 pm Mon: 12-6 pm
Sat: 10-6 pm Sun: 1-5 pm

Film SALE
stock up now for the holidays
FRESH, UNOPENED FILM
Priced 20% less than discount stores.
Deeper discounts when buying in volume.
Fujifilm Color 800 Speed 35mm
$2.52 36 Exposures
$12.10 for 5 rolls
$23.95 for 10 rolls
Fujifilm Color 400 Speed 35mm
$1.80 36 Exposures
$8.50 for 5 rolls
$16.75 for 10 rolls
Fujifilm Color 100 Speed 35mm
$1.44 36 Exposures
$6.70 for 5 rolls
$13.15 for 10 rolls
Purchase in 103 Kedzie
8-5 M-F

do you feel a longing for more in your life?
IS GOD CALLING YOU?
do you radiate joy?

THE SISTERS OF ST. JOSEPH OF WICHITA
do you long to follow in the footsteps of Jesus?
Here's one way to help you find out.
Perhaps you're one of the rare women being called by God to follow in the footsteps of Jesus. But you're wondering, "how can I truly know if I've been called?" This free CD-ROM from the Sisters of St. Joseph may help you find out. To request yours, visit www.csjwichita.org. or call our Vocation Director, Sr. Ann Letourneau, at 316-689-4030. You'll be eternally grateful you did.
does love pour out of your smile?

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

BIG 12 CHAMPIONSHIP

Friday, December 5, 2003

Facing Goliath

Can the Wildcats bring this giant to its knees?

By Joel Reichenberger
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Something strange has been going on at the Vanier football complex.

A vibe – a type of electricity – is radiating from the bricks and mortar that make up the nerve center of K-State football.

Through the walls, behind the doors and buried deep within the souls of Wildcat players and coaches, something is giving off a signal. It isn't a loud signal – neither boastful nor misinformed but, nevertheless, something is being transmitted.

A message. An idea.

A plan. A hope.

As the rest of the nation hastily prints programs and tickets featuring OU on everything to do with the National Championship, and as college football experts and fans across the country brush away the dust and put the finishing touches on one Sooner's brand-new Heisman Trophy, the K-State football team, is working to try and change a history that's already been written.

K-State will try to shock the world by upsetting No. 1 Oklahoma in Saturday's Big 12 Championship – David meeting Goliath.

OU features numerous All-Americans. Jason White is widely considered the frontrunner in the Heisman trophy race. The Sooner defense is ranked No. 1 in the nation and the football team as a whole ranks near the top in a bewildering number of categories. Even the Oklahoma kicker is a finalist for the Lou Groza Award.

But the Wildcats want to shock the world. They want to beat the Sooners.

They're just crazy enough to think it's possible, too.

"This defense, this offense, everyone's been practicing very hard. This is probably the most focused we've been in a long time," junior Cedrick Williams said. "We're very confident. Even in practice now, we come out with a fast tempo. Everyone's all happy."

As crazy as it may be, as naïve as the numbers say and as foolish as the talking heads declare, the Wildcats don't care. Maybe they are defying logic by entering Saturday's game with confidence.

Or maybe they know something.

The report from throughout the team is that practices since the 24-14 victory over Missouri have been upbeat and intense.

Focused is the key word. Tape sessions have run longer than ever, pads have popped more than before. The Cats are getting ready.

"Most teams would probably be going to Oklahoma not knowing what they want to do, but we're really sure what we want to do," Williams said.

Rain, sleet, hail, snow, wind or even a sea of crimson and cream – Williams said it makes no difference.

"It may be a mixed crowd, but we don't care if it's all Oklahoma fans," he said. "We could play in Oklahoma, but no one's going to change the outcome or how we feel about this game right now."

The entire team is growing sick of hearing how good the Sooners are, too. The Cats have heard it all. Numerous times.

After a seemingly endless string of questions regarding Oklahoma's players at Tuesday's press conference, Coach Bill Snyder was relieved to finally be able to tackle a question about one of his own players.

"Obviously, we have to play very well," Snyder said. "That goes without saying. We have to play as well as we possibly can and that's all you can ask of the players. The chips will fall where they may. We are a very capable football team when we play well."

So when K-State faces No. 1 Oklahoma on Saturday, the team won't be scared. They are confident.

It may be David versus Goliath. It may be Joe Namath versus the Colts. It may be a snowball versus hell.

But to the K-State football team, it's anything but a joke versus No. 1.

To the team, it's just the Wildcats versus the Sooners.

"I don't think we're underdogs. That's something people write in the paper. If you think you're an underdog then you shouldn't be on this team," Williams said.

"I'm not pulling a Chad Johnson, I just believe in my team. If we play our best I think we'll win. No. 1, that's just a number."

Illustration by Angela Arneson | COLLEGIAN

INSIDE

All in the family: two coaches with a connection. Page 3

Flashback: a look at the 2000 matchup. Will history repeat itself? Page 6

A season to remember: it was no easy road to the Big 12 North title. Page 5

The Dr Pepper Big 12 Championship Game

No. 1 Oklahoma vs No. 13 K-State

7 p.m. Saturday on ABC ■ Arrowhead Stadium ■ Kansas City, Mo.

Sooner defensive back Antonio Perkins

Everybody is aware of the storylines in Saturday's Big 12 Championship Game – Bob Stoops against Bill Snyder, national championship implications, Jason White's throwing ability and K-State's ground attack.

There are dozens more, but perhaps the most intriguing match-up few people are aware of is between the Wildcat passing attack and the Oklahoma defensive backfield.

The Sooner secondary isn't led by any player in particular, largely because they all come heralded. Corner Derrick Strait was named first-team All-Big 12, Brodney Pool was a second-team pick and Donte Nicholson and Brandon Everage were each third-teamers.

By the way, Oklahoma's other cornerback, Antonio Perkins, is a first-team All-Big 12 punt returner.

But the Sooner defense will be charged with shutting down an equally impressive K-State passing game, led by third-team All-Big 12 quarterback Ell Roberson who has twice thrown for more than 300 yards in a game.

Roberson's top target is first-team All-Big 12 receiver James Terry, who has moved into third place on the Wildcat career touchdown reception list and seventh in total receiving yardage.

In the last six games, Antoine Polite has established himself as a threat opposite Terry, hauling in 24 catches for 296 yards in that time.

In addition to Roberson's receiving corps, he also has honorable mention All-Big 12 tight end Brian Casey and former All-Big 12 performer Thomas Hill to spread the ball around in a bind.

Wildcat wide receiver Antoine Polite

Projected Starting Lineups

Oklahoma

Offense		Defense
WR	Mark Clayton (9)	DE	Jonathan Jackson (49)
LT	Wes Sims (60)	DT	Tommie Harris (97)
LG	Kelvin Chaisson (70)	DT	Dusty Dvoracek (94)
C	Vince Carter (50)	DE	Dan Cody (80)
RG	Davin Joseph (77)	WLB	Teddy Lehman (11)
RT	Jammal Brown (55)	MLB	Gayron Allen (48)
QB	Jason White (16)	SLB	Pasha Jackson (53)
WR	Jejuan Rankins (3)	CB	Antonio Perkins (28)
WR	Brandon Jones (81)	FS	Brandon Everage (7)
RB	Kejuan Jones (20)	SS	Donte Nicholson (8)
TB	J.D. Runnels (38)	CB	Derrick Strait (2)
Specialist
P	Blake Ferguson (87)	PK	Trey DiCarlo (83)

K-State

Offense		Defense
WR	James Terry (5)	DE	Andrew Shull (98)
LT	Jon Doty (79)	DT	Justin Montgomery (92)
LG	Ryan Lilja (64)	NT	Jermaine Berry (91)
C	Nick Leckey (53)	DE	Thomas Houchin (94)
RG	Mike Johnson (60)	LB	Bryan Hickman (18)
RT	Jeromey Clary (66)	LB	Ted Sims (45)
TE	Brian Casey (86)	LB	Josh Buhl (7)
WR	Antoine Polite (2)	CB	Randy Jordan (9)
QB	Ell Roberson (3)	FS	Jesse Tetuan (23)
FB	Travis Wilson (44)	CB	Cedrick Williams (4)
RB	Darren Sproles (43)	SS	Rashad Washington (2)
Specialist
P	Jared Brite (6)	PK	Joe Rheem (16)

5 Games to Watch

Collegian pigskin picks

	Dave Skretta (29-16)	Wes Marfield (30-15)	Joel Reichenberger (29-16)	Zach Long (32-13)
#1 Oklahoma (12-0) vs #13 K-State (10-3)	Oklahoma 38-27	K-State 42-7	K-State 29-28	Oklahoma 45-13
#3 LSU (11-1) vs #5 Georgia (10-2)	LSU 19-16	Georgia 24-21	LSU 45-17	LSU 17-14
Army (0-12) vs Navy (7-4)	Navy 49-10	Navy 35-3	Navy 36-12	Navy 28-6
Oregon State (7-4) at #2 USC (10-1)	USC 41-24	USC 30-21	USC 55-19	USC 45-20
#17 Boise State (11-1) at Hawaii (8-4)	Boise State 63-35	Boise State 49-42	Boise State 38-36	Boise State 24-7

1 | No. 1 Oklahoma vs No. 13 K-State 7 p.m., ABC

From Arrowhead Stadium in Kansas City, Mo., a rematch of the 2000 Dr Pepper Big 12 Championship game that again has national implications. The Sooners won the first meeting, 27-24, and K-State is again a heavy underdog.

2 | No. 3 LSU vs No. 5 Georgia 7 p.m., CBS

The SEC Championship will make or break the BCS and who plays in the Sugar Bowl. The Tigers beat Georgia 17-10 on Sept. 20, setting up a monumental rematch from the Georgia Dome in Atlanta.

3 | Army vs Navy 3 p.m., CBS

The Naval Academy has already accepted a bid to play in the Houston Bowl. Now they set their sights on Army in the 104th installment of this great rivalry from Lincoln Financial Field in Philadelphia.

4 | Oregon State at No. 3 USC 3:30 p.m., ABC

Oregon State presents the last obstacle in the Trojans' road to the BCS and, perhaps, the Sugar Bowl. If USC and LSU both win, it all comes down to computer rankings for the right to play for a National Championship.

5 | No. 17 Boise State at Hawaii 10:35 p.m., ESPN2

Boise State may be the most electrifying team nobody has heard about. Led by quarterback Ryan Dinwiddie, Boise State has scored more than 30 points eight times and more than 50 points four times.

Royal Purple Yearbook
$34.95 get it in 103 Kedzie
Now 8am-5pm

Get THIS. . . . . or THIS

FREE unlimited tanning
w/ minimum purchase of 6 month membership
Purchase by 12-31-03
PRO AGGIEVILLE

Dr. Paul E. Bullock
Dr. Jarad M. Waite
Optometrists
$10 Off
Complete Eye Exam
with coupon
Expires 12/19/03

Save up to $20 on complete eyeglass or contact lens packages.
We fill outside prescriptions
• Most contact lens fittings done same day.
• Glasses also available same day in most prescriptions.
776-9461
Toll Free 1-800-432-0036
1441 Anderson Ave.
• Anderson Village •
Adjacent to KSU

Holiday Molds are Here
CELEBRATING 10 YEARS
J and I's Gifts and Ceramics
715 N. 12th St. 776-0840
Bisque • Firing • Repair • Supplies • Greenware on order • Finished Items

$$
I want to help you save money.
776-1855
Call me today! You may qualify for money-saving auto insurance discounts.

Jon Harper
Wildcat Lending
1814 Claflin Road, Suite 220
Manhattan, KS 66502
Office: 785-776-1855
Fax: 785-539-2577
E-Mail: jharper@amfam.com
AMERICAN FAMILY INSURANCE
All your protection under one roof
© 2000 American Family Mutual Insurance Company and its Subsidiaries
Home Office - Madison, WI 53783 • www.amfam.com

MANHATTAN SHOE REPAIR
25
Repairing:
Purses, Shoes, Boots, Luggage, Birkenstock, Satin Shoe Dying, Ball Gloves, Leather Coats, Backpacks
HOURS: M-F 8-5:30 Sat. 8-1:00
216 South Fourth • 776-1193
GET 10% OFF WITH THIS AD

First and Second Rounds
Volleyball
Division IV
NCAA
Friday, Dec. 5
5:30 p.m.
S.W. Missouri State vs. Arkansas
7:30 p.m.
K-STATE vs. Ohio
Saturday, Dec. 6
5:00 p.m.
Second Round
Get your tickets NOW!

FOR TICKET INFORMATION CALL
1-800-221-CATS
OR VISIT WWW.K-STATESPORTS.COM

All in the family

Close relationships exist between K-State, OU coaches

By David Skretta
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A common perception is that college football is like a family.

With players and coaches so closely knit, it often seems that way.

So when part of that family splits away to join the enemy – pretend a Hatfield all of a sudden became a McCoy – problems are bound to exist.

Such was the case when, in 1999, Bob Stoops took over at Oklahoma and summarily looted the K-State coaching staff of some of its best young talent – his brother, Mike Stoops, a defensive guru, Brent Venables, and an offensive mastermind, Mark Mangino.

That fueled animosity between the Sooners and K-State, although Coach Bill Snyder recently said that has subsided.

"I think it has," he said. "It did pretty quickly."

It couldn't have helped, though, that one year later the Sooners beat K-State to win the Big 12 Championship en route to a national title.

But one product of such close relationships with the opposition is knowledge – the inside information, tips and tendencies Snyder, and Stoops for that matter, knows about on the opposite sideline.

"(Bob) is a young guy that nothing was beneath him," Snyder said. "He just rolled up his sleeves and went to work. There wasn't any doubt I wanted Bobby in our program at the time."

Stoops left in 1995 to direct Florida's potent offense under Steve Spurrier, before taking the Sooner job just 330 miles south of Manhattan.

But even before Stoops joined K-State, Snyder was familiar with him. He was a four-year starter at defensive back for Iowa when Snyder was an assistant there, and spent five years as an assistant coach.

Which, incidentally, is very much the route taken by Mike Stoops to Manhattan.

The younger brother was an All-American defensive back at Iowa before spending six years as an assistant.

He joined K-State in 1992 and worked his way to assistant head coach by 1998, before going to Oklahoma the next season.

Venables is a different case, though.

The Salina, Kan. native was a linebacker for the Wildcats in the early 1990s before joining the team as an assistant in 1993.

When Mike Stoops left, it didn't take long for Venables to follow.

The case with Mangino, currently orchestrating a resurgence at Kansas University, is different as well.

Mangino was a high school coach before joining the Wildcats in 1991, eventually orchestrating a Michael Bishop-led offense in 1998 that ranks among the best all-time K-State.

And all of those coaches stared across that December night at Arrowhead Stadium in Kansas City in 2000, when the Sooners held on to win, 27-24 in the Big 12 title game.

But this year is different.

Stoops is having to deal with other programs looting his coaches now, too.

Mangino left two years ago for the Jayhawks, and Mike Stoops was recently named head coach at Arizona, a position Snyder believes he is ready for.

"I'm pleased for Mike and I think he'll do a very, very good job there," he said. "He's developed a quality understanding of the complete organization."

When asked if Mike leaving so close to the Big 12 title game would effect Oklahoma's focus, Bob Stoops said it would be business as usual.

"We're all excited for Mike," he said, "but it's done. It's finished. Mike's here working like he always is, getting them ready to play."

So, perhaps, despite the close relationships, focus Saturday night will still be on the game – between the white lines of Arrowhead.

"We don't make an issue," Bob Stoops said. "Everybody is still focused on winning."

Former K-State assistant Bob Stoops now leads one of the nation's top programs

OKLAHOMA SPORTS INFORMATION

Nose tackle Jermaine Berry sacks Missouri quarterback Brad Smith in K-State's 24-10 win over the Tigers on Nov. 22

Lindsey Bauman
COLLEGIAN

Berry leads line at defensive tackle

By Andi Rice
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

When it comes to glory, that's what offensive players are for, nose tackle Jermaine Berry said.

"It's not that big of a deal," Berry said. "I don't really care about the hype, just as long as we win. That's all I care about."

At a hair under 6-feet, Berry leads the defensive line with 73 tackles and tops the team in sacks (7) and quarterback hurries (11).

"He's not the biggest guy in the world, not the tallest, but he's got a motor and a heart bigger than anybody I've ever seen come through K-State," tight end Thomas Hill said.

"He's kind of like the next Tank Reese. I don't want to label him as that, but the way Tank played as hard as he did and with his size it's the same with Jermaine.

"He's fast as hell. You wouldn't think it, but when he gets out there he runs. He likes to play this game and he likes to hit. He fills the holes. He's a big part of our defense."

Berry has started all 13 games this season after a redshirt year in 2002 following his transfer from Butler County (Kan.) Community College.

"He is an anchor point of the defensive line," defensive end Andrew Shull said. "He's kind of quiet, but then again, when you get behind closed doors, he's always joking around and always has a smile on his face."

When it comes to his position, Berry said he sometimes has to do things he doesn't want to.

"I try to dominate the line and make plays," he said. "Sometimes it's not set up for me to make the play. Pretty much, the D-line, we know our role. Sometimes we don't like our role. We don't like the role of tying up two people so that someone else can make the tackle, but the sooner we get on the block the sooner we can make the tackles."

Off the field, Berry studies criminal justice and lives with two of his cousins.

"I just try to find a little comfort zone so that I'm not worrying about football plays, practices and games," he said "I stay with two cousins, so when I go home I'm away from football and can relax for a couple of hours until I have to come back."

As for Saturday's Big 12 Championship game against Oklahoma, Berry said the plan is to pick apart Heisman Trophy candidate Jason White, like the 2002 squad did to Southern California Heisman winner Carson Palmer.

"This game I think we are taking more serious," Berry said. "I didn't play last year, but they played against USC and their quarterback was the Heisman Trophy winner, and everybody saw what happened last year."

Shull agreed with Berry, and said pressure on the quarterback is going to be essential.

"Instead of us just going and trying to get sacks, we need to have good pressure," Shull said. "We've got to take care of our business and we've got to get to Jason White and not let him sit back there and pick us apart."

$7.99 ONE-TOPPING LARGE HomeStyle PIZZA
• NOT TOO THICK
• NOT TOO THIN
• CHOICE OF DIPPING SAUCE
-Marinara
-Ranch
-Garlic
AVAILABLE ONLY AT PIZZA HUT
$7.99 One Topping HomeStyle
• Aggieville 1121 Moro 539-7686
• Westloop 2931 Claflin 539-7447
• 3rd & Moro 231 Moro 776-4334
EXPIRES DEC. 23, 2003
•1/20 Cent Cash Redemption Value
Pizza Hut of Manhattan 2003
Pizza Hut

GREEK Letter

The Greek Letter is a monthly advertisement that publicizes Greek life and events. If you have any questions or comments, please contact Greek Affairs at 532-5546.

You can still join!

Are you wishing you had joined a fraternity or sorority?

You still can!

Fraternities are still recruiting spring new member classes! Opportunities for Continuous Open Bidding are still available for women!

To find out more information you can access the website and apply online at www.ksugreekaffairs.com, or stop by the Office of Greek Affairs at 203 Holton Hall, 532-5546.

The men and women of Interfraternity and Panhellenic Councils would like to wish you good luck on finals, and a happy and safe Holiday Season!

Faculty Member of the Month

Soontae An---Principles of Advertising
Nominated by Delta Tau Delta

The November faculty of the month is Soontae An, professor of Principles of Advertising. Professor An was nominated by the men of Delta Tau Delta fraternity. The Delts said that Professor An is an amazing teacher that does her best to make class interesting every day. She mixes up her classes with both discussion and videos.

She is very understanding and patient and is willing to work with students who are absent, whatever the situation may be. "Her door is always open to her students and she treats every student with respect," they said.

Delta Tau Delta nominated her because she makes class very enjoyable and fun to go to every day. We would like to congratulate Professor Soontae An for her outstanding contributions to Kansas State University.

Greek of the Month

We would like to congratulate Jennifer Lyon of Kappa Delta, the November Greek of the Month recipient. Jennifer is a member of Kappa Delta where she serves as the Vice President of Public Relations.

She was nominated by her sorority because she sincerely cares about the entire Greek community. Jennifer said that she always has the interests of her sisters and fellow Greeks in mind, and that she works hard to be a positive influence and member.

Jennifer was instrumental in getting National Women's Friendship Day recognized as an official holiday in Kansas. She also planned and organized the essay contest that went with the week and a self-defense class for women. "I just thought that women needed to know how to protect themselves, and I saw this event as something I could do to help the community as well as Greeks."

As Vice President of Public Relations, Jennifer always tries to excite the chapter with positive PR and strives to be a good role model. She says she tries to be a 'cheerleader' for Kappa Delta, and a member that everyone can trust and talk to.

The Interfraternity and Panhellenic Councils would like to congratulate Jennifer for her outstanding contributions to her sorority and the Greek Community.

Α Β Γ Δ Ε Ζ Η Θ Ι Κ Λ Μ Ν Ξ Ο Π Ρ Σ Τ Υ Φ Ψ Χ Ω Α Β

Kelly Glasscock | COLLEGIAN

Ell Roberson pulls away from Nebraska's Demorrio Williams during K-State's win in Lincoln on Nov. 15. K-State will take on Oklahoma Saturday in Kansas City, Mo. for the Big 12 Championship.

Looking for redemption

Previous OU games have primed Roberson for success against Sooners in Big 12 title game

Joel Reichenberger
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State hasn't played Oklahoma for two seasons, but that doesn't mean Ell Roberson doesn't know who he's facing on Saturday.

Roberson knows Oklahoma.

Against the Sooners he had one of his best games ever, throwing for 253 yards and running for 115.

Still a work in progress as a sophomore in 2001, Roberson lit up Memorial Stadium in Norman, Okla., bringing the Cats within a breath of an upset, 38-37.

As a freshman in 2000, Roberson watched the Cats battle the Sooners in two heated match ups.

Jonathan Beasley again brought K-State within a hair of an upset, one that would have destroyed Oklahoma's unbeaten season and National Championship run.

So when K-State's star quarterback takes the field on Saturday, the weight of the situation will not be overlooked by him.

But that's not necessarily a good thing. Roberson came out of the locker room ready to break through a brick wall against Nebraska.

A pregame confrontation with Husker quarterback Jammal Lord further fired the senior's furnaces.

The emotion was evident when the game started, too. Roberson's first passes had the velocity of a cannonball – and the accuracy, too.

He underthrew hard, he overthrew hard, and he even threw straight too hard.

"There was obviously so mitigating circumstances at the start of that ball game," former Wildcat quarterback Matt Miller said.

"I think that could have been the cause of it. Ell calmed down and led us to maybe the greatest victory in our program's history."

Roberson's season, in a sense, has mirrored his teams. He has his ups – playing tremendously through most of the Nebraska game and against Kansas and Baylor – and he had his downs – as ineffective against Texas, Oklahoma State or Missouri.

With so much on the line Saturday, Roberson's teammates say it will be important for him to inspire the team but check the excess emotion.

"He's a leader of this team. It's important for him to come out and stay calm, stay patient and let things take pace," tight-tend Thomas Hill said.

"You can't go out and try and get it all at once. It's going to be important for him to stay calm, get calls in and get audibles out."

At the same time, fullback Travis Wilson said the fire Roberson brought to the huddle in the first quarter against Nebraska may not have been good for the passing game, but it was good for the team.

"He's a leader of this team. It's important for him to come out and stay calm, stay patient and let things take place."

Thomas Hill
K-STATE TIGHT END

Even if it led to passes that threatened to put a hole in plastic shoulder pads, his confidence was contagious.

"You guys said that Ell came out a little fired up, and he did. But you didn't look at the fact that it fired the rest of the team up," Wilson said.

"When you get a leader that gets that fired up before the game, it's going to fire everyone else up. I know it fired me up. I think it helped us."

Roberson has seen Oklahoma triumph three times in his career. Saturday however, he'll have a chance to change.

Saturday he can finish what he watched as a freshman and a sophomore.

Fired up or not, Hill said Roberson always leads the team.

"He was a little hyped, a little riled up (against Nebraska). But he settled down and got into his grove," Hill said. "Ell did was he does, and that's make plays and help this team win."

Shock the world, Wildcats

JOEL REICHENBERGER

No. 1 in the nation, Heisman probable, all-American packed – K-State isn't playing any old Oklahoma team Saturday.

No, the land-grabbin' thieves that will show up Saturday are the best team in the country. They can best the Cats seemingly across the board.

At no point, aside from fleeting moments against Alabama and Colorado, has a team hung with Oklahoma.

Coupled with the K-State's losses to Marshall, Texas and Oklahoma State, the game probably should be called off.

Or so the Sooners think.

It is amazing the way the media and Oklahoma are looking at Saturday's game. No one gives the Cats a chance.

To the fans of the great (great when they're winning, embarrassing then they're losing) Sooner nation, the game might be within 50-points.

But anyone who is that naïve doesn't know a couple things about Wildcat football.

There's a lot of things Oklahoma and the rest of the world aren't counting on Saturday. K-State's pass rush, for example, has been completely ignored.

If ever there was an Achilles heel with the super-Sooners it is to the pass rush. They surrendered five sacks to Baylor of all teams.

While Jason White picks out the panties he's going to wear to the Heisman Trophy presentation in New York, Andrew Shull, Thomas Houchin and Bryan Hickman are watching tape, preparing to pummel White into the ground.

K-State's tried to blitz the Sooners before.

In 2000 Heisman-runner up Josh Heupel was knocked on his butt nearly every play. Still, he delivered the ball through the traffic, got up and was ready for the next down.

White won't be so lucky.

He has been protected well at time this season, but OU has never faced a pass rush or defense the quality of K-States.

White will drop back looking for Marcus Clayton. Then, before he even realizes his favorite receiver is blanketed by Cedrick Williams, Boom!

Season over. White's knees, duct taped and super-glued together following devastating injuries in 2001 and 2002, can't handle the stress.

Question: Can you accept the Heisman from a hospital bed?

The Sooners also are overlooking Darren Sproles.

If there is any position at which Oklahoma has no equivalent, it is at running back. Sproles has run laps around OU's best backs and the Big 12 in general.

Once primarily just a shifty, impossible to touch and even harder to tackle runner, Sproles now packs significant power atop his nimble toes.

Just ask the Cornhusker than went for a 10-yard ride, clinging to Sproles's jersey as the junior dragged him for a touchdown in K-State's 38-7 win in Lincoln.

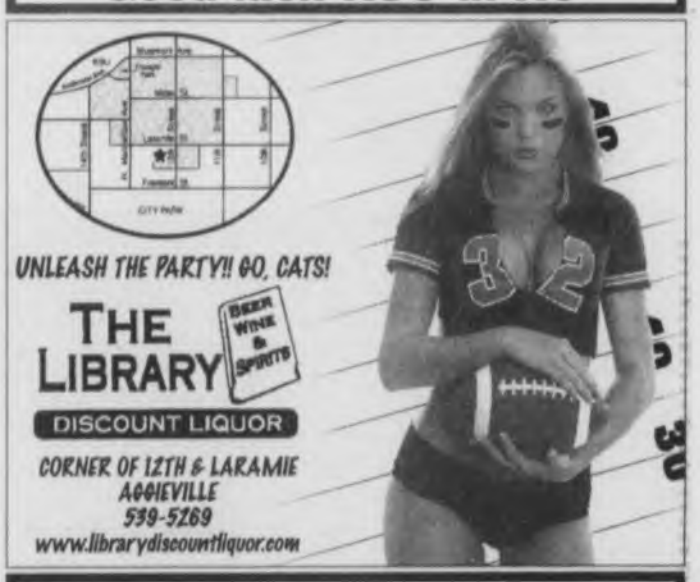
Then there's one more fact that the glare from the National Championship Trophy has prevented OU from realizing.

The Cats are going to come to play. An early season loss to Marshall?

Who cares. It didn't seem to effect the Nebraska game much.

This K-State team showed inconsistent athleticism followed by six straight weeks of domination.

Go ahead Sooners. Overlook it. You'll go to the Sugar Bowl anyway.



It's just K-State right? I mean, they lost to Marshall.

Go ahead. Overlook the game.

Screw OU. Shock the world Saturday, Cats.

Joel is a senior in journalism and history. You can e-mail him at pilotksu@hotmail.com.

Chiropractic Family Health Center
Dr. Kenyon L. Erickson, D.C.
"Adjusting" to your needs
1213 Hylton Heights, Ste 117
Manhattan KS 66502
(785)539-3600
Good luck KSU in KC

Good Luck wildcats
Visit On The Wildside in Aggieville for all your Graduation and Holiday needs.
on the Wild Side

Precision Automotive Inc.
537-5050
Go Cats!
Complete Car & Truck Service & Repair Center
Domestic & Imported
Westside Location 1120 Waters St.
Mon.-Fri. 7:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.

December Specials
$60 Foil Highlight (add another color & haircut $10)
$30 Men's Highlight & Haircut
$25 Full Set of Nails
$12 Lip & Brow Wax Combo
$40 One Hour Massage
$30 Facials
Clippers
717 N 12th 539-7021
"Best Deal in the Ville"
$60 Foil Highlight (add another color & haircut $10)
$30 Men's Highlight & Haircut
$25 Full Set of Nails
$12 Lip & Brow Wax Combo
$22.50 Women's Haircut
$14 Men's Haircut
Clippers Too
K-State Student Union
532-5972

Film SALE stock up now for the holidays
FRESH, UNOPENED FILM
Priced 20% less than discount stores.
Deeper discounts when buying in volume.
Fujifilm Color 800 Speed 35mm $2.52 36 Exposures
$12.10 for 5 rolls
$23.95 for 10 rolls
Fujifilm Color 400 Speed 35mm $1.80 36 Exposures
$8.50 for 5 rolls
$16.75 for 10 rolls
Fujifilm Color 100 Speed 35mm $1.44 36 Exposures
$6.70 for 5 rolls
$13.15 for 10 rolls
Purchase in 103 Kedzie
8-5 M-F

December 11th
POMEROY LIVE with special guest
UPSIDE
SILVERADO SALOON
$2.50 Miller Light Pounders
18 to enter 21 to drink

A football season to remember: looking back on 2003

By David Skretta
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The 2003 season began with championship dreams, and while the Wildcats were knocked from national title contention early, K-State still has its sights on its first Big 12 Championship.

But it has been a long road back to Arrowhead Stadium in Kansas City, Mo.

K-STATE 42, CALIFORNIA 28

Ell Roberson and Darren Sproles combined for 525 of K-State's 535 yards of offense, as the Wildcats bolted to a 24-7 lead before cruising to victory in the Black Coaches Associated Classic at Arrowhead.

Still, Coach Bill Snyder said he wasn't sure where his team stood after game one.

"I'm just trying to figure out if we're getting better," he said. "The answer to that is no."

K-STATE 41, TROY STATE 5

KSU Stadium fell silent as Sproles was escorted to the locker room in the first half after sustaining an injury, although it was later determined to be a minor injury.

Despite outscoring the Trojans 27-0 in the second quarter, defensive coordinator Bob Elliot said question marks still loomed.

"We've got some issues we have to deal with across the board," he said. "We see the potential for great improvement. We've just got to do it."

K-STATE 55, MCNEESE STATE 14

A week after dodging the injury bug, K-State wasn't so lucky.

On a relatively benign play, Roberson was hit while making a throw downfield, ultimately sidelining him for two games.

While the Wildcats opened a 27-0 first-quarter lead, and the Cats looked to be humming, losing Roberson was a blow that quarterbacks Jeff Schwinn and Dylan Meier couldn't alleviate.

"He goes down, that has a big effect on the offense," receiver James Terry said. "But we can't be concerned with what's going on with Ell. We have to depend on Schwinn coming in and making plays."

K-STATE 38, MASSACHUSETTS 7

Playing its first game without Roberson, K-State fell behind 7-0 but stormed back for a 28-7 halftime lead.

Sproles carried the load, gaining 152 yards and scoring on runs of 2, 8 and 1 yards.

But without Roberson, K-State was headed into what linebacker Josh Buhl called the "meat of the schedule."

"Every game is really important and is a hype game," he said. "It's a lot more fun to play the Marshall's and Texas's and the guys coming up."

K-STATE 20, MARSHALL 27

K-State fought back from a 16-10 halftime deficit to tie the game at 20 on a Sproles touchdown run with 8:22 remaining in the fourth quarter, but the Thundering Herd, a perennial Mid America Conference contender, drove the length of the field to go ahead 27-20 with 3:34 left in the game.

Schwinn led a fervent drive to give K-State a chance to tie the game, but his pass bounced off intended receiver Davin Dennis in the end zone as time expired to give the Herd the win.

"It showed we aren't as good as we thought we were," center Nick Leckey said. "We tried to put together some stuff, but it was just too little too late."

K-STATE 20, TEXAS 24

In Roberson's return, K-State battled back from a halftime deficit, and held a 20-17 lead late in the fourth quarter in Austin, Texas.

A 1-yard Vince Young touchdown run put the Horns on top with 5:19 to go, and despite two late chances to moved downfield, the Wildcats failed to muster any offense in the game's last minutes.

"You'd better come ready to play," Snyder said afterward. "I don't know exactly what every one has learned, but I would hope it's exactly that. Be ready when the time comes."

K-STATE 34, OKLAHOMA STATE 38

K-State trailed by as many as 18 in the fourth quarter, but two Wildcat touchdowns gave the Cats a chance on a dreary day in Stillwater, Okla.

But the Cowboys' Tatum Bell rushed for 143 yards as the Pokes capitalized on three Roberson interceptions to seal the win.

"This team has got to get back its own identity," defensive end Thomas Houchin said. "We have to be accountable for what we do."

K-STATE 49, COLORADO 20

A sellout crowd of 51,536 watched the Wildcats get back on track at KSU Stadium, as K-State outscored Colorado 34-7 in the second half to pull away from the defending Big 12 North champ.

Colorado out-gained K-State, but two blocked punts spelled doom for the Buffaloes, and gave K-State's its first win in a month.

"It feels good, but we've got to stay on track," safety Rashad Washington said. "We have a lot of games to play. Every one is crucial down the stretch."

K-STATE 42, KANSAS 6

Sproles became K-State's all-time leading rusher as K-State won its 11th-straight over the in-state rival Jayhawks.

After holding a 7-3 first-quarter lead, the Wildcats rolled off three unanswered touchdowns to blow out the resurgent Jayhawks and Snyder's former assistant, Mark Mangino.

"It's nice to come in the locker room and be smiling and feel good about what your team has done," offensive coordinator Greg Peterson said. "Winning breeds success. We're playing well and that gives us confidence."

K-STATE 38, BAYLOR 10

Terry hauled in three touchdown passes, and despite a sluggish start, K-State blew past Baylor for its third-straight win.

Terry was just the sixth player in K-State history to catch three touchdowns in one game, and had 138 yards receiving.

"We do things the right way, we'll be in good shape," receiver Antoine Polite said. "Destiny's still in our hands."

K-STATE 45, IOWA STATE 0

The Wildcats shut out its first opponent of 2003, allowing just 140 yards of offense to Iowa State.

The Cats also maintained control of their own destiny in the Big 12 North, due mainly to 24 points in the third quarter that put the game out of reach.

Sproles was at it again, rushing for a career-high 201 yards.

"The O-line just did a great job," Sproles said. "It feels good."

K-STATE 38, NEBRASKA 9

For the first time in 35 years, K-State left Lincoln, Neb. happy.

Behind Roberson's 313 yards passing and 90 rushing, K-State broke open a 7-7 halftime tie to win at Memorial Stadium for the first time since 1968.

Terry had six catches for 175 yards and Sproles added 140 more on the ground, as the Wildcats rolled up 561 yards on the vaunted blackshirts.

"I think we're making great strides," Roberson said. "We're feeling better about the things we're doing."

K-STATE 24, MISSOURI 14

On a frigid senior night, it was Sproles who carried the Wildcats to the Big 12 Championship game.

The junior running back rushed for a K-State record 273 yards on 43 carries, and also broke his own single-season rushing mark and the school's career all-purpose yardage record.

Sproles single-handedly outgained Missouri, which was held to just 264 yards, as K-State held the ball for nearly 18 minutes more than the Tigers.

"I was just in the zone at the time," Sproles said. "I didn't hear anything. I was just running."

White returns after career-threatening injuries to lead Sooners

By David Skretta
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Some call him the front-runner for the Heisman Trophy.

Others simply call him the trigger-man for the most potent offense in college football.

K-State coach Bill Snyder calls him "pretty doggone good."

One could also call Jason White the epitome of perseverance.

Oklahoma's senior quarterback suffered season-ending knee injuries the last two seasons, but this year has fought back to lead the Sooners to a No. 1 ranking and a Big 12 South title.

"The guy has 40 touchdowns to six interceptions, which is the best over the last 10 quarterbacks to win the Heisman Trophy," Oklahoma coach Bob Stoops said. "None of them compare to what Jason has done."

Well, maybe one does.

Snyder said White reminds him of one of his own former quarterbacks, Chuck Long, when Snyder was offensive coordinator at Iowa from 1982-86.

"He has all the ear-markings of a Chuck Long," Snyder said. "You watch him on video and he has the same dimensions and throws the ball the same way. You listen to what's said about him and it's the same things you'd say about Chuck Long.

OKLAHOMA SPORTS INFORMATION

Jason White leads top-ranked Oklahoma's potent passing attack.

"I saw a clip of him when he had taken his helmet off on the sidelines, and he looks exactly like Chuck did when he was a college student."

Long was a consensus All-American for the Hawkeyes and was the first in Big 12 history to pass for 10,000 yards, guiding Iowa to the 1985 Big 10 title and the Rose Bowl.

He won the 1985 Maxwell Trophy, presented to the nation's top player, and the Davey O'Brien Award, given to the nation's top quarterback. Long was also runner-up for the Heisman, which was won by Auburn's Bo Jackson in the closest ever vote.

"I have all the admiration in the world for Chuck Long," Snyder said. "He was a brilliant quarterback, and I understand this about Jason – he's a guy that puts in overtime, just like Chuck did.

"He prepared himself as well as anyone possibly could, and I hear the same things about Jason White."

The results speak the same, too.

Beginning the season off the national radar, largely due to torn ACLs in each knee over the last two seasons, White has gone on a tear.

He's completed more than 65 percent of his passes for 3,446 yards, and leads the Big 12 in pass efficiency rating, which Snyder said is the "tell-all" when it comes to comparing quarterbacks.

"What he has is a tremendous touch and a great propensity for accuracy," Snyder said. "He doesn't knock you down with bullets, but he dots the I's."

White also leads the only undefeated team in the nation, and as a quarterback, that means a lot, Stoops said.

"We lead the nation in scoring offense, and the biggest reason for that is Jason," he said. "He has the ability to handle it mentally along with his ability to direct the offense and learn and orchestrate plays."

Handling it mentally might be the biggest challenge, Stoops said, particularly when White has already begun reaping the awards of a banner season. He was recently named a Football Writers Association of America All-American.

But White said he still has his focus set on the Big 12 Championship game and a potential Sugar Bowl berth.

"It's a great award and a privilege to be categorized with some of the other great players," he said. "But I think our goal isn't for individuals. We'd much rather win a national championship than win individual awards."

Your 2003 Royal Purple is here
103 Kedzie 8am-5pm

Southside Auto Sales

'98 Nissan Frontier X-Cab
4 cyl., auto, air, 96K
$5,995

'96 Jeep Grand Cherokee
4x4, 6 cyl., loaded
$5,995

'99 Nissan Sentra
4dr, auto, 59K
$5,995

'97 Honda Civic Ex
4 cyl., 5 speed, 86 K
$5,995

'95 Nissan Pathfinder 4x4, auto., V6	$4,995
'96 Dodge Dakota Ext. Cab 350, V8, auto, loaded	$2,995
'98 Pontiac Bonneville SE 4 dr, loaded	$4,500
'97 Honda Accord LX 4 dr auto, loaded	$5,495
'96 Dodge Grand Caravan V-6, loaded	$4,495
'97 Chrysler Town and Country 88 K, leather, loaded	$5,495
'97 Ford Probe 4 cyl., 5 speed, Air	$2,995
'92 Dodge Conv. Van tailgate mobile, 81 K	$2,995
'87 Ford F-150 4x4, V-8, Auto	$2,495

425 Yuma, Manhattan, KS
785-776-2170 800-837-2170

R RadioShack. Manhattan
You've got questions. We've got answers.®

2.0 3x
99.99
Digital Camera For Under $100

SALE 7.99 EACH
Great-Sounding RadioShack 900MHz Cordless Phone

SALE 39.99
Dual-Engine Air Hogs® Defender Radio Control Plane

XMODS CUSTOM RCs
ONLY AT RADIOSHACK!

49.99 EACH
6 Models to choose from

The Coolest Christmas Gifts!!
Hours
Mon-Fri 9 to 8
Sat 9 to 7
Sun 12 to 6
R RadioShack
On Fort Riley Blvd.
Between 4th and 5th Streets
Manhattan
537-1476

Boots, Hats, Jeans, Belts, Shirts, and much more.
Now carrying Rockies jeans

Happy Holidays!
Seasonal Savings Storewide
Stay in style with our most popular brands! Wrangler, 20X, Levi's, Cinch, Cruel Girl, and Montana Silversmiths
(785) 776-6715

Lee's Western Wear
8424 E. Hwy 24
2½ miles East of Manhattan

Special Orders
If we don't have what you want, we'll gladly order it for you.
Mon.-Fri. 10-6,
Sat. 10-5

We Support the KSU Wildcats!
HONDA TOYOTA
Little Apple Toyota /Honda
785-539-7441 Manhattan • 785-238-8935 Junction City
OUTSIDE MANHATTAN DIAL
1-800-365-0017

TONIGHT@8
LIVE DJ
80's, 90's and today's hits
$2.50 captain morgan
open at 8 tonight
open at 6 on Saturday
BIG 12 CHAMPIONSHIP
come watch on our
BiG screen
KSU v. OU

Oh, The Places You'll Go...
Start your journey with Career & Employment Services
Interested in an internship, co-op or full-time job? Get ready with these free CES services:
• Resume Critiques
• Resume and Interview Workshops
• Career Resource Library
• WWW Resources
• Job Search Advising
Plus! Register with CES for on-campus interviews and job/internship listings.
Introducing these New Services:
• Wildcat Mentor Network
Get career advice & networking assistance from K-State Alums
• Career Search Database
Search for job/internship contacts by industry, location and more
Visit CES on-line or in Holtz Hall
www.ksu.edu/ces • ces@ksu.edu • 532-6506
POST-GRADUATION PLANS IN PLACE?
FULL-TIME JOB INTERNSHIP GRAD SCHOOL SEARCHING
LET US KNOW AT WWW.KSU.EDU/CES REPORT your JOB

Personal battle

Tight end Thomas Hill brings in a catch against Kansas on Oct. 25. Hill has five catches for 72 yards and 2 touchdowns this season.

Drew Rose | COLLEGIAN

Oklahoma-native seeks spoiler role against Sooners

By Andi Rice
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

After five years in the K-State football program, tight end Thomas Hill will enter Arrowhead Stadium Saturday for the game he's been waiting for since 1998, when he graduated from Nathan Hale high school in Tulsa, Okla.

"This game is my Super Bowl," Hill said. "I always said I want to play against Oklahoma and I want everyone to pay attention to me. I want to be the guy that they say, 'Hey he's from Oklahoma and he's going to K-State and he's out there ballin.'"

When Hill was a senior in high school, he recalls being a little disappointed that Oklahoma didn't pursue him as much as he would have liked, ultimately committing to K-State.

"They sent one letter, and that was when Coach Blake was there. I didn't hear from them again until Coach Stoops got in," Hill said.

"During Coach Stoops's first week there, he came to one of my high school basketball games and all the fans were chanting 'K-State, K-State' at him, while he had his OU jacket on."

After the game, Stoops came to his house and told him that he planned on winning a national championship.

"He told me that and he sounded real sincere about it," Hill said, "but at the same time I had committed to K-State and I went with my heart."

Saturday's game will also bring Hill face-to-face with one of his high school teammates, Kejuan Jones, a running back for the Sooners. Hill has kept in contact with him over the years.

"We've actually been talking a lot more this year since it looked like we were going to get the chance to go head-up in the Big 12," Hill said. "No disrespect to each other. We talk after the games. I'll see he puts up 120 yards or something and he'll see that I got a touchdown and we'll call each other and continue to communicate no matter what happens."

At the beginning of the season, Hill was sidelined with an ankle injury that could possibly have gotten him another season, tight end coach Matt Miller said.

"He had to get surgery and had the choice of getting another season to help himself with the NFL, so they could see him play a full season," Miller said. "But it was at a point where we were 4-2 and being a team leader, he wanted to come back at that point and go out strong with his senior class."

After missing six games, Hill's first game back was against Oklahoma State. He had two catches for 28 yards and a touchdown.

Tight end Brian Casey, who has played along side Hill this season, said the Big 12 Championship will be a big game for Hill.

"The first thing he said to me when we won was, "This is big-time for me. We're playing against my home town,'" Casey said. "He knows a lot of people from Oklahoma and he can't wait to play against them."

With his emotions in high gear, Hill said he gets tongued-tied when it comes to talking about this game.

"I just want to come out and have a great game, blocking and receiving. If I catch a pass or not, I just want to be seen out there by the people from Oklahoma," Hill said.

"I just want to come out and have a solid game – and there is nothing more that I want for this team than to bring home a Big 12 Championship."

File photo by Steven Dearinger | COLLEGIAN
K-State receiver Aaron Lockett dives for a pass against Oklahoma in the 2000 Big 12 Championship. The Sooners won, 27-24.

Flashback to 2000 championship

Andi Rice
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

When the last minute ticked off off the clock in K-State's match-up with Missouri, and the Wildcats clenched the Big 12 North Title, visions of the 2000 season have engulfed Bill Snyder and Oklahoma head coach Bob Stoops.

"There are a lot of similarities in that the game is in Kansas City, between Kansas State and us," Stoops said. "We come in undefeated and still seeking a National Championship and both seeking a Big 12 Championship. We're the home team again, as we were that year. I believe we have the same locker room. A lot of it is very familiar."

From the opening game against the University of California in Arrowhead Stadium, K-State's 2003 season started out like their 2000 trek, when they opened with a 27-7 win over Iowa also at Arrowhead Stadium.

Snyder said this season's game against California wasn't his way of saying they would be in the Championship game on Dec. 6.

"No, I (wasn't) forward enough to say that we were going to win a conference championship and be back in Kansas City," he said. "Yes to the possibility that it existed."

Coming into Saturday's game, the two teams have the same Big 12 records they had three years ago. Oklahoma is a perfect 8-0 and the Wildcats have a 6-2 record. This seasons two losses in conference play to Texas and Oklahoma State match the 2000 squads two losses to south teams Oklahoma and Texas A&M.

With Oklahoma's closest game coming in September against Alabama, winning 20-13, the Wildcats feel they might have the edge in a close game.

"They haven't seen many close games because they have gotten great starts and been blowing people off the ball," defensive end Andrew Shull said. "They haven't made the game close. We've had our share of coming back from behind. I think the main thing for us is to start fast and not get behind."

Stoops said he's can compare the 2000 and 2003 K-State teams in the way they run the ball.

"They do some of the same things," he said. " The option game is there, the quarterback run game, the quarterback draws, quarterback leads, quarterback counters – quarterback this, that, and the other.

"There are a lot of different ways that they try to create seams and running space with the quarterback or option it and pitch it to the tailback. That was there at those times (in 2000) but it continues to develop."

Despite being the underdog again, Snyder said the game is just about playing. He also said the Arrowhead experience along with the atmosphere in the game against Nebraska may help the team.

"The most recent experience of playing the University of California in Arrowhead is probably better serves this football team, having been in that environment," Snyder said, "but they environment will change because there won't be empty seats, it will be a different environment."

Even with a defeat in Saturday's game, predictors expect the Sooner's to play in the 2003 National Championship game.

"I see it every day," tight end Thomas Hill said. "I talk to people back home (in Oklahoma) and everybody is already saying that they are going to the National Championship and they are going to win the Big 12, I also see it on TV all the time. But, we really aren't focused on that."

As for the setback that K-State has been to the Championship game twice and come home empty handed twice, Snyder looks at Saturday as an opportunity.

"Everybody wants to achieve that and they want to accomplish it," he said. "I do too. I'm no different from anybody else in that aspect."

"We'll plan, prepare and go play. Whatever happens, happens."

Hurry!
Hurry!
Hurry!

TODAY is the last day to bill your 2004 Royal Purple yearbook to your spring tuition bill.

royalpurple yearbook.dvd

Go to royalpurple.ksu.edu
to order yours now.

Do you need to turn electronics, jewelry, sporting goods, music, cameras, guns, DVDs, etc. into cash?
We loan or buy any of these at the highest prices in town.
We also offer payday loans.

CHEER ON THE CATS!

Mister Money USA Pawn Loans INC

705 N. 11th • 501 A Fort Riley Blvd.
565-0046 • 2 mi. east of Mall • 537-1803
*2 Topeka locations too!

Purple Power
Good Luck Wildcats!
MANPOWER

2003 Royal Purple is here pick it up in 103 Kedzie 8am-5pm

Looking for an excuse to get into a new place? Ready for your new lease on life? We've got the perfect place for you, it's UNIVERSITY COMMONS. And what a place it is - ideally located, totally affordable, awesome apartments decked out with...

- 2 & 4 Bedroom Apartment Homes • Individual Leases
- Decked-out Kitchens • Fully Furnished
- Near KSU Stadium • Computer Lab with Copier & Fax
- Washers and Dryers in unit
- Tennis, Basketball & Volleyball Courts • Recreation Room
- Swimming Pool • Permit Parking • Exercise Room
- Monitored Alarm Systems • Roommate matching
- Balconies

the place for people like you...
2215 COLLEGE AVENUE / 785-539-0500
www.universitycommons.com

POWERCAT ILLUSTRATED'S GoPOWERCAT.com
www.gopowercat.com
K-State's online subscription sports news service
Two perfect news sources for serious Wildcat fans!
www.gopowercat.com
Makes a Great Gift!
Call 785-539-8041 or 1-888-4KSUCAT for subscription or gifts
TIM FITZGERALD'S POWERCAT ILLUSTRATED
THE SPORTS MAGAZINE BY K-STATERS FOR K-STATERS

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

www.kstatecollegian.com

Monday, December 8, 2003

Vol. 108, No.74

"We said we wanted to come back here at the end. We just fought hard and never gave up on ourselves. Meet us at the Fiesta Bowl."

Ell Roberson
K-STATE QUARTERBACK

UNBELIEVABLE

Kelly Glasscock | COLLEGIAN

Thomas Hill holds up the Big 12 Championship trophy after K-State beat No. 1 Oklahoma 35-7 on Saturday night in Kansas City, Mo. The Cats will travel to Tempe, Ariz., to play in the Tostitos Fiesta Bowl on Jan. 2. See Page 5 for more game coverage.

K-State 35, Oklahoma 7

Coach Snyder called it the greatest win in K-State history. The Wildcats' first victory against a No. 1-ranked team secured them as champions of the Big 12.

Chris Hanewinckel | COLLEGIAN

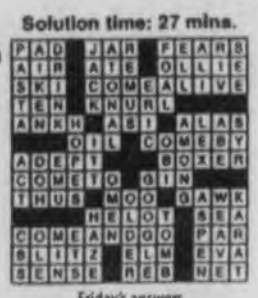
Brandon Schmidt, Manhattan resident and K-State graduate, and other K-State fans cheer at Buffalo Wild Wings after a third-quarter touchdown in the Big 12 Championship game. Fans packed into Buffalo Wild Wings to watch K-State beat the top-ranked Oklahoma Sooners 35-7 on Saturday night.

Kelly Glasscock | COLLEGIAN

Travis Wilson and Antoine Polite celebrate with James Terry after Terry's touchdown in the first half of K-State's win.

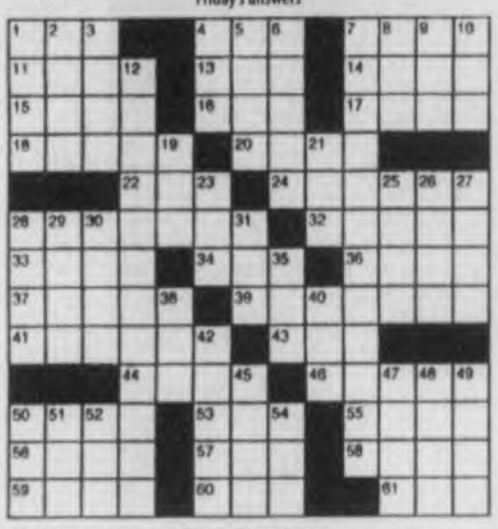
Weather

Today: Evening showers 56 | 32
Tuesday: Rain, snow, heavy winds 34 | 18



PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS 776-5577

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer



ACROSS
1 Proscription
4 Tally
7 Barney's pal
11 Venusian vessels
13 Watering hole
14 Easter symbol
15 Wash
16 Prompt
17 Competent
18 Impudent
20 Soother
22 Diving bird
24 Frost remover
28 Run playfully
32 Liqueur flavoring
33 Earring location
34 Pantheon member
36 Summertime pest
37 Entertain
39 17th-century art style
41 Soda holder
43 It came to Earth in March 2001
44 Jeopardize
46 Evade
50 Mock
53 Turf
55 Saharan
56 Differently
57 Mr. Baba
58 Stet opposite
59 Worm, often
60 Sweet potato
61 Ashen

DOWN
1 Future tulip
2 Somewhere out there
3 Bright star
4 Jennings' network
5 Apply crudely
6 Fear big-time
7 Early 1980s prime-time soap
8 Leaf vein
9 Right angle
10 Turn blue?
12 Oscar's home
19 Cadence call syllable
21 Meadow
23 Frat party item
25 Five (Fr.)
26 Jacob's brother
27 Anatomical network
28 Thick chunk
29 "Dream Along With Me" singer
30 Touch
31 Plagiarize
35 It'll hold water
38 Yalie
40 Disencumber
42 English homework, maybe
45 Caffeine-rich nut
47 Carey or Barrymore
48 Arizona river
49 Paradise
50 Civil War general Stuart
51 Chicken-king link
52 Omega preceder
54 Poorly lit

Solution time: 27 mins.

Friday's answers

12-15 CRYPTOQUIP

W XTNH VHCWMHV AX IH E OMENAWNWTR AMHH CDMRHXT, IDA W LEWTAHV EA ASH CWRSA XL CEO.

Friday's Cryptoquip: WHEN THE ENGLISH TEACHER DECIDES TO LOWER YOUR TEST SCORE, HAS HE DEGRADED YOU?

Today's Cryptoquip Clue: C equals S

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 1! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to CryptoClassics Book 1, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475

The Cryptoquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.

© 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

IN RETROSPECT

WORLD IN REVIEW: 7 THINGS YOU DIDN'T KNOW 7 DAYS AGO

Pearl Harbor remembered

Luci Pemonl | THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Herbert Weatherwax of Kailua, Hawaii, wears a bronze star on his Pearl Harbor survivors cap Sunday at the 62nd Commemoration of the attack on Pearl Harbor at the USS Arizona Memorial in Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

Staff and wire reports

It has been 62 years, and Americans still remember.

With a giant American flag waving at half-staff under a cloudy sky, an aging and dwindling group of Pearl Harbor survivors gathered Sunday to commemorate the Japanese attack that launched the United States into World War II 62 years ago.

The generations that have passed since Dec. 7, 1941 have softened the pain but not eroded memories. So said survivors of the attack in a service at the USS Arizona Memorial.

DISNEY OUT THE DOOR

Mickey Mouse's biggest supporter, Roy Disney, resigned after Walt Disney corporation urged him to do so.

Disney

But before resigning, he made sure to go out with style – by publicly stating his disapproval for Disney chief Michael Eisner – saying his era of control will soon come to an end.

Disney was the last heir of Walt Disney to serve on the board of the corporation.

ONLINE PHONE SERVICE DEBUTS

They have already shaken the music industry to its roots with their Kazaa file-sharing software. Now Niklas Zennstrom, 37, and Janus Friiss, 27, have turned their attention to another industry: telephony.

The duo's new creation, Skype, is hoped to do for phone calls what Kazaa did for file sharing. Download Skype's software at www.skype.com and buy a headset, and you can make free phone calls worldwide to anyone else who has installed Skype.

'PLAYMAKERS' LAMBASTED

Mark Shapiro, head of production and programming at Disney-owned ESPN has his own morning show. And the NFL hates it.

Shapiro

"Playmakers," whose scripts have included a player stealing painkillers from a young cancer patient, has been called the worst show on television by Tampa Bay's Warren Sapp.

"The saddest part is that it's being put out by the 'worldwide sports leader."

Other Shapiro memoirs: hiring the pre-committed Rush Limbaugh for the Sunday-morning NFL pregame show.

CATHOLICS TOUT CONDOMS

Using slogans such as "Abstinence has a high failure rate," Catholics for a Free Choice, a dissident lay group, began a pro-condom advertising campaign last week in defiance of Vatican policy

What's the fuss?

Much of the Roman Catholic hierarchy even in AIDS-blighted countries firmly resists condom distribution.

GO A LITTLE NUTTY

New studies show that people whose low-calorie diets include 3 oz. of almonds a day were slimmer than those who ate an equal number of calories in complex carbs.

But watch it: even a skinny nut is packed with calories.

ANOTHER REASON TO QUIT

A study by the Radiological Society shows women who smoke are twice as likely as men to develop lung cancer. Why is unclear, but the prescription – quitting now – is not.

The blotter | Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Thursday, Dec. 4

- At 8:58 a.m., Iran Gutierrez, 710 Humboldt St., was arrested for driving on a suspended license. Bond was set at $750.
- At 3:15 p.m., Jennifer Little, 2413 Brooklane, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $20.
- At 4:50 p.m., Douglas Anspaugh, 3413 Newbury St., was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $300.
- At 5:40 p.m., Michael Brown, Manhattan, was arrested for probation violation. Bond was set at $500.

Friday, Dec. 5

- At 2:45 a.m., Clifton Davis, 1430 Cambridge Place, was arrested for driving on a suspended license. Bond was set at $500.
- At 3:01 a.m., James Metz, 1205 Pomeroy St., was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.

The planner

Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@spub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- "Listening to the Prairie: Farming in Nature's Image," an exhibition that teaches the history of the prairie and new farming approaches, is at Hale Library.
- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Hamed Ghazali at 10:30 a.m. today in Bluemont 341D.
- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Daolin Fu at 1:30 p.m. today in Throckmorton 2002.
- KSU Aikido will conduct a martial arts class from 7 to 9 tonight in Ahearn 301.
- Circle K will meet at 8 tonight in Union 206.

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor James Hurla at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@spub.ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.

© Kansas State Collegian, 2003

Contact us

Kansas State Collegian
Kedzie 103
Manhattan, KS 66502
Display ads.....532-6560
Classified ads.....532-6555
Newsroom.....532-6556
news@spub.k-state.edu
Delivery problems.....532-6555

Wash Palace
$1.50 $1.50
Men's & Women's Dress Shirts
Wednesdays
laundered and starched
BRING IN THIS AD TO RECEIVE
20% off any DRY CLEANING or DROP OFF LAUNDRY
The Wash Palace
Exp. 3/31/03

Little Caesars
HOT-N-READY pizza
$5.00 LARGE WITH PEPPERONI Carry Out Only
ALL DAY, EVERYDAY!
1150 Westloop • 539-3333

GIVE PLASMA GET CASH
Donate Plasma And Earn $45 this week
Save Lives & Earn Cash.
ZLB Plasma Services
1130 Gardenway
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785)776-9177 • www.zlb.com

Worried about pregnancy after unprotected SEX?
Contact your heath care provider or Lafene for more information or contact;
National EC Hotline
1-888-Not-2-Late
(1-888-668-2528)
http://ec.princeton.edu
Paid for by Women's Reproductive Information Network (WRIN) Manhattan, KS
EC Emergency Contraceptive Pills
The Best Kept Secret in the USA
Prevent Pregnancy Up to 72 Hours After Sex

How To Get What You Want:
1. Circle your favorite items.
2. Cut on dotted line.
3. Send to Santa.
Mountain Bike
Sleeping Bag
Backpack
Ski Pants
Tent
Hiking Boots
Swiss Army Knife
North Face Jacket
Fleece Vest
Fly Rod
Climbing Harness
Gift Certificate for $___
the PATHFINDER
OUTDOOR EQUIPMENT SPECIALISTS
304 Poyntz
Downtown Manhattan
785-539-5639

Sell Your Textbooks at Claflin
December 8th-24th
It doesn't matter where you bought them.
Photo ID Required
Claflin Books and Copies
1814 Claflin Road
776-3771
Monday - Friday 9am-7pm
Saturday 9am-5pm
Sunday 1pm-5pm

FluMist™ is now at Lafene Health Center
If you don't like shots maybe you can get FluMist™, the intranasal influenza vaccine.
FluMist™ contains weakened live virus.
Check with your health care provider to determine if FluMist™ is a good option for you.
Injection Flu Vaccines are also available.
Now Available
8:30 am—11:30 am
1:30 pm—4:30 pm
Check in at the Business Office, 1105 Sunset Avenue
(patient parking available near building)
Cost: $10—Students; $12.50—Faculty/Staff
There is a required 20 minute wait after the vaccination.
Call (785) 532-6544 if you have questions.
Don't get sick!
Influenza is preventable.

Nicole Donnert | COLLEGIAN

Julie Neff, of Wamego, sorts toys during Toys for Manhattan on Saturday morning at a warehouse behind Mister Money USA. Toys for Manhattan supplies donated used toys as well as clothing and household items for those who are in need during the holiday season.

Toys for Manhattan helps needy families enjoy Christmas

By Leann Sulzen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

"You can take all you want but not more than you need," reads the sign at the entrance to the Toys for Manhattan building.

Toys for Manhattan is a place where families who have no money for Christmas gifts can pick out used toys to take home, Judy Padgett, program director, said.

"There are no requirements," she said. "It's for families that know they need help to come shop, and it seems those that are in need come."

Saturday was the first day of distribution of toys to families, and Padgett said about 50 or 60 people lined up outside the building early that morning.

Verletta Myers, volunteer, said some people had been waiting to get in more than an hour before the doors opened.

Padgett said about 50 to 75 percent of what they had was already taken by 10 a.m.

However, the toys in the building are not all they will have – there will be more donations to put out for the next two Saturdays of distribution.

Customer Debra Belyea said this was her first year to attend.

"I think it's really nice," she said. "It helps out people who can't buy gifts."

Padgett said the program started 40 years ago by a police officer named Al Myers.

Myers was called to a house on Christmas Eve, and when he got to the house he realized they did not have anything for Christmas.

He went back to the police station and told the rest of the police force about this family. The force searched through their children's toy boxes and picked out old toys to donate to the family.

Padgett said there have been several people who have donated – and not just toys.

The building was donated by a local resident, and local fund-raisers have helped pay the building's utilities.

This year the Toys for Manhattan building is heated, which has been a blessing to the volunteers, she said.

Verletta Myers volunteered for 24 years, and Al Myers, the founder, was her father-in-law.

"He always used to say, 'If you need help, find the people in the red hats'," she said. "That is why we always wear the red Santa hats."

Padgett said although the work is volunteer work, she still gets paid.

"My pay is in my heart," she said.

How to Donate to Toys for Manhattan

- Distribution center at 501 Fort Riley Blvd., behind Mister Money USA. Tuesdays and Thursdays from 5 to 8 p.m.
- Riley County Police Department, 1001 Seth Child Road.
- McCullough Development, 210 N. Fourth Street.
- Cellular One in Westloop shopping center.

For more information contact Judy Padgett at 313-2013.

Holiday crime concerns rise

By Lacey Storer
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

With studying to do and packing to finish, crime is probably the last thing on students' minds. But as the holidays approach, students are more likely to find themselves victims.

As the semester draws to a close, on-campus crimes increase – most notably theft.

Lt. Richard Herrman of the K-State Police said money is a big motive for thieves.

"Between now and the time school lets out for the semester, it's a trend that this time of year crime increases," Herrman said. "People are looking for travel money and gift money."

Criminals also benefit from the distraction finals brings to students. This can cause students to be more careless about keeping an eye on their things.

"Their minds are on final exams, studying and preparing for those. They're getting anxious, and their minds are on going home," Herrman said. "They leave things, a backpack or a computer, in a public place while they go do something else, not thinking of the security aspect."

Derek Jackson, assistant director of the Department of Housing and Dining, said people leaving the university after break may have more of a motive to steal.

"A lot of times, people who aren't coming back, they can grab it and know they never have to see that person again," Jackson said.

Though theft increases all over campus, Herrman said it occurs more in residence halls and vehicles.

Students studying in residence hall lobbies leave their books unattended while they go get food, or pack up for break early and leave stuff visible in their cars. The accessibility to these items heightens the chances they might get stolen.

Jackson said measures are taken to make students in the residence halls more aware of crime.

"We talk about it with the RAs, " Jackson said.

The residence assistants also coordinate programs to make students more aware.

Tanya Massey, resident life coordinator of Haymaker Hall, said she hasn't seen much of an increase in activity yet, but staff are telling students to be careful.

"We tell them at floor meetings to make sure they have their door locked and to be a little more guarded when they pack their car," she said.

Books are one of the items that get stolen most frequently. Since most people don't record their name in their books, it is easy for people to take them and return them for easy cash.

The best way for students to keep their belongings safe is to just be aware and use their head.

"You're as safe as you are smart," Jackson said.

911 call centers face cell phone issues

ASSOCIATED PRESS

The growth of cell phone use in homes is causing concern at the Kansas 911 centers, most of which do not have the technology to track the location of a cell phone caller.

That has long been a concern for motorists and is growing now that consumers can switch their land-line phone numbers to cell phones.

Sedgwick County will have technology soon to pinpoint home callers, but it will work only with cell phones manufactured in the last year or so.

But officials in other counties say it could be years before they can afford to upgrade their equipment, unless the Legislature approves a 911 fee for cell phones similar to the fee on landlines.

"It's cost prohibitive for us," said Chris Davis, director of Butler County 911. "Without that 911 tax, it would be quite a stretch for our department."

In Harvey County, "it's frustrating to a dispatcher knowing somebody is needing help and trying to get them calmed down," said Ron Hoffman, director of emergency communications. "Many, many times, cell phone users are unable to provide you with their location."

Nationwide, only about 15 percent of the more than 6,000 911 centers can trace cell phone calls, said William Cade, 911 director for the Association of Public Safety Communications Officials, which trains 911 dispatchers and works on policy and legislative issues.

Public safety is at risk in many urban and rural communities, Cade said.

"We're up to our necks in this issue," he said. "Wireless was the great promise made to us. It would work just like our house phones. But it doesn't."

Currently, operators can determine only which cell tower is transmitting a person's call and from what direction the call is coming, Gage said. Often, the number of the cell phone is also displayed.

In many Kansas counties, a caller's cell phone number does not always appear. Many times, operators have no way of calling the person back if they get cut off, officials said.

With the recent Federal Communications Commission ruling allowing consumers to keep their phone numbers when changing service, Davis is bracing for an increase in cellular calls to 911.

"It's just going to cause the problem to worsen," he said.

Cheryl Bini, a spokeswoman for Verizon, said Kansas trails other states in cellular tracing capabilities. Many counties cannot afford to implement the technology on their own, she added.

Coffee Makes You Smarter!!
(or at least it's fun to think so)
JAVA
Bring this coupon in during Dead Week, Dec. 8-12, to purchase 1 drink and get 1 drink FREE of equal or lesser value!
Mon-Fri: 6:30am - midnight
Sat: 7:00am - midnight • Sun: 8:00am - midnight
1219 Moro • Aggieville • 785.587.8888

A CUT ABOVE
Hair and Nail Salon
$5 off Chemical Service
$5 off Full Set of artificial nails
$3 off Shampoo, Cut and Style
Coupon Expires Dec. 31, 2003
Gift Certificates Available
1800 Claflin Rd. · Suite 110 · 785 537-3200

"always fresh"
Aces Liquor
We are proud of KSU Football!
special orders welcome
2024 Tuttle Creek Blvd.
776-4481

SEARCHING . . .
Are you searching for an opportunity to live within a community?
Have you been asking yourself:
What do I want most in life?
Catholic women between 18 and 35
why not visit
St. Catherine of Siena
HOUSE OF DISCERNMENT
3805 W. Walsh Place, Denver, Co 80219 303-922-2997 teriop@ksdom.org
This is a place to call home for a year while you listen to the voice within your heart.

CAN YOU "BOWL" LIKE A WILDCAT!!
"BIG CAT BOWLING"
SUNDAY, DECEMBER 14, 2PM
Win a Deluxe Trip for "2" to the KSU Wildcat's Bowl Game!
Register in center court this week for your chance to be "1 of 5" contestants.
(Package includes travel, hotel accommodations, pre-game festivities and game tickets)
The only catch is the pins are 5' tall and the bowling ball is 3' around!
In Downtown Manhattan • 539-9207 • www.manhattantowncenter.com
MANHATTAN TOWN CENTER

We deliver for FREE the latest!
GUMBY'S Pizza & Pub
Call now! 770-3333
Monday $3.99 •LARGE CHEESE PIZZA • MONDAY ONLY • CARRY OUT ONLY • TOPPINGS EXTRA•
Tuesday BUY ONE POKEY STICK AT REGULAR PRICE GET ONE EQUAL OR LESSER VALUE FREE
Rock N Roll Wednesday 50¢ Pepperoni Rolls/ pizza sauce/ ranch extra + tax.
$5.00 MINIMUM DELIVERY DELIVERY•DINE-IN•CARRY-OUT
THURSDAY Mania XL-16" Cheese Pizza $5.99
Bonus Buy Add on to any regular order
KISS MY BIG ASS SPECIAL 20" Cheese Pizza TOPPINGS EXTRA Limited Time!! ONLY $9.99 OR GET TWO FOR $18.99
THE DIRTY JOHN One 14" One Topping Pizza, 2 Liter of Pepsi, PLUS Free Bread Sticks (NOT POKEY STIX) Limited Time!! ONLY $10.99

Men lose to Beavers in overtime

Oregon State snaps 9-game losing streak against Big 12

By Louie Novak
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The men's basketball team's four-game winning streak was snapped in a 87-82 tripe-overtime loss to Oregon State Saturday night.

The Beavers' Kevin Field hit a short jump shot with 49.3 seconds remaining to put Oregon State up for good as the Wildcats (4-1) came up short in its first road game of the season.

Chris Stephens led the Beavers with 23 points and helped Oregon State snap a nine-game losing streak to Big 12 opponents.

Senior guard Tim Ellis narrowed Oregon State's lead to 81-80 in the third overtime before Field's jumper put the Beavers up 83-80. Stephens then hit four straight free throws for the final points.

After the game, Coach Jim Wooldridge said the outcome came down to who made plays when it mattered most.

"It could have gone either way," Wooldridge said. "It was a play here, a play down the stretch, and they made just one or two more than we did."

Junior forward Jeremiah Massey was a force for the Wildcats down low with 23 points and 12 rebounds in the loss.

Oregon State had its biggest lead of the game when Lamar Hurd threw down a dunk to put the Beavers ahead 42-28 midway through the game.

Although K-State struggled at times, the Wildcats refused to give up.

K-State trailed by as many as 14 points in the second half, and did not take its first lead until senior Jarrett Hart nailed a 3-pointer in the second overtime to put the Wildcats up 78-77.

J.S. Nash's 3-pointer gave Oregon State a 72-69 lead in the first overtime, but Massey countered with a jumper and free throw to tie the game at 72 with 23.4 seconds left.

See MEN Page 8

Wildcats prove columnist wrong in huge victory over OU

DAVE SKRETTA

I apologize to the entire Wildcat nation.

I erred.

I made a mistake.

I was wrong.

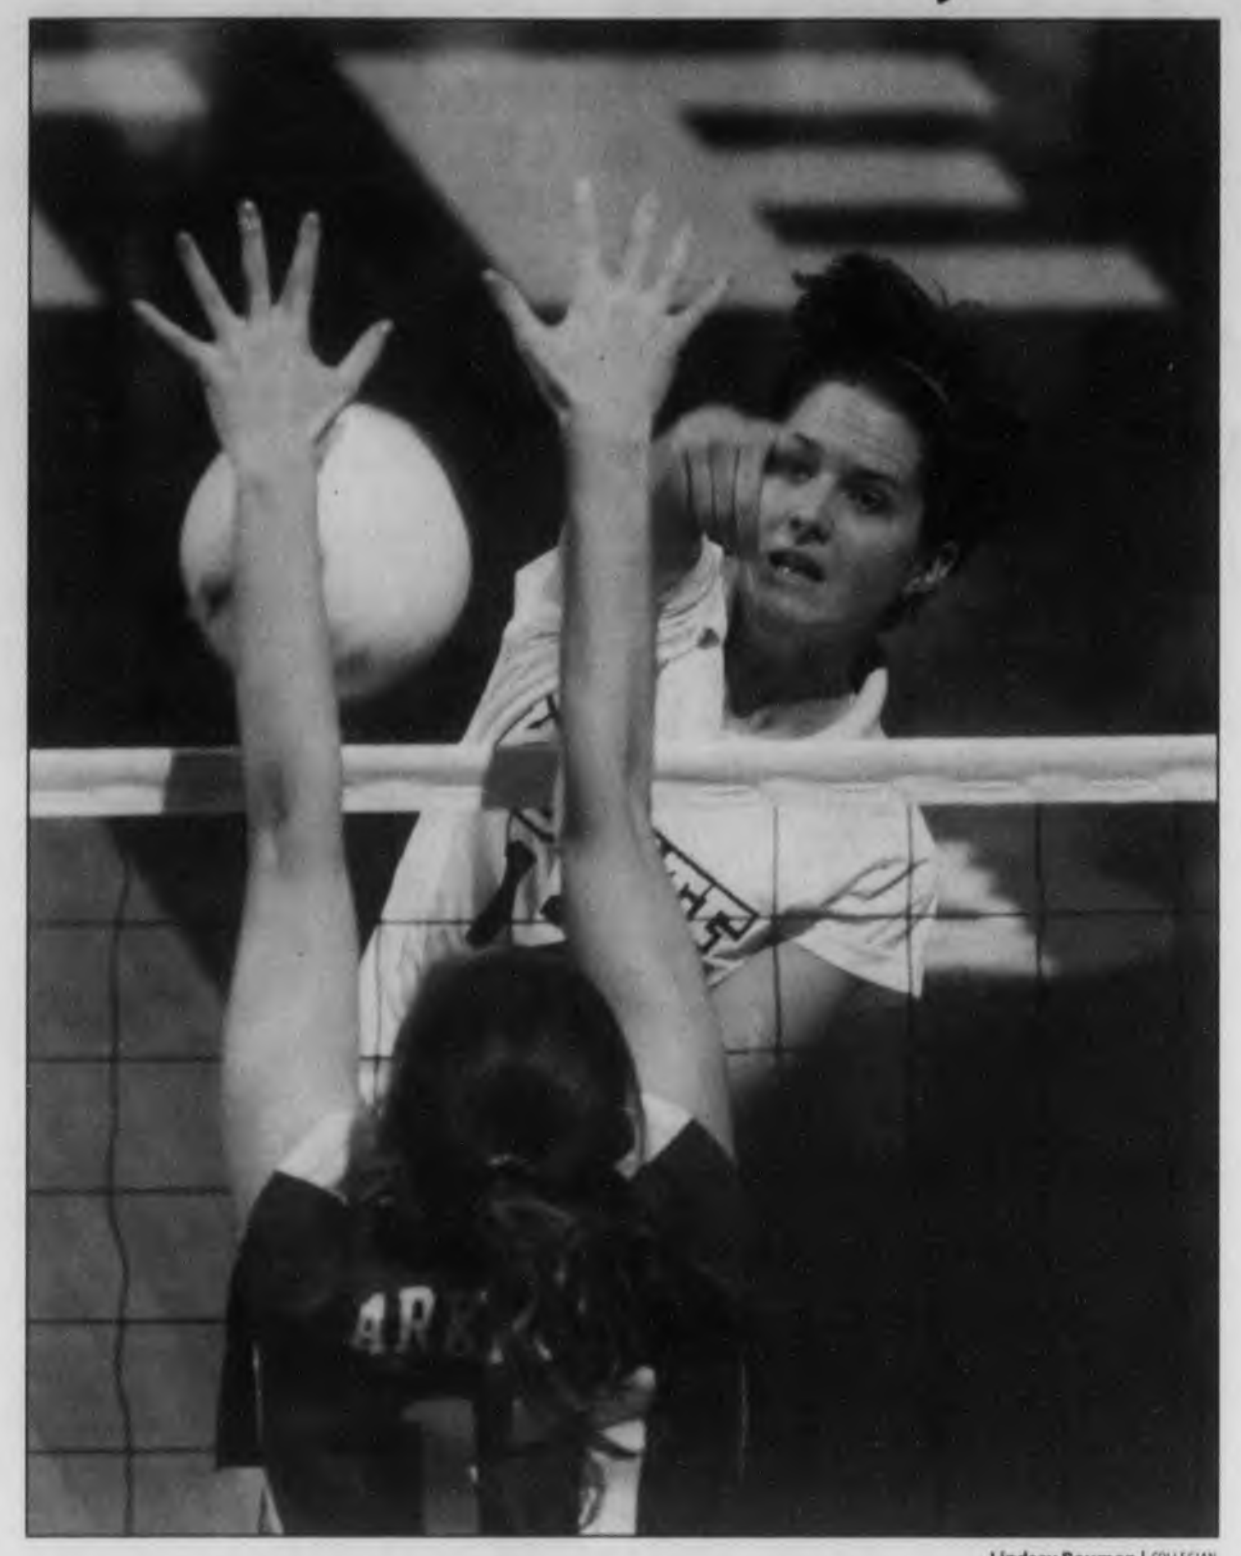
In Friday's Gameday, I mistakenly predicted Oklahoma to beat K-State in the Big 12 Championship game Saturday night.

You see, when I was typing that prediction, I somehow got distracted and lost focus.

I forgot that this is a bunch of Wildcats who persevered through a three-game losing streak just to make the Big 12 title game.

This was a team comprised of Ell Roberson, who Snyder called the toughest player in college football, and Darren Sproles, who Coach Bill Snyder rhetorically asked if people would vote for the Heisman Trophy.

There's Josh Buhl, playing with pride and guts on every play, and Rashad Washington, who battled through injuries to play nearly every special team as well as an immaculate game on defense.



And then there is Snyder.

Former Oklahoma coach Barry Switzer called Snyder not the greatest football coach of the year or decade, but of the century.

In a game in which Snyder faced, across the field, his former pupil and

See COLUMN Page 8

Sweet victory

Lindsey Bauman | COLLEGIAN
Valeria Hejjas puts down a spike against Arkansas during K-State's second round win in the NCAA Tournament to advance to the Sweet 16. K-State won 30-26, 30-27 and 30-21.

K-State women to face Penn State in Sweet 16

By Wes Marfield
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Looking at scores from K-State's opening round of the NCAA Tournament, one might think it breezed through its two matches, sweeping each 3-0.

Think again.

The Cats, who opened NCAA play on Friday with a win over Ohio, know both wins were closer than the scores indicated.

With that in mind, Coach Suzie Fritz emphasized taking both matches in three games was good for her squad.

"Any team that gets into the NCAA Tournament, Arkansas included, is a very talented team," Fritz said. "To win in three games shows the strength of our team and what they're capable of doing."

After advancing to the second round with its win over Ohio, K-State had to fend off Arkansas to earn its second-ever berth into the Sweet Sixteen.

K-State plays Penn State on Friday in Gainesville, Fla., to advance to the Elite Eight.

Game one saw the two teams trade points early before K-State built a 23-17 lead on a kill by Lauren Goehring. The Cats didn't look back, taking the first game 30-26.

The second game, however, was a different story.

After staying close from the outset, the Lady Razorbacks put K-State in a hole, 24-18.

The Cats responded with a 7-1 run to tie the match at 25.

Tied again at 27, Valeria Hejjas responded with a kill followed by an ace to put the Cats in control. They scored the next two points to secure a 30-27 win.

The Wildcats' ability to fight

See VOLLEYBALL Page 8

Drew Rose | COLLEGIAN
Sophomore outside hitter Michaela Franklin responds to a point that was scored during the first game of their match against Arkansas. The Cats swept the Razorbacks in three matches.

Women cruise in Commerce Bank Classic

By Nabil Shaheen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

As time wound down on K-State's 94-54 victory over Saint Louis to win the Commerce Bank Wildcat Classic on Saturday afternoon, freshman Tiffany Brooks grabbed a rebound as a leaping Megan Mahoney, going for the same ball, arrived one second too late.

Then the two laughed at each other and more than 8,000 in Bramlage Coliseum would have to wait another 90 seconds to see if Mahoney could pull it off.

The significance of that one rebound was that Mahoney needed it for K-State's first triple-double since Feb. 4, 1987.

Mahoney was not even in kindergarten at the time.

"I came out and I had no idea and Coach Ethridge said you might get to go back in for a minute," Mahoney said. "But I'm just going to tell you one thing – you need to get one more rebound. And I couldn't for about five minutes. I was trying, but I couldn't get one until that last three seconds."

Lindsey Bauman | COLLEGIAN
Megan Mahoney makes a move around Saint Louis' Tyler McIlwraith during K-State's win in the 2003 Commerce Bank Wildcat Classic Championship game. Mahoney recorded a triple-double during the game.

Mahoney's 10th and final rebound came on the final shot of the game. With .2 seconds on the clock, she secured the ball and the record.

Final box score: 12 points, 12 assists, 10 rebounds.

"It's just so neat to see a player like Megan Mahoney distinguish herself in Kansas State basketball history," Coach Deb Patterson said. "She's been such a major factor in the rise of this program to national prominence. For her to achieve something that is really going to stand in the record books for the long run is very special."

The Cats (5-2) improved their record in the tournament to 17-1 after Saturday's win.

Sacramento State was K-State's opening opponent Friday night, a game the Cats won 94-31.

Friday's game was also of historic proportions as Laurie Koehn joined the 1,000-point club, becoming the third person on the current K-State roster to do so.

"It just shows the heart that she has and the love that she has for the game," junior Kendra Wecker said. "To come back off the injuries that she's had and every day just continuing to get better, putting time in the gym and it shows on the court."

Koehn and senior Nicole

See WOMEN Page 8

1-MINUTE DRILL

Staff Reports

Football | Fiesta Bowling Cats break the top 10

Bolstered by its upset of No. 1 Oklahoma, K-State jumped into 10th in the ESPN/USA Today Coaches' Poll and eighth in the Associated Press Top 25, both released Sunday afternoon.

The Wildcats also moved into 10th in the Bowl Championship Series standings and will play No. 6 Ohio State in the Tostitos Fiesta Bowl on Jan. 2 in Tempe, Ariz.

The Associated Press

NFL | Portis runs wild as Broncos buck Chiefs

Clinton Portis had 218 yards and a team-record five touchdowns, leading Denver to a wild 45-27 victory over the Kansas City Chiefs on Sunday

Portis

Portis' effort helped Denver (8-5) tie Miami for the final AFC playoff spot and prevented Kansas City (11-2) from winning its first division title since 1997.

BCS | Georgia gets nod for SEC title game

College football fans, get ready to crown not just one, but possibly two national champions.

That's because the computer rankings had Oklahoma as the country's top team Sunday while the human poll voters picked Southern California.

Despite getting walloped by K-State 35-7 on Saturday night, Oklahoma will take its 12-1 record to the Sugar Bowl against LSU, which won the Southeastern Conference championship by beating Georgia 34-13.

NFL | Smith breaks all-time sack record

Smith

Bruce Smith became the NFL's career sacks leader when he tackled Jesse Palmer for a 7-yard loss in the fourth quarter of the Washington Redskins' game against the New York Giants on Sunday.

Smith passed Reggie White, who had 198 sacks in a 15-year career.

MLB | A-Rod on the block

Texas general manager John Hart said he wants to know by Dec. 16 whether American League MVP Alex Rodriguez will remain with the Rangers next season. A trade for Boston's Manny Ramirez has been discussed for several weeks, and Hart maintained a decision must be made when team representatives meet for their winter meeting.

MLB | Teams solidifying rosters early

The Oakland Athletics offered salary arbitration to star shortstop Miguel Tejada on Sunday, leaving open the possibility they could re-sign the 2002 AL MVP. The Seattle Mariners are also interested in Tejada, along with several other teams that need a shortstop and have more money to spend than the low-budget A's.

In the National League, Florida increased their offer to Pudge Rodriguez on Sunday as they faced a midnight deadline to sign the All-Star catcher or defend their World Series without him. Rodriguez and his agent talked with Marlins front office Sunday.

NFL scores

Kansas City	27	Chicago	21
Denver	45	Green Bay	34
Indianapolis	29	Arizona	14
Tennessee	27	San Francisco	50
Washington	20	Dallas	10
NY Giants	7	Philadelphia	36
Houston	0	Seattle	7
Jacksonville	27	Minnesota	34
Oakland	7	San Diego	14
Pittsburgh	27	Detroit	7
Tampa Bay	14	Miami	0
New Orleans	7	New England	12
NY Jets	6	Carolina	14
Buffalo	17	Atlanta	20

K-State 35, Oklahoma 7

Kelly Glasscock | COLLEGIAN

James Terry catches a pass over Antonio Perkins for a touchdown to take the lead over Oklahoma in the Big 12 Championship game Saturday night. With the win, K-State will play in the Fiesta Bowl on Jan. 2.

Stunning the Sooners

Cats overcome slow start en route to Big 12 title and Fiesta Bowl berth

By David Skretta
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

KANSAS CITY, Mo. – In a game billed as David versus Goliath, K-State upset consensus No. 1-ranked Oklahoma, 35-7, on Saturday night before a sold-out Arrowhead Stadium to capture the Wildcats' first Big 12 championship.

"There's a lot of wins over the last 15 years that we've cherished a great deal," Coach Bill Snyder said. "This is probably the most significant to most people."

Walking into Arrowhead as 14-point underdogs, K-State dismantled a previously impenetrable defense, shut down a Heisman Trophy front-runner, and left no doubt who is the best in the Big 12.

The Wildcats also locked up its first Bowl Championship Series berth by accepting an invitation to the Fiesta Bowl on Jan. 2 in Tempe, Ariz.

But, early in the game it appeared the Cats would simply be another instance of OU road-kill on the way to their national title.

After K-State (11-3) went three-and-out on its first possession, Sooner tailback Kejuan Jones raced 42 yards for the game's opening touchdown.

But K-State, ever resilient in

See CHAMPIONSHIP Page 10

Kelly Glasscock | COLLEGIAN

Darren Sproles runs the ball against Oklahoma in K-State's victory Saturday night at the Big 12 Championship game. Sproles had 235 yards, the most rushing yards by one player against Oklahoma in the Sooners' history.

Cats secure spot in Fiesta Bowl

By David Skretta
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

What a way to ring in the new year.

After winning its first Big 12 title Saturday, K-State accepted a bid Sunday to play in the Tostitos Fiesta Bowl against Ohio State on Jan. 2 in Tempe, Ariz.

Kickoff is scheduled for 7 p.m. Central, and ABC will televise the game live nationally from Sun Devil Stadium.

"We are absolutely delighted to have two great teams in the 33rd-annual Fiesta Bowl," Leon Levitt, bowl chairman, said. "In many ways, we are welcoming two teams back."

The Wildcats played in the Fiesta Bowl in 1997, when K-State beat Syracuse 35-18. Ohio State beat Miami 31-24 in overtime last season to win the National Championship, and its return trip this season will mark the Buckeyes' fourth Fiesta Bowl.

"We remember very vividly the tremendous treatment they gave us," Ohio State coach Jim Tressel said. "We're excited to play a great Kansas State football team."

K-State's allotment of about 18,500 tickets is priced at $85 per ticket and goes on sale at 8 a.m. today at the Bramlage Coliseum Ticket Office. Ahearn Scholarship Fund donors get seating preference until Dec. 11.

In 1997, K-State painted Tempe purple as more than 50,000 Wildcat fans flooded the city.

But according to the Fiesta Bowl's John Junker, don't expect K-State to make this year's matchup just another home game.

"There are over 30,000 registered Ohio State grads in the Valley of the Sun," Junker said. "Ohio State will bring a large number of fans, and an awful lot of them live in or around Arizona."

This will be the first ever meeting between K-State (11-3, 7-2 Big 12) and Ohio State (10-2, 6-2 Big Ten), and the game also marks the first time the Wildcats have played a Big Ten team since beating Iowa on Aug. 26, 2000.

"We're excited about the opportunity," Coach Bill Snyder said. "The community, the state, the university, our players and coaches are really, truly pleased to have this opportunity."

K-State, ranked eighth in the Associated Press poll released Sunday, got the opportunity by upsetting previously unbeaten, No. 1-ranked Oklahoma 35-7 Saturday in the Big 12 Championship.

Tressel, who was busy with recruiting visits, said he saw parts of the contest.

"They're the Big 12 champions, and it's not a shock to me," Tressel said. "Kansas State is an outstanding football team."

The Buckeyes finished their season with a loss to bitter rival Michigan, but Snyder said he expected Ohio State to have forgotten about that loss by the time the teams hook up in the desert.

"It's such a traditionally rich football program," he said. "Jim has brought the program even to another level. We know, hopefully, we can make it exciting for everyone involved."

If you go
Fiesta Bowl

What: K-State vs. Ohio State.
When: Jan 2., 2004.
Where: Tempe, Ariz.
Tickets: $85. Available at 8 a.m. today at the Bramlage Ticket Office or call (800) 221-CATS.

Cats capitalize on turnovers, produce big plays in emotional Big 12 title game victory

Ted Sims runs in a touchdown after intercepting a pass from Jason White in the fourth quarter of the Big 12 Championship on Saturday evening in Kansas City, Mo.

Kelly Glasscock
COLLEGIAN

By Joel Reichenberger
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

It would be easy to say Saturday night's game was a contest of inches.

Defensive backs and linebackers knocked down key passes with the tips of their fingers. Nick Leckey snatched up a loose fumble a blink of an eye before two Sooners would have had it.

Tacklers barely missed with powerful hits on Darren Sproles.

But K-State fans, not just those in Kansas City, Mo., Saturday night, but around the state, the nation and the world, know that describing K-State's 35-7 upset of No. 1 Oklahoma as a game of inches would be criminal.

"It sets the tone for years to come. I think it could definitely be the biggest win."

Ell Roberson
K-STATE QUARTERBACK

To those fans – those who watched Bill Snyder defeat North Texas in 1989 and who witnessed "the drive" in 1993, who remember Chad May in the Copper Bowl and his unfortunate body boarding accident the year after, who filled the stands in 1998 against Nebraska and who went to the Alamo Bowl even after A&M, who remember when "Moses" first swept away the Sooner hoard and when every win was a "big big big big big" one – to them, Saturday night's win was about more than an inch.

Saturday night's game was a game of memories and emotion.

It was a game of yesterday, showing how far the purple had come, and of tomorrow, with the future looking bright.

"It sets the tone for years to come," quarterback Ell Roberson said. "I think it could definitely be the biggest win."

To the thousands of K-State fans who followed the program

See MOMENT Page 10

TO THE POINT

Football team, coaches worthy of accolades

The K-State football program reached a new plateau Saturday with a 35-7 win over Oklahoma in the Big 12 Conference Championship game.

The win marks K-State's first Big 12 title, first Bowl Championship Series berth and showcased the team and the university on a national stage.

The Wildcats showed the entire nation what it means to persevere. Counted out after three-straight losses, facing what many considered the best football team ever, the Cats never wavered in pursuit of their goals.

We can all learn a lesson from that, and K-State students, faculty, alumni and fans should not waver, either, in their continued support of Wildcat athletics.

Success at such high levels of competition not only increases revenue and recognition, but bolsters recruiting efforts and instills pride in those who consider themselves part of K-State.

Everyone making the trip to Tempe, Ariz. for the bowl game should remember that they also will be representing our school and community. The Fiesta Bowl is an excellent opportunity for K-State to show the nation, yet again, just how great our football program and fans truly are.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Paul Restivo
Katie Lane
James Hurla
Abbie Whited
Edie Hall
Andrew Lawson
Dave Skretta
Rachel Krier
Corbin H. Crable
Chris Harrop

Yuletide worries

Holidays can be bothersome due to seasonal stress

AMY LINK

Remember when the holidays were all about you?

As I prepare for the holiday season – no, I haven't started my shopping yet – I can't help but look back fondly on a time when the holidays were completely without worries.

While growing up, the holidays were all about what I wanted.

Of course, I did shop for my family members, but it was easy. I had $20 and one afternoon to find all four family members something. It was simple – a flashlight for Dad, car wax for my older brother, GI Joes for my little brother and the best $5 earrings Wal-Mart had to offer for Mom.

Nowadays, I roam the stores for days, stressing about what to get everyone. I want to show I did spend some time thinking about them and what they would like, so I opt to get them something more personal than a gift certificate for a guy or Bath and Body Works products for a girl.

However, straying from the norm causes me to think they will not like it and wonder why in the world I would ever pick something like th[i]s out for them.

These worries, I believe, only get worse as you get older.

For instance, the ability to spend more money is a curse. Now I wonder what is an adequate amount to spend on everyone. Of course, they know I am a poor college student and don't expect much – but I don't want to appear cheap.

Plus, as your family expands, the question of where you draw the line for gift giving and what these new members you don't know very well will want creates anxiety.

Then there are pre-holiday festivities, which are always rough.

My family always sends out a Christmas letter, which has taught us writing is an art form. You want to tell how and what everyone is doing, yet you don't want to appear to be bragging. It is very tricky. After all, I've been known to mock a few other people's Christmas letters from time to time.

The final worry is deciding where to go for the holidays. Fortunately, I still have the option of just going where my parents decide to go, but as we get older and have to work or get married, we will have to make decisions about whom we will be with on Christmas Day. It can be a challenge to avoid hurting anyone's feelings.

With all these worries before the day even begins, it's a wonder how I can even enjoy the holidays.

That's why I want my Christmas gift early. I want to stop worrying about what other people think.

I want to return to the days when my innocence prevented me from worrying.

For instance, shopping could be simple. My little brother is proof of this – he once did all his Christmas shopping in 10 minutes at a Stuckey's.

While I won't go that extreme, I think I will try to buy gifts with the best of intentions and not worry what the recipients will think. It does seem pointless to worry – after all, the gifts are going to people who love and are loved by me. So, if I put thought into my gifts, surely they will be appreciated.

Same with the Christmas letters – if they were lucky enough to receive one from you, I hope they will see the good intentions that went into writing it.

And when worrying about not attending a home – well, if they really love me, they'll invite me back next year.

This is my plan. It won't be easy – after all, I'm worried right now what you might think while reading this column.

Still, I'm optimistic that I will get my present before Christmas, but maybe I should write Santa just in case.

Amy is a senior in print journalism. You can e-mail her at aml7555@k-state.edu.

Illustrations by Angela Arneson | COLLEGIAN

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@spub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Paul Restivo | EDITOR IN CHIEF Katie Lane | MANAGING EDITOR

James Hurla NEWS EDITOR
Kelly Glasscock PHOTO EDITOR
Corbin H. Crable COPY CHIEF
Dave Skretta SPORTS EDITOR
Rachel Krier THE EDGE EDITOR
Chris Harrop ONLINE EDITOR
Abbie Whited CITY/GOV EDITOR
Andrew Lawson OPINION EDITOR
Jared Jaynes AD MANAGER
Edie Hall CAMPUS EDITOR
Dana Strongin WRITING COACH
Jenny Calvert ASST. AD MANAGER

TUESDAY'S OPINIONS

ANDREW LAWSON

Andrew Lawson reflects on his three semesters as an opinion columnist as he contemplates some new challenges.

NASRINA WILLIAMS

Nasrina Williams reminds everyone of the basic rules of campus courtesy, since so many seem to ignore them.

Bush's achievements enough to warrant a 2nd term

JESSE LOEWEN

Until about nine months ago, I hated George W. Bush.

This son of privilege ascended to the highest office of the land.

The man, having never put in an honest day's work, was selected to lead the most powerful and prosperous nation in the world, despite the fact that he could not run his own oil company or baseball team.

In his younger years, George W. Bush attended Yale, achieving a bachelor's degree and a coke habit.

During the height of the Vietnam War, Bush heroically had his father bump him to the top of the list of Texas Air National Guard candidates, ahead of many more qualified applicants.

When his unit was called for duty in Vietnam, our future president heroically went absent without leave for a year.

Until about nine months ago I hated George W. Bush.

I also disagreed with the Iraq war.

With all the accusations about the misuse of military might to fill the pockets of rich oil companies, and the statements from certain Democrats accusing the Bush administration of awarding Halliburton the Iraq reconstruction contracts in a no-competition bidding scheme, it was hard for me not to.

For about the last nine months, my opinions have been changing, though. I have been rereading the old news articles and looking at the accusations and accusers. I have been checking sources outside of the regular media. I have been trying to get to the truth of the matter.

All those things Bush did before he took the presidency are believed to be true by most of the sources I have found, but they do not really matter.

What matters is what Bush has done with his presidency.

So far our president has led us through the most devastating terrorist attack in our nation's history, an economic recession and a war in Afghanistan, and he has laid the groundwork for a democratic Middle Eastern country, the most ambitious piece of foreign policy since the Marshall Plan.

In the process, Bush balked at allies, adversaries and constituents when they – regrettably, I was one of them – criticized his policies.

When his tax cuts were on the table, many believed they would not serve as a boon to our economy, but rather a bonus for the rich.

Bush did it anyway, and whether the tax cuts were responsible for it, our economy has turned around. People are back to work, manufacturing is up and we experienced our greatest period of growth in more than three decades.

In the time before the Iraq war, despite a lack of international and domestic support, Bush did what he believed was necessary.

The average Iraqi civilian is better off in today's free Iraq than under Saddam's totalitarian regime.

In time, the Middle East will have a secular Islamic democracy. Iraq's standard of living will improve dramatically under democracy and capitalism. Arab Muslims will finally see an opportunity for lives of prosperity without violence.

Because of Bush's actions, we may one day live in a world without fear of Islamic terrorism.

Our president has led us through difficult times, but we have more trials ahead.

He has taken action when our nation's other leaders chose to bicker and do nothing.

He has proven that he will do what he believes is right even if it means risking unpopularity.

He has taken us this far, and proven himself to be what this country needs.

He has my vote in November.

Jesse Loewen is wanted for questioning by the FBI, FDA, ATF, DNC and HCI. If you are a member of one of these organizations, you can send your questions to jesseloewenks@yahoo.com.

CAMPUS FOURUM | 395-4444

Will Rogers said he never met a man he didn't like. Well, he never met Bob Stoops.

By the way, the stupid entries only need to be entered in the Fourum once, not twice.

Hey, Travis Canby, remember that one time you got locked out of your car on I-70 at a rest stop? 'Cause I do.

Kansas City has road work at horrible times.

WinterDance was a waste of $7. Give me alcohol, and I can dance better than that.

Is it a bad thing if you see a girl go into the Counseling Services building the day after you went on a date with her?

O Who?

Will the Oklahoma band please shut up for one play?

Man, I hope the ABC commentators don't hurt themselves when they fall off the OU bandwagon.

Is anyone else really pissed that even though we are kicking Oklahoma in the butt, 28-7, they are still saying Oklahoma gets the Sugar Bowl and we get nothing?

Teddy Sims is my hero.

To the K-State football team: This is the best birthday gift you could ever give me — winning the Big 12 Championship.

Overrated? More like overlooked.

I thought they said OU was NFL quality. They look like a high school team.

One word, four syllables — incredible.

Jason White? Who's that?

Less than nine minutes left in the fourth quarter of the OU-K-State game. I think it's time for the other sports writers to show Wes Marfield some respect.

Bob Stoops? More like Bob Stupid.

Sproles for Heisman!

I'd like to inform our mayor, Marky Mark, that I just contacted an attorney from the ACLU, and he'll be at a Commission meeting within the next two months.

Oh, and get ready for a huge lawsuit.

"Mystic River?" More like "Mystic Pizza."

Not enough Fourum? Visit www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

Coming to terms with the fruitcake

ON THE MENU

A weekly column that critiques restaurants or discusses the details of cuisine.

SETH BISHOP

The holiday season is upon us.

It is difficult to see through the haze of our burning-at-both-ends serenity candles, but Christmas is truly drawing nigh.

Last week's articles covered both Christmas gifts and studying for finals, and I am sure all of us are busy either counting beans, bagging milk bath or currently suffering from a chocolate-induced coma from M&Ms consumption.

There is one responsibility I feel, as a food columnist during the holiday season: to comment on the much-maligned fruitcake.

Much hatred and animosity exists concerning fruitcake. The myth that there truly exists only one fruitcake, and it is continually passed around from person to person, is a good example of that hatred.

Fruitcake has a distinguished place in history. It always has, been completely inedible, but has played many vital roles nonetheless.

Fruitcake, and the unbaked batter, is directly responsible for our caveman ancestors finding the bricks and mortar needed to leave their mountainous caves and live closer to the herds.

The Middle Ages actually saw a rise in the popularity of fruitcake, as a fuel source. While difficult to light fruitcake can burn for hours, and the actual physical cake is barely consumed by the flames. This popularity quickly waned however, when it was discovered that burning peat was slightly less acrid.

The American colonists, who truly liked tea as much as the British, attempted initially to make a slightly less profound political statement in Boston Harbor, by dumping the contents of a ship laden with fruitcake. Other than the ship's two owners, a Sir Harry Petitfours and a Sir David Ganache, no one seemed overly concerned. Thus, the tea had to go overboard as well.

For the sake of my integrity, I must admit to some reluctance I have to actually believe the Boston Fruitcake Party actually took place. Technology in ship-building being what it was at the time, I find it difficult to comprehend an ocean-going vessel that could cross the Atlantic and truly be laden with fruitcake.

You will find fruitcake fanatics who, in their advocacy for fruitcake acceptance, will attempt to rewrite fruitcake history to the other extreme. The Trojan Horse actually being a hollowed out fruitcake is completely ludicrous. If you hollow-out fruitcake, as everyone knows, it collapses under its own weight.

But be advised, dear readers, that there is more than you suspect behind the gift of every fruitcake.

Seth Bishop is a graduate student in mathematics. You can e-mail him at sbishop@k-state.edu.

Battle of the Lords

Jeanel Drake | COLLEGIAN

Above: Michael Wilson, of Lincoln, Mo.; Justin Kearney from Warrensburg, Kan.; and Josh Reynolds, who will attend K-State in the spring, fight in a bridge battle with Dagorhir, a group that brings the literary world of Middle Earth to life. The group will battle again Sunday in City Park

Top: Harrison Soelter, eighth-grade student at Abilene Middle School, shoots an arrow during multiple teams battle. During the event, teams of two battle each other, and the last team standing wins the battle. Chris Hanewinckel | COLLEGIAN

'Lord of the Rings' enactment clubs pay homage to trilogy

By Kerry Fischer
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The motto: "You've only read 'Lord of the Rings.' We live it."

The game: Medieval swordfighting with a modern twist.

Dagorhir (pronounced dagger-here) is a nationwide non-profit organization that brings Middle Earth to life. Dagorhir means "battle lords" in Elvish, the language J.R.R. Tolkien made famous in his novels "Lord of the Rings."

The Manhattan group, or realm, is known as Gilead, the gun-slinging protagonist from Stephen King's "Dark Tower" book series.

"We signed the contracts and everything to become an official realm at least eight months ago," Tony DiMartino, realm leader, said.

He said that every realm around the country tries to make it to Ragnarok (pronounced rag-na-rock) every year. The name Ragnarok means "end of the world" in Norse myths. Ragnarok is the major event for Dagorhir that celebrates the organization. Ragnarok is usually in the summer, and last year's Ragnarok was in Cambridge, Ohio.

Last year there were 527 people (at Ragnarok), DiMartino said.

Anyone can go to Ragnarok, even if he or she has never fought in Dagorhir before. It can even be a person's first battle, although, as DiMartino said, "It's a major culture shock to go to that first."

Dagorhir follows a strict code of conduct to prevent injuries. When fighters sign up to be realm members, they must sign a release form that says Dagorhir is not responsible for any injuries sustained during battle.

The Dagorhir Web site requires that each participant be at least 16 years of age, although the Manhattan realm is a little more lenient. Gilead allows individuals younger than 16 to participate. They have fighters as young as 12. Parental consent is required for fighters younger then 18.

Once a participant becomes a member, he or she is required to choose a battle name. Most participants try to preserve the "Lord of the Rings" theme and choose names from Middle Earth. However, there is no requirement on what kind of name a participant chooses. DiMartino goes by the name "Doohnibor," which is Robin Hood spelled backwards.

Oliver Good, junior in English and realm leader, chose the name "Hisieth," which is Elvish for "dark mist," and Josh Reynolds, an incoming student to K-State in the spring, calls himself "Arissuil" which is also an Elvish name.

"I've always been a 'Lord of the Rings' fan," Reynolds said. "I got one of these books that's the Elvish language. When they said 'you have to have a battle name,' I went through and looked at some of the names of royalty of the men in Gondor and came up with one that wasn't really used that often."

The weapons Dagorhir uses are foam-padded weapons made of PVC pipe, foam and duct tape. Each weapon is color-coded so the fighters know what kind of weapon it is. Red weapons are two-handed hacking and smashing weapons, like swords. Blue weapons are one-handed hacking and slashing weapons. Green weapons are stabbing weapons – knives, daggers, spears. Yellow weapons are aerial weapons – arrows, rocks javelins.

Each weapon kills or wounds a fighter based on where it hits. Hit zones include the torso, leg, arm, head and neck, feet and hands.

"Basically, to kill somebody, they have to be hit in the chest region," DiMartino said. "It's the main death. Head shots are illegal except with aerial weapons."

"If you lose a leg, you have to hobble around on one leg," Good said. "But there's also armor. A piece of armor on your leg will protect you. If someone hits you with a blue weapon, which is a one-handed weapon, you can take two hits there. The first one weakens the armor, but doesn't go through to your skin or your bone. The second time you lose the leg."

Injuries among fighters do not happen very often, at least not with weapons. If someone does get injured during a battle, participants call a hold, everyone falls to his knees and leaders find out what's wrong. Participants keep first-aid kits on-hand in case anyone gets hurt.

"Every injury I've seen that's horrible is someone running into a tree," DiMartino said. "There are countless people that run into trees.

"I have run into a tree and scraped my face. It was the reason I won a sword for being a bad-ass fighter because they were scared of me after that because my face was all torn up, and I still wanted to fight."

Chris Hanewinckel | COLLEGIAN

Jeff Faulkner, freshman in open-option, battles during a wave battle Sunday afternoon at City Park. Faulkner is a member of Dagorhir, a group that meets every other week to do battle with other members.

What is Dagorhir

Nationwide non-profit organization that acts out the J.R.R. Tolkien books "Lord of the Rings."

Activities
Battle using foam-padded weapons and armor.

Events
Ragnarok is a major celebration of the organization held in the summer. It was held in Cambridge, Ohio last year.

IN BRIEF

The Associated Press

Rehn and Sutter

Tying the knot

"The Bachelorette" lovebirds Trista Rehn and Ryan Sutter have tied the knot, but the event might not seem real until it airs on television.

They were married Saturday at the Lodge in Rancho Mirage, a resort near Palm Springs, according to the hotel's public relations firm, Solters & Digney.

The wedding is scheduled to air Wednesday night on ABC.

ABC picked up the $1 million tab for the wedding. The couple also were paid a fee, said to be another $1 million.

The bride's gown was designed by Badgley Mischka, and Kenneth Cole made the men's tuxedos. Some 30,000 roses were brought in from Ecuador.

Grammy nomination

Clarkson

Kelly Clarkson won the first "American Idol" competition with her powerful voice, but the way she reacted when she learned she'd been nominated for a Grammy Award was loud even for her.

"I was on a radio interview and my manager looked at me and she was like ... 'You got nominated for a Grammy,'" Clarkson said during "The Ellen DeGeneres Show" Friday.

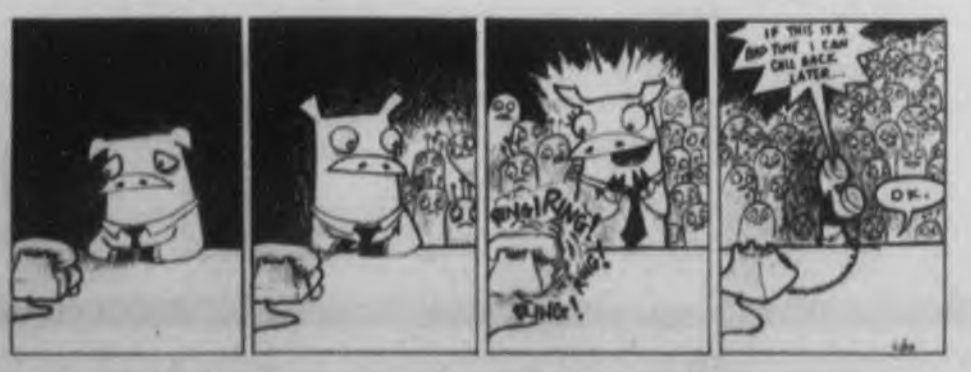
"No kidding, in the interview, I was like," and then she screamed. "And they were like, 'What kind of, does she not do interviews? Does she not know what she's doing?'"

"Cars are crashing on the freeway," DeGeneres joked.

"They're like, 'What's going on?'" the 21-year-old singer said. "It's actually cool, they got it documented."

Clarkson was nominated Thursday for best female pop vocal performance for "Miss Independent," a song co-written by Christina Aguilera, who's also competing in the category for "Beautiful."

THE CHARTS



Top 200

1. Jay-Z, "The Black Album"
2. No Doubt, "The Singles 1992-2003"
3. Britney Spears, "In The Zone"
4. Hilary Duff, "Metamorphosis"
5. Various Artists, "Now 14"
6. Toby Keith, "Shock'n Y'all"
7. Josh Groban, "Closer"
8. G-Unit, "Beg For Mercy"
9. Korn, "Take A Look In The Mirror"
10. OutKast, "Speakerboxxx/The Love Below"

Hot 100

1. "Hey Ya!," OutKast
2. "Stand Up," Ludacris Featuring Shawnna
3. "The Way You Move," OutKast Featuring Sleepy Brown
4. "Milkshake," Kelis
5. "Baby Boy," Beyonce Featuring Sean Paul
6. "Holidae In," Chingy Featuring Ludacris & Snoop Dogg
7. "Here Without You," 3 Doors Down
8. "Suga Suga," Baby Bash Featuring Frankie J
9. "Step In The Name Of Love," R. Kelly
10. "Walked Outta Heaven," Jagged Edge

Herr Metzger | Julian Narino — www.herrmetzger.com

Puck | Kent Holle — kentramone@yahoo.com

VOLLEYBALL | Early problems, previous losses fuel netters to victory, Sweet 16 appearance

Continued from Page 4

back, Fritz said, is what pushed them over the edge in game two.

"In game two, we're down four or five there late in the match. It would have been very easy for us to cash it in and wait for another opportunity in game three, and we didn't do that," Fritz said. "I'm very proud of that trait in our team."

K-State led the whole way in game three, winning 30-21.

Fritz attributed that win to the conversation in the locker room following the comeback in game two.

"We talked about how we're just now starting to play good volleyball – really good volleyball – and we need to carry this over into game three," Fritz said.

After losing to Texas in the regular-season finale, Gabby Guerre said the defeat may have fueled K-State in its first two matches of the tournament.

"You learn more from something that happens negatively than positively," Guerre said.

"That was perfect timing for us. When we lost to Baylor we went on that winning streak, and it sparked the fire. Texas did the same thing, and hopefully it will carry on in the tournament."

Another loss still leaving a bitter taste in K-State's mouth is the 3-1 defeat by Washington State in the second round of last year's NCAA Tournament.

To be able to get over that second-round hump, Fritz said, shows how much effort the Cats put into this season to make it this far.

"That Washington State loss hurt. It still hurts," Fritz said.

"To be able to advance is very rewarding and certainly a reflection of how hard this team has worked all year."

Lisa Martin echoed those statements.

"I believe it put a little hole in your heart," Martin said. "You just keep firing it up, and the effects of re-watching it just pisses you off. There's no other word for it."

Fritz said the pressure of advancing and facing tougher opponents will be good for K-State.

"We will see a more competitive environment and teams that will put a significant amount of pressure on us," Fritz said. "That only makes us better and we look forward to that challenge."

Drew Rose | COLLEGIAN
Senior libero Laura Downey-Wallace responds to the end of the game against Ohio on Friday.

WOMEN | Wecker and Ohlde presented with tournament honors

Continued from Page 4

Ohlde were chosen for the all-tournament team, and Wecker was named tournament MVP, marking the second time in three years she's earned the award.

"I feel great about our play this weekend," Patterson said. "We were able to establish some consistency and rhythm. I thought we defended extremely well. It was just a very valuable weekend for us across the board.

"We took the big steps that I hoped we'd take. I thought over the course of the last week we took real big steps and these two games gave us the opportunity to test that. I like our numbers, I like our consistency, and I like the fact that we gave everyone on the roster an opportunity to play as well."

The Cats will be in action Friday night when they travel back to Big Ten country to take on the Iowa Hawkeyes (4-2).

"You can look at any game and there's always things you can work on," Mahoney said. "The whole point is getting better every day and every game. I think hopefully coach P would attest to this: that we took big steps this weekend on both ends of the floor."

Women's basketball update
K-State vs. St. Louis

SAINT LOUIS (5-2) — 54
Lewis 4-14 6-8 14, Solomon 3-3 1-2 7, Kenny 0-3 0-0 0, McIlwraith 1-4 0-0 2, Holloway 4-12 0-0 9, Smith 1-4 0-0 3, Javois 1-3 2-2 4, Hatton 0-1 0-0 0, Brown 6-9 3-5 15.

K-STATE (5-2) — 94
Mahoney 5-6 2-4 12, Wecker 8-13 2-2 18, Ohlde 5-8 3-3 13, Koehn 6-9 1-1 17, Coggins 4-8 2-2 11, Newsom 2-2 0-0 5, McIntyre 1-2 0-0 2, Domenico 0-1 1-2 1, Brooks 2-3 0-0 4, Smith 1-2 1-2 3, Murdoch 1-2 0-1 2, Madden 0-2 0-0 0, Dutmer 1-4 0-0 2, McFarland 2-2 0-0 4. Totals 38-64 12-17 94.

MEN | Defensive stand keeps Cats competitive versus Beavers

Continued from Page 4

The Wildcat defense stood their ground, and the Beavers were unable to answer.

Despite refusing to give in, Wooldridge said he was unhappy with his team's first road performance of the season.

"We were a wreck out there in the first half," he said. "That was disappointing. That was really the game for us, the way we played in the first half and the first five minutes or so of the second half. There was a lot of poor decisions and a lot of ball handling mistakes and that was the difference."

On a positive note, Wooldridge said he was proud of the way his team kept fighting.

"I thought we really clawed back in it," Wooldridge said. "We went into a zone, and that seemed to help a little bit. Jeremiah Massey made a few plays, and we got a little momentum. That got us into overtime. We were close. We were really close."

— The Associated Press contributed to this story.

Men's basketball update
K-State vs. Oregon St.

K-STATE. (4-1) — 82
Hayden 2-6 3-6 7, Williams 1-2 1-4 3, Ellis 3-8 0-0 7, Richards 5-10 1-2 11, Hart 4-11 2-2 12, Thomas 0-0 0-0 0, Harris 0-1 0-0 0, Willingham 2-3 0-2 5, Massey 8-22 7-8 23, Martin 4-12 0-0 8, Canby 3-4 0-0 6.

OREGON ST. (3-2) — 87
Lucas 4-12 1-3 9, Jeffers 2-5 2-4 6, Hurd 4-12 0-2 8, Stephens 6-18 8-10 23, Nash 8-16 3-4 21, Isagarakis 0-7 0-0 0, Hanchett 5-14 0-0 11, Potter 0-0 0-0 0, Hooks 1-3 0-0 3, Field 3-4 0-0 6.

COLUMN | Big 12 title to be cherished despite columnist's misgivings reigning Big 12 Coach of the Year – arguably the best coach in football at this juncture – Snyder bettered him.

Continued from Page 4

The wily veteran got the best of the fiery young buck, Bob Stoops, as well as former assistants Mike Stoops and Brent Venables.

Atoning for the 1998 Big 12 Championship game debacle, when his coaching was faulted for a late-game meltdown against Texas A&M that ultimately cost the Cats a national title shot, Snyder rose to the occasion.

The offense was virtually unstoppable, with relatively benign draw and trap plays run to perfection.

The defense was like an iron curtain, shutting down a Sooner offense some thought the best ever.

The special teams were nearly flawless, save one botched punt.

Indeed, Snyder and the Wildcats showed me something Saturday night.

They weren't the better team on paper – a little bit slower, a little bit smaller.

K-State didn't have the stats and the expectations and didn't come into the game heralded by, among others, Sports Illustrated as the best team ever.

But the Wildcats showed me what it takes to be a champion – heart.

Somewhere along the way, I lost my faith in the Cats.

I lost my heart.

It is bizarre to think that K-State's first Big 12 title was won by a team that, perhaps, isn't even the best team in Wildcat history.

Yet that team managed to beat the No. 1 team in the nation, and it did so in resounding fashion and with unequivocal success.

Saturday marked the single most glorious day in Wildcat football history, and I can think of no better way to bid adieu to the Collegian and as your sports editor than with that special moment.

I'll cherish it forever.

Dave is a junior in journalism. You can e-mail him at dskretta@k-state.edu.

We're psychic, you need a vacation, why not
Spring Break
and we KNOW KSU can PARTY!!
Jamaica
Acapulco
Cancun
Bahamas
Florida
beach life
Group Discounts!!
Book before Dec 15th and $ave!!
Sell trips, earn cash, travel free!!
1.800.733.6347
www.BeachLifeVacations.com

Royal Purple Yearbook
$34.95 get it in 103 Kedzie
Now 8am-5pm

PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS
1800 Claflin Road
776-5577
We Deliver During Lunch!
VISA

Have a Stylin' Holiday.

Greet the season with a fresh, cool haircut.
Gift certificates available. Ask your stylist.
greatclips.com
HAIRCUT $7.99 Not valid with other offers. Limit one coupon per customer. Good at participating locations. OFFER EXPIRES 1/15/04
Great Clips for hair.
HAIRCUT $7.99 Not valid with other offers. Limit one coupon per customer. Good at participating locations. OFFER EXPIRES 1/15/04
Great Clips for hair.
Seth Child Commons
(Next to Target)
785.539.8998
Hours: M-F: 9-9; Sat: 9-6; Sun:10-5

do you feel a longing for more in your life?
IS GOD CALLING YOU?
do you radiate joy?
THE SISTERS OF ST. JOSEPH OF WICHITA
do you long to follow in the footsteps of Jesus?
Here's one way to help you find out.
Perhaps you're one of the rare women being called by God to follow in the footsteps of Jesus. But you're wondering, "how can I truly know if I've been called?" This free CD-ROM from the Sisters of St. Joseph may help you find out. To request yours, visit www.csjwichita.org. or call our Vocation Director, Sr. Ann Letourneau, at 316-689-4030. You'll be eternally grateful you did.
does love pour out of your smile?

CLASSIFIEDS

LET'S RENT

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

A two-bedroom apartment, close to campus. Short term lease available. Available mid- December or 1st of January. (785)317-7713.

AVAILABLE NOW two-bedroom apartments, $450 and up. Walk to campus. (785)776-1936.

BRITTNAY RIDGE. Four-bedroom, study, two and one-half bath, town home. Washer/ dryer. 2519 Candlecrest, lease required. No pets. $1050, $1050 deposit. (785)537-9740.

COZY TWO-BEDROOM. Only a year old with all new appliances. Includes washer and dryer. Has own driveway. (785)341-1636

CRESTWOOD APARTMENTS. West side Two-bedroom, one and one-half baths. Personal washer/ dryer. Water, trash, cable television paid. No pets. $590. (785)776-3345.

FOR JANUARY 1. Nice large two-bedroom apartment. Gas, water, trash three-lorths paid, laundromat, $480. (785)539-2482 or (785)539-9315 or cell phone (785)565-8116.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT. Available for Spring semester. $380 ,month includes cable, water, trash. Brand new carpet (785)537-1336.

ONE-BEDROOM NICE basement apartment. Right next to campus. Ready for spring semester. $385 with gas and water paid. (785)556-6899.

TWO-BEDROOM WITH study, private balcony, laundry, cover parking, walk to campus, central air-conditioning, January lease, $515- $545/ month. (785)341-6091.

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bathroom duplex, including washer/ dryer, dishwasher, new carpet, nice neighborhood. $650/ month. Available January 1. (785)341-4496.

120 For Rent- Houses

SHORT TERM lease January- May or July. Two-bedroom house, laundry hookup, parking, campus six blocks. (785)537-8389 leave message.

ADVERTISE ADVERTISE CLASSIFIEDS • 532-6555

TWO, THREE, or four-bedroom house. Very nice four-bedroom house will rent as two or three bedroom with reduced rent. Central-heat and air, washer/ dryer hookups. Very spacious with two bathrooms, six blocks to campus. Available January 1. Call Doug at (785)341-4554.

125 For Sale- Houses

FOUR- FIVE-BEDROOM house, close to campus. Available. Call Larry at Century 21, night (785)317-7713.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE for a four-bedroom duplex. Washer/ dryer. Available January. Rent $275. Call Megan. (785)539-8490.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for luxury, four-bedroom apartment across street from West campus. Laundry, parking, no smoking, no pets. $300. (785)776-6318.

ROOMMATE NEEDED to share house. Three blocks west of campus. (785)556-0098.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for spring semester. Nice five-bedroom three bath house. Common rooms furnished. Washer/ dryer. $300 rent plus one-fifth utilities. (785)539-9887, (785)825-2937.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share three-bedroom house. $225/ month plus one-third electric and cable. Call Kimberly (785)456-4204.

150 Sublease

FOUR-BEDROOM, ONE and one-half bath, spacious, practically in Aggieville. $900/ month heating included. (four roommates- only $225 per person). (785)776-5102.

ROOM FOR Rent. Sub-leaser wanted for spring semester. House two blocks west of campus. $240/ month plus one-fifth utilities. Laundry facilities. (785)537-3096.

ROOMS FOR rent, next to campus, one-bedroom in brand new four-bedroom apartment. Free washer/ dryer, central-air, parking. (785)537-7050.

ADVERTISE. KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

135 For Sale- Mobile Homes

FURNISHED 12X60 newly remodeled, pets allowed. 10X20 storage shed. Five minutes to campus. $16000 or best offer. (785)770-8794.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed for three-bedroom, two bath $210 rent and one-third utilities. Call Jessica (785)776-1621.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted $235/ month plus one-fourth utilities. Good study environment, town-house, off-campus. (785)539-2288 or sub-lease_me_plz@hotmail.com

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for spring semester. Two blocks from campus, nice two-bedroom house, one bath, washer and dryer available. No pets. $230/ month, split bills, $100 deposit. Please call (785)323-1995.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted! Available January- July. Large bedroom. Rent $255 plus one-third utilities. Right across from East Stadium. (785)565-9340.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted, nice three-bedroom, one block from campus. 1850 Claflin. $260/ month plus one-third utilities. Needed for January. Call Anessa (816)806-6094.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted, second semester. three-bedroom house with backyard. $300/ month plus one-third utilities. Must be animal lover. Call (785)537-6139.

GREAT PLACE, great location, great people. Female roommates wanted for spring semester sublease. Large rooms, private parking, common rooms furnished, washer/ dryer. Call Lindsay at (785)587-0296.

MALE ROOMMATE needed next semester. 1850 Claflin, fully furnished bedroom, kitchen, living, two bath, DSL internet, $270/ month negotiable (785)539-5429.

MALE ROOMMATE to share newer mobile home. $150/ month. (785)770-9547.

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share a two-bedroom house. Five minutes from the Student Union. Rent $275. (785)539-9981

MALE, WALK to class, lower level. All furnished. Washer/ dryer without meter. (785)539-1554.

NEW, CLEAN duplex one block from campus on Ratone. Two full baths washer/ dryer. $250/ month plus one-fourth utilities. (785)776-3936 or (785)313-4381.

ROOM AVAILABLE in large four-bedroom house downtown near the mall. $210 plus one-forth bills. 520 Pierre. Call Lane (785)539-4440 or Jeremy (785)341-8830.

ROOMMATE NEEDED one-bedroom, six-bedroom house. Washer/ dryer provided, bar. $300 rent plus one-fifth utilities. Call (785)317-1245.

ROOMMATE NEEDED starting January at 1321 Pierre. Close to City Park, washer/ dryer/ trash included. $225 for rent. Call (785)224-9704.

ROOMMATE WANTED $200/ month plus one-half utilities. Washer/ dryer, can have two bedrooms, six blocks off campus, University Dr., no smoking, nice house and neighborhood. (785)317-4742.

ROOMMATE WANTED (for next semester. 1106 Bluemont, $250/ month (785)640-4752.

ROOMMATE WANTED to share a two-bedroom apartment. Walking distance to campus and Aggieville. Washer/ dryer, water/ trash paid, off-street parking and cheap rent. Call Jami (785)220-3744.

ROOMMATE WANTED. Less than 100 steps from apartment door to Fiedler. $300/ month plus one-fourth utilities. Available January. (785)317-0099.

SUBLEASER WANTED for spring semester, three-bedroom apartment with dishwasher. One block from campus. $210/ month 1850 Claflin. Call (785)770-3810/ (785)313-0013.

TWO-BEDROOMS AVAILABLE, four-bedroom house. Five minutes from campus $240/ month all bills paid. (316)706-8548.

150 Sublease

CADI- CORNER from Union. One to four rooms available immediately. Great spot, act fast! $230/ month. 1725 Anderson. Call David (785)770-2711.

CAMPUS/ AGGIEVILLE- spring semester, two-bedroom, 1212 Bluemont. Trash/ water paid, laundry facility. $300/ each, January 1. Kelly or Karen (785)776-8980.

CAMPUS/ AGGIEVILLE- three-bedroom spacious apartment, start January. Central air, laundry, parking. 519 North Manhattan. Call (785)341-4158 or (785)341-9582.

DEPOSIT PAID for you! One-bedroom apartment available January 2- July 31. Water, trash, and cable paid. $380/ month. (785)539-6665.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed for one-bedroom apartment. Two blocks from Aggieville. Rent negotiable call (785)564-1173.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed for spring semester. Beautiful house and three great roommates. Near City Park. $250/ month plus utilities. Call Renee at (785)565-0340.

MALE SUBLEASER needed. Two-bedroom apartment. Private parking, dishwasher, washer/ dryer. $262.50 a month. Available January. 716 Humboldt. Contact Casey (785)341-1162.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT, one block from campus. Off-street parking $300/ month plus cheap utilities. Available January 1st. Call (785)313-5550.

ONE-BEDROOM IN three-bedroom house. Close to campus with washer and dryer. Available January 1. $150/ month. (620)245-7681.

ONE-BEDROOM, RENT negotiable, water and trash paid, lease January- May. (785)537-9379.

ROOM FOR rent during spring semester. $280/ month includes water, trash, laundry. Has all amenities including fireplace. Low bills. (785)539-1272. mrl8888@ksu.edu.

SPACIOUS TWO-BEDROOM/ one bath. All utilities paid except electric. Available end of December. Call (785)806-3068.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for one-bedroom apartment. $379.56 rent/ month starting January 1. Includes utilities. Pets are allowed. (785)770-3060.

SUBLEASER NEEDED from January 1- July 30 to share a two-bedroom duplex. Very close to campus. Rent is negotiable. Call (913)269-2622.

SUBLEASER NEEDED, great two-bedroom house. Fully furnished. five minutes from Union. Private parking, available now. $380, all bills paid. (785)539-3408.

SUBLEASER NOW or by January 1. Block to campus, walk to Aggieville. All December bills paid. (785)565-8199.

SUBLEASER WANTED for January, brand new carpet, two-bedroom. Chase Manhattan Apartments. Email at ben_kern1@hotmail.com or call Ben (520)275-1344.

SUBLEASER WANTED: one-bedroom. January 1- August 1. $370. Water and trash paid. (785)539-7653.

SUBLEASER(S) WANTED for nice two-bedroom apartment at 11th and Laramie. Total rent $475/ month available in January. Call Dana at (785)565-0662.

SUBLEASERS NEEDED- January. Nice two-bedroom apartment, two balconies, one bath, fireplace, fully equipped kitchen. Trash paid. $640/ month. (785)317-4418.

SUBLEASERS WANTED for spring semester. Two-bedroom, one and one-half bath apartment. Water/trash paid, laundry facilities, very close to campus. (785)658-5680.

SUBLEASERS WANTED January- May or longer if needed. Two-bedroom basement apartment. Close to campus. Very nice and clean. Call (785)776-2483.

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE and one-half bath. Close to Aggieville/ campus. (785)341-9733.

WANTED MALE or female subleaser starting January 1 until May 1. House two blocks east of campus on Thurston. Call Dave at (913)208-0016.

200 service directory

210 Resume/ Typing

ARE YOU a procastinator? I can help you type papers or projects. Call Rhonda (785)539-3570.

220 Weight Loss & / Nutrition

LOOK BETTER, feel better, live longer. Proven, effective weight loss system and beauty care. Call Lancelot (785)223-5303, www.unicitynetwork.com/lancelot.

255 Other Services

FIRST RESPONDER. This program is for those who may be the initial care giver for an individual suffering from a medical emergency or traumatic accident. Fracture management, medical emergencies and CPR are covered in the course curriculum. Begins January 5. Manhattan Area Technical College (785)587-2800 for more information.

300 employment/ opportunities

310 Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/ she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

! BARTENDING $300 a day potential. No experience necessary. Training provided. Call 1-800-965-6520 ext. 144.

BARTENDER TRAINEES needed. $250/ day potential. Local positions. (800)293-3985 ext. 548.

CONOCO BRANDED C-store accepting applications for part-time clerk. Apply in person 2233 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

EARN YOUR associate's degree in Accounting Support/ Administrative Support in our Business and Computer Technology program. Full-time/ part-time classes begin January 7, 2004. Financial aid available. Manhattan Area Technical College. (800)352-7575. www.matc.net

GET PAID For Your Opinions! Earn $15- $125 and more per survey! www.paidonlinesurveys.com

HOME DAYCARE assistant needed. Looking for responsible, energetic, organized person to work part-time, beginning January 5. Call Julie (785)776-0019.

KSU STUDENTS- earn serious income! Work part-time from home. Be your own boss. We need self-motivated, ambitious young entrepreneurs! Call toll-free: (800)306-3602, ext. 4

MAINTENANCE: APARTMENT COMPLEX seeking full-time general maintenance position. Must have experience in repairs, painting, grounds keeping, make ready, etc. (785)776-3345 days.

MAKE MONEY taking Online Surveys. Earn $10-$125 for Surveys. Earn $25-$250 for Focus Groups. Visit www.cash4students.com/ksu <http://cash4students.com/ksuucinn>

PROGRESSIVE FARM 35 miles NE of Manhattan has full-time opening for personable individual who enjoys working with other non-smoking employees. Individual would assist in management of a farrow to finish operation producing F1 Gilts for breeding stock. Position also includes row cropping operation with large late model equipment. Housing provided. (785)889-4514

RECEPTIONIST NEEDED: State of the art dental practice seeking an energetic, patient oriented, self-disciplined receptionist to complement our existing staff. a dental background is preferred, but willing to train the right person. we offer a full benefit package along with a competitive salary. If you feel stuck at your current job, and are ready for a move fax your resume to (785)537-1401 attention: Kim.

RETAIL LIQUOR Store accepting applications for part-time clerk. Apply in person 2233 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

STAFF RADIOGRAPHER. We are looking for a staff radiographer that is ARRT or registry eligible to work the night shift 2230 to 0700 hours. Applicant must be flexible and able to work independently. Interested and qualified personnel should contact Geary Community Hospital. 1102 St. Mary's road, Junction City, KS, 66441, fax (785)238-1700 or email to: cwitt@gchks.org, equal opportunity employer.

WANTED: TUTOR for high school student. Call (785)539-8293 after 6:00pm.

STEEL AND Pipe Supply Company has an immediate opening for a part-time (approximately 20- 25 hours/ week) Warehousing Assistant at our Corporate office in Manhattan. Position is responsible for extensive typing and providing various types of assistance to the Quality and Warehouse departments. Candidates must have High School diploma or G.E.D. Vocational Technology and/ or college training preferred. Must have high degree of computer skills and be proficient in Work and Excel. Also must have knowledge of general office procedures and use of Dictaphone. Interested Candidates should send resume to: Steel and Pipe Supply Company, Warehousing Assistant, P. O. Box 1688, Manhattan, Kansas 66505. Equal Opportunity Employer.

TEACHER AIDES (certificate preferred) for Kindegarden and 5/ 6 classroom at Westmoreland Elementary. Start date and salary negotiable. Single health insurance provided. Call (785)457-3732 for application or Email: caffrey1@rockcreekschools.org. Equal opportunity employer.

THE BEST summer job: Why hike in our backcountry, ride horses on our rugged trails and breathe fresh mountain air all summer long? It comes with the job. Cheley Colorado Camps, a residential wilderness camp for youth. 9-17. 6/6- 8/9. Call us at 1-800-CampFun, E m a i l staff2004@cheley.com or visit our website at www.cheley.com

THE K-STATE Student Union Bookstore is now hiring an art and Alltel sales associate. Full-time Monday-Friday 8am- 5pm. Competitive wages plus commissions. 401K dental and medical plans. We are looking for an outgoing, self-motivated, friendly, people person who is interested in both art and technology. Application deadline is December 12. Apply at the art desk.

THE OPERATIONS branch of CNS is seeking to hire two Computer Operations Assistants. The positions involve working with the university enterprise server, processing production request: decollating/ bursting output; and delivering printouts across campus. Must be able to work 10- 30 hours per week, including weekends, holidays, school breaks, and summer months. Applicants with two or more years of employment potential and/ or work study eligibility will be given preference. Hourly salary is $5.75. Contact Virginia Nowland at (785)532-4941. Applications can be picked up at Hale Library room 14 and will be accepted until 5pm Wednesday, December 10.

THE OPERATIONS branch of CNS is seeking to hire a Student Computer Operator for third shift. Job responsibilities include operating the Multiprise server; processing production jobs; printing and running cleanup output as needed; as well as other duties that may arise. Candidate must be able to work between the hours of 1:30am and 7:30 am Wednesday and Fridays and midnight to 9:00am every other Saturday. they must also be able to work weekends, holidays, breaks and summer months. Experience with computers is a plus. Applicants with two or more years of employment potential will be given preference. Work study is preferred, but not required. Hourly salary is $7.00 per hour. Applications can be picked up at hale Library room 14 and will be accepted until 5pm Wednesday, December 10.

WANTED: COWBOYS, Cowgirls to guide tounists and horses through the Rocky Mountains. Come work for the largest horse operation in North America. Write Sombrero Ranch at 3300 Airport Road, Boulder, CO 80301 or visit our website at www.sombrero.com

WANTED: OFFICE Assistant in doctor's office. Flexible hours. Must be personable, and have computer skills. Call (785)539-3975.

330 Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

400 open market

410 Items for Sale

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS- sleeping bags, overshoes, combat boots, camouflage clothing, wool socks and gloves, much more. Also Carhartt work wear. Open Monday- Friday, 9am-5:30pm, Saturday 9am-4pm, Open Sundays till Christmas 12noon- 4pm. St. Mary's Surplus Sales, St. Marys Kansas. (785)437-2734.

500 transportation

510 Automobiles

1996 HONDA Civic. White, two door, CD, and moon roof. Automatic. Asking $4500 or best offer. Call (785)317-2366 or (785)238-1942.

1999 OLDS Alero, remote start, excellent condition, $7250. Please call (785)341-4797.

600 travel/ trips

630 Spring Break

!SO MANY Spring Break companies... Book DIRECT with the established leader in Spring Break travel. Better trips, better prices. Early booking incentives. book now with a small deposit. (800)367-1252/ www.springbreakdirect.com

ACT NOW! Book 11 people, get 12th trip free. Group discounts for six plus www.springbreakdiscounts.com or (800)838-8202.

#1 SPRING Break Company in Acapulco now offers three destinations! Go loco in Acapulco, party in Vallarta, or get crazy in Cabo with BIANCHI-ROSSI TOURS. Organize a group and travel for FREE. Book now before it's too late! Call (800)875-4525 or www.bianchi-rossi.com.

NUMBER ONE spring break vacations! 110% best prices! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas, Florida, Acapulco, book now and receive free parties and meals. Campus reps wanted! 1-800-234-7 0 0 7 endlesssummertours.com

SPRING BREAK 2004. Travel with Student Travel Services, America's #1 Student Tour Operator to Jamaica, Cancun, Acapulo, Bahamas, and Florida. Now hiring campus reps. Call for group discounts. Information/ reservations 1-800-648-4849 or www.ststravel.com.

SPRING BREAK- sign up with Student Express and get FREE round trip airline tickets to over 15 International destinations- including Aruba, Dominican Republic, Costa Rica, Caribbean hot spots and more. Why go with anyone else. Limited offer- call now. Commission rep positions also available (800)787-3787or www.studentexpress.com now.

USASPRINGBREAK.COM CANCUN, Bahamas, Acapulco, Jamaica, and more. Don't be fooled! Go with quality and experience! 28 years in business. Largest Student Tour Operator (Division of USA Student Travel). Call (877)460-6077. Now hiring Campus Reps. Earn two free trips for 15 travelers and $$.

000 bulletin board

010 Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY!" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes and lowest rates. Call (785)776-1744, www.ksu.edu/ksfc

ATTORNEY, CHUCK Harper, expunge convictions before job application, paternity, custody, net free adoption, civil law, 400 Poyntz, (785)539-8100, chuckharper@msn.com

020 Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

HEADBAND FOUND December 23 on the sidewalk on the northwest side of Justin Hall. Come to room 225 Justin to identify and claim.

030 Post a Note

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a post a note.

100 housing/ real estate

105 For Rent- Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2440.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT available January 1. One block from campus. Water/ trash paid. Off-street parking. $330/ month. Call (785)539-5579.

ONE-BEDROOM CLOSE to campus. Water and trash included. Available January 1. Central air/ heat. (785)537-7810

ONE-BEDROOM STUDIO, 1219 Claflin, half block from campus. $330 deposit, $330/ month. Water/ trash paid, no pets. (785)456-2812.

SEPARATE BEDROOM, study, living room, and eat-in kitchen. No smoking, drinking, pets. (785)539-1554.

Found something? You can place an ad FREE for three days! Kedzie 103 532-6555

"Stay In Class At The Commons"

Now Leasing for 2003-2004!

- Fully Furnished
- 2 & 4 Bedroom
- Alarm System
- Swimming Pool
- Washer/Dryer
- Computer Lab
- Fitness Center
- Permit Parking
- Tennis/Volleyball Courts
- Individual Leases

Office Hours: M-F 9-5

539-0500

university COMMONS APARTMENTS

2215 College Ave.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

APARTMENT FOR rent spacious three-bedroom, two bath apartment. One-half block from campus at 1207 Kearney. Very low utilities. $245/ person per month. Very nice apartment at great location. Call (785)539-5236 or Angie at (785)537-7810

AVAILABLE JANUARY 1. Two-bedroom, newly decorated. Washer/ dryer hookup. Off-street parking. $480/ month. (785)537-2119, 8- 5pm, (785)539-2347 after 5pm.

EFFICIENCY, TWO/ three-bedroom units immediately available. (785)341-4496.

EXTRA NICE two-bedroom in four-plex with washer/ dryer hook-ups. Available January 6. $440/ month. No pets. (785)539-2356

FOUR-BEDROOM APARTMENT, 1521 Leavenworth, bills paid, $800. (785)539-8401

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, all appliances including washer and dryer. Only three years. Ready for spring semester. (785)556-6899.

JANUARY-- ONE-BEDROOM-$315, two-bedroom-$475. No pets. (785)587-0399.

LARGE ONE-BEDROOM at 431 Leavenworth, $450, bills paid. (785)539-8401

NEWLY REMODELED two-bedroom apartments available January 1st. all utilities paid, $600/ month. Call McCullough Development Inc. (785)776-3804.

NEWLY REMODELED two-bedroom, one bath basement apartment, no pets, water and trash paid, $450/ month. Call McCullough Development, Inc. (785)776-3804.

NICE ONE-BEDROOM apartments. Close to campus. Water and trash paid. $415- $430/ month. Call MDI (785)776-3804.

ONE- TWO-BEDROOM apartment and houses. Available January 1 and now. Close to campus. www.rent-apm.com/ (785)539-4357.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT at 901 Moro, bills paid, $450. (785)539-8401.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENTS in new building, close to campus/ Aggieville. Available June/ August 2004. Call John at (785)313-7473.

ONE-BEDROOM AVAILABLE January 1. Rent $365. Call Amy (913)709-6283.

ONE-BEDROOM CLOSE to campus. Available January 1. $250, water/ trash paid. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296.

SEPARATE BEDROOM, study, living room and eat-in kitchen. No smoking, drinking, or pets. (785)539-1554.

STUDIO APARTMENT available January 1st located in the Wareham hotel. Water and trash paid, $405/ month. Call McCullough Development Inc. (785)776-3804.

SUBLEASERS WANTED, two- three-bedrooms. All bills paid except phone and internet. One block to campus, one block to Aggieville. $260/ month per person. (785)539-9751.

THREE-BEDROOM APARTMENT 815 N. 10th St, central air, bills paid, $675. (785)539-8401

THREE-BEDROOM APARTMENT at 930 Osage, $600, bills paid. (785)539-8401

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE block to campus. New carpet/ flooring/ some utilities paid. $660/ month, or best offer. (785)539-4641.

TWO BEDROOMS available in four-bedroom apartment. Near College and Claflin. $300/ month (utilities and internet included) Call Toby at (913)579-2486.

TWO OR three-bedroom, spacious. Close to campus or city library. Dishwasher, central air, laundry facility. No pets. (785)539-0866.

TWO PLUS bedroom, one block to campus. New carpet/ flooring/ some utilities paid. $620/ month. (785)539-4641.

TWO, three, and four-bedroom apartments. Close to campus, laundry, and parking. Call (785)537-6017.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT at 431 Leavenworth, $400, bills paid. (785)539-8401.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT available immediately. $230/ person. Free cable (785)313-1435. Please leave a message.

TWO-BEDROOM BASEMENT, near City Park, washer/ dryer, no pets, $450. Available January 1st (785)539-1145.

TWO-BEDROOM TOWNHOUSE, two and one-half bath plus unfinished basement. Washer/ dryer hookups. Water/ trash paid. No pets. (785)539-5627.

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bath basement apartment, no pets, water and trash paid. $360/ month. Call McCullough Development, Inc. (785)776-3804.

VERY NICE two-bedroom apartment for rent, starting January 1st. Cats allowed. Call (785)539-5563 or (785)341-5441 for more information.

115 Rooms Available

ONE BEDROOM IN five-bedroom house. Wood floors, five minute walk to campus. Off-street parking. Rent $270. (816)456-7802.

ROOMMATE WANTED to sublease. Close to campus/ Aggieville. Washer/ dryer, $300 plus utilities. Call Nicole (785)776-6099 or (785)565-8785.

THREE ROOMS available in large house block from campus. No pets, washer/ dryer, off-street parking. $250/ month. (785)317-1333.

120 For Rent- Houses

1724 WINNE. Four-bedroom, one and one-half bath. Updated and spacious. New carpet, paint, and ceramic tile. Close to football stadium. $850/ month plus utilities. Available December. (785)556-2652.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted close to campus. Two bath, four-bedrrom, $237/ month January 1. (620)365-3886 or (620)365-9748.

LARGE NICE houses- June or August leases. Call now for best selections. www.foremostproperty.com or (785)539-4641.

NEWER: FOUR-BEDROOM/ two bathroom. All appliances including washer/ dryer. Private parking. No smoking/ pets. 622 Bluemont- $1195. (785)776-9386.

NICE THREE-BEDROOM, close to campus. Available January 1. (785)537-0205.

NICE: THREE-BEDROOM/ two bathroom. All appliances including washer/ dryer. Private parking. No smoking/ pets. 620 Bluemont, $795. (785)776-9386.

THREE AND four-bedroom houses and apartments available January 1 and now. Close to campus. www.rent-apm.com/ (785)539-4357.

TIRED OF Apartment Living? Manufactured Homes For Rent. Pets Allowed. Beautifully maintained communities. Pool, playground, community center. Professionally managed. Call Manager for more details. (785)539-5841.

135 For Sale- Mobile Homes

16X76 1994 Shult. Excellent condition. Three-bedroom, two bath, dishwasher, disposal, washer/ dryer, all appliances stay. $23900 or best offer. (785)587-4661.

1976 18X70 trailer in Countryside Estates. $4000 or best offer. (785)313-3147 or (620)767-8279.

FOR SALE: two-bedroom, one bath mobile home. Well cared for, owners are December graduates. $4800 or best offer. Please call (785)323-0055.

CHAMPIONSHIP | Cats overcome slow start vs. OU rebounding from three early losses, rebounded once more, shutting the Sooners (12-1) down in its own territory. Four possessions crossed midfield, but only one put points on the board.

Continued from Page 5

"It took us a little while to figure out we were good enough to beat these guys," defensive coordinator Bob Elliot said.

Early in the second quarter, Darren Sproles broke a 55-yard run and two plays later, Ell Roberson hit tight end Brian Casey for a 19-yard touchdown to tie the game.

The Wildcats weren't done, though.

Just over two minutes later, Roberson hit Terry on a 63-yard scoring strike to pull ahead 14-7 – the most Oklahoma had trailed by all season.

Linebacker Josh Buhl said the Wildcats broke the Sooners' will, and if it didn't happen at 14-7, it may have when Sproles broke free for a 60-yard touchdown run to go up 21-7 at the half.

"Sproles, he's a guy if you get him going, he'll make guys miss," Roberson said. "He showed it today."

In the second half, Oklahoma made a push early to close the gap, driving inside the Wildcat five yard line.

But for the second time in the game, Sooner kicker Trey DiCarlo, who had missed just one field goal all season, saw his kick sail wide.

When the Cats took over, they drove 80 yards in 10 plays capped by an Antoine Polite touchdown catch to go up 28-7 with 3:02 left in the third quarter.

The celebration had begun.

And it hit full stride when Ted Sims intercepted a Jason White pass at the OU 27 yard line and, making a wide turn, raced in front of the Sooner bench and into the end zone to make the final 35-7.

"We have to thank our coaches," Sims said. "They just put us in the right positions."

Just as Sims credited the coaches, the coaches raved about the players.

"Nobody outside the guys who went in that locker room tonight believed we could get it done," running backs coach Michael Smith said. "You have to take your hat off to these kids. They did a great job."

Sproles' 235 yards rushing is the most against Oklahoma in school history and the most ever in the Big 12 title game.

"I'm excited for Darren Sproles," Snyder said. "You want to vote for a Heisman candidate?"

The defense shut down White, whom most thought the nation's top quarterback, and the rest of the Sooner offense.

White threw two interceptions and no touchdowns, and receiver Mark Clayton said at one point White didn't even know where he was.

But in lieu of Sproles' performance and the defense's dominance, the day belonged to Roberson.

The senior threw for 227 yards and four touchdowns while rushing for 62 more – and didn't allow a single turnover.

The last player off the field, Roberson said he savored every moment, drinking it in as if to satisfy an unquenchable thirst.

"Meet us at the Fiesta Bowl," he told one fan. "We did it."

Victory 'Ville

Zach Long | COLLEGIAN

K-State fans make their way Saturday into Aggieville to celebrate the Wildcats' victory over Oklahoma in the Big 12 Championship game. Hundreds of fans made their way to the bars after the win.

Stars shine for Big 12 title win

Snyder, players alike relish win against Sooners

By Joel Reichenberger
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Kelly Glasscock | COLLEGIAN

Cedrick Williams breaks up a pass to Jejuan Rankins in K-State's win over Oklahoma in the Big 12 Championship in Kansas City, Mo., on Saturday evening.

Coach Bill Snyder won his first conference championship Saturday.

The victory could go a long way to cementing the coach's legacy and silencing his critics.

But Snyder wasn't the only Wildcat who tossed skeletons out of his closet.

Ell Roberson dug in further as one of the most successful quarterbacks in K-State history.

Darren Sproles spun through the Oklahoma defense, racking up more than 320 yards of total offense, adding merit to his run for post-season awards.

And the K-State defense, much-maligned during the Cats' early-season lows, held the nation's most productive offense to seven points.

For Roberson, the victory was nothing other than sweet.

In one of his most productive games of the season, the senior threw for 227 yards and four touchdowns while running for another 72.

He said it was a great feeling to cap off a season and a career that had its ups and downs.

"It's everything," Roberson said. "Knocking off OU, No. 1, nobody thought we'd do it. Getting in the BCS, first time ever.

Just from where we came and where we're at now as a team, we believe in each other more than ever now."

Snyder, rarely emotional when talking about his players, couldn't hold praise for his quarterback after Saturday's performance.

The coach went so far as to partially disclose Roberson's injury report, a rare move.

Snyder said Roberson makes the report every week. The ailments force him to spend a lot of time with trainers and in hot tubs, but that Roberson never misses a beat.

"I'm excited for that guy walking out the door, Ell Roberson," Snyder said. "He's the toughest quarterback in the nation.

Sproles, who has been virtually ignored in the race for the Heisman Trophy, finally threw his hat in the ring.

Rattling off 235 yards and setting the Big 12 Championship rushing record, Sproles has accumulated nearly 600 yards on the ground in his last two games.

His consistent play was key in K-State staying with the Sooners in Saturday's first quarter. On a pitch in the second quarter, Sproles ran into All-Big 12 cornerback Derrick Strait.

Strait hit Sproles, but the shifty junior spun, sending the defender to the ground on his way to a 55-yard run.

Without the news media hype that has accompanied OU's Jason White and Pittsburgh's Larry Fitzgerald, Sproles won't likely garner the votes to come close to winning the award.

Jason White was banged around hard, throwing two interceptions and completing 27-of-50 passes for 298 yards.

During the game, White appeared shaken up, and afterwards one teammate, receiver Mark Clayton, said K-State's hits took their toll.

"At one point, he came to me and said he didn't even know where he was," Clayton said. "He was just looking woozy."

OU's running game never took advantage of a big first quarter, either. On the Sooners' fourth play, Kejuan Jones squirted around the left side for a 42-yard run that would score Oklahoma's only touchdown.

MOMENT | Big 12 victory not a game of inches

Continued from Page 5

in its rise from the ashes, the game was about a dream finally realized.

Inches can't describe this 2003 team, either.

The Wildcats entered August's practices with unprecedented hopes for a K-State team. Nothing outside a spot in the national championship would suffice.

But the dreams crashed on Sept. 20.

With Ell Roberson sitting out due to injury – a broken hand, a wound possibly an inch in size – a Jeff Schwinn pass fell at the feet of wide receiver Davin Dennis in the end zone. An inch closer to Dennis, he may make the catch. K-State fell.

Then, against Texas, a fourth-quarter Ell Roberson fumble stunted a K-State comeback. A few more inches and K-State's quarterback may have been out of bounds.

Another loss ensued when Oklahoma State knocked the once No. 4 Cats entirely out of the Top 25 the following week.

Television's commentators, some of whom had forecast a purple reign in the Sugar Bowl, forgot about the Cats.

But a six-game winning streak, including victories against Big 12 rivals Nebraska and Missouri, helped K-State back to the top.

Still, Saturday against Oklahoma, they weren't supposed to have a shot.

Three losses and but a minuscule chance at a win in the Big 12 Championship – a far cry from the dreams of August – but made all the sweeter by adversity, linebacker Josh Buhl said.

"We all just decided to come together," he said. "We were tired of the way we were playing. We were tired of the losses. We started playing as a team."

K-State has won 426 games in 107 football seasons. But arguably few, if any, compare to Saturday's.

Milestones have marked his progress ever since. A winning record in 1991, a bowl game in '93, OU in '94, Top 10 in '95, New Year's Day in '96, Nebraska in '98, and now, in 2003 Snyder and the Cats passed the most elusive milestone to date.

"Snyder's first was big," defensive tackle Jerad Cowan said. "But this was huge."

K-State and Bill Snyder are Big 12 Champions for the first time ever.

After the game ended and the players flooded the field, freshman defensive back Maurice Mack danced along the sideline, looking into the stands packed with the fans who had come so far with Snyder's teams.

"We shocked the world!" he yelled. A fitting summary of the night's events. And Snyder's 127 wins.

INROADS/Kansas City, Inc.

is seeking talented minority students in the following majors for IMMEDIATE career-related $$PAID$$ internship opportunities:

RESTAURANT MANAGEMENT
(Chili's - college sophomores & juniors)
(2.8 is an acceptable cumulative GPA for this internship)

FINANCE
(Hallmark - college sophomores & juniors)

MARKETING
(Hallmark - college sophomores & juniors)

CIVIL/ENVIRONMENTAL ENGINEERING
(Black & Veatch - college freshmen, sophomores & juniors)

ELECTRICAL & MECHANICAL ENGINEERING
(Hallmark - college freshmen & sophomores)
(2.8 is an acceptable cumulative GPA for this internship)

Students MUST graduate ON or AFTER December 2005 to be eligible
All applicants MUST have a cumulative college GPA of 3.0 or higher

Interviews are happening NOW!!! Don't miss out!!!

For more information, please call:
Melissa Amaya
(816) 561-2383 ext. 34 or (800) 788-0234 ext. 34
Apply on line: www.inroads.org
DEADLINE to apply: December 15, 2003

INROADS®

Finals Got You Stressed! You Need A Massage
Take $10 Off Your First Appointment
Tao Massage Therapy
341-9928

Manhattan Floral
Receive 15% off with Wildcat Card KSU ID
Find Us Near Target
776-8801

Pregnancy Testing Center
"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting & adoption."
539-3338
Free pregnancy tests
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment
Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

December Specials
$60 Foil Highlight
(add another color & haircut $10)
$30 Men's Highlight & Haircut
$25 Full Set of Nails
$12 Lip & Brow Wax Combo
$22.50 Women's Haircut
$14 Men's Haircut
Trimmers Too
K-State Student Union
532-5972

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

www.kstatecollegian.com | Tuesday, December 9, 2003 | Vol. 108, No.75

Kansas' school funding declared unconstitutional

Ruling could affect taxes, tuition rates

By Sarah Rice
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A court decision announced Dec. 2 could mean more money for Manhattan schools.

Shawnee District Court Judge Terry Bullock declared the state of Kansas' distribution system for school finance as unconstitutional and charged the Legislature with creating a new plan by July 1.

"The court finds as a matter of fact and law that the funds provided to Kansas school districts by the Legislature under the present financing scheme as applied is clearly and grossly inadequate to provide Kansas children with a suitable education," Bullock wrote in his ruling.

The current system has a base amount per pupil but awards extra funds to smaller school districts. Fifteen school districts formed the coalition and the Dodge City and Salina school districts were named the plaintiffs.

Manhattan-Ogden USD 383 Superintendent Sharol Little was previously the superintendent of Dodge City schools when the lawsuit was first born.

"The purpose of the lawsuit is to bring suitable and equal education funding for all school children in Kansas," she said.

School districts currently are given $3,870 as a base rate per pupil. However, that rate can increase based on weighted factors for students with special needs.

The districts involved in the case

See FUNDING Page 8

IN-DEPTH: TEXTBOOKS

The Collegian takes a look at the process of buying and selling back textbooks in a three-part series. Today, find out how K-State and other state colleges buy back textbooks. Varney's Book Store will be buying back textbooks beginning Dec. 10.

Textbook buybacks based on demand

By Amy Preston
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

This week students will begin selling back their textbooks to university bookstores.

When they leave the store, some pockets will be full.

Others will be empty.

But either way, managers from university bookstores across the state say the amount of money given back from book returns comes down to supply and demand.

"We have limits on the number of books we need to buy based on the demand," Dan Walter, textbook manager at Varney's Book Store, said.

For example, Walter said, if the bookstore needs 100 copies of a used textbook, it will pay the highest percentage back to the first 100 copies the bookstore receives.

Once the limit is met, the buyback price of the book goes down, he said.

As a result, the earlier a student

See TEXTBOOKS Page 8

Wild 'Cats' of Broadway

Jeanel Drake | COLLEGIAN
Jennifer Tucker dances in the performance of "Cats" on Friday in McCain Auditorium. The Andrew Lloyd Webber production came to K-State, selling out two shows on Friday and Saturday nights.

Cast of 'Cats' teach master class to inspire students before sold-out weekend performances in McCain

By Rachel Krier
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

They leaped, crawled, twirled and sauntered across the stage of sold-out McCain Auditorium on Friday and Saturday night.

Then they loaded their trucks on Sunday and were off to perform in another city.

Manhattan was just one stop on a yearlong tour for the performers of "Cats," but the master class they taught will be a lasting memory for K-State dance students.

"I understand this was a crazy weekend and everything was exciting," Shawn Fisher, sophomore in biology, said. "But after all the other excitement has died down, the feeling is still there. It's become an unforgettable experience to me."

Fisher said getting to dance with the "Cats" performers was phenomenal.

"It was 10 times more than what I expected," Fisher said. "It was motivational and inspiring. When they said they were impressed by how fast we picked it up, it was so encouraging."

The K-State dance professors requested a master class with the "Cats" performers because the dance students couldn't attend the show due to conflicts with WinterDance 2003.

"This is wonderful exposure for them," David Ollington, assistant professor of dance, said. "They get a taste for what they are missing. Usually a guest teacher of any kind is refreshing."

The K-State students were not the only ones enjoying themselves, either.

Jackie Trippeer, who played Bombalurina in "Cats," said she was happy to be a part of the master class.

"I remember when I was in college and people would come to teach," Trippeer said. "It's exciting and a fun break from the daily routine. It's exciting to learn the choreography from a show."

Trippeer said this was only the second time the "Cats" dancers taught a master class during the five months they have been on tour. She said their schedule doesn't usually allow extra time for such activities, but they really enjoy the opportunity.

Fast facts "Cats"

- Cats has been seen by 50 million people in 150 cities and in 14 languages.
- Cats opened on broadway in 1982.
- Worldwide box office sales are $2 billion.

Vicky Henning, sophomore in dance and elementary education, said right after the master class she called her mom and asked for tickets to the show on Monday night in Hays.

"It was exciting and really fun. They're a really friendly cast," Henning said. "I can't wait to see it. Otherwise, I probably wouldn't have been inspired to go see 'Cats.'"

See CATS Page 10

Jeanel Drake | COLLEGIAN
The Cats company performs "The Journey to the Heavyside Layer" in Act II on Friday night in McCain Auditorium.

Aggieville problem-free during celebrations

By Sarah Rice
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Beer and cheer were abundant in Aggieville as K-State students celebrated the championship win over Oklahoma on Saturday night.

But according to police officers and bartenders, the biggest problem the students posed was dancing on the tables.

"It was not a problem at all," said Lt. Kurt Moldrup of the Riley County Police Department. "We had a full shift of officers and officers on standby that were not out working but available if we needed them. It was crowded, but it was a very quiet Aggieville as far as problems. We had no real incidents."

Aggieville, though void of problems, was not silent.

"It was just mayhem," Nate Bagby, Rusty's Last Chance bartender, said. "Everyone was going nuts. It was just crazy. Everybody was bombed, and we got on the microphone and mentioned the

See AGGIEVILLE Page 8

INSIDE

A perspective: a glimpse of Memorial Stadium.

In Focus, Page 7

HEADLINES

The Associated Press

Saddam's wrath
Saddam Hussein's government may have executed 61,000 Baghdad residents, a number significantly higher than previously believed, according to a survey obtained Monday by the Associated Press.

Hussein

Medicare bill
President Bush signed a new prescription drug benefit into law Monday as part of historic Medicare changes that also will confront seniors with numerous, sometimes-difficult choices on their health care coverage. Bush said the new drug insurance "will save our seniors from a lot of worry."

Gore for Dean
Former Vice President Al Gore intends to endorse Howard Dean for the Democratic presidential nomination, a dramatic move that could tighten Dean's grip on the front-runner position.

Spam ban
Congress on Monday approved the first national effort to stem the flood of unwanted e-mail pitches offering prescription drugs, cheap loans and other come-ons. President Bush has indicated he intends to sign the measure into law. The White House revamped its own e-mail system over a flood of so-called

Bush

DON'T FORGET

- The university has declared Friday a study day. Classes are canceled.
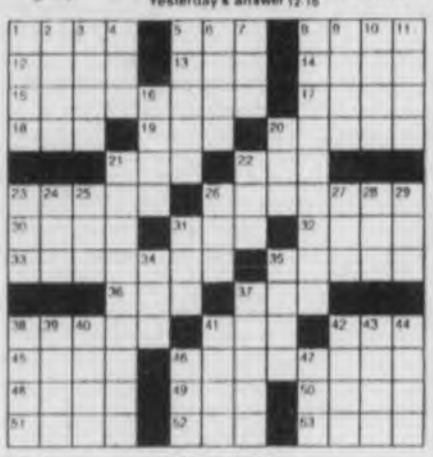
- The Collegian's last edition of the fall semester will be published Thursday. Look for a special Finals Guide on Friday.

Wednesday: Mostly sunny, windy 34 | 14



PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS 776-5577

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS
1 Butcher's hook
5 Potentially will
8 Poolroom item
12 Beige
13 Trouble
14 Lascivious look
15 Cheese choice
17 Campus area
18 Embarrassed
19 Aries
20 Harbor structures
21 Elsie, e.g.
22 Shade
23 Wedding music-maker
26 Santa's runway
30 Limerick, e.g.
31 Journal
32 "Magnum, P.I." venue
33 Took the helm
35 Jamboree group
36 Upper limit
37 Eviscerate
38 Question
41 Blunder
42 Remnant
45 Otherwise
46 Cheese choice
48 See 14-Across
49 "All the Things You —"
50 Farm fraction
51 Bewildered
52 Deck oneself in
53 Comestibles

DOWN
1 Paraphernalia
2 Pinnacle
3 Ginger's partner
4 PETA concern
5 Tropical parrot
6 Leading man
7 Thither
8 Cheese choice
9 Water, in Oaxaca
10 Tennis surface
11 Sneaker brand
16 Unyielding
20 Status follower
21 Cheese choice
22 Refuse to share
23 Harvest goddess
24 Deterioration
25 "My goodness!"
26 Scepter
27 Confucian principle
28 "Eureka!"
29 Baby poodle
31 Superman foe Luthor
34 Lab animal
35 Veer
37 Envious
38 Farmer's home
39 Bread spread
40 Puts to work
41 Franc replacement
42 Print indelibly
43 Pianist Peter
44 Attracted
46 Frenzied
47 Pouch

Solution time: 21 mins.

Yesterday's answer 12-15

12-16 CRYPTOQUIP

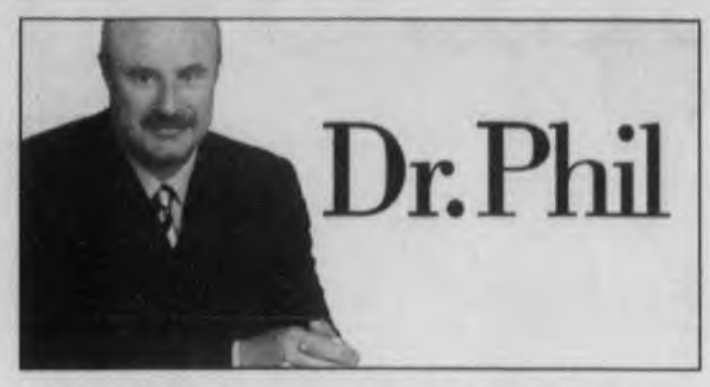
FDBDMR WVKI UGXPR U LXMORFXPO WVHPFD VM U WUIXPO GVGKVBUK HUFIDM "GDHOR XW DIDM."

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: I ONCE DESIRED TO BE A PRACTICING TREE SURGEON, BUT I FAINTED AT THE SIGHT OF SAP.

Today's Cryptoquip Clue: G equals B

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 2! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to CryptoClassics Book 2, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475

The Cryptoquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.



© 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Contact us

Kansas State Collegian
Kedzie 103
Manhattan, KS 66502
Display ads.....532-6560
Classified ads.....532-6555
Newsroom.....532-6556
news@spub.k-state.edu
Delivery problems.....532-6555

...RE BUT TRUE

NEWS OF THE WEIRD BY CHUCK SHEPHERD

THE LITIGIOUS SOCIETY

A scheduled guest on the Dr. Phil TV program filed a lawsuit in November, claiming it was the show's producers' fault that she had an anxiety attack in her quarters right before the show and tried to climb out a second-story window. She fell and shattered her leg so badly that it had to be amputated.

CRYBABIES

Joseph Tomaino of Neptune, N.J., won $3 million from a jury because a side effect of penile surgery was an erection that lasted for three days, which an appeals court later found did not interfere with most of his daily activities. (The trial judge, who wanted to give Tomaino even more money, had the case taken away from him by the appeals court in November.)

ALARMING HEADLINES

(1) "Patrol Car Hit by Flying Outhouse" (an October Milwaukee Journal Sentinel story about Wisconsin trooper Rich Vanko's squad car being smashed when a truck carrying portable toilets lost one along Interstate 90); (2) "Shatner Frozen Horse-Semen Suit Dismissed" (a July Lexington, Ky., Herald-Leader story about William Shatner's ex-wife's accusation that she was being denied divorce-settlement-mandated access to a breeding stallion for her own farm).

THE TRUTH IS OUT THERE

Prof. Jeff Meldrum of Idaho State University said recently that, hoaxes aside, there is enough legitimate evidence of Bigfoot to warrant a comprehensive scientific investigation of his existence, once and for all. (National Geographic reported in October that a Texas fingerprint expert, as well as noted chimpanzee researcher Jane Goodall, have said they are certain of Bigfoot's existence.)

READERS' CHOICE

Waiting for a rush-hour bus in East St. Louis, Ill., Emanual Fleming tried to use a pay phone but received a busy signal, then stuck his right middle finger into the coin-return slot but couldn't get it out. With his free hand, he called 911, and ambulance personnel had to take both Fleming and the telephone to the hospital, where, three hours after he got stuck, doctors numbed the finger and worked it out of the slot.

INCOMPETENCY

Officials in Lakeville, Ind., weren't certain, but it appeared that a cause of a fatal Oct. 10 car crash on U.S. 31 might have been that Dale Brenon, 50 (a private detective who survived in critical condition), was working on his laptop computer while driving. (The driver of the other car was killed.) A police spokesman said the computer was thrown clear of the collision but was turned on, and a program was running.

ENRAGED BY E-MAIL

Enraged that his computer was virtually disabled by e-mail spam earlier this year, Charles Booher, 44, of Sunnyvale, Calif., allegedly repeatedly threatened employees of the spammer with torture (castration with a power drill and an ice pick) and murder (using a gun and anthrax spores). He was arrested in November and admitted to the Reuters news agency that he had "sort of lost (his) cool" at the bombardment of penis-lengthening ads from DM Contact Management.

RECURRING THEMES

Just as the towns of Kennesaw, Ga., and Virgin, Utah, had done, the 50-home village of Geuda Springs, Kan., through its town council, voted in November to require every household to own a working firearm, for "emergency management." (Later, the mayor vetoed the ordinance.)

The blotter | Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Friday, Dec. 5

■ At 11:36 a.m., Martye Madkins, 812 El Paso, was arrested for forgery, failure to appear and identity theft.
■ At 1:15 p.m., Paul Parkhurst, Topeka, was arrested for probation violation. Bond was set at $1,500.
■ At 3:45 p.m., Kathleen Foy, 117 Parker, was arrested for worthless check. Bond was set at $882.98.
■ At 7:45 p.m., Bruce Alexander, Fort Riley, was arrested for failure to provide information and worthless check. Bond was set at $500.
■ At 8:35 p.m., Joshua Alexander, Fort Riley, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $235.
■ At 11 p.m., Philip Gano, 2215 College Ave., No. T177, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $1,000.
■ At 11:04 p.m., Coleman Teel, 710 Harris, was arrested for possession of a controlled substance and unlawful possession of depressants. Bond was set at $1,500.

Saturday, Dec. 6

■ At 12:25 a.m., James Moore, St. Mary's, Kan., was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 12:45 a.m., Melvin Mark, Wann, Okla., was arrested for purchase/consumption of alcohol. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 2 a.m., Lonnie Laub, 1422 Legore, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 3:45 a.m., Sean Cooper, 1859 Hunting, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 2:45 p.m., Veneda Brown, Wichita, was arrested for battery and theft. Bond was set at $1,500.
■ At 2:45 p.m., Clifton Jones, Wichita, was arrested for theft. Bond was set at $1,500.
■ At 4: p.m., Linnattie Andrews, Wichita, was arrested for theft. Bond was set at $1,500.
■ At 4: p.m., Tyishia Lattin, Wichita, was arrested for theft. Bond was set at $1,500.
■ At 4:10 p.m., Shelly Alexander, Fort Riley, was arrested for worthless check. Bond was set at $1,267.52.
■ At 11:05 p.m., Curtis Goebel, 1725 Colorado, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 11:20 p.m., Nathan Rice, 3305 Kennsington, No. 4, was arrested for disorderly conduct. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 11:59 p.m., James Banwart, 322 N. 17th, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.

Sunday, Dec. 7

■ At 1:37 a.m., Paul Ramlow, 1224 Fremont, No. 12, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 1:45 a.m., Keith Hill, 527 Thurston, was arrested for battery. Bond was set at $500.
■ At 1:50 a.m., Kirk Hill, 527 Thurston, was arrested for aggravated battery. Bond was set at $3000.
■ At 3:15 a.m., Ryan Thomas, 926 Bluemont, No. 13, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 3:52 a.m., Russell Miller, 823 Ratone, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
■ At 1:45 p.m., Shanna Plummer, Junction City, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $500.
■ At 4:50 p.m., Jesse Biehler, 800 Thurston, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $500.
■ At 6:15 p.m., Brenda Flugence, 1104 N. 6th, was arrested for driving on a suspended license. Bond was set at $1,500.

Monday, Dec. 8

■ At 2:10 a.m., Rebecca Gould, 804 Brockman Circle, was arrested for DUI. Bond was set at $750.

The planner | Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@spub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

■ "Listening to the Prairie: Farming in Nature's Image," an exhibition that teaches the history of the prairie and new farming approaches, is at Hale Library.
■ The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Vamshidhar Puppala at 10 a.m. today in Shellenberger 204.
■ The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Uthman Alturki at 1 p.m. today in Bluemont 386.
■ Powercat Masters Toastmasters will have a meeting at 5 p.m. today in Durland 1029.
■ ECM Christian Explorers will hold their weekly worship service including a guest speaker at 5:30 p.m. today at the ECM Building, 1021 Denison Ave.
■ Lutheran Campus Ministry will have a supper and Bible study at 6 tonight at the Lutheran Campus Center, 1745 Anderson Ave.

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor James Hurla at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@spub.ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.

© Kansas State Collegian, 2003

PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER
"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting & adoption."
539-3338
Free pregnancy tests
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment
Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Yoshiro Ikeda
Strecker-Nelson Gallery
406½ Poyntz
Monday-Saturday 10-6

OLE MIKE'S SHOOTERS SUPPLY & TACKLE
HUNTING & FISHING LICENSES

FINALS GOT YOU STRESSED?
YOU NEED A MASSAGE
Take $10 Off Your First Appointment
Tao Massage Therapy
341-9928

congratulations to all of our fall new initiates!
sigma kappa
Maury Angelo
Melissa Bowers
Ashley Brewer
Jessica Curtin
Chanda Filson
Whitney Galle
Sam Gerecke
Julie Gigstad
Laura Halter
Kali Horchem
Melody Jacobson
Louisa Kenley
Anna Ketchum
Nicole Kramer
Katie Kirk
Scout Lanier
Sarah Loepp
Samie Milligan
Adrianne Novovich
Jana Owens
Brooke Pappan
Bernadette Petering
Janie Puckett
Amanda Regehr
Megan Rose
Jessica Schuler
Lauren Sinnott
Missy Solon
Beth Spangler
Sydney Stone
Marsha Sugars
Lisa Wieland
Emily Willis
Megan Woods
congratulations to our new alumnae!
Regan Rose
Kylar Tharp
Michelle Coats
Erica Dale
Stephanie Melcher

tight ass Tuesday
$1 one dollar Pitchers
Live Music
with DJ-J
$1.50 Wells
JOE'S TAP ROOM
1127 Moro

Little Caesars
HOT-N-READY pizza
$5.00 LARGE WITH PEPPERONI Carry Out Only
ALL DAY, EVERYDAY!
1150 Westloop • 539-3333
GIVE PLASMA GET CASH
Donate Plasma And Earn $45 this week
Save Lives & Earn Cash.
ZLB Plasma Services
1130 Gardenway
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785)776-9177 • www.zlb.com

Study buddies

Jeanel Drake | COLLEGIAN

Libby Crittenden, senior in hotel and restaurant management, is tutored by Jen Blake, a graduate student getting her master's degree in agricultural economics. They were working on Finance 450 homework.

Tutor helps students prepare for final exams

By Leann Sulzen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Jen Blake has been hard at work this semester tutoring students.

However, she will stop tutoring at the end of this week.

"Normally we don't tutor during finals week, but it's left up to the student and the tutor whether they do or not," she said.

Blake, graduate student in agricultural economics, said tutoring helps students, but it also helps her prepare for her own finals.

"I tutor the lower level courses for classes I am taking right now so it refreshes my memory for finals," she said.

This is her fourth semester tutoring, and Blake said she enjoys seeing the outcomes of her sessions. She likes to see students do well on their final exams.

To prepare herself for her tutoring sessions, Blake studies ahead of time so she has an idea of what she wants to talk about.

During the session, Blake assigns exercises and activities to students so they can better understand material.

Blake said she also gives tips to her students about teachers and their teaching styles – especially if she has had the teacher before.

In addition, Blake said tutoring has helped her with more than just her grades. It has helped her better manage her time.

"I plan a lot more," she said. "I have to so I am prepared when I meet with my students."

Libby Crittenden, senior in hotel and restaurant management, is tutored by Blake for finance. She said she appreciates the fact that Blake studies before the sessions.

"She already knows the information that she wants to go over with me before the session," she said. "She makes you be prepared for a test because she asks you practice questions."

Crittenden said having a tutor has helped her with her study habits and has increased her scores on quizzes.

"I study more in advance of the exam, and I study more efficiently now," she said.

Crittenden said although it is too late for this semester, she recommends students get a tutor as soon as they realize the class is difficult for them.

"Getting educational help from a peer is more helpful than getting help from a teacher because it's in a more personalized setting," she said. "It allows you to be more open during your sessions."

A student looking for a tutor should go to the Academic Assistance Center in Holton Hall and fill out an application, said Kim Kraetzer, tutor office staff at Leasure Hall Tutoring Center.

A student who is interested in becoming a tutor should go to Leasure Hall and fill out an application, she said. Interested students need to have taken the course they are applying to tutor and have received an A or B in the class.

It is helpful if a student has previous tutoring experience, but Kraetzer said experience is not required. She said they look for other qualities in students as well.

"It is good to have an understanding of the subject, flexibility and patience," she said.

Kraetzer said she agrees there are many benefits to being a tutor.

The job, like any other job, has monetary benefits, she said. Tutors are paid $6.25 an hour.

"It helps you remember the subject, and it looks good on résumés," she said.

Union Food Court offers few healthy options for on-the-go students

By Stephani Edington
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Students' hectic schedules and busy lifestyles might leave something to be desired in their diets – something that's not microwaveable and slathered in sauce.

In their daily rush, many of those students stop by the K-State Student Union Food Court to grab a bite to eat, but if they want to eat something healthy, do they have that choice?

Gayle Thober, director of dining services, said yes.

"We offer what we feel the students want," she said. "No matter where you go, whether it's my food court or the food court at the mall, you have a choice of healthy, or you have a choice of fast food."

Because of busy schedules, many Americans eat on the go, but college students seem to do so more because of course loads, jobs and activities, said Dianna Schalles, dietitian at Lafene Health Center.

"It is more of a challenge for students to meet nutritional needs if eating on the run – it's not impossible, they just need to know what some things might be lacking," she said.

The things fast food might be lacking include fiber, calcium, vitamins and minerals, which can lead to deficiencies and health problems if students are not getting them, Schalles said.

"Most restaurants don't offer a lot of whole grains and fruits and vegetables," she said. "Even if they offer those things, they don't tend to be the things consumers select."

Fat, sodium and super sizing add extra calories and make meals unhealthy, Schalles said.

However, there are healthy options in the Union Food Court for health conscious students, Thober said.

"We have the salad bar, which is completely and totally healthy, and we have two options of soup, which is healthy," she said.

For those who do not wish to eat soup and salad, there are also many healthy venues at the restaurants, including light dressings, grilled chicken, white rice and cooked vegetables, Thober said.

Michael Davis, sophomore in criminology, said although he doesn't necessarily like all of the food in the Union Food Court, the nutritional value is somewhat healthy.

"I think that the food in the Food Court is healthier than what the typical college student would get if they were to go to a fast food restaurant," he said. "And I'm sure it provides better nutritional value than the Ramen Noodles, peanut butter and jelly or Rice-A-Roni they eat at home."

Fast facts
Healthy eating

- Eddie Peppers: chicken and rice burrito.
- Mean Gene's: plain burger and vegetables.
- Market Carvery: Meat and vegetables.
- Chick-fil-A: grilled chicken salad.
- Manchu Wok: sweet and sour chicken with white rice.
- Sandwich Central: turkey or chicken sandwich with no cheese.

Fast food salads can be as unhealthy as burgers

By Sarah Rice
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Although fast food restaurants are marketing new salads claiming they are perfect for a healthy lunch, add on the extras and the salad can have more fat and sodium than a hamburger and fries.

The Wendy's mandarin chicken salad looks healthy – only 190 calories and three grams of fat. But what Wendy's doesn't advertise is that only includes a salad with lettuce, oranges and diced chicken.

When rice noodles, roasted almonds and oriental sesame dressing are added the salad's calorie count skyrockets to 630 calories and 35 grams of fat.

That's more than a Wendy's Classic Single, which has only 410 calories and 19 grams of fat. The salad has more calories, fat and sodium than every sandwich on the Wendy's menu.

One way to avoid the extra calories is to make choices about what to add to the salad, Mary Meck Higgins, registered dietitian, said.

"People could put more or less on," Higgins, assistant professor of nutrition, said. "The almonds have a good kind of fat because it is mostly unsaturated and it also comes with fiber. The noodles don't have much redeeming value – they just provide some crunch."

"The dressing is the big factor of fat. People should just choose to dress their salad rather than drown it."

According to the Food and Drug Administration, people should eat less than 65 grams of fat and 2,400 milligrams of sodium based on a 2,000-calorie diet.

At McDonald's, it doesn't get much better. The grilled chicken salad looks healthy – only 200 calories and six grams of fat. But, add croutons and Caesar dressing, and the salad has a total of 340 calories and 25.5 grams of fat.

A hamburger and small order of fries at McDonalds has only 150 more calories than the salad.

However, salads are still a healthier choice compared to a Big Mac, which has 600 calories and 33 grams of fat before adding fries and a drink to the meal.

If people do choose to get an order of fries, Higgins recommended avoiding the super size.

"With regard to the french fries, another choice is to not order fries or order the minimum to share with someone else," she said. "They act like it's a bargain to super size. For the price, you can double the calories."

Burger King offers a fish sandwich as a healthier alternative to the Whopper, which has 710 calories and 43 grams of fat, but the fish is not healthier.

Burger King's Fish Fillet sandwich has only 190 fewer calories than the Whopper.

Still, the Burger King chicken Caesar salad with both dressing and croutons is comparable to the fish sandwich.

The salad also has 1,690 milligrams of sodium, which exceeds the recommended daily intake of sodium.

It is possible to eat healthy and continue to eat fast food, however it's all about the choices people make, Higgins said.

"Perhaps they can't eat fast food three meals a day, five days a week," she said. "There are a variety of food choices, and they should make a healthy selection."

December Special
1 hr massage...$40
Body First
2308 Anderson
587-8300
GIFT CERTIFICATES AVAILABLE

dependable, quality service
✓ digital & print design
Claflin Books and Copies

FREE Haircut
w/Hilite Foil Weave or 2 Color Weave
$50 to $70
by Kelly and Allyssa
New Clients Only
TINA'S Studio 32 FOR HAIR
776-8830 Candlewood

Liquidation SALE
20-50% off
•ALL SMALL ANIMAL SUPPLIES AND FOOD
•BIRD SUPPLIES & FOOD
•DOG & CAT SUPPLIES
Merry Christmas from Scaly Dave's Herp Shack
Stuff your pet's stockings without breaking the bank.
Scaly Dave's Herp Shack
"making you the expert on your pet"
1111 Moro • 539-1667
Tues-Fri: 10-8 pm Mon. 12-6 pm
Sat: 10-6 pm Sun: 1-5 pm

Bobby T's
Neighborhood Sports Bar and Grill
$2.00 Margaritas
50¢ Tacos
$1.50 Draws
$2 Coronas
Taco Tuesday
3240 Kimball Ave
537-8383
Salsa Dance Party at 9:30 p.m.

upc
LEAVING OUR MARK...ONE EVENT AT A TIME.
Lunchtime Lounge
Wed, Dec. 10 noon-1 Union Courtyard
Guitarist/Songwriter/Singer Austin Meek will perform. Austin competed in our K-State Idol competition. Come and enjoy on your lunch break.
WIN CASH PRIZES!
College Bowl '03
we have questions, do you have answers?
Applications DUE Dec. 19. Pick up yours in the UPC office.
For more details on the contest go to www.ksu.edu/upc
Entry fee: $30 per group of 4
Competition takes place Feb. 7
K-State Student Union
HOTLINE: 532 6572 WEBSITE: www.ksu.edu/upc

Summer '04 Semester Calendar

The Summer '04 Semester is 12 weeks in length, which will allow for one eight week session, two six week sessions, and two four week sessions. The beginning and ending dates for all eight, six, and four week sessions are listed in the table below. Please note these dates on your calendars.

Summer 2004 Semester:

First day of 6 week classes	May 24, 2004
University holiday	May 31, 2004
First day of 8 week/first 4 week classes	June 7, 2004
Last day of first 6 week/first 4 week classes	July 2, 2004
University holiday	July 5, 2004
First day of second 6 week/second 4 week classes	July 6, 2004
Last day of 8 week classes/second 4 week classes	July 30, 2004
Last day of second 6 week classes	August 13, 2004

Summer '04 Semester grades will be posted each Friday in the Registrar's Office beginning June 4 through August 13. The end of Summer '04 Semester GPA calculations will be posted August 13.

We deliver for FREE the latest!
GUMBY'S Pizza & Pub
Call now! 770-3333
703 N. 11th Street
Monday mania $3.99
•LARGE CHEESE PIZZA • MONDAY ONLY • CARRY OUT ONLY • TOPPINGS EXTRA•
BUY ONE POKEY STICK AT REGULAR PRICE GET ONE EQUAL OR LESSER VALUE FREE
stick it to me Tuesday
ONE IN CARRY OUT OR DELIVERY • TUESDAY
Rock N Roll wednesday
50¢ Pepperoni Rolls/ pizza sauce/ ranch extra + tax.
$5.00 MINIMUM DELIVERY
DELIVERY•DINE-IN•CARRY-OUT
Must mention coupon when ordering. Not valid w/ any other special.
THURSDAY Mania
XL-16" Cheese Pizza $5.99
DINE-IN • CARRY OUT • DELIVERY
Bonus Buy
Add on to any regular order
KISS MY BIG ASS SPECIAL
20" TOPPINGS EXTRA Cheese Pizza
Limited Time!!
ONLY $9.99 OR GET TWO FOR $18.99
THE DIRTY JOHN
One 14" One Topping Pizza, 2 Liter of Pepsi, PLUS Free Bread Sticks (NOT POKEY STIX)
Limited Time!! ONLY $10.99

TO THE POINT

Legislators must explore options on funding for local schools

A judge's ruling that forces the Kansas Legislature to restructure its school finance formula could take a toll on funding for higher education – and students should not be completely averse to picking up the tab.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Paul Restivo
Katie Lane
James Hurla
Abbie Whited
Edie Hall
Andrew Lawson
Dave Skretta
Rachel Krier
Corbin H. Crable
Chris Harrop

Each Kansan has the right to quality public education, while higher education is more of a privilege.

Although rising tuition already has taken a toll on nearly every student at K-State, we are privileged to be attending a post-secondary university.

Legislators should explore every option before resorting to further slashing higher-education budgets, but K-12 education ultimately is more valuable to the state as a whole.

Without quality K-12 schools, Kansans will not have the skills to compete in the job market, whether or not they have access to some of the nation's cheapest post-secondary education.

The district judge was correct in setting a deadline that will force the Legislature to resolve the problem quickly and help correct the current formula's inequities.

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@spub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Paul Restivo | EDITOR IN CHIEF Katie Lane | MANAGING EDITOR

James Hurla NEWS EDITOR	Kelly Glasscock PHOTO EDITOR	Corbin H. Crable COPY CHIEF
Dave Skretta SPORTS EDITOR	Rachel Krier THE EDGE EDITOR	Chris Harrop ONLINE EDITOR
Abbie Whited CITY/GOV EDITOR	Andrew Lawson OPINION EDITOR	Jared Jaynes AD MANAGER
Edie Hall CAMPUS EDITOR	Dana Strongin WRITING COACH	Jenny Calvert ASST. AD MANAGER

TUESDAY'S OPINIONS

CHRISTOPHER HARROP

Christopher Harrop offers his thoughts on protecting our personal speech and independent news media.

Kathryn Hollingsworth recounts the first steps on her journey to quit smoking.

KATHRYN HOLLINGSWORTH

Mind your manners

Students should always be mindful of etiquette around campus

NASRINA WILLIAMS

This column is for everyone who just doesn't seem to understand the rules of campus etiquette.

I have a lot of faith in people, especially the people on this campus. Because of this faith in the general good intentions of people, I am certain the only reason so many people on campus do not follow these rules is simply lack of awareness.

Think of these rules as a new set of manners your parents forgot to teach you. Covering your mouth when you cough and saying, "Thank you" are good habits, but campus life requires an updated list of manners.

PARKING

We all know the parking situation is not exactly pleasant.

There's no getting around it – there are times when you have to patiently wait for a parking spot. However, this situation requires each of us to follow a certain code of conduct in order to be as fair and equitable as possible.

The rule is first come, first serve. There is nothing better than being able cruise into the parking lot at the perfect time to nab the parking spot some sucker spent the past 20 minutes waiting for. Whoever drives fastest deserves the spot.

If you are waiting at the end of a row and another person is waiting at the other end, then the parking spot should go to whoever can get there first. If the spot happens to be closer to your end, but you were not the first to arrive, go ahead and park first.

Running late provides an instant exception to mannerly behavior. Kindness and respect are not as important as being on time to class.

CROSSWALKS

If you are driving, it is your responsibility to stop if a pedestrian has entered the crosswalk. This means that whenever possible, you should speed up so you are able to get over the crosswalk before the pedestrian can enter the street.

Campus driving should always be fast. You can rev your engine and show off your sports car.

Pedestrians should go ahead and enter crosswalks without looking both ways to ensure the approaching traffic is slowing.

This is a rejection of that useless message from kindergarten we have all outgrown. If you have the right-of-way, you are magically protected from the danger of oncoming traffic.

LIBRARY HABITS

The library is a place to socialize, not study or research.

If you want to study, go to the Union. All the studying going on in the library only serves to distract the people who are trying to concentrate on social endeavors.

Keep cell phone conversations as frequent as possible. It will make you seem popular and let everyone around you share in your life's happenings. If you happen to run into a friend while in the library, try to keep your conversation as loud as possible.

LECTURE CLASSES

We all know students only attend lectures to sign in for their participation points. That is the right of the individual who has paid for the course.

If you do this, feel free to sit in the front of the classroom. Do not sit within the first five rows and loudly talk to your friends so you distract the people who actually are trying to learn.

It is disrespectful to the students around you and the professor who is spending his or her valuable time trying to convey knowledge.

HUMAN TRAFFIC

What do you do when you find yourself walking straight into someone who is walking straight into you?

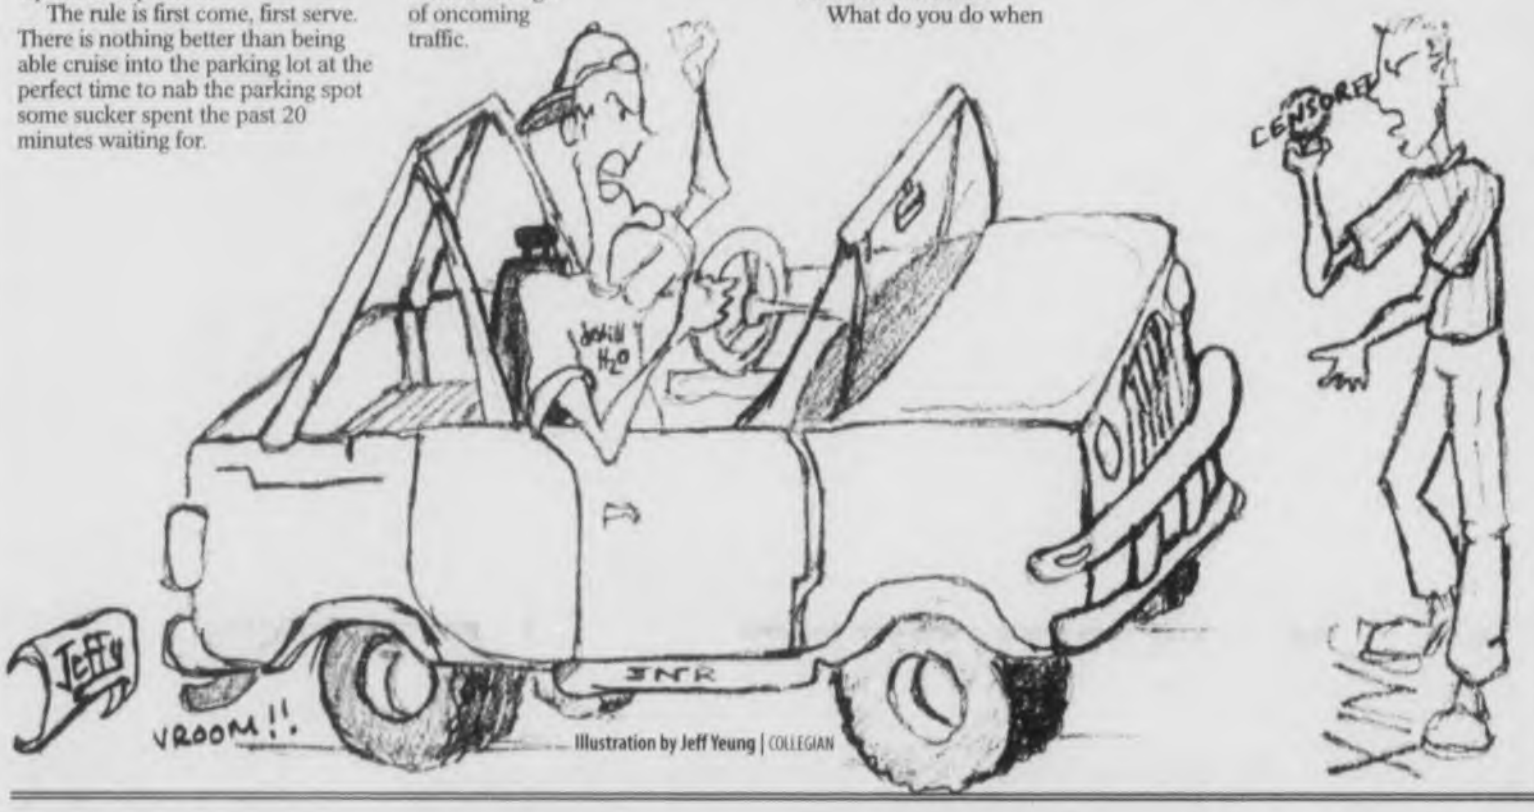
Forget your driving rules and all of that nonsense about the right lane. This will help you have more of those entertaining moments when both people move the same way and then the opposite direction and have to stop in order to avoid collision.

Also, try to form groups that take up the entire sidewalk. When encountering oncoming traffic, simply act like the sidewalk is your territory and force people into the grass, or barrel into them with your elbows and shoulders.

We're known as a football school, so blocking is a proper way to deal with the traffic between classes.

All these tips for campus conduct are based upon a common-sense approach to good etiquette. Follow them and reap the rewards as people respect and appreciate your consideration.

Nasrina is a career student in any discipline that will accept her. You can e-mail her at neb6793@k-state.edu, and she will promptly answer after her completion of a centennial round of finals.



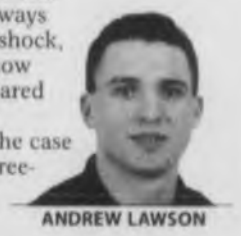


Illustration by Jeff Yeung | COLLEGIAN

Opinion editor leaves semester proud of work

ANDREW LAWSON

When the end comes, it always comes as a shock, no matter how you've prepared for it.

Such is the case with this three-semester journey of mine with the Collegian.

In dealing with this shock, you'll have to permit me some space to muse sadly. Selfishly, I am using this column as one final catharsis.

Nevertheless, if I do indeed have loyal readers out there, I am attempting to provide you with some closure as well. It is only fitting that we end this journey together.

I first began writing for the Collegian August 2002. I'm still highly proud of my first column – a simple, to-the-point piece criticizing what I still feel is an unfair textbook monopoly in Manhattan.

Looking back on my writing, it strikes me how much I have matured as a commentator since then.

Though I occasionally have branched out into more unfamiliar and unconventional topics – invisibility coats and Christmas music come to mind – I have always tried to remain true to what I feel is my strength.

That is, of course, political commentary.

It's hard to tell if I was successful in my endeavors. In the last few months, I have been branded both a Democrat and a fascist.

Personally, I consider myself a moderate Republican, but one who does not hesitate to provide loyal opposition to the Republican-dominated government.

Still, while I wonder how my political leanings could become so misconstrued, I am reminded that political affiliation is really the least important thing I could impart in my work.

This semester, I have been fortunate to take a political science class from Jeffrey Pickering. Leaving aside his other good qualities as a professor, I am most impressed by his impartiality.

He will not disclose his party affiliation, and he has done his best to present material as an objective observer.

I have tried to make this my model as well. That might seem impossible in opinion writing, but I have done my best to balance my findings with the facts.

Although there are minor factors involved, it is this quest in search of objective political study that is primarily responsible for my decision to leave the Collegian when this semester concludes.

My Collegian experience has been educational, profitable and fun, but the greatest thing I gained from it is the realization that the field of journalism is not for me.

Once I accepted that and began the process to steer my studies more toward political science, it was only a matter of time before I would decide to give this up.

That time is now.

I have taken from the experience all I think I can gain, and I have given back to the readers as much as I have to offer.

The time has come to relinquish my cherished job and make it available to a younger journalist, one who more desperately needs the practical journalistic experience than I.

Though I make this decision with some sadness, for I will look back in the future and undoubtedly miss these days, it is for the best.

That's not to say leaving the Collegian doesn't have its positives.

It will give me the time I need to devote to academics, which I badly need if I am to graduate on time.

I will have more time for the important people in my life, who I have been somewhat neglecting the last four months.

And maybe I'll be able to find a job that pays a little better – just kidding.

In closing, I would like to thank all my fellow editors for providing a wonderful newsroom environment and network of support. Together, we have achieved some ambitious goals and produced some incredible papers.

None of it would have been possible without my writers, though.

I have been blessed with an eclectic group of people, who through their varied experiences, have provided a multitude of views on Page 4.

Most of all, I want to thank you, one of our many loyal readers. Maybe you called the Fourum once, maybe you wrote a letter or guest piece or maybe you just picked up a Collegian one day and read one of our pieces.

Regardless, we couldn't have done it without you. This paper exists for you. Maybe it's time for one of you to take the next step in reader participation.

Now there's a vacant spot with someone's name on it, and Nasrina Williams, the spring opinion editor, will still welcome all applicants.

You can e-mail Andrew about Collegian-related topics at lawson@k-state.edu for only one more week. Hurry — time is running out.

CAMPUS FOURUM | 395-4444

Sproles for president.

Wes Marfield is a prophet.

I'm hiding in Darren Sproles' suitcase to go to Arizona.

A thousand points to anyone who can hit one of those OU fans walking around the plaza in Kansas City.

Jesse, no matter what you say, Bush has only done what he feels is right for big business.

I think it's about time for Bill Snyder Stadium.

I break the city ordinance every time I think about that game on Saturday.

Yeah, the one thing that stood between us and a national title was Jeff Schwinn.

I hate pedestrians. Why can't they just pollute the earth like the rest of us?

Crap, I guess this means I have to grow my cornrows.

I need a Darren Sproles to put in my pocket to take to class with me.

I miss Aggie Station. I haven't eaten in a bar since it burned down.

Good luck to KU. Tangerine is the closest they'll ever get to Orange.

Oklahoma may have a national championship, but we have their pride.

Is Captain Morgan an Oakland Raiders fan or a Tampa Bay Buccaneers fan?

Do the calculus help sessions for the final come with a counselor?

If you're drunk, and no one's there to hear you, do you make a sound?

What's the point of dead day if school's still open? We just don't have classes.

K-State beating Oklahoma: one word — miracle.

If David McCandless wrote for the Collegian two years ago, does that mean he's still a public figure that we can talk about in the Fourum?

Why are half the computers in the CE lab messed up, and they're brand new?

Thanks to the K-State football players for beating the crap out of OU and helping the KSU marching band take revenge against OU for ruining our pregame show.

Just for the record, Sallie Mae sucks.

It's a bunch of crap that Darren Sproles isn't a candidate for the Heisman Trophy.

Part of the student fees at William and Mary College go to boosting faculty salaries so that faculty won't leave for other schools. It's a wonderful idea which K-State should immediately adopt.

We are the champions. No time for losing.

Not enough Fourum? Visit www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

Student learns to manage migraines

By Tony Herrman
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

"I've never been stabbed in the head before, but I imagine it probably feels like a migraine."

Jordan McLain
SENIOR IN PUBLIC RELATIONS

They create a pain so consuming it makes thinking impossible and leaves the entire head constricted.

This is what migraines are like for Kelsey Spratlin. Spratlin, junior in pre-occupational therapy, began getting migraines when she was in seventh grade.

Spratlin is a K-State cheerleader. She has had only two or three migraines during games, but they happen more frequently during practices.

"It's a combination of everything I did during the day and also knowing I've got a three- or four-hour practice coming up," she said.

Jordan McLain, senior in public relations, suffered from migraines for about five years as a child. It's been nearly 10 years since his last migraine, and he has tried to forget the pain.

He described the headaches as stabbing head pains.

"I've never been stabbed in the head before, but I imagine it probably feels like a migraine," McLain said.

Lafene Health Center medical director Jay Reppert said migraines are a fairly common problem, and he said Lafene has patients with migraines each day.

He said the current theory regarding migraines explains that there is a portion of the brain that has an abnormal electrical discharge carried through a nerve pathway.

That nerve pathway excretes substances which cause the blood vessels to contract and later expand. The contraction and expansion creates pain in the blood vessels themselves.

"It's not the brain that's hurting," he said. "The brain has no sensation itself."

Twenty percent of those with migraines suffer from a precursor called an aura.

Reppert said auras can consist of many different events and are usually consistent for the individual.

Spratlin is one of the 20 percent. In her case, the aura is like a camera flash.

"It's like looking into a camera and seeing the light afterward," she said. "I see red and blue light in one eye and then black out."

She said this usually lasts for 20 minutes, which is followed by a nauseated feeling.

Migraines can be triggered by too much or too little sleep, too much caffeine, and lots of stress.

Spratlin said she can count on certain events in her life cause migraines.

Every semester she's been in college, she has had migraines the Friday, Saturday and Sunday following finals week.

The instability of Kansas weather doesn't help, either. Spratlin said changes in temperature such as 70 degrees one day and 30 degrees the next might trigger migraines.

McLain said his migraines would typically start after an athletic event. Often a fever would accompany the headaches.

To combat the pain and fever, he would take Advil, find a dark room and a cold damp towel for his forehead.

"It was kind of a placebo," he said. "I know that wasn't doing much, but if anything it was doing something to at least have control over the situation."

Reppert said the blood vessels constrict prior to the migraine, and the aura is related to the resulting diminished blood flow to a particular portion of the brain.

McLain saw a specialist who prescribed him medication for six months.

That was the turning point. McLain said he eventually grew out of the migraines.

There are a variety of medications, depending on the severity of the migraines. Reppert said over-the-counter medications can be very effective.

"Sometimes we have to go to the newer medications called the triptans, which are probably the most effective," he said. "When migraines occur on a daily basis, we suggest daily medication to try and prevent the migraines."

According to webmd.com, triptans constrict the blood vessels in the brain, which may relieve pain by reducing the pressure on the pain-sensitive structures in the head and scalp. They also might affect certain brain chemicals which affect how a person feels pain.

When she first started getting migraines, Spratlin took Tylenol 3 to relieve the pain. She began taking a triptan called Imitrex in a pill form when she was a sophomore in high school.

At the advice of her aunt, who also suffers from migraines, Spratlin began taking Imitrex as a nasal spray a few months ago because it enters the system faster and is easier to keep down during the nauseous period of the migraine.

"The pain consumes you, and it's all you can think about," she said. "With Imitrex, the pain is a seven instead of a 10."

South Dakota jury convicts congressman of manslaughter

By Carson Walker
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

FLANDREAU, S.D. – In a verdict that could bring an abrupt end to a three-decade political career, a jury convicted Rep. Bill Janklow of manslaughter Monday for a collision that killed a motorcyclist, rejecting the congressman's claim that he was disoriented by a diabetic reaction.

The jury in Janklow's boyhood hometown deliberated for about five hours before returning its verdict.

Janklow appeared stunned as the verdict was read. He walked steadily out of the courtroom, got in a vehicle driven by his son and left the courthouse.

He refused to respond to questions shouted by a horde of reporters.

Janklow, 64, was convicted of second-degree manslaughter, reckless driving, running a stop sign and speeding for the Aug. 16 crash that killed Randy Scott, 55, a farmer from Hardwick, Minn. Prosecutors said Janklow was traveling more than 70 mph in his white Cadillac when he crashed with Scott's Harley-Davidson.

Janklow could get up to 10 years in prison on the manslaughter charge and also face a House ethics committee investigation that could lead to his expulsion.

Judge Rodney Steele set sentencing for Jan. 20.

K-State team to study pollution in state river

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LAWRENCE – K-State researchers plan to use a federal grant to seek out the source of pollution in the Wakarusa River, which feeds the reservoir that supplies drinking water to Lawrence and Douglas County.

The $550,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Agriculture will fund a research project to track sources of fecal coliform bacteria, which is often an indicator of other pollutants in a waterway.

"Hopefully, this work here is going to help us understand a little better what we need to focus on – and what we don't need to focus on – in terms of cleaning up the water," said Kyle Mankin, the K-State researcher leading the project.

The Wakarusa feeds the Clinton Reservoir, which is important not only for drinking water but for recreation, said Bill Hargrove, director of K-State's Kansas Center for Agricultural Resources and the Environment, which received the grant.

The Kansas Department of Health and Environment is already monitoring the Wakarusa River watershed and the reservoir for fecal coliform and "eutrophication," the level of foreign nutrients in the lake.

Will Boyer, a watershed specialist for Kansas State Extension in Douglas County, said the presence of fecal coliform was a good indicator that other contaminants could be in the river.

The researchers will use a new technique to track the source of fecal coliform in the river.

Time Warner makes phone deal with MCI, Sprint

By Heather Hollingsworth
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

KANSAS CITY, Mo. – Time Warner Cable announced a deal Monday with Sprint Corp. and MCI Inc. to offer phone service using the up-and-coming voice-over-Internet technology, one of the surest signs yet that cable companies are assaulting the local phone industry.

While other cable companies sell phone service to their customers in selected markets, this deal is the first time the "voice-over-IP" technology will power nearly nationwide phone service by a cable company.

"We've moved out of the talking stages and into the reality," said Jeff Kagan, an independent industry analyst based in Atlanta. "2004 is going to be the year cable and phone companies get into each other's business and start competing."

The technology will let Time Warner customers make calls with their regular phones, but the calls will travel as packets of data over the cable line that feeds into the house, rather than going through traditional, circuit-based phone wires.

At a switching station, the calls will be transferred to either the MCI or Sprint phone networks and into the traditional format that reaches most phone users.

Though the quality of voice-over-IP calls often aren't quite up to the standard of the traditional telephone networks, the technology is improving.

That gives cable companies an efficient way to break into the phone business. Meanwhile, telephone providers are increasingly going after the cable companies by cutting prices on digital subscriber line (DSL) high-speed Internet service and by bundling satellite TV service with local phone bills.

PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS
1800 Claflin Road
776-5577
We Deliver During Lunch!
VISA

Your 2003 Royal Purple is here
103 Kedzie 8am-5pm

Showings Available
by appointment
OneBedroomApartments
814 Leavenworth $370
$345-$385 1022-1026 Sunset
1950-1960 Hunting $440-$460
$440-$460 1212 Thurston
1837 College Heights $385
TwoBedroomApartments
$700 1825 College Heights
Trilevel
1829 College Heights $650
2 story
Call 537-7701
DIAMOND

INROADS/Kansas City, Inc.
is seeking talented minority students in the following majors for IMMEDIATE career-related $$PAID$$ internship opportunities:
RESTAURANT MANAGEMENT
(Chili's - college sophomores & juniors)
(2.8 is an acceptable cumulative GPA for this internship)
FINANCE
(Hallmark - college sophomores & juniors)
MARKETING
(Hallmark - college sophomores & juniors)
CIVIL/ENVIRONMENTAL ENGINEERING
(Black & Veatch - college freshmen, sophomores & juniors)
ELECTRICAL & MECHANICAL ENGINEERING
(Hallmark - college freshmen & sophomores)
(2.8 is an acceptable cumulative GPA for this internship)
Students MUST graduate ON or AFTER December 2005 to be eligible
All applicants MUST have a cumulative college GPA of 3.0 or higher
Interviews are happening NOW!!! Don't miss out!!!
For more information, please call:
Melissa Amaya
(816) 561-2383 ext. 34 or (800) 788-0234 ext. 34
Apply on line: www.inroads.org
DEADLINE to apply: December 15, 2003
INROADS®

FluMist™ is now
at Lafene Health Center
If you don't like shots maybe you can get FluMist™, the intranasal influenza vaccine.
FluMist™ contains weakened live virus.
Check with your health care provider to determine if FluMist™ is a good option for you.
Injection Flu Vaccines are also available.
Now Available
8:30 am—11:30 am
1:30 pm—4:30 pm
Check in at the Business Office,
1105 Sunset Avenue
(patient parking available near building)
Cost: $10—Students; $12.50—Faculty/Staff
There is a required 20 minute wait after the vaccination.
Call (785) 532-6544 if you have questions.
Don't get sick!
Influenza is preventable.

Training table provides athletes' nourishment

Meals at Derby Dining Center funded by Department of Intercollegiate Athletics

By Andi Rice
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

After an exhausting day at practice, athletes from six varsity sports don't have to cringe at the thought of standing over a stove to cook a well-balanced meal to meet their physical needs.

The training table at Derby Dining Center does all the work for them.

"There is a definite proven link between superior nutrition and superior performance, and we are the linking factor between those two areas," Mark Edwards, director of Derby Dining, said. "They work with strength and conditioning coaches in terms of strength, and they work with us to provide the proper nutrition so they can become better athletes."

The Department of Intercollegiate Athletics and Derby have a contract worth more than $250,000 allowing the athletes to eat dinner Monday through Saturday, which complies with NCAA regulations.

"Decisions, like whose eligible for example, regarding the training table are always cleared with the athletic department," Edwards said. "We really rely on the guidance of the athletic department to interpret those rules so that we know that we are feeding the right people and so that we know we aren't going to place K-State in jeopardy by not following those NCAA regulations."

The line for athletes differs from the regular board-plan meals provided for the residence halls inhabitants in a couple of ways.

First, the athletes aren't given a restriction on how many times they can go back for more food.

"There's not an NCAA rule that specifies quantity or menu selection," Jim Epps, associate athletics director, said. "I suppose if someone wanted to eat six lobsters they could. It's just that the dining service has a budget they work.

"Those big guys and some of the gals put away a lot of food, and if they are having baked chicken and they want to go back and have another half a chicken, they can go back and do so."

The second difference is with the athletes' diversity. Derby tries to have a range of regional foods.

"I had some crab salad-type thing that I would have never normally tried," Elane Walker, coxswain for women's crew, said. "I would have never bought any crab meat if I were cooking my own meal, so I get an opportunity to try new things and experience new meals that I normally wouldn't cook."

A common misconception about the line, Edwards said, is that residence hall money is used for the athletes.

"It is completely paid for by the athletic department," Edwards said. "It is nearly twice the cost for a dinner meal on training table than it is for the board plan. So

See TRAINING TABLE Page 8

Voided tickets no cause for alarm

Men's basketball tickets available over winter break

By Matthew Girard
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Students have picked up their basketball season tickets only to notice that three of the tickets are void.

However, the students are not being swindled by the ticket office.

Because of the winter break and many students traveling home for the holidays, the university does not charge students for tickets to those games many will not be able to attend.

...the university does not charge students for tickets to those games many will not be able to attend.

"It started because students didn't want to pay for games they wouldn't be here for," said Bobby Howell, athletic ticket manager.

The Wildcats will play three home games during winter break, but student tickets for the games will be available at the door or through the ticket office for $5. Students will still be able to sit in the student section for games against Texas A&M-Corpus Christi, Bethune-Cookman and Savannah State.

Howell said that even though students will have to pay for the extra tickets, he is not aware of any negative feedback.

"I haven't heard of any negative complaints from students. Most of the students that I have talked to said the situation was OK," Howell said.

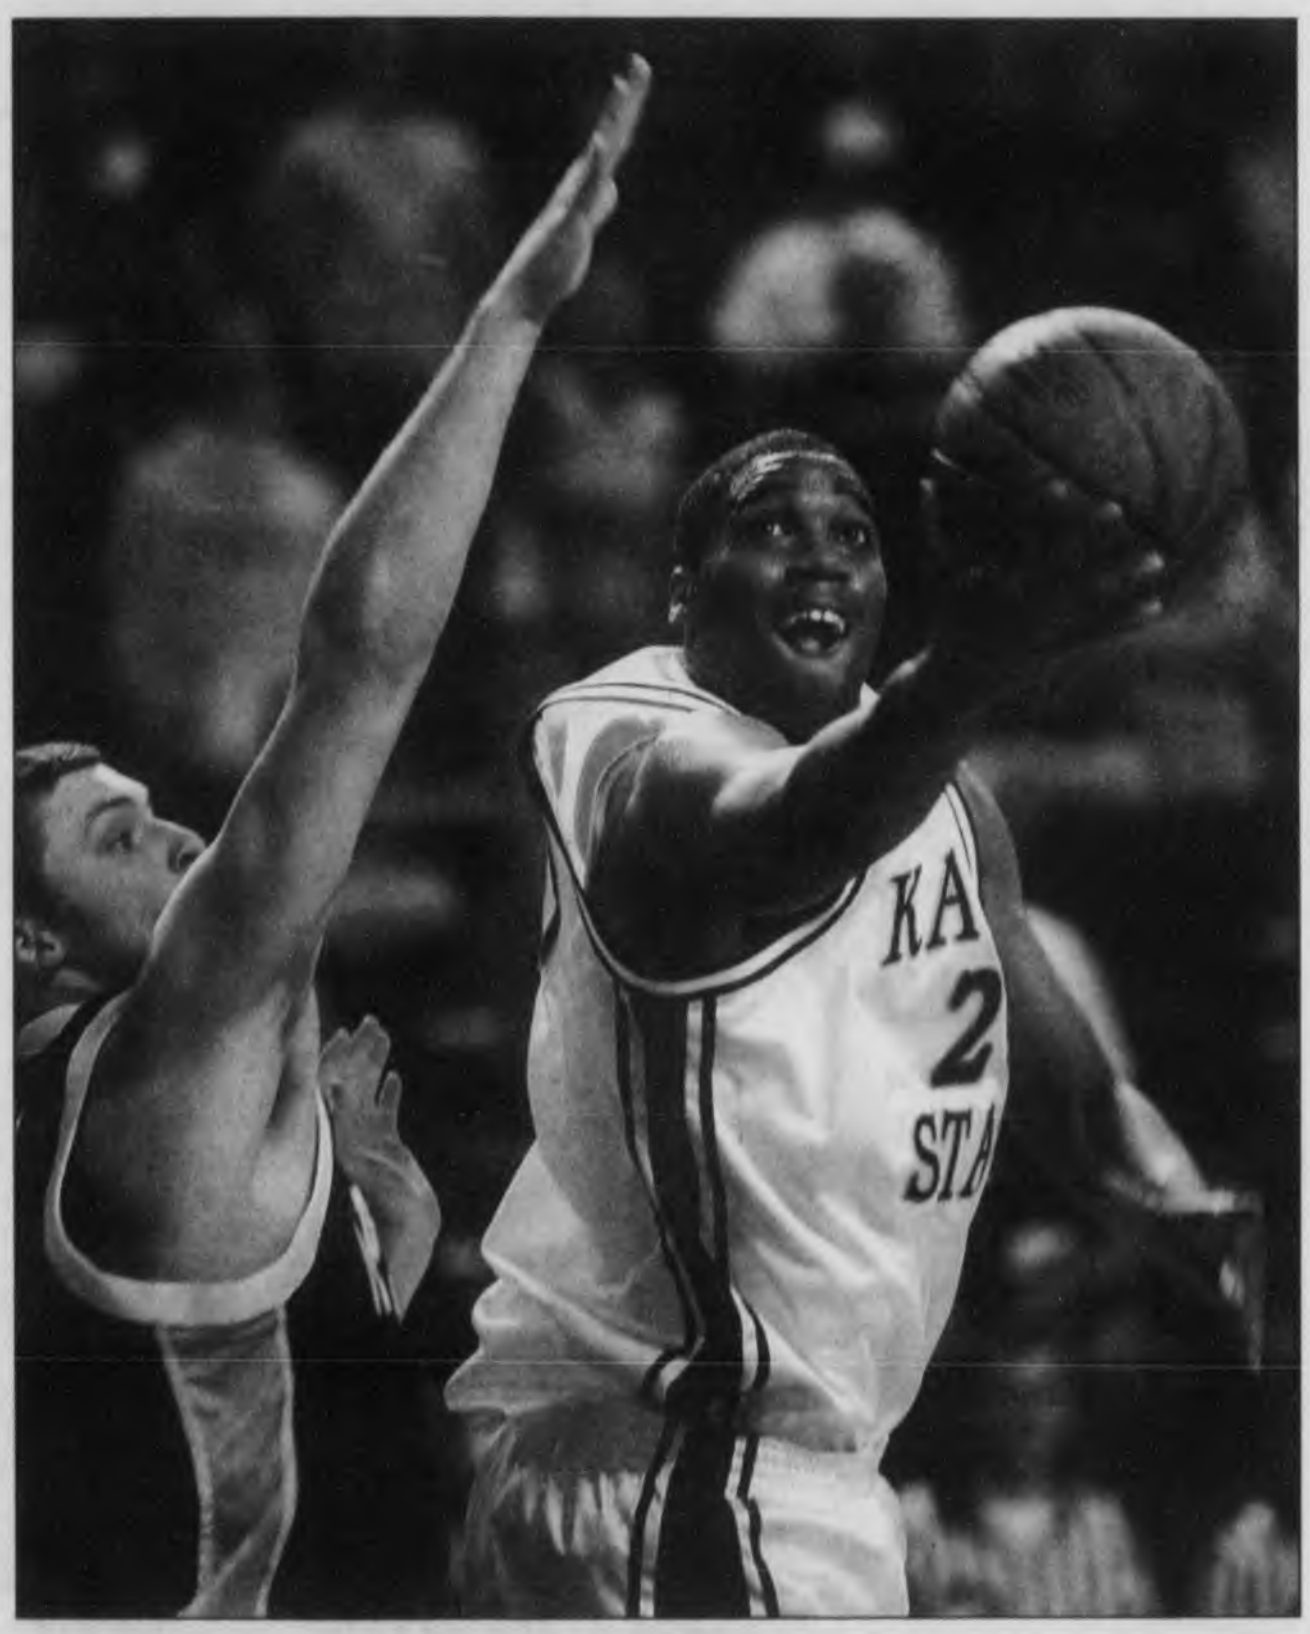
So far there has not been a demand for student tickets for the Dec. 20, Dec. 22 and Jan. 10 home games.

"We have not sold any single-game student tickets for those dates," Howell said.

Danny Robbins, junior in secondary education, a self-proclaimed loyal fan, said even if he was forced to pay for the voided tickets, he would not be in attendance.

"Regardless if I had to pay for them, I would have still went home, but I'm sure some of the die-hard fans will go," Robbins said.

Howell said the lack of ticket sales over winter break is nothing new for K-State.



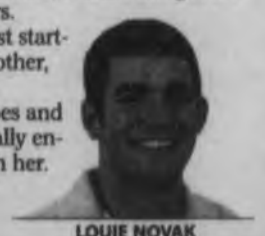
Another factor in the low attendance is the football bowl season.

Howell said with the Wildcat football team's streak of participating in 11-straight bowl games, and the many other bowl games taking place in December, it is no surprise attendance is low.

"The bowl season plays a big part in the low sales. Attendance is just bad during this time of year," he said.

Robbins also said the college bowl season is a factor, but thinks another reason for the low attendance is most students only buy season basketball tickets for the game against in-state rival Kansas.

"Most people who have tickets don't use them. They just buy the season tickets for one game – the KU game," Robbins said. "I've been to all but two games. I am a loyal fan. I don't go to just one game."



K-State's Marques Hayden shoots the ball around Libscomb's Matt Jarboe during first-half action in the Cat's game Nov. 25 at Bramlage Coliseum.
Kelly Glasscock | COLLEGIAN

Men's basketball student tickets are still available over break for $5 each.

Like a relationship gone awry, college football should dump BCS

Once upon a time, I dated this girl for a couple of years.

LOUIE NOVAK

When we first started seeing each other, everything was "mashed potatoes and gravy," and I really enjoyed being with her.

But as time passed, things slowly started to fall apart.

My friends and family encouraged me to get out and explore other options.

Unfortunately, I was naïve. I was comfortable in the relationship and refused to listen. In the end, it took a major incident for me to finally turn the page and move on.

NCAA Division-I college football has been with the Bowl Championship Series for six years. At first, things seemed to work. But, like my situation, problems have caused outsiders to question the BCS system and persuade college football to try something else.

But no, the BCS and college football kept holding hands, snuggling up to each other and telling us the two were meant to be together.

Now, the two simply have to part ways.

For the first time in the BCS, the No. 1-ranked team in the human polls will not play in the championship game, the Nokia Sugar Bowl, on Jan. 4.

The bowl pairings that were announced Sunday are the most controversial in the history of the system.

The No. 1 Southern California Trojans (11-1) will play No. 4 Michigan (10-2) in the Rose Bowl on Jan. 1, while the Sugar Bowl will pair the No. 3 Oklahoma against the No. 2 LSU Tigers.

LSU was ranked second in the final BCS standings with 5.99 points, edging USC by 0.16. It was the second-closest BCS finish since Nebraska beat Colorado by 0.05 in 2001 to play in the national title game against Miami.

Make no mistake, the Bowl Championship Series is nothing more than a big crock of shit.

The Big Crock was designed to make the post-season system less subjective and less rancorous.

No matter how you spin it, the big crock can't find a way to implement a workable system.

I suggest that the NCAA cut the crap and dump the big crock.

We all keep trying to set up the NCAA with the playoff system. I think the two would work well and improve the post-season for college football. All we need to do is get the two to sit down and work out the details.

Louie is a senior in mass communications. You can e-mail him at lm9888@k-state.edu.

1-MINUTE DRILL

The Associated Press

PGA | Woods wins Player of the Year over Singh

A wild season in golf came to a familiar conclusion Monday when Tiger Woods was voted PGA Tour player of the year for the fifth straight time narrowly beating out Vijay Singh.

Woods

No one else has won the award more than twice since it began in 1990. Last month, Woods won the points-based award as PGA of America player of the year.

Woods led the PGA Tour with five victories, and he won the Vardon Trophy for having the lowest scoring average, at 68.41 his second-lowest ever. Singh won four times and ended Woods' four-year reign atop the money list with $7.5 million in 27 tournaments, $900,000 more than Woods.

Big 12 | Osborne speaks about Solich's firing

Nebraska coaching great Tom Osborne ended his silence on Frank Solich's firing, saying he was sad to see his longtime friend dismissed but refused to second-guess athletic director Steve Pederson's decision.

Solich

"Steve's the AD, and it's his program," Osborne, the state's 3rd District congressman, said Monday . "I've been hurting a little bit the last week because of personal sorrow."

Solich was fired Nov. 29, the day after the Cornhuskers finished a 9-3 regular season.

MLB | Royals keep Grimsley, lose Tucker

Ross Grimsley, Kansas City's bullpen workhorse the last three years, will be back next season, but outfielder Michael Tucker is gone again, signing with the San Francisco Giants in a deal that brings Kansas City a high draft choice.

Tucker

The Royals also could not reach agreement with catcher Brent Mayne, whom they had hoped to retain at a lower salary.

MLB | Baseball's best searching for new homes

Greg Maddux and Ivan Rodriguez will have new teams next season, and so will Vladimir Guerrero, Rafael Palmeiro and Juan Gonzalez.

On a busy Sunday night, Kazuo Matsui accepted a contract with the Mets and headed to New York to finalize the deal.

Philadelphia offered arbitration to Kevin Millwood, extending the negotiating period with the right-hander for another month. Also among the 25 players offered arbitration were Chicago White Sox right-hander Bartolo Colon and Oakland shortstop Miguel Tejada, the 2002 AL MVP.

But Atlanta also didn't offer arbitration to Javy Lopez or Gary Sheffield, meaning the Braves won't get draft picks as compensation if the outfielder finalizes his deal with the Yankees.

Fifteen players who faced the midnight deadline agreed to re-sign, including Minnesota outfielder Shannon Stewart, who got an $18 million, three-year contract from the Twins, and Seattle reliever Shigetoshi Hasegawa, who received a $6.3 million, two-year deal.

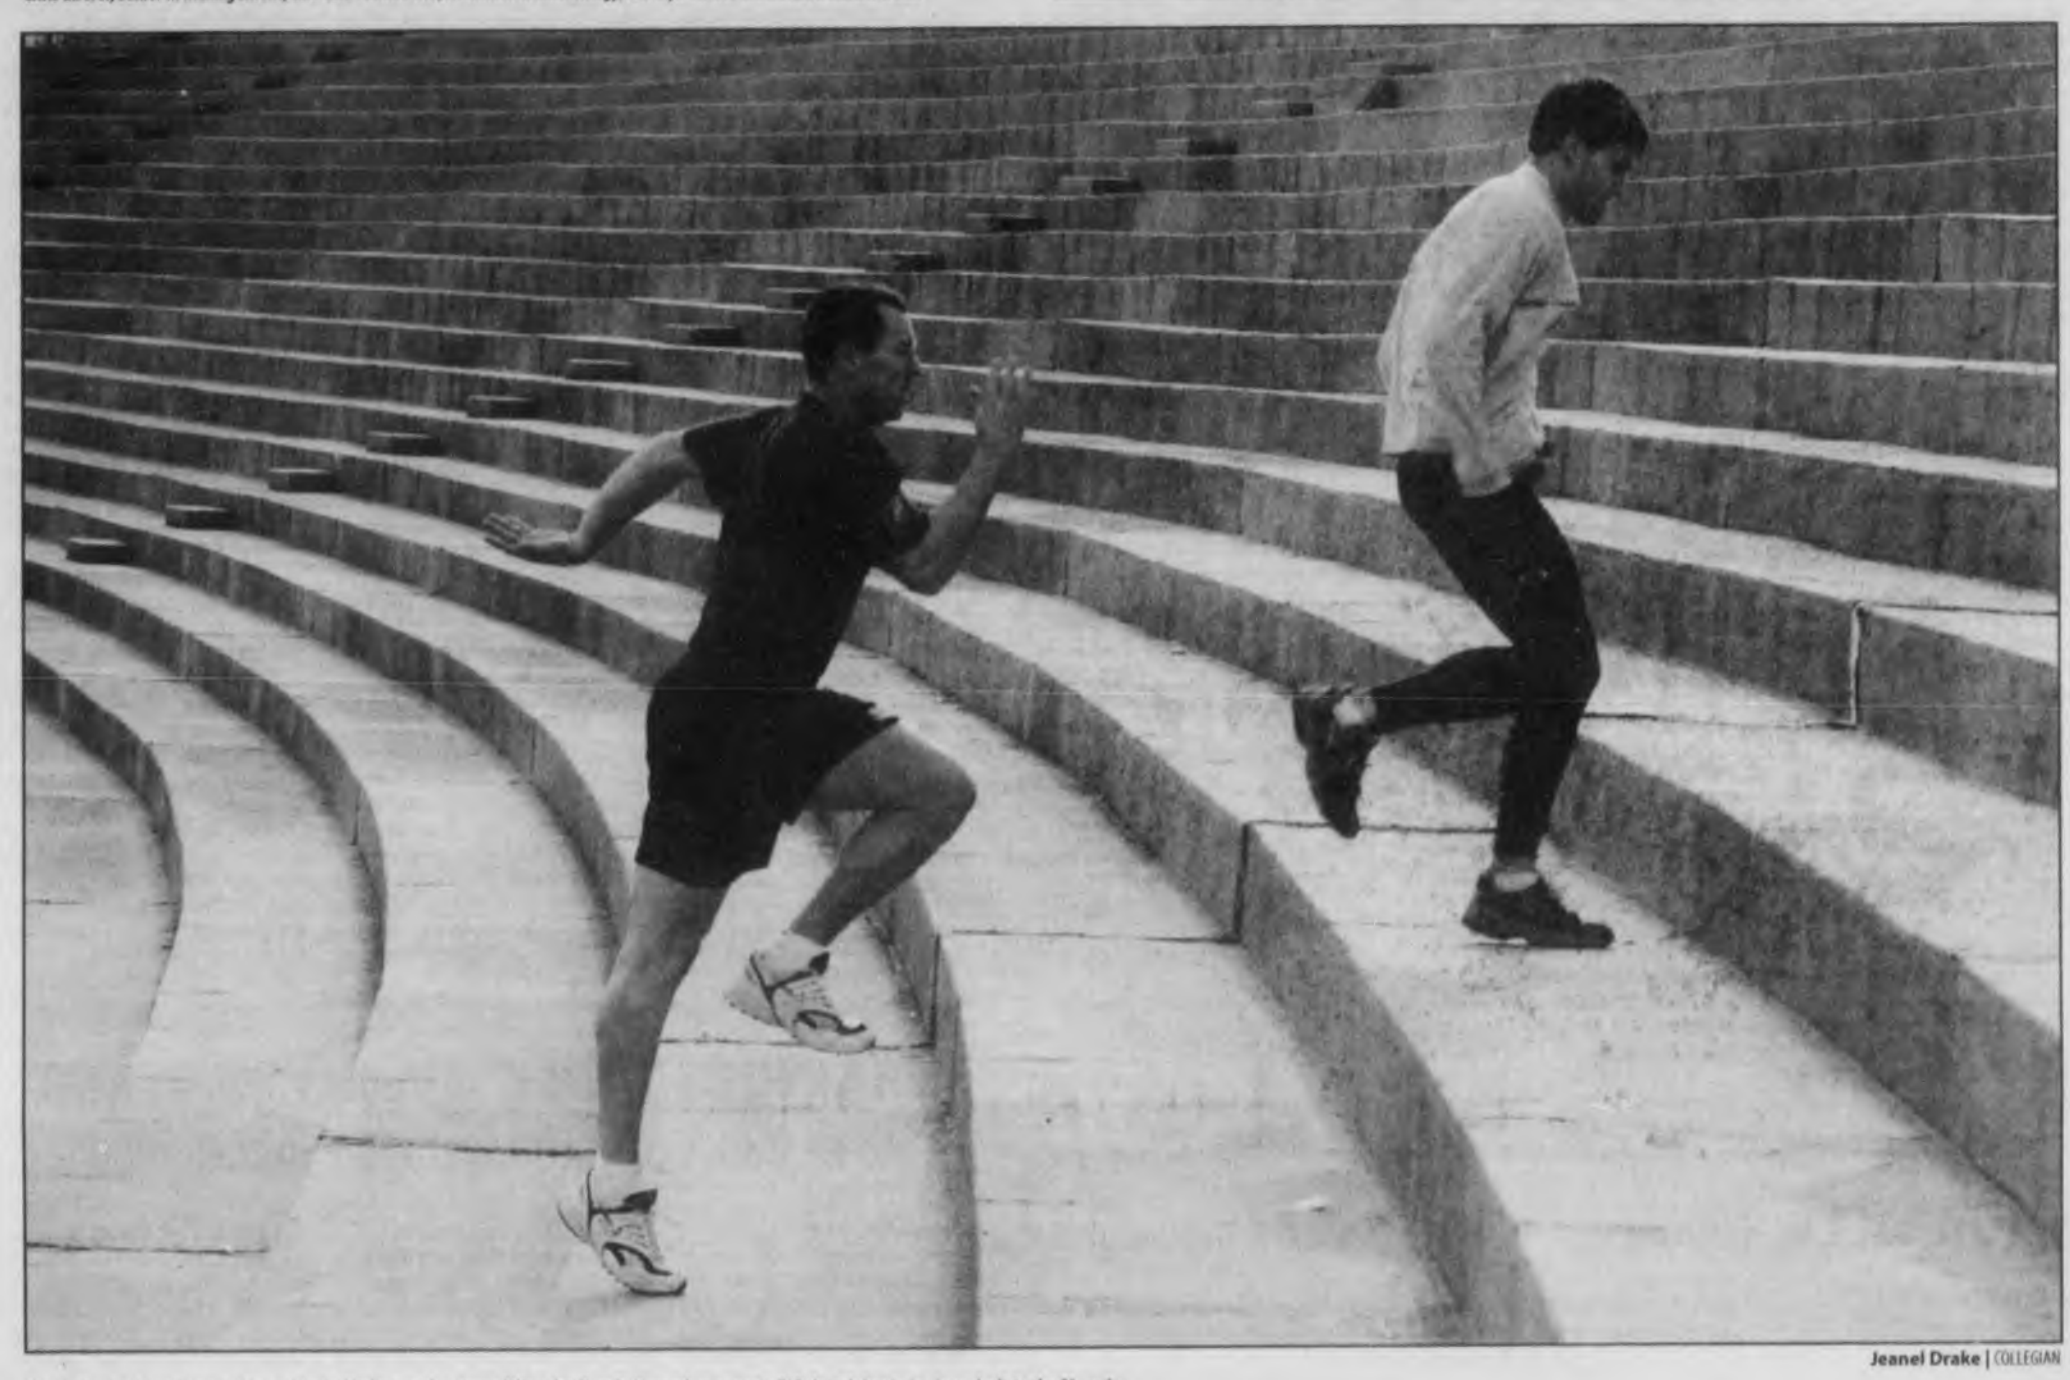
CFB | Judge forces Sports Illustrated to reveal source

Sports Illustrated and one of its writers must reveal confidential sources for an article that led to Alabama's firing of Mike Price, a judge ruled Monday.

U.S. District Judge Lynwood Smith said the Alabama law protecting newspaper, television and radio reporters from being forced to disclose their sources doesn't extend to magazine reporters.

"If the Legislature had intended for the scope of the statutory privilege to include magazines or other media, it could have done so clearly and unequivocally," Smith wrote.

IN FOCUS



Lindsey Bauman | COLLEGIAN

Chris Eiserer, senior in management, and Cole Hambleton, freshman in kinesiology, run laps on the Memorial Stadium track.

The K-State drumline practices Oct. 15 in Memorial Stadium. The drumline and the rest of the K-State Marching Band spent many hours practicing at Memorial Stadium for their performances.

Chris Hanewinckel
COLLEGIAN

Jeanel Drake | COLLEGIAN

Manhattan residents Bevan Hart and Andy Giesler run the steps of West Stadium in November as part of their training to try to make it to the Olympics.

'Ole Stadium'

still important part of K-State

By Matthew Girard
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

On the corner of Anderson and Denison avenues, a memorial to K-State students and faculty who died in the Great War has stood since 1922.

In its 81 years, Memorial Stadium has seen many K-State students come and go, all the while keeping the traditions and memories of years gone past fresh in students' minds.

"Students have always used the stadium, and people have been watching sports there for years," Gerald Carter, director of facilities planning, said.

Although it has not named a varsity collegiate event since 1968, the year KSU Stadium was built, the stone walls and concrete seats are still teeming with student activities. From recreational use to marching band practice, the field is used non-stop throughout the year.

At the time it was built, Memorial Stadium was funded through involuntary donations from K-State faculty.

"The faculties' salaries were docked to pay for the building of the stadium," Carter said.

During its hey-day, the stadium's main use was housing K-State football games.

In 46 years as the home of K-State football, the stadium saw 14 coaches and only nine winning seasons, with its best year in 1934, when K-State won the Big Six conference title.

In his only year as head coach, Lynn "Pappy" Waldorf led the Wildcats to a 7-2-1 overall

See STADIUM Page 8

Chris Hanewinckel | COLLEGIAN

Jessica Schuler, freshman in landscape architecture, reads "The Princess" while she waits for band practice to start in Memorial Stadium on Nov. 11.

Katie Lester | COLLEGIAN

Kevin Yezek, freshman in business, fights for the ball with Steven Friedman, freshman in architectural engineering on Nov. 12.

FUNDING | Small schools in danger of losing funds

Continued from Page 1

were protesting the low enrollment weighting policy, which gives school districts with less than 1,725 students additional funds simply because they are smaller.

In the Manhattan-Ogden school district, which has more than 5,000 students, $6,440 is awarded per student. Riley County District 378, which has a head count of 661 students, receives $7,786 per student.

"That's more than a thousand more and they are just down the road," Little said.

This system of distribution, Little said, creates a gap among large and small schools in building conditions and academic test scores.

"They have been able to fix up the buildings and provide more computers per student than we get," Little said. "They can provide more materials and upgrade their facilities. Sometimes, their academic services are higher."

Larry Bowers, Riley County superintendent, said that although his district receives more per pupil, the money is needed in smaller schools because of their unique circumstances.

"There is power in large numbers, but once you get the basic school structure in place, it cost X number of dollars to get it in place," Bowers said. "The low enrollment weighting takes the fundamental amount of dollars for schools to have the basic programs in place. If you get real small, it takes more money. You spend more per pupil."

Bowers previously worked at a large suburban school district in Chicago, so he can relate to the plight of larger districts; however, he said with less bureaucracy, smaller schools allocate money differently within the district.

"We are conservative, and it's like a family, he said. "We try to allocate money for our priorities, and we try to be conservative. We have money to do that which we value."

Because Riley County schools are continuing to show annual growth in student population, the financial situation is not as dire as the Manhattan-Ogden district, which has lost 2,000 students in 10 years.

"The school finance formula funds the districts that are in growth mode," Bowers said. "It's tough when you start declining. If you start declining, that's when visible outward cuts are a concern."

"It's a baffling, complex formula with loopholes."

Michael Smith
VISITING PROFESSOR OF POLITICAL SCIENCE

The decline in students means money is being cut from an already underfunded school, Little said.

"That means for every year, we cut a million dollars from the budget to pay for raises and insurance. The only way you get new money is new students, or you would have to pass a bond issue or change the funding formula. Every year we have to cut just to keep up with the rising cost of utilities and insurance."

However, while a smaller district might need more per pupil for basic operations, Little said larger school districts are responsible for funding costly special services – a responsibility that smaller districts don't have.

When Little was superintendent in Dodge City, 70 percent of students were minorities.

"We had minority students who didn't even speak English," she said. "We couldn't teach them because they didn't speak the language.

"Oftentimes they would come to school, and we didn't have library books for them. They need books in their own language. Sometimes there was violence because we couldn't meet their needs. Districts around us would advertise smaller class sizes, more technology, less violence, more per pupil. They would advertise and in Manhattan they advertise, and those students go to the outlying districts."

That means more money for bilingual teachers and support material. Additional funding is also needed for special education classes, which affects 18 percent of students. Students flock to the larger districts for better services, which the districts are legally obligated to provide.

"They don't stay at home in their home district," Little said. "They come to larger districts where they can get the services. We receive less dollars and that takes more dollars away from the general education."

The special education rates are rising, Little said, as state hospitals are closing.

"Our Legislature is closing state hospitals, and then they are going to public schools," she said. "The dollars didn't follow them. You need to build classrooms for those children. The dollars that the public education needed didn't follow them. We are getting more and more children with special needs."

Now, the funding formula lies in the hands of the Kansas Legislature. A study commissioned by the Legislature showed for a suitable education in Kansas the base rate per pupil needs to be $5,000, more than a $1,000 increase for the current rates. The study's formula also gives more funding for transportation and special education.

If the legislators followed the study's numbers, Manhattan would receive $8.5 million in additional funding, while Dodge City would receive $18 million and Salina, $12.7 million.

Bowers said he is not worried that Riley County will lose its extra funding for low enrollment and will continue to promote the school district.

"Our school district has taken a positive, affirming approach to the controversy we have been surrounded in what is being regionalized or efforts to claim that the low enrollment correlation is unfair to larger schools 'cause smaller schools get it," he said.

It will be no easy task. The Legislature will have to come up with a fair-funding formula, which could mean hundreds-of-millions of dollars from an already faltering state budget.

"It's probably the toughest thing in state government," said Michael Smith, visiting professor of political science. "It's a baffling, complex formula with loopholes. The messiest part of it all is that formula is based on ensuring that each school district is funded with the least number of dollars per student."

Local taxes are likely to go down as districts receive more adequate funding from the state, as state taxes rise to make up the gap.

"Unfortunately for us, the most popular thing to cut is higher-education, very deeply," Smith said. "That may happen, and unfortunately that means your tuition could go up some more. It could mean the university could have more budget cuts."

And that's the most likely outcome, Smith said.

"I don't think you have legislators that want to cut higher-education, but if they have to choose between one or the other, they choose higher instead of K-12."

TEXTBOOKS | Stores encourage early buybacks

Continued from Page 1

can sell his or her textbook, the more money they will most likely receive, Walter said.

"A lot of people wait until their last final," Walter said. "I suggest they bring in books as they're done with their finals. Generally we only have a limited number of books for buying so if they wait they're less likely to get higher prices."

Jeff Levin, manager of Varney's, said the store has a contract with the K-State Student Union to pay students back as much as possible for their old textbooks.

Last December, Levin said, Varney's paid out close to $1 million buying back textbooks.

"As long as we haven't met our quota, we strive to at least provide 50 percent of the price when we buy back books," Levin said. "We do this because we know it's economically better for students."

However, not all books can be bought back.

"Some books we may not buy back for a lot of different reasons," Walter said. "The instructor might not choose the same books or the publisher might print a new edition of the book. There are a lot of reasons why, but we try to buy back as many as possible."

The University of Kansas Bookstore has a two-tiered buyback price structure, Bill Getz, textbook manager, said.

Getz said if the book will be used on the KU campus for the coming semester, the bookstore generally pays 50 percent of the new book price.

If the book is not being used on campus, Getz said it is then subjected to market price, which is lower than the new book value.

The buyback price of 50 percent, Getz said, does not go down at his store until the last day of finals.

Dottie Staab, textbook manager for Barnes and Noble 354 Bookstore at Fort Hays State University, said students at Fort Hays can begin selling books back as soon as midterms, when instructors turn in their book orders for the next semester.

Students generally don't take advantage of buyback program, however, until weeks later, she said.

"The week before and during finals tend to be more intense," Staab said.

Staab said the bookstore pays students 50 percent of the book's original price, as long as there is a demand for it. Once the quota is met, she said, the price drops down to wholesale price.

Despite the pay structure, Levin said university bookstores, namely Varney's, try to give the students ultimately what they want – money back for their books.

"We try to optimize as much as possible," Levin said. "We want to buy used books back because that's the best value for the students."

STADIUM | Stadium plans on more renovations

Continued from Page 7

record and a 5-0 conference record. In four home games at Memorial Stadium, K-State shut out every opponent, including a 13-0 victory over in-state rival, Kansas.

Carter said the stadium originally was supposed to be a bowl, but funding dwindled during the Depression.

"It was intended to have the horseshoe connection, but then the Depression came and there was no more money," Carter said.

The east side of the stadium served as offices and locker rooms for the football teams, and the west side was used for dormitory rooms.

"It was the only significant athletic arena on campus for 30 years," Carter said.

Today, the walls and concrete seats still stand, but there have been many changes to the old stadium.

Last fall, new turf was laid and lights were added to allow students year-round use.

"We were fortunate to come up with funding to renovate the field and put up lights," Carter said. "We are excited to have an all-weather, all-purpose facility that the students can use."

Along with athletic use by students and club sports, Memorial Stadium also serves as an outdoor practice facility for the K-State marching band.

For Director of Bands Frank Tracz, the stadium has been an important asset for the band and K-State.

"With a world-class facility, it means that we have a better band and that makes for a better experience for the students," Tracz said.

Tracz also said the renovations of the field has been a plus in recruiting members.

"Since we practice almost every day during the fall, the new turf is great. If the weather is bad, we don't have to stand in the mud," he said. "It is a great recruiting tool for us."

Even though the stadium might seem open for anyone to use at any time, there is a priority list, said Loleta Sump, facilities support services manager.

"Academics get first priority, then sports clubs, which are booked pretty solid during the weekday evenings and weekends, and the city gets third priority for soccer and other sports," Sump said.

The renovations do not end with the turf and lights. More is being planned for Memorial Stadium.

Carter said plans include re-establishing the stone wall around the alumni center and the renovation of the inside of the east and west sides of the stadium.

"We have an extremely rare asset. People forgot that the stadium was down there, but they are waking up to the fact that we have an extremely useful place," Carter said.

AGGIEVILLE | Businesses, RCPD expected a busy night

Continued from Page 1

fact we beat OU, and they went crazy."

At O'Malley's Alley, the scene was similar.

"Everybody was kind of planning on it not being busy, but they pulled it off," manager Clint Hutchens said. "It was a huge crowd, and we had people on tables and bar stools doing the 'K-S-U cheer.'"

Other than trying to get people off the tables, Hutchens said there were no problems.

"The biggest problem was keeping people off the pool tables," he said.

Moldrup said that while the police department was prepared for a rowdy crowd, he was not surprised by the lack of incidents.

"I think we expected people to behave," he said. "The game was out of town and people were at other activities that were going on. I think we expected people to celebrate appropriately, and they did."

While students cheered and high-fived each other, Patrick Lee, co-owner of N Zone Sportswear, sold Big 12 Championship T-shirts for $10.

"We are selling them through Porters, Porters West and Joe's Tap Room," he said. "We started printing about 15 minutes before the game was over. We will keep printing as long as they are selling."

The shirts were printed at a rate of 1,000 per hour. Although Lee said he only expected to sell a couple hundred Saturday night, he said the shirts will be available for purchase at Varney's Book Store this week.

Bar owners said business was not better than any other home football game weekend.

"We didn't have near as many people as we usually do cause so many people went to Kansas City," Bagby said. "We weren't packed by any means, but it was crazier than a normal Saturday."

TRAINING TABLE | Student athletes need to be aware of nutritional value in their food

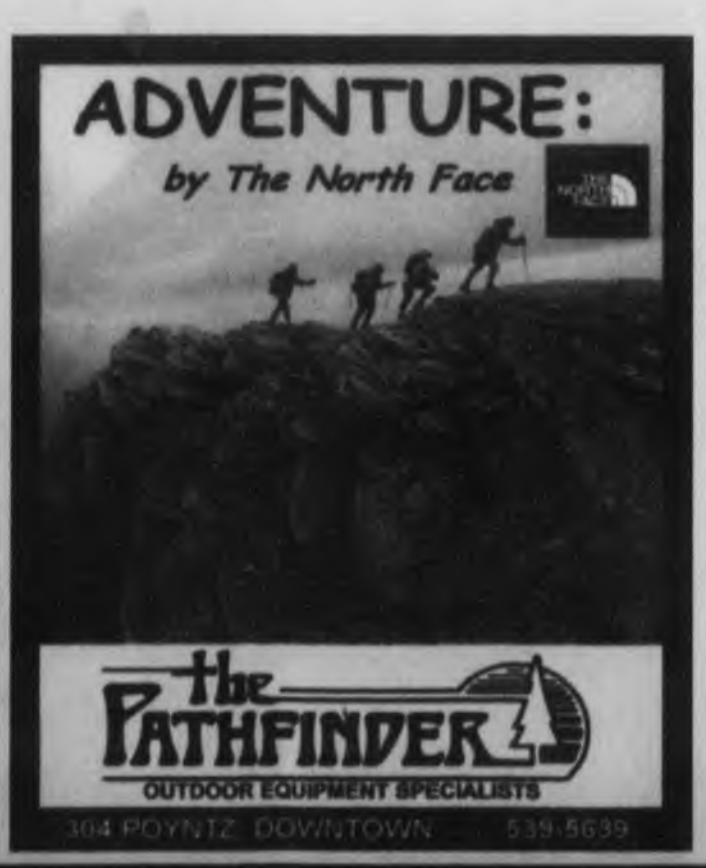
Continued from Page 6

it's not a cheap meal, but no residence hall funds are ever used to fund training table."

With the daily physical practices the athletes go through, they normally need a higher calorie count to keep their body nourished, Edwards said.

"The NCAA does allow athletes to use what we call weight gain supplements," Edwards said, "and because we aren't strong advocates for pharmaceutical-type supplements, the way we do the weight gain for individuals that do need to gain weight is that we provide a take-home meal they can eat later that night, or early the next morning to increase their calorie content."

Other athletes need to watch their weight for certain teams.



"It's a little bit more difficult because you don't know exactly what they are putting in the food. You don't watch them prepare it," Walker said.

"It's a little bit more challenging, and I have to watch it a little more because it's almost like I'm eating out every night rather than me cooking my own meal. It's a little bit more challenging but worth it."

Despite NCAA rules and worrying about weights, athletes have the same taste preferences as many young people, Edwards said.

"We have to remember that the athletes are young people – 18-, 19-, 20-year-old men and women," he said. "Things like chicken tenders, pastas and red sauces, lasagnas, grilled chicken, steaks, even things like hamburgers and pizza are their favorite items."

CLASSIFIEDS

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

A two-bedroom apartment, close to campus. Short term lease available. Available mid- December or 1st of January. (785)317-7713.

AVAILABLE NOW two-bedroom apartments, $450 and up. Walk to campus. (785)776-1936.

BRITTNAY RIDGE. Four-bedroom, study, two and one-half bath, town home. Washer/ dryer. 2519 Candlecrest, lease required. No pets. $1050, $1050 deposit. (785)537-9740.

COZY TWO-BEDROOM. Only a year old with all new appliances. Includes washer and dryer. Has own driveway. (785)341-1636

CRESTWOOD APARTMENTS. West side Two-bedroom, one and one-half baths. Personal washer/ dryer. Water, trash, cable television paid. No pets. $590. (785)776-3345.

FOR JANUARY 1. Nice large two-bedroom apartment. Gas, water, trash three-forths paid, laundromat. $480. (785)539-2482 or (785)539-9315 or cell phone (785)565-8116.

ONE-BEDROOM NICE basement apartment. Right next to campus. Ready for spring semester. $385 with gas and water paid. (785)556-6899.

TWO-BEDROOM WITH study, private balcony, laundry, cover parking, walk to campus, central air-conditioning. January lease, $515- $545/ month. (785)341-6091.

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bathroom duplex, including washer/ dryer, dishwasher, new carpet, nice neighborhood. $650/ month. Available January 1. (785)341-4496.

120 For Rent- Houses

LARGE TWO-BEDROOM, close to campus. Real nice, clean, and affordable. (785)762-7191.

SHORT TERM lease January- May or July. Two-bedroom house, laundry hookup, parking, campus six blocks. (785)537-8389 leave message.

we kick ads.
CLASSIFIEDS • SELLS

TWO, THREE, or four-bedroom house. Very nice four-bedroom house will rent as two or three bedroom with reduced rent. Central-heat and air, washer/ dryer hookups. Very spacious with two bathrooms, six blocks to campus. Available January 1. Call Doug at (785)341-4554.

125 For Sale- Houses

FOUR- FIVE-BEDROOM house, close to campus. Available. Call Larry at Century 21, night (785)317-7713.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE for a four-bedroom duplex. Washer/ dryer. Available January. Rent $275. Call Megan. (785)539-8490.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for luxury, four-bedroom apartment across street from West campus. Laundry, parking, no smoking, no pets. $300. (785)776-6318.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for spring semester. Nice five-bedroom three bath house. Common rooms furnished. Washer/ dryer. $300 rent plus one-fifth utilities. (785)539-9887, (785)825-2937.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share three-bedroom house. $225/ month plus one-third electric and cable. Call Kimberly (785)456-4204.

ROOMMATE NEEDED to share house. Three blocks west of campus. (785)556-0098.

150 Sublease

FOUR-BEDROOM, ONE and one-half bath, spacious, practically in Aggieville. $900/ month heating included. (four roommates- only $225 per person). (785)776-5102.

ROOM FOR Rent. Sub-leaser wanted for spring semester. House two blocks west of campus. $240/ month plus one-fifth utilities. Laundry facilities. (785)537-3096.

ROOMS FOR rent, next to campus, one-bedroom in brand new four-bedroom apartment. Free washer/ dryer, central-air, parking. (785)537-7050.

135 For Sale- Mobile Homes

FURNISHED 12X60 newly remodeled, pets allowed. 10X20 storage shed. Five minutes to campus. $16000 or best offer. (785)770-8794.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed for three-bedroom, two bath $210 rent and one-third utilities. Call Jessica (785)776-1621.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted $235/ month plus one-fourth utilities. Good study environment, townhouse, off-campus. (785)539-2288 or sublease_me_plz@hotmail.com

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for spring semester. Two blocks from campus, nice two-bedroom house, one bath, washer and dryer available. No pets. $230/ month, split bills, $100 deposit. Please call (785)323-1995.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted! Available January- July. Large bedroom. Rent $255 plus one-third utilities. Right across from East Stadium. (785)565-9340.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted, nice three-bedroom, one block from campus. 1850 Claflin. $260/ month plus one-third utilities. Needed for January. Call Anessa (816)806-6094.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted, second semester, three-bedroom house with backyard. $300/ month plus one-third utilities. Must be animal lover. Call (785)537-6139.

GREAT PLACE, great location, great people. Female roommates wanted for spring semester sublease. Large rooms, private parking, common rooms furnished, washer/ dryer. Call Lindsay at (785)587-0296.

MALE ROOMMATE needed next semester, 1850 Claflin, fully furnished bedroom, kitchen, living, two bath, DSL internet, $270/ month negotiable (785)539-5429.

MALE ROOMMATE to share newer mobile home $150/ month. (785)770-9547.

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share a two-bedroom house. Five minutes from the Student Union. Rent $275. (785)539-9981

MALE ROOMMATES needed for a four-bedroom home in quite neighborhood, five minutes north of campus, must see to appreciate, $275 per month plus shared utilities. (913)244-2921.

MALE, WALK to class, lower level. All furnished. Washer/ dryer without meter. (785)539-1554.

NEW, CLEAN duplex one block from campus on Ratone. Two full baths washer/ dryer. $250/ month plus one-fourth utilities. (785)776-3936 or (785)313-4381.

ROOM AVAILABLE in large four-bedroom house downtown near the mall. $210 plus one-forth bills. 520 Pierre. Call Lane (785)539-4440 or Jeremy (785)341-8830.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for two-bedroom apartment with male. Six month lease, good landlord, pets, $225. Stagg Hill location. Call Trevor (785)565-8193.

ROOMMATE NEEDED one-bedroom, six-bedroom house. Washer/ dryer provided, bar. $300 rent plus one-fifth utilities. Call (785)317-1245.

ROOMMATE NEEDED starting January at 1321 Pierre. Close to City Park, washer/ dryer/ trash included. $225 for rent. Call (785)224-9704.

ROOMMATE WANTED $200/ month plus one-half utilities. Washer/ dryer, can have two bedrooms, six blocks off campus, University Dr., no smoking, nice house and neighborhood. (785)317-4742.

ROOMMATE WANTED (for next semester. $250/ month (785)640-4752.

ROOMMATE WANTED to share a two-bedroom apartment. Walking distance to campus and Aggieville. Washer/ dryer, water/ trash paid, off-street parking and cheap rent. Call Jami (785)220-3744.

ROOMMATE WANTED: Less than 100 steps from apartment door to Fiedler. $300/ month plus one-fourth utilities. Available January. (785)317-0099.

SPACE FOR male student. 1219 Thurston. Washer/ dryer, shared utilities. $185/ month. 9785)539-3609

SUBLEASER WANTED for spring semester, three-bedroom apartment with dishwasher. One block from campus. $210/ month 1850 Claflin. Call (785)770-3810/ (785)313-0013.

TWO-BEDROOMS AVAILABLE, four-bedroom house. Five minutes from campus $240/ month all bills paid. (316)706-8548.

150 Sublease

CADI- CORNER from Union. One to four rooms available immediately. Great spot, act fast! $230/ month. 1725 Anderson. Call David (785)770-2711.

CAMPUS/ AGGIEVILLE- spring semester, two-bedroom, 1212 Bluemont. Trash/ water paid, laundry facility. $300/ each, January 1. Kelly or Karen (785)776-8980.

CAMPUS/ AGGIEVILLE- three-bedroom spacious apartment, start January. Central air, laundry, parking. 519 North Manhattan. Call (785)341-4158 or (785)341-9582.

DEPOSIT PAID for you! One-bedroom apartment available January 2- July 31. Water, trash, and cable paid. $380/ month. (785)539-6665.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed for spring semester. One-bedroom apartment. Two blocks from Aggieville. Rent negotiable call (785)564-1173.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed for spring semester. Beautiful house and three great roommates. Near City Park. $250/ month plus utilities. Call Renee at (785)565-0340.

MALE SUBLEASER needed. Two-bedroom apartment. Private parking, dishwasher, washer/ dryer. $262.50 a month. Available January. 716 Humboldt. Contact Casey (785)341-1162.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT, one block from campus. Off-street parking $300/ month plus cheap utilities. Available January 1st. Call (785)313-5550.

ONE-BEDROOM IN three-bedroom house. Close to campus with washer and dryer. Available January 1. $150/ month. (620)245-7681.

ONE-BEDROOM, RENT negotiable, water and trash paid, lease January- May. (785)537-9379.

ROOM FOR rent during spring semester. $280/ month includes water, trash, laundry. Has all amenities including fireplace. Low bills. (785)539-1272. mri8888@ksu.edu

SPACIOUS TWO-BEDROOM/ one bath. All utilities paid except electric. Available end of December. Call (785)806-3068.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for one-bedroom apartment. $379.56 rent/ month starting January 1. Includes utilities. Pets are allowed. (785)770-3060.

SUBLEASER NEEDED from January 1- July 30 to share a two-bedroom duplex. Very close to campus. Rent is negotiable. Call (913)269-2622.

SUBLEASER NEEDED, great two-bedroom house. Fully furnished five minutes from Union. Private parking, available now. $380, all bills paid. (785)539-3408.

SUBLEASER NOW or by January 1. Block to campus, walk to Aggieville. All December bills paid. (785)565-8199.

SUBLEASER WANTED for January, brand new carpet, two-bedroom. Chase Manhattan Apartments. Email at ben_kern1@hotmail.com or call Ben (520)275-1344.

SUBLEASER WANTED one-bedroom. January 1- August 1. $370. Water and trash paid. (785)539-7653.

SUBLEASER(S) WANTED for nice two-bedroom apartment at 11th and Laramie. Total rent $475/ month available in January. Call Dana at (785)565-0662.

SUBLEASERS WANTED for spring semester. Two-bedroom, one and one-half bath apartment. Water/trash paid, laundry facilities, very close to campus. (785)658-5680.

SUBLEASERS WANTED January- May or longer if needed. Two-bedroom basement apartment. Close to campus. Very nice and clean. Call (785)776-2483.

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE and one-half bath. Close to Aggieville/ campus. (785)341-9733.

WANTED MALE or female subleaser starting January 1 until May 1. House two blocks east of campus on Thurston. Call Dave at (913)208-0016.

200 service directory

210 Resume/ Typing

ARE YOU a procastinator? I can help you type papers or projects. Call Rhonda (785)539-3570.

220 Weight Loss & / Nutrition

LOOK BETTER, feel better, live longer. Proven, effective weight loss system and beauty care. Call Lancelot (785)223-5303, www.unicitynetwork.com/lancelot.

255 Other Services

FIRST RESPONDER. This program is for those who may be the initial care giver for an individual suffering from a medical emergency or traumatic accident. Fracture management, medical emergencies and CPR are covered in the course curriculum. Begins January 5. Manhattan Area Technical College (785)587-2800 for more information.

300 employment/ opportunities

310 Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/ she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

! BARTENDING $300 a day potential. No experience necessary. Training provided. Call 1-800-965-6520 ext. 144.

BARTENDER TRAINEES needed. $250/ day potential. Local positions. (800)293-3985 ext. 548.

CONOCO BRANDED C-store accepting applications for part-time clerk. Apply in person 2233 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

CORRECTION: KSU students- earn serious income! Work part-time from home. Be your own boss. We need self-motivated, ambitious young entrepreneurs! Call toll-free: (888)306-3602, ext. 4

EARN YOUR associate's degree in Accounting Support/ Administrative Support in our Business and Computer Technology program. Full-time/ part-time classes begin January 7, 2004. Financial aid available. Manhattan Area Technical College. (800)352-7575. www.matc.net

GET PAID For Your Opinions! Earn $15- $125 and more per survey! www.paidonlinesurveys.com

HOME DAYCARE assistant needed. Looking for responsible, energetic, organized person to work part-time, beginning January 5. Call Julie (785)776-0019.

MAINTENANCE: APARTMENT COMPLEX seeking full-time general maintenance position. Must have experience in repairs, painting, grounds keeping, make ready, etc. (785)776-3345 days.

MAKE MONEY taking Online Surveys. Earn $10-$125 for Surveys. Earn $25-$250 for Focus Groups. Visit www.cash4students.com/ksu <http://cash4students.com/ksuucinn>

NETWORK TECHNICIAN Due to continued growth, Networks Plus has an opening for a Computer Network Technician in Manhattan. Positive attitude, professionalism, strong work ethic and one or more years of computer support experience or equivalent training is required. Email resume to jobs@networksplus.com in Microsoft Word or Text format. Equal Opportunity Employer.

PROGRAMMING INTERN- Networks Plus is hiring a full-time programming intern. Microsoft ASP or SQL experience preferred but not required. $7/ hour. Email resume in Microsoft Word or text format to jobs@networksplus.com

PROGRESSIVE FARM 35 miles NE of Manhattan has full-time opening for personable individual who enjoys working with other non-smoking employees. Individual would assist in management of a farrow to finish operation producing F1 Gilts for breeding stock. Position also includes row cropping operation with large late model equipment. Housing provided. (785)889-4514

RECEPTIONIST NEEDED: State of the art dental practice seeking an energetic, patient oriented, self-disciplined receptionist to complement our existing staff. a dental background is preferred, but willing to train the right person. we offer a full benefit package along with a competitive salary. If you feel stuck at your current job, and are ready for a move fax your resume to (785)537-1401 attention: Kim.

RETAIL LIQUOR Store accepting applications for part-time clerk. Apply in person 2233 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

STAFF RADIOGRAPHER. We are looking for a staff radiographer that is ARRT or registry eligible to work the night shift 2230 to 0700 hours. Applicant must be flexible and able to work independently. Interested and qualified personnel should contact Geary Community Hospital. 1102 St. Mary's road, Junction City, KS, 66441, fax (785)238-1700 or email to: cwitt@gchks.org. equal opportunity employer.

STEEL AND Pipe Supply Company has an immediate opening for a part-time (approximately 20- 25 hours/ week) Warehousing Assistant at our Corporate office in Manhattan. Position is responsible for extensive typing and providing various types of assistance to the Quality and Warehouse departments. Candidates must have High School diploma or G.E.D. Vocational Technology and/ or college training preferred. Must have high degree of computer skills and be proficient in Work and Excel. Also must have knowledge of general office procedures and use of Dictaphone. Interested Candidates should send resume to: Steel and Pipe Supply Company, Warehousing Assistant, P. O. Box 1688, Manhattan, Kansas 66505. Equal Opportunity Employer.

TEACHER AIDES (certificate preferred) for Kindegarden and 5/ 6 classroom at Westmoreland Elementary. Start date and salary negotiable. Single health insurance provided. Call (785)457-3732 for application or Email: caffreyt@rockcreekschools.org. Equal opportunity employer.

THE BEST summer job: Why hike in our backcountry, ride horses on our rugged trails and breathe fresh mountain air all summer long? It comes with the job. Cheley Colorado Camps, a residential wilderness camp for youth, 9-17, 6/6- 8/9. Call us at 1-800-CampFun, E m a i l staff2004@cheley.com or visit our website at www.cheley.com

THE K-STATE Student Union Bookstore is now hiring an art and Alltel sales associate. Full-time Monday-Friday 8am- 5pm. Competitive wages plus commissions. 401K dental and medical plans. We are looking for an outgoing, self-motivated, friendly, people person who is interested in both art and technology. Application deadline is December 12. Apply at the art desk.

WANTED: COWBOYS, Cowgirls to guide tourists and horses through the Rocky Mountains. Come work for the largest horse operation in North America. Write Sombrero Ranch at 3300 Airport Road, Boulder, CO 80301 or visit our website at www.sombrero.com

WANTED: TUTOR for high school student. Call (785)539-8293 after 6:00pm.

WANTED: OFFICE Assistant in doctor's office. Flexible hours. Must be personable, and have computer skills. Call (785)539-3975.

330 Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

400 open market

410 Items for Sale

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS- sleeping bags, overshoes, combat boots, camouflage clothing, wool socks and gloves, much more. Also Carhartt work wear. Open Monday- Friday, 9am-5:30pm, Saturday 9am-4pm, Open Sundays till Christmas 12noon- 4pm. St. Mary's Surplus Sales, St. Marys Kansas. (785)437-2734.

435 Computers

NEW! AMD 2000 +, 128mb RAM, 40 GB HD, 64mb video, 52 x CDROM, software package, year warranty, free setup and delivery, call Dusty (785)317-1345.

500 transportation

510 Automobiles

1996 HONDA Civic. White, two door, CD, and moon rool. Automatic. Asking $4500 or best offer. Call (785)317-2366 or (785)238-1942.

1999 OLDS Alero, remote start, excellent condition, $7250. Please call (785)341-4797.

CLEAN, GREEN, JUST BROKEN IN. 2001 Toyota Pruis. A great car with Toyota Hybrid gasoline engine/ electric motor technology. No, you don't plug it in, ever. Engine and brake recharge batteries. Add gasoline (occasionally) and drive. Enjoyable, efficient transportation. air-conditioned, AM/ FM/ CD. Under 10,000 miles. $15,000. (785)341-7417.

600 travel/ trips

630 Spring Break

!SO MANY Spring Break companies... Book DIRECT with the established leader in Spring Break travel. Better trips, better prices. Early booking incentives. book now with a small deposit. (800)367-1252/ www.springbreakdirect.com

ACT NOW! Book 11 people, get 12th trip free. Group discounts for six plus www.springbreakdiscounts.com or (800)838-8202.

#1 SPRING Break Company in Acapulco now offers three destinations! Go loco in Acapulco, party in Vallarta, or get crazy in Cabo with BIANCHI-ROSSI TOURS. Organize a group and travel for FREE. Book now before it's too late! Call (800)875-4525 or www.bianchi-rossi.com.

NUMBER ONE spring break vacations! 110% best prices! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas, Florida, Acapulco, book now and receive free parties and meals. Campus reps wanted! 1-800-234-7 0 0 7 endlesssummertours.com

SPRING BREAK 2004. Travel with Student Travel Services, America's #1 Student Tour Operator to Jamaica, Cancun, Acapulo, Bahamas, and Florida. Now hiring campus reps. Call for group discounts. Information/ reservations 1-800-648-4849 or www.ststravel.com.

SPRING BREAK- sign up with Student Express and get FREE round trip airline tickets to over 15 International destinations- including Aruba, Dominican Republic, Costa Rica, Caribbean hot spots and more. Why go with anyone else. Limited offer- call now. Commission rep positions also available (800)787-3787or www.studentexpress.com now.

Ad It Up!
Talk with one of our sales representatives by calling...
532-6560

000 bulletin board

010 Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY!" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes and lowest rates. Call (785)776-1744, www.ksu.edu/ksfc

ATTORNEY, CHUCK Harper, expunge convictions before job application, paternity, custody, net free adoption, civil law, 400 Poyntz, (785)539-8100, chuckharper@msn.com

FIESTA BOWL housing. Luxury two-bedroom condo Scottsdale. Sleeps eight. December 27- January 3. $1500/ week. (520)749-0149.

020 Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

FOUND: BLACK zip-close cd case found outside of Anderson Hall on December 5. Come into 122 Anderson Hall to identify.

030 Post a Note

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a post a note.

100 housing/ real estate

105 For Rent- Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2440.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT available January 1. One block from campus. Water/ trash paid. Off-street parking. $330/ month. Call (785)539-5579.

ONE-BEDROOM CLOSE to campus. Water and trash included. Available January 1. Central air/ heat. (785)537-7810

ONE-BEDROOM STUDIO, 1219 Claflin, half block from campus. $330 deposit, $330/ month. Water/ trash paid, no pets. (785)456-2812.

ONE-BEDROOM STUDIO, one block from campus. Ample parking, quiet conditions. Furnished or unfurnished. No pets. $305. (785)539-3638.

SEPARATE BEDROOM, study, living room, and eat-in kitchen. No smoking, drinking, pets. (785)539-1554.

105 For Rent- Apts. Furnished

"Stay In Class At The Commons"
Now Leasing for 2003-2004!
•Fully Furnished
•2 & 4 Bedroom
•Alarm System
•Swimming Pool
•Washer/Dryer
•Computer Lab
•Fitness Center
•Permit Parking
•Tennis/Volleyball Courts
•Individual Leases
Office Hours: M-F 9-5
539-0500
university COMMONS apartments
2215 College Ave.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

1219 KEARNEY. one-bedroom basement across from campus. Water/ trash paid. No pets. Lease January through May or longer. $310. (785)539-5136.

APARTMENT FOR rent spacious three-bedroom, two bath apartment. One-half block from campus at 1207 Kearney. Very low utilities. $245/ person per month. Very nice apartment at great location. Call (785)539-5236 or Angie at (785)537-7810.

EFFICIENCY, TWO/ three-bedroom units immediately available. (785)341-4496.

EXTRA NICE two-bedroom in four-plex with washer/ dryer hook-ups. Available January 6. $440/ month. No pets. (785)539-2356

FOUR-BEDROOM APARTMENT, 1521 Leavenworth, bills paid. $800. (785)539-8401

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, all appliances including washer and dryer. Only three years. Ready for spring semester. (785)556-6899.

JANUARY-- ONE-BEDROOM-$315, two-bedroom-$475. No pets. (785)587-0399.

LARGE ONE-BEDROOM at 431 Leavenworth, $450, bills paid. (785)539-8401

NEWLY REMODELED two-bedroom apartments available January 1st, all utilities paid, $600/ month. Call McCullough Development Inc. (785)776-3804.

NEWLY REMODELED two-bedroom, one bath basement apartment, no pets, water and trash paid, $450/ month. Call McCullough Development, Inc. (785)776-3804.

NICE ONE-BEDROOM apartments. Close to campus. Water and trash paid. $415- $430/ month. Call MDI (785)776-3804.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT at 901 Moro, bills paid, $450. (785)539-8401.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

ONE- TWO-BEDROOM apartment and houses. Available January 1 and now. Close to campus. www.rent-apm.com/ (785)539-4357.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENTS in new building, close to campus/ Aggieville. Available June/ August 2004. Call John at (785)313-7473.

ONE-BEDROOM AVAILABLE January 1. Rent $365. Call Amy (913)709-6283.

ONE-BEDROOM CLOSE to campus. Available January 1. $250, water/ trash paid. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296.

ONE-BEDROOM CLOSE to campus. Available January 1. $410/ month. No pets. (785)313-7473.

SEPARATE BEDROOM, study, living room and eat-in kitchen. No smoking, drinking, or pets. (785)539-1554.

STUDIO APARTMENT available January 1st located in the Wareham hotel. Water and trash paid, $405/ month. Call McCullough Development Inc. (785)776-3804.

SUBLEASERS WANTED, two- three-bedrooms. All bills paid except phone and internet. One block to campus, one block to Aggieville. $260/ month per person. (785)539-9751.

THREE-BEDROOM APARTMENT 815 N. 10th St, central air, bills paid, $675. (785)539-8401

THREE-BEDROOM APARTMENT at 930 Osage, $600, bills paid. (785)539-8401

THREE-BEDROOM AVAILABLE. Chase apartments. Leave a message. January to August lease. (785)537-6117.

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE block to campus. New carpet/ flooring/ some utilities paid. $660/ month, or best offer. (785)539-4641.

TWO BEDROOMS available in four-bedroom apartment. Near College and Claflin. $300/ month (utilities and internet included) Call Toby at (913)579-2486.

TWO OR three-bedroom, spacious. Close to campus or city library. Dishwasher, central air, laundry facility. No pets. (785)539-0866.

TWO PLUS bedroom, one block to campus. New carpet/ flooring/ some utilities paid. $620/ month. (785)539-4641.

TWO, three, and four-bedroom apartments. Close to campus, laundry, and parking. Call (785)537-6017.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT at 431 Leavenworth, $400, bills paid. (785)539-8401.

TWO-BEDROOM BASEMENT, near City Park, washer/ dryer, no pets, all bills paid. $500. Available January 1st (785)539-1145.

TWO-BEDROOM TOWNHOUSE, two and one-half bath plus unfinished basement. Washer/ dryer hookups. Water/ trash paid. No pets. (785)539-5627.

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bath basement apartment, no pets, water and trash paid. $360/ month. Call McCullough Development, Inc. (785)776-3804.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

VERY NICE two-bedroom apartment for rent, starting January 1st. Cats allowed. Call (785)539-5563 or (785)341-5441 for more information.

115 Rooms Available

ONE BEDROOM IN five-bedroom house. Wood floors, five minute walk to campus. Off-street parking. Rent $270. (816)456-7802.

ROOMMATE WANTED to sublease. Close to campus/ Aggieville. Washer/ dryer, $300 plus utilities. Call Nicole (785)776-6099 or (785)565-8785.

THREE ROOMS available in large house block from campus. No pets, washer/ dryer, off-street parking. $250/ month. (785)317-1333.

120 For Rent- Houses

1724 WINNE. Four-bedroom, one and one-half bath. Updated and spacious. New carpet, paint, and ceramic tile. Close to football stadium. $850/ month plus utilities. Available December. (785)556-2652.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted close to campus. Two bath, four-bedrrom, $237/ month January 1. (620)365-3886 or (620)365-9748.

LARGE NICE houses- June or August leases. Call now for best selections. www.foremostproperty.com or (785)539-4641.

NEWER: FOUR-BEDROOM/ two bathroom. All appliances including washer/ dryer. Private parking. No smoking/ pets. 622 Bluemont- $1195. (785)776-9386.

NICE THREE-BEDROOM, close to campus. Available January 1. (785)537-0205.

NICE. THREE-BEDROOM/ two bathroom. All appliances including washer/ dryer. Private parking. No smoking/ pets. 620 Bluemont, $795. (785)776-9386.

THREE AND four-bedroom houses and apartments available January 1 and now. Close to campus. www.rent-apm.com/ (785)539-4357.

TIRED OF Apartment Living? Manufactured Homes For Rent. Pets Allowed. Beautifully maintained communities. Pool, playground, community center. Professionally managed. Call Manager for more details. (785)539-5841.

135 For Sale- Mobile Homes

1976 18X70 trailer in Countryside Estates. $4000 or best offer. (785)313-3147 or (620)767-8279.

FOR SALE: two-bedroom, one bath mobile home. Well cared for, owners are December graduates. $4800 or best offer. Please call (785)323-0055.

Brian Gallagher plays Rum Tum Tugger in "Cats" during Friday night's performance in McCain Auditorium.

Jeanel Drake
COLLEGIAN

Learning a lesson from the

'Cats'

Jeanel Drake |COLLEGIAN

ABOVE: Jackie Trippeer as Bombalurina and Erica Sweany as Demeter perform the Macavity scene in Act II of "Cats" on Friday night at McCain Auditorium.
BELOW: Erica Sweany, a "Cats" cast member from Denver, participates in the master dance class on Saturday in Nichols hall. Members of the cast taught K-State dancers a portion of the choreography from the show.

Dance students get opportunity to keep in-step with actors

Continued from Page 1

The student dancers had wide smiles on their faces despite their heavy breathing and sweat-beaded foreheads. They cheered and clapped after learning, then dancing, a portion of the choreography from "Cats."

"I've never been able to interact with cast members like this before," Henning said. "They taught us a combo, and they showed us their piece. I was really tired by the end and sweating a lot."

Joyce Yagerline, director and associate professor of dance, said this was a wonderful opportunity for students.

"Look at them – they are having a blast," Yagerline said.

"You can just feel the energy flowing out of the room.

"The students are exposed to the choreography of 'Cats' and are able to dance the choreography with them. They get to see the technique level of professional dancers – what it takes to be a company member for 'Cats.'"

Yagerline said it is her goal to arrange master classes whenever possible with professional dance companies that comes to McCain.

The dance captain, Richard Hinds, led the group in warm-ups, then taught them a combo of steps from the show.

But he wasn't the only "Cats" member on the dance floor. He was joined by several other dancers and the company manager, Natalie Fleming, who said it was not usual for her to join in.

"This is the first time ever. I haven't danced in three years and I can tell you now that I am hurting," Fleming said. "It's fun and it gets your heart rate going. I have a new appreciation for the dancers now."

At the end of the master class, students sat along the edge of the dance floor and watched the "Cats" dancers strut their stuff. Then all of the students joined round for a few photographs with the cast.

A stranger to the scene probably wouldn't have been able to pick out the professionals from the students because they were all about the same age.

Trippeer said the cast ranged in age from 20 to 29 years old, which makes the touring group more close-knit.

"The job itself is amazing, and that's why we do it. We have fun and everyone does their job," Trippeer said.

"It has its ups and downs. It's tiring and we get moody sometimes."

Ollington said it is common for touring groups to be composed of a young cast.

"You have to have a young, resilient body to go on tour," Ollington said, "especially with such a physical show."

Fisher said she is aware of the fact that touring groups tend to be younger, but was surprised to learn a few of them were her age.

"I asked them how old they were,

Jeanel Drake |COLLEGIAN

and I just thought, 'Lucky dogs,'" Fisher said.

"If I was given the opportunity to perform like that, I'd take that risk. Those who are my age are very lucky to be able to do that and pursue it at such a young age."

Fisher said meeting and dancing with professionals who are their age also motivated students who want to perform as a career.

"It's easy to get disheartened in this field," she said, "but seeing the fruits of their labor makes the goal seem much more achievable. Those of us who want to perform know this is a crucial time to decide if we're going to try and get out there."

CALENDAR

■ The Chicago 7 and Clap are performing tonight at Gumby's Pizza and Pub.

IN BRIEF

The Associated Press

Oprah avoids "Late Show"

Oprah Winfrey doesn't have a Top Ten list of reasons why she hasn't appeared on David Letterman's show recently. She has just two: both of her previous appearances.

Winfrey

"Both times I was sort of like the butt of his jokes," Winfrey said.

The "Late Show" host isn't shy about making references to Winfrey. He's had stagehands read transcripts of "The Oprah Winfrey Show" and has made a running gag of his desire to be a guest on the daytime program

Damon in "Stuck on You"

Matt Damon and Greg Kinnear know all about togetherness.

The actors play conjoined twins in "Stuck on You" and spent more than their share of time in makeup, especially for scenes in which they appear bare-chested.

Damon

In the comedy, Damon and Kinnear play Bob and Walt, who live on Martha's Vineyard. Kinnear's Walt decides to pursue his acting dream in Los Angeles and, of course, Damon's Bob has to go along.

Book studies cheerleading

The book, "Cheerleader!: An American Icon," has it all, from the early days in the Ivy League, to the big megaphones, the pompons and the homicidal Texas cheerleader mom. There are 3.8 million cheerleaders in the United States, the authors found.

"You can learn a lot about American society through cheerleading," said Pamela Bettis, Washington State University professor and co-author.

NEW RELEASES

DVD

"Assassination Tango"
"Best of the Muppet Show: Steve Martin"
"Bad Boys II"
"Buffy the Vampire Slayer, season 5"
"Final Fantasy: Unlimited"
"Firefly," the complete series
"Gigli"
"Heat Guy J 3: Sins of the City"
"How to Deal"
"Inu Yusha 12: Swords of Destiny"
"Inu Yusha 13: Den of Wolves"
"Killer Eye"
"Mash" TV season 5
"Master Keaton 4: Blood and Bullets"
"Neo Ranga: Search for Paradise"
"Oktober"
"Orphen" season 2

Supported by
Digital Shelf
7,000 + different DVD titles
706 N. 11th 776-6959
www.ksuDIGITALSHELF.com
Hours:
Mon.-Sun. 11 a.m.-midnight
sell us your DVDs & video games

Herr Metzger | Armen — www.herrmetzger.com

Puck | Kent Holle — kentramone@yahoo.com

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

www.kstatecollegian.com

Wednesday, December 10, 2003

Vol. 108, No.76

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

Stores try to use options when selling books

IN-DEPTH: TEXTBOOKS

The Collegian takes a look at the process of buying and selling textbooks in a three-part series. Today, find out what K-State and other college bookstores focus on when selling books to students.

By Amy Preston
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The spring semester's tuition is covered. Bills from the holidays are finally paid.

But lurking in that diminishing checking account is one final, and maybe costly, detail – purchasing textbooks for the new semester.

University bookstores are trying to keep the cost of textbooks low for students, especially with the recent increases in college tuition.

"We know it's a very frustrating thing, especially with the cost of school going up," Jeff Levin, manager of Varney's Book Store, said.

As a result, Levin said the bookstore uses a total of 15 wholesalers throughout the United States to purchase books, namely used ones.

In addition, the store uses a written computer program that goes out and scans textbook prices to try and find the lowest price.

Dan Walter, textbook manager at Varney's, said students on average can spend between $400 and $500 on textbooks during a semester.

Despite the high prices, Walter said Varney's is about as aggressive as any other store on purchasing used textbooks.

At Fort Hays State University, Dottie Staab, textbook manager for the Barnes and Noble 354 University Book Store, said she works with faculty members to keep as many used textbooks as possible.

"In most of the general education courses the faculty really try to rotate books in a full year to two-year cycle so students can buy and sell used books," she said.

This semester Staab said the

See TEXTBOOKS Page 10

Winter. arrives

Peter Wetzel, freshman in pre-elementary education, uses a sweatshirt to cover his face as the sleet begins to fall Tuesday afternoon. Wetzel, like other students, tried to stay warm in the cold weather.

Chris Hanewinckel
COLLEGIAN

Chris Hanewinckel | COLLEGIAN

Katelyn Rissel, freshman in animal science and industry, and Peter Wetzel, freshman in elementary education, make snow angels outside Hale Library on Tuesday afternoon. After rain most of the day, if finally began snowing Tuesday night.

Fun or fierce, cold weather is here

By Amy Preston
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

It's here.

After weeks of waiting, the winter weather has arrived.

As of Tuesday evening, temperatures had dropped to 27 degrees Fahrenheit with a wind chill of 8 degrees. A winter storm warning was issued until midnight tonight with mixtures of rain, sleet and snow on the way.

State climatologist Mary Knapp said the national weather service issues a winter-storm warning when the snowfall rates or wind is going to be strong enough to cause problems.

In Kansas, Knapp said meteorologists were predicting about four inches of total snow accumulation in addition to wind speeds between 30 and 40 miles per hour.

Bruce Jones, meteorologist for KSNT-TV 27 in Topeka, said he was expecting the Manhattan area to have anywhere between two or four inches by this morning.

Tips for Driving in the snow

- Drive slowly.
- Tap your brakes — never slam on them.
- Make sure your tires have plenty of tread.

"If we get a heavy snow band, I would say four inches or less," Jones said.

Though the snow will clear out today, Jones said the cold air will continue.

"It's going to be sunny but very cold with a northwest wind," he said. "It will be a rather cold and breezy day."

Manhattan public work officials were preparing for the storm Tuesday evening, with salt trucks and other equipment on hand.

"We're about as prepared as we can get," Jeff Walters, public works superintendent, said. "We have the crews ready."

Walters said the crews were not able to do any pretreatment to the roads due to the rainfall early Tuesday morning. Therefore crews had to wait until the snow arrived before any work was done.

"We just follow what the storm dictates," he said.

Walters said the crew would take care of all public streets within the city by late Tuesday evening. If the storm progressed, he said the crew would certainly work throughout the night.

Despite the long wait for the

See WEATHER Page 10

Zach Long | COLLEGIAN

The first batch of winter weather wreaks havoc on a group of people on campus Tuesday. Students were greeted with freezing rain, wind and eventually snow.

Honor system completes investigation

By Sarah Rice
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Twenty-three percent of students in an undergraduate sociology class will be required to take the Academic Integrity Course after an Honor Code investigation.

Honors System Director Phil Anderson said letters have been sent to students giving them five days to appeal their case. The cheating allegations have investigated since early October.

The Introduction to Sociology class, taught by graduate teaching assistant Sara Fisher, included a daily quiz as a way to record attendance. Students were instructed to self-correct their quizzes and then discuss the answers in groups. Students were then given the correct answers and were told to record their individual and group scores on a group folder.

Fisher suspected one-third of the class was falsely recording perfect scores and another one-third had randomly assigned scores but then began to assign straight perfect scores.

"The students who receive the letters will have five class days to request an appeal."

Phil Anderson
HONORS SYSTEM DIRECTOR

Fisher then consulted with honors system officials who advised she give one more quiz to be collected and graded by Fisher for comparison to previous test scores.

Anderson said Honor Code investigators were assigned to the case and Assistant Director Helene Marcoux has been interviewing students the last two months.

Anderson said that in the investigations, in order to convict a student of cheating there had to be two criteria of evidence, however he would not comment on what that evidence was.

"The students who receive the letters will have five class days to request an appeal," he said. "To do that, they have to meet with Helene Marcoux, the assistant director, and review the information we have that led us to the conclusion that they need to take the Academic Integrity Course. At that point, they can request an appeal."

The appeals process will begin at the start of the spring semester.

"We would appoint an investigator and see if they agree there is sufficient evidence to support a charge," Anderson said. "That will go to a hearing, and the hearing would be in early February. The student will then have the opportunity to present before a hearing panel. The hearing panel makes the final decision."

Anderson said he is sure there will be requests for appeals.

"I think that the process is fair in the sense that even those students accused of a honor pledge violation do have the opportunity to request an appeal," he said.

Besides students that are charged with cheating on the daily quizzes, Anderson said some students were found to have lied when signing an extra-credit roster.

"There will be some students involved in signing an extra-credit roster that is signed for students other than themselves," Anderson said. "They will have to meet with Helene with me to explain to them why it's an honor pledge violation. It's not uncommon in a course where a faculty passes around a roster for students to sign for students that are not there, not realizing that's an honor pledge violation," he said. "The understanding is you are signing your own name. If you are signing someone else's name, that violates trust."

INSIDE

Not happy with your cell phone service provider? Compare prices and plans.

The Edge, Page 7

HEADLINES

The Associated Press

Gore's support

Al Gore endorsed Howard Dean's presidential bid Tuesday, praising the front-runner's fervent opposition to the Iraq war while urging Democrats to unite behind Dean five weeks before the first votes are cast.

Gore

Iraq update

Iraq's interim government voted Tuesday to establish a war crimes tribunal to prosecute top members of Saddam Hussein's regime, two people who attended the meeting said. Meanwhile, suicide bombers blew themselves up at the gates of two U.S. military bases on Tuesday, wounding 61 American soldiers.

Taiwan independence

With visiting Chinese Premier Wen Jiabao at his side, President Bush sent a strong warning to Taiwan on Tuesday not to take any action toward independence that could cause new tensions with Beijing.

Mother charged

A Geuda Springs woman has been charged in Sumner County with first-degree murder in the death of her newborn child. Rebecca Lynn Gregory, 29, was being held in the county jail on $50,000 bond Monday night. She will not be allowed unsupervised contact with her 2-year-old son, authorities said.

DON'T FORGET

- Fiesta Bowl tickets can be reserved today from the Athletic Ticket Office. Call (800) 221-CATS or 532-7606 for tickets. Tickets are $85. The game is at 7 p.m. Jan. 2 in Tempe, Ariz.
- There will be no class on Friday for a student study day.
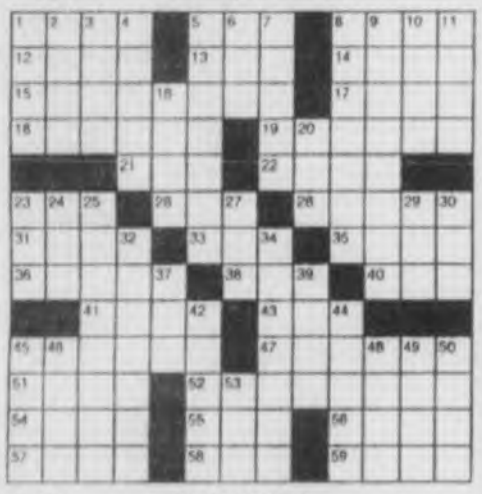
- The Collegian production for the fall semester will end Thursday. Watch for a finals guide in newsstands Friday.

Weather

Today: Sunny, windy 33 | 10
Thursday: Mostly sunny 32 | 13

PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS 776-5577

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer



ACROSS
1 Satisfied
5 Diploma abbr.
8 Like some drinks
12 Get a kick out of 13 Caviar, essentially
14 Take on
15 Dressing ingredient
17 Glenn, in "Fatal Attraction"
18 Kiddie-pool activity
19 Clingy mollusk
21 Whopper
22 Angel's instrument (Ital.)
23 Long March leader
26 "CSI" evidence
28 With one — (unanimously)
31 Eastern potentate
33 Shrill bark
35 Responsibility
36 Aviator Post
38 Rotation duration
40 Asian holiday
41 Applaud
43 Alternative to whether
45 Burning
47 V-shaped donts
51 Harvester's collection
52 Poppycock
54 Elmo's fans, mostly
55 Erstwhile acorn
56 55-Across, e.g.
57 Connors' competitor
58 "What did I tell you?"
59 Group of elephants

DOWN
1 Radiate
2 "Damn Yankees" vamp
3 Eager
4 Mephistopheles
5 Offspring
6 — pollo
7 Perry's secretary
8 Rug cleaner
9 Rembrandt's supply
10 Gratis
11 Libretto
16 Oklahoma city
20 Columnist Kupcinet
23 Kitten's comment
24 "— Blue?"
25 Shell covering material
27 Succor
29 Shuffleboard stick
30 Superlative ending
32 Backslide
34 Breakfast treat
37 Red Sox legend, to fans
39 Egg part
42 Mexican money
44 Saw things?
45 Official proceedings
46 Family biz abbr.
48 Links call
49 Layer
50 Coaster
53 Dundee denial

Solution time: 21 mins.

G	A	F	F	■	M	A	Y	■	R	A	C	K
E	C	R	U	■	A	D	O	■	O	G	L	E
A	M	E	R	I	C	A	N	■	Q	U	A	D
R	E	D	■	R	A	M	■	Q	U	A	Y	S
■	■	■	C	O	W	■	H	U	E	■	■	■
O	R	Q	A	N	■	R	O	O	F	T	O	P
P	O	E	M	■	L	O	G	■	O	A	H	U
S	T	E	E	R	E	D	■	T	R	O	O	P
■	■	■	M	A	X	■	G	U	T	■	■	■
D	O	U	B	T	■	E	R	R	■	E	N	D
E	L	S	E	■	M	U	E	N	S	T	E	R
L	E	E	R	■	A	R	E	■	A	C	R	E
L	O	■	T	■	D	O	N	■	C	H	O	W

Yesterday's answer 12-17

12-17 CRYPTOQUIP

F U F Y B N T B Q R Z Y K Z R A D A Q F V R R M T B U , Z K F U L Y Z O L B J M O L F J Z V Z B X R C R B F A D D B N B X L A F R Z C Y .

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: RECENT FILM ABOUT A MONSTROUS FIGURE IN A FAMOUS BIBLICAL GARDEN: "BEAST OF EDEN."

Today's Cryptoquip Clue: B equals E

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 1! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to CryptoClassics Book 1, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475

The Cryptoquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.

© 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

SATIRICALLY SPEAKING: THE FAKE NEWS

"Satirically Speaking" is entirely satirical. Except in the case of public figures, all names are manufactured and any similarity to real persons is accidental or coincidental.

Illustration by Jeff Yeung | COLLEGIAN

STUDENT THINKS HE'S THE 1ST TO THINK OF SNOWBALL PRANK

Adam Boyle, freshman in computer engineering, said Tuesday that he can't wait for the first snow of the season so he can pull what he thinks is an original prank.

"See that big fork in front of King Hall?" Boyle said excitedly, pointing to the large phallic sculpture in front of the building. "I'm gonna roll up a couple of big snowballs and put them in front of the fork so they look like testicles. It's gonna be so freaking funny."

Boyle's best friend, Madeleine Johnson, senior in finance, rolled her eyes and cupped her hand to her mouth to whisper.

"He's a first-semester freshman, so I try to let him believe that he's the first schmuck who's thought up that sad trick," Johnson said. "All of my friends stopped thinking the snowballs-in-front-of-the-fork thing was funny when we were in Expository Writing I."

Boyle, however, was already making preparations for the snow.

"Maybe I'll make one of the snowballs bigger than the other," he said, "or maybe I'll just make one big snowball. Kinda like the fork has one testicle. Get it?"

PAPER WRITES ITSELF

After waiting two months to finish a paper due at the end of this week, sophomore Dee Zanuts discovered the paper completed, stapled and ready to turn in yesterday morning.

"This is so money," Zanuts said. "Everyone and their mother told me that papers don't write themselves. Eat that!"

The paper now leaves Zanuts with a false sense of security going into finals week.

"Yeah, now that that paper's out of the way, it's smooth sailing the rest of the semester," said Zanuts, who has five finals before next Thursday.

When questioned about Zanuts' good fortune on the paper, roommate Lily Appul remarked, "There's no way in hell I can finish studying with Dee screaming and yelling about that paper all the time."

Luckily for Appul, the 10-page paper – as our reporter discovered – is a 10-page analysis of the European Union's fiscal policies, which is not an assignment for any of Zanuts' courses. Already in Aggieville celebrating, Zanuts remained at Rusty's to drink the sorrow away after hearing this revelation.

ENGLISH PROFESSORS AWAIT WRECKAGE OF DENISON HALL

English professors this week voiced their anticipation of the imminent destruction of Denison Hall.

"Let's just say that if the building were to burn down, I'd be bringing the marshmallows," said Antoinette Richardson, assistant professor of English, proudly wearing her "Death to Dennison Hall" shirt, one of many printed for the department's staff.

Per the permission of the city of Manhattan, the wrecking ball will be operated by the department head, Mitchell Jennings. Each staff member then will get the opportunity to operate the machine in order of tenure.

"That decrepit, old building will go down like a rotten pinata," Jennings said, "except instead of candy, years of filth and bitterness and unspeakable working conditions will come tumbling out."

As professors made their way off campus, some for the last time this semester, many said their goodbyes to Denison Hall.

"Farewell, you dungeon of torture," said Richardson, who said she was "elated, because now I only have to share my office in Lafene with one other professor."

The blotter | Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Monday, Dec. 8

- At 11:25 a.m., Jeremy Wall, 1104 Yuma St., was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $500.
- At 12:23 p.m., Phyllis Channel, St. George, Kan., was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $89.
- At 5:25 p.m., Matthew Potchad, Overland Park, Kan., was arrested for driving on a suspended license. Bond was set at $750.
- At 8:15 p.m., Justin Emory, 2114 Northview, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $1,500.
- At 9:30 p.m., Damian Schmidt, 923 Ratone St., was arrested for possession of a controlled substance and unlawful possession of depressants.
- At 9:45 p.m., James Sigle, Ogden, Kan., was arrested for possession of a controlled substance and unlawful possession of depressants. Bond was set at $1,000.
- At 9:45 p.m., Scotty Yadon, 2500 Farm Bureau Road, No. 145, was arrested for possession of a controlled substance and unlawful possession of depressants. Bond was set at $1,000.

Tuesday, Dec. 9

- At 1:20 a.m., Brian Lundergard, 141 Moore Hall, was arrested for possession of a controlled substance and unlawful possession of depressants.

The planner
Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@spub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- Unrecovered lost items are available for recovery in Hale 504.
- "Listening to the Prairie: Farming in Nature's Image," an exhibition that teaches the history of the prairie and new farming approaches, is at Hale Library.
- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Jessica Green at 2:30 p.m. today in Trotter Hall's Practice Management Center.
- The K-State chess club will meet from 6 to 10 tonight in Union Staterooms 1 and 2.
- KSU Aikido will conduct a martial arts class from 7 to 9 tonight in Ahearn 301.

Contact us

Kansas State Collegian Classified ads.....532-6555
Kedzie 103 Newsroom.....532-6556
Manhattan, KS 66502 news@spub.k-state.edu
Display ads.....532-6560 Delivery problems.....532-6555

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor James Hurla at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@spub.ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.

© Kansas State Collegian, 2003

dependable, quality service
✓printing from disk
Claflin Books and Copies

Cure Discovered for Being Broke!

Scientists Discover A Thing They Called A JOB!

And Sykes Has Plenty!

- Good Pay
- Good Benefits
- Clean and comfortable A/C working environment
- Flexible work available 24 x 7 for class schedules
- Paid Training in latest Computer/Internet Skills
- Paid vacation and holidays
- Part time schedules available

Sykes is now hiring Customer Support Technicians
Full time or Part time

SYKES

Apply 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.
5970 Sykes Blvd.
(behind the Manhattan Airport)
Manhattan, KS 66503

is your Vehicle Ready 4 WINTER?

PRESENT THIS AD AND RECEIVE
10% DISCOUNT
UP TO $50.00!

American & Foreign Cars • Engine Overhaul • Motor Tune-ups • Complete Brake • Electrical & Automatic Transmission Service • Manual Transmissions & Clutch Repair • Sun Computer Print Out • Diagnostic Center • Air Conditioning Service

We Service All Makes of Cars
Our FIVE full time mechanics will get you in tune!

Ekart Automotive Services Since 1954

776-5110 411 S. 5th St. • 1 Blk. North of Ft. Riley Blvd.

KSU Meat Sale

WEDNESDAY 3-6 p.m. & FRIDAY Noon-6 p.m.
Rm. 166 Weber Hall

BEEF
roast, steak, ground beef, bratwurst
PORK
pork chops, pork steaks, sausage, ground pork, bacon

For information call 532-1279

December Special
1 hr massage...$40
Body First
2308 Anderson
587-8300
GIFT CERTIFICATES AVAILABLE

Fiesta Bowl
SheratonDesertOasis Scottsdale, AZ
$1,150 for 7 Nights
Call 602-993-2880
aliebowitz@msn.com
1-bedroom villa sleeps 4/kitchen, golf, visit Grand Canyon & Sedona, 4,500 square-foot swimming pool, cascading waterfalls and spa. 15 minute drive from Fiesta Bowl.

Celebrate Precious Moments!

Receive the collectible 2003 Precious Moments "Icy Good Times Ahead" Heart Ornament from Coach House Gifts FREE!

With only $125 in mall receipts dated December 10-14.

Redeem at the Customer Service Center. Limit one per person, per day, while supplies last.

MANHATTAN TOWN CENTER

In Downtown Manhattan • 539-9207 • www.manhattantowncenter.com

Families of soldiers cope with absence of loved ones

By Amy Preston
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

He's been gone on Christmas before.

But this year will be different.

It will be the first time Sgt. Mark Devey will be away from his family for the entire holiday season.

Devey, a scout platoon sergeant for the 113 Armor Unit Division out of Fort Riley, left in April for Baghdad, Iraq. His division isn't expected to return until February or March.

"The last Christmas we had apart, we celebrated in November," Jill Devey, Mark's wife, said. "This will be the first season we're apart from him."

It also will be the first Christmas Mark will be away from his 3-year-old son, Jacob. His 10-year-old daughter, Taylor, experienced his absence during the holidays when he was in Korea.

This Christmas, though, Jill said she plans on celebrating just like any year.

"We are just going to drive right on," she said. "We're going to stay here Christmas morning and then see family in St. Louis."

Walter Schumm, professor of family studies and human services, said going on with regular activities is important for families that have loved ones away in the military – especially during this holiday season.

"People just have to hang in there basically," Schumm said. "Regardless, I think this one is going to be a little tougher because of the random fashion in which you're killing people. Now there isn't the coverage of war and not quite the support. That has to make it a little more tense for families."

With the added holiday worries, members of Delta Delta Delta sorority and Phi Gamma Delta fraternity were host to Support the Troops 2003 on Sunday in an effort to help ease the stresses of the season for the families and children of soldiers.

The event included a moon walk, basketball games, bingo, cookie decorating and a number of other activities for children.

A former soldier, Schumm said he became interested in researching military families and deployments after being in the reserves for 30 years. During the first Gulf War, he found himself mobilized in Texas and away from his family.

"We talked a lot on the phone," Schumm said.

Schumm said the communication efforts between families is a two-way street.

"Both people are having to cope with things," he said. "Most people try to communicate as best as they can. They use e-mails, letters and faxes to keep in touch."

Jill Devey said that before her husband left, she made videotapes of him with the children.

"I videotaped them reading books and interacting," she said. "Now I can just pop in the video and there he is, reading books to my three-year old."

In addition, Devey said she attends a military support group offered at Fort Riley as well as keeping her children and herself busy.

"We keep so busy in church and stay busy with friends," Jill said. "Church is a lifesaver. My women's study group is so supportive."

In fact, Jill has started a military wives' support group at her church. The group, Wives for Warriors, focuses on building relationships with others using Biblical references.

For Heidi Regan, one of Jill's friends from the church support group, this Christmas will be a blessing.

Her husband, John, a second lieutenant, left his family at the end of May to begin training ROTC cadets at Fort Lewis in Washington. By August he was stationed at Fort Knox, Ky., to begin his work as an armor officer.

Since then, Heidi gave birth to their second daughter Elizabeth, moved to Manhattan and enrolled their 7-year-old daughter, Emily, in school.

That's why this Christmas, when John comes home for a couple of days, is so important.

"We're really lucky," Heidi said. "We're just going to enjoy that time together. We're not committing to anything because we want to enjoy each other."

Heidi said the support of friends and family has allowed her to survive the past 12 years, notably five months, as a military wife.

So instead of dwelling on the what-ifs, the Regan family decided to count all of their blessings.

"This is not forever," Heidi said. "We know of a lot of people that are in a worse situation who don't have a roof over their head or have family."

Kevin York, senior in marketing, picks up Lan Moergeli, 2, to slam dunk a ball into a basket. Members of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity helped supervise the children of Fort Riley parents.

Drew Rose
COLLEGIAN

Manhattan activist group hosts forum tonight on living wage, poverty

By Scott Seel
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Tonight the Manhattan Living Wage Coalition will have a community forum on poverty in the Manhattan area, Terrie Clark, coalition coordinator said.

Clark said the forum is in observance of International Human Rights day.

"We have always been fighting for a living wage in the community, but the organization decided that we didn't have an adequate understanding of poverty in this city," Clark said.

She said the forum would feature six panelists: Shirley Bramhall from the Flint Hills Breadbasket, Jai Johnson from the Manhattan Housing Authority, Jo Brunner from the Manhattan Workforce Center/Heartland Works, Sally Frick from the Manhattan-Ogden School District USD 383 Head Start Program, Julie Govert Walter from the Area Agency on Aging, and Kip Lee from the Community Health Council.

"Each panelist will have 10 minutes to give their presentation and then we will open the floor for discussion," Clark said.

She said the realization that 26.3 percent of families in Manhattan are living on less than $14,999.00 per year led to their decision to examine the issue more closely.

The federal poverty line is $18,000 per year.

Shirley Bramhall, director of the Breadbasket, said she plans to discuss the different issues people in poverty currently face.

"Poverty has changed in the 10 years since welfare reform," she said.

Bramhall said that 10 years ago, the numbers of people on welfare who were not working were significantly lower than they are today.

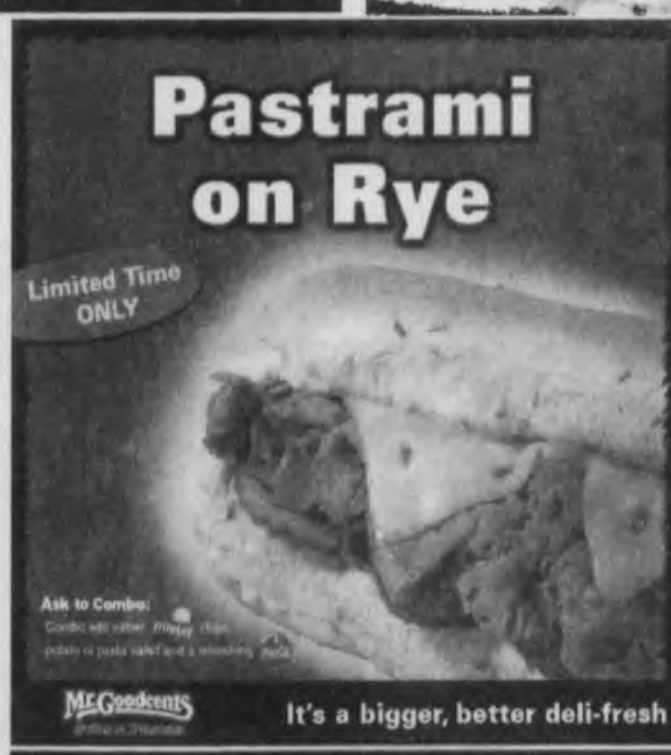
"People are having to find a way to provide child care while they are at work," she said. "For some, their wages are low enough that it is difficult to figure out how to pay for child care."

She said she is in favor of welfare reform, but wants to emphasize that even after the system was reformed, it is still difficult for people who have to use it.

If you go
Flint Hills Coalition Living Wage Poverty Forum

What: A public forum on poverty.
When: 6:30 tonight.
Where: Manhattan Public Library Auditorium, 629 Poyntz Avenue.

Heartfelt Thanks
The family of
Kevin Roy Armstrong
would like to express our deep appreciation for the tremendous outpouring of generosity and loving support extended to us upon the death of our son, brother and grandson.
The cards & letters, many hugs, memorial service, tributes and memorial contributions all have touched our hearts deeply.
Your selfless acts of kindness have reminded us of the many ways that Kevin brightened each of our lives.
God Bless You All,
Don, Paula, Kyle, Chad & Julie Armstrong
Roy & Eleanor McKaig



Summer '04 Semester Calendar

The Summer '04 Semester is 12 weeks in length, which will allow for one eight week session, two six week sessions, and two four week sessions. The beginning and ending dates for all eight, six, and four week sessions are listed in the table below. Please note these dates on your calendars.

Summer 2004 Semester:

First day of 6 week classes	May 24, 2004
University holiday	May 31, 2004
First day of 8 week/first 4 week classes	June 7, 2004
Last day of first 6 week/first 4 week classes	July 2, 2004
University holiday	July 5, 2004
First day of second 6 week/second 4 week classes	July 6, 2004
Last day of 8 week classes/second 4 week classes	July 30, 2004
Last day of second 6 week classes	August 13, 2004

Summer '04 Semester grades will be posted each Friday in the Registrar's Office beginning June 4 through August 13. The end of Summer '04 Semester GPA calculations will be posted August 13.

Mr. Goodcents Subs & Pastas
We Deliver!
1337 Anderson
539-1900
– Limited Time Offer –
Buy any regular price 1/2 Sub Sandwich and get the second 1/2 Sub Sandwich for only 99¢
Mr. Goodcents Subs & Pastas
Valid on subs of equal or lesser value. Offer Valid at Participating Topeka, Manhattan, Junction City and Salina Mr. Goodcents® locations. Not valid in conjunction with any other offers. Offer expires 12/31/03

KANSAS STATE
BASKETBALL

It's Game Time!
K-STATE
vs.
Wichita State
Wed. Dec. 10, 7 p.m.
Bramlage Coliseum
FOR TICKET INFORMATION CALL
1-800-221-CATS
OR VISIT WWW.K-STATESPORTS.COM
Come meet the 2004 K-State Baseball team!

SAFE RIDE
Every Weekend!
Thursday, Friday, and Saturday
11:00 p.m. - 3:00 a.m.
A free service provided by the K-State Student Governing Association
Call:
539-0480

OPINION

TO THE EDITOR

This is the season to feed the poor

Editor,

With the holiday season just around the corner, there are many thoughts running through our minds.

"Just a few more weeks of late cramming."

"I really hope I get an A on that test."

"I can't wait to be at home for an entire month."

It is always great to know that if you survive the dreaded finals week, you will get to spend some time at home with family, friends and great food.

As these thoughts are running through your mind and as you anxiously anticipate the amazing holiday meals that are within sight, know that not everyone will have these same opportunities.

Did you know that last year there were 12,984 individuals who relied on the services provided by the Flint Hills Breadbasket? There also were 517 individuals who sought shelter from the Manhattan Emergency Shelter.

These two not-for-profit organizations are facing a decline in donations, along with an increase in the demand for their services.

The Flint Hills Breadbasket received 2,494,655 pounds of food donations in 2002 and distributed 2,514,844 pounds. This is a 20,189 shortage between the amount donated and the amount consumed.

Also, the directors of the Manhattan Emergency Shelter expect the total number of individuals who seek shelter this year to rise well above the 517 individuals last year. The shelter also is in constant need of toiletry items, a need which also will drastically increase in the upcoming holiday season.

It is well-known that Manhattan is centered around the university. The students make up such a big part of this community, and it is very important that we help the citizens in Manhattan who are less fortunate by donating as much as we can to the Flint Hills Breadbasket and the Manhattan Emergency Shelter.

With 22,000 students, we definitely could brighten the holiday season for many people. So, as we continue to cram for those tests and anticipate the much-needed break, remember that there are people in our community who are counting on us for a warm meal this holiday season.

Bryanne Albert | MANHATTAN

Team wins with class and maturity

Editor,

This is just a quick note to say how proud I am of the K-State football team.

I have watched them for many years and must compliment the entire team on maintaining composure – physical and emotional – during and after the game versus Oklahoma.

Not only did they handily dispose of the mighty Sooners on the field, but the emotional discipline was just exceptional – no childish behavior or disrespectful, juvenile antics to embarrass the university.

K-State students, faculty and staff certainly have reason to be proud. Congratulations to Bill Snyder, all the assistant coaches and the entire team for a fantastic job.

Kathy Hogan | TALLAHASSEE, FLA.

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@spub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Paul Restivo | EDITOR IN CHIEF Katie Lane | MANAGING EDITOR

James Hurla NEWS EDITOR
Kelly Glasscock PHOTO EDITOR
Corbin H. Crable COPY CHIEF
Dave Skretta SPORTS EDITOR
Rachel Krier THE EDGE EDITOR
Chris Harrop ONLINE EDITOR
Abbie Whited CITY/GOV EDITOR
Andrew Lawson OPINION EDITOR
Jared Jaynes AD MANAGER
Edie Hall CAMPUS EDITOR
Dana Strongin WRITING COACH
Jenny Calvert ASST. AD MANAGER

THURSDAY'S OPINIONS

LINDSEY PRAECHTER

Lindsey Praechter recounts the more controversial things she wrote and the vocal responses she received as she prepares to bid farewell to K-State.

GRANT REICHERT

Grant Reichert rallies against the forces of Christmas commercialization and offers his wish list to Santa.

Endangered traits

Unoriginality threatens privilege of free speech

Illustrations by Kent Holle | COLLEGIAN

Everyone has opinions.

We all should be lucky enough to have ours printed in a daily newspaper in painstaking detail, rather than the few precious seconds afforded to those who call into the Campus Fourum.

As long as we keep generating our opinions in public, though, there is hope for them to be heard.

When Franklin D. Roosevelt said, "The only thing we have to fear is fear itself," in his first inaugural address on March 4, 1933, he might have been right.

We as a society often are our own worst enemies – as concerned as some people are about these liberties, they can be careless with them as well.

We undoubtedly are in the midst of a revolution of the press. People love their crossword puzzles, so it is unlikely print newspapers will go by the wayside anytime soon.

CHRIS HARROP

Society has been forever changed by the role that bloggers – online journal authors and pundits – are now playing.

While the incredible size of the blogging network is unfathomable, many of these and other independent media sources are falling prey to problems that jeopardize their quality and credibility. They are becoming victims of big media problems.

Anyone can take a look at the highest-circulation newspapers in the country – the New York Times, Washington Post and Wall Street Journal – and notice that diversity of content on the front page is virtually nonexistent.

The same stories about the same people, often written by the same Associated Press writer, are packaged with a familiar photograph that also will be used on the national news cast and next week's "Newsweek," "Time" and "U.S. News and World Report."

Don't take my word for it – Slate Magazine looks at the headlines every day and has trouble finding anything discernably different between the story choices made by the big papers. Bloggers, take heed.

Some of the most valuable Web logs are degenerating into nothing more than a place to comment on someone else's site. Disappearing are the lengthy analytical pieces written by concerned bloggers. In their place are links to news stories and other bloggers who also have linked the same story.

This vicious circle might prove beneficial for the major news sites hosting the stories, but the social and political commentary is all but forgotten.

In the meantime, the major media outlets are trying to be as hip as the bloggers. ESPN's Page 2 writers will, in post-modern fashion, lash out at critics who take cheap shots at the Bowl Championship Series – only to lambaste the system themselves.

Then there are the disc jockeys at "Kansas City's Only Alternative," 96.5 FM. While they unapologetically play songs that would never see the light of day at a Clear Channel station, they criticize their own playlists for not being esoteric enough.

What we as individuals must remember is that we are individuals.

You do not need to agree with X's opinion or Y's interpretation of things. Someone else's opinion only becomes a reality when you allow it to be real.

Think about what you say before you say it, then think about it again after you say it. While you are at it, think about what other people say. Analyze and interpret.

Critical thinking about the facts and opinions we hear and state every day is an endangered as the bald eagle in America today, and it could stand an increase.

Chris will be living in multiplexes across metropolitan Kansas City over the break, between protest rallies at the Kansas Speedway and Cabela's. You can reach him at chris@k-state.edu.

Giving up the pleasures of nicotine for good

My hands trembled with excitement as I opened the crisp, new package.

I tore off the cellophane wrapper and it fell to the tabletop with a muffled crinkle. I took a lighter from my pocket and withdrew euphoria from the white and blue package. The satisfying click of the lighter followed by a familiar glow began the beautiful high.

As I inhaled, the glorious nicotine permeated my bloodstream and instantly relaxed me.

Holding the cigarette between my two fingers was comforting as I forgot the stresses of the day. A feeling of utter satisfaction heightened with each elongated drag.

KATHRYN HOLLINGSWORTH

I really miss that feeling.

I decided to quit smoking last week, cold turkey – no inhalers, gum or patches. After a bout with the flu and another cold I decided it was time to quit.

At 21 years old, the effects of my smoking were becoming alarmingly conspicuous. Fatigue, chronic colds and a heightened awareness of my absolute addiction scared me into quitting.

Years of smoking were starting to take their toll on my body. I started smoking as a result of waitressing. Everyone I worked with smoked, and there was nothing better than a cigarette after four or five hours of high stress.

However, after years of my life being controlled by an object the size of my finger, I decided it was time to quit.

The first few days were easy. Excited by the thought of a smoke-free life with more money, I happily chewed gum and fought cravings. However, the third day of being nicotine-free was excruciating.

The early afternoon began as a nail-biter. By 4 p.m. I was chomping on vitamin C pills, Jolly Ranchers, suckers and gum.

When I jumped into my car for work, my hands were shaking like someone in withdrawal from crack. As I drove, my hands tapped the steering wheel and I nervously changed the radio station 20 times.

Gritting my teeth, I thought about all the reasons I wanted to quit smoking as my body cried out for nicotine.

As my physical form began to defy me, my mind started to play tricks on me. My nicotine-starved brain began telling me I could never enjoy life without smoking. I thought of all the things I liked to do and how much I enjoyed smoking before and after all those things.

The demons in my head were berating me for denying my body the nicotine it thought it needed.

Work was tough without smoking, but boredom was even worse. Faced with a day of not working or going to school, I cleaned my room, reorganized my closet and drawers, did laundry, cleaned the blinds, scrubbed the floors, wrote e-mails and ate everything in sight.

I prayed to God every five minutes to take my cravings away as I attempted to stay busy all day.

This attempt to quit smoking is the hardest thing I have ever done.

I can't say I will never smoke again. In order to survive, I have to take this hour by hour and day by day. I can't imagine a life without smoking, so I have to envision today without smoking.

In a little more than a week I have more energy and feel 100 times healthier. Everything tastes better and I love not smelling like an ashtray.

I wouldn't be going through hell on earth right now if I never would have started smoking. If I could take back anything in my life, my first cigarette would be the first thing to go.

Quitting is possible, but never starting is the ultimate defense against lung cancer, heart disease, emphysema and death.

Kathryn is a senior in public relations. You can reach the flamingo at krh5588@k-state.edu.

CAMPUS FOURUM | 395-4444

Am I the only person who noticed that Bob Stoops was on the verge of tears during that game?

I once dated this UPS guy — trust me, they deliver.

So in the K-State Student Union, why was there a Hanukkah dinner, but no Christmas dinner?

So my girlfriend won't have sex with me because she's religious, but the Bible never says anything about blow jobs.

Did anyone else hear that the Trail of Tears has been relocated starting from Arrowhead Stadium all the way back to Norman, Okla.?

In honor of our football team taking home the Big 12 Championship, I say Wefald cancels all the finals.

The football team would just like to thank the awesome football student secretaries at the complex — you guys are the greatest.

Isn't it cool that they let lesbians live in Ford Hall?

Nothing turns my man on like a good pair of Hanes underwear and a sports bra.

My mom tells me that not bathing is a sign of mental illness. I tell her that it's a sign that I'm an independent woman.

My roommate is obsessed with Sinead O'Connor, because nothing compares to a lesbian with a bald head.

SafeRide? More like "Driving Miss Daisy."

How about we let somebody know next time the student tickets are on sale?

I'm so infatuated with Darren Sproles, I creep myself out.

Honestly, I love "Lord of the Rings" as much as the next guy, but the last time I got into a fight with a foam sword was fifth grade.

It was no accident that the article "Battle of the lords" was right next to "Coming to terms with the fruitcake."

What do you do when you find out one of your good friends is a homewrecker?

I would just like to give a shout out to all the fair weather fans here at K-State — you suck.

Why is it that the Big 12 Championship is sponsored by Dr Pepper, yet they sell no Dr Pepper in the whole stadium?

It's perfectly all right to have a fetish — until it turns into a lifestyle.

I want to know why Bill Snyder changed his hat in the first quarter of the game on Saturday.

I've got my engineering-concepts assignment taped to my stomach. It kinda makes me feel hot.

Darren Sproles is the best college player in the nation, and I think he proved it Saturday.

This girl just walked into my room with hard nipples. Do I get a reward for turning her on?

My cat smells better than my chemistry teacher.

I bet the Vatican smells like potpourri.

Rain, rain, go away.

Thank you, Collegian and Varney's, for encouraging me to sell my textbooks back early. $40 buys a lot of beer. So what if I have to retake classes during summer school?

Darren Sproles, may I bear your children?

Sproles for god.

Not enough Fourum? Visit www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

A jolly job

Chris Hanewinckel | COLLEGIAN

Bryan "Santa" Hileman, senior in speech education, waves to people in the mall as he makes his way to a break room Sunday afternoon at Manhattan Town Center. Hileman has worked as Santa for the past three years and enjoys the job.

Babies, beard-pullers no big deal to this Santa

By Melissa Haug
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Santa Claus has come to town.

Bryan Hileman, senior in secondary education and speech and theater, is getting into the Christmas season by getting into a Santa costume.

Hileman's love for children has kept him coming back for the past three seasons to pose as one of Reflections Photography's four Santa Clauses.

"I spend three to five hours on the Santa chair, seeing on average about 75-100 kids, and I love every minute of it," he said. "To see the kids get excited about sitting on Santa's lap and revealing their Christmas wish list is a reward in itself. Me, as well as all the helpers, are doing what we do to make Christmas a special time for the kids."

Although many children are excited to unveil their wants to Santa, Hileman said he has encountered all types of kids – from the crying and spitting-up babies to the disbelieving children.

"The fear of getting the beard tugged on and being revealed is one of the biggest concerns for a Santa. Luckily for us, we have a beard that is difficult to pull off," he said.

However, on one occasion, Hileman's true identity was exposed and almost given away.

"When this happened, I had to tell the child that I had shaved it off for the summer, but it would be fully grown in by Christmas, so I had to wear the fake one for now," he said. "It was a good thing the kid believed me."

Hileman also said children have asked where Santa's reindeer are. He tells them the reindeer are on the roof, and at night when they see a blinking red light, it's Rudolph's red nose.

Hileman said he thought that would be especially appealing to kids in the Manhattan area because Fort Riley is nearby, and there are many planes at night.

Keeping anxious children waiting patiently in line is one job Santa is unable to do alone. What he needs are some assistants, and Alissa Ross is getting her first taste of being one of Santa's helpers.

"As a Santa's helper, I sometimes get to take the pictures of the kids with Santa, but I get the most enjoyment out of seeing their reactions when they actually get to sit on his lap," Ross, graduate in advertising, said.

Hileman said he has learned techniques for keeping young, frightened children from being afraid.

"I've learned that the best way to handle a crying baby is to keep quiet," he said. "If I do this, then the costume may seem more like a big pillow to the child, making them less afraid.

"With the older kids it's a little more difficult. You can usually tell how the child is going to respond by how the parents are acting before even entering the gates. I just try to be as soothing as possible, and of course, give them a candy cane."

If you go
Visit Santa

When: 3 to 8 p.m., Monday - Friday; 11 a.m. to 8 p.m., Saturday; noon to 6 p.m., Sunday. Ends Dec. 24.
Where: Manhattan Town Center.
How much: No cost to see Santa. Photo packages start at $14.

SELL YOUR TEXTBOOKS FOR CASH

In the TEXTBOOK DEPARTMENT at the K-State Student Union Bookstore

•You don't need your receipt to sell your books!
•It doesn't matter where the books were purchased!
•Please bring your current photo ID to sell your books

TODAY!

Buyback Hours:
Wed Dec 10 - Sat Dec 13
8:00am - 8:00pm
Sunday Dec 14
11:00am - 7:00pm
Mon Dec 15 - Fri Dec 19
8:00am - 8:00pm
532-6583

www.kssu.com

K-State Student Union Bookstore

"We would like to congratulate the Wildcats and YOU, Bill Snyder, on the biggest victory in school history!"

Good Luck in Tempe!

Beat the Buckeyes!

Thanks for making Gumby's Pizza #1!

GUMBY'S Pizza & Pub
702 N. 11th Street
Call Now
770-3333
order online @ www.gumbyspizza.com

Monday mania
$3.99 Large Cheese Pizza
•Monday Only•
•Carry Out Only•
•Toppings Extra•

Super Tuesday
stick it to me
$5.99 Stick it to me Tuesday or Large 1 Topping Pizza and Free Breadsticks

ROCK N ROLL wednesday
only 50¢ Pepperoni Rolls
pizza sauce/ ranch extra + tax
$5 Minimum Delivery
Delivery•Dine In•Carry Out

Thursday mania
$5.99 XL Cheese Pizza OR $4.99 Wrap or Pita w/ Pepsi & chips

Fast FREE Delivery
Hours
Sunday 10:30 a.m. - 2 a.m.
Mon. - Wed. 10:30 a.m. - 2:30 a.m.
Thur. - Sat. 10:30 a.m. - 3:30 a.m.
Checks add 50¢

Men will try to rebound from Saturday's loss

K-State looks to redeem loss with game against Wichita State

By Joel Reichenberger
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State lost its first basketball game of the 2003-04 season Saturday night.

But the triple-overtime disappointment against Oregon State won't have an effect on tonight's opponent, Wichita State, Coach Jim Wooldridge said.

Rather, he said it will be important to the Cats' success for them to find a way to use Saturday's disappointment to help throughout the season – beginning at 7 tonight in Bramlage Coliseum.

"We need to find a way to use it," Wooldridge said. "We need to improve the way we play the game of basketball and take the slippage out of it and execute better. We hope it will help."

The Cats' chance at a rebound comes against a tough in-state rival, though.

Wichita State has been picked by many to win the Missouri Valley Conference, and thus the favorite to represent it in the NCAA tournament. But it isn't the high expectations that are laid upon the Shockers that prompt Wooldridge to declare tonight's game big.

"I think, more importantly, it's an in-state game," Wooldridge said.

Wichita State, whom the Cats beat soundly, 79-66, last season is returning four of five starters and 11 of 12 lettermen.

After losing to the Cats in Wichita, the Shockers went on to defeat Creighton and earn a berth in the National Invitation Tournament, where they lost in the first round to Iowa State.

Still, Wooldridge said the expectations of this year's Shockers definitely are warranted.

Wichita State won its first two games of the season in the Paradise Jam tournament but lost to Boston College in the finals. They since have won three games, defeating Northern Arizona, Manhattan College, and Rockhurst.

"They've been playing together for two or there years now and they're playing really well," Wooldridge said. "They have a lot of returning players that have played together and they have some offensive weaponry that is tough to guard. They are playing with a lot of confidence."

Six-foot-five junior forward Jamar Howard leads the Shockers in scoring, but Wichita State's top six scorers are tightly packed. Howard averages 13.2 per game, and the remaining top five fall between 12.5 and nine points per game.

Barring an NCAA Tournament match up, this figures to be the Cats last run-in with the Shockers for awhile. There have been 30 meetings in the series – K-State leads 19-11 – and the teams have played in each of the last three seasons and in 18 of the last 19.

Wooldridge said keeping the in-state rivalry going would be a plus.

"Through the week we've had discussion with Wichita State about renewing the game at some point," he said. "But we have proposed a two for one, but I don't think they're in favor of that."

Photos by Nicole Donnert | COLLEGIAN

Luke Bott, sophomore in agricultural business, center, struggles to gain possession of the ball against Travis Most, junior in marketing, right, and Stephen Brown, junior in information systems, during a pick-up game at Chester E. Peters Recreational Complex on Monday night.

Gym rats

Rec Complex offers highly competitive play for students looking for a break

By Josh Witt
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Dead week is far from lifeless on the courts of Chester E. Peters Recreational Complex.

While some students begin preparation for semester finals, others have taken to the basketball courts.

Luke Bott, sophomore in agricultural business, and Mark Farmer, sophomore in finance, look at one of the two full-court games waiting for a piece of the action – not an uncommon sight, as both come to play several times a week.

"Most of the time the games are pretty good," Farmer said.

Unlike a city park or a lonely basketball hoop in a driveway, the Rec Complex offers a different and often highly competitive flavor of competition.

On any given day, one could run into a former high school opponent, a K-State football player or a former collegiate basketball player.

Farmer has competed against former junior college basketball players many times.

"Quite a few have played at a JCCC, and a lot of these guys could be playing ball somewhere," Farmer said.

Bott is one example of a talented player who visits the complex several times a week.

In high school, Bott was a three-year starter and all-league selection at Washington High School in Washington, Kan.

"It's very competitive at night up here," Bott said.

The pick-up game on one court finishes, and Bott is asked a common question.

"Hey man, you in?" said an anonymous student looking for one more player to complete his team.

"Yeah, I'm in," Bott said while taking the court.

As this new battle progresses,

See REC CENTER Page 10

Stephen Brown, junior in information systems, goes for a basket against Luke Bott, sophomore in ag. business, left, and Mark Farmer, sophomore in finance, while playing a pick up game at the Chester E. Peters Recreational Complex Monday night.

Columnist attempts to prove oracle status with bowl predictions

You got to know when to hold 'em
Know when to fold 'em know when to walk away
Know when to run
You never count your money
When you're sitting at the table
There'll be time enough for counting
When the dealing's done
— Kenny Rogers' "The Gambler"

WES MARFIELD

I'm on a hot streak.

Last week, I picked a 42-7 K-State victory in Saturday's Big 12 Championship game.

I was 10 yards – a mere 30 feet – from the most unprecedented pick in gambling history.

This week, with the aforementioned Kenny Rogers tune running through my head, I thought I'd take another stab at it and pick a few scores from selected bowl games.

TANGERINE BOWL

This one should be a joke. North Carolina State and quarterback Phillip Rivers should have no problem handling the Jayhawks, who barely became bowl eligible for the first time in eight years.

Look for Rivers to play the role of the Grinch, amassing well over 400 yards in the air and ruining the holidays for Mangino and Co.

NC State 49, KU 3

ALAMO BOWL

Poor Nebraska.

For the first time in 35 years, K-State handed them a loss in Lincoln. Their response?

Let's fire our head coach.

I don't know what they're putting in the corn up there, and to tell you the truth, I really don't care.

Husker quarterback Jammal Lord will most likely run his mouth, and in a performance similar to Ell Roberson, Michigan State's Jeff Smoker should shut him up pretty quick.

Michigan State 24, Nebraska 13

NEW ORLEANS BOWL

What? When did this happen?

Apparently, three years ago someone decided to add another bowl game and just forgot to tell everyone about it.

Featuring a matchup between powerhouses Memphis and North Texas, I can't even imagine the emotion going through each team right now.

The seven people in the stands probably won't get their money's worth, but they'll always be able to say they were in attendance at the third annual New Orleans Bowl.

North Texas 3, Memphis 0

SUGAR BOWL

This is it – the grandaddy of them all.

See COLUMN Page 10

1-MINUTE DRILL

The Associated Press

NBA | Judge rejects motion to seal evidence in Kobe case

The judge in the Kobe Bryant case on Tuesday rejected motion by the prosecution to seal any court filing related to evidence in the high-profile sexual assault case.

Bryant

Instead, state District Judge Terry Ruckriegle said attorneys in the case can file motions with limited factual allegations about Bryant and his accuser that he might later rule inadmissable at trial.

Bryant, 25, is charged with attacking a 19-year-old employee at a Colorado resort last June. He said the two had consensual sex. The Los Angeles Lakers star faces four years to life in prison or 20 years on probation if convicted of felony sexual assault.

MLB | Royals sign Sullivan, Stairs to shore up holes

The Kansas City Royals signed right-handed reliever Scott Sullivan to a two-year deal and outfielder Matt Stairs to a one-year contract on Tuesday, shoring up an unreliable bullpen and likely filling the void created by the departure of Raul Ibanez.

Stairs

The key parts of Kansas City's relief staff already are under contract for next year. The Royals signed workhorse Jason Grimsley to a one-year deal last week and Curtis Leskanic to a one-year deal late last month.

Sports | Vermeil, McKeon share Sportsman of the Year

Kansas City Chiefs coach Dick Vermeil and Florida Marlins manager Jack McKeon will share this year's Sportsman of the Year award, the Sporting News said Tuesday.

Vermeil

Vermeil, 67, was chosen on the strength of the Chiefs' start this season. The Chiefs (11-2) clinched a playoff berth Sunday despite a 45-27 loss at Denver. McKeon, 73, became the oldest manager in baseball history to lead a team to a World Series title, after a remarkable midseason turnaround.

CFB | 13 inducted into College Football Hall of Fame

Former Iowa coach Hayden Fry and Joe Theismann, the former Notre Dame quarterback, were two of the 13 people inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame on Tuesday. They will be enshrined at the Hall in South Bend, Ind., in August.

The other Hall of Fame players are Southern California running back Ricky Bell, Dartmouth defensive back Murry Bowden, Minnesota guard Tom Brown, Pittsburgh offensive tackle Jimbo Covert, SMU end Jerry LeVias, Alabama tackle Billy Neighbors, Arizona State linebacker Ron Pritchard, Georgia quarterback John Rauch, Oklahoma State tailback Barry Sanders and Missouri defensive back Roger Wehrli. Former Tennessee and Florida coach Doug Dickey also was inducted.

C-USA | Army academy hires Ross to lead football team

Former San Diego Chargers coach Bobby Ross was hired to lead Army Tuesday after the Black Knights suffered through an 0-13 season and lost to Navy 34-6 on Saturday.

Ross coached the Chargers to the Super Bowl in 1995 and won a national title at Georgia Tech in 1990.

NFL | Ravens linebacker charged with felony assault

Baltimore Ravens linebacker Terrell Suggs was charged with felony aggravated assault in a brawl at a sporting event earlier this year, officials said Tuesday.

Suggs, 21, is accused of using a reinforced rod to assault a man during a March 29 fight outside Phoenix Municipal Stadium following a three-on-three basketball tournament. A 17-year-old relative of Suggs was also charged with aggravated assault.

A preliminary hearing is Jan. 20.

Make the call

Cost, length of contracts help determine the best buy

	MONTHLY RATE	MINUTES	EVENING/ WEEKEND	HOME/ ROAMING	CONTRACTS	LOCAL
Sprint	$35	300 anytime minutes	Free nights and weekends after 9 p.m.	 Nationwide Network	One- and two-year contracts, no term commitment for an extra $10 per month	404 Poyntz Ave. Tel: 537-3500
CellularOne	$40	1,000 anytime minutes	Unlimited minutes from 8 p.m. to 6 a.m.	National coverage	Two years	100 Manhattan Town Center Mall Tel: 776-1414 or 1115 Westloop Place Tel: 537-4646
Altell	Total Freedom plan $39.95	200 anytime minutes	Unlimited night (9 p.m. to 5:59 a.m.) and weekend minutes	No roaming or long distance in all 50 states	One-year and two-year service agreements available	515 Fort Riley Blvd. Tel: 539-9595
Verizon	 $34.99	300 anytime minutes	Unlimited nights and weekends 9 p.m. to 5:59 a.m.	Nationwide network	One- and two-year contracts	1920 Wanamaker Rd. Topeka, Kan. Tel: (785)228-5500
Cingular	$39.99 * $36.00 activation fee	500 anytime	5,000 minutes from 9 p.m. to 7 a.m.	Long distance including roaming charges and additional minutes charge is $0.45/min.	Two years	2201 SW Wanamaker Rd. Topeka, Kan. Tel: (785) 272-4002
T Mobile	$39	600	Unlimited evenings starting at 9 p.m. and weekends starting friday	Nationwide network	One- and two-year contracts	100 Manhattan Town Center Mall Tel: 770-3360
Nextell	$49.99	 500	Unlimited minutes from 9 p.m. to 7 a.m.	Nationwide network	Two-year service agreement	125 W. Jackson Topeka, Kan. Tel: (785) 233-2343

Compiled by Courtney Duffield and designed by Melissa Hildebrand | COLLEGIAN

The better body: curves or stick-thin?

By Melissa Hildebrand
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Thin is in. Or is it?

Curvier actresses such as Jennifer Lopez and Catherine Zeta-Jones could possibly be changing the way women once thought about their bodies.

Jenna Timken, freshman in biology, said she thinks the stick-thin models are on their way out of the fashion world.

"I think that the media realizes they need to portray a more realistic perception of a woman's body," Timken said.

Vince Cline, senior in architectural engineering, said he believes women set high standards for themselves after comparing themselves to models in the news media. He said it doesn't need to be that way.

"The models on the cover of magazines are beautiful," Cline said. "However, they are just one image of beauty."

Women with curves, such as Queen Latifah and Camryn Manheim, are showing that success isn't measured by the size of a women's body, Stephanie Caouette, senior in kinesiology, said.

"These famous women are proving to people that you do not have to be small and tiny to be successful," Caouette said.

Cline said he believes the body image has changed from stick thin to women with curves in just the past few years.

"I think the media has already changed their views of women's body image," Cline said.

Caoutte said she disagreed, saying that body image is changing in the media, but it will take a while before people's perceptions will change.

"Magazines like Self are doing a great job of showing women with curves," Caouette said. "However, it is going to take a while before society in general is affected."

Susan Allen, director of the Women's Center, said she does not see the body image changing at all. She said she was learning the same concepts 30 years ago when she was in college that we are still teaching now.

Allen said women have always been subject to a certain body image that very few women can actually achieve.

"Women are brainwashed to think they need to look a certain way that is entirely unrealistic," Allen said. "I really don't see that changing, either."

Allen said she blames most of women's perception on media and advertising. She said advertising is a huge influence in creating a set body image.

"The media is always trying to sell something," Cline said. "And sex sells."

Allen said the media have created a very narrow range where a woman's body and looks are to be considered beautiful.

According to the National Eating Disorders Association, the average American woman is 5'4" and weighs 140 pounds. However, the average American model is 5'11" and weighs 117 pounds.

Rachael Ira, junior in kinesiology, said she isn't sure if body image is really changing.

"Everywhere you look you still see the stick-thin models," Ira said. "Those actresses who have some curves still get put down for their bodies."

Allen said it is a nice thought that the body image of woman is changing, although it is doubtful.

Courtesy art

IN BRIEF

The Associated Press

Owens charged for nightclub fire

The owners of the Rhode Island nightclub where 100 people were killed in a fire last February were indicted on involuntary manslaughter charges Tuesday along with the tour manager for the heavy metal band whose pyrotechnics sparked the blaze.

Lynch
ATTORNEY GENERAL

Club owners Jeffrey and Michael Derderian and Great White tour manager Dan Biechele each were charged with 200 counts of involuntary manslaughter — two for each death. Involuntary manslaughter carries up to 30 years in prison.

Attorney General Patrick Lynch said Biechele was charged under both standards because he lit the stage fireworks. In the case of the owners, the gross negligence applies to how they maintained the club over several years. The other charges cover their installation and maintenance of the club's flammable soundproofing foam that caused the blaze to spread.

Jerry Seinfeld to produce cartoon

The latest buzz around DreamWorks Pictures is that Jerry Seinfeld will write, produce and star in an animated film set in the world of bees.

Seinfeld

The studio announced Tuesday that Seinfeld will begin work on a film titled "Bee Movie."

"I have always been fascinated by bee society, the world's most harmoniously run organization, and now I finally am going to be in it," the 49-year-old comedian said in a statement.

Seinfeld produced and starred in a behind-the-scenes documentary called "Comedian" last year. The hit TV comedy bearing his name ended its nine-year run on NBC in 1998.

WISECRACKS

1. "Anything that is too stupid to be spoken is sung."
a) writer Voltaire
b) writer Zelda Fitzgerald
c) writer George Orwell

2. "I have never let my schooling interfere with my education."
a) writer Ayn Rand
b) writer John Sterling
c) writer Mark Twain

3. "Nobody has ever measured, not even poets, how much the heart can hold."
a) writer Zelda Fitzgerald
b) writer Mark Twain
c) writer Mary Austin

4. "You couldn't get hold of the things you'd done and turn them right again. Such a power might be given to the gods, but it was not given to women and men, and that was probably a good thing. Had it been otherwise, people would probably die of old age still trying to rewrite their teens."
a) writer Stephen King
b) writer Willa Cather
c) writer Roald Dahl

5. "A people that values its privileges above its principles soon loses both."
a) president Herbert Hoover
b) president Dwight D. Eisenhower
c) president Grover Cleveland

Answers: 1a, 2c, 3a, 4a, 5b

Herr Metzger | Julian Narino — www.herrmetzger.com

Puck | Kent Holle — kentramone@yahoo.com

Former professor of architecture honored

By Kristi Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Alden Krider, professor emeritus of architecture from 1949 to 1977, has a mural nationally known and displayed at the new visitor and education center at the Franklin Delano Roosevelt Presidential Library in Hyde Park, N.Y.

Krider, K-State alumnus, said the mural was his depiction of his experience at a state fair.

Krider was invited to the dedication ceremony for the center on Nov. 15.

"They told me to come because my early works were going to be incorporated into the center," Krider said.

Krider said he was honored to be incorporated into a center that had such a close significance to him.

"Eleanor Roosevelt was a delightful woman, she visited the youth administration several times," Krider said.

Krider said he once worked with John Steuart Curry, the man who painted the murals inside the Statehouse in Topeka.

"I was a painter among other things. I was a bit surprised that my art was to be included at Hyde Park," Krider said.

Jeff Head, director of the Krider Center and assistant professor of architecture, said the center was named when Krider donated a large portion of his collection to the college.

"There are still many of his mosaics on campus. There are several in Seaton Hall and some in the Union," Head said.

Dennis Law, dean of the College of Architecture, Planning and Design, said Krider's works being featured in New York means a lot to the college.

"Alden Krider is a part of the legacy of this program. To have part of his early work be recognized nationally speaks volumes of what he means to this program," Law said.

Renters notify students on winterizing

Housing units issue requirements for tenants leaving in December

By Amy Preston
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Before students leave town for winter break, renters want to make sure they take the necessary steps to winterize their apartments or homes.

Christine Wilson, area manager for Chase Manhattan Apartments, said the complex sends out an extreme cold letter notice to all of its tenants in its December newsletter.

Of its 500 tenants, about 80 to 85 percent of them leave for longer than five days during the months of December and January, she said.

Included in the winter notice are recommendations of things students can do before leaving.

"We do suggest for them to keep their thermostat at 60 degrees or higher," Wilson said. "That way the unit doesn't completely shut down."

If the unit completely shuts down, tenants are responsible for the cost of repair, which can be expensive, Wilson said.

In addition, tenants who leave the apartment complex for longer than five days are required to notify the office before leaving.

This, Wilson said, allows the complex staff to periodically check the apartment to see if anything abnormal is going on.

Jackie Schlup, assistant property manager for McCullough Development Inc., said her offices also send out a letter notifying tenants of the upcoming winter break.

Similar to Chase Manhattan Apartments, Schlup said McCullough officials ask that tenants leave their apartment thermostats set at 50 degrees to avoid pipe freezing.

"We try not to have them turn it off all the way because the pipes freeze and they blow up," she said. "But you don't want to leave it on and rack up the bills."

In addition, McCullough officials tell their tenants to leave on a few lights for safety measures.

Rent or other payments should be paid before the tenant leaves for break in order to avoid a late fee.

Wilson said most of the delinquent payments at the Chase complex occur during winter break.

"People go home and forget about their rent," she said. "We suggest that they pay it in advance. This way they don't have to worry about it once they get home."

Schlup said the payment time depends on when the student can best afford it.

"A lot of people pay rent with their student loans," she said. "But I would suggest paying before you leave."

How to Winterize your home

1. Turn your thermostat to the temperature the renter recommends. Most settings are 50 to 60 degrees Fahrenheit to avoid freezing the pipes.
2. Notify the complex's office staff on when you're leaving and when you will return. Some office staffs can periodically check your place of residency if they are notified.
3. For safety measures, leave on one or two lights.
4. Make sure rent and all other bills are taken care of before you leave.

Reverse osmosis might help Hutchinson improve water

By Sarah Hill
THE HUTCHINSON NEWS

HUTCHINSON, Kan. – Hutchinson's reputation as the "salt city" turns out to be expensively true when it comes to water treatment.

High levels of chlorides pollute a portion of the city's water supply – ironically, a portion that has already been identified as a site of industrial pollution that has nothing to do with the salty minerals found in the water.

Facing new regulations by the Kansas Department of Health and Environment, the city could inject the chloride-rich water deep into the ground, to be kept in a disposal well for eternity.

29 year old Kansas mother charged with killing her newborn

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WELLINGTON, Kan. – A Geuda Springs woman has been charged in Sumner County with first-degree murder in the death of her newborn child.

Rebecca Lynn Gregory, 29, was being held in the county jail on $50,000 bond Monday night. She will not be allowed unsupervised contact with her 2-year-old son, authorities said.

The Kansas Bureau of Investigation and the Sumner County Sheriff's Department searched the grounds around a pig farm Monday for the baby's body, but officials declined to say whether that effort was successful.

"You'll have to call back in the morning and ask the sheriff that question," a man working in the jail said Monday night. "I don't know if they found anything tonight or not."

Some of her longtime neighbors near Geuda Springs said they are having a hard time understanding how Gregory, who they saw as loving to her young son, could be charged with killing her baby.

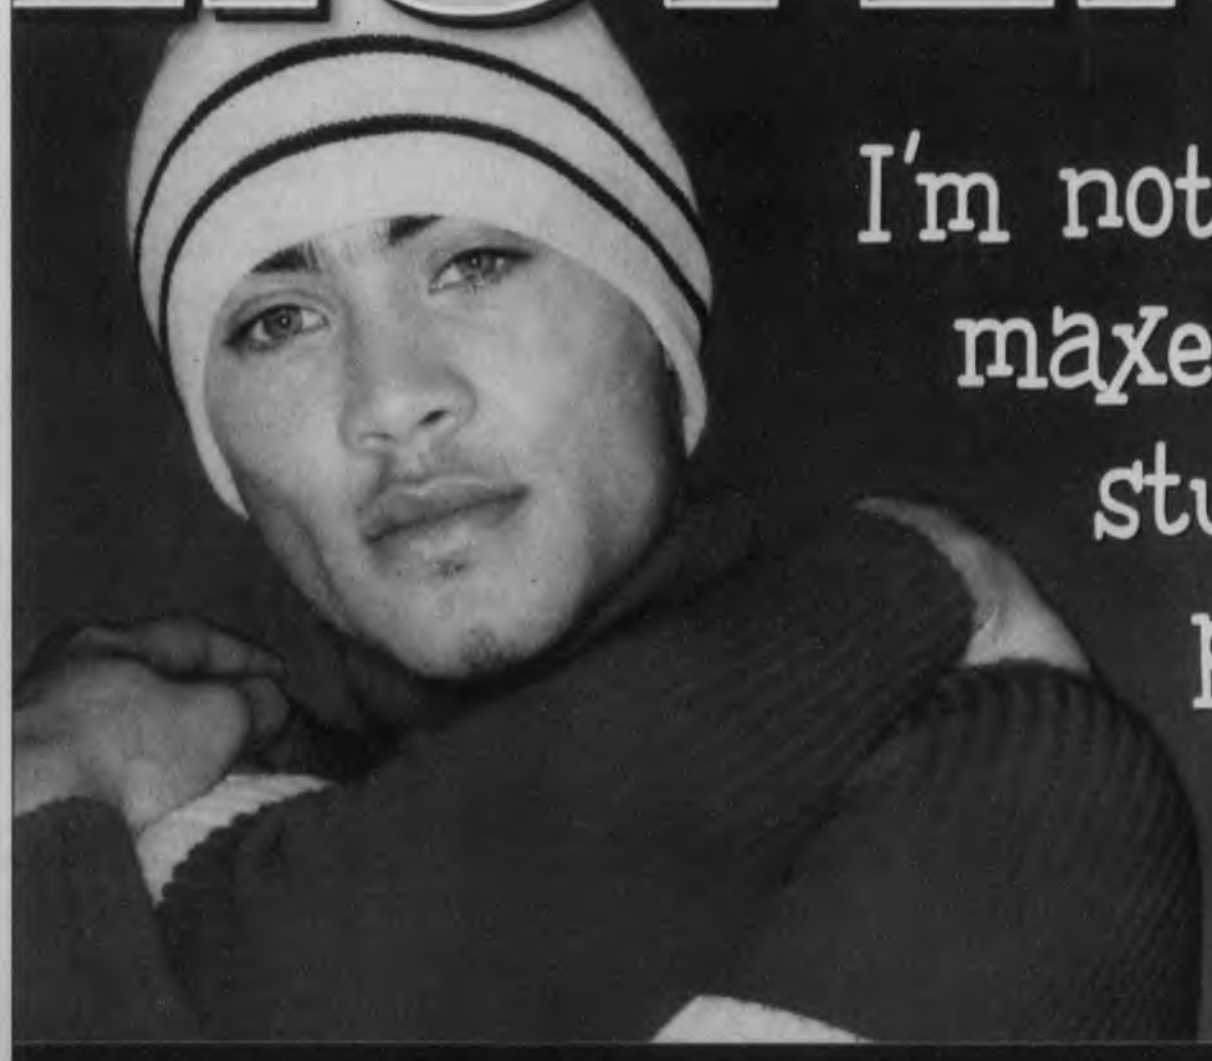
At a news conference Monday afternoon at the sheriff's department in Wellington, authorities said their investigation began Friday and Gregory was arrested early Saturday.

County Attorney William Mott and Sheriff Gerald Gilkey declined to comment on the newborn's gender, how it died or whether there was an autopsy. They said the baby was not born in a hospital and died in rural Sumner County.

Mott and Gilkey said Gregory is the only suspect in the infant's death.

John Rogers, who employs Gregory's father on a large farm near Geuda Springs, described Gregory as a helpful, peaceful member of her rural household.

Stay connected... kstatecollegian.com



GIVE PLASMA GET CASH
Donate Plasma And Earn $45 this week
Save Lives & Earn Cash.
ZLB Plasma Services
1130 Gardenway
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785)776-9177 • www.zlb.com

FINALS GOT YOU STRESSED!
YOU NEED A MASSAGE
Take $10 Off Your First Appointment
Tao Massage Therapy
341-9928

MANHATTAN FLORAL
Receive 15% off with Wildcat Card KSU ID
Find Us Near Target
776-8801

PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS
1800 Claflin Road
776-5577
We Deliver During Lunch!
VISA

LISTEN UP!

I'm not gonna be maxed out by my student loan payments.
Are you?
SallieMae
Nobody lends you more support.℠

That's why I'm consolidating my student loans with Sallie Mae after I leave school.

- Slash your monthly payments in half.
- Lock in the absolute lowest interest rates ever offered.
- Save even more by applying during your grace period.
- Pay off credit cards with the money you save each month.
- Cut your rates even more with Sallie Mae's borrower benefits.
- No application fee or credit check.

Log on to SMARTLOAN.COM or call 1-800-448-3533

SLM Corporation and its subsidiaries (other than the Student Loan Marketing Association) are not sponsored by or agencies of the United States of America. SC02

CLASSIFIEDS

LET'S RENT

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

A TWO-BEDROOM apartment, close to campus. Short term lease available. Available mid- December or 1st of January. (785)317-7713.

AVAILABLE NOW two-bedroom apartments, $450 and up. Walk to campus. (785)776-1936.

BRITTNAY RIDGE. Four-bedroom, study, two and one-half bath, town home. Washer/ dryer. 2519 Candlecrest, lease required. No pets. $1050, $1050 deposit. (785)537-9740.

COZY TWO-BEDROOM. Only a year old with all new appliances. Includes washer and dryer. Has own driveway. (785)341-1636

CRESTWOOD APARTMENTS. West side Two-bedroom, one and one-half baths. Personal washer/ dryer. Water, trash, cable television paid. No pets. $590. (785)776-3345.

FOR JANUARY 1. Nice large two-bedroom apartment. Gas, water, trash three-forths paid, laundromat. $480. (785)539-2482 or (785)539-9315 or cell phone (785)565-8116.

TWO-BEDROOM WITH study, private balcony, laundry, cover parking, walk to campus, central air-conditioning. January lease. $515- $545/ month. (785)341-6091

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bathroom duplex, including washer/ dryer, dishwasher, new carpet, nice neighborhood. $650/ month. Available January 1. (785)341-4496.

120 For Rent- Houses

LARGE TWO-BEDROOM, close to campus. Real nice, clean, and affordable. (785)762-7191.

SHORT TERM lease January- May or July. Two-bedroom house, laundry hookup, parking, campus six blocks. (785)537-8389 leave message.

TWO, THREE, or four-bedroom house. Very nice four-bedroom house will rent as two or three bedroom with reduced rent. Central-heat and air, washer/ dryer hookups. Very spacious with two bathrooms, six blocks to campus. Available January 1. Call Doug at (785)341-4554.

125 For Sale- Houses

FOUR- FIVE-BEDROOM house, close to campus. Available. Call Larry at Century 21, night (785)317-7713.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE for a four-bedroom duplex. Washer/ dryer. Available January. Rent $275. Call Megan. (785)539-8490.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for luxury, four-bedroom apartment across street from west campus. Laundry, parking, no smoking, no pets. $300. (785)776-6318.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for spring semester. Nice five-bedroom three bath house. Common rooms furnished. Washer/ dryer. $300 rent plus one-fifth utilities. (785)539-9887, (785)825-2937.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share three-bedroom house. $225/ month plus one-third electric and cable. Call Kimberly (785)456-4204.

150 Sublease

FOUR-BEDROOM, ONE and one-half bath, spacious, practically in Aggieville. $900/ month heating included. (four roommates- only $225 per person). (785)776-5102.

ROOM FOR Rent. Sub-leaser wanted for spring semester. House two blocks west of campus. $240/ month plus one-fifth utilities. Laundry facilities. (785)537-3096.

ROOMS FOR rent, next to campus, one-bedroom in brand new four-bedroom apartment. Free washer/ dryer, central-air, parking. (785)537-7050.

ADVERTISE. KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

145 Roommate Wanted

AVAILABLE NOW. For rent, fully furnished apartment. Roommate needed, close to Aggieville/ campus, utilities plus rent under $250 average! Call (816)390-5905.

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed for three-bedroom, two bath $210 rent and one-third utilities. Call Jessica (785)776-1621.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted $235/ month plus one-fourth utilities. Good study environment, townhouse, off-campus. (785)539-2288 or sublease_me_plz@hotmail.com

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for spring semester. Two blocks from campus, nice two-bedroom house, one bath, washer and dryer available. No pets. $230/ month, split bills, $100 deposit. Please call (785)323-1995.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted! Available January- July. Large bedroom. Rent $255 plus one-third utilities. Right across from East Stadium. (785)565-9340.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted, nice three-bedroom, one block from campus. 1850 Claflin. $260/ month plus one-third utilities. Needed for January. Call Anessa (816)806-6094.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted, second semester. three-bedroom house with backyard. $300/ month plus one-third utilities. Must be animal lover. Call (785)537-6139.

GREAT PLACE. great location, great people. Female roommates wanted for spring semester sublease. Large rooms, private parking, common rooms furnished, washer/ dryer. Call Lindsay at (785)587-0296.

MALE ROOMMATE needed next semester. 1850 Claflin. fully furnished bedroom, kitchen, living, two bath, DSL internet, $270/ month negotiable (785)539-5429.

MALE ROOMMATE to share newer mobile home. $150/ month. (785)770-9547.

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share a two-bedroom house. Five minutes from the Student Union. Rent $275. (785)539-9981

MALE ROOMMATES needed for a four-bedroom home in quite neighborhood, five minutes north of campus, must see to appreciate. $275 per month plus shared utilities. (913)244-2921

MALE, WALK to class, lower level. All furnished. Washer/ dryer without meter. (785)539-1554.

NEW, CLEAN duplex one block from campus on Ratone. Two full baths washer/ dryer. $250/ month plus one-fourth utilities. (785)776-3936 or (785)313-4381.

ONE ROOMMATE needed for spring semester. Lease starts in January. Nice place, close to campus. Call (913)207-0818.

ROOM AVAILABLE in large four-bedroom house downtown near the mall. $210 plus one-fourth bills. 520 Pierre. Call Lane (785)539-4440 or Jeremy (785)341-8830.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for two-bedroom apartment with male. Six month lease, good landlord, pets. $225. Stagg Hill location. Call Trevor (785)565-8193.

ROOMMATE NEEDED house close to campus and Aggieville. Rent $255/ month utilities paid. December rent paid, move in immediately. (785)554-1369.

ROOMMATE NEEDED one-bedroom, six-bedroom house. Washer/ dryer provided, bar. $300 rent plus one-fifth utilities. Call (785)317-1245.

ROOMMATE NEEDED starting January at 1321 Pierre. Close to City Park, washer/ dryer/ trash included. $225 for rent. Call (785)224-9704.

ROOMMATE NEEDED one bedroom in spacious four-bedroom duplex with three bathrooms. Nice neighborhood. $287.50/ month plus one-fourth utilities. Washer/ dryer included. Call (785)871-0965.

ROOMMATE WANTED $200/ month plus one-half utilities. Washer/ dryer, can have two bedrooms, six blocks off campus, University Dr., no smoking, nice house and neighborhood. (785)317-4742.

ROOMMATE WANTED (for next semester. 1106 Bluemont. $250/ month (785)640-4752.

ROOMMATE WANTED for mobile home $150/ month plus half utilities. Call (620)285-1305.

ROOMMATE WANTED to share a two-bedroom apartment. Walking distance to campus and Aggieville. Washer/ dryer, water/ trash paid, off-street parking and cheap rent. Call Jami (785)220-3744.

ROOMMATE WANTED: Less than 100 steps from apartment door to Fiedler. $300/ month plus one-fourth utilities. Available January. (785)317-0099.

SPACE FOR male student. 1219 Thurston. Washer/ dryer, shared utilities. $185/ month. 9785)539-3609

145 Roommate Wanted

SPRING SEMESTER roommate needed. Master bedroom in four-bedroom house. 0.3 miles from campus. Washer/ dryer, two bathrooms, cable internet. $250 plus utilities. Call Tyler (913)908-7162.

SUBLEASER WANTED for spring semester, three-bedroom apartment with dishwasher. One block from campus. $210/ month. 1850 Claflin. Call (785)770-3810/ (785)313-0013.

TWO-BEDROOMS AVAILABLE, four-bedroom house. Five minutes from campus $240/ month all bills paid. (316)706-8548.

150 Sublease

CADI- CORNER from Union. One to four rooms available immediately. Great spot, act fast! $230/ month. 1725 Anderson. Call David (785)770-2711.

CAMPUS/ AGGIEVILLE- three-bedroom spacious apartment, start January. Central air, laundry, parking. 519 North Manhattan. Call (785)341-4158 or (785)341-9582.

DEPOSIT PAID for you! One-bedroom apartment available January 2- July 31. Water, trash, and cable paid. $380/ month. (785)539-6665.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed for spring semester. One-bedroom apartment. Two blocks from Aggieville. Rent negotiable call (785)564-1173.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed for spring semester. Beautiful house and three great roommates. Near City Park. $250/ month plus utilities. Call Renee at (785)565-0340.

MALE SUBLEASER needed. Two-bedroom apartment. Private parking, dishwasher, washer/ dryer. $262.50 a month. Available January. 716 Humboldt. Contact Casey (785)341-1162.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT, one block from campus. Off-street parking $300/ month plus cheap utilities. Available January 1st. Call (785)313-5550.

ONE-BEDROOM, RENT negotiable, water and trash paid, lease January- May. (785)537-9379.

ROOM FOR rent during spring semester. $280/ month includes water, trash, laundry. Has all amenities including fireplace. Low bills. (785)539-1272. mri8888@ksu.edu

ROOMMATE NEEDED, large four-bedroom at Chase Apartments, with balcony. $240/ month plus deposit. one-fourth utilities. Call Jenn, (785)537-7090.

ROOMMATE WANTED to share brand new duplex with three guys. Four-bedroom/ two bathrooms/ laundry. $275/ month plus one-forth utilities. Call (316)990-6862 or (785)539-2356.

SPACIOUS TWO-BEDROOM/ one bath. All utilities paid except electric. Available end of December. Call (785)806-3068.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for one-bedroom apartment. $379.56 rent/ month starting January 1. Includes utilities. Pets are allowed. (785)770-3060.

SUBLEASER NEEDED from January 1- July 30 to share a two-bedroom duplex. Very close to campus. Rent is negotiable. Call (913)269-2622.

SUBLEASER NEEDED, great two-bedroom house. Fully furnished. five minutes from Union. Private parking, available now. $380, all bills paid. (785)539-3408.

SUBLEASER NOW or by January 1. Block to campus, walk to Aggieville. All December bills paid. (785)565-8199.

SUBLEASER WANTED for January, brand new carpet, two-bedroom. Chase Manhattan Apartments. Email at ben_kern1@hotmail.com or call Ben (520)275-1344.

SUBLEASER WANTED: one-bedroom. January 1- August 1. $370. Water and trash paid. (785)539-7653.

SUBLEASERS WANTED for spring semester. Two-bedroom, one and one-half bath apartment. Water/trash paid, laundry facilities. very close to campus. (785)658-5680.

SUBLEASERS WANTED January- May or longer if needed. Two-bedroom basement apartment. Close to campus. Very nice and clean. Call (785)776-2483.

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE and one-half bath. Close to Aggieville/ campus. (785)341-9733.

WANTED MALE or female subleaser starting January 1 until May 1. House two blocks east of campus on Thurston. Call Dave at (913)208-0016.

200 service directory

210 Resume/ Typing

STRESSED? I can help you type papers or projects. Call Rhonda (785)539-3570.

220 Weight Loss & / Nutrition

LOOK BETTER, feel better, live longer. Proven, effective weight loss system and beauty care. Call Lancelot (785)223-5303, www.unicitynetwork.com/lancelot.

255 Other Services

FIRST RESPONDER. This program is for those who may be the initial care giver for an individual suffering from a medical emergency or traumatic accident. Fracture management, medical emergencies and CPR are covered in the course curriculum. Begins January 5. Manhattan Area Technical College (785)587-2800 for more information.

300 employment/ opportunities

310 Help Wanted

! BARTENDING $300 a day potential. No experience necessary. Training provided. Call 1-800-965-6520 ext. 144.

ACCOUNTING ASSISTANT starting immediately and through next semester, flexible schedule, Monday- Friday, 8- 5pm. Bluestems Financial Management. (785)537-0206.

BARTENDER TRAINEES needed. $250/ day potential. Local positions. (800)293-3985 ext. 548.

CONOCO BRANDED C-stors accepting applications for part-time clerk. Apply in person 2233 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

EARN YOUR associate's degree in Accounting Support/ Administrative Support in our Business and Computer Technology program. Full-time/ part-time classes begin January 7, 2004. Financial aid available. Manhattan Area Technical College. (800)352-7575, www.matc.net

FULL-TIME, TEMPORARY business Instructor needed beginning January 2004. This non-tenure position will offer benefits, including insurance. Courses to be taught include Intro to Business, Macroeconomics, Microeconomics, Marketing, Entrepreneurship, ect. A 15 hour course load will be taught during the day on the main campus in Highland, Kansas. Master's degree preferred. Bachelor's degree with appropriate graduate level work will be considered. Request application packet: Highland Community College Human resources, 606 W. Main, Highland, KS 66035; (785)442-6010, egronniger@highlandcc.edu . Equal Opportunity Employer.

FULL-TIME, TEMPORARY Chemistry instructor needed beginning January 2004. This non-tenure position will offer benefits, including insurance. Courses to be taught include General Chemistry, College Chemistry I and II, and Organic Chemistry. A 15 hour course load will be taught during the day on the main campus in Highland, Kansas. Master's Degree preferred. Bachelor's degree with appropriate graduate level work will be considered. Request application packet: Highland Community College Human Resources, 606 W. Main, Highland, KS 66035; (785)442-6010; egronniger@highlandcc.edu , equal opportunity employer.

GET PAID For Your Opinions! Earn $15- $125 and more per survey! www.paidonlinesurveys.com

HOME DAYCARE assistant needed. Looking for responsible, energetic, organized person to work part-time, beginning January 5. Call Julie (785)776-0019.

MAINTENANCE: APARTMENT COMPLEX seeking full-time general maintenance position. Must have experience in repairs, painting, grounds keeping, make ready, etc. (785)776-3345 days.

MAKE MONEY taking Online Surveys. Earn $10-$125 for Surveys. Earn $25-$250 for Focus Groups. Visit www.cash4students.com/ksu <http://cash4students.com/ksuucinn>

NATIONAL TELECOM company expanding in this area seeks ambitious, young entrepreneurs with leadership skills. Earn $200- $1200/ month working part-time from home, flexible schedule, serious long-term income potential. Call today! 1-888-302-3602, Ext. 4.

310 Help Wanted

NETWORK TECHNICIAN Due to continued growth, Networks Plus has an opening for a Computer Network Technician in Manhattan. Positive attitude, professionalism, strong work ethic and one or more years of computer support experience or equivalent training is required. Email resume to jobs@networksplus.com in Microsoft Word or Text format. Equal Opportunity Employer.

PROGRAMMING INTERN- Networks Plus is hiring a full-time programming intern. Microsoft ASP or SQL experience preferred but not required. $7/ hour. Email resume in Microsoft Word or text format to jobs@networksplus.com

PROGRESSIVE FARM 35 miles NE of Manhattan has full-time opening for personable individual who enjoys working with other non-smoking employees. Individual would assist in management of a farrow to finish operation producing F1 Gilts for breeding stock. Position also includes row cropping operation with large late model equipment. Housing provided. (785)889-4514

RECEPTIONIST NEEDED: State of the art dental practice seeking an energetic, patient oriented, self-disciplined receptionist to complement our existing staff. a dental background is preferred, but willing to train the right person. we offer a full benefit package along with a competitive salary. If you feel stuck at your current job, and are ready for a move fax your resume to (785)537-1401 attention: Kim.

RETAIL LIQUOR Store accepting applications for part-time clerk. Apply in person 2233 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

STAFF RADIOGRAPHER. We are looking for a staff radiographer that is ARRT or registry eligible to work the night shift 2230 to 0700 hours. Applicant must be flexible and able to work independently. Interested and qualified personnel should contact Geary Community Hospital. 1102 St. Mary's road, Junction City, KS, 66441. fax (785)238-1700 or email to: cwitt@gchks.org. equal opportunity employer.

TEACHER AIDES (certificate preferred) for Kindegarden and 5/ 6 classroom at Westmoreland Elementary. Start date and salary negotiable. Single health insurance provided. Call (785)457-3732 for application or Email: caffreyt@rockcreekschools.org. Equal opportunity employer.

THE BEST summer job: Why hike in our backcountry, ride horses on our rugged trails and breathe fresh mountain air all summer long? It comes with the job. Cheley Colorado Camps, a residential wilderness camp for youth, 9-17, 6/6- 8/9. Call us at 1-800-CampFun, E m a i l staff2004@cheley.com or visit our website at www.cheley.com

THE K-STATE Student Union Bookstore is now hiring an art and Alltel sales associate. Full-time Monday-Friday 8am- 5pm. Competitive wages plus commissions. 401K dental and medical plans. We are looking for an outgoing, self-motivated, friendly, people person who is interested in both art and technology. Application deadline is December 12. Apply at the art desk.

WANTED: COWBOYS, Cowgirls to guide tourists and horses through the Rocky Mountains. Come work for the largest horse operation in North America. Write Sombrero Ranch at 3300 Airport Road, Boulder, CO 80301 or visit our website at www.sombrero.com

WANTED: OFFICE Assistant in doctor's office. Flexible hours. Must be personable, and have computer skills. Call (785)539-3975.

400 open market

410 Items for Sale

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS- sleeping bags, overshoes, combat boots, camouflage clothing, wool socks and gloves, much more. Also Carhartt work wear. Open Monday- Friday, 9am-5:30pm, Saturday 9am-4pm, Open Sundays till Christmas 12noon- 4pm. St. Mary's Surplus Sales, St. Marys Kansas. (785)437-2734.

ROSSIGNOLE DOWNHILL skis, 207cm length. Salomon ski boots, mens size 11- 12. Includes poles and bindings. All used one season. $200. (785)537-2687, leave message.

435 Computers

NEW! AMD 2000 +, 128mb RAM, 40 GB HD, 64mb video, 52 x CDROM, software package, year warranty, free setup and delivery, call Dusty (785)317-1345.

465 Tickets to Buy/Sell

FIESTA BOWL: gorgeous new two-bedroom, two bath condo with great view in Tempe, Arizona. Walking distance to stadium. $2950 per/ week. Brent (602)418-2332.

TICKETEXCHANGEUSA.COM. BUY online 24- 7- 365. Fiesta Bowl. All locations. Overnight delivery. (800)800-9811. Since 1983. Member of Better Business Bureau. Member National Association of Ticket Brokers.

500 transportation

510 Automobiles

1996 HONDA Civic. White, two door, CD, and moon roof. Automatic. Asking $4500 or best offer. Call (785)317-2366 or (785)238-1942.

1999 OLDS Alero, remote start, excellent condition, $6900. Please call (785)341-4797.

CLEAN, GREEN, JUST BROKEN IN. 2001 Toyota Prius. A great car with Toyota Hybrid gasoline engine/ electric motor technology. No, you don't plug it in, ever. Engine and brake recharge batteries. Add gasoline (occasionally) and drive. Enjoyable, efficient transportation. air-conditioned, AM/ FM/ CD. Under 10,000 miles. $15,000. (785)341-7417.

MAZDA 626 LX, V6, 2.5L, 1994 automatic. Excellent conditions. (785)395-6120 (home), (785)532-1411 (office) or fmyan@ksu.edu. $3685, negotiable.

600 travel/ trips

610 Tour Package

FIESTA BOWL condo- one-bedroom, sleeps four. Full kitchen, fully furnished. 4500 square foot swimming pool with waterfalls plus additional amenities. 20 miles from stadium. Available December 27- January 3. (630)842-8854.

630 Spring Break

!SO MANY Spring Break companies... Book DIRECT with the established leader in Spring Break travel. Better trips, better prices. Early booking incentives. book now with a small deposit (800)367-1252/ www.springbreakdirect.com

ACT NOW! Book 11 people, get 12th trip free. Group discounts for six plus www.springbreakdiscounts.com or (800)838-8202.

#1 SPRING Break Company in Acapulco now offers three destinations! Go loco in Acapulco, party in Vallarta, or get crazy in Cabo with BIANCHI-ROSSI TOURS. Organize a group and travel for FREE. Book now before it's too late! Call (800)875-4525 or www.bianchi-rossi.com.

NUMBER ONE spring break vacations! 110% best prices! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas, Florida, Acapulco, book now and receive free parties and meals. Campus reps wanted! 1-800-234-7 0 0 7 endlesssummertours.com

SPRING BREAK 2004 Travel with Student Travel Services, America's #1 Student Tour Operator to Jamaica, Cancun, Acapulo, Bahamas, and Florida. Now hiring campus reps. Call for group discounts. Information/ reservations 1-800-648-4849 or www.ststravel.com.

SPRING BREAK- sign up with Student Express and get FREE round trip airline tickets to over 15 International destinations- including Aruba, Dominican Republic, Costa Rica, Caribbean hot spots and more. Why go with anyone else. Limited offer- call now. Commission rep positions also available (800)787-3787or www.studentexpress.com now.

000 bulletin board

010 Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY!" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes and lowest rates. Call (785)776-1744, www.ksu.edu/ksfc

ATTORNEY, CHUCK Harper, expunge convictions before job application, paternity, custody, net free adoption, civil law, 400 Poyntz, (785)539-8100, chuckharper@msn.com

FIESTA BOWL housing. Luxury two-bedroom condo Scottsdale. Sleeps eight. December 27- January 3. $1500/ week. (520)749-0149.

FIESTA BOWL: gorgeous new two-bedroom, two bath condo with great view in Tempe, Arizona. Walking distance to stadium. $2950 per/ week. Brent (602)418-2332.

020 Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

FOUND: BLACK zip-closed case found outside of Anderson Hall on December 5. Come into 122 Anderson Hall to identify.

030 Post a Note

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a post a note.

"Stay In Class At The Commons"
Now Leasing for 2003-2004!
•Fully Furnished
•2 & 4 Bedroom
•Alarm System
•Swimming Pool
•Washer/Dryer
•Computer Lab
•Fitness Center
•Permit Parking
•Tennis/Volleyball Courts
•Individual Leases
Office Hours: M-F 9-5
539-0500
university COMMONS apartments
2215 College Ave.

700 housing/ real estate

105 For Rent- Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2440.

ONE-BEDROOM CLOSE to campus. Water and trash included. Available January 1. Central air/ heat. (785)537-7810

ONE-BEDROOM STUDIO, 1219 Claflin, half block from campus. $330 deposit, $330/ month. Water/ trash paid, no pets. (785)456-2812.

ONE-BEDROOM STUDIO, one block from campus. Ample parking, quiet conditions. Furnished or unfurnished. No pets. $305. (785)539-3638.

SEPARATE BEDROOM, study, living room, and eat-in kitchen. No smoking, drinking, pets. (785)539-1554.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

1219 KEARNEY, one-bedroom basement across from campus. Water/ trash paid. No pets. Lease January through May or longer. $310. (785)539-5136.

APARTMENT FOR rent spacious three-bedroom, two bath apartment. One-half block from campus at 1207 Kearney. Very low utilities. $245/ person per month. Very nice apartment at great location. Call (785)539-5236 or Angie at (785)537-7810

EFFICIENCY, TWO/ three-bedroom units immediately available. (785)341-4496.

EXTRA NICE two-bedroom in four-plex with washer/ dryer hook-ups. Available January 6. $440/ month. No pets. (785)539-2356

FOUR-BEDROOM APARTMENT, 1521 Leavenworth, bills paid, $800. (785)539-8401

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, all appliances including washer and dryer. Only three years. Ready for spring semester. (785)556-6899.

JANUARY-- ONE-BEDROOM-$315. two-bedroom-$475. No pets. (785)587-0399.

LARGE ONE-BEDROOM at 431 Leavenworth, $450, bills paid. (785)539-8401

NEWLY REMODELED two-bedroom apartments available January 1st, all utilities paid, $600/ month. Call McCullough Development Inc. (785)776-3804.

NEWLY REMODELED two-bedroom, one bath basement apartment. no pets, water and trash paid, $450/ month. Call McCullough Development, Inc. (785)776-3804.

NICE ONE-BEDROOM apartments. Close to campus. Water and trash paid. $415- $430/ month. Call MDI (785)776-3804.

ONE- TWO-BEDROOM apartment and houses. Available January 1 and now. Close to campus. www.rent-apm.com/ (785)539-4357.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT at 901 Moro, bills paid, $450. (785)539-8401.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENTS in new building, close to campus/ Aggieville. Available June/ August 2004. Call John at (785)313-7473.

ONE-BEDROOM AVAILABLE January 1. Rent $365. Call Amy (913)709-6283.

ONE-BEDROOM CLOSE to campus. Available January 1. $250, water/ trash paid. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296.

ONE-BEDROOM CLOSE to campus. Available January 1. $410/ month. No pets. (785)313-7473.

ONE-BEDROOM, ONE bath basement apartment, no pets, water and trash paid. $360/ month. Call McCullough Development, Inc. (785)776-3804.

SEPARATE BEDROOM, study, living room and eat-in kitchen. No smoking, drinking, or pets. (785)539-1554.

STUDIO APARTMENT available January 1st located in the Wareham hotel. Water and trash paid. $405/ month. Call McCullough Development Inc. (785)776-3804.

SUBLEASERS WANTED, two- three-bedrooms. All bills paid except phone and internet. One block to campus, one block to Aggieville. $260/ month per person. (785)539-9751.

THREE-BEDROOM APARTMENT 815 N. 10th St, central air, bills paid, $675. (785)539-8401

THREE-BEDROOM APARTMENT at 930 Osage, $600, bills paid. (785)539-8401

THREE-BEDROOM AVAILABLE. Chase apartments. Leave a message. January to August lease. (785)537-6117.

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE block to campus. New carpet/ flooring/ some utilities paid. $660/ month, or best offer. (785)539-4641.

TWO BEDROOMS available in four-bedroom apartment. Near College and Claflin. $300/ month (utilities and internet included) Call Toby at (913)579-2486.

TWO OR three-bedroom, spacious. Close to campus or city library. Dishwasher, central air, laundry facility. No pets. (785)539-0866.

TWO PLUS bedroom, one block to campus. New carpet/ flooring/ some utilities paid. $620/ month. (785)539-4641.

TWO, three, and four-bedroom apartments. Close to campus, laundry, and parking. Call (785)537-6017.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT at 431 Leavenworth, $400, bills paid. (785)539-8401.

TWO-BEDROOM BASEMENT, near City Park, washer/ dryer, no pets, all bills paid. $500. Available January 1st (785)539-1145.

TWO-BEDROOM TOWNHOUSE, two and one-half bath plus unfinished basement. Washer/ dryer hookups. Water/ trash paid. No pets. (785)539-5627.

VERY NICE two-bedroom apartment for rent, starting January 1st. Cats allowed. Call (785)539-5563 or (785)341-5441 for more information.

115 Rooms Available

ONE BEDROOM IN five-bedroom house. Wood floors, five minute walk to campus. Off-street parking. Rent $270. (816)456-7802.

ROOMMATE WANTED to sublease. Close to campus/ Aggieville. Washer/ dryer, $300 plus utilities. Call Nicole (785)776-6099 or (785)565-8785.

THREE ROOMS available in large house block from campus. No pets, washer/ dryer, off-street parking. $250/ month. (785)317-1333.

120 For Rent- Houses

1724 WINNE. Four-bedroom, one and one-half bath. Updated and spacious. New carpet, paint, and ceramic tile. Close to football stadium. $850/ month plus utilities. Available December. (785)556-2652.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted close to campus. Two bath, four-bedrrom, $237/ month January 1. (620)365-3886 or (620)365-9748.

LARGE NICE houses- June or August leases. Call now for best selections. www.foremostproperty.com or (785)539-4641.

NEWER: FOUR-BEDROOM/ two bathroom. All appliances including washer/ dryer. Private parking. No smoking/ pets. 622 Bluemont- $1195. Available now! (785)776-9386.

NICE THREE-BEDROOM, close to campus. Available January 1. (785)537-0205.

NICE: THREE-BEDROOM/ two bathroom. All appliances including washer/ dryer. Private parking. No smoking/ pets. 620 Bluemont, $795. Available now! (785)776-9386.

THREE AND four-bedroom houses and apartments available January 1 and now. Close to campus. www.rent-apm.com/ (785)539-4357.

TIRED OF Apartment Living? Manufactured Homes For Rent. Pets Allowed. Beautifully maintained communities. Pool, playground, community center. Professionally managed. Call Manager for more details. (785)539-5841.

135 For Sale- Mobile Homes

1976 18X70 trailer in Countryside Estates. $4000 or best offer. (785)313-3147 or (620)767-8279.

FOR SALE: two-bedroom, one bath mobile home. Well cared for, owners are December graduates. $4800 or best offer. Please call (785)323-0055.

FURNISHED 12X60 newly remodeled, pets allowed. 10X20 storage shed. Five minutes to campus. $16,000 or best offer. (785)770-8794.

ADVERTISE CLASSIFIEDS • 532-6555

Trying to sell your car? Try the Collegian Classifieds 532-6555

REC CENTER | Rec basketball offers chance for social interaction, relaxation after a long day of classes

Continued from Page 6

differences between this game and one more organized are apparent.

Defense is nonexistent at times, and as the game takes a more up-tempo style, players do all they can to avoid running down the floor.

This "conservation of energy" reveals itself on one possession. While a fast-break progresses, three members of the "skins" team stay back as their two remaining teammates attempt to score.

On the surface, this appears to be just another game, but there's something off about this picture.

Among the nine men on the floor is one woman battling on every possession.

While one woman holds her own at one end of the Rec Complex, another is catching her breath at the other.

Alo Taumanpepe, sophomore in law enforcement, sits on some bleachers, killing time before an intramural volleyball game.

Taumanpepe often can be found playing basketball and volleyball numerous times during the week.

The facilities are one reason that coming to the Rec is an attractive option for a night's entertainment, Taumanpepe said.

"I haven't been to other schools' facilities, but I think it's real nice," she said.

Often while playing in a basketball game – like her counterpart at the other end of the gym – she is the only female.

Not a problem for Taumanpepe.

"It's fun playing with all guys because you learn," she said. "It gets you stronger."

Back at the other end, the lone woman is taking a rest against the wall.

Her name is Jamie Strait, senior in kinesiology, and if you haven't seen her at the Rec Complex, you might not be looking hard enough.

Strait is constantly in search of a game, playing every night some weeks.

A native of Nemaha Valley, Kan., Strait considered trying to play college basketball at a junior college or smaller school, but it wasn't in the cards.

"I thought about playing, but I just wanted to concentrate on school work," Strait says.

Though not playing for an organized team, Strait still gets her competitive hunger fulfilled at the Rec Complex and appreciates the top-notch facility.

"I love the Rec," she said. "We don't have anything like this at home."

A few minutes pass and Strait is ready again to take the floor for the next game. Almost immediately, Strait's effect is felt as she buries a jumper in the face of a man twice her size.

Then, Strait's night appears to be done as she begins limping after apparently twisting an ankle.

It is just a pick-up game. Why keep playing?

"You OK?" an opposing player asked.

She nods her head, and just like that, Strait's back in the game.

A couple of trips down the floor later, Strait comes out of nowhere to swipe the ball from the opposing team.

Like Farmer, Bott and Taumanpepe, Strait will hit the courts even more after break when the intramural basketball season begins.

Strait said she enjoys K-State's intramural system, but her love for the game leads her to just one problem.

"I wish it was longer," she said.

TEXTBOOKS | Book orders similar for K-State, KU

Continued from Page 1

bookstore is pushing faculty members not to get caught up in the "freebies" many publishers offer with new books.

"Publishers are really good in throwing in free items with books," Staab said. "It's their way of getting to sell new books."

If a faculty member is not using the free item, such as a complimentary CD, Staab said she encourages them to purchase the textbook only. This, in turn, saves students anywhere from $3 to $8 on a textbook and makes it easier to sell back the book at the end of the semester, she said.

At K-State, Walter said Varney's depends on faculty members to make responsible decisions when choosing their textbooks.

"We feel that the faculty members are in the best position to make the best decision about what books would be best for their courses," Walter said. "We're here to get the best books that they want."

Kevin Snell, manager of Claflin Books and Copies, said many K-State professors will place their orders to the store weeks before the new semester even begins.

"We do try to get select classes," Snell said. "We work with professors in having enough."

Bill Getz, manager of the University of Kansas Union Bookstore, said used textbooks are the bread and butter of his college bookstore.

"The longer a book can be used before the new edition, the more it can cycle through as a used books."

Jeff Levin
MANAGER OF VARNEY'S BOOK STORE

Like K-State, Getz said the KU Union Bookstore uses a number of wholesale outlets throughout the United States.

All four bookstores say they have some type of pre-ordering system to assist students when purchasing their textbooks.

Levin said K-State students have a number of options when pre-ordering, including filling out a form online, through e-mail, or by visiting the store and filling out a paper form.

"The majority of students want used books," Levin said. "That helps us out with our forecasting. They can pre-order and the sooner they do that we'll go out and pick for them first the used books."

Walter said students can pre-order textbooks up until a week before the new semester begins. Many students, however, fill out the forms over winter break, he said.

"It's like ordering a pizza in advance," he said. "Everything has been pulled by trained staff people and double-checked. It's first-come, first-serve."

Students buying books at Claflin Books and Copies can e-mail their instructor prior to the class and then purchase the book in the store.

Getz said at KU, 3,500 students this fall filled out pre-orders at the union bookstore. This number, he said, usually decreases by two-thirds in the spring semester due to a student's familiarity with the bookstore.

Similar to K-State, Getz said students give the bookstore their schedules and store employees will then pick out all of the textbooks for them to pick up.

Staab said Fort Hays has reservation forms that go into enrollment packets sent to each student. This fall, 1,529 reservation orders were placed, she said.

Despite the focuses of reducing textbook costs, bookstore officials say it comes down to what the faculty wants and the availability of new textbook editions.

"The faster the edition changes, the more often they have to use new books," Levin said. "The longer a book can be used before the new edition, the more it can cycle through as a used books. I would hope instructors would be sensitive to that."

COLUMN | Columnist makes Fiesta Bowl predictions

Continued from Page 6

USC, No. 1 in all the land, will face Oklahoma in a battle for the ... wait a minute.

LSU, ranked No. 2, is playing third-ranked Oklahoma for the National Championship?

What?

I'm officially confused. Someone told me six years ago that the top two teams were supposed to play for the national title.

Oops, the BCS did it again.

As for the game, look for Oklahoma to enter the game shell-shocked after USC coach Pete Carroll cuts the brake line on the team's bus, forcing them to live on alligator and crawfish until a search party finds them.

LSU 28, OU 21

FIESTA BOWL

The only game that really matters.

K-State, fresh off a 35-7 stomping of undefeated Oklahoma, will make it's first-ever appearance in a BCS bowl game.

Man, I would have loved to see the expression on Mack Brown's face as he watched the Cats send Texas to the Holiday Bowl.

Facing reigning national champ Ohio State, K-State should have no trouble running all over the Buckeye defense.

Junior phenom Darren Sproles, who should win the Heisman solely based on his performance against the Sooners, is poised for a huge game.

K-State 84, Ohio State 0

I know what you're probably thinking – this guy is out of his mind. The only thing I ask of you is this: what were you thinking last week when I picked a 42-7 K-State victory?

Did anyone else get that close to the score?

I didn't think so.

Maybe this time around, before criticizing my picks, you should wait until the dealing's done.

Wes is a sophomore in print journalism. You can reach him at marfield@k-state.edu.

WEATHER | Pedestrians should practice caution

Continued from Page 1

season's first snowfall, Knapp said there was nothing unusual about a December winter storm.

"It's more typical that we would have had one over Thanksgiving weekend," Knapp said. "By the time December comes, we don't get a lot of snow, but it's not at all unusual."

This particular storm, she said, came from the four-corners region of southern Colorado, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

As a result, this causes a lot of moisture in front of the storms.

"When you get that cold air, there's a lot more for the system to work with," Knapp said.

Knapp said that with this storm, people must take precautions.

"If you're driving, clear out your windshield off completely so you have good visibility," she said. "It's not just the windshield, but side windows and back windows."

Drivers also need to slow down and allow more distance between vehicles as well as more time to get to a new destination, she said.

In addition, pedestrians – namely students – must take some special precautions when walking to and from class today.

"The wind chill is going to be a very good factor," Knapp said. "The temperatures are not unusually cold, but when you have the kind of winds we're having that's going to be dangerous. Remember if you get wet, you can start suffering from hypothermia a lot more quickly than you were dry."

Little Caesars
HOT-N-READY pizza
$5.00 LARGE WITH PEPPERONI Carry Out Only
ALL DAY, EVERYDAY!
1150 Westloop • 539-3333

HUNAM
Restaurant and Mongolian BBQ
1304 Westloop 539-8888
Lunch Buffet $4.95 All you can eat! Mon.-Sat.
Dinner Buffet $6.95 All you can eat!
Friday Night Seafood Buffet $8.45
Crabs legs, scallops, fish, shrimp, etc.
FREE DELIVERY
• OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK •
$1.00 off Buffet
Please present coupon
1304 Westloop 539-8888

PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER
"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting & adoption."
539-3338
Free pregnancy tests
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment
Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

ADVENTURE:
by The North Face
the PATHFINDER
OUTDOOR EQUIPMENT SPECIALISTS
304 POYNTZ, DOWNTOWN 539-5639

Showings Available
by appointment
OneBedroomApartments
814 Leavenworth $370
$345-$385 1022-1026 Sunset
1950-1960 Hunting $440-$460
$440-$460 1212 Thurston
1837 College Heights $385
TwoBedroomApartments
$700 1825 College Heights
Tri-Level
1829 College Heights $650
2 story
Call 537-7701
DIAMOND

SELL YOUR TEXTBOOKS FOR CASH
In the TEXTBOOK DEPARTMENT at Varney's Book Store
• You don't need your receipt to sell your books!
• It doesn't matter where the books were purchased!
• Please bring your current photo ID to sell your books
TODAY!
Buyback Hours:
Wed Dec 10 - Sat Dec 13
9:00am - 9:00pm
Sunday Dec 14
11:00am - 7:00pm
Mon Dec 15 - Fri Dec 19
9:00am - 9:00pm
539-0511
www.shopvarneys.com

A SPECIAL SECTION
A guide to this weekend's graduation ceremonies.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

www.kstatecollegian.com

Thursday, December 11, 2003

Vol. 108, No.77

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

Buyback Web site creates competition for regular bookstores

By Amy Preston
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Brett Beem had enough.

Beem said he was tired of buying and selling back his textbooks through the university bookstore.

As a result, the sophomore in industrial engineering, along with two of his friends, decided to set up a Web site where K-State students could buy and sell their textbooks.

The Web site, www.ksubooks.com, is an online bulletin board that allows students to post what books they need to buy or sell, Beem said.

"We just felt there was a need for students to be able to buy and sell their textbooks to each other and easier," Beem said.

In order to post, students must register. The registration, Beem said, is free.

About 200 people already have registered during the Web site's first month and 75 books already have been posted, he said.

Despite online efforts such as Beem's and larger online outlets, like Amazon.com and Barnes and Noble, university bookstores said they are not worried.

IN-DEPTH: TEXTBOOKS

The Collegian takes a look at the process of buying and selling back textbooks in a three-part series. Today, find out how K-State and other state colleges buy back textbooks. Varney's Book Store began buying back textbooks Dec. 10.

Dan Walter, textbook manager for Varney's Book Store, said online book ordering may be a good option for some students.

For the average student, though, Walter said he believes a local bookstore provides more options.

"We think they're probably best served by a local store with good customer service, reasonable prices and a reasonable return policy," Walter said.

"If you get your books online, it's fine unless you drop a class and then have to return the book."

Kevin Snell, manager of Claflin Books and Copies, said his store is aware of the online option, and considers it just another form of competition.

"Any competition you have to think about," Snell said. "For some students, that's more convenient than buying from someone else."

At the University of Kansas Student Bookstore, the increase in online ordering caused the store to begin selling its textbooks online.

Bill Getz, textbook manager for the KU Student Bookstore, said hundreds of students use the store's Web site to order books.

Varney's also has a similar online site, Jeff Levin, manager of the Book Store, said.

Levin, however, said the online Web sites cannot offer the same services like a bookstore.

"When a student has a problem and if they purchase a book online, they have to mail it back," he said. "We feel what we offer is better because we're here local and we're offering the whole service."

Beem, though, said he believes his Web site is more cost-efficient, which will be a large factor in the long run.

"It's not only beneficial for people buying books but people selling books," he said.

Campus braces for changes in the spring

Division of Facilities plans several hall renovations

By Kristi Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

In the spring, change will be in the air.

Many aspects of campus will see renovation, demolition or possible academic changes.

IN POLICY

Bob Zabel, president of Faculty Senate, said at the latest meeting, the Faculty Senate brought up one item that might bring change to the spring semester.

First, the senate approved the Wagle Amendment. The amendment is a universitywide policy that regulates what content can and cannot be discussed in human sexuality classes. It passed nearly unanimously.

"There isn't anything immediately and significantly different for the spring. We have task forces and committees out working, but the reports won't happen until next semester, " Zabel said.

Fred Fairchild, professor of grain science and industry and member of the Academic Affairs Committee for Faculty Senate, said a proposal to dismiss a student from class after missing the first session hasn't yet been voted on.

The proposal, if passed by the Academic Affairs Committee, cannot go into effect in January because the senate won't meet again before that time, Fairchild said.

"It's been in discussion for a while. What we are talking about is if a person misses a session, regardless of the type, the instructor can drop the student from the course," Fairchild said. "Nothing is finalized yet."

ON CAMPUS

Jerry Carter, director of planning for the Division of Facilities, said that because the university is experiencing the same budget crisis that the state is, not many projects have begun. However, there are a variety of small projects being worked on. He said Dickens and Cardwell halls will have a few improvements to be made, and there are fire issues to be solved.

Carter said the demolition of Denison Hall won't begin until the end of the spring semester. The Department of English will be moved into the old Lafene building and will be renamed English/Counseling Services, effective in January. The name Denison will be retired and held for a possible naming of a new building in the future, Carter said.

See CHANGE Page 8

Bowl bound

Kelly Glasscock | COLLEGIAN

Darren Sproles gives high fives to K-State fans after the Cats beat Oklahoma in the Big 12 Championship game on Dec. 6 in Kansas City. The win sends K-State to the Fiesta Bowl on Jan. 2, 2004.

Fans to hit the road for Fiesta Bowl

By Amy Lundine
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Fans of K-State football will be making the trek in January, as the team competes in the Fiesta Bowl in Tempe, Arizona.

With student tickets selling for $85, travel costs and pre-game activities, the trip can become quite pricey, but those traveling will have several options.

BCS Package tours is offering a travel and activity package complete with round-trip, nonstop airfare, limousine service, four nights lodging at the Fiesta Inn resort, and tickets to the game, tailgating, and New Year's Eve block party.

The price for this package is $1,449 for a single ticket and $1,119 for double tickets.

"We've got things very competitively priced," said Steve Holland, president and owner of BCS Package Tours. "It includes everything."

The K-State Alumni Association also offers a "Full air/land tour package," including round trip air service from Manhattan, Kansas City or Wichita, three nights stay in Westin Kierland resort or Pointe South Mountain Resort, K-State Fiesta Bowl New Year's Eve reception in the two hotels, tickets to the game and pregame activities, and travel arrangements in Tempe.

This package costs $1,759 for a single ticket and $1,449 for a double ticket.

The Alumni Association also offers a "Land-only tour," which costs $1,199 for a single ticket, and $890 for a double.

Students attending the Fiesta Bowl are finding alternate ways to travel and spend less money than the cost of these packages.

Nicki Woodard, freshman in business, is making the trip by car with one of her friends.

See BOWL Page 8

INSIDE

'Tis the season for holiday drinks. A recipe list of this year's favorites.

The Edge, Page 12

HEADLINES

The Associated Press

Campaign finances
A divided Supreme Court upheld the broadest restrictions on campaign donations in nearly 30 years Wednesday, ruling the nation is better off with limits on the financial influence of deep-pocket donors even if money can never be divorced from politics.

Officer killed
U.S. troops shot and killed a senior officer of the Saddam Fedayeen after storming his house in this northern city on Wednesday, his neighbors said. The U.S. Army confirmed there were raids early Wednesday in Mosul but refused to comment on the reported death of Col. Ghanem Abdul-Ghani Sultan al-Zeidi.

Insane sniper
Lee Boyd Malvo did not know right from wrong during last year's sniper spree because of intense indoctrination by sniper mastermind John Allen Muhammad, two defense psychiatrists testified Wednesday at Malvo's trial.

Malvo

Mother charged
A woman and her boyfriend in Clinton, Ill., were charged with first-degree murder Wednesday in the deaths of her three children, who drowned when their car plunged into a lake in September in what initially looked like a tragic accident.

DON'T FORGET

- The Collegian will resume production Jan. 22. Watch for the Finals Guide on Friday, which will stay on newsstands through Finals Week.
- There are no classes Friday because of a student study day.
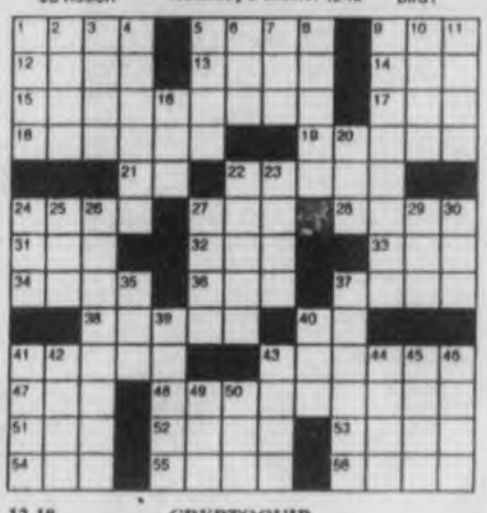
- Tickets for Toby Keith and Blake Shelton concert at Bramlage Coliseum go on sale at 10 a.m. today at the Bramlage Ticket Office. The concert is Jan. 24, and tickets are $49.75 plus fees.

Weather

Today: Partly cloudy 30 | 14
Friday: Mostly cloudy 29 | 20

PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS 776-5577

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer



ACROSS
1 1/746 horsepower
5 Lingerie buys
9 Intimidate
12 Champagne bucket
13 Dennis Miller specialty
14 Candle count
15 Discard
17 — Lanka
18 Brave
19 Liquid measure
21 Movie rating
22 Greek consonant
24 Factor in Einstein's equation
27 Ovine remark
28 Mop
31 Model Carol
32 Make up your mind
33 Altar constellation
34 Yucky stuff
36 Born
37 Unfounded notion
38 Hydrophobe's worry
40 Old pronoun
41 Shopping mall
43 Rook
47 Ally McBeal's field
48 Secede
51 Italian article
52 Cabin makeup
53 Unadorned
54 Festive
55 Advantage
56 "Handsome —..."

DOWN
1 Accompanying
2 Rue the run
3 Owned land (Abbr.)
4 Moves in a crowd
5 Bric-a- —
6 Like steak tartare
7 Literary collection
8 Fashion
9 Gilligan, for one
10 Fairy tale villain
11 "Dead Poets Society" director
16 Sham locks
20 "— My Party"
22 Diminish gradually
23 Loathe
24 Periodical, for short
25 The whole enchilada
26 One getting a free ride?
27 Doggie treat
29 Illustrations
30 Scrooge's cry
35 La —, Bolivia
37 Iron-rich Minnesota range
39 Dinette feature
40 Run up the phone bill
41 Advertise
42 Ms. Turner
43 Docket entry
44 "— the night ..."
45 Zhivago's love
46 Spuds' buds
49 Angling equipment
50 Early bird?

Solution time: 25 mins.

Yesterday's answer 12-18

12-18 CRYPTOQUIP

FE H KWFRFK YQRN CHFZ DQGG ESW UQW MQYHRFAQ WQAFQDN, FN NUQ CHMMFMY ESW YSGZ?

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: AS AN EXPERT IN WITCHCRAFT TYPES, I WAS UNIQUELY QUALIFIED TO TEACH HEX EDUCATION.

Today's Cryptoquip Clue: M equals N

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 2! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to CryptoClassics Book 2, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475

The Cryptoquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.

© 2003 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

BEST BETS

Your guide to this weekend's entertainment

1 | POMP AND CIRCUMSTANCE

After working hard for four — or five or six or more — long years, graduation is upon us. Hug mom and dad, drink yourself silly, but don't lose focus — you've got finals on Monday.

2 | GEEK'S GALA

"Lord of the Rings" went from a popular novel collection to one of the world's largest film blockbusters. Catch the second installment, "The Two Towers," free of charge at 11:30 p.m. Friday in Union Forum Hall.

3 | WINTER WONDERLAND

Singing, snowmen, snacks and — ass-kicking cops. K-State After Hours offers its final Friday for the fall semester. Karaoke begins at 9 p.m., and the craft is snowman thermometers, followed by free nachos. A viewing of "Bad Boys II" also is free. All events are in the K-State Student Union.

4 | UNCOMFORTABLE EXAMS

Work hard all semester, keep up your grades, and now none of it matters — is that comforting? If you haven't done anything this semester besides hit on your GTA, now's the time to hit the books. Finals end Friday afternoon, then you can go home and visit your mommy.

5 | HO, HO, HOS

What do you want for Christmas? If your answer involves sitting on Santa's lap, you might need to seek counseling. But Finals Week and the days before Christmas can be an excellent opportunity to finish that holiday shopping.

HOW TO

Pick out and care for a tree

Dry, smelly, messy things are not what you want to have in your home during the holiday season.

You can't uninvite Aunt Betty, but you can take steps to ensure your Christmas tree doesn't cause unnecessary hassle.

WEIGHT MATTERS

If you're buying your tree already cut, make sure that it seems heavy for its size. A healthy tree will be about 50 percent water, which makes it seem heavy.

COLOR-CODED

The needles should be dark green and flexible.

SPECIES

Douglas fir and balsa fir generally retain needles well, while spruces have more of a tendency to lose their needles.

ALL THE TRIMMINGS

Cut one to two inches off the trunk of the tree after you get it home and leave it in a bowl of water overnight. The fresh cut will allow it to absorb more water, and the night's soaking can help replenish any water lost after it was cut.

KEEP IT WET

A tree can dry out its water bowl in six to eight hours for the first couple of days, so be sure to check it twice a day for at least the first two days. After that, once a day should suffice.

The blotter | Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Tuesday, Dec. 9

- At 9:30 a.m., Daniel Bixler, 1400 Chase Place, No. 18, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $104.
- At 10:05 a.m., Joshua Chambliss, 1530 College Ave., No. A6, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $121.
- At 10:25 a.m., Robert Cushinberry Jr., Topeka, was arrested for theft. Bond was set at $1,000.
- At 11:15 a.m., Michael Brown, Junction City, Kan., was arrested for probation violation. Bond was set at $407.
- At 1:35 p.m., Willie Finley III, 1947 College Heights Road, No. 103C, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $436.

Wednesday, Dec. 10

- At 1 a.m., John Hayden, 210 N. Fourth St., was arrested for worthless check. Bond was set at $250.

The planner

Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@spub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of William Voss at noon today in Eisenhower 227.
- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Veronica Taylor at 9 a.m. Monday in Dickens 302.
- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Sharon Hagan at 10 a.m. Tuesday in Rathbone 274.
- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Ronald Brockhoff at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday in Ward 137.
- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Krista Clark at 8 a.m. Thursday in Ackert 321.
- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Amgad Saleh at 9 a.m. Dec. 19 in Throckmorton 4031.

Contact us

Kansas State Collegian
Kedzie 103
Manhattan, KS 66502
Display ads.....532-6560
Classified ads.....532-6555
Newsroom.....532-6556
news@spub.k-state.edu
Delivery problems.....532-6555

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor James Hurla at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@spub.ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.

© Kansas State Collegian, 2003

Christmas TREES
$3.50/ft
Sat 9-5 & Sun 12-5
Nov. 29th - Dec. 14th
ALL Trees over 8ft $28.00
Fresh Traditions Tree Farm
Questions? 317-0839
10 miles East of K-Mart to Flint Rock Rd. then South 1/2 mile to 6th

Fiesta Bowl
SheratonDesertOasis Scottsdale, AZ
$1,750 for 7 Nights
1-bedroom villa sleeps 4/kitchen, golf, visit Grand Canyon & Sedona, 4,500 square-foot swimming pool, cascading waterfalls and spa. 15 minute drive from Fiesta Bowl.
Call 602-993-2880
aliebowitz@msn.com

Fat's Bar & Grill
Located at 12th & Laramie in Aggieville
Thursday
$2.75 Fish Bowls
$1.50 Domestic Bottles
$1.00 Burgers
Thursday

OLE MIKE'S SHOOTERS SUPPLY & TACKLE
HUNTING & FISHING LICENSES

Kansas Quality Woodworkers
Holiday Art and Craft Show
And
Manhattan Kiwanis Club
Pancake Feed
Saturday
December 13, 2003
Pottorf Hall Cico Park
7:00 a.m. - 2:00 p.m.

Film SALE
stock up now for the holidays
FRESH, UNOPENED FILM
Priced 20% less than discount stores.
Deeper discounts when buying in volume.
Fujifilm Color 800 Speed 35mm
$2.52 36 Exposures
$12.10 for 5 rolls
$23.95 for 10 rolls
Fujifilm Color 400 Speed 35mm
$1.80 36 Exposures
$8.50 for 5 rolls
$16.75 for 10 rolls
Fujifilm Color 100 Speed 35mm
$1.44 36 Exposures
$6.70 for 5 rolls
$13.15 for 10 rolls
Purchase in 103 Kedzie
8-5 M-F

PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER
"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting & adoption."
539-3338
Free pregnancy tests
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment
Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Mel's Tavern
Tex-Mex Thursday
$2.25 Margarita
Corona
Mike's Hard Lemonade
Killian's
18 oz.
$1.95 3 Taco Basket
Poco Burrito $4.39
Nacho Platter $4.69
105 N. 3rd • Manhattan
(785) 776-9879

is your Vehicle Ready 4 WINTER?
PRESENT THIS AD AND RECEIVE 10% DISCOUNT UP TO $50.00!
American & Foreign Cars • Engine Overhaul • Motor Tune-ups • Complete Brake • Electrical & Automatic Transmission Service • Manual Transmissions & Clutch Repair • Sun Computer Print Out • Diagnostic Center • Air Conditioning Service
We Service All Makes of Cars
Our FIVE full time mechanics will get you in tune!
Ekart Automotive Services Since 1954
776-5110 411 S. 5th St. • 1 Blk. North of Ft. Riley Blvd.

Homes tour showcases local historic houses

By Joanna Rubick
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Want to take a look inside some of those big, old houses you've admired from afar?

Your chance will come this weekend when the Riley County Historical Society and Museum and the Manhattan/Riley County Preservation Alliance opens homes for the 2003 Manhattan Historic Homes Tour.

The tour will feature five historical homes, said Cheryl Collins, director of the Riley County Historical Museum.

"We have a variety of homes featured," she said. "We have a couple of the oldest homes in Manhattan on the tour."

Guides will lead visitors through each room to provide a little history and information about the house, Collins said. About 200 volunteers are helping out.

Collins said this tour is a chance not just for permanent community members, but for students as well.

"One of the things I think it could give students is background and connection to the community," she said. "It's kind of neat when you drive by a house to know a little about it. It gives you a connection you didn't have before."

Profits from the tour will go toward restoration of older buildings.

"We want to give people information about the terrific homes and raise money for the benefit of the Wolf House Museum and the Manhattan Union Pacific Depot," she said.

Karen De Bres, professor of geography and program director for the Historical society, owns the house on Sunset Lane. She said participating in the Homes Tour has helped her finish some of her half-finished projects and really get into decorating.

"I go to Europe every year, and I've been collecting Christmas decorations from there," she said. "I have special decorations from Germany, Denmark and Great Britain."

In her guest rooms, she chose a decade and decorated from that period.

"My mother gave me her 1960s bed set, and I got a 1930s one at a yard sale," she said. "I have Christmas decorations from each decade for both of the rooms."

The house is a 1938 neocolonial model and was built for a surgeon, De Bres said. She has only lived there for two years after moving from a different part of Manhattan.

"I wanted to live in a more traditional neighborhood," she said. "It is still in a neighborhood that has all families and is close to the college."

Another homeowner, Sherry Reed, lives with her husband, Rev. Jim Reed, on Juliette in the Methodist parsonage built in 1914. She said they have had many admirers of their home during the five years they have lived there.

"It's a big stately house. Lots of people want to see it," she said. "I've had people knock on the door asking to see it."

There will be a display upstairs to show all of the parsons since the house was built, she said.

She and her husband have been getting the house ready for the tour, but she said there tends to be one problem when preparing.

"You have to live here while you're cleaning up," she said. "We are always messing it up and having to clean it back up again."

If you go

Manhattan Historic Homes Tour

When: 6 to 9 p.m. Friday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.
Where: 2120 College Heights Road, 1932 Sunset Lane, 130 Pierre St., 1010 Claflin Road, 121 North Juliette Ave.
How much: $12 in advance, $15 at the door.
Tickets: Available at the Riley County Historical Museum, Claflin Books and Copies, Dusty Book Shelf, Ann-A-Lee's, Amelia's Home Ambiance, Lilacs on the Prairie, Ben Franklin Crafts, Campbell's and Manhattan Town Center Mall.

For more information, call 565-6490.

Tastes nutty

J. Revecca Drake | COLLEGIAN
Freda Feltcher munches on a nut outside McCain Auditorium on Friday afternoon after ditching Harry and Lloyd for a younger, more attractive squirrel.

A look back at the semester's news

By Scott Seel
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

From SafeRide to the mayor's marriage proclamation, K-State students have been first-hand witnesses to an eventful fall semester.

SAFERIDE OPENS

On Aug. 21, SafeRide was initiated.

The program, funded through student fees, began with three cabs serving students. The service was expanded to eight cabs in October to accommodate overwhelming demand. In September, Tom Robinson, the program's founding director, was replaced by new director Josh Sturgis.

It is still unclear why the switch was made. Sturgis is resigning at the end of the semester because he will graduate.

MERCY REGIONAL HEALTH CENTER OPENS

On Aug. 24, Mercy Regional Health Center opened its new tower addition. The facility was opened to provide people from Manhattan and beyond with comprehensive medical care. Tour guides told visitors during the opening ceremony the facility would provide area citizens with the latest technological and medical advancements.

NEW RESTAURANTS

Three establishments in Aggieville have opened their doors since the close of school in spring 2003. Those include Pita Pit, Jimmy John's Gourmet Sandwiches and Coldstone Creamery.

Also, Papa John's Pizza provided students with another late-night pizza delivery opportunity. Hillside Cafe is not new, but it moved to Manhattan after more than 35 years in Ogden, Kan.

MARRIAGE PROCLAMATION

Mayor Mark Taussig officially announced the city's participation in a nationally-recognized Marriage Protection Week on Oct. 12-18. Opponents of the proclamation argue the legislation alienates homosexuals, single parents and co-habitating couples. Proponents claim the bill protects the sanctity of an institution on which society is based.

Heated debate during the public comment period of an October City Commission meeting lasted longer than an hour. Student Senate considered a resolution in response to the mayor's proposal but elected to avoid divisive material and pass a resolution reaffirming Senate's commitment to diversity.

3 more Colorado children die of flu

By Ben Kieckhefer
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

DENVER – Three more Colorado children have died from flu-related illnesses, bringing to nine the number of deaths in the state this year, state health officials have confirmed.

The three latest deaths had been reported previously by local officials or families but had not been included in the state's count. All nine victims were children, ranging from 14 months to 15 years old.

The latest victims were 20-month-old Dezmond Huckabay in Pueblo, 14-month-old Jeremy Beaumont in El Paso County and a 2 1/2-year-old from the Denver area, Cindy Parmenter, spokeswoman for the Colorado Department of Public Health and Environment, said on Tuesday.

The name of the 2 1/2-year-old wasn't released.

The deaths of two other children were under investigation for evidence of the flu. The victims were a 2-year-old at The Children's Hospital in Denver on Nov. 24 and a 23-month-old from Arapahoe County, Parmenter said.

Parents were scrambling to get their children vaccinated as the supply of flu shots dwindled, but help might be on the way.

Royal Purple Yearbook $34.95 get it in 103 Kedzie Now 8am-5pm dependable. quality service ✓copy your dissertations Claflin Books and Copies

The Pita Pit
FRESH THINKING • HEALTHY EATING
Open Late IN AGGIEVILLE
We Deliver!
$1.00 OFF any pita
The Pita Pit
valid w/ coupon only expires 12/01/03
1131 MOBO • 537-3905 • TUES-SAT TILL 4AM • SUN TILL 1PM • MON TILL 3AM

K-STATE SUPER STORE
Get Your Big 12 Champion Tees!
Official Locker Room Hat and Tee Available Wednesday Afternoon!

Fiesta Bowl Merchandise
New Styles Arriving All Week!
520 McCall Road • kstategear.com • 785-537-0844
Mon-Fri 8:30 a.m.-7 p.m. • Sat 9 a.m.-7 p.m. • Sun 12 p.m.-5 p.m.

Showings Available by appointment
OneBedroomApartments
814 Leavenworth $370
$345-$385 1022-1026 Sunset
1950-1960 Hunting $440-$460
$440-$460 1212 Thurston
1837 College Heights $385
TwoBedroomApartments
$700 1825 College Heights Tri-Level
1829 College Heights $650 2 story
Call 537-7701 DIAMOND REAL ESTATE PROPERTY MANAGEMENT

POWER to choose...
Need a Job?
Many employment opportunities available in the Manhattan and Junction City area!
...your own path.
MANPOWER
776-1094
www.manpower.com
555 Poyntz, Suite 245 Manhattan

KANSAS STATE BASKETBALL
It's Game Time!
K-STATE vs. Creighton
Sun. Dec. 14, 2 p.m.
Bramlage Coliseum
FOR TICKET INFORMATION CALL 1-800-221-CATS
OR VISIT WWW.K-STATESPORTS.COM
Bring your camera and take your picture with Willie Santa!

TO THE POINT

Be safe on your way to Tempe

Thousands of K-State fans will be traveling to watch the football team compete in the Fiesta Bowl in Tempe, Ariz., in January.

Many of these travelers will drive, which means there will be more cars on the road.

It is important to remember to drive safely.

It might be tempting to speed to make it to Arizona or back home quickly, but speeding can increase the likelihood of a wreck. Keep in mind, safety is more important than speed.

Also, make sure the driver and all passengers are wearing seat belts. It can save lives, and it also is the law in many states.

Remember also to obey other traffic laws and to not drive recklessly. Be courteous to other drivers and pay attention to weather conditions, as well.

It also is important to make sure the vehicle is ready for a long journey. Make sure the oil is changed, windshield wipers work properly, tires are full of air and have proper tread and all fluids are filled. Have a mechanic inspect the vehicle.

If a driver has been drinking alcohol or is tired, make sure another passenger is available to drive. If not, don't drive. Rest until driving safely is an option.

It is important that all fans make it back to K-State safely.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Paul Restivo
Katie Lane
James Hurla
Abbie Whited
Edie Hall
Andrew Lawson
Dave Skretta
Rachel Krier
Corbin H. Crable
Chris Harrop

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@spub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Paul Restivo | EDITOR IN CHIEF Katie Lane | MANAGING EDITOR

James Hurla NEWS EDITOR
Kelly Glasscock PHOTO EDITOR
Corbin H. Crable COPY CHIEF
Dave Skretta SPORTS EDITOR
Rachel Krier THE EDGE EDITOR
Chris Harrop ONLINE EDITOR
Abbie Whited CITY/GOV EDITOR
Andrew Lawson OPINION EDITOR
Jared Jaynes AD MANAGER
Edie Hall CAMPUS EDITOR
Dana Strongin WRITING COACH
Jenny Calvert ASST. AD MANAGER

CAMPUS FOURUM

395-4444

I finally figured out why they call it dead week. It's because you want to shoot yourself with all the work you have to do.

Congratulations to the Classy Cats for being ranked fourth out of all the college dance teams in the country. Way to go, girls.

All I want for Christmas is a naked Wes Marfield.

Yeah, I just heard that certain members of SGA get to go to the Fiesta Bowl for free. If that's true, that sucks.

Good luck to KSU. KU played in the Orange Bowl the last time they had a bowl game in Florida.

Enjoy the Fiesta Bowl, and remember to jump off the bandwagon when KU comes to Bramlage to build on perfection.

K-State can enjoy their Big 12 football championship, while KU gets ready for their NCAA basketball championship.

I want Darren Sproles. Is he single?

You'll have time to sober up after college.

Have yourself a very subtle Christmas.

You can't spell "ouch" without OU.

Live fast, die young and leave a big, fat corpse behind.

Not even the OU football team can stop the Kansas State Marching Band.

In honor of the Fiesta Bowl: La cucaracha! La cucaracha! Zapatos are on my feet!

Not enough Fourum? Visit www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

A wish list

'Tis the season of giving, Santa, so don't be stingy with the loot

GRANT REICHERT

Before I move on to my Christmas list below, let me just say I am sick of the materialism and commercialism pervading our culture. I speak specifically of me-me-me gimme-what-I-want aspect of Christmas.

We need to hark back to simpler times. As Bart Simpson implored on a "Simpsons" Christmas special, we need to remember the true meaning of Christmas – the birth of Santa Claus.

When even Christmas music has been tainted by companies trying to make a quick buck – "Don we now our gay apparel" is an obvious plug for Abercrombie and Fitch – it is time to take back Christmas.

Join me in this revolution and send all of your expensive and entertaining gifts to me for immediate disposal. Anything pink, scented or featuring one or more Magic Ponies will not be accepted.

Anyway, now that I am done single-handedly saving Christmas from the Grinches of materialism and greed – I smell a Christmas special coming on – here is my Christmas list. Please note: this is an abbreviated copy. The original, annotated 475-page version is available only in .pdf format.

Dear Santa,

First, let me begin my wish list with some feeble attempts to gain your favor.

I don't think you're fat – I'm truly envious of your rosy jowls and beer gut full of jelly. If there is one person I want sneaking into my house in the dead of night, it definitely is you – despite the snares, cameras and punji traps I set up last year. This year, the cookies are virtually toxin-free.

Most flatteringly of all, you are my favorite fictional character and my first choice for co-strandee on a desert island, although I admit cannibalism is a factor here.

Now that I've got you buttered up – sorry about the disturbing pun – here is what I want:

1. Peace on Earth, or, failing that, a shotgun, some riot gear and a gas mask.
2. Another elf, preferably one with a better constitution than last year's – I used him to soak up a coffee spill and he was burned pretty badly.
3. One of those tasty, lean reindeer. Strictly for riding purposes.
4. A set of steak knives. Should be able to pierce reindeer hide and easily slice red noses.
5. For the following obnoxious people to please remove their persons from the premises of my television immediately (Listed in alphabetical order): Kutcher, Ashton.
6. For us to win the Fiesta Bowl. As a true-blue, purple-bleeding fair-weather fan, I can say with 100-percent certainty that "a win would be kinda nice."
7. A lifetime supply of EZ Cheez. Lean back, start gorging and let your mind expand.
8. Some cheap Chinese labor. Writing is tough, and my columns probably would make more sense in Chinese anyway, except for in the Southern dialects, because you can't understand what those inbred hicks are saying.

Illustrations by Kent Holle | COLLEGIAN

I'll stop here. The rest of the items on the list are just more pointless requests framed in the manner of asinine jokes.

Hmm, that should do nicely. I'd better put an end to this article, because I've got better excuses to not study for finals than writing a meandering column. Finals will be quick, easy and painless – you know, just like dying from cyanide poisoning.

So, everyone, have a merry Christmas, a joyous Ramadan or a happy, Channuk ... Hannuk ... er ... Jewish Christmas.

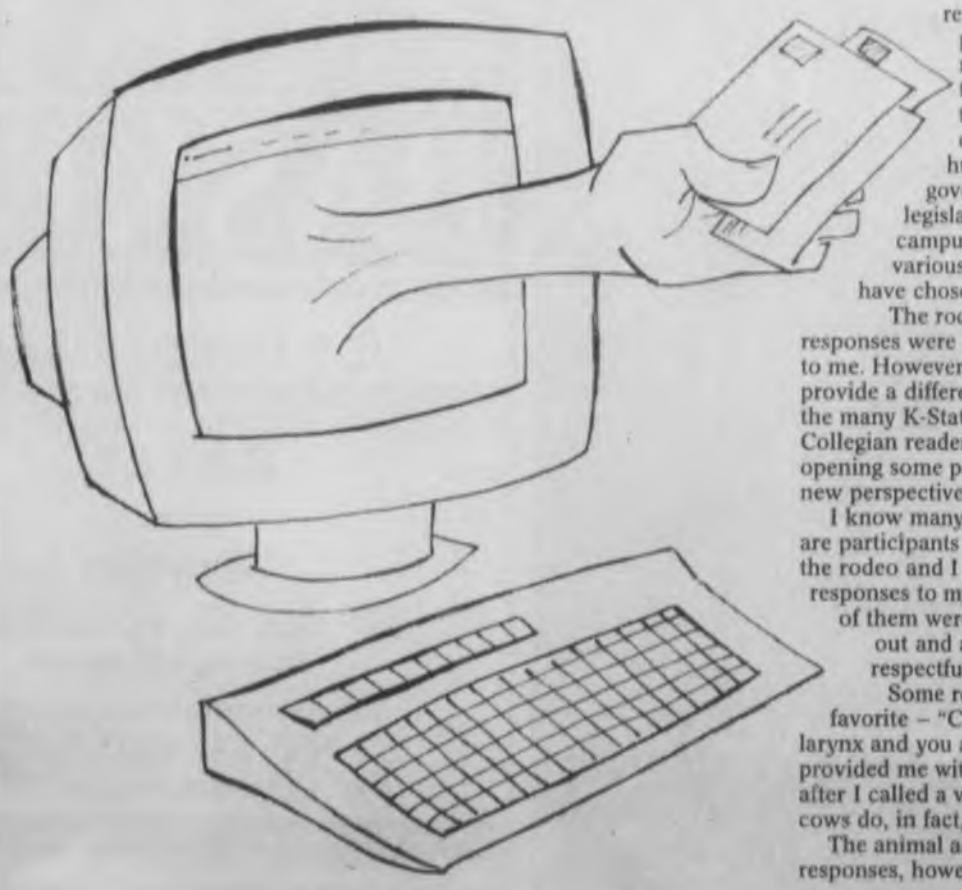
Grant Reichert is currently petitioning to lower the drinking age to whatever you are. If you agree, e-mail him at restivo@k-state.edu with "Raise Grant's Salary" as the subject. Or, support the petition by e-mailing me PIN numbers at grantreich@hotmail.com. Ask yourself: can you afford to not donate?

Columnist reflects on semester's controversy

LINDSEY PRAECHTER

I have written about some heavy topics in the last two semesters and received more than 70 e-mail responses from Collegian readers.

In order for readers to have a better understanding of their peer group, I am going to expose you to the issues about which I have received the most e-mail responses. These issues are the ones readers found controversial enough to provoke 20 or more e-mail responses about.



These responses came from both K-State students and alumni along with local and national readers, who found my articles worth responding to.

Two of my columns this year have struck a chord with more readers than any of the others.

These topics were more controversial to Collegian readers than my columns criticizing the pope for his stance on condom use, promoting the need for mandatory insurance coverage of contraceptives and even my claim that Lawrence is a superior city to Manhattan.

Are you ready?

Here they are – animal adoption rather than purchase and rodeo as a form of animal abuse.

Collegian readers have provided more e-mail responses for these two topics than anything concerning human health, government and legislative policy, campus issues and the various other topics I have chosen to write about.

The rodeo column responses were not a big surprise to me. However, I chose to provide a different viewpoint to the many K-Staters and other Collegian readers with hopes of opening some people's eyes to a new perspective.

I know many K-State students are participants or supporters of the rodeo and I appreciated the responses to my column. Many of them were well thought out and argued respectfully.

Some responses, like my favorite – "Cows don't have a larynx and you are stupid" – provided me with a good laugh, after I called a vet to verify that cows do, in fact, have a larynx.

The animal adoption story responses, however, flooded my inbox as a complete surprise.

There were breeders from all over Kansas e-mailing me, and by the last e-mail, I realized we all are arguing the same thing. We are all concerned about animal welfare and wish the best life for all of them.

Arguing this issue is pointless when positive energy can be put toward the animals that are suffering all over the planet, but the many rescuers who e-mailed me deserve much respect, whether they practice breeding or not.

The next biggest issue, according to reader response, was concerning my Confederate flag column. I didn't receive nearly as many e-mails as I did for the previous two topics, but they were just as passionate and spanned many southern states, along with local responses.

These are the issues the readers of the Collegian find most important. Animals are the highest on the list of concerns among readers, despite the many political, legal and local issues I have written about.

If your vote wasn't counted, make sure to respond to future columns and make your opinion known. Also, guest columns provide a voice to non-Collegian writers for topics lacking in coverage.

This has been a great learning experience for me as the "opinionated, naïve, college liberal." Thanks for two great semesters and keep up the controversy, Collegian.

Lindsey is entering into a partnership with Martha Stewart. You can e-mail her before the trial at lrp6666@k-state.edu.

TO THE EDITOR

University Experience should be required for all incoming students

Editor,

Just the other day, I was looking at a quote on one of my pub crawl shirts that says, "In order to be old and wise, you must first be young and stupid." After some serious thought, I don't believe this needs to be the case. However, with me, it was.

I came to K-State as a dumb freshman. My train of thought was that I didn't need to go to my sociology class, and who cares if I get involved in an activity on campus? At that point in my life, I thought all I needed to succeed in college was semi-good looks and a cell phone. Boy, was I wrong.

By the time my junior year came around, my grades sucked, I gained 15 pounds and I wasn't involved in any campus activities, so my cell phone would never ring. Now, as a senior, I look back and think, "If only I knew then what I know now."

It took me three years to actually go out and experience all that K-State has to offer. Fortunately, K-State students do not have to go through what I went through, for what took me three years actually takes many students one semester.

University Experience (EDCEP 111) combines academic skills and studying strategy with a great orientation to the university. Although many colleges offer new student orientations directly related to their discipline, none are transferable and effective as that of University Experience.

I believe EDCEP 111 should be required for all new students, as a part of the general education program. For then, K-State wouldn't be flooded with naive students like myself, who now, only as a senior, wish I knew then what I have learned now.

Abby Graverson
SENIOR IN MARKETING

Eyes wide shut: Grownups, sex and violence

Editor,

On our campus 14 days ago, a woman – your classmate, someone's girlfriend, someone's daughter – was assaulted, confined and physically injured.

She suffered a great trauma against which the more beastly out there among you might have pledged violent revenge had it happened to your mother or sister, your niece or your wife.

For some reason, the crime was paired with another crime, one of lewd and lascivious behavior, and reported as a case of "flashing," a word use in TV sitcoms to provoke laughter and a sense of wretched harmlessness.

In fact, the FBI reports that rapists frequently begin their criminal careers by committing such lesser crimes. What happened to our student was not flashing – it was a crime of violence.

My vocation here at K-State is as advocate for victims of sexual violence. Students are committing the crime of rape on this campus, just as they are on every campus in the country.

Students right here at K-State are asking women to come to their apartments to watch a movie, to study, to have a drink – and then overpowering, coercing or drugging them and violating them. There is a guy who you sat next to in class who has GHB or Rohypnol at his apartment and he is waiting to target someone.

By the way, I was a student at K-State in the 1970s and 1980s. Now, two years later, I would like to tell you all, male and female, are at risk of deception and violence.

It is unfair and it isn't how college should be, how life should be, but until our culture truly rejects the joking, winking, covering up and turning away from sexual violence, it will only get worse.

Here's the thing – you are the culture. All students, males particularly, must transform the subculture to one where it is too uncomfortable and consequential for men to act in primitive, selfish and brutish ways.

Do you want to be known as men of integrity and strength, of excellence and admiration, or will you allow a disgraceful, loutish, iniquitous group of criminals to set the tone in your houses, at your parties, on your campus?

You are the culture. Join the Campaign for Nonviolence student group. Report crimes of violence. Request a presentation about sexual assault for your group, class or house. Speak up and warn and protect one another. Enroll in the PEERS course.

Think about and make public what you need and want from the Collegian, the K-State police and SGA, and take advantage of a concerned administration that is ready to help you. Come to the Women's Center for information and assistance.

It is up to you to create the scene. These are your college years. Be part of something. Social justice? Peace? Grace? You students have the power to give K-State a reputation as an open, socially just, unafraid, enlightened campus.

Let me know what you want to do about it.

Mary Todd
ASSISTANT DIRECTOR AND ADVOCATE FOR VICTIMS OF SEXUAL ASSAULT
WOMEN'S CENTER, 206 HOLTON HALL

GIVE US YOUR OPINION.
CAMPUS FORUM: 395-4444

FROM THE EDITOR

Being in charge can wreak its havoc

PAUL RESTIVO

I don't have a lot of friends.

That's something I came to realize this week when I was looking back on how things have gone this semester as editor of the Collegian.

Anyone who has been in a leadership position hopefully can relate to my experiences.

In my previous five semesters on staff, I was the staff goofball – the one who could care less whether Pat Bosco was mislabeled as Osama bin Laden. The one who spent most of the day at work sexually harassing copy editors.

Then I was elected editor.

I dropped much of the play, and I picked up a lot of the business. My thoughts of the Collegian the last two years?

Not a good paper.

My job was to start from scratch. I reorganized many policies and created a work atmosphere that focused more on creating the most important story for our audience rather than the easiest story for our editors to produce.

Writers and editors were critiqued daily. Stories were cut because they were not up to our new standards. People were dismissed. Editors were evaluated, re-evaluated and re-evaluated.

It was the ninth week that I finally told the staff members I was proud of them. By that time, I had lost many of them.

The Collegian's attitude had changed. Lazy standards and nonsensical traditions were replaced with renewed creativity and rigorous accountability.

It became better.

But at what cost? I was speaking with the incoming spring editor earlier this week, and I asked her:

"What is more important? My friends or the paper?"

It was a hard question to answer. I tried analyzing it, but came to realize that it's a combination of both.

Yet our readers could care less if I am maintaining good relations with my editors. They don't care if I work upwards of 60 hours a week laboring over a newspaper I think is the country's leading collegiate newspaper despite readers' complaints that it's garbage.

They care about content and what affects them.

So that's what I focused on this semester.

We looked at tuition, the often-scrutinized prices of textbooks, the proposed campus hotel, marriage proclamations, the deaths of our local Fort Riley soldiers, among many others.

Our staff worked hard this semester. There were 93 K-State students working on the 77 editions of the fall Collegian.

I am proud of us.

Now I have to give it up to a new staff. And that's hard.

But as a leader, I know that I cannot look at the fame I sought deep down, or how I lost some of my closest friends this semester because I pushed them to work at a level they were not used to.

No, I am smarter than that.

My advice to those of you in leadership positions or to those who will be:

Always laugh.

I came to realize that if I was in a bad mood, everyone was in a bad mood. If I didn't like a story in the paper, it really affected that writer and her editor.

Giving a compliment every now and then is actually pretty fun. People liked me after that.

Tip number two: don't ever use e-mail as a medium for evaluating staff members. Many tears will ensue.

Bottom line: it was a blast, but I need to go. I miss being lazy. I miss eating at home.

Most of all: I miss not being a victim of the sexual harassment policy.

Paul is a senior in secondary education. You can e-mail him at restivo@k-state.edu.

Quite possibly the perfect gift.
(It's even easy to wrap.)

Visa Gift Cards

Looking for the perfect gift? You can't miss with Visa® Gift Cards – they can be used virtually anywhere! They're more personal than checks, cash or store cards, and you can choose from a selection of designs. Designate any gift amount you want!

Ideal for all gift occasions:
- Holidays
- Birthdays
- Weddings
- Graduations
- Employee incentives
- Special thank-you gifts

Give a Gift Card!
intrustgiftcard.com
800-222-7458

INTRUST Bank is also the exclusive provider of K-State Platinum Visa Credit Cards and Check Cards.

yes you can INTRUST Bank

SELL YOUR TEXTBOOKS FOR CASH

In the TEXTBOOK DEPARTMENT at Varney's Book Store

- You don't need your receipt to sell your books!
- It doesn't matter where the books were purchased!
- Please bring your current photo ID to sell your books

TODAY!

Buyback Hours:

Wed Dec 10 - Sat Dec 13
9:00am - 9:00pm
Sunday Dec 14
11:00am - 7:00pm
Mon Dec 15 - Fri Dec 19
9:00am - 9:00pm
539-0511

www.shopvarneys.com

Thank you, Wildcats

Team gives fan the ultimate gift of happiness

JOEL REICHENBERGER

I didn't throw a pass, lay a block or make a tackle.

I didn't challenge on the scout team, hold a tackling dummy or even fetch a cup of water.

But Saturday's football game was the best of my life.

I didn't play, but watching the Cats utterly dominate on the field left me with an amazing sense of accomplishment and pride.

On Saturday, after the Cats dismantled the "best" team in the nation, amidst the hoopla and celebration, I walked to the middle of Arrowhead Stadium.

As I looked around, there was plenty to stir my emotions.

Ell Roberson held the Big 12 Championship trophy high for everyone to see.

Congratulations, Ell. You took more crap from critics than any quarterback in modern K-State history, and now you have accomplished more than any as well. You're the greatest QB to ever don the purple.

My parents came to the game. Afterward, I saw my dad and my brother smashed amongst the masses of purple screaming as they had never screamed before. I've never seen my dad so happy. He's waited a hell of a long time to see the Wildcats conference champions.

I saw 300-hundred pound men running, skipping, screaming and laughing like 10-year old girls. Way to go, guys. The hot days in practice and one-day-at-a-time approach that Snyder preaches paid off.

I want to say thank you to the football team and its staff. You made your last two Saturdays two of the greatest days of my life. I never played, and I never practiced, but I suffered when you lost, and now I rejoice when you win.

Thank you, Antoine Polite, James Terry and Brian Casey. You caught the passes that helped kill the Sooners.

Thank you to Darren Sproles. You won't win the Heisman and may not win the Doak Walker Award, but everyone that has seen you play knows that is a crime.

Thank you to Jerad Cowan. Until I talked to you I don't know if I truly believed. You were right. The Sooners were fallible.

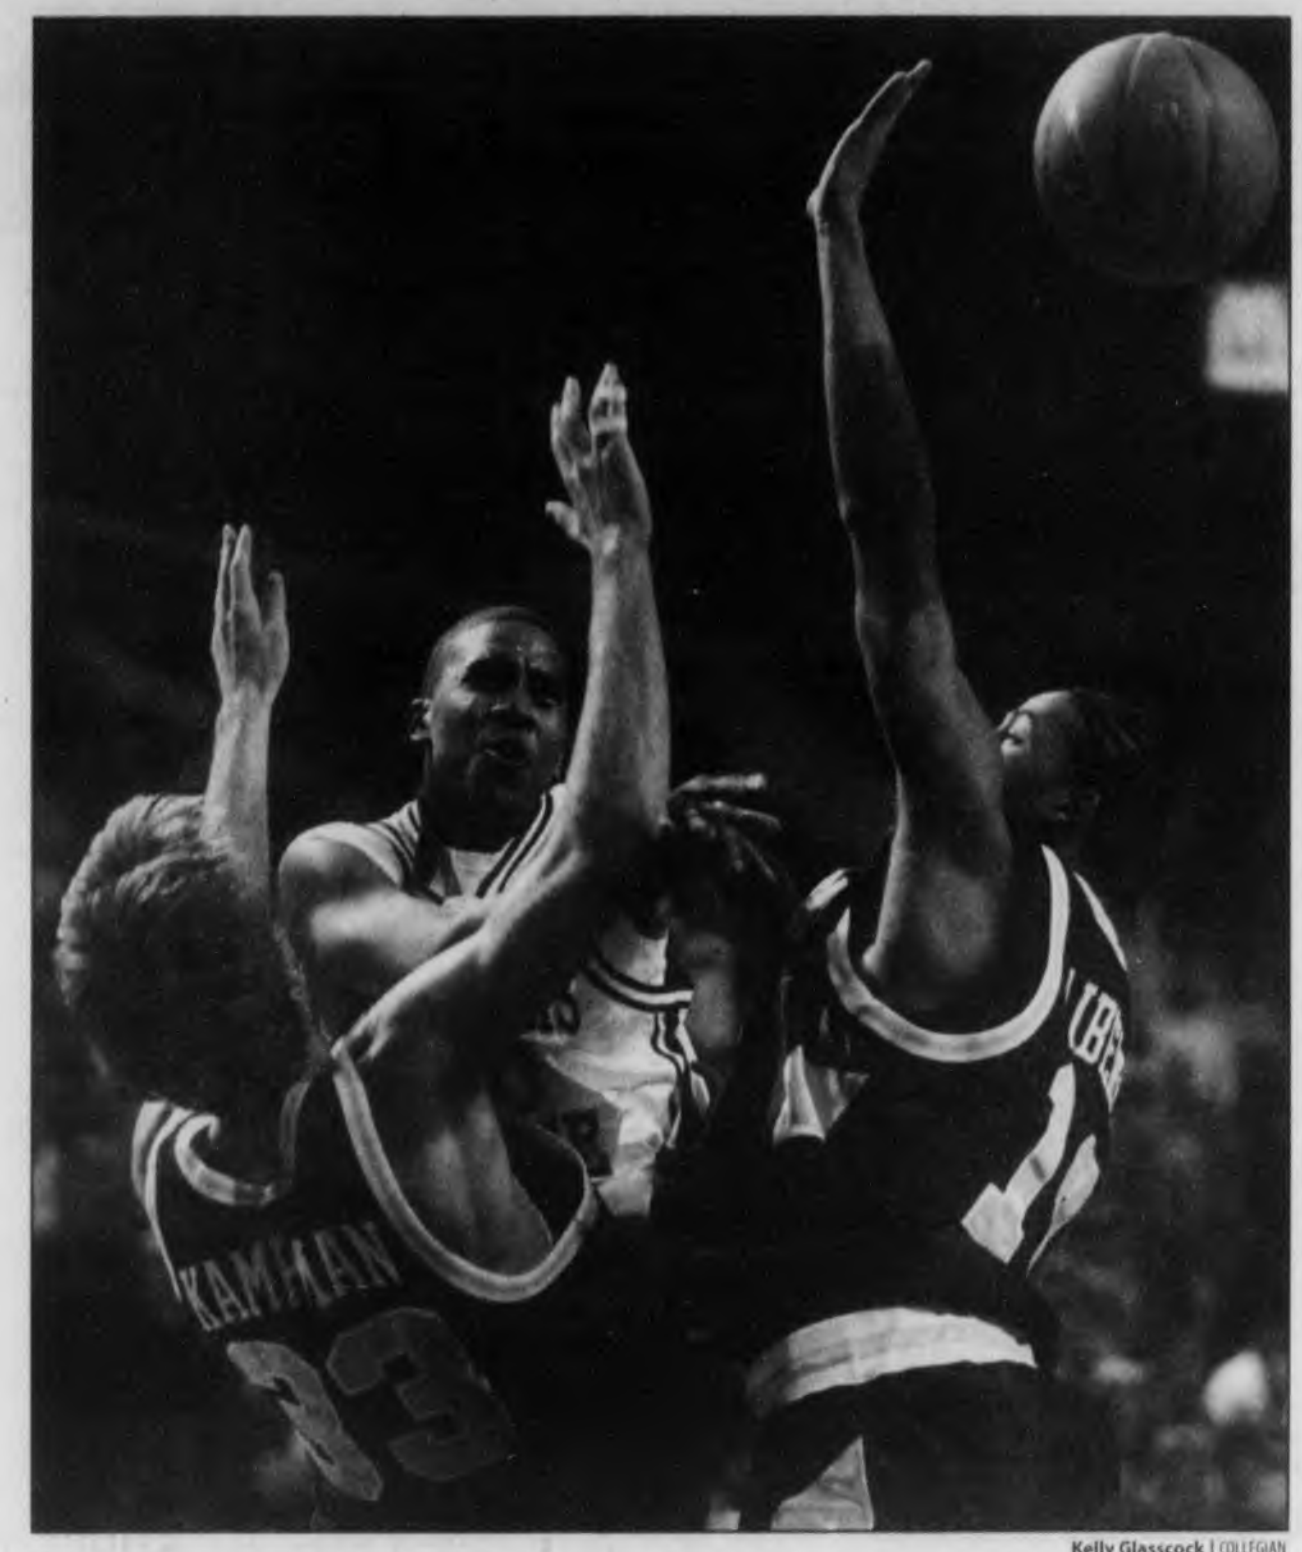
Thank you to the fans who ringed the field, those who wept and those who cheered. You waited a long time for this, and it is clear it was a very special moment for all.

Thank you to Bill Snyder. You may never show it, but I know this meant a lot to you. All that you've been through, all the years, all the criticism, all the naysayers and haters – it has to be great to set that trophy inside your office.

And thanks to my parents for making me into the fanatic that I am.

I won't compete again on Jan. 2, 2004. I'll be sitting in the press box watching my Cats and doing my best to hold my cheering to a dull roar.

Every moment I'm there, coupled with every moment I'm here and every moment afterward, I'll be proud of this team.



I never played. But the way you did, the way you competed and the way you won led to one of the greatest experiences of my life.

I haven't stopped smiling since the start of the second quarter on Saturday.

I know I speak for the thousands of fans in Kansas City, for all those in Manhattan and everyone who will "see you at the Fiesta Bowl" – for my friends, my fellow students and my parents, I say, "Thank you."

Joel is a senior in journalism and history. You can e-mail him at pilotksu@hotmail.com.

One for the road

Kelly Glasscock | COLLEGIAN

K-State's Dez Willingham runs into Rob Kampman and Adam Liberty as he shoots the ball during the first half of Wednesday's game at Bramlage Coliseum.

Wildcats secure nail-biting victory against Wichita State

By Joel Reichenberger
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State had plenty of chances to seal Wednesday night's 53-50 victory against Wichita State.

But as senior Tim Ellis stood at the free-throw line with 2.8 seconds remaining, the Cats had yet to step up.

With one minute to go and a three-point lead, Ellis passed the ball in, only to watch Wichita's Adam Liberty steal it and drive for an uncontested lay up.

Then, after Marques Hayden made a shot to make the lead three again, he missed the free-throw with 30.9 seconds.

Another foul on Hayden and he missed two more with just 16 seconds remaining.

But after WSU missed two three-pointers inside the 10 second mark, Ellis drew a foul and drained his eighth point of the night, at last sealing the K-State win.

K-State started the game the way it finished – unable to seize opportunities. Wichita State jumped out to a 3-0 on a Fridge Holman three-pointer and K-State could never steal the momentum back.

The Shockers led by as many as eight with 10:03 remaining before K-State drew it to within two with nine minutes remaining.

Wichita again extended the lead though going into the half with a five point 24-19 lead.

The Shockers were cheered on by a large contingent of Wichita State fans who filled one end of Bramlage.

"Everyone was such a competitor. We knew we had to come out and bring more intensity in the second half," Hart said. "We did."

Wichita State opened the second half the way they finished, extending their lead. They kept a 21-31 lead before K-State began to fight back. But once the Cats turned it on, they made short work of the Shockers.

"In the locker room, we said we have to come out and play harder," Ellis said. "We just wanted to pick up our intensity and play hard.

Massey leads Cats to 54-50 win

By Louie Novak
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The K-State men's basketball team slipped past Wichita State on Wednesday night 54-50 thanks to the play of junior forward Jeremiah Massey.

Massey had his second straight double-double for the Wildcats by scoring 23 points and hauling down 11 rebounds.

K-State struggled on the offensive end all night. In the first half the Wildcats shot a dismal 26.7% from the field, and was 0-7 from behind the arch. In that half, Massey kept his team in the ball game by contributing eight points from 4-6 shooting in just nine minutes because of foul trouble.

The Wildcat offense came out refocused and re energized in the second half. K-State shot 42.9% and was 2-9 from three-point land. Massey refused to allow his team to drop its second straight loss, and exploded with 15 points and nine rebounds.

After the game, K-State coach Jim Wooldridge said Massey contributed just enough offense for his team to win.

"He was the difference maker for us," Wooldridge said. "He put the ball in the basket and grabbed some rebounds. He found a way to score and help us win the game."

Volleyball team keeps title hopes alive in Sweet 16

By Wes Marfield
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State lived by the same motto all season – there's no place like home.

The Cats were perfect 16-0 in Ahearn Field House this season, including wins in the first two rounds of the NCAA Tournament.

It was the first time in school history K-State posted a perfect record at home.

But when Friday night rolls around, they won't be in Kansas anymore.

Facing 10th-ranked Penn State in their NCAA regional semifinal, the Cats will travel to Gainesville, Fla., for a 6 p.m. matchup in the O'Connell Center.

The winner of Friday's contest will face the winner of the matchup between 12th-ranked Colorado and host Florida, the tournament's third-ranked team.

Throughout the tournament, Coach Suzie Fritz knew her squad would meet up with better opponents the further they got.

"That's the tournament," Fritz said. "Progressively, you face a more difficult challenge, but that's what makes it so great. One of the things I love about this team has been their ability to handle pressure."

However, the fact remains K-State will have to travel away from the comforts of home.

With that comes the loss of its loyal fan support, something Lisa Martin said was motivating them through the tournament.

"They're just as part of the team as us," Martin said of the fans in the tournament's opening rounds. "We couldn't do it without them. We love that they're always here, we love their support and the atmosphere. They bring a lot to us and we wanted to do it for them."

The last time K-State advanced to the Sweet 16 was the 2000 season, when Fritz was an assistant to coach Jim McLaughlin. That was as far as the Cats made it before suffering a 3-1 loss to then fourth-ranked Wisconsin.

But this is a different team, and Fritz said that its expectations have been high since the get-go.

"We've always gone into the NCAA Tournament with intentions to get as far as we possibly can in the postseason," Fritz said. "This team has had very high expectations from the very, very beginning. This is right where we planned on being in August. Maybe this is right where we planned on being in December of last year."

The majority of those expectations has fallen onto the shoulders of her seniors.

Led by Big 12 Player of the Year Lauren Goehring, the group that also includes Laura Downey-Wallace and Kris and Cari Jensen have been important to the team's success thus far, Martin said.

"They keep our composure and our character at a high level and keep our heads straight – keep us going where we want to go," Martin said. "And they're all tremendous players. We couldn't be here without any one of them."

1-MINUTE DRILL

Staff Reports

Volleyball | 3 Cats, Fritz earn All-Central Region

K-State's Lauren Goehring, Gabby Guerre and Laura Downey-Wallace were named to the 2003 AVCA All-Central Region volleyball team and head coach Suzie Fritz was named the region's Coach of the Year, the American Volleyball Coaches Association announced Wednesday. Goehring and Guerre were named to the first team while Downey-Wallace was named to the team.

Fritz

The three players on the All-Central Region team are the most in school history as Goehring and Downey-Wallace earned all-region honors last season and the All-Central Region Coach of the Year award is the first-ever won by a Wildcat head coach.

Football | Sproles not a Heisman finalist

Darren Sproles will not be a Heisman Trophy winner this season.

K-State's junior was not one of four finalists selected for the award, given annually to the nation's top college football player. Oklahoma quarterback Jason White, Pittsburgh receiver Larry Fitzgerald, Mississippi quarterback Eli Manning and Michigan running back Chris Perry will be at the Yale Club in New York for the presentation Saturday night.

Sproles

WBB | Cats travel to Iowa for Friday night game

The K-State women's basketball team takes on Iowa Friday night at 7 from Carver-Hawkeye Arena in Iowa City, Iowa. There is no television coverage but the game can be heard on the Mid America Radio Network.

The Wildcats (5-2) handed the Hawkeyes (5-2) one of their worst losses in school history, 103-60, last season in Manhattan.

Track and Field | Season-openers this weekend

The K-State indoor track and field teams open their seasons with a pair of home meets this weekend at Ahearn Field House. The Wildcats play host to the Carol Robinson Winter Pentathlon at 10 a.m. on Dec. 12, while the K-State All-Comers meet will start at 10 a.m. on Dec. 13.

The Carol Robinson Pentathlon is a multi-event, scored competition that will consist of athletes around the area. The K-State All-Comers meet consists of a number of track and field events and will not be a team-scored competition. Instead, athletes will have the opportunity to qualify for the NCAA Indoor Track and Field Championships.

The Associated Press

Boxing | King agrees to settlement

Boxing promoter Don King agreed to pay former champion Terry Norris $7.5 million on Wednesday, just as a jury was debating damages on the boxer's claim that King stole money from him, Norris' attorney said.

King

King agreed to pay $3 million by next week and the remainder within 15 months, said attorney Judd Burstein, who said the settlement in the 7-year case might encourage other fighters to sue the promoter.

CFB | AP tabs White college football Player of the Year

Oklahoma quarterback and Heisman Trophy finalist Jason White was named the Associated Press college football Player of the Year Wednesday.

White received 27 votes while K-State running back Darren Sproles received three votes to finish tied for third with Mississippi quarterback Eli Manning. Pittsburgh receiver Larry Fitzgerald was second with 19 votes. Michigan's Chris Perry had two votes, USC quarterback Matt Leinart had one vote and USC receiver Mike Williams also received one vote.

Hanging around

C.Lee Hanewinckel | COLLEGIAN

Mr. Tiddels Winks P. Spankmier hangs out waiting for his sweet Ms Spankmeir to get back from shopping at the mall.

Post-Sept. 11 terror case unravelling

By John Solomon
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON, D.C. – The Bush administration's first major post-Sept. 11 prosecution, which broke up an al-Qaeda cell in Detroit, is in danger of unraveling after the Justice Department divulged it had failed to turn over evidence that might have helped the defense.

The evidence includes a letter from an imprisoned drug gang leader who alleges the government's key witness confided he made up some of his story.

The December 2001 letter, which could have been used by defense lawyers to challenge the prosecution witness during the trial this spring, wasn't turned over until a couple of weeks ago.

The defendants are now asking that their convictions be overturned, and the judge has scheduled an emergency hearing Friday to demand an explanation from the government.

"It has come to the attention of the court that the government has recently provided defendants with certain material that was not provided to defendants either prior to or during trial of this matter," U.S. District Judge Gerald Rosen said in ordering the hearing.

Senior law enforcement officials told The Associated Press on Wednesday the Justice Department is concerned how the judge will rule and will acknowledge that its prosecutors erred.

Under the Supreme Court's Brady v. Maryland ruling, prosecutors are obligated to turn over all evidence that can be used to impeach the testimony of prosecution witnesses or to prove innocence.

The Justice Department will argue, however, that the jailhouse allegation that prosecution witness Youssef Hmimssa lied is not supported by the facts and that the convictions should be upheld, the officials said. The two prosecutors who handled the trial have been replaced.

The dramatic turnabout in a case that was one of the administration's early successes in the war on terror is further complicated by discussions between Congress and the Justice Department over whether the lead trial prosecutor is entitled to whistleblower protection.

Officials said Assistant U.S. Attorney Richard Convertino has raised concerns the department was retaliating against him for complying with a subpoena and providing testimony to Congress from himself and Hmimssa on how easy it is for terrorists to obtain false identification.

Kansas passionate for all things purple

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WICHITA – Retailers say purple merchandise has been disappearing from store shelves since K-State won the Big 12 title over then-No. 1 Oklahoma and fans learned the Wildcats will play in the school's first ever Bowl Championship Series game.

"There's a fever for anything purple," said Brent Welch, owner of Gameday Sports in Wichita.

Diana Ward, co-owner of Sports Time Fan Shop in Wichita, said she has never seen such a demand for K-State merchandise.

The store has sold more than 300 Big 12 championship shirts since the first shipments arrived late Sunday afternoon, Ward said. One hour after Big 12 championship hats arrived Tuesday morning, the store had sold 36.

In Manhattan, fans have flocked to Varney's Book Store in person and via phone and e-mail. The store has sold more than 3,000 Big 12 championship items, said co-owner Jeff Levin. That doesn't include regular K-State merchandise, which is also selling very well.

"It's been pandemonium," Levin said. "This has really struck the hearts of K-State fans all over the country. We're staying up late and waking up early to make sure fans have what they need."

Many fans are buying gear to wear when they travel to Tempe, Ariz., to watch Kansas State play Ohio State in the Fiesta Bowl.

K-State already has sold more than 16,000 of their allotted 18,000 tickets for the game.

Jeff Arensdorf, a Kansas State alum and co-owner of Village Tours & Travel of Wichita, said he has booked about 100 people so far for the four-day trip to the Fiesta Bowl.

He expects at least 50 more for the round-trip motor coach excursion.

"The interest is more than I anticipated," he said. "It's a warm place to go. It's a big-time bowl game."

Genes of cats, dogs tell more about humans

By Tina Hesman
ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

ST. LOUIS, M.O. – Shadow the poodle, Tasha the boxer and a host of other dogs and cats could help improve human medicine, teach people more about evolution, and help us take care of our furry companions.

The canines and felines are guiding research into epilepsy, diabetes, heart disease and other complex diseases.

While mice are still doing their part, dogs and cats will give scientists an even better understanding of human genetics and could tell us more about human disease, experts say.

Earlier this year, researchers completed the Human Genome Project, which gave them a set of instructions for mapping out genes and other pieces of DNA that build a human body. But they still need help deciphering that information.

That's where the dogs and cats come in. A rough draft of the mouse genome has helped scientists recognize genes and the elements that regulate genes. But researchers hope that comparing human DNA to that of several species of animals will help them learn more about how genes contribute to disease.

A menagerie already is on the list of organisms scientists hope to sequence: chimpanzees, chickens, opossums, flat worms and round worms, sea urchins and sea squirts, pufferfish, cows, pigs, rats, honeybees and fruit flies, rhesus monkeys, various single-celled organisms and perhaps even elephants, platypuses and armadillos.

Dogs deserve to be at the head of the list if for no other reason than gratitude for their love and loyalty, said Gregory A. Petsko, a biologist at Brandeis University in Waltham, Mass.

PIZZA SHUTTLE DELIVERS
1800 Claflin Road
776-5577
We Deliver During Lunch!
VISA

spectacular
general book sale
$1 Paperbacks
$2 Hardbacks
$15 All-you-can-carry
*Only for books marked with black dot.
dec★rative
wall calendars
25% off
all general reading bo★ks
10% off
*Excludes books marked with black dot.
art portf★lios
15% off
*check out our ksu apparel and souvenir markdowns
Varney's Book Store
AGGIEVILLE

Religion Directory

FIRST LUTHERAN
10th Poyntz 537-8532
Worship
Sat. 5:30 p.m., Sun. 8:30 & 11 a.m.
Sunday School all ages 9:40 a.m.

MANHATTAN MENNONITE CHURCH
Sunday School 9:30, Worship 10:45
1000 Fremont • Manhattan
(785) 539-4079

St. Mary Magdalene Orthodox Christian Mission
Divine Liturgy Sat. 9:30 AM
E.C.M. Building
1021 Denison Ave.

Episcopal
Church at K-State
5:00 p.m. Sunday
Danforth Chapel
Holy Communion
Fr. Matthew Cobb : 532-9099

ADVERTISE YOUR CHURCH HERE
Call 532-6560

Lutheran Campus Ministry
Tuesday Supper, 6 p.m.
at Luther House 1745 Anderson
Sunday Evening Worship
7 p.m., Danforth Chapel
www.ksu.edu/lcm-elca
Pastor Jayne Thompson
(pastorj@ksu.edu) 539-4451
— Open to All —

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH
(DISCIPLES OF CHRIST)
9:00 a.m. Sunday School
10:15 a.m. Worship Service
11:30 a.m. Radio Broadcast 95.3 FM
College Bible Study Mondays 9 p.m.
Neil Engle, Pastor, 776-8790
5th and Humboldt-Courthouse Square
David A. Jones, Campus Minister
ECM 1021 Denison, 539-4281

St. Luke's Lutheran Church
330 Sunset Avenue
Saturday-
Traditional Worship 6:00 p.m.
Sunday-
Traditional Worship 8:30 a.m.
College Bible Study 9:45 a.m.
Contemporary Worship 11:00 a.m.
Campus Pastor - Eric Wood
Email: campusmn@flinthills.com
(785) 539-2604

Peace Lutheran Church
Worship Sundays
8:30 and 11:00
Sunday School and
Adult forum 9:45
Contemporary
Service 7:00 p.m.
Pastor Michael Ide
peace-lutheran@sbcglobal.net
With Christ . . . Gather . . .
Grow and Go Forth!

Unitarian-Universalist Fellowship of Manhattan
481 Zeandale Road. (South on K-177 across viaduct, left on K-18 1/2 mile)
Program each Sunday at 10:45 a.m. Religious education classes for youth.
Day care for toddlers.
The Rev. David Grimm
For information call (785) 537-2349
www.flinthills.com/~ufellow/

Faith Evangelical Free Church
• Worship at 8:00, 10:30, 12:00
• Sunday School at 9:15
• College Class at 9:15
Steve Ratliff, Senior Pastor
Brian Anderson, Assoc. Pastor
1921 Barnes Rd
1.6 Miles North of Kimball
776-2086

Christian Science Society
Sunday 10:30 a.m.
Danforth Chapel
KSU Campus
Wed. 7:30 in Reading Room
Reading Room open Tues.-Thurs. 11-1
105 N. 4th St.

St. Isidore's Catholic Student Center
MASS SCHEDULE
Tuesday-Thursday 10:00 p.m.
Friday 12:10 p.m.
Saturday 5 p.m.
Sunday 9:30 a.m., 11 a.m.
Sun. 4:30 p.m., 6 p.m.
Father Keith Weber, Chaplain
711 Denison 539-7496

Agape Family Church
121 S. 4th - Downtown
Sunday 9:30 a.m. School of the Bible
Sunday 10:30 a.m. Worship
Sunday 7:00 p.m. Evening Worship
Wednesday 7:30 p.m. Hour of Power
Youth & Children's Services
STERLING HUDGINS - PASTOR
Office: 121 S. 4th Suite 205
agapefamilychurch.org
We are in our new building!
Everyone is welcome.
(785) 539-3570

Christ Evangelical Lutheran Church LCMS
9 a.m. Sunday School
10:00 a.m. Fellowship
10:30 a.m. Divine Worship Service
KSU - ALL FAITHS CHAPEL

WESTVIEW COMMUNITY CHURCH
8:15, 9:30, 11:00AM & 6:00PM
College and Young Married Couples: Sunday School @ 9:30 & 11:00AM
Youth Ministry Opportunities
College Pastor: Ben Rotz
Senior Pastor: David Thompson
3001 Ft. Riley Blvd.
537-7173
www.westviewcommunity.com

First Presbyterian Church
Students Welcome!
• Sunday Worship at •
9:15 & 10:30 a.m.
801 Leavenworth St.
537-0518

You are welcome at...
FIRST ASSEMBLY OF GOD
Sunday School.....9 AM
Sunday AM Worship.....10 AM
Sunday PM Worship.....6 PM
Wednesday Prayer Meeting...7 PM
Come to Chi Alpha, Wednesday nights at 8 PM in the KSU Student Union Little Theater for worship, the Word, and friends.
2310 CANDLEWOOD DR.
MANHATTAN, KS 66503
(785) 537-7633
WWW.MANHATTANAG.ORG

First Baptist Church
Sunday Worship 11 a.m.
Church School 9:45 a.m.
For free transportation within city limits, call the church.
Pastors Karen & Alan Selig
2121 Blue Hills Rd.
539-8691
An American Baptist Congregation

Grace Baptist Church
2901 Dickens - 2 blks. E. of of Seth Child
◆ Sunday ◆
Morning Worship
8:15 & 10:45 a.m.
Bible Classes For All Ages 9:30 a.m.
776-0424

CHANGE | Coming soon: a more relaxed Union, the demise of Denison

Continued from Page 1

This actually is the second Denison Hall. The first burned down in 1935, and the present hall was rebuilt in the 1950s.

He said that before the building is demolished, asbestos must be removed and there is a lot of work to be done on the underground infrastructure.

"The restoration of the grounds will come in the fall, but it is weather dependent. This will be named Coffman Commons after Provost James Coffman," Carter said.

He said there are privately funded projects that are to be started soon as well.

"These are fully funded and will be started soon. We are looking into another addition to the Galicia building. We are looking into a groundbreaking ceremony in April," Carter said.

K-STATE STUDENT UNION

Inside the K-State Student Union, the Union Governing Board is looking to renovate many aspects. Gayle Thober, senior food service coordinator for the Union, said there are many conceptual changes.

These changes include Starbucks coffee moving to Union Station, and moving the Call Hall ice cream, which now is located in Union Station, to where Starbucks is presently located. Campbell's Soup in Union Station will be moving to the Union Food Court, along with other new attractions that will be added to the Food Court.

With the move of Starbucks to Union Station will come a coffee-shop atmosphere, Thober said.

Couches, overstuffed chairs and computers will be installed and it will be given a new name. Outlets for laptops also will be installed.

"We want people to feel like this is their living room. They should come and hang out, and we hope this is where they can do it," Thober said.

The new attractions inside the Food Court include updating the salad bar, adding gourmet toppings and daily bread specials to Sandwich Central and weekly specials at Noble Roman's Pizza.

"Pizza is a staple of college life. It's always the same type, though. We will offer specials on different types of pizza that people would normally not order," Thober said.

She said the fate of Eddie Peppers is still undetermined. It is a good product, she said, but a different taste profile than most students at K-State like.

"Around South Dakota and other places to the north, the concept of Mexican food is different from here in Kansas. I think that is why so many people prefer Taco Bell. It is a difficult decision to make," Thober said.

Thober said the Union plans to make people very aware of the changes inside the building and will distribute coupons to generate traffic.

The Union will be closed from Dec. 24 to Jan. 4 for the renovations to take place.

The recreational area and the Subway will only be closed Dec. 25 and Jan. 1.

BOWL | Safety precautions will help everyone enjoy Fiesta Bowl

Continued from Page 1

"We're going to leave on the 30th and drive straight through so we can be there for New Year's Eve," Woodard said.

Woodard said the prices for the package tours could discourage students from purchasing them, because tickets are offered to students for $85, and buying a ticket here and driving will save money.

Scott Jones, assistant dean of student life, warns students to use caution when traveling to the bowl game.

"Probably our leading cause of student death is car accidents," Jones said.

"It always concerns me at break time when i know that all of our students are going to be on the road."

Two students, Diego Velasquez and Matthew Dunn, traveling home from Kansas City, Mo., after the Insight.com Bowl in Phoenix, Ariz., in January 2002, were involved in a car accident.

The accident caused Velasquez's death, but Dunn's injuries were not fatal.

Jones reminds students to use caution and to share the driving load, never driving when impaired, whether that impairment is by alcohol or drowsiness.

GUMBY'S Pizza

SUNDAY
NFL FOOTBALL ON ALL TV'S
$2 Killian's Pints
$2.25 Rolling Rock Bottles

MONDAY
Monday Night Football w/ NEW 54" widescreen
GOLDEN TEE TOURNEY 9 PM
$1 Old Style Pints
$2.50 Amaretto Sours
$2.25 Shiner Bottles

DAILY
$1.50 OLD STYLE PINTS
$2 HIGH LIFE BOTTLES

TUESDAY
$2 Boulevard Wheat Pints
$2.25 Red Stripe Bottles
$2.50 SoCo & Lime Shots
LIVE AT 10 PM } THE MATHEMATICS

WEDNESDAY
POOL TOURNEY 9 PM
GUMBY'S PINT NIGHT
$3 Domestic Pints
$1.50 Refills- Keep the Glass!
$2 Wells
$2.25 Rolling Rock Bottles

THURSDAY
OPEN MIC 10 PM
$1.75 Michelob Family Pints
$3.75 Long Islands
$2.25 Bacardi Silver/O Bottles

FRIDAY LIVE @ 10PM SHARK WEEK
$2.75 Gumby Juice
$2 Kami Shots
$2.25 Shiner Bottles
NEXT WEEK (12/19): MOTHER KALI/ECLECTIC CARNIVAL LIVE @ 10 PM

SATURDAY
COLLEGE FOOTBALL ON 7 WIDE SCREEN TV'S
$2 Wells $2 Flavored Vodkas
$3.50 60 oz. Old Style Pitchers

34th Annual
MANHATTAN BRIDAL SHOW
SUNDAY, JANUARY 18, 2004

$250 gift certificate toward purchase of wedding dress

Win a TUXEDO PACKAGE for Wedding party

Must be present to win

Thousands of dollars in prizes:

$1,000 toward your wedding

FREE wedding band

Much, much more

KANSAS STATE STUDENT UNION
Grand Ballroom on 2nd floor, Manhattan
Doors open at noon • Fashion show at 3 p.m. • Free admission

SAFE RIDE

Every Weekend!
Thursday, Friday, and Saturday
11:00 p.m. - 3:00 a.m.
A free service provided by the K-State Student Governing Association
Call:
539-0480

DISCOVER THE Benefits OF THE Revised CPA Exam

- No more #2 pencils.
- More flexibility.
- No more waiting.

■ NEW FORMAT
utilizes basic computer skills for a more flexible, realistic test

■ NEW CONTENT combines information technology, general business knowledge with a broader audit scope, to better prepare you for the work force

■ NEW TIMETABLE
allows you to sit for sections two out of every three months, year round, so you can take it when you're ready

■ NEW POLICIES
offer easy transition for those who have already passed some sections via paper and pencil

The Uniform CPA Examination

Visit www.cpa-exam.org to find out more about the new computer-based CPA Exam.

7335-041

Chris Hanewinckel | COLLEGIAN

Hector Sicard, also known as Junior, cuts the hair of long-time friend Bud Springer, Manhattan resident, Tuesday afternoon. Sicard and Springer shared stories and joked around during his haircut.

Chris Hanewinckel | COLLEGIAN

Hector Sicard cuts Shane Bedwell's, senior in animal science, hair Tuesday afternoon. Sicard has cut hair for 45 years at Junior's Barbershop in Aggieville.

Jeanel Drake | COLLEGIAN

Sicard chats with David Echols while cutting his hair. Sicard works for himself at Junior's Barber Shop in Aggieville.

Jeanel Drake | COLLEGIAN

Sicard sits and watches the news while waiting for customers Wednesday night before he closes.

For years, Manhattan residents have sat...

in the barber's seat

By Sarah Rice
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The Junior's Barbershop sign has hung outside 1109 Moro St. for 45 years.

Inside are two barber's chairs, antique model cars made out of whiskey bottles and a twirling red and blue barber pole.

The center of attention, though, is Junior – a man with salt and pepper hair, a neatly trimmed mustache and wrinkled hands that have held scissors for most of his life.

The thing that gets Junior out of bed each morning is the different people he meets. He cuts the hair of businessmen, college students, young boys and retired professors.

"People come in from all walks of life," he said.

Junior, born Hector J. Sicard, won't tell you much. His life is nothing spectacular, he said.

He started his career cutting hair as a child.

"I worked as a barber when I was young, cleaning up and shining shoes," he said. "That was in the day when they shined your shoes for you."

Then, in 1956, he attended barber's school in Kansas City. The styles he learned in school are much different today, he said.

"When I started, they parted it and combed it to the side," he said. "Now, they part it all forward. Everyone wears it messed up now. They used to get up and wash their hair. Now they just put on a cap."

Jeanel Drake | COLLEGIAN

Sicard's barber tools sit in place on the counter after he cleaned up for the night on Wednesday at Junior's Barber Shop in Aggieville.

When he moved into the Aggieville shop in 1958, the prominent businesses were Palace Drug Store and Kites. Junior's is the oldest business in Aggieville under the same name and ownership.

Since then, Junior had his regulars who have entrusted him with their hair for years.

On Wednesday afternoon, one of those regulars, Pat Connelly, greeted the man who has cut his hair since 1983.

After putting on his glasses, Junior began trimming and snipping away. Connelly, the owner of a Manhattan electronics company, doesn't even have to tell the barber what to do.

The Big 12 Championship game is still the talk of the shop.

"Wasn't that a shocker?" Junior asked as he trimmed Connelly's eyebrows.

The conversation quickly turned to fishing techniques as an ESPN2 special on fly fishing came on.

"I am always worried about catching them, not pulling them in," Junior said.

Soon, Junior twirls the chair to give Connelly a look at his freshly cut hair.

"Good luck, Junior," Connelly said on his way out. "I hope you can find another customer to come in."

In his down time, Junior said he reads the magazines that come at no cost to the shop or catches up on sports scores with the TV in the corner of the room.

Business has gotten slower as more customers go to hair salons.

"It's too saturated in town," he said.

But 20 minutes later, Andy Pavkov, junior in business management, comes in wearing a baseball cap.

"Have you gotten over the shock of the ball game yet?" Junior asked him as he takes off the hat.

Junior and Pavkov also discuss upcoming finals, ticket prices for the Fiesta Bowl and winter vacation plans.

A hair salon, Pavkov said, just can't compete with atmosphere and quality of the barber shop.

"Once I started going to a barber shop," he said, "I couldn't really go anywhere else."

CLASSIFIEDS

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

A TWO-BEDROOM apartment, close to campus. Short term lease available. Available mid- December or 1st of January. (785)317-7713.

AVAILABLE NOW two-bedroom apartments, $450 and up. Walk to campus. (785)776-1936.

BRITTNAY RIDGE. Four-bedroom, study, two and one-half bath, town home. Washer/ dryer. 2519 Candlecrest, lease required. No pets. $1050, $1050 deposit. (785)537-9740.

COZY TWO-BEDROOM. Only a year old with all new appliances. Includes washer and dryer. Has own driveway. (785)341-1636

CRESTWOOD APARTMENTS. West side Two-bedroom, one and one-half baths. Personal washer/ dryer. Water, trash, cable television paid. No pets. $590. (785)776-3345.

FOR JANUARY 1. Nice large two-bedroom apartment. Gas, water, trash three-forths paid, laundromat, $480. (785)539-2482 or (785)539-9315 or cell phone (785)565-8116.

TWO-BEDROOM WITH study, private balcony, laundry, cover parking, walk to campus, central air-conditioning, January lease, $515- $545/ month. (785)341-6091.

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bathroom duplex, including washer/ dryer, dishwasher, new carpet, nice neighborhood. $650/ month. Available January 1. (785)341-4496.

120 For Rent- Houses

LARGE TWO-BEDROOM, close to campus. Real nice, clean, and affordable. (785)762-7191.

SHORT TERM lease January- May or July. Two-bedroom house, laundry hookup, parking, campus six blocks. (785)537-8389 leave message.

TWO, THREE, or four-bedroom house. Very nice four-bedroom house will rent as two or three bedroom with reduced rent. Central-heat and air, washer/ dryer hookups. Very spacious with two bathrooms, six blocks to campus. Available January 1. Call Doug at (785)341-4554.

125 For Sale- Houses

FOUR- FIVE-BEDROOM house, close to campus. Available. Call Larry at Century 21, night (785)317-7713.

145 Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for spring semester. Nice five-bedroom three bath house. Common rooms furnished. Washer/ dryer. $300 rent plus one-fifth utilities. (785)539-9887, (785)825-2937.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share three-bedroom house. $225/ month plus one-third electric and cable. Call Kimberly (785)456-4204.

150 Sublease

FOUR-BEDROOM, ONE and one-half bath, spacious, practically in Aggieville. $900/ month heating included. (four roommates- only $225 per person). (785)776-5102.

ROOM FOR Rent. Sub-leaser wanted for spring semester. House two blocks west of campus. $240/ month plus one-fifth utilities. Laundry facilities. (785)537-3096.

ROOMS FOR rent, next to campus, one-bedroom in brand new four-bedroom apartment. Free washer/ dryer, central-air, parking. (785)537-7050.

135 For Sale- Mobile Homes

FURNISHED 12X60 newly remodeled, pets allowed. 10X20 storage shed. Five minutes to campus. $16,000 or best offer. (785)770-8794.

145 Roommate Wanted

AVAILABLE NOW. For rent, fully furnished apartment. Roommate needed, close to Aggieville/ campus, utilities plus rent under $250 average! Call (816)390-5905.

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed for three-bedroom, two bath $210 rent and one-third utilities. Call Jessica (785)776-1621.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted $235/ month plus one-fourth utilities. Good study environment, townhouse, off-campus. (785)539-2288 or sublease_me_plz@hotmail.com

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted for spring semester. Two blocks from campus, nice two-bedroom house, one bath, washer and dryer available. No pets. $230/ month, split bills, $100 deposit. Please call (785)323-1995.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted! Available January- July. Large bedroom. Rent $255 plus one-third utilities. Right across from East Stadium. (785)565-9340.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted, nice three-bedroom, one block from campus 1850 Claflin. $260/ month plus one-third utilities. Needed for January. Call Anessa (816)806-6094.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted, second semester, three-bedroom house with backyard. $300/ month plus one-third utilities. Must be animal lover. Call (785)537-6139.

GREAT PLACE, great location, great people. Female roommates wanted for spring semester sublease. Large rooms, private parking, common rooms furnished, washer/ dryer. Call Lindsay at (785)587-0296.

MALE ROOMMATE needed next semester, 1850 Claflin, fully furnished bedroom, kitchen, living, two bath, DSL internet, $270/ month negotiable (785)539-5429.

MALE ROOMMATE to share newer mobile home. $150/ month. (785)770-9547.

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share a two-bedroom house. Five minutes from the Student Union. Rent $275. (785)539-9981

MALE ROOMMATES needed for a four-bedroom home in quite neighborhood, five minutes north of campus, must see to appreciate. $275 per month plus shared utilities. (913)244-2921.

MALE, WALK to class, lower level. All furnished. Washer/ dryer without meter. (785)539-1554.

NEW, CLEAN duplex one block from campus on Ratone. Two full baths washer/ dryer. $250/ month plus one-fourth utilities. (785)776-3936 or (785)313-4381.

ONE ROOMMATE needed for spring semester. Lease starts in January. Nice place, close to campus. Call (913)207-0818.

ROOM AVAILABLE in large four-bedroom house downtown near the mall. $210 plus one-fourth bills. 520 Pierre. Call Lane (785)539-4440 or Jeremy (785)341-8830.

ROOMMATE NEEDED FOR SPRING SEMESTER. Sick of the dorms? Two blocks from campus, two-bedroom, fireplace. Call (785)317-0809.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for two-bedroom apartment with male. Six month lease, good landlord, pets. $225. Stagg Hill location. Call Trevor (785)565-8193.

ROOMMATE NEEDED house close to campus and Aggieville. Rent $255/ month utilities paid. December rent paid, move in immediately. (785)554-1369.

ROOMMATE NEEDED one-bedroom, six-bedroom house. Washer/ dryer provided, bar. $300 rent plus one-fifth utilities. Call (785)317-1245.

ROOMMATE NEEDED starting January at 1321 Pierre. Close to City Park, washer/ dryer/ trash included. $225 for rent. Call (785)224-9704.

ROOMMATE NEEDED: one bedroom in spacious four-bedroom duplex with three bathrooms. Nice neighborhood. $287.50/ month plus one-fourth utilities. Washer/ dryer included. Call (785)871-0965.

ROOMMATE WANTED $200/ month plus one-half utilities. Washer/ dryer, can have two bedrooms, six blocks off campus, University Dr., no smoking, nice house and neighborhood. (785)317-4742.

ROOMMATE WANTED (for next semester. 1106 Bluemont, $250/ month (785)640-4752.

ROOMMATE WANTED for mobile home $150/ month plus half utilities. Call (620)285-1305.

ROOMMATE WANTED to share a two-bedroom apartment. Walking distance to campus and Aggieville. Washer/ dryer, water/ trash paid, off-street parking and cheap rent. Call Jami (785)220-3744.

ROOMMATE WANTED: Less than 100 steps from apartment door to Fiedler. $300/ month plus one-fourth utilities. Available January. (785)317-0099.

ROOMMATES NEEDED for five-bedroom house for spring semester. Call (785)341-7923.

SPACE FOR male student. 1219 Thurston. Washer/ dryer, shared utilities. $185/ month. 9785)539-3609

SPRING SEMESTER roommate needed. Master bedroom in four-bedroom house. 0.3 miles from campus. Washer/ dryer, two bathrooms, cable internet, $250 plus utilities. Call Tyler (913)908-7162.

SUBLEASER WANTED for spring semester, three-bedroom apartment with dishwasher. One block from campus. $210/ month 1850 Claflin. Call (785)770-3810/ (785)313-0013.

TWO-BEDROOMS AVAILABLE, four-bedroom house. Five minutes from campus $240/ month all bills paid. (316)706-8548.

150 Sublease

CADI- CORNER from Union. One to four rooms available immediately. Great spot, act fast! $230/ month. 1725 Anderson. Call David (785)770-2711.

CAMPUS/ AGGIEVILLE- three-bedroom spacious apartment, start January. Central air, laundry, parking. 519 North Manhattan. Call (785)341-4158 or (785)341-9582.

DEPOSIT PAID for you! One-bedroom apartment available January 2- July 31. Water, trash, and cable paid. $380/ month. (785)539-6665.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed for spring semester. One-bedroom apartment. Two blocks from Aggieville. Rent negotiable call (785)564-1173.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed for spring semester. Beautiful house and three great roommates. Near City Park. $250/ month plus utilities. Call Renee at (785)565-0340.

MALE SUBLEASER needed. Two-bedroom apartment. Private parking, dishwasher, washer/ dryer. $262.50 a month. Available January. 716 Humboldt. Contact Casey (785)341-1162.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT, one block from campus. Off-street parking $300/ month plus cheap utilities. Available January 1st. Call (785)313-5550.

ONE-BEDROOM, RENT negotiable, water and trash paid, lease January- May. (785)537-9379.

ROOM FOR rent during spring semester. $280/ month includes water, trash, laundry. Has all amenities including fireplace. Low bills. (785)539-1272. mri8888@ksu.edu.

ROOMMATE NEEDED, large four-bedroom at Chase Apartments, with balcony. $240/ month plus deposit, one-fourth utilities. Call Jenn, (785)537-7090.

ROOMMATE WANTED to share brand new duplex with three guys. Four-bedroom/ two bathrooms/ laundry. $275/ month plus one-forth utilities. Call (316)990-6862 or (785)539-2356.

SPACIOUS TWO-BEDROOM/ one bath. All utilities paid except electric. Available end of December. Call (785)806-3068.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for one-bedroom apartment. $379.56 rent/ month starting January 1. Includes utilities. Pets are allowed. (785)770-3060.

SUBLEASER NEEDED from January 1- July 30 to share a two-bedroom duplex. Very close to campus. Rent is negotiable. Call (913)269-2622.

SUBLEASER NEEDED, great two-bedroom house. Fully furnished. five minutes from Union. Private parking, available now. $380, all bills paid. (785)539-3408.

SUBLEASER NOW or by January 1. Block to campus, walk to Aggieville. All December bills paid. (785)565-8199.

SUBLEASER WANTED for January, brand new carpet, two-bedroom, Chase Manhattan Apartments. Email at ben_kem1@hotmail.com or call Ben (520)275-1344.

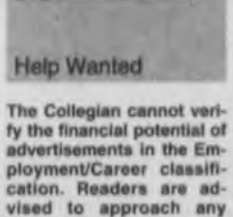
SUBLEASERS WANTED for spring semester. Two-bedroom, one and one-half bath apartment. Water/trash paid, laundry facilities, very close to campus, (785)658-5680.

SUBLESER WANTED!! Lease available January 1. completely furnished and close to campus. $300/ mont. Call (620)272-3074.

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE and one-half bath. Close to Aggieville/ campus. (785)341-9733.

WANTED MALE or female subleaser starting January 1 until May 1. House two blocks east of campus on Thurston. Call Dave at (913)208-0016.

200 service directory



210 Resume/ Typing

STRESSED? I can help you type papers or projects. Call Rhonda (785)539-3570.

220 Weight Loss & / Nutrition

LOOK BETTER, feel better, live longer. Proven, effective weight loss system and beauty care. Call Lancelot (785)223-5303, www.unicitynetwork.com/lancelot.

255 Other Services

Placement #1 Priority! Student Discount Flexible Hours Located in Kansas City

1-816-221-8555

www.bostonbartender.com

FIRST RESPONDER. This program is for those who may be the initial care giver for an individual suffering from a medical emergency or traumatic accident. Fracture management, medical emergencies and CPR are covered in the course curriculum. Begins January 5. Manhattan Area Technical College (785)587-2800 for more information.

300 employment/ opportunities

310 Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/ she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

! BARTENDING $300 a day potential. No experience necessary. Training provided. Call 1-800-965-6520 ext. 144.

ACCOUNTING ASSISTANT starting immediately and through next semester, flexible schedule, Monday- Friday, 8- 5pm. Bluestems Financial Management. (785)537-0206.

BARTENDER TRAINEES needed. $250/ day potential. Local positions. (800)293-3985 ext. 548.

CONOCO BRANDED C-store accepting applications for part-time clerk. Apply in person 2233 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

EARN UP to $2000 by the end of the year. (866)881-6687.

EARN YOUR associate's degree in Accounting Support/ Administrative Support in our Business and Computer Technology program. Full-time/ part-time classes begin January 7, 2004. Financial aid available. Manhattan Area Technical College. (800)352-7575, www.matc.net

GET PAID For Your Opinions! Earn $15- $125 and more per survey! www.paidonlinesurveys.com

HOME DAYCARE assistant needed. Looking for responsible, energetic, organized person to work part-time, beginning January 5. Call Julie (785)776-0019.

K-STATE RESEARCH and Extension is accepting applications for Intern positions for Summer 2004 in various locations in Kansas. The Intern positions are available to students with degrees in Agriculture, Human Ecology or Educations with at least four university semesters and who will have reached at least junior status by the 2004 fall semester. See the position announcement under Job Opportunities at www.oznet.ksu.edu and follow the application procedure. For more information, call Stacey M. Warner, (785)532-5790.

MAINTENANCE: APARTMENT COMPLEX seeking full-time general maintenance position. Must have experience in repairs, painting, grounds keeping, make ready, etc. (785)776-3345 days.

MAKE MONEY taking Online Surveys. Earn $10-$125 for Surveys. Earn $25-$250 for Focus Groups. Visit www.cash4students.com/ksu <http://cash4students.com/ksuucinn>

NATIONAL TELECOM company expanding in this area seeks ambitious, young entrepreneurs with leadership skills. Earn $200- $1200/ month working part-time from home, flexible schedule, serious long-term income potential. Call today! 1-888-302-3602, Ext. 4.

NETWORK TECHNICIAN Due to continued growth, Networks Plus has an opening for a Computer Network Technician in Manhattan. Positive attitude, professionalism, strong work ethic and one or more years of computer support experience or equivalent training is required. Email resume to jobs@networksplus.com in Microsoft Word or Text format. Equal Opportunity Employer.

PROGRAMMING INTERN- Networks Plus is hiring a full-time programming intern. Microsoft ASP or SQL experience preferred but not required. $7/ hour. Email resume in Microsoft Word or text format to jobs@networksplus.com.

PROGRESSIVE FARM 35 miles NE of Manhattan has full-time opening for personable individual who enjoys working with other non-smoking employees. Individual would assist in management of a farrow to finish operation producing F1 Gilts for breeding stock. Position also includes row cropping operation with large late model equipment. Housing provided. (785)889-4514

RECEPTIONIST NEEDED: State of the art dental practice seeking an energetic, patient oriented, self-disciplined receptionist to complement our existing staff. a dental background is preferred, but willing to train the right person. we offer a full benefit package along with a competitive salary. If you feel stuck at your current job, and are ready for a move fax your resume to (785)537-1401 attention: Kim.

RETAIL LIQUOR Store accepting applications for part-time clerk. Apply in person 2233 Tuttle Creek Blvd.

STAFF RADIOGRAPHER. We are looking for a staff radiographer that is ARRT or registry eligible to work the night shift 2230 to 0700 hours. Applicant must be flexible and able to work independently. Interested and qualified personnel should contact Geary Community Hospital. 1102 St. Mary's road, Junction City, KS, 66441, fax (785)238-1700 or email to: cwitt@gchks.org. equal opportunity employer.

TEACHER AIDES (certificate preferred) for Kindegarden and 5/ 6 classroom at Westmoreland Elementary. Start date and salary negotiable. Single health insurance provided. Call (785)457-3732 for application or Email: caffreyt@rockcreekschools.org. Equal opportunity employer.

THE BEST summer job: Why hike in our backcountry, ride horses on our rugged trails and breathe fresh mountain air all summer long? It comes with the job. Cheley Colorado Camps, a residential wilderness camp for youth. 9-17, 6/6- 8/9. Call us at 1-800-CampFun, Email staff2004@cheley.com or visit our website at www.cheley.com

WANTED: OFFICE Assistant in doctor's office. Flexible hours. Must be personable, and have computer skills. Call (785)539-3975.

Deadlines

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run.
CALL 532-6555

ClassifiedRATES

1 DAY
20 words or less
$8.00
each word over 20
20¢ per word

2 DAYS
20 words or less
$9.40
each word over 20
25¢ per word

3 DAYS
20 words or less
$11.05
each word over 20
30¢ per word

4 DAYS
20 words or less
$12.25
each word over 20
35¢ per word

5 DAYS
20 words or less
$13.35
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

TO PLACE AN AD
Go to Kedzie 103 (across from the K-State Student Union). Office hours are Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The office is open except on holidays.

HOW TO PAY
All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an account with Student Publications Inc. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks. We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

FREE FOUND ADS
As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CORRECTIONS
If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

CANCELLATIONS
If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day before the ad is to be published.

HEADLINES
For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

000 bulletin board

010 Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY!" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes and lowest rates. Call (785)776-1744, www.ksu.edu/ksfc

ATTORNEY, CHUCK Harper, expunge convictions before job application, paternity, custody, net tree adoption, civil law, 400 Poyntz, (785)539-8100, chuckharper@msn.com

FIESTA BOWL housing. Luxury two-bedroom condo Scottsdale. Sleeps eight. December 27- January 3. $1500/ week. (520)749-0149.

FIESTA BOWL: gorgeous new two-bedroom, two bath condo with great view in Tempe, Arizona. Walking distance to stadium. $2950 per/ week. Brent (602)418-2332.

020 Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

FOUND: BLACK zip-closed case found outside of Anderson Hall on December 5. Come into 122 Anderson Hall to identify.

030 Post a Note

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a post a note.

100 housing/ real estate

105 For Rent- Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2440.

ONE-BEDROOM CLOSE to campus. Water and trash included. Available January 1. Central air/ heat. (785)537-7810

ONE-BEDROOM STUDIO, 1219 Claflin, half block from campus. $330 deposit, $330/ month. Water/ trash paid, no pets. (785)456-2812.

ONE-BEDROOM STUDIO, one block from campus. Ample parking, quiet conditions. Furnished or unfurnished. No pets. $305. (785)539-3638.

SEPARATE BEDROOM, study, living room, and eat-in kitchen. No smoking, drinking, pets. (785)539-1554.

"Stay In Class At The Commons"
Now Leasing for 2003-2004!
•Fully Furnished
•2 & 4 Bedroom
•Alarm System
•Swimming Pool
•Washer/Dryer
•Computer Lab
•Fitness Center
•Permit Parking
•Tennis/Volleyball Courts
•Individual Leases
Office Hours: M-F 9-5
539-0500
university COMMONS APARTMENTS
2215 College Ave.

105 For Rent- Apts. Furnished

1219 KEARNEY. one-bedroom basement across from campus. Water/ trash paid. No pets. Lease January through May or longer. $310. (785)539-5136.

APARTMENT FOR rent spacious three-bedroom, two bath apartment. One-half block from campus at 1207 Kearney. Very low utilities. $245/ person per month. Very nice apartment at great location. Call (785)539-5236 or Angie at (785)537-7810

EFFICIENCY, TWO/ three-bedroom units immediately available. (785)341-4496.

EXTRA NICE two-bedroom in four-plex with washer/ dryer hook-ups. Available January 6. $440/ month. No pets. (785)539-2356

FOUR-BEDROOM APARTMENT, 1521 Leavenworth, bills paid, $800. (785)539-8401

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, all appliances including washer and dryer. Only three years. Ready for spring semester. (785)556-6899.

JANUARY-- ONE-BEDROOM-$315, two-bedroom-$475. No pets. (785)587-0399.

LARGE ONE-BEDROOM at 431 Leavenworth, $450, bills paid. (785)539-8401

NEWLY REMODELED two-bedroom apartments available January 1st, all utilities paid, $600/ month. Call McCullough Development Inc. (785)776-3804.

NICE ONE-BEDROOM apartments. Close to campus. Water and trash paid. $415- $430/ month. Call MDI (785)776-3804.

ONE- TWO-BEDROOM apartment and houses. Available January 1 and now. Close to campus. www.rent-apm.com/ (785)539-4357.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT at 901 Moro, bills paid, $450. (785)539-8401.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

1219 KEARNEY. one-bedroom basement across from campus. Water/ trash paid. No pets. Lease January through May or longer. $310. (785)539-5136.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENTS in new building, close to campus/ Aggieville. Available June/ August 2004. Call John at (785)313-7473.

ONE-BEDROOM AVAILABLE January 1. Rent $365. Call Amy (913)709-6283.

ONE-BEDROOM CLOSE to campus. Available January 1. $250, water/ trash paid. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296.

ONE-BEDROOM CLOSE to campus. Available January 1. $410/ month. No pets. (785)313-7473.

ONE-BEDROOM, ONE bath basement apartment, no pets, water and trash paid. $360/ month. Call McCullough Development, Inc. (785)776-3804.

SEPARATE BEDROOM, study, living room and eat-in kitchen. No smoking, drinking, or pets. (785)539-1554.

STUDIO APARTMENT available January 1st located in the Wareham hotel. Water and trash paid, $405/ month. Call McCullough Development Inc. (785)776-3804.

SUBLEASERS WANTED, two- three-bedrooms. All bills paid except phone and internet. One block to campus, one block to Aggieville. $260/ month per person. (785)539-9751.

THREE-BEDROOM APARTMENT 815 N. 10th St, central air, bills paid, $675. (785)539-8401

THREE-BEDROOM APARTMENT at 930 Osage, $600, bills paid. (785)539-8401

THREE-BEDROOM APARTMENT, two bathroom, washer/ dryer, close to Aggieville/ campus. Available immediately. $750 plus utilities. (785)587-8356.

THREE-BEDROOM AVAILABLE. Chase apartments. Leave a message. January to August lease. (785)537-6117.

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE block to campus. New carpet/ flooring/ some utilities paid. $660/ month, or best offer. (785)539-4641.

TWO BEDROOMS available in four-bedroom apartment. Near College and Claflin. $300/ month (utilities and internet included) Call Toby at (913)579-2486.

TWO OR three-bedroom, spacious. Close to campus or city library. Dishwasher, central air, laundry facility. No pets. (785)539-0866.

TWO PLUS bedroom, one block to campus. New carpet/ flooring/ some utilities paid. $620/ month. (785)539-4641.

TWO, three, and four-bedroom apartments. Close to campus, laundry, and parking. Call (785)537-6017.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT at 431 Leavenworth, $400, bills paid. (785)539-8401.

TWO-BEDROOM BASEMENT, near City Park, washer/ dryer, no pets, all bills paid. $500. Available January 1st (785)539-1145.

TWO-BEDROOM TOWNHOUSE, two and one-half bath plus unfinished basement. Washer/ dryer hookups. Water/ trash paid. No pets. (785)539-5627.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

VERY NICE two-bedroom apartment for rent, starting January 1st. Cats allowed. Call (785)539-5563 or (785)341-5441 for more information.

115 Rooms Available

ONE BEDROOM IN five-bedroom house. Wood floors, five minute walk to campus. Off-street parking. Rent $270. (816)456-7802.

ROOMMATE WANTED to sublease. Close to campus/ Aggieville. Washer/ dryer, $300 plus utilities. Call Nicole (785)776-6099 or (785)565-8785.

THREE ROOMS available in large house block from campus. No pets, washer/ dryer, off-street parking. $250/ month. (785)317-1333.

120 For Rent- Houses

1724 WINNE. Four-bedroom, one and one-half bath. Updated and spacious. New carpet, paint, and ceramic tile. Close to football stadium. $850/ month plus utilities. Available December. (785)556-2652.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted close to campus. Two bath, four-bedrrom, $237/ month January 1. (620)365-3886 or (620)365-9748.

LARGE NICE houses- June or August leases. Call now for best selections. www.foremostproperty.com or (785)539-4641.

NEWER: FOUR-BEDROOM/ two bathroom. All appliances including washer/ dryer. Private parking. No smoking/ pets. 622 Bluemont- $1195. Available now! (785)776-9386.

NICE THREE-BEDROOM, close to campus. Available January 1. (785)537-0205.

NICE: THREE-BEDROOM/ two bathroom. All appliances including washer/ dryer. Private parking. No smoking/ pets. 620 Bluemont, $795. Available now! (785)776-9386.

THREE AND four-bedroom houses and apartments available January 1 and now. Close to campus. www.rent-apm.com/ (785)539-4357.

TIRED OF Apartment Living? Manufactured Homes For Rent. Pets Allowed. Beautifully maintained communities. Pool, playground, community center. Professionally managed. Call Manager for more details. (785)539-5841.

135 For Sale- Mobile Homes

1976 18X70 trailer in Countryside Estates. $4000 or best offer. (785)313-3147 or (620)767-8279.

FOR SALE: two-bedroom, one bath mobile home. Well cared for, owners are December graduates. $4800 or best offer. Please call (785)323-0055.

FINALS GOT YOU STRESSED!
YOU NEED A MASSAGE
Take $10 Off Your First Appointment
Tao Massage Therapy
341-9928

GIVE PLASMA GET CASH
Donate Plasma And Earn $45 this week
Save Lives & Earn Cash.
ZLB Plasma Services
1130 Gardenway
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785)776-9177 • www.zlb.com

Royal Purple
$34.95 Yearbook
get it in 103 Kedzie
8am-5pm

MANHATTAN FLORAL
Receive 15% off
Find Us Near Target
776-8801
with Wildcat Card KSU ID

SELL YOUR TEXTBOOKS FOR CASH
In the TEXTBOOK DEPARTMENT at the
K-State Student Union Bookstore
• You don't need your receipt to sell your books!
• It doesn't matter where the books were purchased!
• Please bring your current photo ID to sell your books
TODAY!
Buyback Hours:
Wed Dec 10 - Sat Dec 13
8:00am - 8:00pm
Sunday Dec 14
11:00am - 7:00pm
Mon Dec 15 - Fri Dec 19
8:00am - 8:00pm
532-6583
www.kssu.com
K-State Student Union Bookstore

It's hard to study with your eyes shut.....

get your wings at the Dara's Fast Lane
1816 Claflin Road
3270 Kimball Ave.

Reach more readers
Place your classified ad online. Get more bang for your buck.
www.kstatecollegian.com
Ads scheduled to be printed in the Collegian can be published online for an additional dollar.

CLASSIFIEDS

310 Help Wanted

THE K-STATE Student Union Bookstore is now hiring an art and Alltel sales associate. Full-time Monday-Friday 8am- 5pm. Competitive wages plus commissions. 401K dental and medical plans. We are looking for an outgoing, self-motivated, friendly, people person who is interested in both art and technology. Application deadline is December 12. Apply at the art desk.

WANTED: COWBOYS, Cowgirls to guide tourists and horses through the Rocky Mountains. Come work for the largest horse operation in North America. Write Sombrero Ranch at 3300 Airport Road, Boulder, CO 80301 or visit our website at www.sombrero.com

Ad It Up!
Talk with one of our sales representatives by calling...
532-6560

330 Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

400 open market

410 Items for Sale

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS- sleeping bags, overshoes, combat boots, camouflage clothing, wool socks and gloves, much more. Also Carhartt work wear. Open Monday- Friday, 9am-5:30pm, Saturday 9am-4pm, Open Sundays till Christmas 12noon- 4pm. St. Mary's Surplus Sales, St. Marys Kansas. (785)437-2734.

410 Items for Sale

ROSSIGNOLE DOWNHILL skis, 207cm length. Salomon ski boots, mens size 11- 12. Includes poles and bindings. All used one season. $200. (785)537-2687, leave message.

435 Computers

NEW! AMD 2000 +, 128mb RAM, 40 GB HD, 64mb video, 52 x CDROM, software package, year warranty, free setup and delivery, call Dusty (785)317-1345.

465 Tickets to Buy/Sell

FIESTA BOWL: gorgeous new two-bedroom, two bath condo with great view in Tempe, Arizona. Walking distance to stadium. $2950 per/ week. Brent (602)418-2332.

TICKETEXCHANGEUSA.COM. BUY online 24- 7- 365. Fiesta Bowl. All locations. Overnight delivery. (800)800-9811. Since 1983. Member of Better Business Bureau. Member National Association of Ticket Brokers.

500 transportation

510 Automobiles

1996 HONDA Civic. White, two door, CD, and moon roof. Automatic. Asking $4500 or best offer. Call (785)317-2366 or (785)238-1942.

1999 OLDS Alero, remote start, excellent condition, $6900. Please call (785)341-4797.

CLEAN, GREEN, JUST BROKEN IN. 2001 Toyota Pruis. A great car with Toyota Hybrid gasoline engine/ electric motor technology. No, you don't plug it in, ever. Engine and brake recharge batteries. Add gasoline (occasionally) and drive. Enjoyable, efficient transportation. air-conditioned, AM/ FM/ CD. Under 10,000 miles. $15,000. (785)341-7417.

MAZDA 626 LX, V6, 2.5L, 1994 automatic. Excellent conditions. (785)395-6120 (home), (785)532-1411 (office) or lmyan@ksu.edu. $3685, negotiable.

600 travel/ trips

610 Tour Package

FIESTA BOWL condo- one-bedroom, sleeps four. Full kitchen, fully furnished. 4500 square foot swimming pool with waterfalls plus additional amenities. 20 miles from stadium. Available December 27- January 3. (630)842-8854.

TWO-BEDROOM, TWO bath condo at Desert Sheraton Oasis five star resort in Scottsdale, AZ. Sleeps eight, fully furnished with washer/ dryer, jacuzzi, king size bed. Next door to Princess Resort and Thunderbird golf course. Two blocks north of Scottsdale airport. Jan. 2- Jan. 7. Edward Tolton (480)755-1119, anytime, day or night.

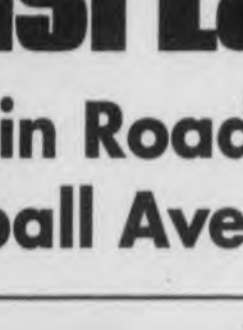
we kick ads.

610 Tour Package

January 2, 2004
Fiesta Bowl
Inn Suites Hotels
Rooms Available
$79.99 - Studio, King or 2 Queen Suite
$99.99- Executive one bedroom.
Prices valid through 1/30/04
Valid @ our Tempe, Scottsdale and Best Western Phoenix locations.
Just minutes from ASU Sundevil Stadium.
Free, hot, healthy Breakfast Buffet
Social hour, HBO, high speed internet
1-800-842-4242
www.innsuites.com

ADVERTISE
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
532-6560

630 Spring Break

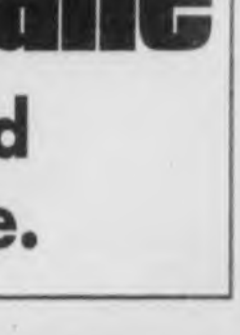


#1 SPRING Break Vacations! Cancun, Jamaica, Acapulco, Bahamas, & Florida! Best parties, best hotels, best prices! Space is limited! Book now and save! 1-800-234-7007. www.endlesssummertours.com

ACT NOW! Book 11 people, get 12th trip free. Group discounts for six plus www.springbreakdiscounts.com or (800)838-8202.

#1 SPRING Break Company in Acapulco now offers three destinations! Go loco in Acapulco, party in Vallarta, or get crazy in Cabo with BIANCHI-ROSSI TOURS. Organize a group and travel for FREE. Book now before it's too late! Call (800)875-4525 or www.bianchi-rossi.com.

SPRING BREAK- sign up with Student Express and get FREE round trip airline tickets to over 15 International destinations- including Aruba, Dominican Republic, Costa Rica, Caribbean hot spots and more. Why go with anyone else. Limited offer- call now. Commission rep positions also available (800)787-3787or www.studentexpress.com now.



630 Spring Break

NUMBER ONE spring break vacations! 110% best prices! Cancun, Jamaica, Bahamas, Florida, Acapulco, book now and receive free parties and meals. Campus reps wanted! 1-800-234-7 0 0 7 endlesssummertours.com

USASPRINGBREAK.COM CANCUN, Bahamas, Acapulco, Jamaica, and more. Don't be fooled! Go with quality and experience! 28 years in business. Largest Student Tour Operator (Division of USA Student Travel). Call (877)460-6077. Now hiring Campus Reps. Earn two free trips for 15 travelers and $$.

630 Spring Break

SPRING BREAK 2004 Travel with Student Travel Services, America's #1 Student Tour Operator to Jamaica, Cancun, Acapulco Bahamas, and Florida. Now hiring campus reps. Call fo group discounts. Information/ reservations 1-800 648-4849 o www.ststravel.com.

got tickets?
advertise your tickets to sell in the classifieds.
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
103 Kedzie 532-6555

This season's guide to holiday drinks

Freezer margaritas

Makes about eight servings.

7 cups water
2 small cans or 1 large can of frozen limeade concentrate
1 cup of tequila
1/2 cup of triple sec
1/2 cup sugar

Mix all ingredients in a large bowl or tub, keeping in mind the mixture will expand when frozen. Freeze for at least five to six hours.

Remove from freezer about a half an hour before serving to soften. Use metal ice cream scooper to chip away servings and scoop into salt-rimmed glasses.

Egg nog for a party

Makes 30 servings.

24 eggs, separated
2 cups sugar
1 quart bourbon
2 cups brandy
1 quart heavy cream
2 quarts milk
1 quart vanilla ice cream
nutmeg

Beat egg yolks and sugar until thick. Add bourbon and brandy and stir thoroughly — the liquor "cooks" the eggs. Add cream and milk and continue whipping. Break up the ice cream and add. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold in. Refrigerate for at least 30 minutes before serving. Sprinkle lightly with nutmeg.

Note: This is fairly potent and deceptively smooth, so you might wish to cut back on the bourbon and brandy a little.

Also note: Any good bourbon or sour mash will do, but Old Forester seems to add a special something to the taste. As for the brandy, don't waste the good stuff, but don't use that buck-50-a-liter varnish remover that you picked up on that last trip to Tijuana, either.

— recipeland.com

Spanish hot chocolate

Makes four to six servings.

1/2 cup cocoa
2 tablespoons plus 1 teaspoon cornstarch
1/2 cup water
1/4 cup honey, melted
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 quart of milk

Combine cocoa, cornstarch, and water in blender. Mix until smooth. Pour into saucepan and whisk in melted honey. Gradually add milk and vanilla while whisking constantly over medium heat.

Do not turn it on too high because it will burn the chocolate and the milk. Continue whisking until chocolate is smooth, creamy and thick. The texture when hot is like chocolate pudding, only more runny.

Chocolate can keep it in the refrigerator for a couple of days and be reheated with extra milk.

Nice additions to regular hot chocolate
- Candy cane or peppermint schnapps

-One brick of Hersey's white chocolate
- Two ounces of Bailey's Irish Creme with 3 cups of hot chocolate
- Two ounces of Kahlua with 3 cups of hot chocolate
- Whipped cream and cinnamon

— webxina.kerchunk.com/recipebox/general/general2.htm

Honey mulled cider

Makes six servings.

1 large lemon, cut in half
1 medium orange, cut in half
16 whole cloves
4 cups apple juice
1/2 cup honey
4 cinnamon sticks
1/4 teaspoon ground ginger

Cut two slices (1/4-inch thick) from each lemon and orange half. Insert whole cloves into slices; set aside.

Squeeze juice from remainder of fruit halves into medium non-reactive saucepan. Stir in apple juice and honey; mix well. Add cinnamon sticks, ginger and reserved fruit slices. Bring just to a boil over medium-high heat. Serve immediately in heatproof serving bowl.

— www.newhampshire.com/pages/newyearsdrinkrecipes.cfm

Compiled by Rachel Krier and photos by Zach Long | Collegian

CALENDAR

- Open Mic Night tonight at Gumby's Pizza and Pub.
- Shark Week and MoneyShot perform on Friday night at Gumby's.
- The Border Band plays Friday night at Auntie Mae's Parlor.
- Mother Kali and Tom O'Toole play on Dec. 19 at Gumby's.

IN BRIEF

The Associated Press

Whitney Houston abused by husband

Houston

Whitney Houston had a one-inch bruise on her cheek and a cut upper lip when officers responded to a call from her home this week, and police were considering Wednesday whether to pursue charges against her husband, singer Bobby Brown.

The pop singer told officers that Brown beat her after she returned home.

David Bowie cancels concert due to illness

Bowie

Influenza is keeping David Bowie off stage, forcing the postponement of two more concerts on the North American leg of his "Reality Tour."

The 56-year-old rocker has failed to make concert dates in Atlantic City, N.J.; Washington; Boston and Philadelphia since last week.

Bowie's managers and promoter Clear Channel Entertainment now hope to launch the North American tour Friday at Toronto's Air Canada Center.

WEB REVIEWS

News sites

www.cnn.com

What clicks
- Stories broken into subsections
- Respected national, international coverage
- Top headlines provide quick overview of world events

What bytes
- Subsections cause clutter at bottom of page
- No local coverage

Bottom line
Probably your best bet for national and international news.

www.msnbc.com

What clicks
- Reader's choice section shows what is of most interest to other visitors.
- Diverse coverage of world events.

What bytes
- Difficult to find news among advertisements strewn about the page.
- Some fonts are goofy, difficult to read.

Bottom line
Possibly the ugliest page on the Internet, MSNBC still offers solid news from various sources.

www.cjonline.com

What clicks
- Breaking news tabs on top of page keep you updated on the latest local, national, and world developments.
- Sports section contains CatZone, dedicated to K-State athletics.

What bytes
- Scattered ads obstruct navigation.
- Eclectic organization on individual pages overshadow quick links and tabs' helpfulness.

Bottom line
A good source for local news until the Collegian returns in January.

James Hurla | COLLEGIAN

Herr Metzger | Julian Narino www.herrmetzger.com

Puck | Kent Holle kentramone@yahoo.com

WANT TO GET YOUR P.U.C.K. FIX OVER BREAK?
WWW.THEFLAMINGCAT.COM
WANT TO GET FIXED, PERIOD?
WWW.DO-IT-YOURSELF-VASECTOMY.COM

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

GRADUATION GUIDE

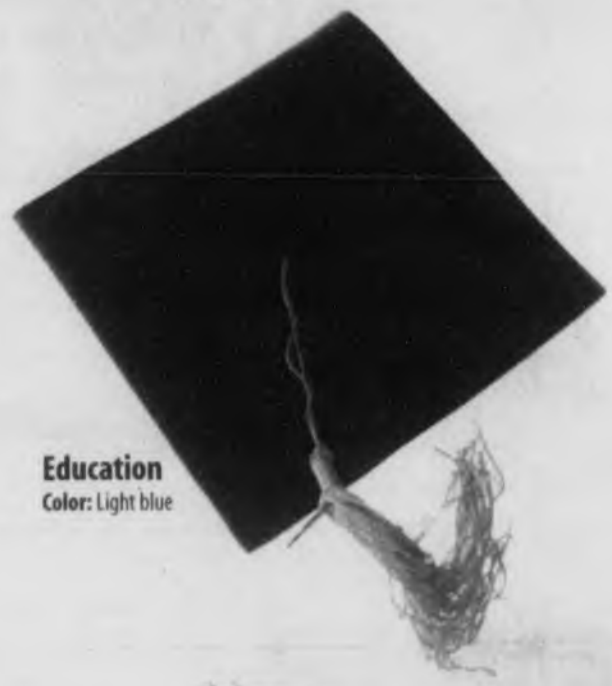
Thursday, December 11, 2003

Interior architecture
Color: Navy blue

Fine arts/ Landscape architecture
Color: Dark brown

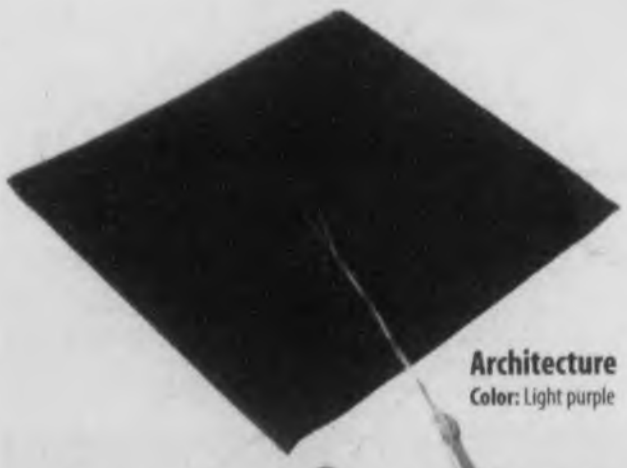
Bachelor of arts
Color: White

Music/music education
Color: Pink



Agriculture
Color: Maize

Business Administration
Color: Tan



Human Ecology
Color: Maroon

Education
Color: Light blue

Bachelor of science
Color: Yellow

Architecture
Color: Light purple

Engineering
Color: Orange

Tassel colors, placement part of commencement traditions

Playing of bagpipes at beginning of ceremonies long-standing tradition for K-State graduation

By Kristi Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Some things change, but some stay the same.

There are some traditions that have been associated with the K-State commencement ceremony for years.

Of these, tassel placement and colors, hoods for master's and doctoral candidates and music are some of the more noticeable.

Tessa Whitaker, employee at Varney's Book Store and senior in elementary education, said the tassel colors are color-coded at every school.

"I think that all schools use the different tassel colors," she said. "I know that the master's students with their hoods have the colors of the tassel on half of it," Whitaker said.

The American Counsel on Education's Web site lists the reasons for the dedication of each color for different departments.

White was taken from the white fur trimming of the Oxford and Cambridge bachelor of arts hoods and then was assigned to arts and letters.

Red, one of the traditional colors of the church, went to theology.

Green, the color of medieval herbs, was adopted for medicine, and olive, because it was so close to green, was given to pharmacy.

Gold, standing for wealth that scientific research has produced, was assigned to the sciences.

In 1986, dark blue was assigned to the Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) degree.

Tassels are worn on the right side of the mortar board for bachelor's candidates. After receiving the degree, it is switched to the left. For master's and doctoral candidates, the tassel is worn on the left side because hoods will be worn.

Hoods are worn during master's ceremonies. For doctoral candidates, the hoods will be carried by the professors and will hood the candidates when receiving recognition.

Elizabeth Unger, dean of continuing education, said Kansas colleges have a commitment to providing opportunities for students and likes to honor each.

"We are an important part of students' lives here and we need to take time to stop and take tremendous effort to make them feel like they've been a part of the family during their time here," Unger said.

Unger said K-State takes pride in that it honors each graduate individually.

"It's not like other institutions. Each person shakes the hand of the dean and department head of their college," Unger said.

Unger said that for graduate students, President Jon Wefald shakes hands with candidates.

One of the long-standing traditions to get the audience's attention at the beginning of ceremonies is the playing of a bagpipe.

"This adds a degree of sophistication and also helps get people's attention," Unger said.

There are two people playing bagpipes every year.

"They are complete with kilt," Unger said.

File photo by Karen Mikols | COLLEGIAN

Graduates' commencement ceremony

Friday, Dec. 12

Graduate School
- 1 p.m. at McCain Auditorium
- Students should assemble by noon in the McCain lobby. A reception will follow in the K-State Student Union Ballroom.

Technology and Aviation
- 73 students graduating
- 7 p.m. at the Kansas Highway Patrol Training Center Auditorium in Salina
- Graduates will meet at the Administration Building, lower level by 6:15 p.m.

Saturday, Dec. 13

Arts and Sciences
- 294 students graduating
- 9 a.m. at Bramlage Coliseum
- Graduates meet at 8 a.m. in the Bramlage concourse and enter through the southwest doors.

Architecture, Planning and Design
- 1 student graduating
- 10 a.m. at Danforth Chapel
- Graduate assembles at 9:30 a.m. in the lobby of Danforth.

Education
- 129 students graduating
- 10:30 a.m. at Bramlage Coliseum
- Graduates assemble at 9:45 a.m. in the Bramlage concourse and enter the southeast doors.

Business Administration
- 212 students graduating
- Noon at Bramlage Coliseum
- Graduates meet at 11 a.m. in the Bramlage tunnel and enter the southwest doors.

Agriculture
- 173 students graduating
- 1:30 p.m. at Bramlage Coliseum
- Graduates assemble at 12:45 p.m. in the Bramlage tunnel and enter through the southeast doors.

Engineering
- 174 students graduating
- 3 p.m. at Bramlage Coliseum
- Graduates assemble at 2 p.m. in the Bramlage concourse and enter the southwest doors.

Human Ecology
- 117 students graduating
- 9 a.m. at McCain Auditorium
- Graduates meet at 8:15 a.m. in McCain's west wing, rooms 201 and 204. Enter through the music wing doors on the south side.

Financial situation factor when deciding on insurance

By Leann Sulzen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Graduation brings about a lot of changes, including changes in health insurance coverage.

Most students are covered by their parents' insurance throughout college, but in many cases that coverage ends upon graduation.

Don Brown, consumer education coordinator for the Kansas Department of Insurance, said there is no way to say which type of plan is best for all students.

"Students should get an insurance plan based on their needs, desires and financial situation," he said.

Brown said there are short term health insurance options. He said these options are generally more expensive, but they are usually more flexible than group plans.

Jesse Warren, agent for Gene Warren State Farm, said a short term plan might be beneficial to graduates.

"A short-term plan would cover anything that was major, such as an emergency room visit, and they are not very expensive," he said.

Warren said these plans are helpful because they offer coverage when a student is in between their parents' coverage and their new job's insurance coverage plan.

"We have a short term health policy that would cover them for up to 185 days," he said.

"It's about $2.10 a day for people under 24 and $2.40 for people 25 to 29. That adds up to be approximately $63 or $72 a month."

Jim Feeney, agent for American Family Insurance, said it also is important for students to do some comparison shopping.

"Read the materials so you can find out what is covered and what isn't covered," he said.

Brown said he recommends that students start comparing policies as soon as possible.

"It is a much more friendly and consumer-orientated policy if you look at other plans before you are off of your parents' insurance policy," he said.

Brown said plans can be tailored to meet a student's needs whether they want a lower rate with a higher deductible or a higher rate with a lower deductible.

"Know what you are able to pay, and know what you are looking for in coverage," he said.

If students are looking for advice on an insurance plan, there are several people that they could talk to, Brown said.

"Parents are a good source of advice because they have been there and they understand where you are in terms of your health and economic status," he said.

Brown said it is very important to have health insurance at all times because of the cost of health care today.

"I would never recommend that someone take a chance and go without insurance," he said.

Businesses sell gifts for all types of graduates

By Kristi Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

"When people stop by to buy a gift for a friend or family member, they are usually looking for something with a spiritual message."

Rex Miller
OWNER OF CHRISTIAN BOOKS AND GIFTS

With December graduations just around the corner, gift ideas are flowing in Manhattan businesses.

Rex Miller, owner of Christian Books and Gifts, 1437 Anderson Ave., said many of the graduation gifts are recurring.

"When people stop by to buy a gift for a friend or family member, they are usually looking for something with a spiritual message," Miller said.

In addition to an assortment of cards, the store offers gift pens and pencils in cases, books and a wide variety of genuine leather Bibles, Miller said.

"These things are all recurring, but graduation is just another reason for people to buy," Miller said.

Karen Streeter, owner of Kansas Kollection, 100 Manhattan Town Center, said anything with a Powercat is a popular graduation gift.

"Once, we just had some wooden letters that spelled out K-S-U and they were hooked together. They sold well and quickly," Streeter said.

Streeter said picture frames, desk sets and business card orders, pictures with a Powercat, and lamps all are popular items.

"We have a picture of an alfalfa field that is cut into the shape of a Powercat," Streeter said. "It has become one of the most popular items."

Terry Bolan, co-owner of Glass Impressions, 329 Poyntz Ave., said most products in her store are good graduation gifts.

"Just about everything in the store can go for a good gift," Bolan said.

Bolan said wine and champagne glasses, paperweights and glass nameplates with a Powercat are some popular graduation gifts.

John Blum, manager of Rod's Hallmark Shop, 1300 Westloop Plaza, said the store has items pertinent to every graduate.

"People who are graduating from nursing school come in and find a Precious Moments collectible that looks like a nurse. There are a lot of things for every graduate," he said.

Finals Week follows graduation ceremony

Hectic scheduling to blame for early commencement

By James Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

After walking across the stage to receive their diplomas, graduates will not be able to begin a weeklong celebration party.

They will need to go to school.

The Kansas Board of Regents' scheduling the end of the semester plays a large role in commencement ceremonies being scheduled the weekend before finals, Associate Registrar Gunile Devault said.

"We have to look at the big picture and find out when it will fit the best," she said.

Elizabeth Unger, vice provost for technology, is a member of the graduation committee, which schedules commencement ceremonies.

December graduation is sometimes difficult to schedule, she said, because students and graduates want to get home for the holiday season.

Commencement ceremonies in May, because they are followed by a longer break, are after finals because there is not as much to schedule around, Unger said.

The amount of student help required at the ceremonies also play a part in the decision for early commencement, she said, because many underclassmen would not be willing to stay for several days after they finish their finals.

"If you were finished with your finals on Tuesday or Wednesday, would you stay to watch commencement?" Unger said.

Brian Stith, a senior in microbiology and pre-medicine, who will be attending his commencement ceremony Saturday, said having the early graduation might cause problems for some, but he understands the reasons for the date.

"It doesn't make it easy on me," he said. "It's like you're celebrating before you're really done. I don't think they're trying to cause any problems with it."

The tradition of having December commencement before finals was set several years ago, Devault said, and has not been re-examined recently.

The schedule has worked well for K-State, she said, and there have not been many complaints about having to take finals after the ceremony.

Some students may experience the classic illness of "senioritis," where apathy begins because they are so close to graduating, Devault said, but this is only a personal situation.

"We all get tired of the semester, even if you're not a senior," she said.

Stith, who is searching for a job and has applied to medical school, said he would have preferred a May graduation, but knows it's time to finish his undergraduate degree.

"In May, you could just graduate and let loose," he said.

"But now, you have to wait until you finish your finals to be able to celebrate."

Give us your opinion.
Campus Fourum: 395-4444

Give the gift of MASSAGE
BODY FIRST
2308 ANDERSON
(785)587-8300
www.bodyfirst.com
GIFT CERTIFICATES AVAILABLE

Wohler's Used Furniture
Visit Wohler's for used: Furniture, Antiques, Appliances and miscellaneous items for all needs.
615 N. 3rd St.
539-3319
10-6 Mon.-Fri. 10-5 Sat. Closed on Sun.

FOUR WINDS
Therapeutic Massage
Bernice Martin, Licensed Massage Therapist
$5.00 OFF
Gift Certificates and Gift Packages
785-539-5919 1114 Laramie St.

Still looking for that unique gift?
Then visit the Manhattan Arts Center's annual Wrap It Up Art Exhibit and Sale, going on now through January 31
Find gifts in clay, glass, paintings, photos, crafts, prints and much more!
Hours
Mon-Sat 10-4
Sun 12-4
With extended holiday hours
Dec 15-23
Mon-Sat 10-7
Sun 12-7
Sponsored by Terry & Kathleen King and Manhattan Ink
1520 Poyntz * 537-4420

THE Palace
Cards & Gifts
Holiday Shopping
14 Days Left
Yankee Candles • Lang
Crabtree & Evelyn • Boyds
Silvestri • M. Engelbreit
K-State Apparel & Gifts
Picture Frames & Albums
Plus
Christmas Candles
Decorations, Cards
and the BEST selection of ornaments in town!!!
704 N. MANHATTAN AVE. • IN AGGIEVILLE • 539-7654
MON-FRI 8:30-8:30 • SAT 8:30-5:30 • SUN 12:00-5:00

Located in the Ramada Plaza Hotel
Gold Fork
1641 Anderson
785-539-7531
Graduation Buffet
2-5 pm
Caesar Salad
Bread Sticks
Prime Rib
Orange Glazed Salmon
Vodka Penne Chicken Pasta
Garlic Green Beans
Confetti Corn Pudding
Roasted Garlic Mashed Potatoes
Au Gratin Potatoes
Asst. Gold Fork Signature Desserts
Breakfast Buffet
7-10 am
Mini Omelets
Eggs Benedict
Scrambled Eggs
Bacon
Sausage
Breakfast Potatoes
Carmel French Toast
Asst. Pastries
Cold and Hot Cereals
A combination of the Breakfast and Dinner buffets will be served from 10 am until 2 pm.

Reminder checklist for December graduates

1. Graduation fees

A non-refundable fee of $15 is required for all degrees. Students with graduates degrees might have additional costs. The money is to cover the cost of printing fees, mailing costs and other commencement expenses.

2. Grades

Grades must be reported by Jan. 7 to the Registrar's Office in Anderson 118.

3. Transcripts

Bachelor's degree candidates must supply all transcripts for transfer work applied to the degree by Jan. 7 to the Admissions Office in Anderson 119.

4. Diplomas

- Graduate candidates should provide the Registrar's Office with the correct mailing addresses by Jan. 8 to ensure diplomas will be received.
- Bachelor's degree diplomas will be mailed Jan. 16 and master's degrees diplomas in early February. Doctoral candidates will get diplomas at the graduate school ceremony.
- Souvenir diplomas are available at the K-State Student Union Recreation Center. The cost for graduates is $34 plus tax until March 31 and $45 thereafter. Diplomas are not harmed, but it will be reproduced on a gold or silver finish and mounted on a walnut plaque.

5. Ceremony photography

Orders for videotapes of the ceremony can be ordered at the K-State Student Union Bookstore. Pictures will be taken during the ceremony and graduates will be contacted by the company after the ceremony. No individuals are allowed to stand in the aisles for photographs in McCain Auditorium. It is suggested that audience members use film of ASA 400 or faster, with no flash. Video cameras are allowed but there are no outlets for a 120-volt AC feed.

6. Alumni Association

The K-State Alumni Association keeps addresses current for all graduates. Contact them for any name, marital status, job or address changes to stay current with K-State. Complete the graduate report and return it to the Alumni Records Department, 1720 Alumni Center, Manhattan, Kan., 66506 or call 532-6260.

Source: Registrar's office

Graduates handle variety of expenses

Apparel, celebrations prove costly

By Abbie Whited
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Graduation announcements might be expensive, but there are benefits to sending a lot of them.

"You get a lot of money back," Jennifer King, senior in social science, said.

King, who will participate in commencement Dec. 13, said she mailed 75 announcements and already has received many gifts from friends and family members.

King said she paid for her cap, gown, tassel and announcements with her own money.

"My parents paid for all of my schooling, so I didn't even bother to ask them," she said. "It really hasn't been as bad as I thought it would be. Stamps were a lot more than I expected, though."

For the ceremony, many of King's family members and friends will be in Manhattan. They probably will go out for lunch afterward, and celebrate into the night, she said, but no place is reserved.

Megan Pechin, senior in advertising, reserved a bar in Aggieville for her after-party.

"I had to call the owner to make sure no one else had the time reserved," she said. "I think with most bars you can just reserve a time, and then you pay for just the food and drinks."

Pechin said she will pay for some appetizers, and her guests can purchase additional items on their own. Her mother will bring a cake from Wichita.

Overall, Pechin said she, too, tried to cover graduation costs so her parents didn't have to.

"I figure I'm old enough, I can pay for my own things," she said.

Pechin bought her graduation announcements, and she also thought the cost was too much.

"That part of it's really ridiculous," she said. "If I had more time, I would have made my own to cut down on costs."

To save money, Pechin made her own after-party invitations. She also borrowed items from her roommate, who graduated last May.

"Actually, my cap and gown were my roommate's from last year. I just had to buy the tassels," she said. "I'm really lucky my roommate let me borrow them."

Orrin Holle, senior in agricultural economics, said he also saved money by using a previously worn cap and gown. He purchased a tassel and announcements on his own.

"I've been using my own money to get through college, so I might as well use it to graduate," he said.

Holle said the announcements are a little expensive.

"You pay a lot for what you get, but it's a once-in-a-lifetime deal," he said. "You just have to grin and bear it."

Leah Sobba, apparel and gift manager at Varney's Book Store, said she understands students think graduation items are expensive.

"I think it's always been that way," she said.

"We just have a margin on the items like we do on everything else."

Sobba said she feels the price for personalized graduation announcements is fair, and the price hasn't increased in about two or three years.

The price of caps and gowns increased this year because Varney's changed suppliers, she said.

Varney's had delivery problems with the previous supplier, Sobba said.

Fast facts
Graduation expenses

KSU Bookstore merchandise
- Purchase cap, gown and tassel: $33.99 (bachelor's degree).
- Rent cap, gown, tassel and hood: $54.00 (master's and doctoral).
- Late fee on rentals: $20.
- Twenty-five personalized announcements: $41.99.
- Five announcements: $8.99.
- Twenty-five thank you notes: $3.99.

Renting a place to party
- Hotel banquet rooms range from $100-$1500, depending on room size.
- Bars and restaurants often let you make reservations at no cost.

Catering
- Hotels that also cater sometimes subtract the total of food purchases from the total of the room.
- Mr. Goodcents caters party trays for $36.99 that feed about 10-15 people; delivery is $1.
- Pat's Blue Rib'N Barbeque caters meat and side dishes for about $7 per person; delivery is $20.

"I could have held the same prices with a much lesser quality, and I refused to do that," she said. "It's a nicer quality gown than we could have got-

Bramlage commencement ceremonies disabled-accessible

By James Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Help is available at commencement ceremonies for people with disabilities.

Reservations are not required for special services, said Jim Muller, member of the graduation committee and Bramlage Coliseum administrator.

There will be staff available at Bramlage to help people to their seats.

Muller suggested that anyone requiring assistance arrive about an hour before the ceremony begins.

Depending on Saturday's weather, four-wheel vehicles, including golf carts and Gators, will be available to drive people from the parking lots to the coliseum.

Seating inside the coliseum is open on a first-come, first-serve basis, but visibility should not be an issue for anyone, Muller said.

Because the ceremonies are broadcast on the coliseum's Jumbotron, Muller said there is no bad seat in the arena.

"Every graduate is 12 feet tall on the Jumbotron," he said. "That really allows you to see the smile on your graduate's face."

How to Contact Bramlage Coliseum

People who have special concerns about seating people with disabilities at commencement ceremonies can call Bramlage Coliseum, (785) 532-7600.

Photo illustration by Chris Hanewinckel | COLLEGIAN

Finishing schoolwork, starting new life creates stress for grads

By Kristi Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

If completing graduation requirements early isn't enough, the changes to come add a lot of stress to a graduate's life.

Art Rathbun, biofeedback specialist at the Danskin Biofeedback Center, said the biggest stress for graduates this fall is the thought that everything will change again.

"When leaving high school and coming here, everything changed. You're probably not used to living with a roommate, having a new group of friends, not having your parents around," Rathbun said. "Graduating means you'll have more of a structured life.

"There will be a boss, and day in and day out you'll be expected at work."

Rathbun said the idea of paying student loans shortly after graduation causes a great amount of stress.

"Six months after you graduate, they expect you to start paying off your loans. This causes a good amount of stress," Rathbun said.

He said that if a graduate does not feel good about the way they performed throughout college, it is tougher to move on in life.

"If someone didn't do too well or barely made it through, they feel like they don't know if they can do it again," Rathbun said.

Rathbun said job searching is one of the more popular worries among graduates.

"Sometimes, when you do find a job, you don't like it. It is very important to people to find something they like because it will most likely become their career. Some students near graduation day without a job, and it is just another stressor," Rathbun said.

Rathbun suggested graduates talk to someone to relieve stresses that they might be experiencing.

"Calling someone on a telephone and sharing what you're feeling helps most people," Rathbun said.

Sometimes, Rathbun said, sharing with a friend isn't enough and a professional counselor might minimize stresses.

He said not too many graduates need professional help with their stresses. Some might find it easier to talk to someone close to them or someone that is associated with their religion.

"Talking to your church, synagogue, mosque or whatever it may be can help relieve some stress that you might not be able to share with anyone else," Rathbun said.

Distance education students enjoy commencement via the Internet

By Oksana Boyko
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

"It's the first and probably the only virtual commencement in the nation."

Elizabeth Unger
DEAN OF CONTINUING EDUCATION

If you can't make it to the commencement ceremony in McCain Auditorium this Friday, the ceremony will make it to your place.

K-State's virtual commencement, which is claimed to be the first in the nation, was created for the more than 10 percent of university students who receive their degrees and certificates via distance learning programs.

The commencement, featuring greetings from Elizabeth Unger, dean of continuing education; James Coffman, provost; and Willie the Wildcat, is available at www.dce.ksu.edu/commencement.

The Web page lists all 76 students graduating this semester from distance learning programs to whom cards can be sent without leaving the Web site.

The virtual commencement was first launched for spring 2003 graduation.

"Last spring was the first time when we had about 100 distance-learning graduates. At least half of them can't attend a physical commencement on campus, so we decided to create a virtual ceremony," Unger said.

"It's the first and probably the only virtual commencement in the nation."

She added that her colleagues from other universities praised the idea and might try to create something similar at their universities.

In addition to positive feedback from graduates, the virtual commencement received a national award for creative use of technology from the University Continuing Education Association, Great Plains region, said Melinda Sinn, public information coordinator for Division of Continuing Education.

Sinn said the virtual commencement will be updated and slightly changed for each new graduation.

In fall 2003, 2,406 students have been working on their degrees off campus. K-State currently offers seven bachelor degrees, nine certificate programs and 11 master's degrees via distance education courses.

"It usually takes longer to get a distance education degree because many of our students are working adults and they can't enroll in as many classes as resident students," Sinn said.

In his online greeting, Coffman said that attending K-State at a distance also requires students "to really think and work outside the box" to overcome extra obstacles they might encounter such as place-bound or health-bound situations and family constraints.

The audience for the virtual commencement is expected to grow as distance learning enrollment increase. She cited an increasing need for professional updates, growing number of people changing professions and economic pressure as reasons that boost interest in distance education.

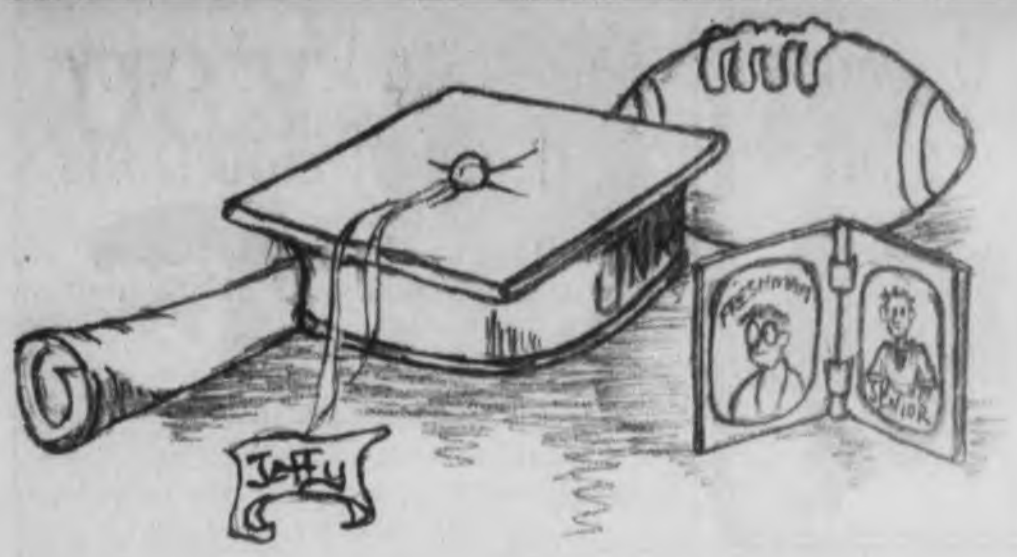
"Enrollment in distance learning program is increasing 10 to 15 percent every year," Unger said.

congratulations, grads
from the KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Congratulations to all graduating seniors
Claflin Books and Copies thanks you for your patronage. Best wishes and good luck in your future.
Claflin Books and Copies
1814 Claflin Rd. (785) 776-3771
independent books for independent minds

GLASS IMPRESSIONS
QUALITY ETCHED GLASS
Including New Choices!
KSU Paperweights, Boxes, Clocks
Bookends, Nameplates, Decanters
Glassware & Pendants $6 - $67
HOLIDAY HOURS
Mon-Fri 10:30-6:30 • Sat 10-5 • Sun 1-5
Glass Impressions • 329 Poyntz

all i want for christmas is a...
BIG ASS
or at least a Gumby's gift certificate
Gift cards available for ALL your holiday cravings
Redeemable across the US
Thanks, K-Staters for making Gumby's #1
GUMBY'S Pizza
702 W. 11th 770-3333



Royal Purple Yearbook
$34.95
get it in 103 Kedzie 8am-5pm

PIZZA PAPA JOHN'S
"you don't have to be drunk to eat our pizza, but it helps."
the Poke this special
FREE Cheesesticks with a large one-topping for $8.99 late night SPECIAL $6.99 large one topping pizza
BEGINS AT 9PM
2615 Anderson • 537-1400
Hours: Mon-Wed 11AM-1AM
Th-Sat 11AM-3AM, Sun 11AM-12AM

Look your best this holiday season!
Get rid of the damage this summer did to your face.
Microderm Abrasions
Glycolic Peels • Blue Peel
Enhance your appearance
Botox • Collagen
Skin care products available only through a physician
10% off with valid Student ID
Don't forget Holiday Gift Certificates are a perfect gift idea for those that have everything!
The Plastic Surgery Clinic, PA
Dr. Kenneth A Fischer
1133 College Ave., Bldg A Ste. 211
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785) 776.7500

1st Annual Apparel Drive
Now through Dec. 24th! 1 item = $1 off
All items collected will be donated to Riley County Budget Shop and Goodwill.
Limit applies see store for details.
Zotcis Wish List
Sign up today and we'll notify your friends and family about everything you want for the holidays!
ZOTCIS
Trendy Men's and Women's Apparel
Store Hours:
Mon - Sat 11am to 8pm
Sun 1pm to 6pm
1203 Moro
-Aggieville-
785-539-4356

Gift Certificates
shear dynamics salon & day spa
presents...
Tigi's Bed Head Cosmetics
Great For Holiday Gifts
* Buy 2 get 1 at 1/2 price
*Free mini makeovers Sat. 12/13
* Free gift bag with any puchase or service
* Free touch-up with any service
Call Now! 776-9100
Located in Laramie Plaza
www.sheardynamics.net

Ready to move on

Despite disadvantages, senior ready to graduate

ABBIE WHITED

Graduating from college is a goal many of us have.

If this isn't your goal, I wonder what you are doing here. But that's not my point.

I'll be graduating this month, and I've been counting down the days until the ceremony since August. I've been looking forward to graduating because I'm ready to be out of school. Four and a half years is long enough for me – although this is a couple years shorter than some people I know.

However, as Dec. 13 approaches, I haven't been looking as forward to the ceremony. Once you graduate, you're done with school. That is, unless you go back for a master's or doctoral degree, or you just want to make a career of being a student, like Van Wilder. Although very humorous, most people don't have the money to do this.

Graduating isn't looking as glamorous anymore for a few minor reasons. But don't get me wrong – overall, I am very excited to receive my diploma.

First of all, I don't have a job yet. I admit I haven't tried as hard as I could to find one, but it's still a little stressful not knowing what I'll do next semester.

With no job, I have no set income. Or health insurance, for that matter.

Being without health insurance is another scary factor.

I've been on my dad's health insurance since the day I was born. But apparently, once I turned 18, I was only eligible for coverage as long as I remained a full-time student.

So every semester since my freshman year in college, I've had to send an official transcript to my dad's insurance company letting them know I was still a full-time student.

Remembering to do so was always a pain, but I'll never have to do that again. Apparently, once I turn 23 in February, it won't matter whether I'm still in school – I'm off the insurance.

No longer being a student, I also will lose my "good student" discount on my car insurance.

I don't think one can be a "good" student if not even a student at all.

And let me tell you, that discount was always greatly appreciated by me when I had to pay the bill.

I'm also assuming that with graduation I'll lose some other financial aid I'm receiving from my dad. He gives me a little money every month for rent and bills, and I doubt he'll keep doing so when I'm not in school.

Despite these few problems, I'm ready to graduate. My work finally has paid off, even though there were many, many times I didn't think it would.

Despite these few problems, I'm ready to graduate. My work finally has paid off, even though there were many, many times I didn't think it would.

And I know that eventually, I will find a job. And eventually I will find some insurance – hopefully sooner than later.

And eventually I won't be worrying about my income.

So for now, my focus is on passing my finals and my classes. I will walk across the stage, get my temporary diploma and be thankful for it. Then I'll enjoy Christmas, New Year's and any other holiday along the way.

And maybe in the meantime I'll search for what's missing from my future – a job.

Abbie is a senior in social science. You can e-mail her at abbie@k-state.edu.

A look back

Senior remembers good times, matures at college

DANA STRONGIN

On Saturday, I plan to take The Big Plunge.

No, I'm not getting hitched, jumping down Niagara Falls or wearing any of Pamela Anderson's shirts. That's next weekend, after finals.

But for now, it's graduation. In two days, I will don a goofy cap and shorty-sized gown to be one woman, standing alone – in sea of a 10 gazillion other Arts and Sciences grads.

I wonder: out of all of the experiences these people had the last few years, what makes my time here stand out? What makes me special?

One recent chilly afternoon comes to mind, when I played football for the first time. Many other Wildcats have played with pigskin, but for me, it was a true coming-of-age experience.

I grew up out there on the field at Memorial Stadium that day.

Envision this: me, stubby but quick, consistently open and waiting during my team's offensive play. A comrade sees me ready, anticipating action, and thrusts the ball toward my waiting arms. I open them, my eyes wide open, and my hands make contact with the rough ball ... .

Then I drop it. This happened twice. Nobody ever threw it to me again.

I didn't need them to. A few years ago, I never would have even been out on that field. I didn't play powder-puff in high school, because I didn't want to look stupid. But now, I totally am up for being stupid, because that's what smart people do – have fun.

This is proof that, despite the fact that my physical stature falls short, I actually am becoming a "grown-up."

I once thought that growing up would mean spending my college years toting heavy texts and contemplating my navel with other well-groomed coeds while resting on perfectly manicured lawns.

I didn't really do any of those things. Textbooks are just too big to carry around, and opening them also means baring that mental strain I call "the weight of academia."

As far as my navel goes, the most thought I've ever given it is a quiet, yet powerful, thankfulness that it's an "innie."

Also, picking up all-out grooming skills will have to wait. Some day I might crack open the sewing kit my mom made me, or hit the streets in my black suit, which has hardly seen the light of day.

My real coming-of-age process can be witnessed through my photographs. Skillfully taken with only the highest quality of disposable cameras, almost every shot shows two or more boozers arm-in-arm, brandishing half-empty drinks and sharing wide, glassy-eyed smiles.

Only true friends are willing to be drunken fools together, night after night. We all know who the genius is, or who plays tennis well, or who always gets the guy/gal. But tequila shots and big beers bring out the real talent. Some people definitely just play pool better when they can't walk straight.

Seriously, though, during my short time here, I've met some people that fascinate me – with or without the presence of substances.

To the Collegian people who knew me when I actually was around: thanks for sharing all of the pressure, random complaints, late-night giggles and the deep feeling of pride that comes with producing this paper. I'll be packing way too many stacks of these damn things to take with me.

Oh, and redheads rule this publication, as it should be.

At K-State, I've also met people who can play the guitar, share my love of HBO, floss dish towels, down Belfast Bombers, let others call their fiancees "Love Bug," talk too openly about their fetishes, point me toward quality modern music, hump trash cans, love the number "12," correctly define the meaning of "right on" and simply hug me better than anyone else I'll ever know.

You know who you are. I'd love to stuff all of you in my moving crate, too. But I guess I have to let you continue becoming grown-ups, as well.

The only other things I'd love to take with me are home football games, the best excuse to tailgate any time of day or night; City Park and Linear Trail, the hot spots for good runs, strolls or just plain thinking; and O'Malley's, the home of many good times and several very cool bartenders.

But I can't bring it all with me. I guess I'll have to cut my losses short.

That's OK. When I look back at it all, the losses are few, and the gains are big.

Dana is a senior in mass communications. You can e-mail her at strongin@ksu.edu.

K-STATE SUPER STORE
A Division of GTM Sportswear
Great K-State Graduation Gifts!
Desk Accessories
Clocks
Mugs
Picture Frames
Diploma Kits
FREE GIFT WRAPPING WITH PURCHASE OVER $50 PARTY SUPPLIES
• K-State Balloon
• Bows
• Ribbon
• Tissue Paper
520 McCall Road • 785-537-0844 • 877-537-1327
Store Hours: M-F 8:30am - 7:00pm • Sat. 9:00am - 7:00pm • Sun. 12:00pm - 5:00pm www.kstategear.com shop 24/7!

Rick's Music Shop
Custom Shop Guitars
Fender·Alvarez·Epiphone
Ovation·Crate·Ibanez
Guitar Lessons
314 Tuttle Creek Blvd. 785.539.5900

have your winter clothes dry cleaned.
Ideal Cleaners
1206 ½ Moro 539-2521

MISTER MONEY USA Pawn Loans INC.
LOOK HERE for great
705 n. 11th
565-0046
6501 A Fort Riley Blvd.
537-1803
Saving deals on great gift ideas

It's Christmas on the Prairie...
Unique Gifts Abound...
• Brighton leathers & accessories
• Caswell-Massey
• Italian Modular Charms
• Women's apparel
• Unique jewelry
• Home décor and fine gifts
At Lilacs on the Prairie
327 Poyntz Ave.
785-565-0900
Hours: Monday-Saturday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.
Thursdays to Christmas open 'til 8 p.m.
Open Sundays November 23 through Christmas, 1-5 p.m.

A Bernina Holiday Sale
Special financing and great prices, too.
Come in to Bernina, there's something for you.
No payments, no interest for one year on Bernina purchases of $1,000 or more.*
November 1-November 30
BERNINA SHOPPE
330 N. 4th Street Manhattan, KS 66502
785-537-8919
www.berninashoppe.com
Nothing Sews Like A Bernina. Nothing.
BERNINA
www.berninausa.com
*Offer is subject to credit approval by GE Capital Consumer Card Co. Applies to Bernina purchases over $1,000 made 11/01/03 to 12/31/03 using your Bernina consumer credit card account. No finance charges will be assessed on the promotional purchase amount until expiration or termination of the promotion. Minimum monthly payments are not required on the promotional purchase during the promotional period. If minimum monthly payments on any other balances on your account are not paid when due, all special promotional terms may be terminated. Standard account terms apply to non-promotional purchases and other promotion ends, to your promotional purchases. Variable APR is 21.15% as of 04/1/03. Penal APR is 24.15% if payment is 30 days or more past due. Minimum finance charge is $1. Offer available at participating dealers.
© 2003 Bernina of America

The art of creating a smile of lasting beauty.
Smile enhancement by the professionals
SAGER DENTAL ASSOCIATES, P.A.
Hygiene Department
For more information, see our ad in your Sidekick! *Manhattan Southwestern Bell Yellow Pages.

KSU Class of '03

Ben Frusher

In all your ways acknowledge Him and He shall direct your paths - Proverbs 3:6
Love, Dad, Mom, Bobbi and Joey

KSU Class of '03

Angela Hands

Can't decide if we're more proud of our Arm Wrestling Champion or 2003 Graduate.
Love, Mom and Dad

KSU Class of '03

Andrea Judith Cauthon

We are very proud of you.
Love,
Mom, Dad, Ashley, Andy & Alec

KSU Class of '03

Brent Wesley Maxwell

You did it! We are very proud of you!
Congratulations and best wishes!!
Love, Mom, Dad, and Family

KSU Class of '03

Brooke Taylor

Congratulations, Brooke! We're very proud of you.
May your future bring you happiness & success.
Love, Mom & Dad

KSU Class of '03

Morgen Renaé Bush - Tara MacLean Hancock

Congratulations to our special daughters.
We love you. May God bless you.
Love, Dad & Mom

KSU Class of '03

Christina Jo Cundiff

We admire you and are very proud of you!
Love you, Mom, Dad, Sarah & Em

KSU Class of '03

Patricia Baumgartner

You did it! Congratulations, we are very proud of you. We love you very much.
Love, Dad, Mom, Joseph

KSU Class of '03

Chad Keethler

Congrats! Way to go! You're a great son.
May all your dreams come true!
Love, Mom

KSU Class of '03

Lori Whitney

Way to go! You're on your way!
You're the best! We love ya!
Mom and Dad

KSU Class of '03

Marcus Howe

Congratulations, you finally did it. Good job.
We're very proud of you.
Love, Mom & John

KSU Class of '03

Felicia Marie Walker

Congratulations! Our blessings go with you as you face new challenges. Yea, you're the best!
Love, Mom and Family

KSU Class of '03

Angela Lynn Reicks

Congratulations!
We're very proud of your accomplishments.
Good luck at TTU. Love, Mom and Dad

KSU Class of '03

Steven Lyddon

Congratulations!
We are very proud of you!
Love, Mom & Dad

KSU Class of '03

Brooke Elizabeth Burnett

You did it! We are so proud of you.
You believed in yourself.
Love, your family

KSU Class of '03

Cristy Cammack

When you focus on God, all things around you become clear. Congratulations on your achievements! Love, Mom and Dad

KSU Class of '03

Joshua Mayer

Congratulations, son.
We are proud of you.
Love, Mom, Dad & Jon

KSU Class of '03

Patricia Lee Farley

Congratulations, we are very proud of you.
Reach for the stars. The world is yours.
Love, Mom and Dad

KSU Class of '03

Brandon Reinert

Congratulations, Brandon. We are proud of you - good luck in your future.
Love, Mom, Dad and Chad

Despite current situation, experts predict improvement in job market

By Scott Seel
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

All the emotional turmoil of graduating aside, most graduates care about one thing and one thing only.

Jobs.

Kerri Day Keller, director of Career and Employment Services, said the center is finalizing the post-graduation employment statistics for last year.

"I think what it is going to show is that K-State students are holding their own in the job market, but it's pretty tight," Keller said.

She said the number of employers at the graduation fair and taking part in on-campus interviews this year is about the same as last year.

"The past two years in particular, we saw a dramatic decrease in the number of firms at the fair and in the interviews," she said. "It still has not recovered to the level that it previously was, and I don't think a lot of people expect it to ever recover to that level."

Keller said there have been some indicators of improvement on the national level.

Lloyd Thomas, professor of economics, said, the economy recently has begun to pick up strength.

"It has been fairly slack since 2001 when we went into a recession," Thomas said. "However, the last one or two quarters, economic activity is picking up."

Thomas also said the Federal Reserve's recent decision to keep interest rates the same will have a positive affect on the economy.

"By summer, I would expect the unemployment rate to be lower than it is now," he said. "Right now it is at 5.9 percent"

Thomas said firms that saw a significant decrease in profits following the last recession have been in a situation known as "jobless recovery" in the post-recession world.

"Jobless recovery is increasing output without hiring new workers," he said.

Keller said CES has several suggestions for K-State graduates, as well as current students.

"We certainly recommend that students use lots of different strategies in terms of their job search," she said.

Keller said one suggestion is to register with CES.

"We provide online job listings, on campus interviews and career fairs for students to take advantage of," she said.

CES, she said, also has a program known as the Wildcat Mentor Network, which consists of more than 100 alumni willing to provide assistance and advice current students and new graduates about surviving in the job world.

"We also purchased a specialized data software called Career Search that could be helpful in uncovering the hidden job market that is out there," she said.

How to Register with CES

- Go to their Web site at www.k-state.edu/ces and click on services and registration.
- Call at 532-6506.
- Visit them at 100 Holtz Hall.

Graduates can benefit from services offered by being members of Alumni Association

By Tony Herrman
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

For five years following graduation, K-State alumni can join the Alumni Association for $20 a year – 50 percent off the usual fee.

Membership to the association has many benefits.

Courtney Marshall, director of communication and membership services for the Alumni Association, graduated in 1996 and worked in Texas for four years.

"During that time the Association was my connection to K-State to let me know what was happening," she said.

Brad Sidener, vice president of the Alumni Association, is a 1983 graduate. Sidener has worked for the Alumni Association for the past seven years, and like Marshall, he said his membership was one of his only connections to campus.

"It's one way for me to stay connected to my alma mater," Sidener said. "It's also a way for me to give to programming to get future kids to come to K-State through recruiting or scholarships."

During the 20 years Sidener has been a member of the Alumni Association, he said it has tried reach students before they graduate.

"It's become more visible, and the Association has strived to reach a more diverse audience," Sidener said.

Despite all the benefits of being a membership of the Alumni Association, Sidener said it is the pride of staying informed with his alma mater that he enjoys the most.

Membership applications are available both online at the Alumni Association Web site and at the K-State Alumni Center.

If you join Alumni Association

What you get

- K-Stater magazine four times a year.
- 15-percent discount on K-State-related items at the K-State Student Union Bookstore.
- Discounts on regular posted green fees and 15-percent discount on apparel at Colbert Hills Golf Course.
- Annual K-State full-color wall calender.
- Discounted child care at home football games.
- Discounted subscription rate on Powercat Illustrated sports magazine.
- Discounted fees for the K-State libraries, natatorium and Chester E. Peters Recreational Complex.
- Free use of four-person conference rooms at the K-State Alumni Center when available.

Source: www.k-state.com.

Cleaning house?
Sell your stuff to students.
Kansas State Collegian • classifieds • 103 Kedzie Hall • 532-6555

KSU Class of '03

Leslie Anne Hill
Congratulations on a job well done!!!
Love,
Mom & Dad

KSU Class of '03

Jessica Joan Garate
Excellent accomplishments! We are very proud of you. Orgullo para la familia Garate-Duran.
Love - Mom - Dad - Angie - Douglas

KSU Class of '03

Anne Stowers
We are all very proud of you!
Congratulations!
Love, Mom, Dad, Katie, Braxton & Andy

KSU Class of '03

Jonathan Wren
We are very proud of you!
We love you.
Mom, Dad, and Joel

KSU Class of '03

Curt Haverland
Congratulations, Curt!
We are all very proud.
Love, Mom and Dad, Matt, Kim & Brighton

KSU Class of '03

Sharri Rae Burton
To the one we love the most. Congrats!
We are very proud of you!
Love, Mom and Dad

KSU Class of '03

Kevin Koelsch
Jayhawk bred and Wildcat educated.
Way to go, Kev! We are very proud of you.
Love, Mom

KSU Class of '03

Tiffany Jensen
You made it!
We're so proud of you.
Love, Dad & Nancy

KSU Class of '03

Fanisha Flegler
Words can't describe how proud we are of you.
Look to your future and smile.
We love you - Dad and Mom

KSU Class of '03

Emily Marie Noyes
Congratulations! May your present successes lead to a future filled with happiness.
Love, Mom, Dad, Ben & Tucker

KSU Class of '03

Christopher Froetschner
Yeah! You made it!
Now get a job.
Love, Mom, Dad & Sarah

KSU Class of '03

Andrew Shull #98
You are an awesome son.
Thank you for making our lives so much fun!
Love, Mom & Dad

KSU Class of '03

Alan Dyck
You didn't have a chance. We're proud of you anyway. Rock Chalk, Jayhawk
Love, Mom & Dad

Some colleges' employment rates lower than expected

By Scott Seel
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

According to a Career and Employment Services report at K-State, the Departments of Architecture, Planning and Design and Arts and Sciences rank the lowest among K-State colleges in terms of placing graduates either in further education or in employment germane to their K-State degree.

Marcia Schuley, associate director of CES, said the statistics are extremely important, as they provide an indicator of the current market's ability to provide K-State graduates with sustainable employment.

"For me particularly, I'm pretty obsessive-compulsive about following up on my students," Schuley said. "I see it as closing the circle between the initial recruitment and the final disposition of the student."

"Two-thousand was the peak – the majority of students left our campus with a job," she said.

Schuley said that in recent months, it is a much slower market. The stock market continues to approach pre-recession numbers, but the job market has not been rising accordingly.

"These statistics give a real picture of that," she said.

Schuley said that although the statistics were not yet available, she knows there are still "quite a few" May 2003 graduates seeking employment.

"I use the statistics when I go and speak to classes," she said. "I tell them it is very hard, but it doesn't mean there isn't hope."

She said she tells the students not to wait until December to start looking for jobs because the market is so slow, and that they should start as early as September of the year they are graduating.

One method to do this, Schuley said, is to take advantage of a database subscribed to by CES to tap into the potential job market.

"It does not show actual job openings, but does give students an idea that you don't want to wait until December to start looking for jobs," Schuley said.

She said that lately, K-State graduates are going to smaller or mid-size companies. Information technology majors such as computer engineering are beginning to go more toward educational institutions, such as K-State as well as non-profit organizations and hospitals.

"Students and graduates need to tap into the hidden market, use their networking skills and read the paper so they know what companies just won big contracts or are in a position to hire," she said.

Schuley said CES is very proud of their statistics because it takes a tremendous amount of effort to produce them.

"All regents schools required to do this," she said. "But no one commits the amount of time and effort that we do to have it as high a priority as we do."

Ray Weisenburger, associate dean of the College of Architecture, Planning and Design, said the department's statistics had been fairly good up until the most recent recession.

"I don't know where we ranked before, but we have had pretty good results prior to this recent slow down," he said.

Weisenburger said the statistics do not necessarily mean graduates are not able to find jobs.

"What I am guessing is happening is that people are not finding jobs rapidly in architecture and the related disciplines," Weisenburger said.

As a result, the statistics show a very low initial placement percentage, but most students find a job eventually.

"A lot of it, also, is deciding where to go," he said. "Even when we have recessions, a lot of our placements are in Kansas City and St. Louis."

Weisenburger said places like Texas almost always have a plethora of jobs, but many students are willing to wait to gain employment in a city closer to home.

The statistics, he said, are very useful, even if they are not entirely accurate.

"Yes, they are all of great use," he said.

"I might add that when people are coming here seeking a place to undertake their studies, we give them the full numbers of what's happened in the past year."

He said the college does not discount the statistics or provide excuses, but rather presents them to prospective students and allows the students and their families to decipher them as they wish.

Larry Erpelding, associate dean of the College of Agriculture, said he thinks the statistics are fairly accurate and that they help the college in terms of discussing academic programs with perspective students and their parents.

"Certainly, we're interested in very high placement rates," he said.

"That indicates our students are in high demand."

He said his college, which ranks first in overall placement, has excellent placement in most areas, despite the poor economic condition.

"We have to have high-quality graduates and programs to get good numbers," he said.

He said, though, that if they have a tremendous turndown in a certain segment of the economy, it doesn't matter how good the program is, the rates will be low.

Fast facts
Placement rates

(Including students placed in either a job or are furthering their education.)

- College of Agriculture: 93 percent.
- College of Human Ecology: 91.9 percent.
- College of Engineering: 89.1 percent.
- College of Education: 88 percent.
- College of Business Administration: 86 percent.
- College of Arts and Sciences: 80 percent.
- College of Architecture: 75.5 percent

Winter, spring ceremonies stay consistent

By James Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The cold weather should be one of the few differences graduates will see between the December and May commencement ceremonies.

Consistency is one of the goals for which the graduation committee strives, member Jim Muller said.

"We have a pretty tried-and-true formula," he said.

The setup of the graduates' seating is altered because of the difference in the number of graduates. The rest of the aspects – parking, spectator seating, speakers, etc. – remain largely unchanged.

"We look at the national climate and try to see if there are any speakers who would be controversial or of a wide interest," Muller said.

The formula for how the ceremonies run has been set because it seems to work well for K-State, Muller said, and the committee generally examines only more details, such as where the photographer should be positioned.

"We want to ensure the pomp and circumstance, the dignity, remains in the ceremony," he said.

Other changes, such as the date of graduation in relation to the end of the semester, are determined by other factors, such as surrounding holidays and student input.

The Wait is over! Your 2003 Royal Purple is here Pick it up! 103 Kedzie 8am-5pm

Uncommon watches

SKAGEN
& other uncommon gifts
Come to GEOMETRICS
for a small town experience with big city products
Free gift wrapping
407 Poyntz, Manhattan
M-F 10-6, Sat 10-5 537-7677

FeLiNa GRADUATE TO BETTER LINGERIE
Patricia's UNDERCOVER Lingerie
1224 MORO AGGIEVILLE
GIFTS WRAPPED FREE

DISCOUNTS GALORE
Reg. Sale
Coats..... $169.99 $149.99
House Shoes..... $49.99 $37.49
$44.99 $33.74
75% OFF Assorted Sandals and Shoes Limited Supply
35% OFF Leather Goods Belts • Billfolds Purses
25% OFF Shine Kits Wooden Boxes Travel Bags
MANHATTAN SHOE REPAIR
776-1193
216 South Fourth

you ruLe...
university COMMONS apartments
• 2 & 4 Bedroom Apartment Homes • Individual Leases
• Decked-out Kitchens • Fully Furnished • Near KSU Stadium
• Computer Lab with Copier & Fax • Washers and Dryers in unit
• Tennis, Basketball & Volleyball Courts • Recreation Room
• Swimming Pool • Permit Parking • Exercise Room
• Monitored • Alarm Systems • Roommate matching • Balconies
the place for people like you...
2215 COLLEGE AVENUE / 785-539-0500
Model Open Daily M-F 9-5
www.UniversityCommons.com
bring this coupon in for...
6 months free expanded cable w/ HBO
New leases only. Void after Dec. 31, 2003

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

www.kstatecollegian.com | Thursday, January 22, 2004 | Vol. 108, No.78

Battery reported in county office

Treasurer allegedly involved in incident

By Lauren Bishop
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Limited information has surfaced concerning a battery that occurred Jan. 9 in the Riley County Treasurer's office.

The battery involved victim Robert Nall, a county employee.

Reportedly, Riley County Treasurer Eileen King was involved, although Riley County Police Department Lt. Kurt Moldrup said that despite that report, no suspect has been identified.

However, he did comment on the report Nall filed. Moldrup said Nall was kneeling to fix a computer that was making a loud noise in the treasurer's office .

This upset the assailant and resulted in Nall being pushed and knocked over.

Moldrup said the incident occurred Jan. 9, but was not reported until Jan. 15. No medical attention was sought.

County Commissioner Bob Newsome could not disclose any information that was discussed within a recent private executive meeting, but did say the lapse of time between when the alleged battery occurred and when it was reported to the RCPD was not discussed.

"All matters need to let the law take their course," Newsome said.

King was unable to be reached for comment.

2 Fort Riley deaths reported during break

Post sees 20th, 21st soldier deaths during university's winter holiday

By James Hurla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Two Fort Riley soldiers died in Iraq during the Collegian's hiatus from publication, bringing the number of soldiers killed to 21.

Sgt. Jarrod W. Black was killed Dec. 12 in Ar Ramadi, and Sgt. Dennis A. Corral, died Jan. 1 in Baghdad.

Black, 26, from Peru, Ind., was killed when hit his convoy.

The term "improvised explosive device" comprises all explosives that are not military grade.

Black

Corral, 33, of Kearney, Neb., died when his vehicle went out of control and rolled. His convoy was traveling to the Baghdad International Airport.

Both incidents are under investigation. The deaths of the other 19 Fort Riley soldiers also are under investigation.

Fort Riley spokeswoman Deb Skidmore said the investigations usually take several months because of the location and volume of deaths.

Black was assigned to Company B, 1st Battalion, 34th Armor, 1st Brigade, 1st Infantry Division. He joined the Army in September 1999 and has been stationed at Fort Riley since December 2002.

He was deployed to Iraq in September.

Corral was assigned to Company C, 1st Engineer Battalion, 1st Brigade, 1st Infantry Division. He joined the Army in January 1997 and has been stationed at Fort Riley since October 2003.

He was deployed to Iraq in December.

Officials work to stop computer worm

y Scott A. Seel
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Students returning to campus and opening their Webmail accounts found dozens of unwelcome greetings.

On Monday, the K-State e-mail servers were bombarded by "beagle," a worm designed to implant in a computer and replicate itself.

The worm has found its way into the mail servers of colleges and universities throughout the country.

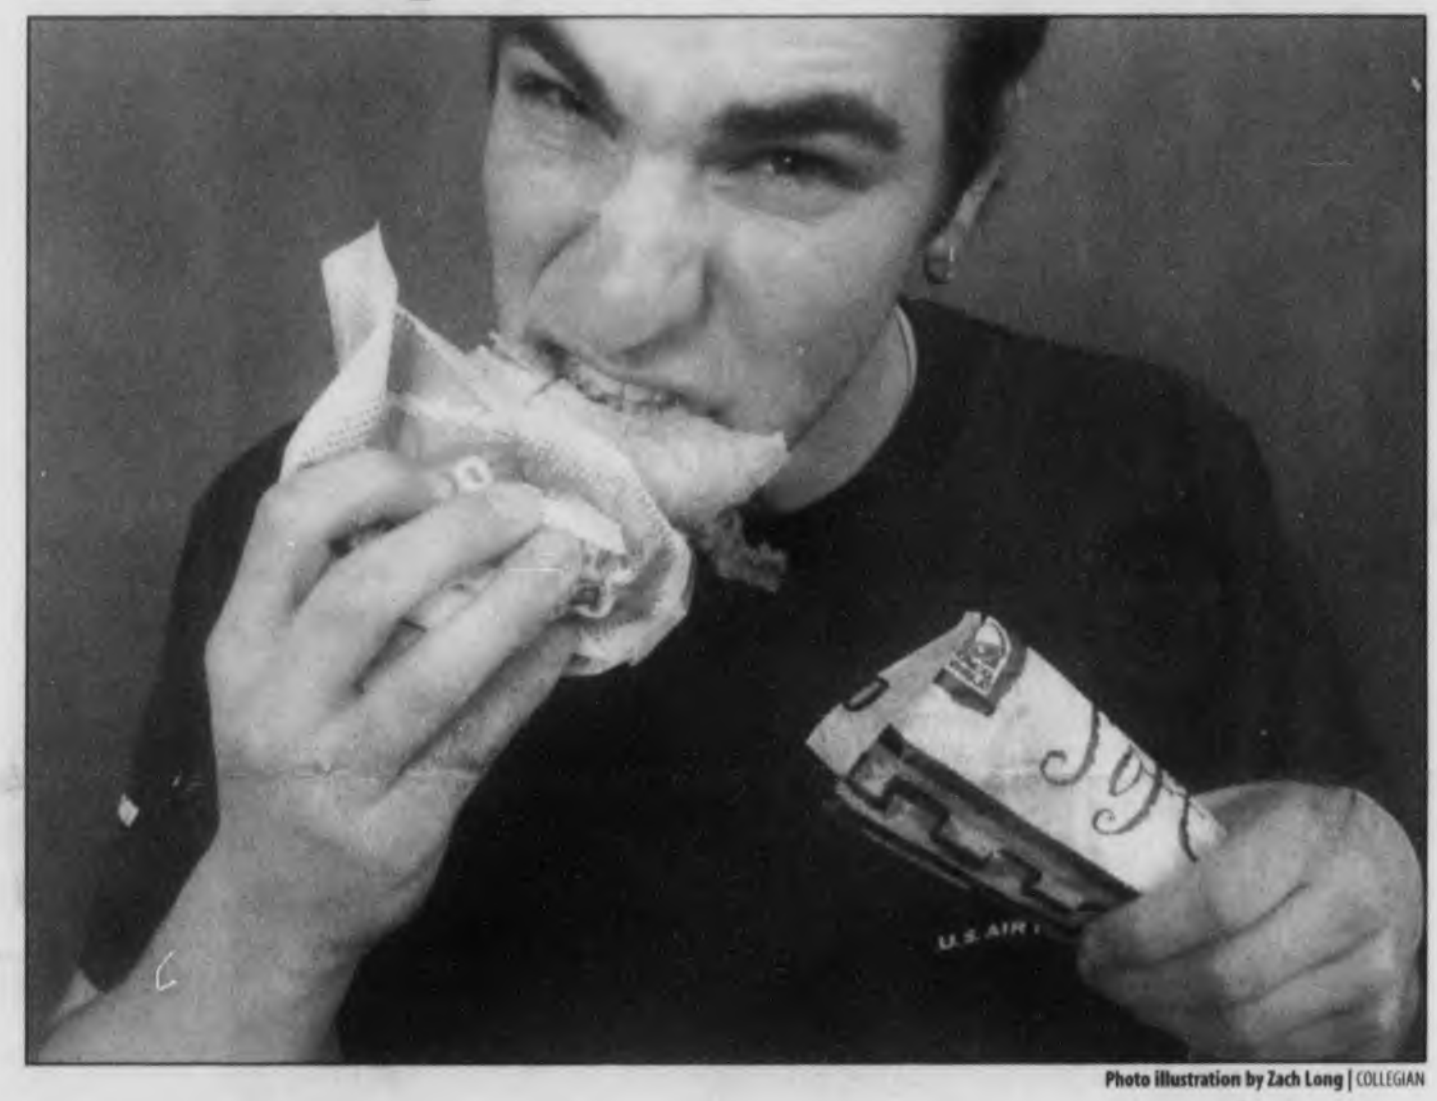
Tim Ramsey, information technology security coordinator for Computing and Network Services, said the worm appears in the form of an e-mail with the subject heading "Hi." The text of the e-mail says the message is a test, and then has an executable file (.exe) with a randomly generated name consisting of numbers and letters.

"Once you open the e-mail, if you are foolish enough to run the executable (file), the program has complete control of your system," Ramsey said. "You cannot get the worm without running the executable."

He said the program sets itself to run every time the user's computer boots up.

"Beagle installs its own little mail server to run in the background of your computer and mails out copies of itself," Ramsey said. "We discovered more than 20 computers infected by Beagle being using the program to distribute spam."

He said those computers were discovered Tuesday evening and immediately removed from the network.



Ramsey said although there are some contradicting reports, it appears the virus might contain a "back door" allowing an intruder to gain full control over a user's workstation.

See VIRUS Page 16

How to Get rid of the worm

- Get Beagle removal CDs, Microsoft Windows patches and other helpful tools at K-State Student Union computer store, the residence halls or at the help desk on the third floor of Hale Library.
- Students can also download the removal program at www.k-state.edu.

Yo quiero Taco Bell

Photo illustration by Zach Long | COLLEGIAN

Zach Long | COLLEGIAN
Susan Henderson prepares chips Wednesday at Taco Bell in the Union Food Court. Taco Bell returned to the Food Court after a semester-long hiatus.

Taco Bell replaces Eddie Peppers

By Edie Hall
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

You wanted it, you got it.

After several months of persuading and planning, the Union Food Court will boast the opening of Taco Bell at 10:30 a.m.

Gayle Thober, senior food service director, said student satisfaction drove the decision to bring Taco Bell back after its contract was not renewed last year and Eddie Peppers replaced it in August.

Thober said although she wasn't at K-State when the decision to bring Eddie Peppers in was made, she's ready to take the heat for it.

"We made a mistake and now Taco Bell is back," she said.

Thober said she doesn't believe Eddie Peppers was a bad product, but a different taste profile that students weren't used to and wouldn't buy.

"Taco Bell is just part of the students' culture," Thober said.

"It's what they were raised on. It's hard to say, 'Ok, we screwed up,' but it's the right thing to do."

"If it makes the students happy, then it's the right thing."

Thober said students showed their preferences with their wallets.

"We realized what was happening and stopped and looked at the sales. They were down from the previous year," she said.

"That said students wanted Taco Bell."

Thober said the sales weren't the only indicator of students' disapproval.

See TACO BELL Page 16

Did you know?
Taco Bell specials

- To celebrate its return to K-State, Taco Bell will feature 49-cent tacos today.
- Taco Bell's official grand opening will be from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Thursday.
- Prizes including a prepaid cell phone and palm pilot will be given away.

INSIDE

Women's basketball team extends winning streak to 11 games during break.

Page 7

HEADLINES

The Associated Press

Bush's defense
President Bush said Wednesday "there are still troubled times" in states like Ohio as he touted his plan for retraining laid-off workers for new careers. Democrats derided the approach as meager in an economy that has shed 2.3 million jobs during the Bush presidency.

Bush
PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

More primaries
As fast as you can say "Kerry wins," the Democratic presidential candidates are retooling their campaigns in an appeal to New Hampshire's independent voters. The White House hopefuls also are making decisions about the vital next stage of the campaign, February elections in 17 states.

Privacy threat
A seven-state crime database launched with $12 million in federal funds is a more powerful threat to privacy than its organizers acknowledge, the American Civil Liberties Union alleged Wednesday. Officials contend it is merely an investigative tool to help police quickly gather information on suspects.

Less force
Incidents in which Topeka police used force dropped by 20 percent last year, and officials are crediting an increased supply of Taser electronic devices. Injuries to officers and the people they dealt with dropped by more than 40 percent.

DON'T FORGET

- Magician Garry Carson & Kelsey will perform at 7 tonight at Forum Hall. Admission is free.
- "Radio" will be shown at 7 and 9:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday at Forum Hall. Cost is $2.
- Senate Minority Leader Tom Daschle will speak at the Landon Lecture Series at 9:30 a.m. Monday at McCain Auditorium.

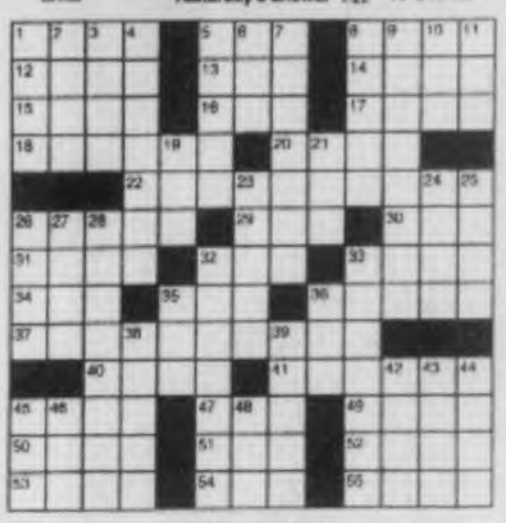
Daschle

Weather

Today: Mostly sunny 38 | 26
Friday: Sunny 50 | 34

Claflin Books and Copies
1814 Claflin Rd. (785) 776-3771
www.claflinbooks.com Fax: (785) 776-1009

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer



ACROSS
1 Stylish
5 Baby dog
8 Blame-bearer
12 Entice
13 Ostrich's cousin
14 Puerto —
15 Rob Petrie's boss
16 Game-show prize
17 Bread spread
18 Om. e.g.
20 Aerobatic maneuver
22 Patrick Dennis' kin
26 Rainbow or speckled
29 That girl
30 Charged bill
31 Session with a shrink
32 Utah campus letters
33 Aware of
34 Feedbag morsel
35 Tramp
36 Data units
37 "Song of the South" figure
40 Ohio team
41 Whole
45 Largest of the seven
47 Ring decision
49 Paradise
50 Detail, for short
51 Fine-grained wood
52 Oboist's sliver
53 Obi
54 Pataki's letter-head abbr.
55 Director Gene

DOWN
1 Unstalk-ative one
2 Story-telling dance
3 Dr. Seuss' "If — the Zoo"
4 Horse-man?
5 Praline ingredient
6 Ms. Thurman
7 Outlying district
8 One with stable employ-ment?
9 Rem-brandt medium
10 Expert
11 Exces-sively
19 Trench
21 "— the ramparts —"
23 "Scarbor-ough Fair" herb
24 Speck
25 Slaughter of base-ball
26 Grand
27 Reddish steed
28 Bellows
32 "Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore" actress
33 Marine mollusks
35 ... and where to find them
36 Chignon
38 Emcee Robin —
39 Catcalls?
42 Thought
43 Stench
44 Rem-nants
45 Foolish one
46 Resort
48 Crucial

Solution time: 25 mins.

Yesterday's answer 1-22

1-22 CRYPTOQUIP

HJ PZS'XQ FZC YR ZXQMLQYL DQR DYN, LOZSNT PZS AYNN OQM Y JZMQHFR AZMMQLDZRTQRC?

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: IF ANY MIME HAD A FAVORITE SONG, I BET IT'D REALLY HAVE TO BE "SILENT NIGHT."

Today's Cryptoquip Clue: D equals P

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 2! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to CryptoClassics Book 2, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475

The Cryptoquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.

© 2004 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

MEET THE EDITORS

What readers can expect from us

Katie Lane
EDITOR IN CHIEF
"The buck stops here. I will ensure what you want is in the paper."

Sarah Rice
MANAGING EDITOR
"I will be an advocate for the stories and photos that matter. I want the Collegian to be a credible and valuable news source."

Edie Hall
NEWS EDITOR
"No more stupid stories in my beloved Collegian. If you see stories that make you wonder who in world could care about this topic, e-mail me personally, I am to blame."

Lindsey Bauman
PHOTO EDITOR
"I will work hard to fill the paper with quality images. I care about giving readers a visually strong paper every day."

Zach Long
ASST. PHOTO EDITOR

Matt Girard
SPORTS EDITOR
"Sports are my life, so I will put my all into the sports section everyday with interesting stories, coverage and cool photos."

Kristi Hurla
CITY/GOV EDITOR
"City and government affairs will be covered in a way like never before. Rest assured, my writers and I will work to fulfill your daily fix of news."

Amy Preston
CAMPUS EDITOR
"You can expect me to cover campus news in a new way. Rather than bore you with the details here, see for it yourself in every Collegian."

Corbin H. Crable
THE EDGE EDITOR
"The Edge page will be "edgier," with topics that might be controversial but will make for lively discussion."

Nasrina Williams
OPINION EDITOR
"My columnists and I will provide an opinion page that instigates, informs and amuses."

James Hurla
COPY CHIEF
"I will make this paper perfect every day. There will be no more confusion between campus officials and international terrorists."

Jennifer Shelton
PRESENTATION EDITOR
"Designs coming off this desk will help you get the information you need quickly and accurately."

Joe Bobek
ONLINE EDITOR
<HTML>"I put everything on the Web."</HTML>

Amy Link
READERS' REPRESENTATIVE
"I will serve as your connection to the Collegian. It is my hope that we can make the Collegian a newspaper that every student wants to read."

Jared Jaynes
AD MANAGER
"Well, what can I say? I love ads."

Jenny Calvert
ASST. AD MANAGER
"All I want out of life is more ads."

The blotter | Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Tuesday, Jan. 20

- At 10 a.m., Joseph F. Fabre, 812 El Paso, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $5,000.
- At 10:30 a.m., Kelsy C. Wade, Junction City, Kan., was arrested for obstruction of the legal process. Bond was set at $1,000.
- At 11:30 a.m., Jeffrey L. Currie, 3721 S. 33rd, was arrested for probation violation. Bond was set at $1,000.
- At 5 p.m., Jeffrey L. Currie, 3721 S. 33rd, was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $3,000.
- At 11:55 p.m., Kevin C. Moore, 2016 Deerfield Square, was arrested for driving on a suspended license. Bond was set at $500.

Wednesday, Jan. 21

- At 12:45 a.m., Kyle W. Kaemmer, 516 N. 14th, was arrested for disorderly conduct. Bond was set at $750.
- At 12:45 a.m., Matthew A. Potchad, 1120 N. Manhattan, was arrested for disorderly conduct. Bond was set at $750.

The planner

Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@spub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- The ECM Christian Explorers will have their weekly dinner and activity at 5:30 p.m. Sunday at the ECM Building, 1021 Denison Ave.
- Entries for intramural basketball, doubles sports including four-wall handball, four-wall racquetball, table tennis and wallyball will be taken Jan. 22-29 at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex administration office. Office hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.
- Library tours will be available at 11 a.m. Tuesday and 2 p.m. Jan. 29 at the Hale Library reception desk.
- The Baptist Campus Center will have its weekly "Alias" viewing party and reflection at 8 p.m. Sunday at the center, 1801 Anderson Ave.
- KSU Aikido will conduct a martial arts class from 7 to 9 p.m. Friday in Ahearn 301.

Contact us

Kansas State Collegian
Kedzie 103
Manhattan, KS 66502
Display ads.....532-6560
Classified ads.....532-6555
Newsroom.....532-6556
news@spub.k-state.edu
Delivery problems.....532-6555

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call News Editor Edie Hall at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@spub.ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.

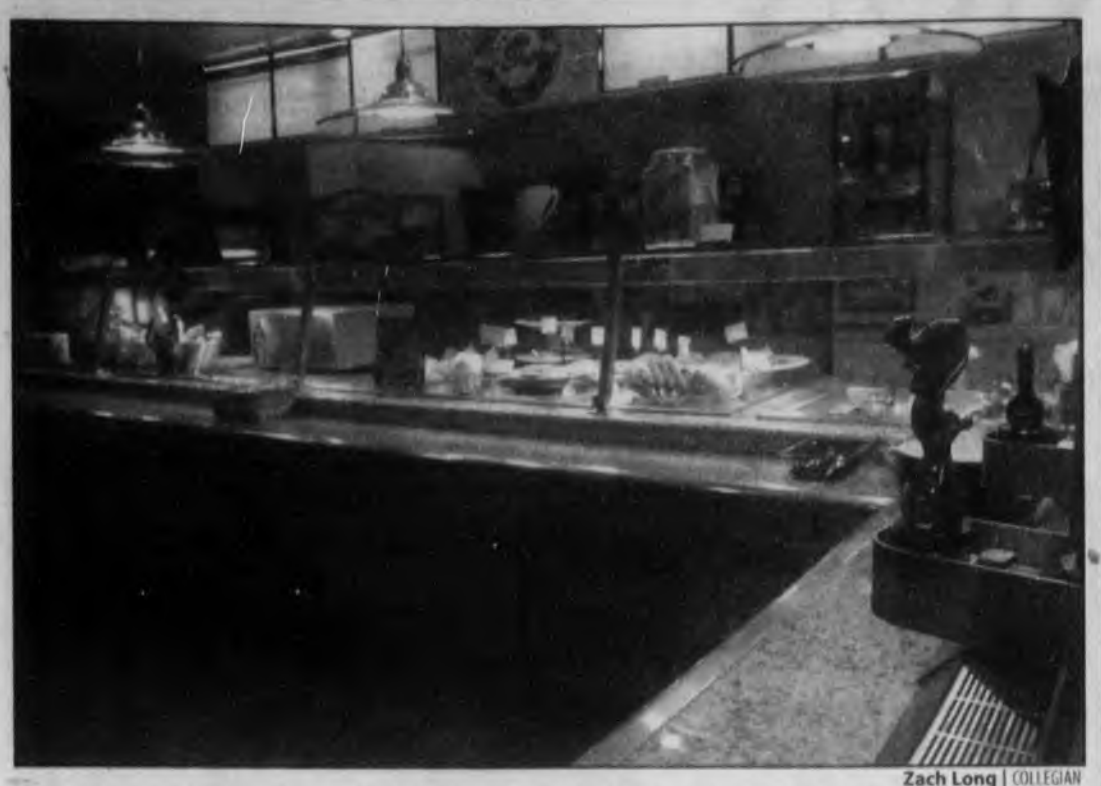
© Kansas State Collegian, 2004

Little Caesars
HOT-N-READY pizza
$5.00 LARGE WITH PEPPERONI Carry Out Only
ALL DAY, EVERYDAY!
1150 Westloop • 539-3333

Fat's Bar & Grill
thursday specials
$7.50 bottles
$2.75 fish bOwls
12th & Laramie 776-2424

Claflin Books and Copies
✓ color copies
✓ 5 cent self serve copies
✓ digital & print design
✓ binding
✓ electronic file submission
✓ printing from disk
✓ quality papers
WELCOME BACK, K - STATE STUDENTS!
Store Hours Beginning Jan. 22
Monday-Friday 9am to 9pm
Saturday 9am to 5pm
Sunday 1pm to 5pm
1814 Claflin Rd. 776-3771

SUN CONNECTION
1125 Laramie
776-2426
Semester Unlimited Tanning $99
Single Ultra Bronze $15 session
WELCOME BACK STUDENTS!



HUNAM
Restaurant and Mongolian BBQ
1304 Westloop 539-8888
Lunch Buffet $4.95 Mon.-Sat. All you can eat!
Dinner Buffet $6.95 All you can eat!
Friday Night Seafood Buffet $8.45
Crabs legs, scallops, fish, shrimp, etc.
FREE DELIVERY • OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK •
$1.00 off Buffet
Please present coupon
1304 Westloop 539-8888

Chase Manhattan APARTMENTS
1, 2, 3 and 4 Bedroom Units
NOW PET FRIENDLY!
Call the office for details!
All Appliances Included
24-Hr. Fitness Facility
24-Hr. Laundry Care Center
On-Site Management/Maintenance
Swimming Pool - Basketball Court
Chase Manhattan Apartments
at the corner of College and Claflin
1/2 mile from K-State
(785) 776-3663

Call for Nominations
Presidential Award for Excellence in Undergraduate Advising
Students, faculty and staff may submit the names of potential nominees for this award to department heads or deans.
Nominations should be submitted as soon as possible so that the nominees have adequate time to prepare the appropriate materials.
Deans must provide their nominations to the Office of the Provost by March 1, 2004.
Student input is a valuable part of the nomination and selection process, so use this opportunity to honor those who have served you as an outstanding advisor.

Back to School SPECIAL
OIL CHANGE $9.95!
Appointment Necessary
No Drop-Ins, Please
We Service All Makes of Cars
Our FIVE full time mechanics will get you in tune!
American & Foreign Cars
• Engine Overhaul • Motor Tune-ups • Complete Brake • Electrical & Automatic Transmission Service • Manual Transmissions & Clutch Repair • Sun Computer Print Out • Diagnostic Center • Air Conditioning Service
Ekart Automotive Services Since 1954
776-5110 411 S. 5th St. • 1 Blk. North of Ft. Riley Blvd.

Welcome Back Students
Stoltz
Uptown Tuesdays $2 Ultra Pints $3 Appletinis
Monthly Drawing
1/2 price bottles Longhorns Ladies
"Just like the old days...only different."
Wednesday
Thirsty Thursdays $1 $1 one dollar one dollar Big Beers Wells
Friday Doors open at 8pm. 18+ over Live Ten til Blue
Retro Saturday Nightz
1115 Moro • Aggieville

Zach Long | COLLEGIAN

One of the many new features students will find in the K-State Student Union is a coffee and sandwich cafe at Union Station. The shop will feature sandwiches with freshly baked bread, along with desserts and coffee items.

Student union renovates dining locations, cyber cafes

By Edie Hall
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Change is good.

This is the philosophy behind the renovations made to the K-State Student Union during winter break.

Union employees had more in store for students than the return of Taco Bell, Gayle Thober, senior food service director, said.

One of the most dramatic changes was moving Starbucks coffee shop, which used to be across from the Food Court, to Union Station.

A cyber cafe with new paint and decorations and overstuffed couches and chairs also help to turn the old Campbell's Soup location into a coffee shop.

"There are coffee shops close to campus, but nothing here for the students," Thober said.

"They need a place of their own – a place where they can study or hang out that doesn't involve alcohol. Alcohol is a part of college life, but not all of it."

Bernard Pitts, director of the Union, said the Union Station area was originally built as a coffee house in the late 1970s and is going back toward that environment because of recent trends.

"Aggieville has coffee houses that are doing extremely well, and we wanted to have some venue here on campus," he said. "It's a matter of what appears to be popular in the student culture."

With Starbucks moving to Union Station, Thober said, Union officials decided to move Call Hall ice cream with Otis Spunkmeyer cookies into the space across from the Food Court. Although no name has been chosen for this space, there will be a naming contest in February.

Bringing in Otis Spunkmeyer cookies will give an extra perk to students, Thober said. Otis Spunkmeyer employees have guaranteed every K-State student will get a free cookie during the first week of classes.

Thober also said homemade cinnamon rolls, baked daily, will replace the Cinnamon Street rolls.

Emily O'Connor, marketing director for the Union, said the mission behind the changes was to have better quality food and services.

O'Connor said she and Thober also have been working to get the word out about the changes.

"We want to let them know everything we do here is keeping them in mind. We want to better serve them," O'Connor said.

Jack Connaughton, associate director of the Union, said he hopes students notice the work that goes into making changes.

"We make an effort every break to have something new so that we don't get stagnant. It's been our philosophy over the last six or seven years."

Fast facts

Changes to the Union

Union Station
With a coffee-shop feel, Union Station will no longer focus on soup, but will also serve desserts, salads, stacker sandwiches, Otis Spunkmeyer cookies and homemade cinnamon rolls. At night, Union Station will also serve s'mores.
Hours: 7 a.m. – 10 p.m. Monday through Friday

Call Hall ice cream
Call Hall ice cream will be served in the space across from the Union Food Court. Students will be able to build their own ice cream sandwiches. Also available will be sundaes, malts and shakes, rice crispy treats and brownies.
Hours: 11 a.m.- 5 p.m. Monday through Friday

Campbell's Soup
Served in Union Station as well as the Food Court.

No suspects named in murder of English professor's ex-wife

By Lara Hastings
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Authorities from Douglas County continue to investigate the death of Carmin Ross-Murray, former director of employee relations at K-State.

Douglas County Sheriff's Office spokesman, Lt. Kenny Massey said nothing new regarding the case has been released.

The homicide investigation began Nov. 14 when Ross-Murray was found dead in her Lawrence home.

No suspects were named in the case, but Thomas Murray, K-State English professor and the victim's ex-husband, has been questioned and his home was searched last fall. His students were also questioned individually after Ross-Murray's death.

Linda Brigham, interim head of the Department of English, said teaching has been as usual.

"We hope they find who did it, and meanwhile, we hope everything here continues to run smoothly," Brigham said.

Massey said his department still is waiting on laboratory results involving the case.

"We are working on leads and moving forward with the investigation," Massey said.

WE ARE BACK!
TACO BELL®
Come Celebrate Taco Bell Re-Opening in the K-State Student Union!
49¢ Tacos - NO LIMIT!
Thursday, Jan. 22nd - Tuesday, Jan. 26th
Grand Opening Celebration
Friday, Jan. 23rd from 11 a.m. - 1 p.m.
Register to Win Prizes:
Win a Pre-Paid Cell Phone, a Palm Pilot or Other Great Prizes
Plus Receive Free Prizes While Supplies Last!
No Purchase Necessary to Win • Winners Will Be Drawn at 1:30

Royal Purple Yearbook $34.95 get it in 103 Kedzie 8am-5pm

welcome BACK
SUNDAY NEW ½ price drinks
MONDAY $1.75 Big Beers
TUESDAY NEW Ladies Night FREE GIVEAWAYS FOR THE LADIES!
$2 Tuesdays BIG BEERS WELLS, SHOTS BOTTLES
WEDNESDAY $1.50 Bottles & Wells
THURSDAY 99¢ All Drinks $1.50 All Bottles
FRIDAY SATURDAY Weekly Can Specials
Hamburger & Fries $1.50
KENO
Watch for upcoming events!
Rustys LAST CHANCE SALOON
DJ NIGHTLY
LIVE MUSIC
TACO BAR

This Summer, show more than your toes... Laser Away
THAT UNWANTED HAIR!
Please come join the Renaissance Med Spa
Dr. Mark D. Snyder, M.D.
• January 28th
• 6 PM
• Ramada Inn - Landon Room (snacks provided)
• Brief Informational: Why laser hair removal works, how it works, and a Q&A period
• Free Consultations: Cost estimates from physician, technician and staff
• Discover other services offered besides our F.D.A approved leading laser for hair removal.
• Hair Removal Treatments Provided On-Sight! Mastercard & Visa accepted.
TO RESERVE YOUR SPACE, FIND OUT MORE:
Call (785) 820-8896
Fax (785) 827-1684
E-mail me@midkan.net
Drop-ins Welcome!

TO THE POINT

Efforts to bring back Taco Bell appreciated

A big thank you goes out to those K-State Student Union officials who helped bring Taco Bell back to the Union Food Court.

It's nice to know the university has employees who realize their mistakes – like bringing in Eddie Peppers – and strive to correct them as well as listening to the student body.

We know there are other reasons behind bringing back the popular restaurant chain, namely sales, but we are still excited to see the Bell is back.

Although Union officials did research by surveying students during the fall semester and found that 75 percent of those surveyed wanted Taco Bell back in 2004, they also realized the simple economic equation of more business equals more money.

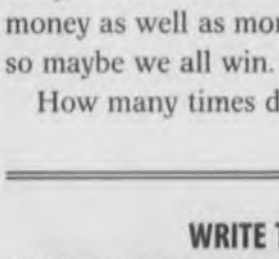
The Union Food Court found that Taco Bell, contrary to Eddie Peppers, was more popular among the student body, which ultimately resulted in more money as well as more happy students, so maybe we all win.

How many times does that happen?

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Katie Lane
Sarah Rice
Edie Hall
Lindsey Bauman
Zach Long
Matt Girard
Kristi Hurla
Amy Preston
Corbin H. Crable
Nasrina Williams
James Hurla
Amy Link

WRITE TO US



The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@spub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Katie Lane | EDITOR IN CHIEF

Sarah Rice MANAGING EDITOR	Edie Hall NEWS EDITOR	Lindsey Bauman PHOTO EDITOR
Zach Long ASST. PHOTO EDITOR	Matt Girard SPORTS EDITOR	Kristi Hurla CITY/GOV EDITOR
Amy Preston CAMPUS EDITOR	Corbin H. Crable THE EDGE EDITOR	Nasrina Williams OPINION EDITOR
James Hurla COPY CHIEF	Jennifer Shelton PRESENTATION EDITOR	Joseph Bobek ONLINE EDITOR
Amy Link READERS' REPRESENTATIVE	Jared Jaynes AD MANAGER	Jenny Calvert ASST. AD MANAGER

FRIDAY'S OPINIONS

JESSE LOEWEN

Jesse Loewen chastises those who succumb to Mad Cow Hysteria.

PAUL RESTIVO

Paul Restivo writes a letter to his childhood friend - Michael Jackson.

CAMPUS FOURUM 395-4444

Here are some tips for calling the Collegian's Campus Fourum:

- Keep your opinion based on issues, not personalities or personal vendettas.
- Keep it short. There is only time for about two or three short sentences.
- Speak clearly. If you cannot be understood, then you will not be printed.
- The Collegian will try to offer as many diverse opinions as possible, so be sure to put an interesting spin on your comments.
- Do not give too much background on the issue. Immediately state your stance or a plan of action.
- Be honest. We do not ask for your name, nor do we use Caller ID to see where comments come from. Your opinion is completely anonymous.
- The Collegian will not print any comments that are vulgar, obscene or libelous.
- Have fun with it, and be creative.

Breach of privacy

K-State's white pages should not provide personal information

BARBARA MEYER

During the fall of my sophomore year, I was unfortunate enough to be given an assigned seat next to a young man whose chatty behavior went from annoying to disconcerting in about a week.

Although he followed me across campus to my car on several occasions, I was still not terribly concerned until an ill-fated group activity when he looked over our project and remarked, "Oh, so that's your last name."

I remember a sinking feeling as I realized that this man now had access to my unlisted phone number and local address through the university's student directory. Images of him standing on my doorstep some dark stormy night flashed through my melodramatic mind.

I, like many students, had no idea how much personal information from the K-State White Pages could be obtained with just a last name until I conducted my own panicked search.

As an entire page of my personal data, including my parents' home address, appeared on the screen, it occurred to me that my world was not as safe or as private as I had liked to imagine.

Other data considered acceptable for the student directory includes "date and place of birth, photograph or likeness, college, curriculum, enrollment status, classification ... and athletes' height and weight."

Access to these details is not limited to those affiliated with the university and can be supplied without consent to practically anyone, regardless of their intentions.

After another, more extensive search, I decided to fill out and return the nondisclosure form rather than packing my family into the witness protection program and fleeing the state.

So this solved my problem, sort of. The form must be resubmitted regularly or the information will be replaced. Additionally, since it was well past 15 days into the semester, the bound edition of the white pages was printed and hard copies of the information continued to float about campus, without incident luckily, until the year ended.

However, not everyone is as lucky as I was. In New Hampshire in October of 1999, 20-year-old Amy Boyer was killed while leaving work by a man she had never met, but who had been stalking her since high school. He obtained her employer's address and other information about her online without her knowledge or consent.

The same year, the Department of Justice found that one in 12 women become victims of stalking at some point in their lives and warned, "Do not share personal information in public spaces anywhere online, nor give it to strangers." Unfortunately, our university is doing that, regardless of the danger it places students in.

Illustrations by Jordan Mizell | COLLEGIAN

A name, e-mail address and local telephone number should be all the information necessary for those with honest intentions to contact university students. Since the only search criterion is a last name, the database is not useful for compiling anything other than personal information on a particular student.

Anyone with a legitimate reason for knowing a student's home address, curriculum or other personal information would be able to get it from the student personally with only basic contact information, leaving stalkers and those inclined toward harassment to do their own legwork.

For the sake of safety, the university should limit the amount of information made available about its students, or make the opt-out process more convenient.

Until that happens, I hope the boy from my class is enjoying the subscriptions to Vogue, Cosmopolitan and Redbook he is now receiving courtesy of the K-State White Pages.

Barbara is a junior in political science. You can e-mail her at opinion@spub.k-state.edu.

Standards should be higher for Fourum comments

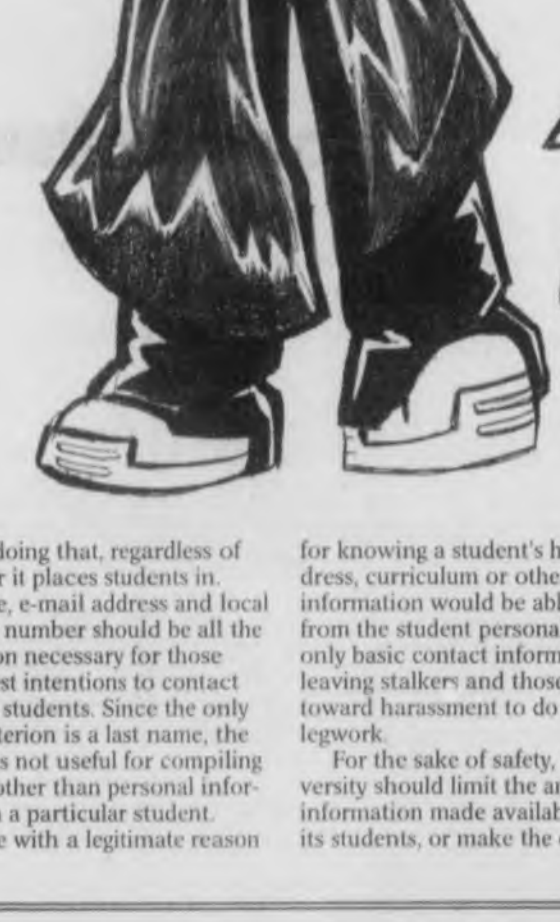
I feel like the most powerful person at K-State.

Wefald might be president, but all he can do is raise tuition. I have the real power – I control the Campus Fourum.

NASRINA WILLIAMS

Although there are rules that I must abide by, I am faced with the daunting task of determining what is, or isn't, too obscene or vulgar to be printed. I'm sure there will be Fourum junkies who will be enraged by my inability to fit every gem of drunken cleverness that they have to offer into the allotted space.

However, despite my hesitations, I am looking forward to spending a semester as master of the Fourum.



I have always read the Fourum. As a freshman, the Fourum helped me understand what the K-State community was concerned about. However, recently I have become disenchanted with the Fourum.

What happened to the clever one-liners that obviously took hours create?

Why does it seem that the Fourum falls into the same ruts every semester?

Does anyone ever call into the Fourum sober?

I worry the Fourum does not accurately depict K-State students as the intelligent, mature and tolerant people I meet in class and on campus. In light of my concern, I challenge you all to come up with comments that meet the following standards.

BE HUMOROUS WITHOUT BEING DEROGATORY

Why is it that people think the only way to be funny is through mockery? I would love to see Fourum comments that are funny because they draw on some universal truth or display a unique perspective.

STATE A POSITION, DO NOT ATTACK THE OPPOSITION

There is a big difference between advocating a position and trying to discredit the opposing position. If your position is so weak that you can only hope to argue for it by attempting to mock or vilify the opposition, then it's probably not worth arguing in the first place.

INSIDE JOKES SHOULD BE KEPT INSIDE

If you and your friends have jokes that are a result of shared experience, then don't contribute them to the Fourum. Only people inside your circle will understand. The Collegian is meant for everyone on campus.

SAY SOMETHING WORTH SAYING

Don't call in the same comment with adjustments to the wording over and over. Repetition does not increase your chance of being printed. It only frustrates the person who has to listen to it. Also, if you can't say the comment without a giggle fit ensuing, don't bother. Nobody can understand what you're saying anyway.

Comments that meet these standards will be printed, those that do not will be banished to the pages of the online Fourum.

Perhaps the Fourum will never again reach the heights of cleverness I remember, but hey, at least my job won't be boring.

Nasrina is a graduate student in English. You can e-mail her at opinion@spub.k-state.edu.

Letters to the editor

Ohio citizen criticizes Snyder's decision to let Roberson start

Editor,

Congratulations to Coach Bill Snyder on his handling of the Ell Roberson situation.

How comforting this must be to future K-State football players. They now know if they come to K-State, they can flout team rules and still start football games.

No need for them to worry about how their actions will affect their teammates or the program. Whew! That's one less thing on their minds as they enter the world of intercollegiate athletics.

They can just look at Roberson's situation and think, "Hey, I can blow off team rules and it won't affect my status as a starter."

As an alumnus of Ohio State University, I consider it a compliment that Snyder wanted to throw his best at us even if it meant sending that kind of signal to current and future Wildcats.

As many Buckeyes will tell you, we could have possibly repeated as National Champions if we'd had Maurice Clarett back this year.

However, we're glad that Coach Jim Tressell went with integrity instead of tainted glory.

Timothy P. Allen
COLUMBUS, OHIO

Prairie bison intelligent alternative to unhealthy, poorly fed cattle products

Editor,

If you question the safety and quality of the beef you serve your family, you do not have to look further than your local community for a healthy alternative.

You are what you eat. The Flint Hills Prairie Bison Reserve provides natural and safe meat, guaranteed to be free of bovine encephalitis (mad cow disease).

It is high in protein and iron. It is lower in fat, cholesterol and calories than beef, pork or chicken.

We treat each animal with honor and respect. We free range our bison in a natural herd setting where they feed on prairie grass and receive supplemental alfalfa in winter.

They are free of antibiotics and growth hormone steroids. We do not castrate, dehorn, brand or feed lot.

When you eat our bison, you are purchasing a healthy meat product that supports the rest of the herd and the prairie upon which they live.

For every one sacrificed the rest live to reproduce in abundance. That is the way it has always been.

Current cattle management practices have created their own monster, all for the benefit of their own bottom line.

Forcing herbivores to consume animal protein byproducts violates the laws of nature and common sense. Feedlots are inherently unsanitary, confining, overcrowded and limiting to the diets of the animals imprisoned within them.

The use of antibiotics to keep these animals "healthy" in such a nasty setting seems to address symptoms, but does not fix the cause.

This is the quality of life most cattle have imposed upon them during the last 90 days of their lives. When their diets consist of rendered animal proteins, pesticide-laden grains and other hot rations, the negative outcome is obvious. Cattle become a product of their environment. They are what they eat.

As we participate in the cycle of life on the prairie, we become one with the prairie.

As a member of our local community, the Flint Hills Prairie Bison Reserve is concerned with the health of our families and our environment.

When you eat bison meat, you complete the cycle of life. This renews practices that give honor, respect and integrity to the provider of our sustenance.

Be an active part of the environment. Be a smart consumer. Be part of the solution, not a supporter of the problem. Your vote counts and shapes our country.

George LeRoux
CLASS OF 1988

Letter to the reader

Dear readers: Collegian wants your feedback

Reader,

Welcome back.

The Collegian staff has been back to work for about two weeks now modifying policies, philosophies and standards. There are a few of these changes I would like to share with you, the reader.

READERS' REPRESENTATIVE

This position has been vacant for the past few years, but we brought it back this semester for one reason – you.

Amy Link was hired to be your representative in the newsroom because we are putting the emphasis back on you.

She will be conducting surveys, making phone calls and listening to your feedback. Her task is to find out what you think. Are we printing the stories you want to read? What can we do to make your paper better?

In order to be effective at finding what you want, I have a few requests of you.

If you want to see more stories about a certain topic, give us a call. Many of our story ideas come from people calling the newsroom. The Collegian is always willing to look into news tips.

Also, if you are asked to complete a survey, give honest feedback. Don't be afraid to bluntly tell us what we can do better. Our door is always open. If you have questions or comments, please feel free to let us know.

THE FOCUS GROUP

Last semester, we began trying to connect more with you by creating a focus group.

We have recruited a few people to help us evaluate what we are already doing at the Collegian.

They will be asked to sit down with the paper early this semester and critique everything from our stories to our editorial topics. Although this is just a handful of opinions, their responses are invaluable.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Our dedication to running your letters is as strong this semester as it was last semester. If we have space in the print edition of the paper, we'll run as many letters as we can. If we are short on room, your letters will be printed on the online version.

So, keep 'em coming.

It's all about you this semester. If we aren't doing our job, call us out on it. And if you think we're doing great, let us know that, too. Either way, let's keep in touch.

Katie Lane
EDITOR IN CHIEF
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Perspectives

War in Iraq has led to better relations for U.S.

By Charlie Wade
THE DAILY ATHENAEUM (WEST VIRGINIA U.)

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. – In Tuesday night's State of the Union address, President Bush was expected to focus on reform, with Libya being the example for other countries to follow.

Agree or disagree with the morality of the war in Iraq, it cannot be denied that the war has led to major improvements in relations with several rogue countries.

Libya has recently agreed to dismantle its nuclear weapons program, due in large part to the pressure the administration applied to countries attempting to produce weapons of mass destruction. Along with Libya, Iran, Sudan and Syria appear to be doing anything they can to avoid confrontation.

Several administration officials, as well as Muslim officials, have credited Bush's State of the Union address in 2002, in which he made his famous "axis of evil" speech, as having changed the landscape of the Arab/Muslim world.

The effect of Bush's get-tough attitude cannot be denied. While there remain countries that refuse to cooperate with the United States, namely North Korea, nations that have historically balked at negotiating with the United States are finally agreeing to cooperate.

Such an attitude has sparked reform within the countries, allowing those who want change to feel less reluctant about speaking out about the status quo.

The prevailing idea in the administration is that by challenging the citizens of countries that support terrorism, they will be stimulated into action. Whether this will work remains to be seen, but with the recent actions of nations surrounding Iraq, led by Libya, it appears there will be improvement in the relations between the United States and historic opposition in the Middle East.

Welcome back students!
WENDY'S
Accepts
DISCOVER VISA AMERICAN EXPRESS MasterCard
Don't forget! Wendy's drive thru window is open till 1 a.m. So you can eat great, even late!
10 a.m.-10 p.m. Dining room
OLD FASHIONED HAMBURGERS
10 a.m. - 1 a.m. Drive-Thru
3006 Anderson Ave • 421 N. 3rd St.

PURPLE PIG EST 1996
Purple Pig
$1.50 Bottles & Coronas / 30¢ Wings
Thursday Nights

There's more than one place in Aggieville to pick up a six pack.
The hottest place in the 'Ville

Get your membership TODAY!
Pro Fitness
in Aggieville 539-7095
Semester membership $85
10 Tans now $22

1/2 price
1220 Moro
776-3600
Haircut with purchase of any color or texture service
Deep Conditioner Tip, or eyebrow wax with the purchase of a haircut
Fill with the purchase of a full set of nails
AGGIE HAIR SHAPERS
Trendy styles with the experience you deserve!

PIT STOP AUTOMOTIVE
SPECIALS
TRANSMISSION Flush complete fluid exchange for most cars and light trucks $79.95
Coolant Exchange with New Antifreeze $59.95
4 WHEEL COMPUTER ROTATION AND BALANCE Includes free brake inspection for cars and light trucks (By appointment) $29.95
OIL CHANGE $21.95 (Includes lube, filter, & oil up to 5 qts.)
*Call For an Appointment Today!
1629 FAIRLANE • MANHATTAN • 785-539-6650

THURSDAY night
Start it off right at
SILVERADO SALOON
Ladies get in FREE
Largest dance floor in the ville'
Don't miss out EVERY FRIDAY
$2 Pitchers
75¢ drin

KSU Student Special
(must have current college ID)
$75 for the semester
A group of 5 or more $50 /student
(must join as a group at the same time)
Student Special
We proudly offer all of the following facilities:
Tennis (3 indoor, 3 outdoor courts); Racquetball, Squash, Hand Ball, Basketball, Jacuzzi, Saunas, Cardio Equipment and Weight Room. Personal training and exercise classes are available. Day lockers available at no charge, ample parking.
Non-students please contact Christian at Cottonwood for specials.
Group and private lessons are available for all ages and abilities. These rates will be negotiated from time of membership
3615 Claflin 776-8060
COTTONWOOD RACQUET CLUB

Cats experience highs and lows

Men's basketball team continues to battle injuries

By Josh Witt
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Highs and lows have filled the past month for the men's basketball team. The Wildcats have battled injuries and heartbreaking losses, but have proven they can play with the Big 12's elite as conference play heats up.

JAN. 16 VS. OKLAHOMA STATE, 57-56 LOSS.

The Wildcats (8-5,0-2) blew a 16-point second-half lead, losing their second straight close game to an upper-tier Big 12 program. The Cowboys (13-2, 3-1) held the Wildcats to just one field goal in the final 12 minutes of play, as they chipped away and took the lead. Sophomore forward Marques Hayden led the Wildcats with 15 points and eight rebounds in the losing effort.

Coach Jim Wooldridge said the Wildcats let an opportunity slip through their hands.

"We had every opportunity to find a way to win," Wooldridge said. "It's probably my most disappointing loss."

JAN. 13 AT KANSAS 73-67 LOSS.

The Wildcats (8-4, 0-1) fell just short of knocking off their in-state rivals. The six-point defeat was the closest K-State has come to beating the Jayhawks (10-2, 2-0) since a 62-59 loss on Jan. 4, 1997. K-State's backcourt had arguably one of their finest games of the year for Wooldridge. Senior Frank Richards led the Wildcats with 19 points and 8 rebounds and fellow senior Tim Ellis dropped in 16 points. Also, junior forward Dramane Diarra saw his first action in a Wildcat uniform. Diarra was awarded a starting spot in his first game after a suspension involving an NCAA investigation into Diarra's eligibility. Diarra contributed four points and six boards in the contest.

JAN. 9 VS. SAVANNAH STATE, 92-51 WIN.

The Wildcats (8-3) temporarily got back on the winning track with a dominating blowout against the Tigers (1-16). Despite being without the services of standout freshmen guard Dez Willingham and swingman Cartier Martin due to injury, the game was never in doubt. Ellis scored a career-high 22 points with Hayden and forward Jeremiah Massey combining for a whopping 38 points and 25 rebounds in the winning effort. Both Willingham and Martin are still out indefinitely.

JAN. 2 AT ST. LOUIS, 65-64 LOSS.

K-State (7-3) failed to hold a five-point lead with just more than a minute remaining, as the Wildcats fell by one point on the road. The Wildcats out-rebounded the Billikens (7-4) 35-27 in the back and forth contest. Martin led the Wildcats with a season-high 19 points, but it wasn't enough as St. Louis converted on a school-record 15 three-pointers on their way to victory.

DEC. 30 AT MISSOURI-KANSAS CITY, 93-52 LOSS.

In the most embarrassing loss of the season, the Wildcats (7-2) were blown out by the Kangaroos (4-6). K-State shot just 36 percent from the field and committed 18 turnovers. Although the Wildcats got 16 points from Ellis and 11 from Martin, it was not enough. The loss was K-State's first to the Kangaroos in 15 games between the two schools. It was also the first game in which Willingham was sidelined due to a shoulder injury.

DEC. 21 VS. BETHUNE-COOKMAN, 66-52 WIN.

K-State (7-1) overcame a below-par first half performance to defeat Bethune-Cookman (0-6) in a game that saw the Wildcats commit only six personal fouls, the lowest amount in Bramlage Coliseum history. Massey scored 17 points and Ellis added 16, as K-State rallied from a 38-35 deficit with 12:06 remaining in the game.

DEC. 19 VS. TEXAS A&M-CORPUS CHRISTI, 89-50 VICTORY.

With 10 days of practice under their belt following their victory over Wichita State, the Wildcats (6-1) looked crisp in a dominating win over the Islanders (4-4). K-State shot 51 percent from the field while holding the Islanders to 34 percent shooting. Massey led the way with 20 points and eight rebounds, while Hayden logged in a double-double with 12 points and 11 rebounds.

Timely defense

Kelly Glasscock | COLLEGIAN
K-State's Jarrett Hart grabs a rebound over Texas A&M's Nick Anderson during the second half of Wednesday's game at Bramlage Coliseum. The Wildcats went on to win, 70-61.

Men's team claims 1st conference win against A&M, ends 4-game losing streak

By Matthew Girard
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

With big shots and timely defense, the men's basketball team snapped its four-game losing streak and pulled out its first Big 12 win, defeating Texas A&M 70-61 on Wednesday.

After being down by as many as six points in the second half to Texas A&M (7-7, 0-3), K-State (9-5, 1-2) battled back, behind the leadership of both senior guards Tim Ellis and Jarrett Hart. Hart scored 10 of his game-high 19 points in the second half, and Ellis buried a 3-point shot off of an inbound play to give the Wildcats a four-point lead – and the game.

The Wildcats finally tied the game at 57-57 with 4:25 left on junior Dramane Diarra's second effort shot. After a foul anda Diarra free throw, the Wildcats took the lead by one.

As the crowd rose to its feet and the

See MEN Page 16

Jeanel Drake | COLLEGIAN
Dramane Diarra fights for a rebound with Texas A&M's Andy Slocum during K-State's 70-61 win over the Aggies.

Ellis leads Cats to win over Aggies

Ellis, Hart share top scoring honors with 19 in Big 12 win

By Josh Witt
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

During Wednesday night's against the Texas A&M Aggies, the Wildcats needed a victory.

They needed their first win in Big 12 play to wipe out the painful memory of Saturday's heartbreaking loss to Oklahoma State.

They needed someone to step up.

Enter Tim Ellis.

The senior guard excelled on both ends of the floor as the Wildcat men beat Texas A&M 70-61 in front of a thrilled – and relieved – home crowd.

Ellis finished the game with 19 points on shooting sharing top scoring honors with fellow senior guard Jarrett Hart.

None of those points were bigger than his 3-point shot with 1:13 left in the contest, expanding the Wildcat lead to four.

The shot came off an inbounds play following a K-State timeout.

"The play wasn't designed for me to shoot - it was designed for me to get open," Ellis said.

Ellis then followed up the shot of the game with a lay-up in transition, all but finishing off the Aggies' hopes for a win.

Coach Jim Wooldridge had high praise not only for Ellis's clutch shooting, but his consistent offensive spark throughout the game.

"All night long Ellis kept us in it and probably won it for us," Wooldridge said.

But excellence on offense was not the only lift Ellis provided.

Drawing the defensive assignment of the Aggies' best player, Antoine Wright, Ellis shut the sophomore sensation down all night.

Coming into the game averaging 21 points in his last six contests, Wright was held to just two points on 1 of 10 shooting primarily by Ellis.

Constantly staying with Wright and getting physical with him early in the game were some of the reasons Ellis felt he was successful in stopping the 6-foot, 7-foot swingman down.

"Once you stop them (big scorers) early, they tend to relax and go cold," Ellis said.

Calling Ellis "the best perimeter defender on the team" Wooldridge acknowledged how crucial his defensive play was to the win.

"Had Wright scored what he normally scores, we probably don't win the game," Wooldridge said. "Tim took it as a personal challenge that Wright wouldn't beat us."

A product of his aggressive defense, Ellis finished the game with three steals and seven rebounds.

See ELLIS Page 16

Violation of team rules costs Roberson scholarship, bowl ring

By Matthew Girard
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

With the investigation finished, no charges filed and apologies issued, the controversy surrounding K-State's trip to the Fiesta Bowl has come to an end.

Roberson
QUARTERBACK

The Collegian takes a look back at player and coach responses to the incident.

On Jan. 1, senior quarterback Ell Roberson was charged with sexual assault by a K-State alumna. After an investigation the Paradise Valley Police Department determined there was no criminal act committed, Roberson was cleared to play by Coach Bill Snyder. The Wildcats eventually lost the game to Ohio State University 35-28 with Roberson in the lineup.

The case was given to the Maricopa County Attorney's office following the investigation, which said they would not file charges against Roberson Jan. 8. That same day, Snyder, in an unprecedented move, released an open letter to the news media and fans apologizing for the incident and detailing his punishment for Roberson and unidentified teammates for violating team rules.

Snyder chose to release the players' punishment after the incident became national news.

"Because this violation of team rules by our starting quarterback, Ell Roberson, became a national news story, I have decided in this one instance to make the consequences of violating those team rules public," Snyder said.

Roberson and the others involved will lose their scholarships for the spring semester, will not receive Fiesta Bowl rings and will perform public service within the community, Snyder said.

Roberson broke his silence on Jan. 9 with an apology letter of his own.

"I want to apologize to Coach Snyder, my teammates and the Kansas State University family for the decisions that I made while in Scottsdale, AZ.," Roberson said in the letter.

Roberson also said he was unaware of how his decisions would affect his teammates and the university.

"I had no idea how my decisions that night would affect my teammates and everyone associated with Kansas State University," he said.

"I want to apologize to all that were affected and thank those who supported the team and me through this situation."

1-MINUTE DRILL

The Associated Press

College Basketball | Duke avoids upset from Maryland

Seeking to avoid another upset loss at Maryland, top-ranked Duke missed 47 field goal attempts in shooting 34 percent.

Distressing numbers, except that the Blue Devils retrieved several of those misfires and turned them into baskets.

J.J. Redick scored a season-high 26 points, and the Blue Devils dominated the boards in a 68-60 victory Wednesday night.

Luol Deng had 13 points and 12 rebounds to help Duke (15-1, 5-0 Atlantic Coast Conference) win its 12th straight.

It was the third time in three years the Blue Devils visited Maryland as the No. 1 team, and the first time they escaped with a victory.

Tennis | Williams, Clijsters and Ferrero win sets

Williams

Venus Williams struggled in her second match at the Australian Open before beating Russia's Vera Douchevina on Thursday, while second-ranked Kim Clijsters joined her in the third round following an impressive 6-0, 6-0 rout of Maria Elena Camerin.

In her second match since missing almost six months because of an abdominal injury, Williams had 23 unforced errors against the 112th-ranked Douchevina before eventually pulling out a 6-4, 6-2 win.

NBA | Nets reach deal to sell team to Brooklyn, N.Y.

The New Jersey Nets' owners have agreed to sell the team to a New York City real estate developer, a move that could bring Brooklyn its first major sports franchise since 1957.

The contract was finalized Wednesday, said Edwin Stier, president of the Community Youth Organization, which owns the Nets.

The developer, Bruce Ratner, wants to move the Nets to a new arena that would be at the center of a proposed $2.5 billion office, residential and shopping complex in Brooklyn. But the deal must first be approved by the board of YankeeNets, the holding company of the Nets and New York Yankees, which planned to meet Friday.

NBA | Cavs ship Darius Miles to Blazers

Miles

Darius Miles received another wake-up call: He got traded to Portland.

Miles, who was fined by the Cavaliers for oversleeping and skipping a practice earlier this week, was dealt Wednesday to the Trail Blazers for point guard Jeff McInnis and center Ruben Boumtje-Boumtje.

Miles has been a disappointment in his 1 1/2 seasons with Cleveland, which acquired him before last season in a deal that sent guard Andre Miller to the Los Angeles Clippers.

The 22-year-old Miles, who jumped straight from high school to the NBA in 2000, was averaging 8.9 points in 24 minutes per game. He has shown breathtaking flashes of skill, but has been plagued by inconsistency, and first-year Cleveland coach Paul Silas was reluctant to play him.

Hockey| Avalanche pull out another victory

Not even a disastrous first period could slow down the Colorado Avalanche.

After spotting Florida a three-goal lead Wednesday night, the Avalanche rallied for a 6-5 victory when Alex Tanguay completed a hat trick with 5:41 left.

"We sure could have made it easier on ourselves by starting off better," Tanguay said. "We were lucky we were just down 3-0 because it could have been worse. We came out flat."

Milan Hejduk, Joe Sakic and Andrei Nikolishin also scored for Colorado, which had to rally again after Florida took a 4-3 lead.

"Even when we were 3-0 down, we were not out," Hejduk said. "We can score some goals."

Colorado is tied with Toronto for the most points in the NHL (63). The Avalanche is 10-1-0-1 in their last 12.

Women's team sees success during break

Lindsey Bauman | COLLEGIAN

Shanda Murdoch goes up for a shot while being guarded by Kansas' Erica Hallman at Bramlage Coliseum on Saturday. K-State defeated KU 79-50.

Nicole Donnert | COLLEGIAN

K-State's Laurie Koehn goes for a layup against Missouri's Tracy Lozier during the Jan. 7 game at Bramlage Coliseum. The Wildcats won the game 95-59.

K-State's winning streak increased to 11 following victory against KU

By Nabil Shaheen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The Wildcat's new year began much the way it ended with wins.

Winners of 11 in a row, the No. 10 women's basketball team (13-2) has been averaging victory margins of 31.6 points in that stretch, which included Saturday's win over KU, 79-50.

After soundly defeating Creighton at home Dec. 14, the Cats had a 16-day break to prepare for final exams and the Wells Fargo/UTSA New Year's Classic in San Antonio.

Southeast Missouri State was the first foe on Dec. 30.

They were defeated 78-42.

The next day, the University of Texas-San Antonio proved to be no match for the streaking Cats as they won 75-45.

After a week off, Big 12 play began when K-State hosted Missouri Jan. 7.

The 95-59 victory was the first K-State win in a conference home opener since the inception of the Big 12.

"Heading into the Big 12, I'm concerned that we need to take it opponent by opponent," Coach Deb Patterson said.

"It's surreal to think that we can win by as many as 15. Tonight, we were firing on all cylinders, and they were short of personnel. Every opponent presents new, greater, unique challenges. We need to be ready to step up and play entirely different teams in different environments."

Going to one of those different environments, K-State was back on the road Jan. 10. The Cats had an 11:30 a.m. tipoff against then–No. 14 Colorado. Junior Kendra Wecker led all scorers with 23 points. Senior Nicole Ohlde scored 17 while junior Laurie Koehn had 19.

Next stop was Stillwater, Okla. The Cowgirls were able to muster just 15 points in the first half as they proved to be no match for the Cats, who cruised to a 76-44 victory.

Returning home, the Cats played Kansas in front of the first sellout of the season in Bramlage Coliseum as 13,340 fans showed up for the 86th meeting of the intrastate rivalry.

With their fifth straight Sunflower State Showdown title, Jan. 17, K-State had won its 11th straight game and remains the only unbeaten team in the Big 12.

Columnist tired of whining sports columns

WES MARFIELD

As I dragged myself out of bed well past noon to write this column, I honestly had no idea what I was going to write.

With my entire break spent watching television and doing little else, I had plenty of time to craft my first column of the new year. Of course, like many of you, I put it off until the last possible minute while the World Series of Poker on ESPN took importance over everything else.

I'm not going to lie to you: I still have no idea where this column is going. But if I did learn one thing during break, it's that I'm tired of hearing about the same stories.

Whether it's Pete Rose gambling on baseball or the Fiesta Bowl, there seems to always be one story hogging all of the headlines.

I'd like to write about one of those things like I want a squirrel to gnaw both of my arms off.

So, somewhere in my mindless rambling lies a point – there are things in sports, and life for that matter, bigger than whether an admitted gambler should be in Cooperstown.

Meanwhile, back at the ranch, the Royals signed Juan Gonzalez.

So let the talking heads talk about who deserves to be in the Hall of Fame – I'm too pumped about the pending semester to really care.

We've got the start of possibly the most exciting baseball season the Midwest has seen since 1985. We've got March Madness, the Super Bowl and plenty of excitement around our own Wildcat Nation.

We've even got Toby Keith coming to Bramlage Coliseum.

So, to sum up my incoherent rambling, I'm pumped. And if my eternal optimism is too much for you, that's too bad. Go watch "Around the Horn" and listen to the old farts whine about the flaws of the BCS.

Did I have a point for this column? Not really. I hope you were able to get something out of it. I just got tired of the crybaby sports writers during break, and I wanted to relay that message to my beloved readers.

In conclusion (yes, it's almost over) I just felt like it was my duty to you to present you with something new. I'm excited about this semester, and I hope all of you are, too.

To keep the lighthearted mood alive, I'll leave you with a joke. A K-State fan, a KU fan and a Texas fan were each granted one wish. The Texas fan, with the first pick, asked for coach Mack Brown to win a national championship.

The KU fan asked for a wall to be built around Lawrence so that outsiders couldn't enter his beloved city.

The K-State fan thought about it for a minute and asked about the dimensions of the wall. The genie granting the wishes told him that it was several hundred feet tall and no one could enter or leave.

"Fill it with water," he told the genie.

See, wasn't that more fun than another column about how much the Chiefs defense sucked?

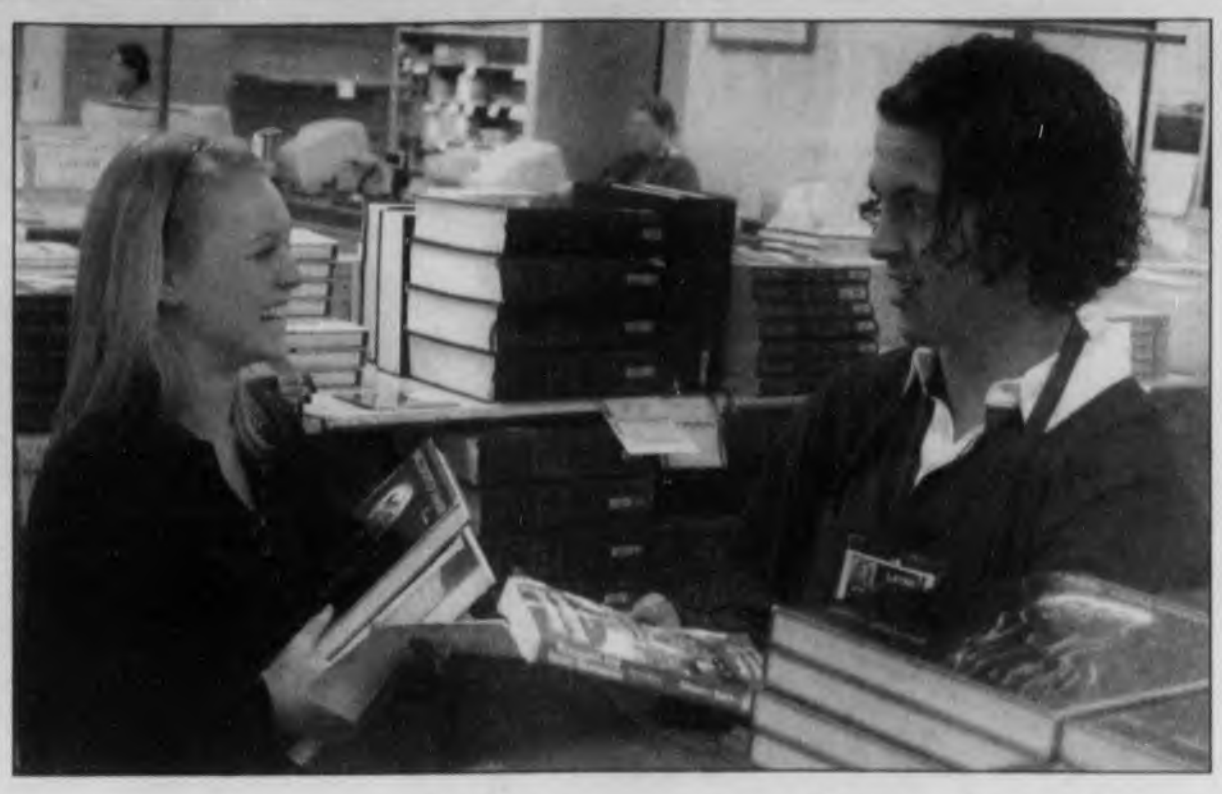
Like it or not, I'll be right here next week and every Thursday after that. Next time, I'll actually have a point.

Wes is a sophomore in print journalism. You can e-mail him at marfield@k-state.edu.

BUY-HIRE-SELL-RENT KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN 103 Kedzie 532-6555

GIVE PLASMA GET CASH
Donate Plasma And Earn $45 this week
Save Lives & Earn Cash.
ZLB Plasma Services
1130 Gardenway
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785)776-9177

PREGNANCY TESTING CENTER
"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting & adoption."
539-3338
Free pregnancy tests
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment
Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.



A RENTER'S WORST NIGHTMARE:

Discovering your landlord's insurance doesn't cover your stuff.
That's why you should give me a call about State Farm renters insurance.

See Agent:
Josh Salmans
Town East Shopping Center (By Kmart)
463 East Poyntz
Manhattan, KS 66502
785-776-8754
josh.salmans.jxd4@statefarm.com
STATE FARM INSURANCE
RENTERS INSURANCE
Like a good neighbor, State Farm is there.®
statefarm.com™
State Farm Fire and Casualty Company • State Farm General Insurance Company • Home Offices: Bloomington, Illinois
State Farm Lloyds • Home Office: Dallas, Texas • State Farm Florida Insurance Company • Home Office: Winter Haven, Florida

WE DELIVER FOR FREE THE LATEST!
Checks add 50¢
GUMBY'S Pizza & Pub
CALL NOW! 770-3333
702 N. 11th Street
Sunday 10:30 a.m. - 2 a.m.
Mon. - Wed. 10:30 a.m. - 2:30 a.m.
Thurs. - Sat. 10:30 a.m. - 3:30 a.m.
20" BIG ASS CHEESE PIZZA $9.99 TOPPINGS EXTRA
CARRYOUT SPECIAL
LG 2 TOPPING $6.99
XL 2 TOPPING $7.99
Welcome Back K-Staters!!
• Freshest Ingredients
• Lowest Prices!!
• Biggest Pizza!!
Thanks for making Gumby's K-State's Favorite Pizza Joint
MONDAY MANIA
LARGE CHEESE $3.99 CARRY-OUT OR DINE-IN (TOPPINGS EXTRA)
STICK IT TO ME TUESDAY
POKEY STICKS | BUY 1 REGULAR PRICE, GET 1 FOR 99¢ ANY SIZE
LG 1 TOPPING PIZZA AND BREAD STIX $5.99
ROCK N ROLL WEDNESDAY
75¢ PEPPERONI ROLLS
MINIMUM $5 DELIVERY PIZZA SAUCE AND RANCH EXTRA
THURSDAY MANIA
XL CHEESE $5.99 TOPPINGS EXTRA
WRAP OR PITA & CHIPS & DRINK $4.99

Complete Music and SUNNY 102.5 FM
Proudly Present the Little Apple BRIDAL SHOW
Manhattan's Largest Bridal Event
Sunday, February 1st • 1:00 pm • Holiday Inn, Manhattan
Prizes • Free Admission • Awesome Style Show

Layne Stafford, K-State alumnus, helps Jenny Carmack, sophomore in apparel marketing, find a book for her chemistry class Wednesday afternoon in the Union Bookstore. With most students going back to class today, Wednesday was the busiest day for buying books.

Chris Hanewinckel
COLLEGIAN

Bookstore weathers spring rush

By Angela Rickard
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The K-State Student Union Bookstore awoke from a quiet break Wednesday to wall-to wall students grabbing textbooks.

"This is by far the busiest day we've had," Layne Stafford, bookstore employee, said. "The majority of students wait until the day before class starts to get their books."

Stafford said the bookstore was prepared for the rush.

"We try to have as many books as possible out on the shelves," he said. "Four or five days before class starts is the perfect time to get books, but that usually doesn't work for most students."

Procrastination starts at the beginning of the semester.

"I didn't even look at my schedule until this morning," Neal Friesen, sophomore in secondary education, said. "I didn't want to think about school over break. Reality is setting that classes are going to start."

Confusion can be prevented by pre-ordering books.

"After this, I'm definitely pre-ordering my books," Joya Thompson, freshman in social work, said. "When I'm on break, I'm on break, and buying books is the last thing on my mind."

Returning to school early to buy books wasn't possible for some students.

"The dorms didn't open until yesterday, or I would have been here earlier to get my books," Adam Works, freshman in architectural engineering, said. "I wish I would have pre-ordered."

Others found themselves fighting the crowds after waiting to receive their financial aid checks.

"I couldn't afford to get my books without getting my check first," Chris Schaller, senior in marketing, said.

Steve Levin, manager of the Union Bookstore, said the rush wasn't a surprise.

"College students procrastinate. Quite a few students will be buying books two to three weeks from now," he said. "We also see a surge in book buying around the time of the first open book tests."

3rd Street development plans still uncertain

Nebraska firm purchases 6.5-acre land plot from city

By Scott A. Seel
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The proposal to drastically revamp the area in and around downtown Manhattan is still in the works.

Jason Hilgers, assistant to the Manhattan city manager, said the proposal possibilities have been narrowed down to one concept plan, which is still being worked on.

"It encompasses a variety of different uses – retail, parking structures, office space and residential," Hilgers said.

"Also, two components are being characterized as 'civic buildings.'"

Hilgers said the city has an agreement with Dial Realty, a development firm based in Omaha, Neb.

Dial has recently purchased a 6.5-acre plot of land formerly owned by the Steel & Pipe corporation along the east side of North Third Street from Leavenworth to Moro Streets, he said.

The company, which was considering selling the property anyway, agreed to sell the property to Dial. Dial has agreed to delay development of the property until the master plan for the area has been completed.

"Further development agreements will be agreed to between the city and Dial as far as the development of that region," Hilgers said.

"They are a partner with the city and they have indicated so within the agreement."

Hilgers said he could not confirm rumors that Best Buy, one of the nation's largest electronic retailers, was beginning the process of locating a store in the development area.

Allie Lousch, administrative program coordinator for the city of Manhattan, said the city maintains a Web site dedicated to informing the citizens of the progress of this and other issues.

"The Web site has an online poll and a feedback function," she said.

"The feedback function allows people to give input on what they feel and what they would like to see."

Lousch said college students were very important, and she hopes they will participate more in the future.

Welcome Home to Campus East Apartments

Studio, 1 and 2 Bedroom Apartments
3 Bedroom Townhomes

NEW IN 2004!
WE ACCEPT DOGS, TOO!
Call the office for more details!
All Appliances Included, Water and Trash Paid
Fireplaces Available
24-Hr Laundry Facility
Swimming Pool with Sundeck
Walk to K-State
24-hour Emergency Maintenance
Campus East Apartments
(785) 539-5911
One Block East of Campus on McCain

PART-TIME JOBS
Starting at $8 per hour

Help needed to take inventory in retail stores.
Average 10-12 hours on weekends.
Weekday daytime hours are also available,
averaging 25 hours per week
depending on your availability.

Apply in person
Landon Room, Ramada Inn
Thursday, January 22, 2004 at
3:00 p.m. or 6:00 p.m.
Interviews will start promptly

Boy Scouts of America would like to congratulate
Gamma Phi Beta
&
Alpha Gamma Rho
on purchasing the most popcorn and winning the Greek Popcorn Competition
Thank you all, for your support!

Wildcat Spirit

INTRUST puts Wildcat pride in your pocket!

INTRUST Bank is the exclusive provider of Wildcat Visa® Credit Cards that benefit the K-State Alumni Association, and a great choice for all your financial needs. Stop by and catch the Wildcat spirit today at INTRUST.

Apply Today!
800-222-7458

630 Humboldt
785-565-5400

2706 Anderson Ave.
785-565-5440

www.intrustbank.com
Member FDIC

No Annual Fee
Online Account Access
Rewards Program

INTRUST encourages responsible credit card spending. To learn more about handling credit, contact Consumer Credit Counseling Service at 1-800-383-0217.

"Get the BEST PIZZA from papa!"

late NIGHT special (after 9)
large 1 topping for $5.99

2 for tuesday!
1st pizza regular price
get the second pizza
FREE

POKE THIS
$9.99 LARGE 1 Topping and FREE CHEESESTICKS

2 Pizza Deal
Two Large One-Topping Pizzas
$13.99

CARRY-OUT SPECIAL
1 Large One-Topping Pizza for $6.99

Street Talk

How much was your refund check, and what do you plan to do with the money?

Hermesch

$500
"I'm going to buy my books."
Julie Hermesch
JUNIOR IN PSYCHOLOGY

Heidrick

$4,500
"Pay tuition and books, then put the rest in an educational CD."
Ashley Heidrick
FRESHMAN IN SOCIOLOGY

Kimmi

$4,000
"I'll use it for a house down payment."
Rachel Kimmi
SENIOR IN FAMILY STUDIES AND HUMAN SERVICES

Alley

$750
"Books and help pay my rent."
Brad Alley
JUNIOR IN SECONDARY EDUCATION

Burr

$3,500
"I'll pay my rent."
David Burr
SENIOR IN SOCIOLOGY

Olds

$3,400
"Most will go to housing payments and various stuff I need throughout the semester."
Jabin Olds
FRESHMAN IN BAKERY SCIENCE

Frazzell

$1,200
"Rent, car payment, food, books and anything left over will go into savings."
Jonathan Frazzell
SOPHOMORE IN OPEN OPTION

Bruce

$800
"Books and savings for a later emergency."
Sarah Bruce
SENIOR IN MARKETING

Pletcher

$2,800
"Pay my housing bill."
Traci Pletcher
FRESHMAN IN ACCOUNTING

Boggs

$700
"Books, and the rest for Aggieville."
Gerad Boggs
JUNIOR IN CONSTRUCTION SCIENCE

Kansas caucuses to meet in March

Local Democrats encourage students to participate in process

By Scott A. Seel
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The official start of the presidential campaign season, the Iowa caucuses, leaves many Kansans unaware that the same process takes place here in mid-March.

Patrick Murray, executive director of the Kansas Democratic Party, said the Kansas caucuses are Saturday, March 13.

The event locations have yet to be determined, Murray said.

There are 40 state senate precincts but some have two different congressional precincts, and thus will conduct caucuses in two places, he said.

"Doors will open at noon and the caucuses will begin at 2 p.m.," Murray said.

He said participants will be asked to separate based on their candidate preference and all candidates receiving more than 15 percent of the votes will be awarded a number of delegates to the congressional caucuses based on the percentage of votes they receive in the local variety.

Murray said it was important to establish that, while there will be an opportunity to register on site, only registered Kansas democrats are permitted to take part.

"There are several primaries on March 9. If there are still multiple candidates left following that, there is a good chance you could see candidates campaigning in Kansas," Murray said.

To get their name on the Kansas ballot, candidates must either pay $1,000 or obtain 1,000 signatures from registered Kansas democrats.

Riley County Democratic Chair, Kathryn Focke, said it is important to emphasize the importance students play in the political process in Kansas.

"Unfortunately, we have a very low voter turnout among students," Focke said.

"Hopefully, students are beginning to realize the effects that elections have on tuition costs, teacher salaries and other issues that are important to students and universities."

Sydney Carlin, D-Manhattan, said even though participants might not be directly affecting the candidate whom they support, the knowledge of the process gained by participating has a value of its own.

"Participating in a caucus gets us an actual experience of our role in the presidential process," she said.

"Anytime we participate in the process of government we are more familiar with the way it works in the future."

Carlin said the caucus is important because it gives participants an opportunity to share issues they consider important.

More information on the Kansas Democratic party

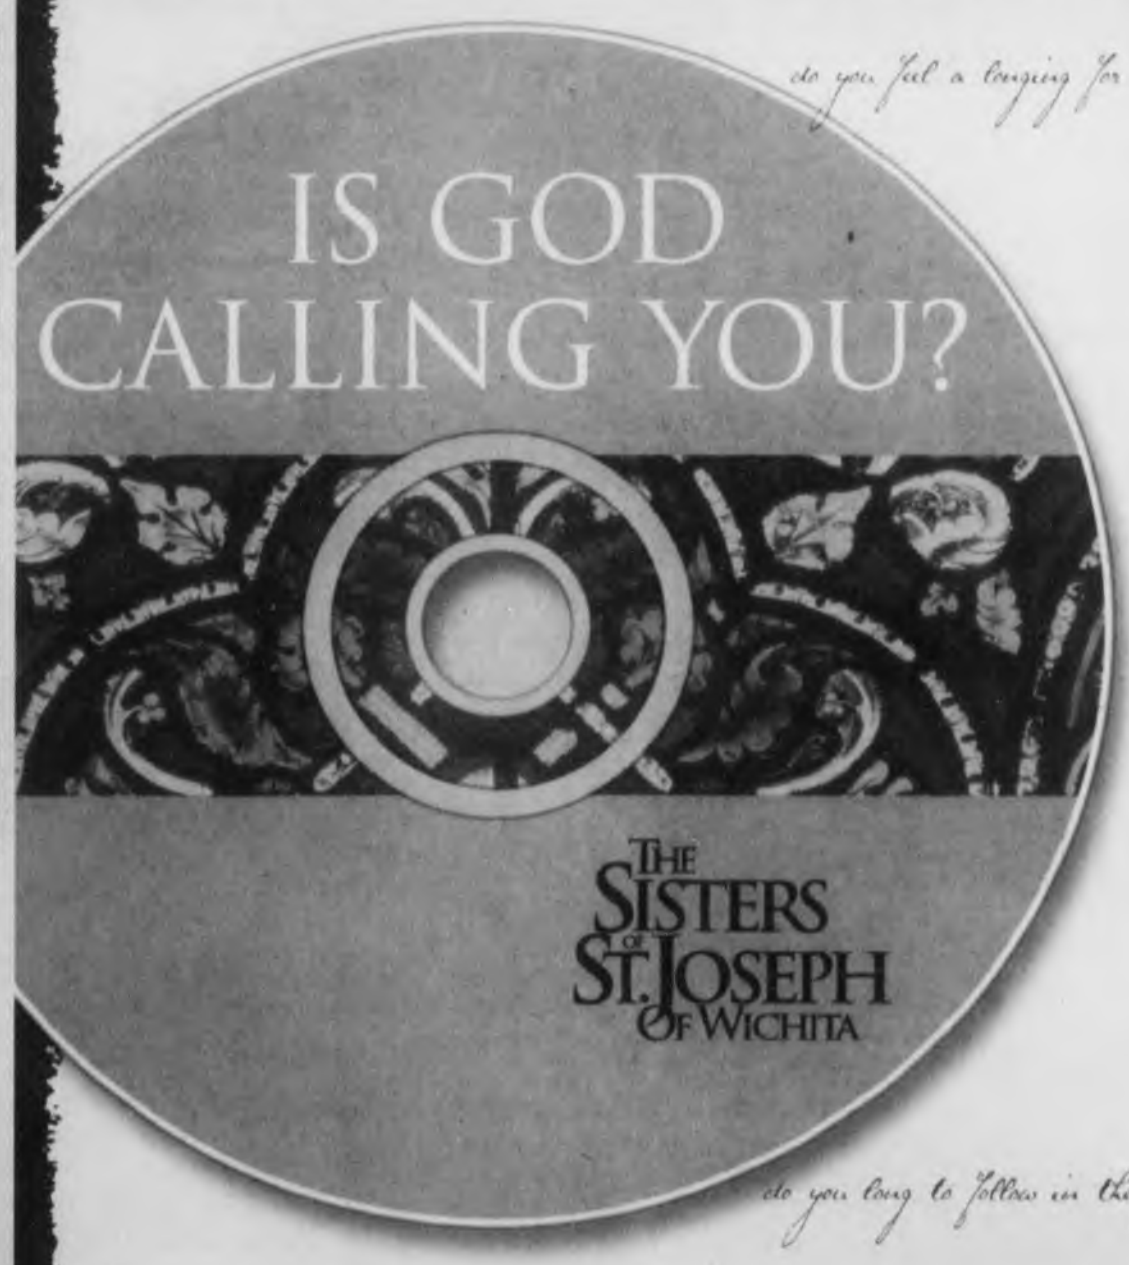
To volunteer to help with the Kansas Democratic caucus or to seek more information about the caucus or the Democratic Party contact Kathryn Focke by phone at 770-3987.



Welcome Back, K-Staters
Don't miss our year end clearance sale going on now!
Rockford Fosgate KENWOOD MTX Definitive Technology
Lightning Audio ALPINE
JL Audio DENON Paradigm marantz
Pioneer VIPER PREMIER PHILIPS
Home Stereos - Car Stereos & Alarms - Installation - Video
Audio Junction, Inc.
Since 1979 587-4646
Layaway Available www.audioj.com
307 Ft. Riley Blvd.
Mon.-Fri. 10 a.m.-7 p.m., Sat. 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

Give us your opinion.
Campus Fourum: 395-4444

DEFY the COLD

Warm gloves, hats, headbands and socks
Wide variety of coats
Vests, sweaters, fleece jackets
Long underwear
the PATHFINDER
OUTDOOR EQUIPMENT SPECIALISTS
304 Poyntz, Downtown Manhattan 539-5639

SPRING BREAK 2004
PADRE Down!

Here's one way to help you find out.

Perhaps you're one of the rare women being called by God to follow in the footsteps of Jesus. But you're wondering, "how can I truly know if I've been called?" This free CD-ROM from the Sisters of St. Joseph may help you find out. To request yours, visit www.csjwichita.org. or call our Vocation Director, Sr. Ann Letourneau, at 316-689-4030. You'll be eternally grateful you did.

does love pour out of your smile?

Drew Rose | COLLEGIAN

The old Lafene Health Center building is now the English/Counseling Services Building. Denison Hall, which served as the home of the English department, is set to be torn down in late May.

English department faces transition into new building

By Scott A. Seel
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Faculty, staff and students in the Department of English will soon see the results of nearly 10 years of discussion and planning regarding the department's move from Denison Hall to the old Lafene Health Center building.

The department began its move during winter break and has almost completed its transition into the old Lafene building, now temporarily called the English/Counseling Services Building.

"Basically, we're in," said Linda Brigham, associate professor of English and interim department head.

"We are up and running."

Brigham said she is pleased with the new surroundings.

"It is light-years better," she said.

"We have a renovated building and people seem to have done a fantastic job dealing with our needs for a new building."

Although the facility does not contain any general education classrooms, Brigham said the department has goals for advancing the technology setup in the one English classroom that is to be located in the building.

Gerald Carter, director of facilities planning and university architect, said classes normally in Denison Hall have been relocated in buildings all over campus.

Carter said the loss of the Denison classrooms has not been a problem for the university.

"Since 1994, we've known we were going to take Denison down," Carter said. "We have been adding additional classrooms and expanding lecture space in preparation for that."

For the second time this school year, University Counseling Services is adjusting to changes in the building.

Fred Newton, director of Counseling Services, said the facility has been located in the building since 1988, but its offices were consolidated to the second floor when Lafene moved to its new location on Sunset Avenue last summer.

Counseling Services, Newton said, has had no immediate problems with the English department's move.

"In terms of how well we'll be neighbors, I have no concerns," Newton said. "Right now it's just good to have the construction over."

Work crews have been preparing the destruction of Denison, which is slated to take place immediately following graduation in May, Carter said. Such preparations include the removal of asbestos from the structure and the rerouting of electrical and other utility lines that run through the building.

"Because this has been such a lengthy process there have been a number of people making sure this can happen," Carter said.

Those involved with everything from scheduling, construction, Lafene and Counseling Services and the English department were all very patient throughout the procedure, Carter said.

"This has taken an awful lot of people a long time to get to this point and we couldn't have done it without any of them," he said.

K-State professors question Bush's plan, push for more Mars exploration

By Leann Sulzen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The NASA rover Spirit landed on Mars Jan. 3, but its landing is still causing excitement in the science and K-State communities.

Duke Reiber, K-State alumnus who formerly did public information work for NASA, said Spirit is the most prominent landing since the Viking mission, which traveled to Mars in 1975.

"It's doing a variety of different kinds of sciences," Reiber said. "It gives us a good chance to look at mineralogy."

Reiber said Spirit has the ability to quickly transfer data back to Earth and advanced imaging technologies.

"The cameras have much better color and a variety of different kinds of imaging," he said.

Following the landing, President Bush announced his proposal for a space station location on the moon and human explorations of Mars.

K-State astronomy teachers have been following the expeditions, but not all agree with Bush's proposal.

Larry Weaver, professor of physics, said he thinks it is too early to send people to Mars.

"Someday I hope we do it, but I really think now is the wrong time," he said. "Bush has a great idea, but I think it's many decades too soon."

Reiber said he supports Bush's proposal but doesn't think Bush's message was clear for others.

"I don't think his announcement of the program was in a proper context," he said. "He made it sound like he wanted to do everything at once."

Bharat Ratra, associate professor of physics, said he thinks robotic missions would be more effective than Bush's plan.

"NASA should concentrate on trying to understand space and have more robotic missions," he said. "It is very cost effective to have robots explore planets, do useful science and technical research. It's more useful than sending humans to Mars."

Reiber said he supports manned exploration, but learning how to do it in a safe way is important.

"If you are going to have a sustained program over a long period of time, you need to start with conservative technologies that are not going to risk lives," he said. "If you go there carefully by using rovers and orbiters, you are going to gather a lot of information, and then you can determine from that information how to send men there safely."

Mars rover's science work delayed by storm

By Robert Jablon
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOS ANGELES – A thunderstorm in Australia disrupted science work on Mars, where the Spirit rover was waiting for instructions to study a rock, NASA said Wednesday.

Controllers were supposed to beam commands to the rover through a Deep Space Network antenna in Canberra, but rain and lightning made for a weak signal, and "it actually didn't get all the data," said mission manager Jennifer Trosper at NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena.

Instead, Spirit continued to use a day-old sequence of commands that kept it awake and communicating but not moving or using its instrument-tipped robotic arm.

"Not a lot of science was done today, but the rover is in a very safe state. It's healthy," she said.

Rain was expected to continue in Canberra for a day or two. Whether that would delay attempts to have Spirit use its arm to drill into a rock was unclear.

NASA wants the six-wheeled vehicle to grind away a tiny area of the weathered face of a rock dubbed Adirondack.

The rock beneath could offer clues to Mars' geologic past.

Spirit landed on Mars Jan. 3 on a two-pronged mission to find out whether the now-dry planet was wetter and hospitable to life long ago. Spirit's twin, Opportunity, is scheduled to land on Mars on Saturday.

On another issue, mission members said the Red Planet, as seen in gorgeous panoramic shots from the rover, may not be really red.

The photos of bright red dust, rusty rocks and salmon sky were color-balanced to approximate what a person might see standing on the Martian surface, but it may be weeks before scientists perform the calculations to show true color, said Ray Arvidson of Washington University, a scientist on the project.

Mars was a medium chocolate brown in photos taken by the Viking landers in 1976.

LOST? & FOUND
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN 103 Kedzie 532-6555

Give us your opinion.
Campus Forum: 395-4444

January Sale!
Everything STOREWIDE 1/2 OFF
* Antiques * Antique Machinery * Bar Stools * Bed Sets * Beer Signs * Bunk Beds * Candleabra
* Chairs * Couches * Curios * Desks * Dining Sets * Dolls * Futons
* Glassware * Knick-Knacks * Lamps * Sewing Machines * Sporting Goods * Tools * Used Woodburning Stoves
JERRY'S TRADING POST Mon - Fri 8:30 - 5:30 & Sat 8 - 2
8330 E. Hwy. 24, Manhattan

Boots, Hats, Jeans, Belts, Shirts, and much more.
Stay in style with our most popular brands! Wrangler, 20X, Levi's, Cinch, Cruel Girl, and Montana Silversmiths
Lee's Western Wear
If we don't have it, we will gladly special order it!
8424 E. Hwy 24
2 1/2 miles
East of Manhattan
(785) 776-6715
Mon.-Fri. 10-6, Sat. 10-5
Welcome Back, Students
10% discount through Jan. 31 with student ID

Do you need to turn electronics, jewelry, sporting goods, music, cameras, guns, DVDs, etc. into cash?
We loan or buy any of these at the highest prices in town.
We also offer payday loans.
CHEER ON THE CATS!
Mister Money USA Pawn Loans INC.
705 N. 11th • 501 A Fort Riley Blvd.
2 mi. east of Mall • 537-1803
*2 Topeka locations too!

Tanning • Hair • Nails • Massage • Waxing
50% OFF 1st Salon Service
Sun Essentials
1 Week Unlimited
$9.99 Super
$15.99 Mega
Sun Essentials
Sun Essentials
314-D Tuttle Creek 776-6066

Manhattan's Newest Fitness & Personal Training Club!
Tired of the crowds and hassle of the rec center?
We offer great student rates.
Come check us out!
PRIME TIME FITNESS CLUB
Coupon—Bring in this ad!
1 FREE Workout
($5.00 value)
Limit 1 coupon per person.
Expires 3/15/04
1129 Garden Way—South of Westloop—537-3003

Trends-N-TRINKETS
Manhattan Towncenter • Sears Wing across from Finish Line
Sale starts today at 10:00am ends Sunday at 6:00pm.
4 days only! Starts Today!
WINTER SIDE WALK SALE
• Kid's light weight jackets $4.00
• Adult sweatshirts $2.50
• Racks and racks of kids clothes including Chiefs and K-State apparel now under $10.00
• Women's fashion leather purple jackets: ½ price!
• All NASCAR, NFL, & NCAA apparel, hats and jackets on sale!
• NFL city jerseys were $69.99 now only $19.99

SCHOOL of NURSING
VISIT DAY

Friday, January 23
3 – 5 p.m.
• Social begins at 3 p.m.
• Tour facilities
• Visit with current nursing students
• Faculty and staff members will host informative talks about Baker University's School of Nursing
We offer traditional and degree completion programs. Classes start in the spring and fall. Call today about the Visit Day at 888-866-4242. Visit our Web site at www.bakeru.edu.
BAKER UNIVERSITY TOPEKA
SCHOOL OF NURSING
Stormont-Vail HealthCare

Ohio lawmakers prohibit state benefits for gay couples

State joins 37 others in promoting traditional marriage

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

COLUMBUS, Ohio – Lawmakers gave final approval Wednesday to a measure banning gay marriage and prohibiting state employees from getting benefits for domestic partners.

The bill is considered among the most far-reaching in the nation because of the benefits ban.

The Senate passed the legislation on an 18-15 vote Wednesday. The House has already approved the bill and Gov. Bob Taft has said he will sign it, pending a legal review.

The measure says same-sex marriages are "against the strong public policy of the state," and aims to counter a 1934 U.S. Supreme Court ruling requiring states to recognize marriages from other states in most circumstances.

Thirty-seven states have passed laws recognizing marriage as a sacrament between men and women.

Ohio is the second state, after Nebraska, that would prohibit benefits for state employees' unmarried partners, said Seth Kilbourn, national field director for the Human Rights Campaign, a Washington-based gay and lesbian lobbying group.

Ohio lawmakers struggled with the issue for seven years, when then-Rep. Jay Hottinger introduced a bill in the House. Hottinger, now a senator, said the bill was not an attack on homosexuals but rather meant to protect a traditional definition of marriage.

"Ohio must be able to clearly establish and define our own laws rather than have another state or country define something as important as marriage," said Hottinger, a Republican.

Sen. Eric Fingerhut, a Cleveland Democrat, said the bill will hurt Ohio by limiting the ability of businesses and universities to attract talented people.

"If we pass this bill, get up tomorrow and look in the mirror," Fingerhut said. "Smiling back at you is someone who has slowed Ohio's progress by putting up a sign to people that says, 'We don't want you here.'"

The vote came despite opposition by some large companies. Dayton-based NCR Corp. sent a letter to lawmakers Dec. 12 saying the bill could hurt the company's ability to attract and retain employees.

Similar bills have been introduced in each session since Hottinger first introduced the legislation. But former Senate President Richard Finan, a Republican, blocked its passage. He said state law already took care of the matter.

Just a little off the top

Daphne Ellis, Department of Housing and Dining Services employee, trims the hedges on the corner of Denison Avenue and Jardine Drive on Wednesday afternoon.

Drew Rose
COLLEGIAN

Participants in grisly 1997 Central Park killing released from prison Wednesday

By Samuel Maull
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK –A man and a woman who, as high school students, stabbed and disemboweled a 44-year-old drinking buddy in Central Park in 1997 have been released from prison.

Daphne Abdela, 21, and her former boyfriend, Christopher Vasquez, 22, were released after serving two–thirds of their 10-year sentences without violating prison rules _ as required under New York law, said Tom Grant of the state Division of Parole.

Abdela, the daughter of a millionaire food company executive, pleaded guilty in 1998 to manslaughter in the death of Michael McMorrow. Vasquez, a former altar boy, was convicted of manslaughter after a trial. He had blamed the killing on Abdela.

The two, both 15 years old at the time, killed McMorrow after a night of beer drinking in Central Park's Strawberry Fields, a garden memorial to former Beatle John Lennon.

The victim was stabbed 30 times in the head, face, chest and stomach. He was then gutted and his body stuffed with stones in an attempt to make it sink to the bottom of a park lake.

Abdela's lawyer, Paul F. Callan, said he had not spoken with his client or her parents since her release Wednesday. Arnold Kriss, Vasquez's lawyer, said Wednesday he had no comment.

Give us your opinion.
Campus Fourum: 395-4444

PAT'S PAWN & GUN SHOP, INC.
WE BUY, SELL AND TRADE
MON-FRI 9 a.m.-6 p.m.
SAT 9 a.m.-5 p.m.
GUNS
SMITH & WESSON
HANDGUNS • RIFLES
COLT • RUGER
SHOTGUNS
VISA 506 Riley St. • Ogden 539-0151

The Aggie Lounge
HOME OF THE COLDEST BUD IN TOWN
THURSDAY $1.75 SCOONER
OPEN AT NOON Try a SCOONER FRIDAY
SATURDAY 7th & 12th OPEN AT 10 AM

pick it up
Your 2003 Royal Purple Yearbook is here
You can still purchase a Royal Purple Yearbook for $34.95.
get it at 103 Kedzie Now 8am-5pm

Fast Eddy's BILLIARDS
Tuesday $1 Old Style Pitchers All Day
Sunday 1/2 price pool noon - 2am
Mon - Fri Play All Day $4.50 per person
Manhattan, KS

U-HAUL
Call for reservations 539-2827 323-0307
GAS 4 LESS
Bright Yellow Building at 917 N. 3rd, Manhattan
BEST GAS PRICES IN TOWN!
49¢ 32 oz. Fountain Drinks
Receive 3 cents OFF per Gallon of any grade gasoline!
Bring in your Used 2003-2004 K-State Basketball or Football Ticket for the Discount
Fresh Donuts Available!

	Ctn.	Pk.		Ctn.	Pk.
Marlboro	$28.39	$3.06	Liggett	$19.99	$2.15
Winston	$28.99	$2.96	Doral	$25.99	$2.89
Camel	$28.99	$2.96	Pall Mall	$23.79	$2.65
Salem	$38.09	$3.21	Basic	$28.39	$2.94
Parliament	$28.09	$3.24	Kool	$27.99	$2.95

Liggett 2-pack Special $1.99/pack
Any Marlboro 2 Pack Special $5.69

OFFICEONE
3019 Anderson Village Plaza Shopping Center
785-537-1433 or 800-821-1230
•Printer Inks
•Resume Paper
•Office Furnishings
Wide, In-Store Savings
•Thousands of Special Order Items on Next-Day Basis

WINTER SIDEWALK SALE
THURSDAY - SUNDAY, JANUARY 22 - 25
AT MANHATTAN TOWN CENTER
TAKE THE CHILL OFF WITH SIZZLING "MALL-WIDE" SAVINGS!
WARM UP WITH ASPEN MULLING SPICES, GREAT FOR HOT APPLE CIDER, AND PACKAGED IN A WINTER GIFT TIN FREE!
WITH JUST $100 IN MALL RECEIPTS DATED JANUARY 22-25.
YOUR CHOICE OF A SNOWMAN OR CABIN GIFT TIN, WHILE SUPPLIES LAST. FOR MORE ASPEN MULLING PRODUCTS, VISIT KITCHEN CAPERS, NEXT TO DILLARD'S.
LIMIT ONE PER PERSON, PER DAY, WHILE SUPPLIES LAST. REDEEM AT THE CUSTOMER SERVICE CENTER.
MANHATTAN TOWN CENTER In Downtown Manhattan • 539-9207 • www.manhattantowncenter.com

Just BANK it.

College Checking
With Debit Card & OnLine Banking
FREE
(No minimum balance. No monthly fees. College ID required)
Fort Riley National Bank
2000 Tuttle Creek Blvd.
785.537.4500
Member FDIC www.FRNB.com

Wind farms lose exemption support

Senate committee chair abandons tax proposal

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TOPEKA – A Senate committee chairman backed away Wednesday from his proposal to eliminate a property tax exemption for companies that build wind farms for generating electricity.

The Assessment and Taxation Committee took no action on a bill from Chairman Dave Corbin or an alternative he offered that would require wind farms to make annual payments to counties in lieu of taxes.

Kansas law exempts all property used regularly to generate electricity from renewable sources, such as solar, wind or water power.

The exemption became available for 1999.

Some residents of the Flint Hills oppose proposals to build wind turbines there, arguing that the construction would disturb pristine prairie, spoil views of the landscape and hurt tourism.

"You're not going to do a trail ride to ride by 400-foot turbines," said Alan Cobb, a lobbyist for Flint Hills ranchers.

But Corbin, R-Towanda, said his main concern is that the exemption for wind farms is permanent.

He noted that counties cannot grant exemptions to other businesses for more than 10 years.

"We're getting the impression in the press that I want to kill wind energy," Corbin said during the committee's meeting.

"That's not the case."

Committee members said they wanted to study other states' incentives for wind energy and consider other ideas for changing the law.

For example, Sen. Janis Lee, D-Kensington, wondered if the state could leave decisions about granting such tax exemptions to individual counties, as it does for other businesses.

Sen. Tim Huelskamp, R-Fowler, who does not serve on the tax panel, told its members that even discussing the tax break creates uncertainty for companies interested in building wind farms.

Huelskamp's district has a 170-turbine wind farm in Gray County.

Corbin said he will broach the issue again later in the session.

"We'll get some information together, and I'll come talk to you individually to see what your feelings are," Corbin told committee members.

Tangled touchdown

Zach Mathews, freshman in business, tries to break up a touchdown pass thrown to Luke Franken, sophomore in accounting, Wednesday afternoon at Memorial Stadium.

Chris Hanewinckel
COLLEGIAN

Lawmakers want all U.S. troops reimbursed for airfare from Iraq

By Pauline Jelinek
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON – Lawmakers on Wednesday questioned the Pentagon decision to reimburse air fares for some _ but not all _ troops coming home on leave from Iraq and Afghanistan.

In a program started Sept. 25 to give vacations to troops and civilians in those campaigns, those on leave are brought to Baltimore from overseas. They had been paying for their connecting flights the rest of the way home.

The Pentagon decided to reimburse full air fare starting the day the policy was approved Dec. 19, officials said. But they decided not to make it retroactive, meaning no payments for those who took R&R from Sept. 25 to Dec. 18.

Two Minnesota senators who sponsored legislation passed by Congress to help reimburse the troops, Republican Norm Coleman and Democrat Mark Dayton, said on Wednesday that they sent a letter to Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld expressing disappointment over the decision and asking him to review it.

"The Coleman-Dayton amendment clearly intended that all R&R travel for our brave men and women be covered equally. There is no justification for doing otherwise," Dayton wrote in the letter.

The rest and recuperation leaves of two weeks were started to improve morale among a military stretched thin by the Iraq war on top of the global war on terror. Part of the reason for the plan was to give troops a break after it was ordered that deployments would last for a year.

Several weeks after the start of the leave program _ the largest since the Vietnam War _ Congress approved $55 million for the reimbursements. More than 42,000 people have taken the two-week leaves.

"Our amendment ... passed the United States Senate unanimously because we firmly believe that the men and women of the Armed Forces who have served our country so faithfully and with such courage deserve this small gesture of thanks from a very grateful nation," Coleman said in the Jan. 16 letter to Rumsfeld.

In a telephone interview, Coleman conceded that the legislative language doesn't specify full reimbursement of travel prior to Dec. 19, but he called it "the right thing to do." He said that the Pentagon's undersecretary for personnel and readiness, David Chu, told him that the department was following advice from its lawyers.

"I say, to heck with the lawyers," Coleman said. "I feel there's got to be some flexibility to do the right thing."

Messages left with Chu's office and with Pentagon's public affairs officials were not immediately returned Wednesday evening.

Cisco Networking Academy

Cisco Certified Network Associate

Cisco 1 - $250.00 Jan 28-May 5 Wednesday, 6:30-9:30pm

Cisco 2 - $250.00 Jan 26-May 10 Monday, 6:30-9:30pm

Cisco 3/4 - $250.00 Jan 20-May 4 Tuesday, 6:30-9:30pm

Cisco Certified Network Professional

Network Troubleshooting - $950.00 Jan 22-May 6 Thursday, 6:30-9:30pm

For enrollment information, call MATC at 587-2800 or see us online at: www.matc.net

The TECHNICAL CENTER Manhattan Area Technical Center

For your convenience we now accept Visa/MasterCard!

Reach more readers

Place your classified ad online. Get more bang for your buck.

www.kstatecollegian.com

Ads scheduled to be printed in the Collegian can be published online for an additional dollar.

PART-TIME JOBS

Starting at $8 per hour

Help needed to take inventory in retail stores.
Average 10-12 hours on weekends.
Weekday daytime hours are also available,
averaging 25 hours per week
depending on your availability.

Apply in person
Landon Room, Ramada Inn

Thursday, January 22, 2004 at
3:00 p.m. or 6:00 p.m.

Interviews will start promptly

SPRING BREAK
On The Beach

$99.00 Per Night Plus Tax
Not Valid 3/13/04 - 3/20/04

Hot Tub/Pool
Overlooking the Beach
Full Kitchens
Centrally Located
Pool Table in the Lobby

1-800-313-4626
www.padresouth.com

PADRE SOUTH HOTEL
1500 Gulf Boulevard, South Padre Island, Texas 78597

Southside Auto Sales

'95 Nissan Path. LE
V6, leather, loaded
$4,995

'96 Jeep Grand Cherokee
6 cyl., automatic., loaded
$5,695

'97 Honda Accord
4 cyl., automatic
$4,995

'99 Nissan Sentra
Automatic, loaded, 59K
$5,995

'98 Nissan Frontier Ext. Cab, 4 cyl., Auto $5,795
'98 Pontiac Bonneville 4 Dr, Auto., Loaded $4,500
'96 Dodge Grand Caravan 97,000 miles $4,495
'95 Chrysler LeBaron Convertible V6, Auto, 90,000 miles $2,995
'98 Plymouth Breeze 4 Dr, Auto, Loaded, 70K $3,995
'97 Nissan Altima 4 Dr, Auto $3,995
'95 Buick LeSabre 4 Dr, Auto $2,995
'97 Dodge 1500 Ext. Cab, 318, Auto, Air $5,995
'87 Ford F-150 4x4, V8, Auto $2,495

425 Yuma, Manhattan, KS
785-776-2170 800-837-2170

BE TRUE TO OUR SCHOOLS

When you Switch during January or February 2004, you can designate a participating school to receive a matching check!

SWITCH TO SUNFLOWER

We'll make it worth your time!

Earn $10 Open a new FREE Checking Account

Earn $10 Apply for a Sunflower Bank credit card

Earn $10 For each signed agreement for automatic deposit or payment from your account

Earn $10 Enroll for SunNet™ Online Banking with FREE Online Bill Pay

UP TO $100 deposited into your account when you present this ad*

Earn $10 When you bring your current bank checking statement with you for easy transfer

Earn $10 Apply for a Sunflower Bank debit card

LENDER FDIC

SUNFLOWER BANK

Your 8 to 8 Neighborhood Community Bank

* This is a limited time offer for new households only. Must maintain accounts for six months. One checking account per household. $100 minimum deposit to open account.
 Limited to 5 ACH debits or credits from your account.
© 2003L Sunflower Bank SUBA-2165

Manhattan 785-537-0550
1-888-827-5564
www.sunflowerbank.com

Salina 785-827-5564 • McPherson 620-241-1220
Colby 785-462-3313 • Osborne 785-346-2044
Dodge City 620-225-0585 • Russell 785-483-6322
Ellinwood 620-564-2010 • Victoria 785-735-2201
Great Bend 620-792-2181 • Wichita 316-685-5441
Hays 785-625-8888
Junction City 785-238-3177 • Cañon City 719-275-2311
Lawrence 785-312-7274 • South Fork 719-873-5608
Manhattan 785-537-0550 • Monte Vista 719-852-3901

Epic features highlight best films of 2003

CHRISTOPHER HARROP

In a year that ultimately will be remembered for the dominating presence of epic features, those big fish were matched by a number of more independent efforts in 2003.

Audiences witnessed the sprawling tales of pirates, hobbits, racehorses and clownfish.

Yet smaller features and documentaries held their own against those blockbuster films.

The year's top-two grossing films took us out to sea. Johnny Depp wowed audiences in "Pirates of the Caribbean: The Curse of the Black Pearl," while "Finding Nemo" exhibited some of the most stunning animation in years.

Major fantasy and science-fiction flicks brought millions of dollars into the box office, as the long-awaited "Matrix" sequels premiered, only to be panned by fans and critics alike. The actions and effects were not enough to win over those who tried to find meaning through the thick layer of philosophical rambling the Wachowski Brothers called a "plot."

Another eagerly awaited sequel, "Lord of the Rings: Return of the King," solidly concluded the Tolkien series and is the clear front-runner for the upcoming Academy Awards. While traditionalist fans of the books certainly were taken aback by the alterations made to the storyline, director Peter Jackson stayed true to the spirit of the books – showing that good can prevail over the ultimate evil, but not without loss.

Some have hailed "X2: X-Men United" as one of the best films ever adapted from a comic book, but that title could just as easily belong to "American Splendor." Amazing performances by Paul Giamatti as Harvey Pekar and Hope Davis as Joyce Brabson were complemented not only by animated sequences, but also live-action scenes with the real-life Harvey and Joyce.

The nation of Japan became a character unto itself in two of the most completely opposed films of the year: "Lost in Translation" and "Kill Bill: Volume 1." Quentin Tarantino's "Bill" deftly mixed genres (spaghetti western, grind house action, anime) to portray a betrayed woman's search for revenge while battling yakuza henchmen.

Sofia Coppola's "Lost in Translation" explored the raw human emotion of loneliness and friendship of two Americans awed by what they discovered abroad.

As with every year, most of the high-end, Oscar-contending films are kept under wraps until December.

Although we are living in 2004, there are still plenty of opportunities to see some of last year's best films as they make their way to the Midwestern market. Only then can one get the full experience of the previous year in cinema.

Courtesy Art

Christopher is a senior in political science and history. You can e-mail him at chris@k-state.edu.

My Top 10 of 2003

1. Lord of the Rings: Return of the King
2. Kill Bill: Volume 1
3. Lost in Translation
4. Mystic River
5. American Splendor
6. Finding Nemo
7. Seabiscuit
8. Big Fish
9. House of Sand and Fog
10. Pirates of the Caribbean: The Curse of the Black Pearl

CELEB NEWS

Comedy series, "AbFab" makes comeback

Crack open a champagne bottle and light up a cigarette, sweetie darlings! The British TV comedy series "Absolutely Fabulous" returned to American television Jan. 2, according to The British Broadcasting Corp., which ordered eight new episodes. The series, about the escapades of Edina (series co-creator Jennifer Saunders) and Patsy (Joanna Lumley), two self-absorbed, fashion-obsessed British women, originally aired in Great Britain in 1992 and came to American audiences in 1994. The series lasted for four seasons and returned shortly in 2001.

Lumley and Saunders

"They're clinging to the wreckage of their lives rather than being out there and in the moment," "AbFab" producer Jon Plowman said of the two main characters.

Saunders and comedy partner Dawn French originally came up with the idea for the characters for a BBC sketch comedy show that the two women have done on and off since the late 1980s.

Pope does not support Gibson's religious film

According to reports by Pope John Paul II's longtime secretary, the pontiff does not endorse Mel Gibson's "The Passion of the Christ," despite reports the Pope gave his approval.

Gibson

Gibson's film, about the final hours of Jesus Christ, opens Feb. 25 and has endured criticism from Jewish groups who say the film is anti-Semitic and blames the Jewish people for the death of Christ.

The Catholic church has denied these claims about the film, which contains Gospel narratives in Hebrew, Latin and Aramaic.

A costly mistake

A rare copy of the book "Harry Potter and the Philosopher's Stone" which incorrectly identified the author as J.A. Rawling (her name is J.K. Rowling), sold at an auction earlier this week for $2,642, according to E! Online.

Rowling

The third film installment of the Harry Potter series, "Harry Potter and the Prisoner of Azkaban," is set for a June 4 theatrical release.

Stewart jury selection

Jury selection began last week in New York in the trial of Martha Stewart, according to an article on www.CNN.com.

Stewart

District Judge Miriam Goldman Cedarbaum said she had cut 75 percent of the potential jurors.

Cedarbaum has told the potential jurors that the trial likely will begin next week.

The 62-year-old Stewart faces jail time for selling 4,000 shares of stock in the company ImClone a day before the government released a report about ImClone's development of a cancer-treatment drug.

If Stewart is found guilty, the maximum penalty would be 20 years in prison, the article reported.

Kmart has said it will continue to carry Stewart's line of products despite the controversy surrounding her.

Year's music brings sanity

JESSICA GRANT

Music has been my hobby for many years, although I do not play an instrument or write music. In my world, music is synonymous with passion and sanity.

A mellow CD has worked wonders for my nerves during bouts of road rage and 15-hour flights.

The year 2003 saw the production of many great albums.

These are the top-10 albums (in no particular order) that helped to ensure my sanity during the moments I most needed a vat of Prozac. These albums reaffirmed a passion and reminded me that music is not a dead art form.

1. RYAN ADAMS, "ROCK N ROLL."

The album that proves the gap between rock 'n' roll and country is narrower than we think.

2. THE WHITE STRIPES, "ELEPHANT."

Courtesy Art

This album makes blues, punk and a blazing guitar accessible to another generation.

3. YEAH YEAH YEAHS, "FEVER TO TELL."

It's simple, really. Just juxtapose screeching guitars and heavy drumming with a throaty lead singer, and beautiful dissonance is created.

4. STEPHEN MALKMUS AND THE JICKS, "PIG LIB."

The most critically overlooked album of 2003. The zany sophomore album from the ex-Pavement front man made Radiohead take notice.

They opened for the band during their North American tour.

5. RADIOHEAD, "HAIL TO THE THIEF."

This album might not have been the return to their roots that most people expected, but it safely secures Radiohead as one of the world's greatest bands.

Oh, and they probably are smarter than the rest of us.

6. OUTKAST, "SPEAKERBOXXX/THE LOVE BELOW."

Easily the most eclectic rap album ever made. Really long, but the fusion of sounds makes it worthwhile.

7. THE SHINS, "CHUTES TOO NARROW."

This New Mexico quartet proves not all sophomore albums are subpar.

The band emblazons poetic lyrics over radiant pop music.

8. MY MORNING JACKET, "IT STILL MOVES."

It sounds like a combination of Neil Young, Grandaddy and Jackson Browne and is the perfect album to accompany a nightcap.

9. THE STROKES, "ROOM ON FIRE."

Not a risky sophomore album, but they're capitalizing on the sound that made them popular.

However, I expect more out of their next release.

10. CALEXICO, "FEAST OF WIRE."

Think Tex-Mex meets jazz. This is a surprisingly sorrowful album that makes strings and horns meld gorgeously.

I will admit that some of the notable albums of this past year did not make my list, but these 10 albums truly moved me and found a home in my CD player.

Jessica is a senior in English. You can e-mail her at jgg3496@k-state.edu.

Celebrities' personal lives give fans full year of comedy, sadness

CORBIN H. CRABLE

Last year was all about us.

We tried harder than ever to improve ourselves by redoing our home, our look, our lifestyle. Television programs such as "Trading Spaces" continued to reflect America's dissatisfaction with their home, while "Queer Eye for the Straight Guy" introduced straight men to an entirely new, foreign world of fashion and culture. Atkins dieters continued to pass on the garlic bread and help themselves to extra servings of roast beef.

Somehow, between repainting our collective bathroom and getting a manicure, we managed to indulge ourselves, as always, in the lives of our celebrity heroes. We watched them get married and divorced. We watched their greatest successes and their most disastrous failures. We mourned the loss of veteran celebrities and hailed the rise of new ones to replace our old favorites.

We complained and moaned about the influx of reality TV shows, yet we tuned in every week to watch Trista and Ryan, our favorite newlyweds, embark on life's greatest adventure. We marveled at the sheer stupidity of Paris Hilton's Green Acres-esque journey into the Midwest and "The Simple Life." And, try as we might, we wanted to see "The Bachelor" pick just the right mate and weed out all the jerks and gold-diggers. And I'm still waiting for another season of "The Anna Nicole Show," my guiltiest pleasure.

Michael Jackson made headlines yet again when he was accused of child molestation, a controversy we thought had been put to rest 10 years ago when it happened the first time. The King of Pop again had fans rally with him amid the accusations, while his high-profile friends like Elizabeth Taylor remained strangely silent. Kelis bragged that her milkshake was better than ours, and Outkast told us to shake it like a Polaroid picture.

Beyonce was crazy in love, and Britney Spears' battle was against the music, while the Dixie Chicks' own battle was against Bush supporters after they blasted him on the airwaves and had to suffer their work being pulled from radio stations and music stores alike.

Speaking of on-air shenanigans, Britney's televised lip lock with Madonna solidified our belief that Britney was becoming less of a performer and more of an attention whore. Madonna's appeal is timeless enough that she doesn't need publicity of this kind, and she was just embarrassing herself by trying to associate herself with a wannabe who merely wanted to copy her talent.

We said goodbye to Bob Hope, whose comedy brought laughter to many generations, and to Katharine Hepburn, whose classic looks wooed moviegoers for decades. We were hurt when the man in black, Johnny Cash, bid us adieu on the same day we lost John Ritter, who, along with Suzanne Somers and Joyce DeWitt, invited us to "come and knock on our door" in the 1970s TV comedy "Three's Company."

It will be hard to overshadow the news of 2003, but celebrities have continued to satisfy our hunger for Hollywood news this year. And if Britney's whirlwind Las Vegas marriage and subsequent divorce are any indication of the excitement we're in for, 2004 likely won't disappoint.

Corbin is a graduate student in journalism and mass communications. You can e-mail him at copyed01@hotmail.com.

And Rightly So | J.R. Whipperlip jibbajabbajoe@hotmail.com

Puck | Kent Holle kentramone@yahoo.com

Mad cow scare causes job loss in Midwest meatpacking belt

By Joe Ruff
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nati Harnik | THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Workers at Fremont Beef in Fremont, Neb., process pork for the Japanese market, Friday, on one of only two production lines still active. Following the U.S. Department of Agriculture announcement that bovine spongiform encephalopathy, or mad cow disease, had been discovered in one Holstein cow in Washington state, more than 30 countries banned U.S. beef products, forcing the laying off of 49 people at Fremont Beef, which largely processes beef tongue, liver and intestines for restaurants in Japan.

FREMONT, Neb. – Candy Nysingh still cuts and packs meat at Fremont Beef Co., but with jobs in America's meatpacking belt being lost to mad cow disease, she isn't sure for how long.

"It is scary," Nysingh said. "It just happened so fast."

On Dec. 23, the U.S. Department of Agriculture announced that bovine spongiform encephalopathy, or mad cow disease, had been discovered in a Holstein cow in Washington state. More than 30 countries banned U.S. beef products, including Japan and Mexico, and slaughter cattle prices dropped about 18 percent.

Meatpacking plants from Minnesota to Texas and from Iowa to Idaho have since cut jobs because some of the "secondary" meats they produce _ such as beef tongue and intestines _ primarily go to international markets.

Overall meat industry job losses connected to mad cow disease have been relatively few, mainly because domestic demand for steak and hamburger has remained strong, said Ted Schroeder, an agricultural economist at Kansas State University. About 10 percent of U.S. beef is exported.

"The total number of cattle here, the number processed, those things are unchanged," Schroeder said.

But Excel Corp. of Wichita laid off 700 workers at five plants in Texas, Kansas, Colorado and Nebraska because of the loss of export markets for secondary meats, spokesman Mark Klein said.

Swift & Co. cut 140 jobs in Colorado, Nebraska, Texas and Idaho for much the same reason, spokesman Jim Herlihy said.

Gary Mickelson, a spokesman for Tyson Foods Inc., said his company laid off about 40 workers at its smaller slaughterhouses in Iowa, Nebraska and Idaho.

If export markets don't open within a year, job losses could grow and spill over into feedlots, equipment and supply companies for meatpacking plants and retail businesses in Midwest towns, Creighton University economics professor Ernie Goss said.

Kansas City flight attendant being sued for intercom rhyme

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

KANSAS CITY, Kan. – A flight attendant's variation on the "eenie, meenie, minnie moe" rhyme to encourage passengers to hurry and find their seats left two black women on the Southwest Airlines flight feeling humiliated and degraded, their attorney said as trial of their lawsuit began.

Louise Sawyer and Grace Fuller, sisters from suburban Kansas City, were heading home from a Las Vegas vacation when the incident took place three years ago next month. As passengers were boarding the plane and looking for seats, flight attendant Jennifer Cundiff made the following comment over the intercom: "Eenie, meenie, minie moe; pick a seat, we gotta go."

Sawyer and Fuller, who are black, contend that the attendant's remark struck them as a reference to a well-known racist version of the rhyme, in which the first line is followed by these words: "Catch a n––r by the toe."

They sued Southwest Airlines in U.S. District Court at Kansas City, Kan., claiming they were discriminated against and suffered physical and emotional distress. Judge Kathryn H. Vratil ruled last year that the case could proceed to trial, and it began on Tuesday before an eight-member jury.

As passengers were boarding the plane and looking for seats, flight attendant Jennifer Cundiff made the following comment over the intercom: "Eenie, meenie, minie, moe; pick a seat, we gotta go."

Scott A. Wissel, a Kansas City lawyer representing the two women, said in his opening statement that they were humiliated and degraded when Cundiff used the phrase, and decided to sue out of frustration after Southwest Airlines would not take their complaint seriously.

John W. Cowden, a Kansas City lawyer representing Southwest Airlines, characterized Cundiff's remark as an "innocent and positive use of this phrase."

She was not directing the comment solely at Sawyer and Fuller, but at other passengers who were standing in the aisle, too, Cowden said.

Fuller, of Lenexa, Kan., testified that she and her sister, who lives in Merriam, Kan., had missed their original flight to Kansas City and were placed on standby for the next one. They were the last passengers to board and could not find a seat, and she contends they were the only passengers still standing.

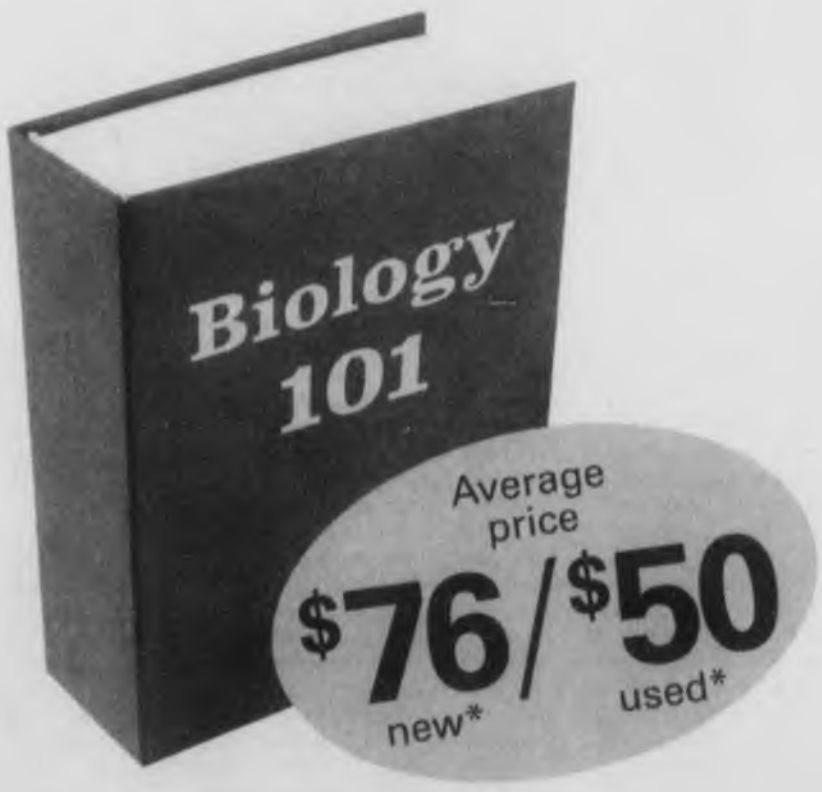
As the two sisters stood in the aisle, Cundiff said the rhyme over the intercom.

"I couldn't believe that in 2001 someone would say something like that," Fuller said. She said she saw a direct connection to the racist rhyme.

Fuller testified that during the flight to Kansas City she had a small seizure. After she got home later, she had a "grand mal" seizure and was bedridden for three days, she testified.

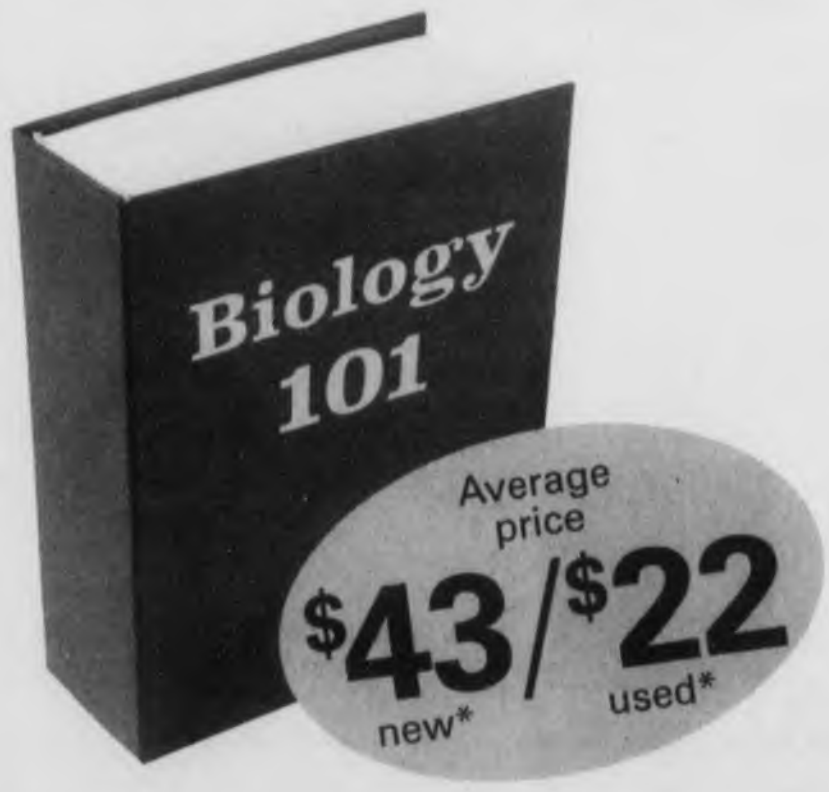
When Cowden asked if the "n-word" was used that day, Fuller said, "No, it wasn't." But she said she heard it whenever the rhyme is uttered.

Cundiff, who lives in Argyle, Texas, testified that she had used the rhyme before on other flights. She said Southwest Airlines encourages employees to use humor to help make flights more fun and memorable.



Cundiff said she used the rhyme because several people, besides Sawyer and Fuller, were out of their seats.

She testified that she was confused why someone would complain about the rhyme. She said she asked her supervisor why what she said was racist, and that the supervisor didn't know.



= $48 1-800-221-CATS

BASKETBALL BIG 12 PACK

Retail

Half.com

Natural selection.

For a limited time, first-time buyers
Save an additional $5
on purchases of $50 or more!
Simply use this code:
KANSASSTATE2004

How smart is this: All the textbooks you need for up to 50% off retail prices. New or used, all you have to do is go to half.com and type in the book titles, or ISBN numbers. Then let nature take its course.

half.com by ebay
Same textbooks.
Smarter prices.

Copyright 2003-2004 Half.com. Half.com, the Half.com logo, eBay and the eBay logo are trademarks of eBay Inc. All rights reserved. *Average Retail Price of a New Textbook based on data from Follett Corp (as reported by The Associated Press in January 2003). Average Retail Price of a Used Textbook based on data from Monument Information Resources. Average Half.com Price for New and Used Textbooks based on an August/September 2003 analysis of over 500,000 books sold on Half.com. Quantities, pricing and availability are not guaranteed and will vary due to supply and demand. Coupon is for first-time buyers only. Limited time offer; excludes shipping and handling; offer subject to change or termination without prior notice.

Former senator encourages legislature to ban death penalty

By Bill Draper
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TOPEKA – A former state senator urged legislators Wednesday to place a two-year moratorium on imposing the death sentence and executing those who already have been sentenced to die.

Tim Emert, an attorney from Independence, told the Senate Judiciary Committee that no issue was as troubling to him during his eight years as a senator as deciding where he stood on the death penalty.

Emert became vice chairman of the Judiciary Committee soon after taking office in 1993 and was on the committee the next year when the Legislature reinstituted capital punishment.

"I came to the conclusion the only vote I could live with was a 'no' vote on the death penalty in Kansas," said Emert, who was elected to the Legislature as a Republican. "I could not, in my mind, be pro-life and pro death penalty."

"I came to the conclusion the only vote I could live with was a 'no' vote on the death penalty in Kansas."

Tim Emert
ATTORNEY

A moratorium bill currently before the committee would also create a seven-member commission to study such issues as the costs of capital murder cases and whether there's a disparity on how death penalty cases are handled in different parts the state.

Gov. Kathleen Sebelius said she hasn't given the moratorium much thought, though she acknowledged that the state's death penalty law has some flaws.

"I haven't really taken a look at that issue lately," she said. "I think Kansas has a lot of the features in our death penalty law that some other states have found to be very problematic."

Judiciary Committee Chairman John Vratil said a two-year moratorium on executions probably was not needed, since it takes an average of 10 years from the time a person is sentenced to death to the time execution is carried out.

"I haven't really decided where I stand on this," said Vratil, R-Leawood. "Nobody is going to be executed in the next two years, anyway."

There have been no executions in Kansas since the state reestablished the death penalty in 1994. Seven people currently are on death row.

In December, a legislative audit suggested the state could reduce the number of capital trials, which are significantly more expensive than non-capital cases _ by creating a mandatory life sentence for some murders.

Negotiators work with prison inmates to release captured corrections officers

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Until the crisis is resolved, the 4,400 inmates at the prison west of Phoenix remain in lockdown, meaning no one is allowed in the yards and inmate movement is more heavily restricted.

BUCKEYE, Ariz. – Negotiations to free two corrections officers held hostage in a prison tower for four days were briefly disrupted Wednesday when one of the inmate captors set off a gas canister that landed in a prison yard.

No one was injured, and prison officials did not retaliate, said Cam Hunter, a spokeswoman for the Arizona Department of Corrections. She said it wasn't clear what provoked the inmate, and added negotiations soon resumed.

"The dialogue with the inmates is continuing," Hunter said. "They're (negotiators) going to ride this thing out as long as it takes."

The standoff began Sunday morning after an inmate attacked a guard in the kitchen of the medium- to high-security Arizona State Prison Complex-Lewis. The prisoner and another inmate then got into an observation tower where the two guards, one male and one female, were stationed.

Negotiators got their first glimpse of the guards on Tuesday, and they appeared to be OK, Hunter said. The guards were allowed to speak briefly to law enforcement by radio.

Prison officials had initially said the male guard was injured, though they did not disclose details of the injury. The identities of the inmates and guards have not been released.

The guard tower, in the middle of the prison grounds, is believed to be stocked with weapons. Authorities would not say whether the inmates had made any threats.

Until the crisis is resolved, the 4,400 inmates at the prison west of Phoenix remain in lockdown, meaning no one is allowed in the yards and inmate movement is more heavily restricted.

Hunter said the restricted airspace around the prison has been increased, pushing the perimeter out to 3 miles around and up to 5,000 feet. The restrictions were increased partly to avoid alarming the inmates, said Ivan Bartos, the warden at the state prison in Yuma, who has been assisting in the standoff. "Some of the most innocent things could derail something that's taken hours to build," he said.

CLASSIFIEDS

LET'S RENT

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

A TWO, three, or four bedroom apartment available June 1st or August 1st. (785)539-1713 before 5 pm.

BRITTNAY RIDGE. Four-bedroom, study, two and one-half bath, town home. Washer/ dryer. 2519 Candlecrest, lease required. No pets. $1050, $1050 deposit. (785)537-9740.

CRESTWOOD APARTMENTS. West side Two-bedroom, one and one-half baths. Personal washer/ dryer. Water, trash, cable television paid. No pets. $590. (785)776-3345.

PRE-LEASING FOR AUGUST four-bedroom/ study, two baths, duplexes, and apartments. Some less than five years old. Energy efficient, most locations have washer/ dryer's. Close to campus. No pets. 12 month lease. Call for location. (785)537-9740 or (785)776-2102.

120 For Rent- Houses

A FOUR, five, seven, or eight-bedroom house June 1st or August 1st. (785)539-1713 before 5 pm.

LARGE TWO-BEDROOM, close to campus. Real nice, clean, and affordable. (785)762-7191.

145 Roommate Wanted

RESPONSIBLE MALE roommate wanted for luxury four-bedroom apartment across from west campus. Large rooms off-street parking, laundry. No pets. (785)770-3125.

TWO PLUS bedroom, one block to campus. New carpet/ flooring/ some utilities paid. $620/ month. (785)539-4641.

LARGE ROOM AVAILABLE for spring semester sublease in duplex one block off campus. Room is 21x 13 feet with a hanging closet and a 5x 4 walk in closet. Duplex is clean and large with furnished common areas, washer/ dryer, dishwasher, big screen TV and outdoor grill. Backyard is large and fenced with deck. Parking is reserved. Call Lindsay at (785)587-0296.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

1219 KEARNEY. one-bedroom basement across from campus. Water/ trash paid. No pets. Lease until May 31 or longer. $295. (785)539-5136.

BRAND NEW. Two and three-bedroom near Westloop, two baths plus washer/ dryer. Now leasing for August 1st. (785)313-1167.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, all appliances including washer and dryer. Only three years. Ready for spring semester. (785)556-6899.

HOW WOULD you like to be the first to live in our new construction? One-bedroom and two-bedroom units- two blocks to KSU. Three-bedroom units by City Park. Four-bedroom units, just one year old! These units have all of he "bells and whistle" to make you very comfortable! Call Century 21 Irvine (785)539-2356 for a listing of all available rentals.

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE block to campus. New carpet/ flooring/ some utilities paid. $660/ month, or best offer. (785)539-4641.

TWO-BEDROOM DUPLEX, very nice, good condition, washer/ dryer free, trash paid. Available now. January free. (785)537-2289.

115 Rooms Available

TWO ROOMS available close to campus. $225/ month all utilities paid. For information please call (785)776-6871.

120 For Rent- Houses

FOUR-BEDROOM TOWNHOUSE, three bath, washer/ dryer. Available June 1. $990. (785)313-1167.

HOUSES FOR sale. Close to campus. Call Larry at Century 21 Knight, (785)317-7713 for a list.

LARGE NICE houses- June or August leases. Call now for best selections. www.foremostproperty.com or (785)539-4641.

SPACIOUS THREE-BEDROOM, two bath house located blocks away from campus. Lots of extras including dishwasher, washer/ dryer- central-air and more. Please contact Emily at (785)462-5769.

TIRED OF Apartment Living? Manufactured Homes For Rent. Pets Allowed. Beautifully maintained communities. Pool, playground, community center. Professionally managed. Call Manager for more details. (785)539-5841.

145 Roommate Wanted

A LARGE bedroom in four-bedroom house. 1004 Thurston. $300/ month plus one-forth utilities. Available immediately. Contact Marcia. (402)968-3293.

ROOM AVAILABLENOW, for female. $350 with all utilities included. Nice size bedroom. (785)565-0151, (785)313-0801.

ADVERTISE. KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

145 Roommate Wanted

SPRING SEMESTER roommate needed. Master bedroom in four-bedroom house. 0.3 miles from campus. Washer/ dryer, two bathrooms, cable internet, $250 plus utilities. Call Tyler (913)908-7162.

150 Sublease

ONE-BEDROOM AVAILABLE immediately in fantastic two-bedroom apartment. $240/ month plus electric/ cable. Fireplace, new heater/ appliances, free washer/ dryer, quiet location. No smokers, no pets. (316)259-8286, cit3636@ksu.edu.

200 service directory

300 employment/ opportunities

310 Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/ she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

A JOB is waiting for a good house cleaner. Send qualifications to Box 100, Collegian Ads,103 Kedzie Hall, Manhattan, KS 66506

BARTENDER TRAINEES needed. $250/ day potential. Local positions. (800)293-3985 ext. 548.

CAMPUS SPOKESPERSON needed. $15 per hour job on campus. Campus Information Services is currently seeking a highly motivated student. Must have strong interpersonal skills and be very outgoing. For more information call: (800)375-5701.

CRUISE LINE entry level, on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year round. Call (941)329-6434 or www.cruisecareers.com.

DANCERS WANTED. Soldiers and students coming back. Make alot of money on short hours. Apply in person, 1330 Grant Ave, Junction City, KS 66441.

GET PAID For Your Opinions! Earn $15- $125 and more per survey! www.paidonlinesurveys.com

WANTED: COWBOYS. Cowgirls to guide tourists and horses through the Rocky Mountains. Come work for the largest horse operation in North America. Write Sombrero Ranch at 3300 Airport Road, Boulder, CO 80301 or visit our website at www.sombrero.com

310 Help Wanted

Now Hiring:
Crew Members
All Shifts

TACO BELL

1155 Westport Rd.
K-State Student Union
Manhattan, KS

Benefits:
Competitive Pay
Employee Discounts
Free Uniforms
Apply at stores

Equal opportunity employer

HORSEBACK RIDING STAFF- Spend the summer in Colorado! Make a difference in the life of a girl at Girl scout overnight camp in the mountains southwest of Denver. Teach basic skills and lead trail rides. Late May- early August. Training, competitive salary, housing, meals, health insurance, travel and end-of-season bonuses. For an application, email campjobs@gsmhc.org or call (303)607-4819.

MAILROOM/ DUPLICATING CENTER student help needed. Freshman or sophomore status preferred with availability to work in the summer and during the fall and spring semesters. Duties include: campus delivery route, preparation and handling of mail and operation of duplicating equipment. Computer skills, a must, and some heavy lifting are required. Must have a valid driver's license. Bring your spring schedule and apply in person at Duplication and Mail Center, 13 College Court Bldg., (785)532-5988. Application deadline is January 30.

MAINTENANCE: APARTMENT COMPLEX seeking full-time general maintenance position. Must have experience in repairs, painting, grounds keeping, make ready, etc. (785)776-3345 days.

NETWORK TECHNICIAN. Due to continued growth, Networks Plus has an opening for a Computer Network Technician in Manhattan. Positive attitude, professionalism, strong work ethic and one or more years of computer support experience or equivalent training is required. Email resume to jobs@networksplus.com in Microsoft Word or Text format. Equal Opportunity Employer.

NOW HIRING wait staff and security. Please apply at Shotz between 11- 2pm, Monday- Friday. 1115 Moro. (785)776-8770.

PART-TIME CDL driver wanted. Roof truss manufacturing. 5107 Murray Road, (785)776-5081.

PART-TIME DELIVERY driver. Apply at Kellstrom Pharmacy at 1860 Claflin Road, Manhattan, KS, 66502 or call (785)776-1200.

PROGRAMMING INTERN- Networks Plus is hiring a full-time programming intern. Microsoft ASP or SQL experience preferred but not required. $7/ hour. Email resume in Microsoft Word or text format to jobs@networksplus.com.

310 Help Wanted

RILEY COUNTY INFORMATION SYSTEMS. Intern: Part-time position will be responsible for general Help Desk tech support and troubleshooting for Riley County end users. Experience with PC's. Familiarity with HTML, ASP, Java, DHTML, CGI, Microsoft IIS, Microsoft Frontpage, Macromedia Dreamweaver, Window 95/ 98, 2000, Windows XP, Office 97, office 2000 and Office XP, network wiring and repairing and troubleshooting software, hardware, PC's and PC peripherals. Must possess good verbal and written communication skills, ability to learn new technologies, and good team work skills. Valid driver's license required. Starting rate is $9.07/ hour with no benefits. Applications are required and can be accessed along with a job description, at www.co.riley.ks.us/employment and clicking on the link a t Current Job Listings. For more information e-mail jdean@co.riley.ks.us or phone (785)565-6464, Riley County is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

TEACHERS: INCREASED daily rate- $75 per day. USD 378 Riley County is accepting applications for substitute teachers (including emergency). Please call Becky Pultz at 785-485-4000.

THE BEST summer job: Why hike in our backcountry, ride horses on our rugged trails and breathe fresh mountain air all summer long? It comes with the job. Cheley Colorado Camps, a residential wilderness camp for youth. 9-17. 6/6- 8/9. Call us at 1-800-CampFun, E m a i l staff2004@cheley.com or visit our website at www.cheley.com

TIRED OF Minimum wage? Part-time marketing positions available, flexible hours, commission based. Make what you want. Contact Dan deo8564@ksu.edu, (785)456-5080.

330 Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

400 open market

410 Items for Sale

25" COLOR TV- $25/ Sony Audio Amplifier and Tuner with four- speakers- $25- Both for $40. Also corner computer desk in nice condition for $30. Call (785)341-8691.

VENTURI FIVE speaker surround sound system. Excellent condition $300 for set or best offer. 17-inch working monitor $50. Cheryl (785)323-0703.

Get Your Ad Here. Call Today 532-6560

435 Computers

POWERFUL DESKTOP Computer: AMD Athlon XP 2200+, 512 MB RAM, 21-inch Princeton Monitor, ATI Radeon 9000 Pro 128MB video, 6- ch audio, CD-RW 48x, color printer and scanner $1000. email: schoenig@k-state.edu or call (785)341-8691 for more information.

450 Pets and Supplies

FOR SALE: ACA yellow lab pups, shots and wormed $100 (785)336-3238 or (785)336-1179 evenings weekend.

500 transportation

600 travel/ trips

630 Spring Break

#1 SPRING Break Vacations! Cancun, Jamaica, Acapulco, Bahamas, & Florida! Best parties, best hotels, best prices! Space is limited! Book now and save! 1-800-234-7007. www.endlesssummertours.com

STSTRAVEL.COM
Join America's #1 Student Tour Operator to Cancun, Acapulco, Jamaica, Bahamas and Florida

Sell Trips, Earn Cash, Go Free! Now Hiring On-campus Reps
Call for group discounts
STS STUDENT TRAVEL SERVICES
1-800-648-4849
www.ststravel.com

JAMAICA
SPRING BREAK
K-STATE FLIGHTS FROM KANSAS CITY!!!
NEGRIL BEACH CLUB
BAR B BARN
WHITE SANDS
CLIFF HOTELS
CHICKLETS
OCEAN EDGE
TIGRESS II
from $649
from $469
ASTA
SPACE IS LIMITED - BOOK NOW!
1-800-234-7007
www.endlesssummertours.com

SPRING BREAK. Beach and Ski Trips on sale now! Call (800)SUNCHASE today! Or visit www.Sunchase.com.

BROKE?
FIND A JOB
look in the help wanted section.
Kedzie 103 532-6555

000 bulletin board

010 Announcements

ATTORNEY, CHUCK Harper, expunge convictions before job application, paternity, custody, net free adoption, civil law, 400 Poyntz, (785)539-8100, chuckharper@msn.com

FRATERNITIES— SORORITIES, Clubs— Student Groups. Earn $1000- $2000 this semester with a proven CampusFundraiser, three hour fund raising event. Our free programs make fund raising easy with no risks. Fund raising dates are filling quickly, so get with the program! It works. Contact CampusFundraiser at (888)923-3238, or visit www.campusfundraiser.com

GUITAR INSTRUCTOR taking on new students. Teaching all styles from classical to lead rock. Enjoy teaching all levels from beginners on. First two lessons will be free to make sure you will be satisfied. After first two lessons cost will only be $10 per forty-five minute sessions. Contact Rick email: purplepowercat2004@yahoo.com.

START YOUR own Fraternity! Zeta Beta Tau is looking for men to start a new Chapter. If you are interested in academic success, a chance to network and an opportunity to make friends in a non- pledging Brotherhood, e-mail: zbt@zbtnational.org or call 800-431-9674.

SUFFERING FROM ABORTION? Write HeartsRestored Box 49, Grinnell, KS 67738. Confidential response will follow.

020 Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

030 Post a Note

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a post a note.

100 housing/ real estate

105 For Rent- Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2440.

ONE-BEDROOM CLOSE to campus. Water and trash included. Available January 1. Central air/ heat. (785)537-7810

SEPARATE BEDROOM, study, living room, and eat-in kitchen. No smoking, drinking, pets. (785)539-1554.

"Stay In Class At The Commons"
Now Leasing for 2003-2004!
•Fully Furnished
•2 & 4 Bedroom
•Alarm System
•Swimming Pool
•Washer/Dryer
•Computer Lab
•Fitness Center
•Permit Parking
•Tennis/Volleyball Courts
•Individual Leases
Office Hours:
M-F 9-6, Sat. 10-4
539-0500
university COMMONS APARTMENTS
2215 College Ave.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

SEPARATE BEDROOM, study, living room and eat-in kitchen. No smoking, drinking, or pets. (785)539-1554.

SIX-BEDROOM UNFURNISHED apartment. Zeandale Area $300 plus utilities. Phone (785)456-8365.

Deadlines

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run.
CALL 532-6555

ClassifiedRATES

1 DAY
20 words or less
$8.00
each word over 20
20¢ per word

2 DAYS
20 words or less
$9.40
each word over 20
25¢ per word

3 DAYS
20 words or less
$11.05
each word over 20
30¢ per word

4 DAYS
20 words or less
$12.25
each word over 20
35¢ per word

5 DAYS
20 words or less
$13.35
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

TO PLACE AN AD
Go to Kedzie 103 (across from the K-State Student Union). Office hours are Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The office is open except on holidays.

HOW TO PAY
All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an account with Student Publications Inc. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks. We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

FREE FOUND ADS
As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CORRECTIONS
If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

CANCELLATIONS
If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day before the ad is to be published.

VIRUS | Help available soon for infected computers

Continued from Page 1

"Any e-mail containing the virus is being silently dropped from the system," he said. "Beagle forges the sender, so we couldn't send an error message because the user of the address didn't actually send the e-mail."

Also, he said, any e-mail going through the university server with an executable file attached will be sent back to the original sender.

"This is an emergency measure to control this thing in case a new version comes out," Ramsey said.

Ramsey said the Technology Service Center is in the process of burning CDs that will have a Beagle removal tool, Microsoft Windows patches and other helpful tools for users who have contracted the worm.

"These will be available at the K-State Student Union computer store, residence halls and at the help desk on the third floor of Hale Library," he said.

There will also be a link to download the contents of the CDs on the K-State homepage, www.k-state.edu.

TACO BELL | Student input affected officials' decision

Continued from Page 1

Food Services conducted a survey last semester and found that 75 percent of students wanted Taco Bell back. Also, both Thober and Emily O'Connor, marketing manager at the Union, said they had been approached in person about Taco Bell's absence last semester.

"Everywhere I went, people would ask about Taco Bell," O'Connor said.

"People were very insistent that we bring it back. I also received phone calls about it – but now, we've made it better."

Bernard Pitts, director of the Union, said when the decision not to renew Taco Bell's contract was made, it was in an effort to improve food services' bottom line with a good quality product.

However, since students didn't accept the new restaurant, it defeated the purpose.

Pitts said the Union Governing Board, which he is a member of, heard clearly that students preferred Taco Bell to Eddie Peppers, and he had hopes of his own for Taco Bell's return.

"We hope Taco Bell will be an anchor store which will bring back traffic to the food court and expose the other components to more traffic as well," he said.

To get Taco Bell to come back, Thober joked that groveling was involved. She said after some negotiations, Taco Bell of America was pleased to come back to K-State.

O'Connor said she hoped bringing back Taco Bell would show students that the Union is at K-State to serve them.

"We were asked specifically to bring the Bell back, and we listened," she said.

"There was a lot involved in bringing Taco Bell back, but that's what we are here for."

MEN | Team effort yields 1st conference victory

Continued from Page 6

As the crowd rose to its feet and the noise swelled, Texas A&M turned the ball over and Hart hit a jumper at the other end to put K-State up by three, 60-57 with 3:53 left in the game.

A pair of Aggie free throws put them to within one, 60-59 and the Wildcats were unable to stretch the lead on the next trip down the floor. On the ensuing A&M possession, the Aggies could not convert on three offensive rebound chances and then turned the ball over to K-State with 1:29 left.

After a Wildcat time-out, Hart inbounded the ball to Ellis, coming off of a screen, and hit the three point shot that would eventually give the Wildcats the win.

"The play was designed to just get the ball in bounds," Coach Jim Wooldridge said. "He (Ellis) found a lot of space and hit the shot."

Junior Jeremiah Massey came through on the defensive side with a block of the Aggies' Jesse King to help hold Texas A&M scoreless for close to the last three minutes of the game.

Ellis also had a stellar defensive game, holding the Aggies leading scorer, sophomore Antoine Wright to only two points.

"He is our best perimeter defender. If Wright had scored his normal points, we would have lost," Wooldridge said.

Both the Wildcats and Aggies got off to a slow start in the first half as neither team was able to find the basket early on. K-State shot just 36 percent from the field, while Texas A&m only managed hitting 12 of their 28 shots in the first half.

"We had a really sluggish start, both on offense and defense," Wooldridge said. "We didn't have any steam in us."

Although the Wildcats started slowly, they received a boost with 14:33 left in the first half as freshman Dez Willingham, returned to the court after missing the last five games with a shoulder injury. Willingham finished with six points, including a 3-point shot in the second half to help the comeback.

"Once I heard the crowd, I didn't feel any kind of pain," Willingham said.

Both teams battled back and forth throughout the first 20 minutes. Trading leads, but never letting either team surmount a substantial lead as the first half ended with the Aggies leading the Wildcats 30-28.

Senior guard Tim Ellis kept the Wildcats in the game with 10 points and four rebounds. Senior, Leandro Garcia-Morales led the Aggies with 10 points going 3-4 from the field and 2-3 on 3-pointers in the first half.

"It's great that we won, but it is more important how we won," Wooldridge said.

ELLIS | Guard has faith in team to make the shots

Continued from Page 6

Those surprised by Ellis's big-time performance should not be.

Going into the Texas A&M game, Ellis was second on the team in scoring and field goal shooting while leading the Wildcats in 3-point shooting at 47 percent.

As for that big shot – would Ellis have faith in his other teammates to hit a crucial bucket?

Absolutely.

"I've got confidence in everybody," Ellis said.

"Fortunately, it was me tonight.

Truck with images of aborted fetuses given citation in suburban Wichita

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WICHITA - The owner of a truck displaying graphic images identified as aborted fetuses has been cited for allegedly violating a suburban Wichita ordinance banning portable signs.

Bel Aire City Attorney Lee Parker said the parked truck violated a 1992 ordinance that prohibits the use and display on a public street of a non-permitted portable sign.

Parker said the truck is considered a portable sign when it is parked, and it doesn't meet any of the approved exceptions.

Operation Rescue West's president, Troy Newman, was issued a citation after parking its "truth truck" in the neighborhood of a woman who works for Women's Health Care Services, a Wichita medical clinic that performs abortions.

"It's a First Amendment issue," he said. "The supremacy clause of the constitution trumps any local ordinances."

The violation carries a penalty of up to six months in jail or a $500 fine or both. Newman is set to appear in Bel Aire municipal court March 3. He said the organization plans to seek an injunction and file a federal lawsuit.

Parker said he has found three court cases that uphold the constitutionality of ordinances similar to Bel Aire's.

"Our ordinance is content-neutral," Parker said.

The truck was parked in Bel Aire several times, and drew warnings from city officials before the citation was issued.

The so-called "truth truck" has traveled 250,000 miles visiting nearly every state in America.

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

www.kstatecollegian.com

Friday, January 23, 2004

Vol. 108, No.79

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

Provost committee selects finalists

Coffman's replacement to be named before June

By Amy Preston
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Three finalists have been selected to interview for the university's provost position during the next three weeks, K-State Provost Committee officials said Wednesday.

Terry King, dean of the College of Engineering; M. Duane Nellis, dean for Eberly Sciences at West Virginia University; and Paula Myrick Short, vice chancellor for academic affairs for the Tennessee Board of Regents, will be interviewed for the provost position, which opens in June when James Coffman leaves the position.

See PROVOST Page 10

Tickets still left for Toby Keith

By Lacey Storer
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

One of the biggest names in country music will be coming to Manhattan this weekend.

Keith

Toby Keith will give a concert at Bramlage Coliseum this Saturday as part of his "Shock'n Y'all" tour.

Jim Muller, manager of operations for K-State Athletics and organizer of the event, said he is very excited to have Keith and thinks fans won't be disappointed with the performance.

"His music is timely, very emotional and a rocking good time," Muller said.

"I think if they love country music and they love to have a good time, Toby combines the two in a unique way."

See KEITH Page 10

Man in custody for kidnapping wife

By Sarah Rice
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A man is in custody after kidnapping his wife from Manhattan Town Center.

Riley County Police Department officers responded to a call at 7:49 p.m. Wednesday from the mall security after the victim, Jennifer Rhodd, reported the incident.

According to an RCPD press release, the suspect, Troy Rhodd of St. George, Kan., followed his wife from her place of employment at the mall to the parking lot where he forced his way into her vehicle.

"He entered the vehicle and forced her over, taking her against her will," Lt. Kurt Moldrup said.

He drove her to Pottawatomie County, drove around and then returned to the mall to pick up their children, who were with another relative.

After a verbal quarrel, Jennifer Rhodd contacted mall security.

"The argument was about domestic issues and their pending divorce," Moldrup said.

The suspect is confined at the Riley County Jail on a $25,000 bond.

"I've put my heart and soul, my blood, sweat and tears into Rusty's Last Chance, and it means more to me than almost anything — except my family."

Rusty Wilson
FORMER OWNER OF RUSTY'S LAST CHANCE RESTAURANT AND SALOON

Another Chance

Photos by Drew Rose | COLLEGIAN
Rusty Wilson, former owner of Rusty's Last Chance Restaurant and Saloon, sold his business to his long-time manager, Pete Anderson.

Pete Anderson is one of three new owners of Rusty's Last Chance. Anderson purchased all the bars with the Rusty's name except Kite's Bar & Grill.

Depsite sale, Last Chance will remain the same

By Edie Hall
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

It's time to put a name, and the correct one, with a face.

Pete Anderson, 10-year employee and new owner of the Rusty's Last Chance cluster of bars, said people often mistake him for Rusty Wilson, who sold Anderson the business earlier this month.

Wilson

"Half of the time, I walk around and people think I'm Rusty," he said. "They yell, 'Hey, Rusty!' and I'm like, 'That's not me.'"

Anderson said bar-goers have this misconception because during the past five years he has been the manager of the business, and more recently he has been the person present at Last Chance in the evenings so Wilson could spend more time with his family.

It was a lack of this quality time that made Wilson decide to sell not only his Manhattan Last Chance, but also the Last Chance in Shawnee, Kan.

"I have two small children, and I want to spend more time with my family," Wilson said. "I'm just wanting to do other things. I'm 40, and this is a young man's business.

"I'm at a point in my life where it's time to move on."

Both men said the transfer of the business from Wilson to Anderson has been in planning for a long time. Although Anderson owns the controlling stock, he has two silent partners, Greg Gilman and Terry Priest.

Wilson sold the Shawnee business to Michael Arria, Brandon Walter and Seth Hanson, who have worked for Wilson for about seven years.

Wilson, who also owns Kite's, said he would retain ownership of that business because it was much easier to handle and "more my speed."

Anderson and Wilson were adamant in ensuring that nothing would change about the Manhattan business, but that it would only be improved.

"It will still be called Rusty's," Anderson said. "Any changes will be for the better, and hopefully very small. We want to keep the tradition going – keep things the way the are."

Anderson said the benefits of owning the business are not only financial.

"Rusty and I not only work together, but we are best friends. He has done so much for me, and it seemed like the next step. This is a great business opportunity, and we both felt like I should have it instead of an outsider. We would both just feel empty if someone else took it over."

Wilson said he will miss seeing the students.

"Dealing with the people, with the college kids has been so much fun," he said. "It's been a great challenge in my life, and as you know, Aggieville is very competitive, and I've loved the competition aspect of it."

However, there are people he won't miss seeing, namely the Alcoholic Beverage Control.

"I'll still have to deal with them in Kite's, but it's just one less place," he said.

With no financial stake in the Last Chance bars, Wilson still encourages students to visit.

"I've put my heart and soul, my blood, sweat and tears into Rusty's Last Chance, and it means more to me than almost anything except my family," he said. "I want to see it continue for many, many years. I want future students to be able to enjoy it, and the alumni that come back to visit.

"I still enjoy it."

INSIDE

There's no place like Wamego for 'Wizard of Oz' memorabilia.

The Edge, Page 7

HEADLINES

The Associated Press

Congressman sentenced
Bill Janklow, South Dakota congressman, was sentenced to 100 days in jail Thursday for an auto accident that killed a motorcyclist and ended Janklow's career. The Republican was found guilty Dec. 8 of second-degree manslaughter.

Violence in Iraq
Attackers killed nine people in an outburst of violence, including four Christian women going to jobs at a U.S. military base and two American soldiers. South of the capital, the security chief of Spanish troops in Iraq was shot in the head during a raid.

Peterson case
Prosecutors in the murder case against Scott Peterson removed the judge appointed to preside at the trial Thursday, contending he is biased against them. Prosecutors acted a day after retired Judge Richard Arnason, 82, was named to oversee the Peterson case.

Peterson

Vatican clarifies
The Vatican declared Thursday that Pope John Paul II "does not make public judgments on artistic works," referring to whether he ever endorsed Mel Gibson's biblical epic "The Passion of the Christ." It was the Vatican's first official statement on the issue after weeks of silence.

DON'T FORGET

- "Radio" will be shown at 7 and 9:30 p.m. today, Saturday and Sunday at 8 p.m. at Union Forum Hall. Cost is $2.
- Senate Majority Leader Tom Daschle will speak at the Landon Lecture Series at 9:30 a.m. Monday at McCain Auditorium.
- The last day to enroll on KATS is Wednesday.

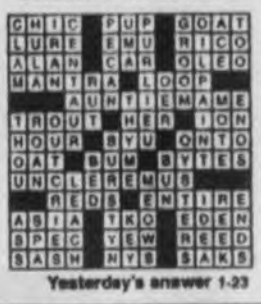
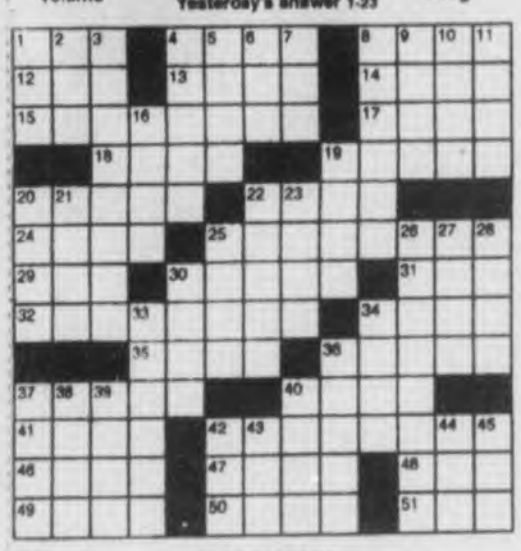
Weather

Today: Sunny 60 | 32
Saturday: Mostly sunny 54 | 27



Claflin Books and Copies
1814 Claflin Rd. (785) 776-3771
www.claflinbooks.com Fax: (785) 776-1009

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer



ACROSS
1 Souvenir from the islands
4 "Clue" professor
8 Trudge
12 Possess
13 Abounding
14 Discourteous
15 Argue over trifles
17 Stage statuette
18 It's right on the map
19 Do some editing
20 Play banjo
22 Say whether you'll attend
24 Desire
25 Solicit
29 Mimic
30 Wielded
31 Jane Smiley novel
32 Peevish
34 Pumps up the volume
35 "Sound of Music" extras
36 At hand
37 Tumbler
40 Go with the eagles
41 Traditional tales
42 2003 Yankee-turned-Astro
46 Advantage
47 Settled down
48 Deluge refuge
49 Night light
50 "— Breckinridge"
51 Caustic solution

DOWN
1 Prune
2 Lamb's dam
3 The Web
4 Spectrum creator
5 Hoist
6 Vessel from far away
7 Actress Ryan
8 Wasting no time
9 Body-shop job
10 Valhalla VIP
11 "Monopoly" card
16 Lacking slack
19 Eager, and then some
20 Trade
21 Recording
22 Jockey's handful
23 Undo a dele
25 Blueprint
26 Undying
27 "My bad"
28 Winning margin, at times
30 Asset
33 Without appraisal
34 Jai follower
36 Terra —
37 Secluded valley
38 Source of wealth
39 Jason's ship
40 Use a teaspoon
42 Actress Grier
43 Nevada town
44 Take a whack at
45 — out a living

Solution time: 25 mins.

Yesterday's answer 1-23

1-23 CRYPTOQUIP

HTRWF ZPVRWF PD RNFELSN, P DLUUEDW UWFWVVPHO UOHVRD HFW PV TEF H FEER HZHQWVPVS.

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: IF YOU'VE GOT AN OVERSEAS PEN PAL, SHOULD YOU CALL HER A FOREIGN CORRESPONDENT?

Today's Cryptoquip Clue: F equals R

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 1! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to CryptoClassics Book 1, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475

The Cryptoquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.
© 2004 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

BEST BETS

Your guide to this weekend's entertainment

1 | EMERGING STAR

If you could control the future by altering the past, what would you do? Eliminate Ashton Kutcher. On the down side, we wouldn't have had a chance to see "Butterfly Effect." On the upside, Demi Moore would be single. The movie is showing at Seth Childs Cinema at 1:05, 4:15, 7:10 and 9:50 p.m.

Mary Altaffer | THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ashton Kutcher, left, and Amy Smart, stars of New Line Cinema's "The Butterfly Effect," announce the nominees for the Ninth Annual AOL Moviegoers Awards on Wednesday in New York.

2 | BASKETBALL JONESIN'

Why is Kansas so windy? Because Oklahoma sucks and Nebraska blows. To prove it, check out hoops action this weekend, as the men play OU at 12:30 p.m. Saturday and the women take on Nebraska at 1 p.m.

Megan Mahoney

3 | TUNE IN

The K-State Student Union is showing "Radio" at 7 and 9 p.m. today and Saturday and 8 p.m. Sunday in Union Forum Hall. Admission is $2.

4 | WHATCHA GONNA DO?

Make like a bunch of drunken businessmen and sing karaoke on your Friday night. After Hours presents free karaoke, nachos, and a showing of "Bad Boys II." The fun starts at 9 tonight.

5 | THE END IS NEAR

If you could control the future by altering the past, what would you do? Eliminate Ashton Kutcher. On the down side, we wouldn't have had a chance to see "Butterfly Effect." On the upside, Demi Moore would be single. The movie is showing at Seth Childs Cinema at 1:05, 4:15, 7:10 and 9:50 p.m.

HOW TO

Open a beer bottle

Each person has his or her own alcoholic beverage preference. Similarly, each person has his or her own unique way of opening a beer bottle. Each way to access the beer requires special skills, and sometimes just brute strength.

THE BITER

The biter requires the beer drinker to use his or her teeth as a bottle opener. The drinker places the bottle cap edge between his teeth and crunches down on the cap, thereby loosening the cap, allowing the drinker to remove the cap and enjoy the cold, refreshing beer.

THE RINGER

This method of opening a bottle requires that the drinker wear a ring on any finger of the hand. It can be a normal, everyday ring. To open the bottle, the drinker simply puts the bottle cap edge under the ring and uses force to pry off the bottle cap.

A word of caution, however; the ring or finger might be damaged during the opening.

THE ARMER

This beer opening method is perhaps the most interesting way to open a beer.

The drinker uses his forearm to twist off the cap. The drinker must have a grip on the bottle in order to execute this opening method, otherwise, the freshly opened bottle of beer may end up on the floor.

Source: Jason Harper, bartender at Joe's Tap Room and senior in marketing.

The blotter | Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs.

Wednesday, Jan. 21

- At 6:33 a.m., Darren J. Janssen, Topeka, was arrested for driving on a suspended license. Bond was set at $500.
- At 8:15 a.m., Jamie L. Stone, 7440 Lake Elbo, was arrested for driving on a suspended license. Bond was set at $1,500.
- At 3:01 p.m., Gary S. Manges, 1001 Seth Child, was arrested for probation violation. Bond was set at $500.
- At 6:03 p.m., John P. O'Malley, 3320 Woods, was arrested for driving on a suspended license. Bond was set at $750.
- At 9:35 p.m. Troy A. Rhodd, St. George, Kan., was arrested for kidnapping. Bond was set at $25,000.

Thursday, Jan. 22

- At 2:20 a.m. Matthew J. Roggenkamp, Onaga, Kan., was arrested for failure to appear. Bond was set at $5,000.

The planner
Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@spub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- KSU Aikido will conduct a martial arts class from 7 to 9 tonight in Ahearn 301.
- K-State After Hours will have free food, activities and movie from 9 p.m. to midnight in the K-State Student Union.
- ECM Christian Explorers will have their weekly dinner and activity at 5:30 p.m. Sunday at the ECM Building, 1021 Denison Ave.
- The Lutheran Campus Ministry will meet for worship at 7 p.m. Sunday in Danforth Chapel.
- Career and Employment Services will conduct a Winning Interviews Workshop at 4:30 p.m. Monday in Union 213.
- Entries for intramural basketball, doubles sports including four-wall handball, four-wall racquetball, table tennis and wallyball will be taken from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. today through Thursday at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex administration office.

Contact us

Kansas State Collegian
Kedzie 103
Manhattan, KS 66502
Display ads.....532-6560
Classified ads.....532-6555
Newsroom.....532-6556
news@spub.ksu.edu
Delivery problems.....532-6555

Corrections and clarifications

A clarification was needed for a story in Thursday's Collegian. Ell Roberson was accused of sexual assault, but charges were never brought.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.

© Kansas State Collegian, 2004

Collegian explore it!
kstatecollegian.com

EXTRA CLEAN
PERFECT LOCATION
927 Fremont
Bedroom
Dishwasher
Central Air
Screened-in Porch
785-537-0205

New Year, New You!
Go soft and smooth or out on the edge.
Come see us for countless style possibilities.
$5 OFF HC & Style Massage
$10 OFF Hi-Lite Perm
$2 OFF Men's Haircut
1129 Moro 537-1332
IMPRESSIONS HAIR DESIGN AND NAIL STUDIO

Fat's Bar & Grill
friday
$3.50 Pitchers $4.75 fish bOwls
FREE BURGERS 4-6
saturday
$2.25 Bottles $2 Wells
12th & Laramie 776-2424

Ristorante Marco Polo
Family Owned & Operated
PASTA•SEAFOOD•
•HANDCUT STEAKS•PIZZA
•International & Daily Specials
•Broad Selection of Wine
•Full Bar
•Take-Out Available
Open Tuesday through Sunday
Lunch 11a.m. - 2 p.m.
Dinner 5 p.m. - 9 p.m.
Friday & Saturday until 10 p.m.
Homemade Italian Cuisine
WELCOME BACK, STUDENTS!
Relax in a quiet, intimate dining atmosphere.
Gift Certificates
Reservations Accepted
785-770-3999
Most Major Credit Cards Accepted

Kansas State Bank
Affordable Low Cost Student Loans
Manhattan's Largest ATM Network
Free Checking and More!
587-4000
www.kansasstatebank.com
Convenience... Convenience... Convenience...
Westloop • Downtown • Aggieville • East Hwy 24
FDIC

KSU Student Special
(must have current college ID)
$75 for the semester
A group of 5 or more $50 /student
(must join as a group at the same time)
KSU Student Special
We proudly offer all of the following facilities:
Tennis (3 indoor, 3 outdoor courts), Racquetball, Squash, Hand Ball, Basketball, Jacuzzi, Saunas, Cardio Equipment and Weight Room. Personal training and exercise classes are available. Day lockers available at no charge, ample parking.
Non-students please contact Cristian at Cottonwood for specials.
Group and private lessons are available for all ages and abilities. These rates will be prorated from time of membership
3615 Claflin 776-6060
COTTONWOOD RACQUET CLUB

NOW LEASING FOR 2004!
Pet Friendly! Call the office for details!
1,2,3, and 4 Bedrooms
Clubhouse
Swimming Pool and Hot Tub
Fitness Center
Basketball Court
High Speed Internet
Washer/Dryer in Every Unit
Upgraded Appliances
Security Systems Available
Home Theater in Clubhouse
FOUNDERS HILL
an exciting new luxury community
1401 College Avenue
(Temporary Office at Chase Manhattan Apartments at the corner of College and Claflin)
(785) 539-4600

King Observance Week starts Monday

It's a time to "Remember, Celebrate, Act." Students, faculty and community members have the chance to honor Martin Luther King Jr. with on-campus events during the university's Observance Week, Monday through Jan. 30

Monday — Friday

An African-American poster presentation will be in the atria of Rathbone and Fiedler halls throughout the week. Sponsored by the College of Engineering.

Tuesday

Public presentations
8:30 a.m.-4 p.m.

Free public presentations will be offered by Victor Lee Lewis in Union Forum Hall.
Lewis is founder and director of the Center for Diversity Leadership, a human relations training and consulting firm in Berkeley, Calif.

The Office of Diversity and Dual Career Development is one of the co-sponsors for Lewis' visit.

Myra Gordon, associate provost for the office, said Lewis' visit is very significant to the observance week.

"As we celebrate the legacy of a man as great as Martin Luther King, having a man like Lewis on campus who is still working on issues which will further the dream makes all the sense in the world."

Diversity
1:30-2:30 p.m.

"Issues of Diversity in Educational Institutions." Lewis will look at diversity issues most prominent in educational establishments and plans for addressing problems.

Informal reception
2:30-3:30 p.m.

An informal reception will be in the foyer of Forum Hall. Lewis will be available to discuss his work and will have information available about his Center for Diversity Leadership.

Cultural leadership
3-4 p.m.

"Leadership for Change: Beyond Anthropocentrism and Social Privilege." Perspectives and strategies will be introduced which could be used to help change rooted cultural habits.

Award ceremony
3:30-5 p.m.

Presentation of K-State's Commerce Bank Presidential Award for Distinguished Services to Minority Students and a reception to honor the recipient will be in the K-State Alumni Center Ballroom.

Wednesday

Town hall meeting
Noon-1 p.m.

"Accommodating Diverse Religious Views," a town hall meeting, will be in Union 212.

Thursday

Keynote address
7 p.m.

A keynote address will be given by Shay Banks-Young and Julia Jefferson. Both believe, based on genetic testing, they are the descendants of President Thomas Jefferson and one of his slaves, Sally Hemings.

The address will be in the Union Ballroom and is free and open to the public.

"We decided on them, number one, because they are the definition of black history," Musawwir said.

"Some other members of our committee have heard them speak at previous forums and were inspired and interested in what they had to say."

Friday

Fellowship luncheon
Noon-1:30 p.m.

The Martin Luther King Jr. Fellowship Luncheon will be in the Union Ballroom. The luncheon will include entertainment by K-State students, faculty and staff and community groups.

Reservations and prepayment are required by contacting Brandi Edwards, 201 Holton Hall, or calling by (785) 532-5399.

Civil Rights film
1:30 p.m.

"The Civil Rights Movement," a film, will be shown in Union Little Theatre.

Memorial walk and vigil
6:00 p.m.

Memorial Walk, Remembrance Ceremony and Candlelight Vigil.

The walk will begin at designated campus locations and end at All Faiths Chapel at 6 p.m.

The ceremony and vigil will immediately follow at 7 p.m. in All Faiths Chapel and will feature the Rev. Andrew Rollins III as the guest speaker.

A hot chocolate reception will be available after the vigil at the Leadership Studies house, 914 N. Manhattan Ave.

"The walk is about the civil rights movement and that represented peaceful protesting and we want to keep that going," Yahaya said.

The candlelight vigil is also a way to see the changes that have occurred on campus since the 1960s, Yahaya said.

"The theme this year is 'Remember, Celebrate, Act' and we want to remember King, celebrate his life and act on what King would have wanted us to do," Rollins said.

Source: Office of Diversity and Dual Career Development

Residents question development

By Joanna Rubick
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

There have been no negotiations with homeowners in the area that could be affected by downtown redevelopment because no timetable has been set, officials said.

The area, which encompasses most of downtown Manhattan, is being improved by planners to attract more business to the area.

Trey Anderson, homeowner in the affected area, was concerned that there was too much retail upfront.

"I think what we want to do is to attract people to this area not just to shop, but to live," he said.

"What we might consider doing is having actual houses in the area."

The design for downtown redevelopment is being done by Dial Realty.

Rick Kiolbasa, Dial Realty spokesman, said there has been no move to negotiate with homeowners in the area because there is no timeline in which residents must move.

The plan currently features an arts center, which will have a central park area to serve multiple entertainment functions, including the possibility of an ice skating rink.

The design also includes 400 housing units, retail buildings and a change of the street layouts.

The finance committee hopes to obtain Star Bonds from the state as primary funding for the project. If unable to attain these bonds, other alternatives are being considered.

Bob Welstead, Dial Realty spokesman, said the company is unsure of when construction will begin.

He said that businesses have been open to the fact of improving their look or location.

"Businesses want to redo, relocate, revitalize, and re-energize," he said.

"I'm very excited about the potential of the future."

Other concerns included the removal of the community building and too much parking facing Tuttle Creek Boulevard.

Debbie Nuss, president of the League of Women Voters, said that she was encouraged by the amount of effort the developers were putting in to the project.

"I like that it has been very active and open to the public which has taken to where we are today," she said.

Committee endorses bill to improve 911 system

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A bill that would add 50 cents a month to wireless telephone bills to fund improvements in county 911 systems was endorsed Wednesday by the House Utilities Committee.

The committee's unrecorded voice vote sent the measure to the House for debate.

Supporters estimated the new fee would raise at least $7.8 million a year.

Proponents say the goal is to increase the likelihood that someone making a 911 call on a wireless phone can be located.

Currently, emergency personnel in most Kansas counties' dispatch centers are shown the number but not the location of a cell phone on which a 911 call is made – information automatically provided on calls made from traditional phones.

In addition, 911 calls made on cell phones are sometimes mistakenly routed to other counties or even across state lines, supporters of the legislation say.

"This will save lives, no doubt about it," said Rep. Carl Krehbiel, R-Moundridge.

Utilities Committee Chairman Carl Dean Holmes said the bill could give Kansas one of the nation's best 911 systems.

Religion Directory

Episcopal Church at K-State
5:00 p.m. Sunday
Danforth Chapel
Holy Communion
Fr. Matthew Cobb · 532-9099

MANHATTAN MENNONITE CHURCH
Sunday School 9:30, Worship 10:45
1000 Fremont • Manhattan
(785) 539-4079

FIRST LUTHERAN
10th Poyntz 537-8532
Worship
Sat. 5:30 p.m., Sun. 8:30 & 11 a.m.
Sunday School all ages 9:40 a.m.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH
(DISCIPLES OF CHRIST)
9:00 a.m. Sunday School
10:15 a.m. Worship Service
11:30 a.m. Radio Broadcast 95.3 FM
College Bible Study Mondays 9 p.m.
Neil Engle, Pastor, 776-8790
5th and Humboldt-Courthouse Square
David A. Jones, Campus Minister
ECM 1021 Denison, 539-4281

Christian Science Society
Sunday 10:30 a.m.
Danforth Chapel
KSU Campus
Wed. 7:30 in Reading Room
Reading Room open Tues.-Thurs. 11-1
105 N. 4th St.

Faith Evangelical Free Church
• Worship at 8:00, 10:30, 12:00
• Sunday School at 9:15
• College Class at 9:15
1921 Barnes Rd
1.6 Miles North of Kimball
776-2086

St. Mary Magdalene Orthodox Christian Mission
Divine Liturgy Sat. 9:30 AM
913 Riley Ln.

Unitarian-Universalist Fellowship of Manhattan
481 Zeandale Road. (South on K-177 across viaduct, left on K-18 1/2 mile)
Program each Sunday at 10:45 a.m. Religious education classes for youth.
Day care for toddlers.
The Rev. David Grimm.
For information call (785) 537-2349
www.flinthills.com/~uufellow/

Grace Baptist Church
2901 Dickens - 2 blks. E. of of Seth Child
◆ Sunday ◆
Morning Worship
8:15 & 10:45 a.m.
Bible Classes For All Ages 9:30 a.m.
776-0424

WESTVIEW COMMUNITY CHURCH
8:15, 9:30, 11:00AM & 6:00PM
College and Young Married Couples Sunday School @ 9:30 & 11:00AM
Youth Ministry Opportunities
College Pastor: Ben Rotz
Senior Pastor: David Thompson
3001 Ft. Riley Blvd.
537-7173
www.westviewcommunity.com

Bethel African Methodist Episcopal Church
Established in 1879
Reverend Penny Pitchford
Pastor
401 Yuma Street
(1 bl. north of Ft. Riley Blvd. at 4th St.)
(785) 539-5897
Sunday School 9:30 a.m.
Worship Service 11 a.m.
"Enter To Worship, Depart To Serve"

NEW HOPE community church
Pursuing relationships that change the world
WORSHIP SERVICES
9 & 10:45 A.M.
Small groups for men, women & married couples.
College and Family Ministries.
www.newhopeks.org
3905 GREEN VALLEY ROAD
537-2389

St. Isidore's Catholic Student Center
MASS SCHEDULE
Tuesday-Thursday 10:00 p.m.
Friday 12:10 p.m.
Saturday 5 p.m.
Sunday 9:30 a.m., 11 a.m.
Sun. 4:30 p.m., 6 p.m.
Father Keith Weber, Chaplain
711 Denison 539-7496

First Baptist Church
Sunday Worship 11 a.m.
Church School 9:45 a.m.
For free transportation within city limits, call the church.
Pastors Karen & Alan Selig
2121 Blue Hills Rd.
539-8691
An American Baptist Congregation

Peace Lutheran Church
Worship Sundays
8:30 and 11:00
Sunday School and Adult forum 9:45
Contemporary Service 5:00 p.m.
Pastor Michael Ide
www.peace-to-you.org
With Christ . . . Gather . . . Grow and Go Forth!

Lutheran Campus Ministry
Tuesday Supper, 6 p.m.
at Luther House 1745 Anderson
Sunday Evening Worship
7 p.m., Danforth Chapel
www.ksu.edu/lcm-elca
Pastor Jayne Thompson
(pastorj@ksu.edu) 539-4451
— Open to All —

Rugged Cross Baptist
Services
1840 Pipher Lane
Sunday School 10 am
Preaching 11 am
(King James)
Salvation - Heartfelt
Music - Southern Gospel
call Jeff @ 539-6231 for info
jbdenton@sbcglobal.net

Christ Evangelical Lutheran Church LCMS
9 a.m. Sunday School
10:00 a.m. Fellowship
10:30 a.m. Divine Worship Service
KSU - ALL FAITHS CHAPEL

St. Luke's Lutheran Church
330 Sunset Avenue
Saturday-
Traditional Worship 6:00 p.m.
Sunday-
Traditional Worship 8:30 a.m.
College Bible Study 9:45 a.m.
Contemporary Worship 11:00 a.m.
Campus Pastor - Eric Wood
Email: campusmn@flinthills.com
(785) 539-2604

You are welcome at...
FIRST ASSEMBLY OF GOD
Sunday School.....9 AM
Sunday AM Worship.....10 AM
Sunday PM Worship.....6 PM
Wednesday Prayer Meeting...7 PM
Come to Chi Alpha, Wednesday nights at 8 PM in the KSU Student Union Little Theater for worship, the Word, and friends.
230 CANDLEWOOD DR.
MANHATTAN, KS 66503
(785) 537-7633
WWW.MANHATTANAG.ORG

First Presbyterian Church
Students Welcome!
• Sunday Worship at •
9:15 & 10:30 a.m.
801 Leavenworth St.
537-0518

Agape Family Church
121 S. 4th - Downtown
Sunday 9:30 a.m. School of the Bible
Sunday 10:30 a.m. Worship
Sunday 7:00 p.m. Evening Worship
Wednesday 7:30 p.m. Hour of Power
Youth & Children's Services
STERLING HUDGINS - PASTOR
agapefamilychurch.org
Everyone is welcome.
(785) 539-3570

Trends-N-TRINKETS
Manhattan Towncenter • Sears Wing across from Finish Line
Sale starts today at 10:00am ends Sunday at 6:00pm.
3 Days Left!!!!
WINTER SIDE WALK SALE
• Kid's light weight jackets $4.00
• Adult sweatshirts $2.50
• Racks and racks of kids clothes including Chiefs and K-State apparel now under $10.00
• Women's fashion leather purple jackets: ½ price!
• All NASCAR, NFL, & NCAA apparel, hats and jackets on sale!
• NFL city jerseys were $69.99 now only $19.99!

This Summer, show more than your toes... Laser Away
THAT UNWANTED HAIR!
Please come join the Renaissance Med Spa
Dr. Mark D. Snyder, M.D.
• January 28th
• 6 PM
• Ramada Inn - Landon Room (snacks provided)
• Brief Informational: Why laser hair removal works, how it works, and a Q&A period
• Free Consultations: Cost estimates from physician, technician and staff
• Discover other services offered besides our F.D.A approved leading laser for hair removal.
• Hair Removal Treatments Provided On-Sight! Mastercard & Visa accepted.
TO RESERVE YOUR SPACE, FIND OUT MORE:
Call (785) 820-8896
Fax (785) 827-1684
E-mail me@midkan.net
Drop-ins Welcome!

TO THE POINT

Big-name concert good for community

The K-State and Manhattan communities should applaud Bramlage Coliseum management for making efforts to once again bring big-name musical performers like Toby Keith to town.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Katie Lane
Sarah Rice
Edie Hall
Lindsey Bauman
Zach Long
Matt Girard
Kristi Hurla
Amy Preston
Corbin H. Crable
Nasrina Williams
James Hurla
Amy Link

Bramlage hasn't hosted any well-known musicians since Destiny's Child visited Manhattan three years ago.

Although Bramlage usually caters to the K-State sports fan on campus and in the community, it should take note of its music lovers, too.

Putting Keith on its calendar is a step in the right direction toward serving those with other interests.

In addition to making big-name musicians accessible to students again, Bramlage also is helping the business community here.

Concerts of this magnitude surely will help give local tourism a boost, and the more tourism dollars spent in Manhattan, the better.

Music fans and local merchants alike should contact Bramlage management and commend them on a job well done.

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@spub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Katie Lane | EDITOR IN CHIEF

Sarah Rice MANAGING EDITOR
Edie Hall NEWS EDITOR
Lindsey Bauman PHOTO EDITOR
Zach Long ASST. PHOTO EDITOR
Matt Girard SPORTS EDITOR
Kristi Hurla CITY/GOV EDITOR
Amy Preston CAMPUS EDITOR
Corbin H. Crable THE EDGE EDITOR
Nasrina Williams OPINION EDITOR
James Hurla COPY CHIEF
Jennifer Shelton PRESENTATION EDITOR
Joseph Bobek ONLINE EDITOR
Amy Link READERS' REPRESENTATIVE
Jared Jaynes AD MANAGER
Jenny Calvert ASST. AD MANAGER

MONDAY'S OPINIONS

Jesse Loewen criticizes taxation policies and finds government spending wasteful and lacking oversight.

JESSE LOEWEN

Kathryn Hollingsworth calls for the community to support the Child Custody Protection Act.

KATHRYN HOLLINGSWORTH

Mad cow mania

Beef contamination hysteria unjustified because risk of contraction is low

HANNIBAL LACTATOR Kent

Illustration by Kent Holle | COLLEGIAN

Since the Washington Holstein was diagnosed with bovine spongiform encephalopathy, otherwise known as mad cow disease, nearly all the United States' beef-importing trade partners have blocked U.S. beef, and a wave of fear has swept over consumers.

JESSE LOEWEN

The loss of foreign markets and our own fear of the disease resulted in at least a 10 percent drop in U.S. beef sales and almost certain doom for many of our farmers.

When I first started hearing friends and relatives saying they would avoid beef, I was not really surprised. After all it is inevitable there are people who fear this disease enough to forgo this part of a healthy diet in order to eliminate the risk of contracting the human form of mad cow disease: variant Creutzfeldt-Jakob disease.

However, most of their fear is just a byproduct of an overzealous news media in search of a story.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, between the outbreak of variant Creutzfeldt-Jakob disease in 1995 and Dec. 1, 2003, exactly 153 lives had been taken by this illness, with 143 of those coming from the United Kingdom. Amazingly, in 2002, 43,000 Americans were killed as a result of automobile accidents.

Granted, these numbers are not adjusted for populations, but the point is made. Variant Creutzfeldt-Jakob disease is a minor risk. Every one of us takes a greater chance with our lives by going swimming, skiing, driving, boating or skateboarding.

Call me crazy, but I think the panic over mad cow disease is unjustified.

When Great Britain announced the first case of variant Creutzfeldt-Jakob disease, the world responded immediately by banning their beef.

When Canada announced a single case of mad cow disease a few years ago, the United States promptly stopped all Canadian beef imports.

When 43,000 Americans died in 2002 from auto accidents, it was just another statistic.

The U.S. beef supply is actually very safe. Since the outbreak of mad cow disease in Britain the United States enacted regulations banning the feeding of cattle remains to other cattle, the practice believed to be the primary means of transmission of the disease from cow to cow. Additionally, the cow that had the disease was imported from Canada.

Furthermore, the likelihood of contracting the human form of mad cow disease is remarkably low. In order to get the disease a person must consume either the brain or spinal column of an infected cow, parts very few people actually eat.

Rare steaks and juicy burgers are perfectly safe provided the packer did not throw a little brain in as filler in the hamburger, which to my knowledge does not happen often.

It is very easy to have a healthy diet of beef and be safe from contracting the human form of mad cow disease; all one needs to do is avoid headcheese and go for the ground sirloin. It is as simple as staying away from cow brain.

Yet despite how easy it is to avoid contracting variant Creutzfeldt-Jakob disease, on Dec. 23, the U.S. beef farmer found himself a victim of mindless hysteria as nearly every major news carrier broadcast the plight of the Washington Holstein and nearly every country that imports our beef promptly banned it.

The United States stands to lose more than a billion dollars in lost beef sales in 2004, a tremendous blow to the thousands of Kansas farmers and literally millions of people around this country whose livelihoods depend on the sale of livestock.

Unfortunately, it is up to foreign countries to open their borders to our beef.

Our lawmakers are in the process of generating new polices, practices and regulations with hopes of satisfying our trade partners of the safety of our beef, but in the meantime U.S. beef farmers must rely on the American consumer.

It is up to us to look through the hysteria of mad cow disease and its human variant and find that it is a very minor risk and a very minor threat to our health.

Jesse is a senior in mechanical engineering. You can e-mail him at opinion@spub.k-state.edu.

Dear Michael: Play the race card, be less weird

Dear Michael Jackson,

What happened to you?

I have supported you since you were a black man. But these days, you just make it so hard.

PAUL RESTIVO

When I hear one of your songs, I remember the days of the young Paul. The little boy who danced with you on television. The young tyke who, in your honor, insisted on wearing only one glove even in the dead of winter.

I laughed with you in "The Way You Make Me Feel." I screamed with you in "Thriller." I marched with you in "Man in the Mirror." Now I find myself crying with you in the courtroom.

My Michael.

My childhood friend.

Where did you go wrong?

I can't answer that question, but I think it's time I give you some advice.

Wake the hell up.

This is not the Neverland Ranch, Jacko.

Your children-loving, money-hungry, Beatles-catalog-stealing, man-I-just-want-to-climb-a-tree-during-this-nationally-televised-documentary mannerisms have even your most trustworthy fans scratching their heads. (If Liza Minnelli publicly states that there is "something wrong with him," we should all raise an eyebrow.)

You advised me, on national television, to share my bed with a child.

Mikey! News flash, bud: 40-something black-man-turned-white-woman plus prepubescent boy plus secluded bedroom equals police investigation.

I am sure there are times when all of us have thought, "Man, I wish I could hide my bedroom in the secluded wing of my house in a secluded part of California and invite other people's young children over for warm milk, a bedtime story, a slap on the ass and a kiss goodnight.

"Sure."

But do we do it?

Hell no.

You are embarrassing me, Michael. You are not only embarrassing me, but you are making our country look ridiculous all over the world.

On National Public Radio this morning, the broadcaster said your case has gotten more attention than President Bush's State of the Union Address and the war on terror combined.

What's worse, you are attracting more viewers than things that really matter in this country, like "American Idol."

And while we sit back, shaking our heads at you (because that is what every American does when another news report about you comes across the television), you sit there and smile and tell us that what you did "is all very sweet."

Give me a break.

I can only defend you for so long, Mike.

But I offer one last piece of advice to you.

Play the race card.

So what that you look like Elizabeth Taylor? Big deal that you resemble the Crypt Keeper at a funeral visitation. The bottom line is that you are a black man getting charged by a bunch of white cops. In this country, if you play the race card, you can get away with anything.

This is America, after all.

In the meantime, I will continue chanting your lyrics in support. I will defend you in all instances. I know you are not a pedophile. I know you love children. I know you are innocent. But in this country, Michael Jackson, you are guilty until proven innocent.

Sincerely, yours.

P.S. If you do decide to play the race card, those sequined blouses are going to have to go.

Illustration by Jeff Yeung | COLLEGIAN

Paul is a senior in secondary education. You can e-mail him at opinion@spub.k-state.edu.

CAMPUS FOURUM | 395-4444

Nasrina, you've changed, man. You used to be cool, man.

Hey, Tim Allen, talking about breaking team rules — how about Maurice Clarett receiving a special study session with a professor last December before a final exam?

Darren Sproles is a hundred million times better than Maurice Clarrett could ever hope to be.

Hey, has anybody else noticed that they're selling those new copies of the books and CDs of the human development class that they wouldn't buy back?

I would like to know why the Student Union Bookstore and the Student Union candy store is selling so much pornography. It is creating a pretty hostile learning environment.

Behold, 50 cent tacos. And there was much rejoicing.

It's about time somebody did something with that KU billboard on westbound I-70.

Nasrina Williams can kiss my gluteus maximus.

Is it bad that when I'm leaving campus today, people are already showing up for the next day?

Nasrina, I just don't think we're going to get along this semester.

Hey, James, if this paper is so perfect, how come there's a misprint, a picture I can't see and a crossword that I cannot do? Thank you.

Hey, Katie Lane, if you're going to ensure what we want is in the paper, why don't you make a crossword that's not blurry, because that's the only thing that matters in the paper.

More Americans were killed and wounded in the four weeks after Saddam's capture than in the four weeks before. Howard Dean is right — Saddam's capture has not made us safer, regardless of what Bush claims.

You know it's sad that we, KSU, lost by a touchdown. Just think what the score would have been with some Alumni support.

Is it bad that over Christmas I wouldn't give any change to charity because I wanted it to play poker?

School sucks, unlike Iraq who I'm still cheering for.

Screw you, Fourum. You used to be cool, man.

Hey, Tim Allen, from Columbus, Ohio, how about you shut up.

I'd like to congratulate Glen and Angie on their recent engagement.

Not enough Fourum? Visit www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

The 131st Landon Lecture

Daschle

Tom Daschle
Senate minority leader

When
9:30 a.m. Monday

Where
McCain Auditorium

Who
Tom Daschle is the Senate Minority leader. He was first elected to the Senate in 1986 representing South Dakota. He currently serves on the Senate Agriculture Committee.

Why you should go
Daschle is the highest-ranking Democrat in Congress.

A little about Tom Daschle

Daschle delivered the official Democratic response to President Bush's State of the Union address Tuesday.

He criticized Bush for claiming the economy had recovered from its slump.

"The true test of America's economic recovery is not measured simply in quarterly profit reports, it's measured in jobs," he said.

Stores pleased with holiday sales

Business owners surprised at sales despite soldiers being overseas and the weak economy

By Scott A. Seel
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The outlook was grim, but local businesses received a holiday surprise.

The economy still was struggling, Fort Riley had seen a large number of its soldiers shipped overseas and experts were not expecting stellar sales figures for the holiday season.

But Manhattan Area Chamber of Commerce President Lyle Butler said he was pleasantly surprised by holiday sales.

"It was definitely better than we expected based on the times," he said.

Butler said although there were many positive signs, some businesses weren't as successful, and the exact results won't be known until after the December sales tax figures have been compiled.

"Some businesses were affected by the large number of troops deployed out of market," he said. "Overall we experienced mixed results, but we held our own."

Butler said the city's sale tax revenues through the end of November were on pace with the record-setting 2002.

Cheryl Sieben, director of the Aggieville Business Association, said from what she has seen so far, Aggieville businesses were also pleased with the December sales.

"I haven't yet polled merchants, and I don't have exact sales figures yet, but I think on the whole, Christmas ended up very well," she said.

The season, Sieben said, started off fairly slowly, but finished strong.

"The New Year's Eve celebration was just icing on the cake for us," she said.

Sieben said the association was not directly involved with the planning of the New Year's Eve event, but they were extremely pleased to have the opportunity to host the event.

Much like Aggieville, downtown businesses saw higher than expected sales.

Dave Thomas, owner of G Thomas Jewelers, said he was pleased with his store's sales.

"I really thought (sales) were excellent after taking everything into consideration," Thomas said.

Thomas said sales had risen since last Christmas.

"We were constantly busy from Thanksgiving on," he said. "There really wasn't any downtime."

Thomas said he didn't believe there was any information to extrapolate from the performance to apply to future holiday seasons.

"That kind of stuff really just depends on the situation," he said.

Born to be wired

Chris Hanewinckel | COLLEGIAN
Richard Canfield, Cox Communications employee, hangs fiber for high speed Internet and cable along phone lines on Anderson Avenue and throughout Aggieville.

Trial set for man suspected of multiple killings

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

KANSAS CITY, Kan. – An August trial date has been set for a man accused of killing five people, including a pregnant woman.

District Judge Thomas L. Boeding on Thursday denied a request from Darrell Lamont Stallings' newly appointed attorneys to postpone the trial for a year to give them time to prepare a defense.

Prosecutors had asked for Stallings' trial to start in 30 to 45 days. Instead, Boeding ordered the trial to start on Aug. 2.

Last month, Boeding allowed Stallings' previous attorneys, both with the Kansas Death Penalty Defense Council, to withdraw from the case because of a breakdown in communication.

Stallings and Errik A. Harris, 27, are charged with five counts of capital murder and one count each of attempted first-degree murder, unlawful discharge of a firearm and unlawful possession of a firearm. If convicted, they face the death penalty.

Stallings and Harris, whose trial has been delayed indefinitely, are accused of killing Trina Jennings, 26, Melvin Montague, 34, Destiny Wiles, 23, Samantha Sigler, 24, and Tameika Jackson, 24, all of Kansas City, Kan., on the morning of June 10, 2002. Jennings was seven months pregnant.

Give us your opinion.
Campus Fourum: 395-4444

Claflin
BACK TO SCHOOL HOURS
Mon. 9 am To 9 pm
Tues. 9 am To 9 pm
Wed. 9 am To 9 pm
Thurs. 9 am To 9 pm
Fri. 9 am To 9 pm
Sat. 9 am To 5 pm
Sun. 1 pm To 5 pm
Claflin Books and Copies
1814 Claflin Rd. 776-3771

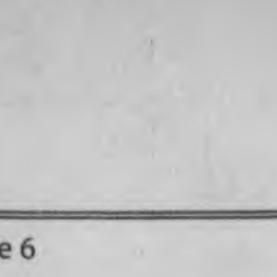
Welcome back students!
Wendy's
Accepts
DISCOVER VISA AMERICAN EXPRESS MasterCard
Don't forget! Wendy's drive thru window is open till 1 a.m. So you can eat great, even late!
10 a.m.-10 p.m. Dining room
10 a.m. - 1 a.m. Drive-Thru
3006 Anderson Ave • 421 N. 3rd St.

Little Caesars
HOT-N-READY pizza
$5.00 LARGE WITH PEPPERONI Carry Out Only
ALL DAY, EVERYDAY!
1150 Westloop • 539-3333

There's more than one place in Aggieville to pick up a six pack.
The hottest place in the 'Ville
Get your membership TODAY!
Pro Fitness
in Aggieville 539-7095
Semester membership $85
10 Tans now $22

Manhattan's Newest Fitness & Personal Training Club!
Tired of the crowds and hassle of the rec center?
We offer great student rates.
Come check us out!
PRIME TIME FITNESS CLUB
Coupon—Bring in this ad!
1 FREE Workout
($5.00 value)
Limit 1 coupon per person.
Expires 3/15/04
1129 Garden Way—South of Westloop—537-3003

Oh, The Places You'll Go...
Start your journey with Career & Employment Services
Interested in an internship, co-op or full-time job? Get ready with these free CES services:
• Resume Critiques
• Resume and Interview Workshops
• Career Resource Library
• WWW Resources
• Job Search Advising
Plus! Register with CES for on-campus interviews and job/internship listings.
Upcoming Events:
• Winning Interviews
January 26, Union 213, 4:30 pm
• Resume Building
January 28, Union 213, 3:30 pm
• Resume Critique
January 29, Holtz Hall, 3 pm - 4:30 pm
Visit CES on-line or in Holtz Hall
www.ksu.edu/ces • ces@ksu.edu • 532-6506



Advertise your business here
K-State Collegian • 118 Kedzie • 532-6560

Just BANK it.

College Checking
With Debit Card & OnLine Banking
FREE
(No minimum balance. No monthly fees. College ID required)
Fort Riley National Bank
2000 Tuttle Creek Blvd.
785.537.4500
Member FDIC
www.FRNB.com

Big 12 basketball shrinks in stature

LOUIE NOVAK

Have you ever met someone at the bar or a party who you thought was the greatest thing since sliced bread?

You know, he or she has beautiful eyes and a great body and appears to have a witty personality.

Then you get home to discover a beer belly, an overpriced Victoria's Secret water-bra, colored contacts, fake nails, back hair and an IQ equivalent to a ferret's.

In the end you find yourself disgusted, disappointed and looking for an excuse to get out.

I was naive enough to believe the Big 12 would be the strongest conference in the NCAA this year.

I expected Kansas, Texas, Oklahoma and Missouri to flex their muscles and contend with the ACC, Big East and Pac 10.

Man, was I wrong.

Watching the Big 12's "mighty" play their out-of-conference games made me want to puke. Their performances were as bad as Gheorghe Muresan's acting debut in "My Giant."

If you think I am going off the deep end here, just look at the results.

Let's start with the team that has disappointed me the most.

The Missouri Tigers have as much talent as anyone in college basketball. They have three great seniors in Rickey Paulding, Arthur Johnson and Travon Bryant, as well as highly touted newcomers Jimmy McKinney and Linas Kleiza.

The Tigers lost to Gonzaga 87-80, Illinois 71-70, Memphis 61-59, Belmont 71-67, and Syracuse 82-68. If I was a Tiger fan I would be calling for Coach Quin Snyder's head on a platter and pray that by some miracle the "kittens" make the big dance.

Oklahoma has been just as bad. The Sooners began the season 10-0 and appeared ready to dethrone then No.1 Connecticut on national television.

What the Sooners got was a swift kick in the rear.

Connecticut dominated Oklahoma and coasted to a 77-56 victory. Since the loss, OU has dropped four straight, and a team that prides itself on physical play now looks as tough as Screech Powers in the early "Saved by the Bell" episodes.

The Texas Longhorns have regained some respect after a 94-81 win against Wake Forest on Jan. 13.

However, the Longhorns have everyone back from last year's Final Four team, with the exception of superstar T.J. Ford. Senior Royal Ivey has done a nice job filling the huge void Ford left when he departed for the NBA.

Therefore, there is no excuse for Texas getting worked by Duke to the tune of an 89-61 loss, as well as a 91-83 slip-up against Arizona. I still have some faith in the Longhorns, but the jury is still out on them.

Last but not least, my beloved Kansas Jayhawks have been a disappointment.

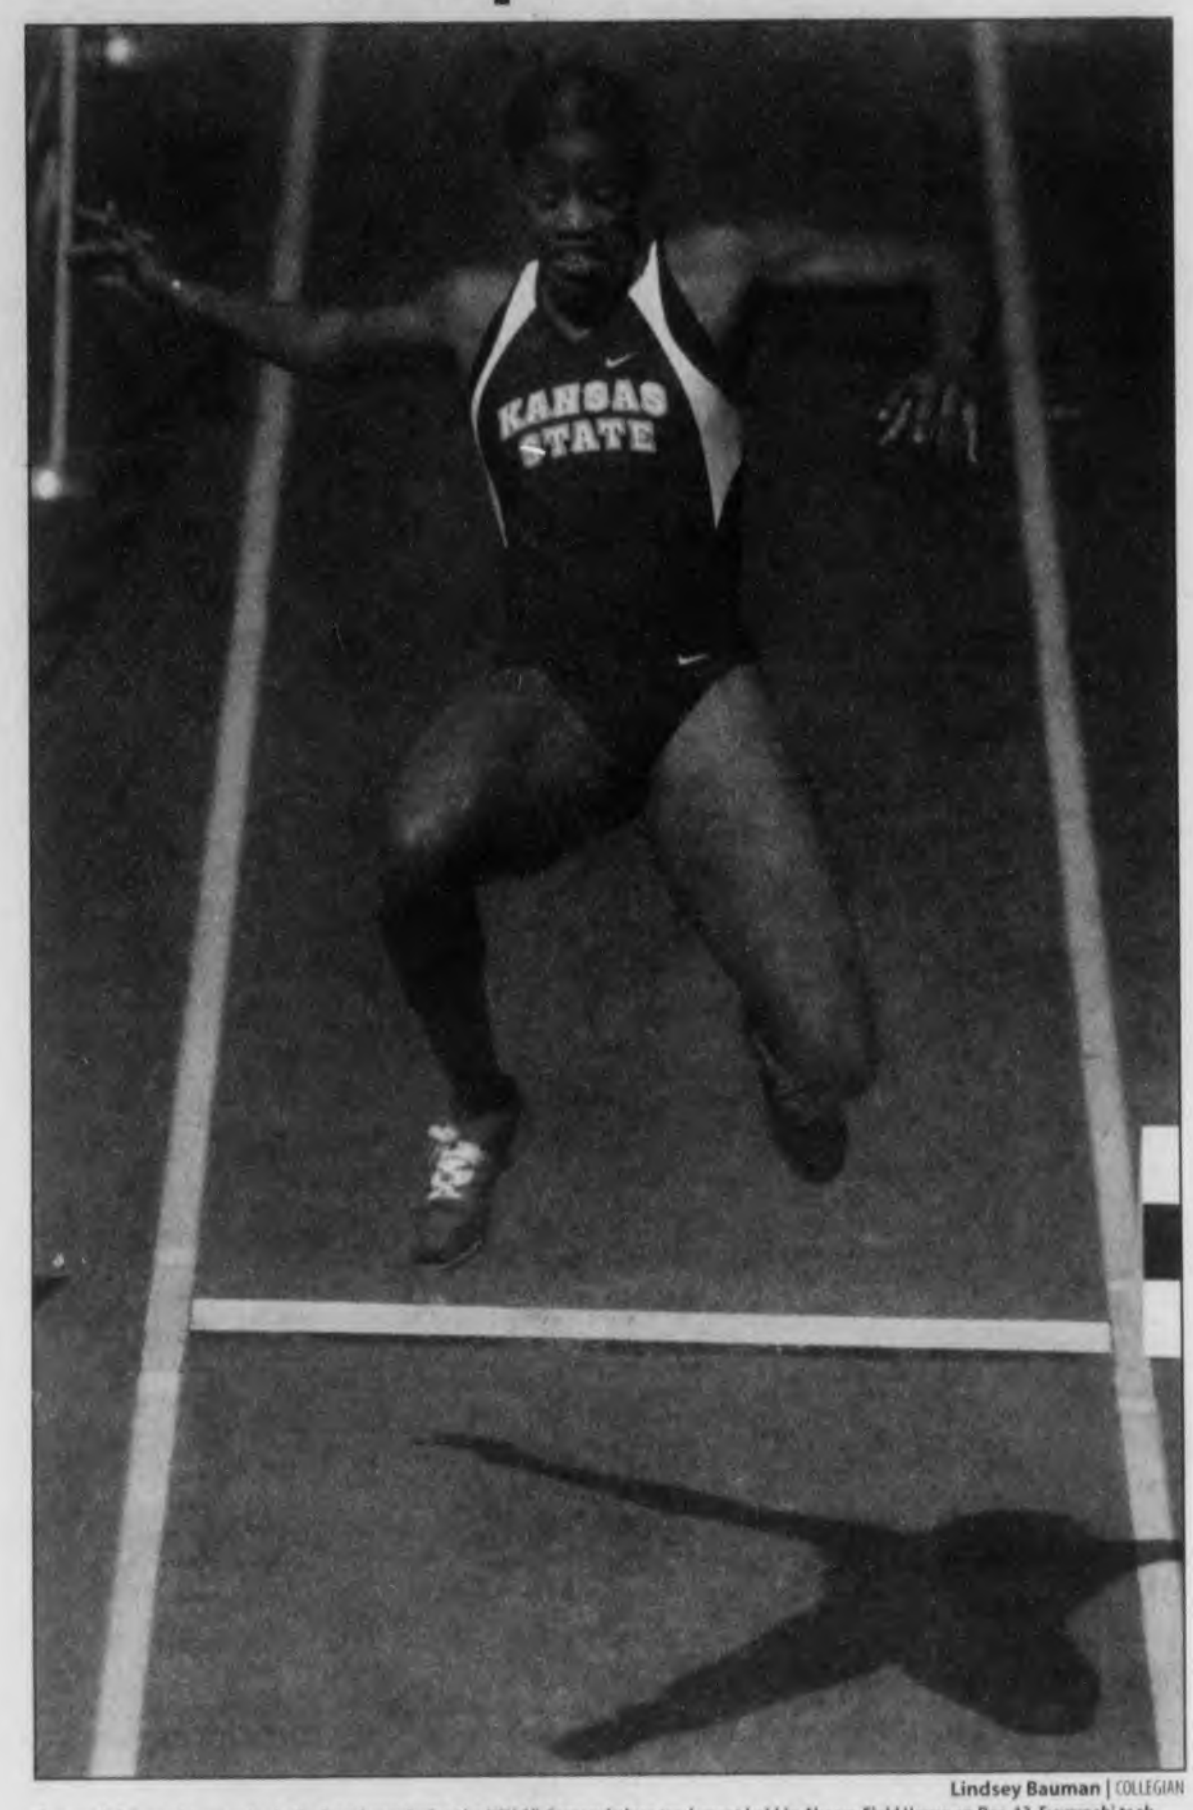
The Hawks lost arguably the greatest college duo of all time when All-Americans Nick Collison and Kirk Hinrich graduated and moved on to the NBA.

The Jayhawks have three returning starters from last year's Final Four team, a decent bench and some exciting young players. The Hawks certainly have the talent but lack the killer instinct.

The win against Michigan State looked good at the time, but we all now know Michigan Sate is the Big Ten's version of Missouri.

Kansas' 64-58 loss to Stanford was one of the most frustrating offensive outings that I have seen in quite some time.

Check that, the game in Nevada was far worse. I would rather put cigarettes out in my eyes then watch a replay of the 75-61 loss at Nevada ... . Yeah, they lost to Nevada!



In the end there still might be hope for the "Little 12."

Come March anything can happen, that is why they call it March Madness.

It's going to take a killer makeover for them to look good.

Louie is a senior in journalism. You can e-mail him at sports@spub.ksu.edu.

Leap of faith

Lindsey Bauman | COLLEGIAN

Queeneth Evurunobi competes in the long jump during the KSU All-Comers indoor track meet held in Ahearn Field House on Dec. 13. Evurunobi took first in the event. The track team will return to action this weekend when it travels to Columbia, Mo., to participate in a triangular meet today against host Missouri and conference foe Kansas. Competition is scheduled to begin at 4 p.m. and conclude tonight. K-State will be looking for its sixth consecutive win in this triangular, which combines the total scores of both men's and women's competition.

Lindsey Bauman | COLLEGIAN

K-State's Hayley McIver plays in a match against Texas A&M last April. The Cats face Creighton and Missouri this weekend in the KSU Invitational.

Women's tennis prepares for home tournament

By Kelly Olson
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The opening of the spring season for the women's tennis team will be this weekend at the K-State Invitational.

No. 33 K-State will defend its home courts against two nearby opponents.

Omaha's Creighton University and No. 38 Missouri will need to bring a high level of skill and intensity when they cross state lines into Wildcat territory.

Coach Steve Bietau and his six experienced players have been sharpening their strategies and techniques learned during the fall season.

The fall season concluded with a performance by senior Paulina Castillejos and junior Maria Rosenberg that led them to the semifinal round of the Arizona State University Invitational.

It was the first time the women's tennis team advanced beyond the second round of the tournament.

Jan. 12 was a day to celebrate as the NCAA rankings were released, putting the Cats at No. 33. Just one year earlier the Cats were ranked No. 61.

"It feels good to be ranked so well because we have worked really hard.

"Tennis is kind of boring to fans because they don't scream and yell like football games, but you have to understand the skill in getting the strokes right and moving fast," sophomore Jessica Simosa said.

Castillejos said she takes pride in the team's unity.

"We get together with the coach about five minutes before the meet and get into a circle. We talk about what we want to achieve that day," Castillejos said.

The K-State Invitational begins at 3 p.m. today in Ahearn Field House and concludes Sunday mid-afternoon.

The meet is open to the public, and admission is free.

Interest in intramural sports increases during winter season

By Matt Stuchlik
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

It's that time of year when one must leave the frozen tundra of outdoor sports and look for warmer climates.

It's too cold to be playing football or soccer. The warmer climate can be found inside the always-heated Chester E. Peters Recreational Complex.

Steve Martini, associate director of Recreational Services, said the number of intramural participants seems to be higher in the winter. This is probably because people are looking for ways to stay in shape when fewer people exercise outdoors, he said.

He also said basketball is the main reason most people play intramurals in the winter.

"It's a very popular sport in Kansas and it is a lot of fun to play," he said. "Many people enjoy and the love the game because of the fast-paced nature and usually constant action."

Intramurals play a key role in the lives of many students at K-State.

Some are in it for the glory, others for the exercise and the competitive edge.

"A lot of intramural sports are more competitive because some of the guys you are playing against were all-star athletes in high school," freshman Drew Rush said.

It doesn't matter if you are just an "average joe" athlete or were a high school all-star.

If you go
Intramurals

- 4-wall handball doubles
  Entries taken: today through Thursday
  Start date: Feb. 4
- 4-wall rracquetball doubles
  men's, women's and co-rec
  Entries taken: Today through Thursday
  Start date: Feb 4
- Table tennis doubles
  men's, women's and co-rec
  Entries taken: Today through Thursday
  Start date: Feb 4
- Wallyball Doubles
  men's, women's and co-rec
  Entries taken: Today through Thursday
  Start date: Feb 4

See INTRAMURALS Page 10

1-MINUTE DRILL

The Associated Press

College basketball
No. 12 KU falls again

Tony Dobbins' fadeaway jumper with a second left gave Richmond a 69-68 victory over No. 12 Kansas on Thursday night, snapping the Jayhawks' 52-game home winning streak against unranked opponents.

Mike Skrocki scored 23 points to lead the Spiders (10-8), who became the first unranked team to win at Kansas since Nebraska on Feb. 10, 1999.

NFL | Raiders look towards Miami for new coach

After Dallas assistant coach Sean Payton pulled out of a deal to become the next Oakland head coach,owner Al Davis is now going after Mianmi Dolphin's offensive coordinator, Norv Turner.

Turner

Turner flew to Oakland on Thursday to meet with Davis about the head coaching position.

Turner, a former head coach with the Washington Redskins, signed on with the Dolphins in 2002.

Pro Bowl | Ram's Bulger to replace injured McNabb in Pro Bowl

St. Louis Rams quarterback Marc Bulger will replace the injured Donovan McNabb in the Pro Bowl Feb. 8 in Honolulu, the Rams said Thursday.

McNabb was injured in the Philadelphia Eagles' 14-3 loss to Carolina in the NFC championship game Jan. 18.

Bulger and Seattle's Matt Hasselbeck will back up starter Daunte Culpepper of Minnesota.

Green Bay's Brett Favre has also pulled out of the game, citing a broken thumb suffered during the season.

Bulger replaced Kurt Warner as starting quarterback in the season's second week and led the Rams to a 12-4 record and the NFC West title.

He completed 336 of 532 passes for 3,845 yards (most in the NFC) and threw 22 touchdown passes, along with 22 interceptions, for an 81.4 passer rating.

Baseball | White Sox sign Japan's career saves leader

This is one time the Chicago White Sox are happy to take a zero.

Shingo Takatsu, Japan's career saves leader, finalized his $1 million, one-year contract with the White Sox on Thursday.

Takatsu is nicknamed "Mr. Zero" because he's never given up a run in the Japan Series.

Takatsu had agreed to the deal Wednesday, but it was contingent on him passing a physical Thursday.

He will earn $750,000 this season, and the White Sox have a $2.5 million club option for 2005 that includes a $250,000 buyout.

Baseball | Halladay agrees to $42 million, four-year deal

Halladay

Roy Halladay could have waited two more seasons and gone elsewhere. Instead, the AL Cy Young Award winner decided to remain with the Toronto Blue Jays.

"I want to win here and be part of a team that builds something rather than going out and just trying to sign with a team that has the best chance to win," he said Thursday after agreeing to a $42 million, four-year contract.

Halladay, 22-7 with a 3.25 ERA last season, gets $6 million this year, $10.5 million in 2005, $12.7 million in 2006 and $12.8 million in 2007. He would have been eligible for free agency after the 2005 season.

Extreme Sports | Winter X going prime time

Snowboarders will slide off rails, motorcyclists will flip over a 70-foot gap, and snowmobilers will trade paint on Aspen's slopes.

Tattooed teens will cheer every McTwist in a mosh-pit atmosphere, and all the action will be under the lights, live on prime-time TV.

The Winter X Games were created in 1997.

We're off to see the wizard

Jeanel Drake | COLLEGIAN

Rose and Richard Aubrey of Junction City, look at a display at the Wizard of Oz museum in Wamego.

Wamego museum takes Kansans somewhere over the rainbow

By Corbin H. Crable
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

It's neither yellow nor made of brick, but a short trip down Highway 24 to Wamego will transport you to the magical land of Oz.

The Oz Museum, which opened in November and will have an opening ceremony April 3, boasts a large collection of memorabilia based on L. Frank Baum's "Wizard of Oz" books and the 1939 Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer film, including toys, autographs and costumes. The museum has Kansas City, Kan., resident Tod Machin to thank for its items: Every piece in the permanent collection belongs to Machin, an Oz enthusiast.

"He has so many pieces in mint condition," museum curator Jim Ginavan said.

"We have the unique blend of the books' history and the movie."

Visitors who enter the museum immediately see the inner entrance to the museum has been constructed to look like the front of Dorothy's Kansas farmhouse. Once visitors steps inside, life-size figures of the characters greet them, tucked into alcoves bearing murals of scenes from the movie. The alcove murals are still being painted by Wamego artist Cindy Martin, a K-State graduate.

"It's a fun, creative process," Martin said of her Oz murals. "You can really let your hair down."

Wamego resident Matt Cassidy, who also helps paint the murals, said he enjoys seeing visitors admire his work.

"The environment is awesome," he said. "Everyone who comes in here loves it. People just freak out. It's been overwhelming."

Ginavan said his section of the museum that recreates the haunted forest and the Wicked Witch's lair have been met with mixed responses by children who come for tours.

"That's the part that gets the kids nervous," he said. "I had one kid who took off running, but there was one little girl whose favorite character was the Wicked Witch."

Barbara Booth, 1948 K-State alumna in journalism, traveled from Clay Center, Kan., with her friends to see the museum's collection.

"I was around way back in the dark ages when it came out," Booth said, "but I can still watch it. I like the timelessness of it."

Ginavan said it is this timelessness that has captivated audiences and readers for years.

"Every generation took the themes in 'The Wizard of Oz' and did something with it," he said. "The story's morals are so good that it crosses generations. Our museum shows the continuing legacy of Oz."

Ginavan also said the Oz books and films have secured their place in American pop culture because of many people's ability to relate to Baum's characters.

"Everyone identifies with a different character," he said, adding that he's met many people who identify with the kind nature of Glinda the Good Witch and the eventually courageous Cowardly Lion.

"That's the beauty of it. Everyone found what they were looking for."

Ginavan said, however, that not many people like to admit they identify with the Scarecrow. He added that merchandise bearing the likeness of the scatterbrained Scarecrow has been the least popular seller in the museum's gift shop.

One of the museum's rarest and oldest items is a first-edition book of Baum's "The Wonderful Wizard of Oz," which he wrote in 1900. Ginavan said another of his favorite items is a rare box of chocolates bearing the name of Billie Burke, the actress who played Glinda in the movie.

"The movie was the catalyst for the explosion of Oz stuff," he said. "The fun thing is, Oz collectors come in and say, 'Oh, I've got that,' and people who are not collectors see so much eye candy. They have no idea that so many items exist."

Ginavan said the message that Baum's characters try to convey is simple, he said.

"We (the museum) know there is no place like home. If we use our head, follow our heart and have a little courage, things will work out."

Jeanel Drake | COLLEGIAN

K-State graduate Cindy Martin of Wamego paints a mural at the Wizard of Oz museum in Wamego. Martin has painted the scenes in the museum that are on display behind life-size replicas of the characters.

Fast facts
'Wizard of Oz'

■ "Wizard of Oz" author L. Frank Baum got the idea for the name of his magical land by looking at a filing cabinet in his home marked O-Z.

■ MGM's 1939 film version of "The Wizard of Oz" took many creative liberties with Baum's original book. In the book, Dorothy's slippers were silver, not ruby red. Glinda wasn't introduced until Baum's second book. In the book, a kindly old woman simply referred to as the Good Witch of the North helps Dorothy along her way out of Munchkinland.

■ Baum's books gave rise to many spin-offs and remakes, including the popular musical "The Wiz" (1978), which boasted an all-black cast, including singer Diana Ross and a very young Michael Jackson.

■ Judy Garland was 16 when she made the movie version of "The Wizard of Oz." She was the lowest-paid human actor in the movie at $500 a week. Terry, the dog who played Toto, received $125 a week.

MOVIES

■ All times are p.m. unless otherwise noted.
■ All times in parentheses show Saturday and Sunday only.

"The Butterfly Effect"
(rated R): 1:05, 4:15, 7:10, 9:50
Ashton Kutcher and Amy Smart star in this thriller about a man who tries to change his future by tampering with the past.

"Cold Mountain"
(rated R): 1, 4:30, 8
A star-studded cast rounds out this Civil War drama based on the Charles Frazier novel about a woman who awaits the return of her beloved from battle. Starring Nicole Kidman, Jude Law and Renee Zellwegger, and co-starring Philip Seymour Hoffman, Natalie Portman and Donald Sutherland.

Kidman

"Win a Date With Tad Hamilton"
(rated PG-13): 1:25, 4:40, 7:30, 9:55
A small-town girl's (Kate Bosworth) date with the celebrity of her dreams goes better than planned, and she ends up in a love triangle between her dream guy, herself and her best friend.

"Mystic River"
(rated R): 1, 4, 7, 10
This murder mystery starring Tim Robbins, Laurence Fishburne, Sean Penn and Kevin Bacon returns to theaters after Oscar buzz surrounded it late last year. The movie chronicles three friends who reunite after the death of Penn's daughter and try to solve the mystery.

"Along Came Polly"
(rated PG-13): 1:30, 4:25, 7:25, 9:40
Ben Stiller and Jennifer Aniston star in this romantic comedy about a man who gets involved in a risky relationship after catching his new wife cheating on him.

"Cheaper By the Dozen"
(rated PG): 12:15, 2:35, 4:55, 7:15, 9:35
And you thought your family was big! Steve Martin and Bonnie Hunt portray two parents struggling to raise their 12 children after making a move from their lifelong home.

Martin

"Big Fish"
(rated PG-13): 1:10, 4:05, 7, 9:45
Director Tim Burton ("Beetlejuice," "Edward Scissorhands") tells the story of a man who tries to get past the tall tales of his father's life and find out the mystery behind the man. Starring Ewan McGregor, Albert Finney and Helena Bonham Carter.

"Calendar Girls"
(rated PG-13): 1:15, 4:10, 7:10, 9:45
Helen Mirren heads up a team of older women in a small British community who bare all in a calendar to help benefit one of their friends, who has been stricken with cancer.

"Chasing Liberty"
(rated PG-13): 1:20, 4:20, 7:05, 9:35
Mandy Moore makes the transition from pop star to first daughter in this teenage comedy about the daughter of the president of the United States who is trying to fit in and find love under the watchful eye of the Secret Service.

"Torque"
(rated PG-13): 1:10, 4:25, 7:20, 9:25
This action movie combines well-known actors and musicians, including Ice Cube, in a biker movie with stunts similar to those seen in "The Fast and the Furious."

"Teacher's Pet"
(rated PG): 1:20, 4:35, 7:20
Disney's latest animated feature presents the voice talents of Nathan Lane, Kelsey Grammer and Wallace Shawn in a tale about a dog who longs to become a real boy. He makes a journey to a mad scientist, who promises to make his dreams a reality.

... And Rightly So | J.R. Whipperlip — whipperlipper@hotmail.com

Puck | Kent Holle — kentramone@yahoo.com

Breadbasket accepting donations

By Melissa Haug
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The Flint Hills Breadbasket and its 2,000 volunteers have done well with past holiday food collections, and it hopes to continue through Super Bowl Sunday with a canned soup collection called "Souper Bowl Sunday."

Riley County Attorney Bill Kennedy began the program six years ago in an attempt to create one similar to a Salina program.

"The process basically runs itself," Kennedy said. "It seemed like a good plan having people bring a can of soup to church with them as they attend to ask for their team to be victorious in the Super Bowl.

"I decided to set my goal at a high 10,000 cans and asked friends, co-workers, as well as churches, schools and businesses to get involved. I was extremely happy when we collected over our goal."

The program has continued to progress through the years and is now collecting about 50,000 cans. After collections have been made, the churches work with Breadbasket to distribute the cans to local families in need.

"This is a great program for all involved. People feel good when giving the canned food and people feel good when getting it too," said Kennedy.

The Breadbasket has quite a history for great fund-raisers, he said.

Last holiday season, the Mayor's Holiday Food and Fun Drive raised 490,774 pounds of food. The bulk of this, however, came from Cats for Cans, which entails food fund raising by fraternities and sororities at K-State. Last year, Cats for Cans contributed 279,301 pounds.

Breadbasket also was involved with the Community Thanksgiving Dinner. More than 1,200 meals were prepared last year at the Manhattan High East Campus.

They distributed more than 3,500 holiday baskets to families who otherwise might not have had a holiday meal. The baskets included the requirements for a holiday meal: some sort of holiday meat, usually turkey or ham, with fresh fruits and vegetables.

The Adopt-A-Family program is Breadbasket's program for December. Last year the program was able to benefit 921 families, and continues to increase every year. This program arranges for families and organizations to adopt a local family and provide Christmas presents for the children who may not have been able to receive gifts for the holiday season.

If you donate

"Souper Bowl Sunday"

- St. Thomas More Catholic Church, 2900 Kimball Ave.
- First United Methodist Church, 612 Poyntz Ave.
- First Lutheran Church, 930 Poyntz Ave.
- Grace Baptist Church, 2901 Dickens Ave.
- Seven Dolors Catholic Church, 731 Pierre St.
- First Presbyterian Church, 801 Leavenworth St.
- Living Word Church, 2711 Amherst Ave.
- Bergman Elementary School, 3430 Lombard Drive
- Flint Hills Breadbasket, 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., 905 Yuma St.

Saving your money key to staying afloat

By Robert Hinderliter
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Bills seem to fly at Laramie Bott from everywhere – especially at the start of the semester.

For those students not watching their money, though, bills from the new semester could pile up quickly.

Personal finance instructor Joyce Cantrell said she suggests students to organize a budget.

"Sit down and figure out how much money you have coming in, then subtract the basic expenses like books and tuition, divide that amount by the number of months you're planning for, and you'll get the amount you have to live off of each month," Cantrell said.

Organizing a budget doesn't necessarily work for all students.

"I don't really have a system," Brandon Nutsch, sophomore in construction science, said. Nutsch works part-time at Wendy's and said he spends most of his extra money on food and going out to eat.

All of Nutsch's money is in his checking account, but Cantrell advises putting some into a savings account for an emergency.

Matt Clark, freshman in agricultural economics, works part time at Tuttle Creek State Park doing maintenance and said he puts part of his earnings into a savings account for emergencies.

"I put a little away at the end of each semester," he said. "About four or five hundred dollars."

Finance officials said saving even a small amount each semester might have benefits.

"If you start saving early, a small amount of money can turn into great wealth in the future with compounding interest," Scott Hendrix, finance instructor, said.

Hendrix said to maintain financial balance, he advises students to be careful with credit cards and try to limit spending.

Tips on budgeting

Surviving semester bills

- Sit down and organize a budget. Include your monthly income and basic expenses, such as tuition, books and supplies.
- Keep a portion of your income in a savings account. This money can be used for emergencies and can build interest.
- Keep track of monthly expenses.
- Make sensible purchases with credit cards.

Source: Financial instructors Joyce Cantrell and Scott Hendrix

You do the math.

For a limited time, first-time buyers
Save an additional $5
on purchases of $50 or more!
Simply use this code:
KSUWILDCAT

How smart is this: All the textbooks you need for up to 50% off retail prices. New or used, all you have to do is go to half.com and type in the book titles, or ISBN numbers. Gotta love that new math.

half.com by eBay

Same textbooks. Smarter prices.

Copyright 2003-2004 Half.com. Half.com, the Half.com logo, eBay and the eBay logo are trademarks of eBay Inc. All rights reserved. *Average Retail Price of a New Textbook based on data from Follett Corp (as reported by The Associated Press in January 2003). Average Retail Price of a Used Textbook based on data from Monument Information Resources. Average Half.com Price for New and Used Textbooks based on an August/September 2003 analysis of over 500,000 books sold on Half.com. Quantities, pricing and availability are not guaranteed and will vary due to supply and demand. Coupon is for first-time buyers only. Limited time offer; excludes shipping and handling; offer subject to change or termination without prior notice.

Dean struggles to catch Kerry in polls

By David Espo
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MANCHESTER, N.H. – John Kerry bounced higher in the polls Thursday and Howard Dean struggled to regain his political balance as the Democratic presidential contenders campaigned their way into the final debate before New Hampshire's first-in-the-nation primary.

"It's an important moment," said Sen. Joe Lieberman, trailing in the polls behind the other major contenders – Wesley Clark, John Edwards, Kerry and Dean.

Rep. Dennis Kucinich and Al Sharpton also rated spots on the debate stage at Saint Anselm College, but the hall was set with two fewer places than the last time the rivals met.

Former Sen. Carol Moseley Braun dropped of the race out last week, endorsing Dean as she left. Rep. Dick Gephardt ended his candidacy on Tuesday after finishing a weak fourth in the kickoff Iowa caucuses.

Kerry won the event, with Edwards a strong second and Dean well behind in third.

The result has been a race transformed.

Most polls show Kerry getting a significant post-Iowa bounce in the polls and surging to a lead in New Hampshire, eclipsing longtime front-runner Dean as well as Clark.

With five days remaining until New Hampshire's primary, the contenders were looking to the next round of contests, as well.

Kerry lined up the endorsement of Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., during the day and picked up the support of a 34,000-member union local in Michigan.

"This isn't the only place there is a race," he told reporters following him across New Hampshire.

The Massachusetts senator also said he has spoken with Gephardt since the Missouri congressman dropped out of the race.

Paul Sancya | THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Democratic presidential hopeful, former Vermont Gov. Howard Dean yells "YEAHHHH!!!" while addressing supporters during his caucus night party in West Des Moines, Iowa, on Monday. Howard Dean is trying to get past the speech he delivered after the Iowa caucuses, but the image lingers among New Hampshire voters.

351 Kansas National Guard soldiers to be sent to Iraq

By John Milburn
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TOPEKA – Families and friends said their good-byes Thursday to 351 Kansas Army National Guard soldiers deploying for duty in Iraq.

Members of the 2nd Battalion, 130th Field Artillery Unit have been training at Fort Riley in preparation for serving up to a year in Iraq as part of continued war operations.

Gov. Kathleen Sebelius attended the formal departure ceremony Thursday at McCain Auditorium.

"We honor their service and commitment and we will fully support them and their families during this deployment," Col. Tod Bunting, the state's adjutant general said. "Our soldiers are Kansans at their best."

The unit will be responsible for force protection in Iraq and is not taking its multiple launch rocket system, or MLRS, overseas. The deployment involves the largest number of Kansas Guardsmen since the 35th Infantry Division went to Bosnia in 2003 for peacekeeping duty.

Deployment of the unit touches 102 cities, 43 counties and eight states. The battalion, commanded by Lt. Col. Michael Dittamo, is headquartered in Hiawatha, with units in Abilene, Atchison, Concordia, Horton, Marysville, Sabetha, Salina and Troy.

Northeast Kansas artillery units have a long history of service. In World War I, 130th Field Artillery served in Europe alongside the 128th Field Artillery, commanded by Capt. Harry S Truman. During World War II, Kansas units were reorganized into three battalions, seeing duty in the Aleutian Islands, Europe and the Pacific Theater.

CLASSIFIEDS

LET'S RENT

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

A TWO, three, or four bedroom apartment available June 1st or August 1st. (785)539-1713 before 5 pm.

BRITTNAY RIDGE. Four-bedroom, study, two and one-half bath, town home. Washer/ dryer. 2519 Candlecrest, lease required. No pets. $1050, $1050 deposit. (785)537-9740.

CRESTWOOD APARTMENTS. West side Two-bedroom, one and one-half baths. Personal washer/ dryer. Water, trash, cable television paid. No pets. $590. (785)776-3345.

PRE-LEASING FOR AUGUST four-bedroom/ study, two baths, duplexes, and apartments. Some less than five years old. Energy efficient, most locations have washer/ dryer's. Close to campus. No pets. 12 month lease. Call for location. (785)537-9740 or (785)776-2102.

120 For Rent- Houses

A FOUR, five, seven, or eight-bedroom house June 1st or August 1st. (785)539-1713 before 5 pm.

SHORT TERM lease. Available now until June 1 or August 1. Four-bedroom, two bath duplex with laundry. Only three years old. (785)556-6899.

AVAILABLE JUNE 1. Six-bedroom, two bath, two kitchens, yard, located at 1230 Vattier, fireplace, central-air, washer/ dryer, dishwasher, $275/ per person plus utilities, years lease, deposit, (785)539-3672.

AVAILABLE JUNE 1. Three-bedroom house at 1401 Hartford, three blocks west of campus, fenced yard, garage, central-air, washer/ dryer, dishwasher. $285 per person plus utility. Years lease, deposit. (785)539-3672.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath house. All appliances including washer and dryer. EVERYTHING NEW. Garage and carport. June lease. $300/ bedroom. (785)556-6899.

LARGE TWO-BEDROOM, close to campus. Real nice, clean, and affordable. (785)762-7191.

145 Roommate Wanted

LARGE ROOM AVAILABLE for spring semester sublease in duplex one block off campus. Room is 21x 13 feet with a hanging closet and a 5x 4 walk in closet. Duplex is clean and large with furnished common areas, washer/ dryer, dishwasher, big screen TV and outdoor grill. Backyard is large and fenced with deck. Parking is reserved. Call Lindsay at (785)587-0296.

RESPONSIBLE MALE roommate wanted for luxury four-bedroom apartment across from west campus. Large rooms off-street parking, laundry. No pets. (785)770-3125.

120 For Rent- Houses

FEMALE SUBLEASER, across the street from campus. $240/ month plus utilities. Five-bedroom, three bath. No pets. (785)539-0198.

FOUR-BEDROOM TOWNHOUSE, three bath, washer/ dryer. Available June 1. $990. (785)313-1167.

HOUSES FOR sale. Close to campus. Call Larry at Century 21 Knight, (785)317-7713 for a list.

JUNE, JULY, August leases three and four-bedroom. Five-bedroom (two kitchens), six plus bedrooms (two kitchens). www.rent-amp.com, (785)539-4357.

LARGE NICE houses- June or August leases. Call now for best selections. www.foremostproperty.com or (785)539-4641.

SPACIOUS THREE-BEDROOM, two bath house located blocks away from campus. Lots of extras including dishwasher, washer/ dryer- central-air and more. Please contact Emily at (785)462-5769.

TIRED OF Apartment Living? Manufactured Homes For Rent. Pets Allowed. Beautifully maintained communities. Pool, playground, community center. Professionally managed. Call Manager for more details. (785)539-5841.

135 For Sale- Mobile Homes

1999 16X 80 Fchult, three-bedroom , two bath, all appliances included. Very good condition. Call for more information (402)366-3491.

145 Roommate Wanted

A LARGE bedroom in four-bedroom house. 1004 Thurston, $300/ month plus one-forth utilities. Available immediately. Contact Marcia. (402)968-3293.

ROOM AVAILABLENOW, for female. $350 with all utilities included. Nice size bedroom. (785)565-0151. (785)313-0801.

SPRING SEMESTER roommate needed. Master bedroom in four-bedroom house. 0.3 miles from campus. Washer/ dryer, two bathrooms, cable internet, $250 plus utilities. Call Tyler (913)908-7162.

150 Sublease

ONE-BEDROOM AVAILABLE immediately in fantastic two-bedroom apartment. $240/ month plus electric/ cable. Firepiace, new heater/ appliances, free washer/ dryer, quiet location. No smokers, no pets. (316)259-8286, clt3636@ksu.edu.

ROOMS FOR rent, next to campus, one-bedroom in brand new four-bedroom apartment. Free washer/ dryer, central-air, parking. (785)537-7050.

155 Stable/ Pasture

AFFORDABLE HORSE boarding with rates starting at $65/ month. East of Manhattan. Call (620)243-4023 or (620)243-2907.

300 employment/ opportunities

310 Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/ she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

A JOB is waiting for a good house cleaner. Send qualifications to Box 100, Collegian Ads,103 Kedzie Hall, Manhattan, KS 66506.

BARTENDER TRAINEES needed. $250/ day potential. Local positions. (800)293-3985 ext. 548.

CAMPUS SPOKESPERSON needed. $15 per hour job on campus. Campus Information Services is currently seeking a highly motivated student. Must have strong interpersonal skills and be very outgoing. For more information call: (800)375-5701.

COX BROS BBQ is now accepting applications for assistant kitchen manager and experienced day cooks. Apply in person at 600 S. 4th St. at Fort Riley Blvd. between 2- 5pm.

CRUISE LINE entry level, on board positions available, great benefits. Seasonal or year round. Call (941)329-6434 or www.cruisecareers.com.

DANCERS WANTED. Soldiers and students coming back. Make alot of money on short hours. Apply in person, 1330 Grant Ave, Junction City, KS 66441.

GET PAID For Your Opinions! Earn $15- $125 and more per survey! www.paidonlinesurveys.com

HORSEBACK RIDING STAFF- Spend the summer in Colorado! Make a difference in the life of a girl at Girl scout overnight camp in the mountains southwest of Denver. Teach basic skills and lead trail rides. Late May- early August. Training, competitive salary, housing, meals, health insurance, travel and end-of-season bonuses. For an application, email campjobs@gsmhc.org or call (303)607-4819.

310 Help Wanted

Now Hiring:
Crew Members
All Shifts

TACO BELL.

1155 Westport Rd.
K-State Student Union
Manhattan, KS

Benefits:
Competitive Pay
Employee Discounts
Free Uniforms
Apply at stores

Equal opportunity employer

MAILROOM/ DUPLICATING CENTER student help needed. Freshman or sophomore status preferred with availability to work in the summer and during the fall and spring semesters. Duties include: campus delivery route, preparation and handling of mail and operation of duplicating equipment. Computer skills, a must, and some heavy lifting are required. Must have a valid driver's license. Bring your spring schedule and apply in person at Duplication and Mail Center, 13 College Court Bldg., (785)532-5988. Application deadline is January 30.

MAINTENANCE: APARTMENT COMPLEX seeking full-time general maintenance position. Must have experience in repairs, painting, grounds keeping, make ready, etc. (785)776-3345 days.

NETWORK TECHNICIAN. Due to continued growth, Networks Plus has an opening for a Computer Network Technician in Manhattan. Positive attitude, professionalism, strong work ethic and one or more years of computer support experience or equivalent training is required. Email resume to jobs@networksplus.com in Microsoft Word or Text format. Equal Opportunity Employer.

NOW HIRING wait staff and security. Please apply at Shotz between 11- 2pm, Monday- Friday. 1115 Moro. (785)776-8770.

PART-TIME CDL driver wanted. Roof truss manufacturing. 5107 Murray Road. (785)776-5081.

PROGRAMMING INTERN- Networks Plus is hiring a full-time programming intern. Microsoft ASP or SQL experience preferred but not required. $7/ hour. Email resume in Microsoft Word or text format to jobs@networksplus.com.

SUMMER CAMP Jobs In Colorado- Make a difference in the life of a Girl Scout overnight camps in the mountains southwest of Denver. General counselors, program specialists (Western horseback riding, backpacking, crafts, nature, sports/ archery, challenge course, farm, dance and drama) and administrative positions. Late May- early August. Competitive salary, housing, meals, health insurance, travel and end- of - season bonuses. For application, email campjobs@gsmhc.org or call (303)607-4819.

310 Help Wanted

RILEY COUNTY INFORMATION SYSTEMS. Intern. Part-time position will be responsible for general Help Desk tech support and troubleshooting for Riley County end users. Experience with PC's. Familiarity with HTML, ASP, Java, DHTML, CGI, Microsoft IIS, Microsoft Frontpage, Macromedia Dreamweaver, Window 95/ 98, 2000, Windows XP, Office 97, office 2000 and Office XP, network wiring and repairing and troubleshooting software, hardware, PC's and PC peripherals. Must possess good verbal and written communication skills, ability to learn new technologies, and good team work skills. Valid driver's license required. Starting rate is $9.07/ hour with no benefits. Applications are required and can be accessed along with a job description, at www.co.riley.ks.us/employment and clicking on the link a ! Current Job Listings. For more information e-mail jdean@co.riley.ks.us or phone (785)565-6464, Riley County is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

TEACHERS: INCREASED daily rate- $75 per day. USD 378 Riley County is accepting applications for substitute teachers (including emergency). Please call Becky Pultz at 785-485-4000.

TECHNOLOGY CLASSROOM assistant- $6.25- check audio/ visual equipment in classrooms. Projection systems, sound systems, IBM or MAC. Must be able to work 10- 30 hours per week, including weekends, holidays, school breaks, and summer months. Applicants with two or more year's employment potential and/ or work study eligibility will be given preference. Contact Chad Bennett at (785)532-4941. Applications can be picked up at Hale Library room 14 and will be accepted until 4pm Monday, January 26th.

THE BEST summer job: Why hike in our backcountry, ride horses on our rugged trails and breathe fresh mountain air all summer long? It comes with the job. Cheley Colorado Camps, a residential wilderness camp for youth. 9-17. 6/6- 8/9. Call us at 1-800-CampFun, E m a i l staff2004@cheley.com or visit our website at www.cheley.com

TIRED OF Minimum wage? Part-time marketing positions available, flexible hours, commission based. Make what you want. Contact Dan deo8564@ksu.edu, (785)456-5080.

WANTED: COWBOYS, Cowgirls to guide tourists and horses through the Rocky Mountains. Come work for the largest horse operation in North America. Write Sombrero Ranch at 3300 Airport Road, Boulder, CO 80301 or visit our website at www.sombrero.com

330 Business • Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

410 Items for Sale

25" COLOR TV- $25/ Sony Audio Amplifier and Tuner with four- speakers- $25- Both for $40. Also corner computer desk in nice condition for $30. Call (785)341-8691.

VENTURI FIVE speaker surround sound system. Excellent coridition $300 for set or best offer. 17-inch working monitor $50. Cheryl (785)323-0703.

435 Computers

POWERFUL DESKTOP Computer: AMD Athlon XP 2200+, 512 MB RAM, 21-inch Princeton Monitor, ATI Radeon 9000 Pro 128MB video, 6- ch audio, CD-RW 48x, color printer and scanner $1000. email: schoenig@k-state.edu or call (785)341-8691 for more information.

450 Pets and Supplies

FOR SALE: ACA yellow lab pups, shots and wormed $100 (785)336-3238 or (785)336-1179 evenings weekend.

500 transportation

600 travel/ trips

630 Spring Break

#1 SPRING Break Vacations! Cancun, Jamaica, Acapulco, Bahamas, & Florida! Best parties, best hotels, best prices! Space is limited! Book now and save! 1-800-234-7007. www.endlesssummertours.com

STSTRAVEL.COM
Join America's #1 Student Tour Operator to Cancun, Acapulco, Jamaica, Bahamas and Florida
SPRING BREAK 2004
Sell Trips, Earn Cash, Go Free! Now Hiring On-campus Reps
Call for group discounts
STS STUDENT TRAVEL SERVICES
1-800-648-4849
www.ststravel.com

JAMAICA
SPRING BREAK
K-STATE FLIGHTS FROM KANSAS CITY!!!
NEGRIL BEACH CLUB
BAR B BARN
WHITE SANDS
CLIFF HOTEL
CHICKLES
OCEAN EDEN
TAMARISS II
from $649
from $769
ASIA
SPACE IS LIMITED - BOOK NOW!
1 800 234 7007
www.endlesssummertours.com

000 bulletin board

010 Announcements

ATTORNEY, CHUCK Harper, expunge convictions before job application, paternity, custody, net free adoption, civil law, 400 Poyntz, (785)539-8100, chuckharper@msn.com

GUITAR INSTRUCTOR taking on new students. Teaching all styles from classical to lead rock. Enjoy teaching all levels from beginners on. First two lessons will be free to make sure you will be satisfied. After first two lessons cost will only be $10 per forty-five minute sessions. Contact Rick email: purplepowercat2004@yahoo.com (785)497-2947.

START YOUR own Fraternity! Zeta Beta Tau is looking for men to start a new Chapter. If you are interested in academic success, a chance to network and an opportunity to make friends in a non- pledging Brotherhood, e-mail: zbt@zbtnational.org or call 800-431-9674.

SUFFERING FROM ABORTION? Write HeartsRestored Box 49, Grinnell, KS 67738. Confidential response will follow.

020 Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

LOST: NORTHVIEW Area. Small brown puppy with black face. (785)317-3391.

030 Post a Note

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a post a note.

100 housing/ real estate

ADVERTISE
CLASSIFIEDS • 532-6555

105 For Rent- Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2440.

ONE-BEDROOM CLOSE to campus. Water and trash included. Available January 1. Central air/ heat. (785)537-7810

SEPARATE BEDROOM, study, living room, and eat-in kitchen. No smoking, drinking, pets. (785)539-1554.

"Stay In Class At The Commons"
Now Leasing for 2004-2005!
•Fully Furnished
•2 & 4 Bedroom
•Alarm System
•Swimming Pool
•Washer/Dryer
•Computer Lab
•Fitness Center
•Permit Parking
•Tennis/Volleyball Courts
•Individual Leases
Office Hours:
M-F 9-6, Sat. 10-4
539-0500
university COMMONS APARTMENTS
2215 College Ave.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

1219 KEARNEY. one-bedroom basement across from campus. Water/ trash paid. No pets. Lease until May 31 or longer. $295. (785)539-5136.

FIVE-BEDROOM, TWO bath house. 1512 Houston. Available June 1. (785)539-8261.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

BRAND NEW. Two and three-bedroom near Westloop, two baths plus washer/ dryer. Now leasing for August 1st. (785)313-1167.

BRITTANY RIDGE Townhouse, five-bedrooms, two and one-half bath. All appliances $235/ per person. Contact Joe Knitter at (785)630-0639.

Welcome Home to Campus East Apartments
Studio, 1 and 2 Bedroom Apartments and 3 Bedroom Townhomes
NEW IN 2004! WE ACCEPTS DOGS, TOO!
Call the office for more details!
All Appliances Included, Water and Trash Paid, Fireplaces available, 24 Hr. Laundry, Swimming Pool, Walk to K-State, 24 Hr. Emergency Maintenance
Campus East Apartments
(785) 539-5911

HOW WOULD you like to be the first to live in our new construction? One-bedroom and two-bedroom units- two blocks to KSU. Three-bedroom units by City Park. Four-bedroom units, just one year old! These units have all of he "bells and whistle" to make you very comfortable! Call Century 21 Irvine (785)539-2356 for a listing of all available rentals.

WOODWAY APARTMENTS
Kimball & College Ave.
Now Leasing
3 BR from $760
4 BR from $900
537-7007

ONE, TWO, three, four-bedroom apartments and houses available June, July, August. Close to campus. Now leasing. www.rent-amp.com, (785)539-4357.

110 For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

NOW LEASING FOR FALL

• Cambridge Square •
• Sandstone •
Large 2-bedroom Units
• 2000 College Heights •
• 1114 Fremont •
• 519 Osage •
www.hillinvestandrental.com
537-9064
Weekdays • 8:30 am-5pm
Saturday • 10 am-3 pm

ONE-FIVE BEDROOM apartment, duplexes, and houses. Available June, July, August. (785)537-7138.

SEPARATE BEDROOM, study, living room and eat-in kitchen. No smoking, drinking, or pets. (785)539-1554.

SIX ROOM unfurnished apartment. Zeandale Area $300 plus utilities. Phone (785)456-8365.

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE block to campus. New carpet/ flooring/ some utilities paid. $660/ month, or best offer. (785)539-4641.

TWO PLUS bedroom, one block to campus. New carpet/ flooring/ some utilities paid. $620/ month. (785)539-4641.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT by City Park, washer, dryer in each unit. No pets, lease, $585 per month. (785)539-0222.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENTS, small pet allowed, cable paid. (785)539-2951.

TWO-BEDROOM DUPLEX, very nice, good condition, washer/ dryer free, trash paid. Available now. January free. (785)537-2289.

115 Rooms Available

TWO ROOMS available close to campus. $225/ month all utilities paid. For information please call (785)776-6871.

200 service directory

PROVOST | Finalists to give public presentations

Continued from Page 1

The provost is the university's chief academic officer and the second-highest ranking administrator behind the president.

Charles Reagan, committee chair, said the finalists came out of a pool of six finalists and a total of 38 applicants.

"They all fit the required and desired qualifications in our job description," he said. "We felt they had the kinds of experiences that we thought were the most relevant to the provost position.

Reagan said he hopes the committee makes a final decision between March 1 and 15.

The following are profiles of the three finalists:

TERRY KING, DEAN OF THE COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

Terry King likes K-State and the city of Manhattan.

About seven years after his arrival at K-State, King said he was encouraged by his colleagues to apply for the provost position when it became available last year.

Now he finds himself the only local finalist for the provost position.

"It offers a unique opportunity to do neat things at K-State," he said. "I'm looking to constantly improve higher education. Anybody who's looking for this position wants to make a positive impact."

King's interview with K-State officials is Wednesday through Thursday. He has been the College of Engineering dean since 1997 and previously worked as the chair of the department of chemical engineering at Iowa State University.

Fast facts

Provost finalists

Formal presentations for the three finalist provost candidates are at the following dates and times in Fiedler Hall. The public is invited to attend.

- Terry King, 9 to 10:30 a.m., Wednesday
- Paula Myrick Short, in the process of being rescheduled
- M. Duane Nellis, 3 to 4:30 p.m. Feb. 9

Each candidate's résumé and complete interview schedule is at www.kstate.edu/provost/searches/provost/index.htm.

Regardless of the committee's decision, King said he will be happy.

"I really like my job now, so I'm in a no-lose situation," he said.

M. DUANE NELLIS, DEAN OF EBERLY SCIENCES AT WEST VIRGINIA UNIVERSITY

M. Duane Nellis would like to return to K-State.

Now the dean of Eberly Sciences at West Virginia University, Nellis worked at K-State for 17 years before accepting his current position.

"The opportunity to return to K-State sounded exciting," Nellis said. "I enjoyed teaching there."

Nellis said his K-State background allows him to be an enthusiastic promoter and supporter of the institution.

"I can bring a high level of energy and enthusiasm for the quality of academic and research enterprises at K-State," he said.

Nellis' interview with K-State officials is Feb. 8-10. He has been at his current position since 1997 and previously served as the associate dean for K-State's College of Arts and Sciences as well as a department head and professor for the Department of Geography.

"I'm excited to return to Manhattan and the opportunity to be a finalist for the provost position," he said.

PAULA MYRICK SHORT, VICE CHANCELLOR FOR ACADEMIC AFFAIRS FOR THE TENNESSEE BOARD OF REGENTS

Paula Myrick Short said she can't get away from the feline family.

A former Nittany Lion at Penn State and a Tiger at the University of Missouri, Short said she now wants to become a K-State Wildcat.

"K-State is an excellent university, and I would love the opportunity to apply the skills I have to let the college achieve its goals," she said.

Short said if she received the job, she could apply some of the skills she has learned by working for other research-extension colleges.

"I know what makes a university an excellent university," she said. "I've had a real breadth of experience in leadership roles."

Short's interview with K-State officials was scheduled for Jan. 28-30, but is in the process of being rescheduled due to a conflict. She has been the vice chancellor for academic affairs for the Tennessee Board of Regents since 2001 and was previously the associate vice president for academic affairs for the University of Missouri from 1999-2001.

"I am excited to meet the faculty and the students and share a little bit of my experiences," she said.

Inmates hold guards hostage for 5th day

By Michelle Rushlo
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Over the long days and nights, coffee and water have been sent in; at least one gas canister has been tossed out. But aware that the inmates hold the high ground and the lives of two guards, authorities are doing the only thing they can: keep talking.

Because the inmates have a high position on open ground, few options exist to end the hostage situation quickly, said Paul Sutton, a criminal justice professor at San Diego State University who has studied prison life.

Law enforcement "can't rush it. Snipers are going to have a real tough time shooting. All they can do is talk," Sutton said.

